Alumni Coliseum Dedication Set For Monday

Giant $3 Million Plant Ready For School Year; College To Observe 89th Anniversary Of Central U.

Awaiting Dedication

Eastern's giant $3 million Alumni Coliseum, named for her nearly 12,000 graduates, will be dedicated Monday. Also scheduled is the commemoration of the 89th anniversary of higher education on this campus. Dr. Thomas E. McDonough, director of the division of physical education and athletics at Emory, and Eastern's first P. E. head, will speak at the 10 a.m. ceremonies.

Progress Staff Writer

Eastern will dedicate the $3 million Alumni Coliseum and commemorate the 89th anniversary of higher education here in ceremonies Monday.

Dr. Thomas E. McDonough, head of the first physical education department at Eastern, begun in 1928, will deliver the dedicatory address at 10 a.m. He presently is head of the division of physical education and athletics at Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia.

Governor Bert Combs heads the list of many dignitaries who will be present for the Coliseum ceremonies. Numerous leaders in athletics and physical education also are expected to attend.

The faculty and administrative officers of the college will participate in an academic procession for the occasion.

Started Nov. 1, 1961, Alumni Coliseum, under construction since November, 1961, will be in use for the first time this month, housing the men's health and physical education, athletic offices and the military science department.

Named for the college's 12,000 graduates, the Coliseum contains a main auditorium which seats 6,500 for basketball and 8,000 for other programs; an auxiliary gymnasium, with four basketball playing courts; indoor and outdoor swimming pools; eight classrooms; 20 offices; conditioning rooms; a projection room; shower and locker rooms; and other dual-purpose facilities. It will eventually seat 10,000 for basketball.

A hydraulically-operated stage is located in the east end of the main arena.

Seats on one side of the floor are theater-type, and seats are elevated six feet above the floor level. Entrance to seats is from a concourse level.

In addition to the 6,500 permanent seats there will be approximately 1,600 chairs located on the playing floor for Monday's convocation.

Frosh Sample Full Week Of Orientation Activities

The class of 1967 plus new members of preceding classes were greeted this week by a group of guides ready to serve and entertain the new students in the first complete orientation week held on the Eastern campus.

Tonight an all-student pep rally will be held in Hanger Stadium before the movie. The football team and coaches will be introduced.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a field day conducted by the Women's Recreation Association. Following the Eastern and Austin Peay football game a juke box will be held in the Student Union.

The week's activities will conclude with a picnic and community sing Sunday afternoon.

Miss Pat Allison, assistant dean of women, has been responsible for the organization of the week's activities. Several service groups on campus have served as guides throughout the week. They are: KYMA, Student Council, Owens, Collegiate Pentacle, KIE, OAKS, WRA, Inter-Dorm Council, YMCA, YWCA, and Kappa Delta Tau.

Guides Serve for Week
The guides were assigned to freshmen dormitory floors and it was their responsibility to see that the groups were at the various activities planned for the week and to assist them throughout the week.

Sunday afternoon, refreshments were served to students and parents in Walnut Hall and that evening a vesper service was led in the amphitheater by Rev. E. M. Perry.

On Monday morning, President Robert Martin and Dean W. J. Moore greeted the new students in Brock Auditorium. President Martin told the students that each person has individual problems but Eastern can and will help each student solve these so that he will not fall by the wayside.

That afternoon Collegiate Pentacle and OAKS entertained the transfer students with a coke party. The guides also conducted their groups on tours throughout the campus.

Monday evening an orientation skit was presented by members

2,982 STUDENTS REGISTER
A total of 2,982 students had enrolled here as of 6 p.m. yesterday, according to Dr. Charles Ambrose, dean of admission and registrar. The number which is 300 over this time last year consists primarily of freshmen and sophomores with some juniors and seniors. Expected enrollment, including juniors, seniors, and graduate students, is expected to total well over 4,600.

New Teachers Number 47 For Fall Semester

Eastern has added a total of 47 to its faculty and staff for the 1963-64 school year. Most of the appointments which were made during the summer months became effective September 1.

Two new department heads have been named for the coming year. Dr. Joseph H. Young became the head of the newly-named Department of Business, and Miss Mildred Turney took over as head of the Home Economics Department. Young assumed his duties at the beginning of the summer term. Miss Turney's duties became effective September 1.

- Department Additions Include:
ART — James Edward Rhein, Robert Newman Grise, Miss Ethel Sans, Dr. Fred William Tanner, and Roy Dean Acker.
BUSINESS — Clarence Cotton Dawson, Karl Kemp, and Fred William Brizendine.
CHEMISTRY — John Long Meisenheimer, and Dr. Morris Danton Taylor.
EDUCATION AND PSYCHOLOGY — Dr. Charles Ross, Robert Newman Grise, Miss Ethel Sans, Dr. Fred William Tanner, and Roy Dean Acker.
ENGLISH — Charles Ronald Cella, Charles Daniel Jewell, and Dr. Harold Wayne Richardson.
FOREIGN LANGUAGE — Robert Lee Ladd.
HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION — Mrs. Virginia N. Jinks, Roy Kidd, and Dr. Price Edwin Harrison, Jr.
HISTORY — Dr. Charles Riley Tredway, David Manfred Epstein and Robert Ernest Stebbins.
HOME ECONOMICS — Mary Earle Moberly Carroll.
INDUSTRIAL ARTS — Billy Wayne Shaw, and George Marion Brown.
LIBRARY SCIENCE — Miss Betty K. Hatfield, Mrs. Ruth L.

