Progress Staff Hears Lieut. Governor In Banquet Address

Eddie Eicher, Fort Thomas, was formally acknowledged as editor-in-chief of the Eastern Progress at the 13th annual banquet of the Progress staff held at the Glynndon Hotel Monday evening, May 9. Mr. Eicher succeeds Ralph Maurer, Burlington.

William Adams, advertising manager during the past year, was also named business manager of the publication, thus marking the first time that the office has been appointive.

Members of the staff heard Lieut. Gov. Keen Johnson speak on phases of newspaper writing, its possibilities and requirements. He declared, despite the intellectual heights attained as a result of a superb system of public education and free press, there remains much of intolerance and fanaticism. There is no higher ideal to which a free press may consecrate itself than that of attacking intolerance and bigotry.

Ralph Maurer served as toastmaster and introduced the speakers.

Eicher Named K.I.P.A. Vice-Presy, Progress Editorial Selected

Eddie Eicher, newly appointed editor of the Progress, was elected vice-president of the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association, at its annual spring meeting held at Transylvania College last week. Other officers elected at the meet were Louis T. Ingelhart, Kentucky, president, and Lucille Basenback, Morehead, secretary-treasurer.

It was also announced at the convention that an editorial written by Ralph Maurer won first place in the editorial writing contest. The subject of the winning editorial was "A Journalistic Atmosphere." It appeared in the issue of February 11. Mr. Maurer's sports story on the Maroon basketball team which appeared in the issue of January 27 placed second, and an advertisement, drawn and laid-out by Billy Adams, placed third.

The fall convention of the K. I. P. A. will be held at Centre College and Eastern will be host to the next spring meeting.

Runner-up to the silvery-tongued South Carolinian in the finals was Herschel Owens, whose subject was "Society's Ugly Ducklings." Mr. Owens will also receive an award for his efforts. The other finalist, Donphan Burrus, spoke on "Termites in the Framework of American Democracy."

Lucille Nunnally, president of Alpha Zeta Kappa, presided at the program.

3rd Annual Music Camp To Begin Here, June 20

Concerts and Radio Broadcasts Will Be Feature of Five Weeks of Musical Instruction

SCHNABL DIRECTS

On Monday, June 20, the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp will begin its third session at Eastern Teachers College.

This music camp, which was the first of its kind in Kentucky, will offer to over 100 high school students of Kentucky five weeks of unequalled musical, recreational, and social opportunities. Individual instruction will be offered in voice, piano, organ, and in all band and orchestra instruments. For all who are interested, conducting and drum majoring will be offered during the five week period. The campers will present numerous public concerts with regular weekly broadcast as an added feature.

For the third time the camp program will be directed by Mr. Henri Schnabl, director of music in the Portsmouth, Ohio, public schools. His staff will consist of the members of the music department at Eastern, Arthur Klein, student of Eastern, who will give instruction on the flute; and Mr. Perry Bauman of the Curtis Institute of Music at Philadelphia, who will give oboe instruction.

Through the work of this camp, music education will continue to advance throughout the state, and bands and orchestras will be organized in the Kentucky high schools which have been lacking this student training.

PROGRESS PLATFORM

A weekly school publication.
 A modified system of student government.
 A more active alumni association.
 Continued expansion of athletic department.
 Continued thoughtfulness in regard to college property.

YOUR LAST CHANCE

To have or not to have . . . that is the proposition before Eastern students concerning student government.

On May 26 a constitution for student government at Eastern will be submitted to the student body for approval. The student-faculty committee who is forming this constitution has spent weeks of tireless study in an effort to expose a document which will incorporate the essentials for good government. It now remains for the student body to support the constitution. It is your last chance to come forward in a move that will be of lasting benefit to Eastern and her students.

The Progress has advocated a modified System of Student Government during the entire year. We believe that we are about to see our appeal answered. Your vote on May 26 will tell. It is your last chance.

(Editor's Note: By request the following editorial, which was adjudged the best in the recent Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association, contest, is being reprinted. It is also being reprinted because of the content, which calls for an improved Progress office.

A JOURNALISTIC ATMOSPHERE

Any newspaper reporter, whether working on a metropolitan daily or a college bi-weekly, must have a journalistic atmosphere in which to work. There need not be the hustle-bustle and rush that is often portrayed, but there must at least be a few of the journalism aids and accessories in a newspaper office in order that the reporter will have some idea of the daily or weekly setup.

