Record Fall Enrollment Of 1,538 At Eastern

School officials announced yesterday an all-time record enrollment for a fall semester of 1953 registered, with the final enrollment for the semester expected to exceed 1600 by the end of the registration period next Monday.

TROMBONES NEEDED

"I hear a trombone playing ra ta...". Yes, there is more, but the Eastern College band needs more trombones to complete the "tata taing" and a rank of the sliding instruments. If you can play a trombone why not talk to Mr. Tarwater, Band Director, and make the band one of your campus activities. Other positions are open in the band so let Mr. Tarwater hear from you today.

Dr. J. D. Coates, who has been professor of education and principal of Model High School, has the new title of director of the Laboratory Schools, which includes Model High, the Training School, and the Rural Demonstration School. Dr. Coates is a graduate of Eastern and has the Ph. D. degree from Colorado State College of Education.

Dr. P. M. Grise is now head of the English department replacing Dr. Roy B. Clark, who retired August 1. Dr. Grise is a graduate of Western State College and earned his Ph. D. degree at the University of Kentucky. He has been a member of the staff of the English department since 1930.

William Stocker, who has been a member of the faculty in the department of agriculture since 1946, is now head of that department replacing A. B. Carter, who has retired.

New appointments include:

Dr. Paul C. Nagel, who will teach in the social science department, replacing Dr. Horace Raper, who resigned recently. Dr. Nagel received the B. A., M. A., and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Minnesota. He has taught at the University of Minnesota, the University of Omaha, and at Augustana College in South Dakota.

Dr. James G. Snowden, native of St. Helens, Ky., and a graduate of the University of Kentucky, replaces Dr. William D. Ward, who recently resigned to become a psychologist with the state of Illinois. Dr. Snowden earned his doctorate at Indiana University. He formerly taught at Hastings College in Iowa. (Continued On Page Eight)

First Staff Meeting

If you are interested in your college and in your school paper, there is a place for you on the Progress staff. The staff will meet in an organizational meeting tomorrow at 4:00 in room 100 in the Student Union Building. Any student is eligible to join. Come get your position on the staff!

Additions Planned By New President Coffman

"Shop talk and an exchange of ideas in informal conversation with delegates from other colleges was one of the most helpful things I found at the conference." Ronald Coffman, president of Eastern's Student Association, gave this statement returning from the Fourth Annual Student Body Presidents Conference which he attended August 19 to 22 at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa.

Organization of six new committees and amendments for the constitution are among new ideas gained at the meeting. One of the proposed committees is a Campus Chest Committee which would combine all charity drives and operate much as a community chest does. A screening committee is another suggested addition. This group would aid the executive council in organization of volunteer committee members. The four other committees whose duties are explained by their names are a Recreation and Social Committee, Election Committee, and a Constitution Review Committee. Proposed amendments would delegate specific powers and be more definite about responsibilities than our present constitution is.

President O'Donnell has approved an office for the Student Association in the basement of the Roark Building although the specific room has not been assigned.

Ronald says he is looking forward to visiting other campuses to enter a further exchange of ideas so that he may better develop and improve Eastern's Student Association.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT MUST LET PEOPLE KNOW IT IS ALIVE — OR IT WILL REALLY BE DEAD!!

"Student government won't be a bit of trouble to put over on Eastern's campus. Why, it'll work so easily that you won't even know it's here." That's what some people say.

It had better be a little bit of trouble. It had better cause a little fuss, and students most certainly should know it's here. Because if they don't, it is sure to fail. If student government doesn't get to work and stay at work, it will fall flat on its new constitution at the end of the one-year trial period.

The newly elected officers, the representatives from each class who will soon be elected, and every student on the campus who is interested in making student government work should start doing something at the earliest possible date. Registration is over, classes are under way, and all the old friends have been greeted. Things are settling down. Now is the time that student government should make a public announcement of exactly what they plan to do this year.

And no one wants to hear idealistic promises and purposes that we can hear from and home-town politician this time of year, such as, "we are going to make some beneficial changes on the campus which will make Eastern a better school." What students want to hear is a practical, down-to-earth statement of what plans are going to be under way—whether these plans mean a party in the rec room every Friday night or a new book for the library. Students want to know exactly what is going to be done and when.

And the student body is behind the new project. They will help, whenever they are called on—the sooner the better.

Student government was not voted onto this campus to sit back and see that everybody is behaving themselves. They are here to serve the student body in practical ways, and the student body is waiting for action. Now is the time for student government to start working.