CO-CAPTAINS . . . Leading Eastern's Maroons when they open their Ohio Valley Conference co-championship defense tomorrow night against Austin Peay will be co-captains Bill Goedde, standing, and Frank Guertin. Goedde, a senior halfback, is the leading returning ground gainer from last season, and Guertin, senior tackle, was a starter last fall. See story on page four.

Five Administrative Posts Were Filled During Summer

President Robert R. Martin has recently announced five new administrative positions. The appointees Miss Patsy Pace, director of women's residence halls; Colonel W. C. Stoll, retired, director of men's residence halls; Henry Pryse, director of college-community relations; Mrs. Linda Lasater Gassaway, news assistant in the office of public affairs; and Dr. John Rowlett, director of research and testing.

Miss Pace has served one year as an assistant on the pupil personnel staff at Eastern, where she received her undergraduate degree, and holds the master's degree in guidance counseling from Ohio University. She is a native of Clark County.

Stoll is a graduate of San Diego State College, and has received the master's in student personnel

Publications Hold Workshops

Last Friday, the award winning Milestone and Eastern Progress held their annual workshops for students working on the publications during the 1963-64 school year.

Kenneth Miller, editor in chief of the 1964 Milestone, welcomed twenty-seven members of the staff and introduced to them Mr. Harrell Brooks, a representative of Foote and Davis Publishing Company. Brooks stressed the importance of having pleasing layouts, excellent pictures, and continuity.

Mr. John Mullaney, a representative of Osborne Photographic Laboratories, discussed the role that pictures play in the yearbook. He illustrated his talk by contrasting good and poor examples of pictures.

In the afternoon session, Mrs. Linda Gassaway, co-editor of the 1962 Milestone addressed the students. In her speech, "Caution: A Yearbook Ahead," Mrs. Gassaway advised the staff to stop and consider what the yearbook is and what it should do.

Following a preview of the 1964 Milestone by Miller, group discussions were held and instructions were given for the completion of the new annual.

In addition to Miller, a senior from Frankfort, Sandra Nunnally, a senior from Cynthia serves as associate editor.

Presiding at the Progress workshop, Mary Ann Nelson, editor in chief, set the goals for the staff to attain.

Jim Hampton, Blue Grass correspondent for The Courier-Journal, addressed the group concerning the role that journalism plays in the life of the journalist. He stressed the importance of the journalist writing what he believes to be the truth.

Cooperation, thorough proof-reading, and a genuine interest in the paper were the three things that Ben Cartinhour, city editor of the Richmond Daily Register, told the group. Cartinhour served as managing editor of the 1962-63 Progress.

Feature writing was discussed by Mrs. Paul Janz, journalism instructor at Eastern. Mrs. Janz explained the difference between the feature and the news story by giving examples of both.

The day's program, concluded with a tour of the printing room of the Richmond Daily Register. Miss Nelson who is a senior

Dr. Murbach Dies In Berea

Dr. Janet M. Murbach, former head of the Language Department here at Eastern, died in Berea, Kentucky, on the third of August this summer.

Eastern since 1928. She had her A.B. and M.A. degrees and had attended Oberlin College, The University of Kentucky, and the University of California. Before coming to Eastern, she was a student at the University of Paris and was Docteur de l'universite de Toulouse, France.

She had been a dedicated and excellently educated teacher who had taught at Eastern for 35 years. Her students and colleagues admired and respected her not only for her teaching ability but also for her own personality and values of life. For the benefit of every student we hope there will be many other teachers with the abilities Dr. Murbach possessed.

Yearbook Photos Set

The following is the schedule for the 1964 Milestone photo appointments:

Central U. Started Campus

Higher Education Began Here 89 Years Ago

Central University, predecessor of Eastern on this campus, marked the beginning of higher education in this cattle-and-tobacco-raising Blue Grass town 89 years ago.

This humble beginning will be recalled Monday in formal ceremonies at Eastern's new Alumni Coliseum as the founding of higher education here is commemorated. The Coliseum, spectacular $3 million physical education-athletic facility, will also be dedicated at the 10 a.m. program.

Dr. W. J. Moore, dean of the college, will deliver the commemorative address with Dr. Thomas T. McManough, head of the first department of physical education at Eastern and present director of physical education and athletics at Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, will give the dedicatory speech.

Created after a break between the northern and southern Presbyterian churches during the Civil War, Central University was established as a southern Presbyterian denominational school on Sept. 25, 1874. It lasted until its merger with Centre College in 1901.

First chancellor of the University was Robert L. Break. He was succeeded by Dr. Rev. H. H. Blanton, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Paris, Ky., in 1880. It was in Chancellor Blanton's honor that the president's home was given its present name, The Blanton House.

The first faculty of the University consisted of 11 men, including the chancellor, who also taught.

The curriculum was rather limited. Latin, Greek, mathematics, logic, physics, English, rhetoric, French, psychology, ethics, chemistry, German, evidences of Christianity, morality, and astronomy were offered. By 1886, students were allowed to take electives during their last two years. Later, history, political science, and commercial science were added.

In addition, Central offered both primary and intermediate grade work and a normal course for the training of teachers.

The bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees were conferred by Central from its beginning.

University Building Main Structure

The main building of Central was the University Building, which still stands—but after a recent $200,000 renovation—and which has kept its original name. The building, which formerly housed Model Laboratory School, now is used by the history, anthropology, and social science departments, and the J. T. Dorris Museum.

The first dormitory opened in 1882. It was named Memorial Hall in commemoration of the one hundred years of service of the Presbyterian Church in Kentucky. Cost of this dormitory was $20,000.

In the early 1890's, Central became co-educational on a limited basis. However, the plan was regarded so favorably that the institution was made entirely co-educational in 1898.