The college newspaper office should be a place for energetic young newspaper reporters to get assignments, write stories, make connections with departments of the college, assist in rewriting, proof reading, and carry out any of the various duties assigned by the Editor or Managing Editor. Unless there is this real journalistic atmosphere in a newspaper office there is no impetus for talented young reporters to engage in this important extra-curricular activity.

The material for the Progress is collected and revised in an atmosphere which is far from this journalistic essential. It is written by reporters and departmental editors at all times ranging from two weeks before publication date until three days past the deadline date and in all places ranging from the drugstore table to the extra chair in the Progress office.

We do not advocate an extensively planned news and editorial room for the college periodical, but we do believe that the Progress office should contain a few of the ideal newsroom accessories, such as several modern typewriters, reporters' desks, proof reading tables, a private desk for the Editor and Managing Editor, a cabinet for files, a newspaper morgue, and (the greatest need of all) a telephone. Also we suggest to those students desiring to study that they use the library or their individual room and not the over-crowded, under-sized Progress office.

With such a newsroom as described we sincerely believe that there would be a greater interest in college newspaper activities at Eastern. Reporters and departmental editor would have a feeling that they were a part of the publication. Too, they would feel a responsibility and there would be a greater cooperation among staff members, a thing vitally essential for complete coverage, follow-up, timeliness, and correctness.

AUF WIEDERSEHEN

To My Successor:

Eddie, this is my last attempt. For three semesters I have attempted to serve in the capacity of Editor of the Progress. It is useless for me to try to tell you the sincere enjoyment that goes with the job. The only way you'll ever know is to serve out your term. (A year from now you can tell me).

Eddie, there are other things that go with the job besides enjoyment. When press day rolls around and you have to cut classes to write stories that some negligent reporter failed to do, when you have to discard several galleys of type—that you promised someone faithfully would run—so the forms can be locked, when you have to stand in the Progress office for hours at a time on Thursday evenings and fold papers, when you have to tell some freshman (or faculty member) that his story is good but that the Progress is only a bi-monthly publication containing four (maybe six) pages, when you would love to take your best girl for a stroll but a hook full of "material in the rough" stares pitifully at your already drooping eyes . . . then, Eddie . . . and only then will you know the other side. (Maybe, though, that is the enjoyable side).

My good friend and printer (Tom Bradshaw of The Register) says that he thinks this is good advice for an editor. At least, Eddie, I think you'll find it worth considering. "Learn to say NO . . . NO . . . NO." Not that all suggestions which you will get will be bad ones, but, Eddie, you can't please everyone. Consider, think and select.

Eddie, I know you'll have a good staff with which to work. You probably know them as well as I, but for them to know how much I have appreciated their untiring efforts, I would like to write my last concerning them in this grand sheet. Billy Adams, your right-hand man, Eddie . . . He is tops. His record this year marks him a coming newspaperman. He is not only a competent business manager but an interesting writer. Johnny Johnson, my favorite reporter, who has a unique style, an overflowing vocabulary, a nose for news, and an aptitude for hard work, will be an able assistant. Stivers, a man with the journalistic spirit and a genuine love for his work, will be gone, but he has set an example for Feinstein, Lominac, Harrell, etc.; who should make you an excellent sports staff. Edmunds will be gone too, Eddie. You are sure to miss her. She has helped me in many tight spots. Dependence and first-class writing describe her.

Then, too, Eddie, there is Hesser, Pittman, Warner, Swan, Mays, Jett, Rankin and Durham. They will be gone. Replacements will be hard to find for these loyal Progress contributors.

To those others who will be with you . . . Well, Eddie, they are grand. Finneran, the prize find of the year; Floyd, a feature staff combined in one; Coley, a faithful and inspiring reporter; Little, a lovely creature with ability and respect for the deadline; Marz, a society news-hound; Creager, a help on anyone's staff; Sturgill, another prize find this year, and Bright, a coming reporter. . . Again, Eddie, they're grand.

Eddie, there will be times when you'll need advice, advice that is sound and guiding. Feel free to call on Mr. Keene. He will tell you that your judgment is best; try his sometime.

Eddie, everyone has a man he admires and idolizes. A man from whom the fullest cooperation comes, a man that rules not your writing but suggests wisely as what you should consider, a man that has many duties but yet knows your paper from front to back . . . that's the kind of a man to which I am referring. That man, Eddie, is President H. L. Donovan. His office is open to you. Turn his door knob often.

Eddie, when your year ends, you'll probably think that you have been a failure. I feel that way at times. Yet when I consider our platform plank by plank, I feel that we have accomplished a little.

"A weekly school publication"—No, we don't have it, but we have shown the need for it. Maybe, Eddie, you can increase the appropriation. A few hundred dollars more would be sufficient.