WE ARE ALL AMBITIOUS AT THE FIRST OF EACH SEMESTER — WHY DON'T WE STAY THAT WAY? ?

There is always something about the first day of classes that is different from other days in the year. Everyone likes to go to a new class for the first time—to see what the professor will be like, to see who is in the class, to see if this is a class that won't be dull and dry—there are some of these, you know.

Too many times we have gone to classes the first two or three meetings of a semester and have been enthusiastic about the course, really thinking, "Now this is a class I'm going to enjoy." But as the semester goes on and first-of-the-semester ambitions fade, we lose interest, stop reading in the textbook, cut class, and settle down to take just an average grade in the course.

Why? No class is really dry—any class can be interesting. Why do we lose interest?

Because we refuse to put out any effort on our own parts to make the class interesting. If the teacher is a good lecturer, and the textbook has lots of pictures in it, we are happy and interested. If things are not this way, interest in a class lags as soon as it is aroused.

But we refuse to do anything about it ourselves. What can we do about it, you ask. We can read, and stay "up" on what is going on in class, participate in class discussions, listen carefully in class, and, most of all, make up our minds at the very first of the semester that this class will not be dull. And it won't be.

So, really try to enjoy your classes. Just because the boy or girl down the hall said the class was a good one to sleep in is no sign that the class is going to be dull. That boy or girl probably flunked the course last semester and doesn't think much of it for that reason. Find out for yourself, and actually try to become interested in the subject. A little effort on your part to make the class interesting is worth three times that much effort on the teacher's part. You'll be surprised how much you like the class that is supposed to be a good one to sleep in—and you won't sleep in it, either.

The Progress Salutes...

Harry Stigall is the first senior to be interviewed by the Progress this year. Harry, a mathematic and chemistry major from Danville, was president of the YWCA last year and is a member of Wesley Foundation, the organization for Methodist students. He has also been a candidate for vice-president of the Junior class, and was a nominee for Junior Prom king last year.

Harry, who is 5' 10" tall and weighs 165 pounds and has dark brown hair and hazel eyes, is working his way through school with the money he earns each summer from his tobacco acreage, which he works himself, on a farm near Danville.

Harry says he has two things he likes very much—Bales' steak and Bales' french-fries, and also two things which he dislikes very much—being an only child and "people who have talent and won't use it when they are called on because they are just too lazy."

"I don't like modern literature," Harry says, "but I do like some of the older authors. I like to read very much." In fact, he says he reads all summer.

He has other talents, too, such as playing the trombone and writing for the sports section of his high school paper. He likes to dance, and is looking for someone to teach him to jitterbug.

After graduation—and after two years in the army—Harry plans to get his Master's degree and then go into industrial chemistry.

HARRIET HARRIS "MOST TALENTED FRESHMAN"

Miss Harriet Harris won first prize in the annual freshman talent show sponsored by the YW-YWCA which was held last Thursday night in Walnut Hall. Miss Harris played a piano solo, "Shine On Harvest Moon" and "Twelfth Street Rag."

Second prize went to Miss Betty Bosshammer for her baton twirling.

Third prize was awarded to Miss Nellie Whalin, who gave a humorous monologue.

Other contestants in the show were Miss Rudene Russell, who sang a soprano solo, "I Believe," and Clifford Smith, who gave an impersonation of Deacon Andy Griffith.

Judges of the show were Dr. Giles of the art department and Mrs. SeEVERS and Mr. Parry of the music department. Bob Zweigart was Master of Ceremonies.

NEW FRATERNITY NAMED

The newly organized Pi Gamma Mu, the local Social Science Honor Fraternity, will meet in room 202 of the Student Union Building tomorrow at 7:00 p. m. Requirements for membership are twenty semester hours of Social Science with an honor standing of 2 points. Professor Clyde Lewis is faculty advisor.

Was Shakespeare A Freshman At Eastern? — That Is The Question!

Shakespeare was a freshman. There's no doubt about it. Anybody who has read a few of the old boy's plays can almost swear to it. For example:

Shakespeare obviously got his inspiration for this passage from "Macbeth" after eating a concoction from the cafeteria:

"Double, double, toil and trouble; Fire burn and cauldron bubble. In the cauldron boil and bake Eye of newt and toe of frog, Wool of bat and tongue of dog." And probably when he was making out his first schedule, this quotation from "King Lear" occurred to him:

"Which shall I take? Both? One or neither?" On registration day he more than likely thought of this one, from "Macbeth":

"What! Will this line stretch out to the crack of doom?"