Social life at the University was similar to that of other institutions. The Epiphany and Philalethean, two literary societies, were organized during the first year. In 1883, a monthly magazine, "The Atlantic," was published.

Student Publications Formed

The senior class published a yearbook in 1895, called the "Cream and Crispin." And, in 1897, a four-page weekly student newspaper, "The Central News," was published. Students operated their own presses on the campus.

The first graduating class was in 1878 when four students were awarded degrees by the College of Philosophy, Letters and Science. Two of these graduated from the University's College of Law the next year.

Graduating classes were never large at Central. The average number of graduates was about 12.

In the 1880's, diplomas were awarded those students who had completed the work in any of the departments of the college but did not have enough credits for a degree.

Faculty Salaries Were Small

The meager income of the University kept faculty salaries small. Even at their highest—in the 1890's, they ranged from about $700 to $1,200 a year, paid quarterly. The most the chancellor received was $1,600.

The charter of the University provided for six preparatory schools. Only four, however, were established. The first began its existence on the Richmond campus in 1874 and was known as Walters Collegiate Institute. Its students also shared in the privileges of the University.

Four years of study were offered, including courses in English, Latin, Greek, and mathematics. Later the curriculum was enlarged to include history and bookkeeping.

In 1890 another high school, known as Jackson Collegiate Institute, was established in Breathitt County. This school served a much felt need in that part of the State and soon became an institution of considerable consequence.

One of its valuable features was the normal course for the training of teachers.

A third high school, known as Hardin Collegiate Institute, was established at Elizabethtown, in 1892. It resembled the one at Jackson, but it never became as prominent.

In 1896, the board of curators established a fourth preparatory school at Middleboro, known as the Middleboro University High School. The citizens of Middleboro gave the University a 40-room school building.

One Coordinating Body

Over all these units of Central University—colleges of art, law, medicine, and dentistry, and the four preparatory schools—there was one coordinating administrative body. The board of curators was this body and the chancellor was the chief executive of the entire system.

Each college had its own president and each preparatory school its own principal.

Forty years after action of the General Assembly, which resulted in the break between the northern and southern Presbyterians, the end came to Central University, in 1901—27 years after its founding. The Presbyterians were unified and Central University became the property of Centre College in Danville.

To the citizens of Richmond were left the buildings and grounds of the University, which, in five years, attracted the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School—what is now called Eastern Kentucky State College.

Coming Here Monday

An Anniversary Of Education . . .

Monday will be an historical day in Eastern life. Then, the new Alumni Coliseum will be dedicated, commemorating the 89th anniversary of higher education on the Richmond Campus.

Eighty-nine years is a long time. Through these years, Richmond has been the site of a still-continuing program of high-quality education. From old Central University, to Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, to Eastern Kentucky State Teacher's College, to finally, Eastern Kentucky State College, the institution grew from a small, rather limited school to a bustling, progressive college.

It was not always easy to create and maintain high academic and social standards. As the school's size increased, so did the problems and their scope. Each obstacle was surmounted, however, and soon the school was the modern, streamlined educational institution that exists today.

Monday will be a remembrance of the past . . . and the shape of the future.

On this same day, a new, $3 million building will be dedicated to furthering the same tradition that has kept Eastern in the forefront of education. A long-needed physical education plant, the Alumni Coliseum will provide greatly beneficial classroom and playing space. It will also furnish a place for large concerts, lectures, and skits. In this imposing structure the college will be able to have both entertaining and informative programs on a scope which it has not been able to have previously. The Coliseum will be an asset to Eastern and Richmond.

Ah, Automation!

First Impressions . . .

Frosh Say, "We Like It"

By MARY JANE MULLINS
Progress Feature Editor

Upperclassmen are probably dumbfounded at the sight of so many freshmen on campus who act as though they know where they are going, even if they really don't. The sighs and moans of homesickness have been muted by the hurry of registration, dances, and meeting new friends.

While the "old hands" have been looking over the freshmen, the frosh in turn have been appraising them, and the college. An outgoing, exuberant group, these frosh were eager to reveal their first impressions of their new school.

When asked what she thought about wearing the frosh beanie, Nancy Taylor of Ashland answered, "Really, I suppose it's a good idea. At least you know your fellow classmen."

Yvonne Ballew of Richmond chimed in with, "I like it. It's a lot of fun." Bonnie Kocher, from Wilmington, O., spoke for the majority when she said, "I don't mind—I mean, heck, freshmen have to do something, I guess."

When Marilyn Meyers, Louisville, was asked how much of the Alma Mater she knew, she replied with a thoughtful expression mixed with anxiety, "Well, I know 'Hall, hail—But, I'll learn the rest today. I've got to before I leave the dorm."

Registration was the first big hurdle for the frosh, and they registered mixed emotions about it. Sally Hargrave said, "I was ready for the 'infirmary' but Linda Hampton, Ft. Thomas, commented, 'It was easy for me.'"

Janet Morrison was asked by an upperclassman what she thought of her room, and if there was enough space. She thought for a moment and then answered, "It is a little crowded, especially the drawers. But probably we don't have our sweaters folded very well."

As for the general thoughts of studying, Sharon Henry summed it up by saying, "It's going to be hard to get back in the habit," as she adjusted her beanie on her head.

The Progress Pledges . . .

With this week's issue, the Progress will resume publication every Friday morning. As in the past, we will attempt to give fair and complete coverage to every news event that happens on this campus.

This newspaper will be balanced. News will be in proportion to its importance to the large audience of the Progress. This audience is largely composed of students, with the administration and faculty. We will never wholly ignore or over-publicize any segment of this audience.