"A modified system of student government"—There is one that we started. We have tried to support this in every detail. I believe our bit has helped.

"A more active alumni association"—The alumni association is more active. Whether we have had any part or not, we have joined the band wagon.

"Continued expansion of the athletic department"—Here we have devoted much space. We have tried to cooperate and the athletic department has shown its appreciation for what little we attempted to do.

"Continued thoughtfulness in regard to college property"—There has been continued thoughtfulness in regard to college property. We probably didn't assist in this, but again, Eddie, we joined the parade.

"A greater Eastern"—Here, Eddie, everyone helps. Everything that you do helps. Every paper you print will help, because your paper reflects the happenings of the institution. The very experience that you and your staff gain is growth of the institution. Here (and we say it without one iota of egotism) I believe that the Progress has helped.

Well, again I say this is my last attempt. From now until this time next year you take the reins. I know you will be a success.

Auf Wiedersehen,
 RALPH MAURER

Students, we are now on the seventeenth and last lesson in the correspondence course of Campology. No credit is given this course because we can give no final examination in the things we have tried to teach you or make you more conscious of. It has been our purpose to get you to love our Alma Mater more. To hope and work for a greater Eastern. We have a grand school and faculty here, but it is the student body, after all, that makes or breaks a school. The student body this year, according to authorities, is one of the finest in the history grow with our Alma Mater.

We want to say, on behalf of the student body, that we certainly appreciate the lovely Mother's Day program put on by the "Always cooperative" dean of women and her helpers in the Student Relationship Council. It was lovely and we are certain that our parents enjoyed it more than we know.

"I suttinly hopes I'se sick," groaned Rastus. "I'd sho hate to feel lak dis when I'se well."

Dealing in superlatives, it is our opinion that Dr. L. G. Kennamer is one of the keenest, finest and most interesting persons to be found on this or any campus. Every student attending Eastern owes it to himself to take at least one course with Dr. Kennamer. Even though you may get little from the course, his philosophy will mean more to you in later life than any three hours credit.

Another thing we have come to appreciate is Dr. Donovan's "Open Door Policy" toward the students who wish to confer with him. It is things like this that lead to better understanding between the faculty and student body.

PROGRESS STAFF MEMBERS

Speaking in behalf of the undergraduates on the staff, I want to say that we will really miss those of you who graduate this year. It has been a source of real enjoyment working with you and it will be a lot harder next year to put out a paper without you. We appreciate and will remember all that you have taught us and will do our best to put out an even greater Progress next year.

From all indications, we will soon have a chance to say whether or not we want Student Government at Eastern. When this issue is put to a vote, let us as loyal Eastern students back it 100 per cent.

Eastern Coeds Drop the Siren and Sophisticate . . . Take On Very Demure Appearance . . . What'd Grandma Say?

By EILEEN FLOYD

Back to the good old days of ruffles, ribbons, and rosebuds. There seems to be a movement among the co-eds of Eastern to drop the ways of the siren and the sophisticate and to take on a very demure appearance. If grandma were only there she might have felt very much at home at the Junior Prom if you considered only the gowns and hairdresses worn by the girls. If you could imagine any of our illustrious ancestors doing the Suzy Que or truckin' to swing music you could easily have believed that the years had rolled back to the days of the mustache cup and the bicycle built for two. Several puzzled stags asked if they were by any chance attending a costume ball.

There were full skirts, puffed sleeves, velvet ribbons, and even a ruffled petticoat. The gentlemen will be very glad to know that orchids are very unsuitable for this type of costume. They are much, much to modern and sophisticated. The flowers carried by the queen and her court were old-fashioned bouquets bedecked with lace and ribbons.

The girl of today may haunt antique shops for old bracelets, lockets, or small watches to be hung by a ribbon. She may rummage through the attic in search of family heirlooms and old finery to wear but she will probably scorn the extra petticoats and the whalebone corsets. Imagine trying to dance in a getup like that.

Just as a tip to the boys I would suggest that you send your girl daisies sometime. She can always play "picking petals off of daisies" if she doesn't care to wear them. There is a fifty-fifty chance that the game will turn out in your favor.

Eastern's Festival Representative

Miss Frances Little, Southgate, will represent Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College at the Mountain Laurel Festival to be held Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28, at Pineville. Miss Little, a sophomore, was recently chosen Miss Eastern by the students and faculty of Eastern. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Roy Little, Southgate.