An his first impression of the Faculty he recorded for posterity in "Macbeth":

And what horrid image doth unfix my hair

And make my settled heart knock at my ribs?

And don't you suppose he could tell, as he did in "Macbeth," just exactly what the Faculty was thinking of Freshmen like him:

"What are these, so wild in their attire that look like the inhabitants of the earth And yet are on it?"

And some faculty member, grading his classification tests, must have pondered on what he said in "Hamlet":

"To B or not to B; that is the question."

And on the first day of classes he probably got this impression which he put into "Hamlet":

"My spirits grow dull, and fain I would beguile

The tedious day with sleep."

And while he was taking his first pop quiz he quite obviously got this impression, which he put into "Hamlet":

"Oh, what a noble mind is here o'erthrown!"

And when he saw the grade on the test, he probably thought of this, which he wrote into "The Merchant of Venice":

"Here are a few of the unpleasant words

That ever blotted paper."

And obviously he has seen Mr. Van Puersem looking at his car, for he said in "King Richard the Fourth":

"A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!"

And he must have known that some parent would write to find out what had happened to her little son, for he said in "Richard II":

"Can no man tell me of my unthrifty son?"

"This full three months since I did see him last."

And this is the answer this parent may have gotten, as Shakespeare wrote in "Richard II":

"Inquire amongst the taverns, For there, they say, he daily does frequent."

Now wouldn't you agree that Shakespeare must have been a Freshman? And where else but at Eastern?

(Note: This article was adapted from a similar one written by Bruce Bates for the Progress in 1952.)

Want To Lead Cheers?

According to Don Jett, president of KYMA, try-outs for cheerleaders will be held in Hanger Stadium tomorrow night at 7:30. Potential pepsters should contact Don before the meet.

The Open-Minded Column...

Question: What is your impression of Eastern after being here for only a few days? (All the people asked are freshmen.)

Patricia Barkley: "After two days at Eastern I'm really thrilled. Of course, it has all been new but not too different. There's just one thing—the upperclassmen are so friendly but some of the freshmen are so hard to get to know. But it really looks like a grand year."

Susan Youell: "I thought I was homesick at first and I was but now Eastern's just like home. The freshmen seem to be hard to get to know but after awhile we'll all know each other and make it a scholastic year I'm sure. I'm really looking forward to it."

Grace Black: "When I first got down here I thought to myself, 'This isn't for me', but after a day or so I changed my mind. You can't expect everybody to speak to you first; some effort has to be put out on your part. I think it's really great, though."

Loretta Mayes: "I think Eastern is just wonderful. Like all places, there's so many little things that just don't agree with me, but there are many more things that do. I know I'll love it here, in fact, I already do. The girls (and boys) are all really nice, too, especially the 'Y' girls."

Ernestine Branscum: "I love it. Everything is fun. Only one gripe—I don't see enough boys."

Jack Brooks: "Haven't been here long enough to know, but so far I like it all right."

Harold Smith: "I like it because the people are so friendly and it's easy to get acquainted."

Eugene Little: "I think it's great!"

Russell Wilson: "It's all right, but kind of lonesome 'till upperclassmen got here."

Bill Carter: "I like it!"

Westminster Fellowship Planning River Cruise

Next Sunday afternoon will find the members of the Westminster Fellowship and their friends cruising down the river. Supper will be served on the boat which is owned by Mr. Morris Canfield, a Richmond businessman. Those who wish to join the party of cruisers are requested to meet at the Student Union Building at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

According to Miss Mary L. Jones, new student director, other services in which students may participate are a breakfast meeting and Bible class each Sunday at 9:45, morning worship at 11:00, and Westminster Fellowship sup-

W. R. A. Plans Are Full; Busy Year For Dancers

BEV WILSON

The Women's Recreational Association looks forward to another great year of fun, fellowship and sports. Most of you already know about our club and its activities, but here is a brief summary for those who are new to our campus. Maybe you would like to make it your club too.

The purpose of our organization is to provide every girl an opportunity to learn new skills, develop new interests, continue the activities already enjoyed and to work and play together in good group living. To be a member then you see, you don't have to know the sports already, but just be interested in learning about them and enjoy this type of recreation. Some of our program includes—hockey, basketball, volleyball, badminton, tennis, softball, and other activities in which the club is interested. We meet every afternoon from 4-5 o'clock, so come on over and participate when you can. We welcome new members.