Our news will be objective. We have never been forced to print anything in the past, nor are we now. We have a free press here at Eastern, and we are proud of it. No student newspaper can be free from censorship unless it proves itself worthy of that right. The only sure method to earn this right is to exercise thoughtful, mature judgment, and to accept the tremendous responsibility of being the voice—and the conscience—of the Eastern community. The Progress does accept this responsibility. We will not be stampeded by hasty decisions or by irresponsible gossip into doing something that will betray the trust placed in us by the college and its student body.

Progress news coverage will be complete. We will cover this campus thoroughly. National newspaper rating services have complimented the paper on its coverage of the news, and we intend to keep up and surpass this work. If there's something good about this college or someone in it, we'll report it; but if we see a situation that needs correction, we'll report that too. We will not report anything without first investigating all phases of the event.

The content of this paper will be accurate. We will check all facts and publish nothing unless we know the story to be true.

Last, the news will be timely. As the Progress is a weekly paper, we are somewhat hampered; however, all newsworthy events of the week before and after publication will be covered. Our staff will report current information.

If the qualities listed sound suspiciously like the qualities of any good newspaper, that is the intended effect. As does any good newspaper, we realize the job we have to do, and we will do it.

Frosh Oriented Successfully

Eastern's class of 1967 is enjoying a new orientation program which is more complete and friendlier than any such program the College has tried.

The new program utilizes the services of around two hundred upperclassmen selected from the four honoraries, KYMA, the Student Council, and most of the service organizations. These students have unselfishly donated their time and energy to carrying suitcases, guiding the frosh to their rooms and around the campus, and helping them generally get better acquainted with Eastern's way of life.

Administrative personnel have also assisted in helping to integrate smoothly this crowd of 1,500 freshmen and transfers into the college. Through informational meetings, receptions, dances, and parties, this class will not be suffering from a bewildering load of faces, names, and rules, suddenly handed to them and told to be remembered, as previous classes have had. These frosh and transfers should soon be going to classes and activities like old hands.

This College had long needed a program like this and it is a relief to see it in effect. A student's first days at college may be harrowing, and personal, friendly concern from the old-timers is reassuring.

At The World's Fair

United States Pavilion Shows Fresh Design

Massive steel girders being riveted into place at Flushing Meadow, N.Y., form the giant skeleton of the United States Pavilion, which will represent America to millions of visitors at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The new Pavilion promises a fresh architectural approach in government exhibition buildings in its unique exterior and interior design and in the imaginative exhibits it will house.

Experts who chose the building's design from 28 preliminary drawings predict that the Pavilion, the largest our Government has ever erected at a fair, will be a striking representation of the U.S. theme for the Fair, "Challenge to Greatness," and an outstanding example of future trends in architecture.

Norman K. Winston, U.S. Commissioner to the World's Fair, said that the building, larger than a city block, will seem at first glance to "float" in space above the ground.

Actually, the Commissioner revealed, it will be supported by four massive steel columns utilizing the same architectural principle employed in cantilevered bridges. The Pavilion's exterior walls will be high as an eight-story building and will be made up almost entirely of thousands of varicolored glass-like plastic panels which will reflect sunlight during the day and which will glow with an interior light at night.

The spacious entrance to the Pavilion, Winston reported, will give visitors a feeling of tranquility as they approach. Sweeping pyramids of steps and escalators, flanked at their base with pools and fountains, will carry you away from the hurly-burly of the fairgrounds to a restful garden court-planted with trees and shrubs and accented with sculpture. The garden court, a place of beauty and repose, will be the point of central access to major Pavilion areas.

Commissioner Winston said that as you enter the building the first view will be a panoramic representation of America today and the challenges which lie ahead for the nation. Most of the whole first level of the Pavilion will be devoted to this three-part exhibition depicting the origins of freedom; the land and our life upon it; and a portrayal of the "New America"—a free nation still striving for perfection. The lower Pavilion level also will house an auditorium for meetings, recitals and lectures.

Plan to "Hearings"

Like on one upper level, fair visitors will embark on a 15-minute "total experience" ride, which Winston called "a virtually unprecedented theatrical experience, the heart of the whole Federal exhibit." Individual automatic cars will carry each viewer through a series of film images, and visual and sound effects which dramatize the essential spirit of the United States. This exhibit area, entitled "Horizons," will unfold the tremendous potential of a truly free life in a democracy dedicated to the welfare of all mankind.

Commissioner Winston said a special area offering further information about subjects treated within the exhibition hall will complete the tour. A computer facility will reveal supplementary information in response to individual questions by visitors.

More than 200 authorities on the major phases of American life helped develop the Government exhibit for the coming World's Fair.

Need An Answer? The Editor's Post

The Progress welcomes all letters to the editor from faculty, students, and administrative personnel. Everyone who writes to the Progress is free to give constructive criticism on topics pertinent to the newspaper or the college, but the letters should be in good taste and avoid political partisanship.

We do require that all letters be signed whether they are written by one person or by a group. The Progress reserves the right to edit these letters, only to improve spelling and grammar. We will in no way change the meaning of the letter without the writer's approval, but we are not compelled to print any letter.

Next week the Progress will begin a weekly column designed especially to answer student questions about policies and people at Eastern. Written by Gene Blair, the column will publish questions and answer both. Any student is welcome to write. Although the Progress must know who is asking a question, no names will be published.

Blair, who was editor of his high school newspaper at Campbell County High School, has also worked with the Cincinnati Enquirer. Questions should be directed to him in care of the Progress.

Clubs Cater To Interests

By JOY GRAHAM
Progress Clubs Editor

Hello freshmen! Welcome transfers! Welcome back, you who have been here before! With several thousand students on a campus interests are many and varied. In order that your interests may develop and express themselves, Eastern offers you the opportunity of belonging to clubs and organizations in many different areas.