Rechtin Honored

Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatic fraternity, has confirmed the selection of Norbert Rechtin, member of Zeta Phi Cast at Eastern and president of the Little Theatre Club, as the recipient of an honorary award conferred once every two years by the fraternity for excellence in dramatics. The awards reads: "In recognition of exceptional development in the ability to do creative work in dramatics this achievement award is bestowed upon Norbert Rechtin by Zeta Phi Cast of Alpha Psi Omega." The recognition came as a result of Mr. Rechtin's successful portrayal of leading roles in four Shakespearean dramas and his activities in the Little Theatre Club of which he has been president for the past two years.

Model High Is A School of Noteworthy Accomplishments, Says Staff Writer; Advocates Athletics For Institution

By HAROLD McCONNELL

Model High, the creative product of cultural evolution, remains today, as it has been in the past, a school of noteworthy accomplishments. Here, the student is taught the pre-adult erudition so vital for his future welfare. The standards of scholarship rival the country's best and the student, upon entering the institution, may be assured of a desirable education. (Naturally it is entirely relative to the student whether or not an education is attained). No disastrous influences affect the minds of the Model student; typically American, he enters the school; typically American, he leaves, with an inborn hatred for all destructive forces. (It is a striking contrast to note the difference between the schools born of a democracy and those born in war). It is certainly an asset to live in a country of open freedom.

So much for philosophy. Although each graduate of the school is as well suited to meet the advanced complexity of life as is any corresponding student in the nation, even Model fails to fully comply with its accepted appellation. Of course imperfection is natural, but improvement is always desirable. The most impending flaw that I see, is the lack of athletics in the school. Certainly our premiere pensee is to mental advancement but we owe a certain consideration to the physical side.

We like to feel that we are closely affiliated with the college and we are, yet a mutual, more beneficial, relationship could be established by having athletics in common. It is better for the high school youth to be engaged in organized recreation under the supervision of an athletic instructor, than spending his leisure wastefully: I am sure that Model High could be a success in this field as the college is now. Thus our high school would serve a dual purpose.

Graduation time in the school is an interesting process. It is a process—for the seniors. Long, enervating ordeals, under the nom de plume—tests—are administered for the victim's benefit. The one simple word, TEST, is enough to strike instant terror to the much disillusioned senior, who awaits with melting spine the final torture. After biting a few fingernails and sighing resonantly, he begins, with trembling hand, the examination. Yet many calm their fear with pseudo-bravery even though they feel inwardly vacant and sacred. (There are but few seniors who don't fear the final test). After the crisis, suspended agony is endured until the results are given. The passing senior sighs a contented sigh of relief, mingled with an inward consciousness of jangled nerves re-assembling themselves. The failure—why speak of them?

My parting thought is this. It is better to live in a country where people dance the "Big Apple" for pasture than in a country where the "Goose Step" is a popular fad.

Doctor Vandembosch Speaks At World Affairs Banquet

Dr. Vandembosch of the University of Kentucky was the guest speaker at the annual banquet of the World Affairs Club, held at the Glyndon Hotel on May 11. Over sixty members of the club and their friends attended this banquet and heard the interesting discussion of "The World Court." Following the speech, there was an open forum led by James Muncey, club president, and Dr. L. G. Kennamer, sponsor of the club. There will be one more meeting of the club during the current semester. At this last meeting there will be a general election of officers. Notices will be posted relevant to the exact date of the meeting.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be one of the most unique athletic events on the campus that we have ever heard of. As far as we can find out this will be the first time that Eastern has ever been engaged in a double-header tennis match, or, to go further, it is the only one we ever heard of.

Having been rained out at Western last Saturday the Maroons decided to play the match scheduled for that day and the one scheduled for tomorrow all in the same day.

If you have any spare time between 8:00 a. m. and 6:00 p. m. drop around to any court on the campus, and you will see playing coach, Marshall Arbuckle, and his cohorts giving their all to take both matches from the Hilltoppers.

ning streak was momentarily halted last Thursday when the University of Kentucky Wildcats held them to a 6-8 11 inning called game, and, the streak was abruptly ended Monday afternoon when the University of Louisville Cardinals handed the Easterners a 4-2 setback for their first state loss in the current season.

The U. K. nine showed the effects from the lack of practice but at the same time showed possibilities of becoming the Yankee team of Kentucky. With more practice and a few more hitters like Fritz, the Wildcat nine should develop into a feared crew in the baseball circles.

Although Eastern lost to the Cardinals, who they were favored to beat, I predict they will close the rest of the season without suffering a defeat. Playing such teams as Western, University of Cincinnati, Lincoln Memorial University and possibly University of Kentucky.