The officers of W. R. A. this year are Beverly Wilson, president; Sandra Sharpe, vice-president; Ray Davis, secretary; Dot Quisenberry, treasurer; and Florence Conn, business manager.

The Drum and Sandal, or to most of you, the modern dance club, looks forward to a promising year. Besides learning and developing dance technique, rhythms and basic skills for individual interpretation, we hope to present some of our activities to the student body throughout the year our regular spring concert which is presented the second semester.

Many of you may know very little about this type of dance, but we will have scheduled times for everyone interested to come and learn and practice before try-outs are made. This way it gives everyone a chance if they are interested. The club is open to both boys and girls and we hope to have just lots of you become regular members.

The officers this year are Beverly Wilson, president; Joyce Blevins, vice president; Katherine Johnson, secretary; and Ray Davis, treasurer.

"Boots" Whitaker—"Miss Majorette of Kentucky" for this year.

'BOOTS' WHITAKER IN MAJORETTE CONTEST

Juanita "Boots" Whitaker, a junior this fall, represented Kentucky in the "Miss Majorette of 1954" Contest at Buckeye Lake, Ohio the weekend of August 1st.

Preceding the "Miss Majorette" Contest Boots attended the Smith-Walbridge Twirling Camp for a week at Syracuse, Indiana.

While at the twirling camp, "Boots" worked on new routines and materials which will be useful this fall.

"Boots" went directly from Twirling Camp to the Miss Majorette Contest. Her official title here was "Miss Majorette of Kentucky for 1954." She will retain this title for one year.

Buckeye Lake is located near Columbus, Ohio. The morning of the Contest, the majorettes, representing the 48 states and Canada, were introduced to Ohio's Governor and the Mayor of Columbus. They were taken to Buckeye Lake via way of a parade.

The contest was held in the afternoon with first place, determined by the Drum Majorettes of America, going to the girl from Nebraska.

"Boots" brought home a nice trophy symbol of her title as "Miss Majorette of Kentucky for 1954."

Veteran twirlers on the squad this year are Juanita "Boots" Whitaker, junior from Richmond,

The Pessimist's Column...

Well, here we are.

You know that there is no known use for a college education. So Columbus did discover a round earth which is shaped like an orange—so you can live without knowing this, just like you can live without oranges. But here we are at college—1400 inmates in an ivy-covered cross between a prison and a zoo.

We Need This

And the prices they charge for their culture! At $350 a semester, they tell us we can learn to make mud-pies in ceramics, stink-bombs in chemistry, and ptomaine in home economics. We really need this, we think. Yeah? Where?

But here we are, groveling in the customary academic manner before some iron-gloved, slave-driving professors who haven't looked over their ivy-covered bifocals in 30 years. And we pray for just one more brownie point.

And what's the reason for paying money to absorb this culture? We should be broader individuals with broader horizons, they say. Then we can all be cultured ditch-diggers when we graduate.

This Is Culture

And the social side of this culture. ("Sure this is a tea. Coffee or punch, please?"). You can see their movies anywhere sooner. But if you like living in a glass house with so many monkeys, like in the dorms, you'll love it.

But We Like It

And do we stand for this stuff? Sure! We love it. We come back every year for more—it's just a habit. The ivy is contagious. We are just a group of normal, healthy, growing, budding, happy imbeciles. We love college. We love culture. We love ivy and professors and Eastern. It gets pretty bad sometimes, but will we admit it? Oh, no. We like it, and maybe we are learning something. At least how to put up with our fellow man.

If you don't like it, don't gripe. Transfer.

GRILL SUPPER GIVEN; PLAN OTHER OUTINGS

The Wesley Foundation was entertained at a grill supper given by Mrs. C. E. Hurst, student director, last Saturday night at the First Methodist Church. Approximately forty-five members attended.

Other outings planned for the members of the Wesley Foundation and their friends include a trip to Natural Bridge, Kentucky, and a visit to the horse farms of Fayette County. Dates for these events will be announced later.

Betty Brock Lawrence is the Wesley Foundation president for this year; Mitzi Muller, vice president; Joy Kitson, secretary; Faye Marcum, treasurer; and Dorothy Thomas, program chairman.

All Methodist students are urged to attend the breakfast for college students served at the church each Sunday at 9:15, Sunday school at 9:45, Morning worship services at 10:50, Youth Fellowship Supper at 5:00, and a supper meeting in the Student Union Building each Monday at 5:00 o'clock.