Perhaps your interests are in medicine or other sciences. If so, the Biology Club with president Fred Meece and sponsor, Robert S. Larance may be the club for you. The Caduceus Club, president of which is Geraldine Spurlin and sponsor of which is M. J. Cox is especially for pre-med majors. Mr. Cox is also the sponsor of the Chemistry Club.

JOY GRAHAM

Maybe math is your favorite subject. In that case the Polymathologists are led by their president Donald Dykes and their sponsor Smith Park. There is also an Accounting Club with president William A. Smith and sponsor A. G. McIlvane.

Student Publications Are Three. English majors should be aware of the Canterbury Club. Me'va Groot is the president of this group which publishes Belles Lettres each year. Their sponsors are Philip Mankin and Byno R. Rhodes. Also along the line of student publications are the Milestone with editor-in-chief Kenny Miller and assistant editor Sandra Nunneley, and the Eastern Progress headed by editor-in-chief Mary Ann Nelson, managing editor Doug Whitlock, news editor Eliza Rice and sponsor Don Feltner.

Those of you who are dramatically inclined may wish to join the Eastern Little Theater and strive for membership in Alpha Psi Omega. There is also a modern dance group, The Drum and Sadaf, led by their president Jill Turner and sponsor Mildred Maupin.

Physical education majors and minors enjoy serving Eastern as members of PEMM with their president Leroy Kinnman and sponsor Jess White. Swimmers may join Kappa Kappa Sigma, led by president Norma McKinney and sponsor Dorothy Kirkpatrick. Girls may join the Womens Recreation Association with president Pam Oliver and sponsor Dorothy Kirkpatrick. Richie Emmons and J. D. Coates are president and sponsor of the E Club which is made up of boys who letter in various sports activities.

Politics And Religion Find Place. If politics is your game Eastern's Young Republicans Club or Young Democrats Club, under the direction of L. G. Kennamer keeps abreast of what is going on in the political world abroad as well as here at home. Tom Coffey is president of the Collegiate Council of United Nations. Their sponsor is Se Jen Kim.

It is important that while you are away from home you consider the spiritual aspects of life as well as the social and academic aspects. To help you here are such organizations as the Baptist

Dr. Martin Greets Faculty, Staff In Program Friday

The 1963-64 school year at Eastern officially began last Friday when President Robert R. Martin greeted nearly 500 faculty, administrative staff, and other employees.

Meeting in the Brook Auditorium, the group was led at the Kickoff for Faculty Day that each person has an important position in the total role of the College.

The first activity of the day was an official flag-raising service at the Alumni Coliseum.

Following the raising of the United States flag, the flag of the Commonwealth, and the flag of the College, President Martin delivered a brief address.

He asked the question "What is the Flag?" He explained that each flag had special significance to each person.

Also appearing on the program were the Reverend Edward H. O'Cash of the Richmond Presbyterian Church, who delivered the invocation; members of the Eastern military science department; and Donald Hendrickson and Nancy Davis of the music department.

At the morning faculty meeting, President Martin cited projects slated for this year to include (1) an addition to the John Grant Crabbe library; (2) an additional boiler and the renovation of the heating plant; (3) reconditioning of the Coates Administration Building; and (4) wiring of Roark Building.

J. C. Powell, dean of business affairs, discussed the relationship of the Office of Business Affairs to the academic program. He encouraged faculty and staff members to accept their responsibilities in keeping the buildings and grounds in good condition.

An afternoon faculty meeting was held in the Little Theater of the Keen Johnson Student Union Building, and a reception honoring the new members of the college faculty and staff was given by President and Mrs. Martin in Martin Hall.

The day's events were climaxed by a faculty dinner and dance in Martin Hall Cafeteria.

Alpha Sigma Chapter Chartered

The Alpha Sigma Chapter of the Marine Corps Semper Paratus Society has been established on the Eastern campus. The Society is comprised of active Marines who are enrolled in the Marine Platoon Leaders Class program as well as several former Marines on campus.

The purpose of the group is to promote Marine Corps relations on campus as well as to offer an active agenda of topics of Marine Corps interest to its members. Jimmy W. Hughes from Corbin is President of the group and Doug Hamilton from Paintsville serves as Vice-President.

Mr. Charles Ambrose and Mr. Donald Daly, both former Marine officers, and members of the Eastern faculty are acting as advisors to the group.

Cheering Tryouts Next Wednesday

Sandy Eversole, cheerleader for Eastern, announced Monday that try-outs for cheerleading for the following season will be Wednesday.

There will be two practice sessions held, one Monday and one Tuesday on the football field. Miss Eversole explained that applications were to be filled out before the try-outs. These applications can be obtained in the dormitories.

Boys as well as girls were advised to participate in the try-outs. The boys were given a special invitation for the try-outs. No time has been set for the majorette try-outs.

Secretarial Science Program - "Just A Beginning" . . . Young

By CHARLOTTE WATERS
Progress Staff Writer

"A little beginning toward further developments" is the description applied by Dr. Joseph H. Young to the new secretarial program at Eastern.

Dr. Young, is the head of the department of business. He received the E.S. degree in commerce from Indiana State College, Terre Haute, Ind., the Ed. M. from Harvard University, and the Ph.D. from Indiana University in business, economics, and sociology.

The new secretarial program offers a choice of two plans. There is a one-year program, offering a certificate in secretarial science, and a two-year program which will train executive secretaries.