Here it is—the column you have been looking forward to—the last one and the one I have hated to think about. This is the swan song for yours truly (if you can call it that).

Through the past two years I know of no greater pleasure to me than having had the opportunity to serve as sports editor of the Progress. The experience that have come my way in this work will forever be a treasure to me. Not only have I enjoyed trying to write but the real pleasure that has come to me has been the association with, what I consider, the very best group of students on the campus that have made up the various staffs.

Probably you never stopped to think what the title of this column, "Sports Insight" means. Neither did I, but you may translate it in this manner: First the word "sports" means that the columnist must dwell upon such things as come under the athletic side of the school life. The word "insight" means to have power of internal sight, understanding, apprehension or to have mental vision. So here's hoping the editor of this department will have a keen insight for the coming year.

In closing, I would like to be the first to nominate Mr. Harry "King" Lowman of the Morehead Gag as poet-laureate of Kentucky Intercollegiate newspapers.

Annual State Track And Field Meet Be Held Monday, May 23

The annual Kentucky Intercollegiate track and field meet will be held at Berea College Monday, May 23, according to an announcement by Eastern track officials today. The meet will include freshman participants.

Represented at the meet will be Berea, Georgetown, Western, Murray, Transylvania, Morehead, Louisville, Centre and Eastern. Eastern will take a fifteen-man squad, Coach Samuels stated today. Walter Hill, who has been Eastern's "one-man team" for the past two years is expected to score consistently for the Maroons. Limb, Jenkins and Lydey are also in top form for the event.

Cardinals Hand Maroons First Inter-State Loss

Contest is Battle Between Hurlers Zimney and King

MERLINO HOMERS

The Eastern Maroons dropped their first game within the state this season Monday afternoon when the University of Louisville Cardinals edged out a 4-2 victory with the 6-hit pitching of Ted Zimney and the powerful hitting of Hampton, Cardinal center fielder.

The Cards' first score came in the third when Hampton's triple to right field scored the base runner from second. Their other scores came in the fifth, seventh and ninth when Hampton blasted out a homer over center field. Eastern's first score came in the seventh when Merlino hit one over the walk for a homer with no one on. The other Maroon score came in the eighth when Williams hit into a triple to score the man from second.

"Pinchy" King, Maroon hurler, struck out 11 batters, walked 6, and gave up 7 hits. Zimney had 5 strikeouts, walked 3 and allowed only 6 scattered hits.

Kentucky And Eastern Deadlock In 11 Innings

Wildcat Catcher's Triple Decisive Blow of Contest

SHETLER ON HILL

Renewing the feud on the diamond for the first time in five years the Eastern Maroons and the University of Kentucky nine battled to a 6-6 decision at the length of 11 innings, which was called on account of darkness, here last Wednesday afternoon.

In the eighth inning with the score 5-3 for Eastern, Fritz, U. K. catcher, smacked a triple off Shetler, Maroon hurler, into left center, scoring three base runners to put the Wildcats out in the lead 6-5.

Coming into the ninth with one run behind, Jim Caldwell, Eastern catcher, took the third pitch of Tognocchi, U. K. twirler, and lifted it to the Health building for a home run and the tying score.

The next two innings were scoreless with Shetler and Tognocchi pitching airtight ball.

"Lefty" Shetler went the route for the Easterners and although finding himself in tight spots twice during the game, and being forced to give up 12 hits, pitched effective ball, allowing only one walk and striking out 10. Tognocchi, Blue and White pitcher, held the Maroons to eight hits which were well scattered, keeping Eastern in check. He struck out 6 and gave 4 bases on balls.

Maroons Take Two From Hilltoppers; Run String to 8

The Maroons took a double-header from the Western baseballers here Saturday, May 7, by 9-7 and 6-4, to give the Hembree men a record of eight consecutive wins in the past three weeks and six in a row over the Hilltoppers.

Johnny Rice went the full route for the Easterners in the first encounter and Carl Yeager started in the second game but was relieved in the sixth by Lester "Pinchy" King, with the score tied.

Voshell With .403 Mark Leads Hitters; Team Average .247

Leslie "Schnoz" Voshell, with a .403 batting average, leads the weak-hitting Eastern Maroon baseball aggregation at present, according to the figures released by Raymond Stivers, Progress sports editor. Voshell has twenty-three hits in fifty-seven attempts. His hits include three home runs, four triples and seven doubles. Williams, Merlino and R. King are the only other regulars hitting above the .300 mark. Davidson, substitute outfielder, has a .333 average.

The combined team average, including the U. of L. game played Monday, is .247.

Following is individual averages:

Name	AB	H	Pct.