Maroons Upset John Carroll In Opener

Chuck Bell, speedy half-back from Pineville, scored two touchdowns to lead the Eastern Maroons to a season-opening 19-0 upset over a highly-rated John Carroll University eleven. The fighting Maroons looked very impressive in making Glenn Presnell's debut as head coach at Eastern a successful one.

Eastern's first score came late in the second quarter on Chuck Bell's beautiful 80 yard touchdown gallop. The play started from the 20, and, after a rushing attempt failed, Bell took a pitchout from quarterback Jim Hanlon and the little junior speedster eluded two would-be tacklers and was off for paydirt. Don Hortman booted the extra point and the Maroons led at halftime by 7-0.

On the second play after the second half kickoff, Eastern's Bob Muller recovered a fumble by Carroll's Mike Torelli on the visitors'

37. Two plays later, Jim Hanlon, on an optional, ran to the 30 and lateraled to Don Daly, who outran Carroll's defenders for the score. Daly was tripped up on the 15 but managed to stay on his feet long enough to dive into the end zone. The pass from center was high and Hortman tried to run with the ball but was stopped short and the score read 13-0, Eastern.

After the next kickoff, John Carroll put on a gallant drive and marched from their own 19 to the Maroons' one foot line but the rugged Eastern line held the Ohioans. The drive took up 10 minutes and 20 plays, nearly half of the total number of plays Carroll ran the entire night. Mike Torelli, hard-driving fullback for John Carroll, ran half of those 20 plays and displayed outstanding ability.

The Maroon's final tally came late in the fourth period when Bell went over standing up from the 5 to account for his second touchdown of the evening. Hortman's try for point was wide and the score read Eastern 19; John Carroll, 0. The score was set up by spectacular runs of 24 and 37 yards respectively, by Dutch Greene, and Jim Hanlon. That's the way the game ended, with the Maroons winning their sixth straight game (they won their last five last season) and taking this big one of the most highly-rated small college grid teams in the country by a 19-0 score.

Meet The New Pigskin Professor!

Glenn Presnell has a real job on his hands in attempting to match the fine ball club of last year as the former All-American halfback makes his debut as head coach at Eastern. Last year's club finished the season with an 8-2 record and was described by many as one of the finest teams Eastern has ever fielded.

Coach Presnell received his B. S. degree from the University of Nebraska in 1928. In 1927, Presnell's football ability became known all over the country as he was named All-American halfback that year. In 1928, 29, and 30, he was player-coach of the famed Ironton (Ohio) Tanks. During the next three years, he played with the Portsmouth Spartans in the National Professional League in 1931, 2, and 33.

"Pres," as he is called by his many friends, played with the Detroit Lions in 1934, 35, and 36, before returning to coaching. From 1938 through 1941, Presnell was backfield coach at the University of Nebraska, his alma-mater. He tutored the Cornhuskers' backfield when Nebraska went to the Rose Bowl in 1941. The following year he was named head coach at that university.

In 1943, 44, and 45, "Pres" served as an officer in the Navy. Part of his time in the service was spent coaching the backfield at North Carolina Pre-Flight. After the war, he returned to coaching at Nebraska for the 1946 season.

Presnell came to Eastern in the fall of 1947 as backfield coach and since that time has made many friends in the Blue Grass and the Ohio Valley Conference.

The Progress staff would like to wish Glenn Presnell, one of the greatest guys in the business, on or off the field, all the luck in the world. The entire student body can show HEAD COACH GLENN PRESNELL that they are behind him by attending all the home games this year and giving their support.

SPORTS

By DON FELTNER

Let's start the column off right by saying "welcome back, students; both old and new" to Eastern, home of the Eastern Maroons, well-known for their annual prowess in the field of sports.

Well, the time of the year has finally rolled around when the baseball pennant races and the World Series are challenged for the limelight by another sport. Yep, a September and once again the sport has come into its own in most of the colleges around the country in full swing. The local gridders made Glenn Esnell a happy man Saturday night when they upset a favored John Carroll eleven at Hanger Stadium. The Maroons looked very impressive in their win over the Cleveland, Ohio, team. Especially impressive was the punting ability of Horace Harper, a sophomore the Maroon and White gridders are without the services of a top-notch passer.