Dr. Young's explanation of the difference between the secretarial program and a business school's curriculum is "the courses that the student will take in our secretarial program are college credits that apply toward a college degree. This program also offers liberal education that the student would not receive in a business school."

Two Plans Offered. The students who enroll in either the one-year or two-year secretarial program will spend a great deal of their time polishing their typewriting and shorthand skills. They will take courses in accounting and business mathematics, and they will learn to operate business machines. English courses will be included to improve future secretaries' vocabularies and spelling abilities. The two-year program gives the student an opportunity to take courses in economics, advanced courses in accounting, and additional liberal arts courses.

The program was created in an effort to attract people to Eastern who desire this type of training. Furthermore, this training will provide a means of livelihood for the great number of girls who do not complete four years of college. Another attractive aspect of this training is that girls enrolled in it may find part-time secretarial positions which will enable them to complete their college education. And perhaps—who knows—this "little beginning toward further developments" may be another step toward Eastern's becoming a university.

Maroons Should Be Well Supported

Well, here we are about to kick off another football season. Tomorrow night our griders take to the field in their initial clash of the year, with the Ohio Valley Conference's newly-added Austin Peay.

The Maroons have every right in the world to expect an overflow crowd in Hanger Stadium for this home opener. They are defending Ohio Valley Conference co-champions, and this is their first trip off of the year; and we have more students here than ever before.

But just how big will the student crowd tomorrow night be? Several times in the past big crowds have been expected only to have a great number of students flock home on the weekend.

The student who does not attend home athletic contests is robbing himself. He is throwing away the money paid for the activity-I.D. card, and is missing a valuable part of the total college experience.

Coach Presnell feels this year's version of the Maroons is better than last season's, even with the lack of depth, and none can say the 1962 home games weren't worth attending.

Another thing. When you come to these games, don't just sit there. Let the team know you are there. Follow the cheerleaders. Last year our team was 4-1 on the road, and only 2-2 at home, and the road opposition, in anything, was the toughest. Could it be that an uninterested home crowd is worse than the hostile fans faced on trips?

SOMETHING NEW IN SPORTS

Eastern will have a wrestling team for the first time this year. While the announcement was made too late to schedule many matches for the coming season, a few contests will be held.

Jim Cullivan, football line coach, will head the Eastern grapplers, and will be assisted by Jim Hataway, an Oklahoma native.

The addition of this sport gives Eastern the broadest athletic program in her history, and promises to add to the program.

OVC AT A GLANCE

The upcoming Ohio Valley Conference football race promises to be as interesting, if not as strange, as last season's battle for the halo, that saw four teams—Eastern, Morehead, East Tennessee, and Middle Tennessee—wind up deadlocked in first place with identical 4-2 records.

Every team in the conference is expected to be improved, seemingly suggesting another crazy finish, providing improvement has been uniform.

The Kentucky representatives of the championship foursome, Eastern and Morehead, base their hopes for a solo crown in 1963 on quality, while Middle and East Tennessee feel their numbers may be superior.

The Buccaneers and Blue Raiders are both considered very strong as far as the first unit goes, but after that experience drops drastically. In fact don't be surprised if these two teams have the best starters in the loop.

Tennessee Tech, Murray, and Western, can't be counted out, and it is very likely that at least one of them will be in the thick of things this season.

Tech and Murray are out to avenge bad seasons last year, and are both good teams, and Western is loaded for bear everywhere but at quarterback, where they lost the first two men.

In fact the only true long-shot in the conference is Austin Peay, and only because the Governors are so young and inexperienced. They will, no doubt, be a team to contend with in future years.

Maroons Kick-Off Grid Season Tomorrow; Presnell Begins Tenth Year As Head Coach

Hopes To Gain O.V.C. Title

One-time All-American half-back at the University of Nebraska and star for the professional Detroit Lions, Glenn Presnell is beginning his tenth year as head coach of the Eastern Maroons.

A soft-spoken, even-tempered football strategist, Presnell has compiled a 40-41-3 record in nine years, and is hoping to repeat, if not better, his Maroons Ohio Valley Conference co-championship finish of a year ago.

Nine years ago, in his debut as head coach, he guided the Maroons to one of the finest seasons in Eastern history, their first Ohio Valley Conference championship, and a trip to the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Florida. This coupled with last season's first in the OVC makes Presnell the most successful Kentucky coach in the tough loop.

Last year the Maroons almost carried off all the conference marbles, but lost 20-12 to Morehead in their last circuit contest of the season. The defeat forced Eastern to a four-way tie with Morehead, East Tennessee, and Middle Tennessee. The Maroons finished 4-2 in OVC play, and 6-3 overall, their first winning season since Presnell's second year, 1955.

Nebraska Native

Born at Gilead, Nebraska, the popular Presnell graduated from Dewitt, Nebraska, High School. As a freshman he played in the first football game he ever saw, and for the next three years missed but one minute of action.

Unknown and unheralded, he went to the University of Nebraska with no idea of making the Cornhuskers' team, a real power among the nation's grid teams. He made the team, and thus began a brilliant career. In 1927, he was named All-America halfback, and at the end of the season he played in the East-West All-Star Game in San Francisco.

After receiving his B.S. Degree in 1928, Presnell became player-coach of the pro-Ironton (Ohio) Tanks, with whom he played and coached through the season of 1928-'29, and '30. In 1929 and '30, he also coached the Russell Ky. High School football, basketball, and baseball teams, and the girls' basketball team.

Held Field Goal Record

In 1931, he joined the Portsmouth Spartans of the National Football League and stayed there through the season of '33. That year he led the league in scoring and was voted All-League halfback. In 1934, Presnell joined the Detroit Lions and played there for three seasons. In '34, the bulldozing halfback kicked a 54-yard field goal, which stood for 19 years as the record in the N.F.L. In 1935, the Lions won the National League championship.

All indications are that Presnell is in line for induction into the newly formed Professional Football Hall of Fame. He was nominated at the last session, but narrowly missed admission.

Presnell began his collegiate coaching career in 1937, when he was backfield coach at Kansas. In 1938, he returned to Nebraska as backfield coach, and became head coach there in 1942.

In 1943, he served as a Navy Officer and coached the backfield at North Carolina Pre-Flight, remaining there for the '44 season also.

In 1946, "Press" returned to Nebraska as backfield coach before coming to Eastern in the fall of 1947 to coach the backfield and serve under Tom Samuels. He was named head coach in 1954.

WRA Stages Rat Races

The Women's Recreation Association will sponsor a field day for all freshman women beginning at 1:30 tomorrow on the practice football field.

The various guide groups will be divided into ten main groups which will compete against one another.

The ten events will consist of the following: rat maze, back tracking rat race, the rat sack race, the pack rat race, the rat selling bee, maze rat race, rat lay, and the rattin-egg relay.

Freshman, come out and enjoy a few hours of fun and frolic!

FOOTBALL MAGICIAN . . . It's not fair to play with this many footballs, but the Eastern coaching staff is anticipating that quarterback Larry Marmie can make defenders think there is one for every player in Maroon backfield. Marmie, a third team All-Ohio Valley Conference pick last year as a freshman holds one Eastern passing record, and is considered one of the finest running quarterbacks ever to wear a Maroon uniform. Eastern opens its season tomorrow with Austin Peay at 8 p.m. in Hanger Stadium.

ALL-STATE MAROONS . . . Coach Glenn Presnell poses with six outstanding freshman prospects, all of whom were named to a Kentucky high school All-State team last season. They were among 70 hopefuls reporting to the Maroon grid camp three weeks ago. From left: Presnell, Phillip Hines, Somerset; Floyd Hatfield; Belfrey; Louis Pfadt, Louisville; Roger Prall, Danville; C. R. Lyons, Ft. Thomas, and Frank Koppie, Louisville.

Austin Peay Provides OVC Defense Opener

Eastern's defending Ohio Valley Conference co-champion Maroons kickoff a ten-game grid card tomorrow night in Hanger Stadium against visiting Austin Peay, the OVC's newest member.

After almost three full weeks of preparation, two of them rough, and light workouts this week, Coach Glenn Presnell feels the Maroons are ready for the season.

Presnell describes the team's physical condition as "pretty good." He remarked early in the week that a rash of minor injuries had slowed down workout sessions, but that they should be healed by tomorrow.

Lack of depth in the interior line has been the key problem facing the coaching staff since Sept. 1. Freshmen and transfers have been moved to positions left by last season's graduates, but they are lacking in game experience.

Practice sessions this week were focused on polishing the offense, and plugging defensive loopholes.

Asked to name players who had been impressive in practice, Presnell said, "I don't want to praise any individual just yet. We don't expect this team to have any one standout, since we have pretty good overall balance." Gobs Have New Coach

"Preparing for Austin Peay this year is a little difficult," Presnell mused. "They have a new coach (Bill Dupes), and the only thing we can expect is something similar to what he used at his last coaching assignment."

The Governors have not played, eliminating the opportunity to scout them this year.

Austin Peay will invade Richmond with an inexperienced team of one senior, 11 juniors, 12 sophomores and 34 freshmen, but this doesn't give the Maroons anything to be confident about.

Previous Meetings Close

In four previous meetings Eastern has yet to lose to the Gobs, but the Maroons have never been able to chalk up a really impressive win.

The worst beatings in the series are a pair of 21-7 games in 1959 and 1961. Last year, with the Maroons in their championship drive, the Gobs lost by only 14-7 in a thriller that saw Eastern do all its scoring in the first quarter.

This year's clash has a new significance. Austin Peay was admitted to the OVC over a year ago, but this is the first time the Gobs are eligible for the loop championship, and the game will now count in circuit standings.

Something New

A new offensive wrinkle will greet the Gobs when the Maroons take the field tomorrow night. Eastern will be using the "T" formation, shifting into the wing or slot "T" just before the snap.

"This will keep a defensive unit hopping," said Presnell.

Starters Listed

Starters in the Eastern backfield will be Larry Marmie, 6-1, 185 pound, third team All-OVC quarterback last year as a freshman; senior halfbacks Bill Goedde, 5-11, 185, co-captain, and Richie Emmons, 5-8 and 155 pounds, and 193 pound junior fullback Herbie Conley.

The line will see juniors Richard Carr, 6-1, 205, and Jack Schulte, 6-3, 210, at end; senior co-captain Frank Guertin, 5-11, 210, and junior Doug Hamilton, 6-3, 212, at tackle; junior guards Dave Grim, 6-1, 210, and Todd Reynolds, 5-10, 205, at guard, and sophomore Dennis Bradford, 5-10, 205 pound center.

The Governors' lineup will feature returning halfback Tim Chilton, and Jim Derrick, a diminutive, 5-10, 150 pound quarterback.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Four Grad. Aides Added This Summer

Four graduate assistant coaches were named this summer for the 1963-64.

Roy Davidson, tennis; Ernie Dalton, track; Jim Hataway, wrestling, and Rupert Stephens, basketball, will assist the head coaches of their respective sports.

Davidson, who has been student coach of the Eastern tennis team for the past two years, will assist Jack Adams, newly appointed head tennis coach and assistant basketball coach. Three years ago Eastern was without tennis courts, and a team, but upon completion of six, split-level courts, a team was started, and Davidson, a Middletown, Ohio, native, assumed the responsibilities of player-coach. In just two seasons he made the Maroons an area power and an Ohio Valley Conference title contender.