In talking to some of the players after the game, we discovered what was probably the biggest individual factor in the Maroon's win. Everyone agreed that their superiority in physical condition was the main factor. This group of athletes who are representing our school have worked tremendously hard since September 1st in preparing for this opening game and the 1954 nine game schedule. From the 1st through the 11th, they practiced twice daily in sweltering heat. On some days, the temperature rose to as high as 105 degrees. Speaking of the weather, the thermometer at game-time Saturday night stood at 90 degrees. Looking over the some 4,000 shirt-sleeved folks in Hanger Stadium, wiping the perspiration from their brows, was reminiscent of the Orange Bowl crowd on New Year's Day at Miami, Florida. (We saw the game on TV, not in person).

Before we close, we must point out some of the linemen who did such a terrific job in holding John Carroll's eleven scoreless. The visiting Ohioans, on one drive, were stopped on the Maroons' one foot line. Karl Bays and Frank Nasida, two of the finest tackles in the conference, were in on nearly every tackle. Jerry Boyd, a sophomore who started his first game at center, did a bang-up job, as did Tom Sammons, Jerry Johns, Fred Wincher, and Tom Schulte.

All of these boys are "our Maroons," so let's give them all our support because they're the greatest. The Maroons play at Middle Tennessee this Friday night in their first conference game and return home next week for a Friday night conference encounter with an always tough Murray eleven. See you at the Murray game!

halfback who started at right half for the Maroons. His ability to boot the pigskin was a big factor in the Maroons' victory. The friendly lad from down South averaged 46.8 yards on 4 punts, which is good enough for him to be among the leaders in the country in that department. Horace played a bang-up ball game and showed the one thing that is necessary to win—the desire to play. Tom Schulte, freshman end, who has worked so hard in practice, that he gained a starting berth, punted twice when Harper was out of the game and averaged 38.5 yards, which is well above average.

Fans who witnessed the grid tilt Saturday night will agree that the Maroons own some of the finest running backs to be found anywhere. The lads who tote the pigskin brought the crowd to their feet on more than one occasion. Chuck Bell's 80 yard touchdown was a beautiful exhibition of skill and speed. Don Daly did an excellent job of running on his scoring run, after he took a lateral from Hanlon on the 30 and went all the way. Dutch Green reminded us of "Dopey" Phelps when he displayed some fancy side-stepping and got loose, only to trip and fall after picking up 24 yards. Jim Hanlon did an excellent job of calling the signals for the Maroons after Bobby Lenderman, the little junior quarterback who was expected to have a great year, suffered a fractured ankle and may be lost for the rest of the season. That was really a tough blow as

ROTC Men Spend Six Weeks At Fort Sill; Battery Sponsors To Be Elected; Parade To Be Next Month

Thirty-seven of the Eastern ROTC unit were represented at the annual six-weeks advanced training school at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, June 19 to July 30. They are Juniors and Seniors, given this as part of their curriculum for a second lieutenant's commission.

Three students were assigned to each of the twelve different batteries, went through lines for processing, physical examinations, and to get equipment.

The "intensive training" included, as the first job, to pass in review for the Deputy Camp Commander, who was Colonel Grubbs, Eastern's Military Science Department, and the commanding general of Fort Sill.

Each day of training was supposed to begin at 7 a. m. and end at 4 p. m., but, in the words of one of the students who was there, "it was more like beginning at 4 a. m. and ending at 7 p. m."

Training was something like that a new recruit goes through, except that each man there held every job in the battery at one time or another.

Training, says one of the men there, revolved around an operation known as "R. S. O. P." (Reconnaissance, Selection, and Occupation of Position), and consisted mainly of tactical movements into the field with equipment, setting up this equipment, and finally using it under combat conditions.

Eight nights "in the field" were gone through, under mock combat conditions, such as bombings by planes carrying flour sacks.

The boys also went through "service practice"—firing their guns all day and then cleaning them.

The final review was at the formal parade grounds on July 29, where the 1500 ROTC students passed in review for the last time. The ROTC students at the summer camp naturally felt some degree of pride in their accomplishment of having completed six weeks of summer training, possibly the most difficult part of the pre-requisite for becoming a second lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve.

Future Activities Future events of the ROTC include the election of the Battery Sponsors on October 8. There will be 1 Corps Sponsor, 2 Battalion, and 6 Battery Sponsors. The Corps Queen will reign over the Military Ball, sponsored by the ROTC and directed by the Knights of Artillery. They also sponsor a float in the Homecoming Parade.

An ROTC parade will be given for the Deputy Commander, who is here October 7-9.