One of Eastern's all-time great track stars, Dalton will serve under track coach Don Daly, another Eastern cinder star. Dalton has been one of the leading point producers for the Maroon tracksters for the past four years, competing in the high jump, broad jump, hurdles, and javelin. He holds the school record in the broad jump. He is a Dayton, Ohio, native.

The foursome who is not an Eastern product. He is a graduate of Central State College, Edmond, Oklahoma, and is a native of Oklahoma City. He has officiated high school wrestling, coached two junior high state championship teams, and helped coach the 1963 state high school champions in Oklahoma.

The spark-plug of the 1962-63 Maroon basketball squad, Stephens, will coach the Eastern freshman basketball team, under the supervision of head coach Jim Baschold. The Russell Springs product was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army last Friday, but has a one-year leave to work on his master's degree. As a guard, he led the Maroons in scoring most of the season, and finished third in point production.

CROSS COUNTRY
Cross-country coach Ernie Dalton requests that anyone desiring to compete on this year's X-country team to contact him Monday in the athletic office in Alumni Coliseum. Equipment will be distributed then.

Class Changes Begin Tuesday

Along with the new IBM registration system, a new drop-add procedure will be followed this year.

Beginning next Tuesday, all students who wish to drop and/or add a class are to go to Dean Moore's office on the first floor of the Administration Building where he will secure a request for schedule change.

On this form the student should list the course name, number, section number, time it meets, and the name of the instructor of the classes he wishes to drop or add.

After the student has filled in the request, he is to obtain the signature of his adviser and that of the instructor into whose class he is seeking admittance.

Return to Dean's Office
 He is then to bring the filled in sheet and the pink cards of any class he is dropping plus a receipt from the business office showing that he has paid the $1.00 fee charged for making schedule changes.

The dean's office will issue the student a slip requesting the changes which the student desires. The student is then to report to the registrar's office with this slip and his pink IBM class cards.

The student will turn in any pink cards that he has to the registrar and he will pick up the pink cards for any class he is adding.

A student must follow each of these steps in order to officially drop or add any class. He is requested not to interrupt any class in order to secure the signature of an instructor or in order to secure a pink IBM class card from him.

September 30th is the final date for adding any class to a student's schedule.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH, DEAR FRIENDS

Today I begin my tenth year of writing this column in your campus newspaper. Ten years is a long time; it is, in fact, what some scholarly people like to call a decade—from the Latin word decum, meaning the floor of a ship. It is, to my mind, remarkable that the Romans had such a word as decum when you consider that ships did not exist until 1620 when John Alden invented the Mayflower. Alden, a prodigiously ingenious man, also invented the ear lobe and Pocahontas.

Ships were a very popular mode of travel—especially over water—until 1912 when the Swede, Ivar Krueger, invented the iceberg. Krueger also invented the match, which is a good thing, because without the match, how would you light your Marlboro Cigarettes? I cannot overstate the importance of lighting your Marlboro Cigarettes, for Marlboro Cigarettes, unlighted, provide, at best, only limited smoking pleasure.

I mention Marlboros because this column is an advertisement, brought to you through the school year by the makers of Marlboros. Marlboros come in soft pack or Flip-Top box. The makers of Marlboros come in dark suits with thin lapels—except on weekends when they come in yoke-neck jerseys and white duck trousers. White ducks come in flocks. They are primarily fresh water dwellers, although they have been successfully raised in salt water too. Another salt water denizen I'm sure you will find enjoyable is plankton—a mess of tiny organisms like diatoms and algae and like that which float sluggishly near the surface of the sea. It is ironic that these creatures, microscopic in size, should supply the principal source of food for the earth's largest animal, the whale. Whales, I must say, are not at all pleased with this arrangement, because it takes the average whale, eating steadily, 48 hours to gather a day's meal. This leaves them almost no time for water sports or reading Life magazine. It is a lucky thing for all of us that whales are unaware they are mammals, not fish, and could, if they tried, live just as well on land as in water. I mean, you add ten or twelve million whales to our Sunday traffic and you would have congestion that makes the mind boggle.

But I digress. Today, I was saying, I begin my tenth year of writing this column for Marlboro Cigarettes in your campus newspaper. I will, in each column, say a few kind words about Marlboros—just as you will, once you try that fine tobacco flavor, that pristine white filter, that supple soft pack, that infrangible Flip-Top box. These references to Marlboro will be brief and unobtrusive, for I do not believe in the hard sell. What I favor is the soft sell—you might even call it the limp or spongy sell. I hasten to state that the makers of Marlboro in ten full years have not once complained about my desultory sales approach. Neither have they paid me.

But that is of small consequence. Aside from fleeting mentions of Marlboro, this column has another, and more urgent, mission: to cast the hot white light of free inquiry upon the vexing questions that trouble college America—questions like "Should the Student Council have the power to levy tariffs?" and "Are roommates sanitary?" and "Should housemothers be compelled to retire upon reaching the age of 26?"

Perhaps, reasoning together, we can find the answers. Perhaps not. But if we fail, let it never be said that it was for want of trying.

I thank you.

The makers of Marlboro are happy to bring you another year of Max Shulman's unpredictable and uncensored columns—and also happy to bring you fine filtered Marlboros, available in pack or box, wherever cigarettes are sold in all 50 states.

Publisher To Address C.K.E.A. Attendees

Jerry W. Robinson, associate editor of the South-Western Publishing Company, will address business teachers attending the Central Kentucky Education Association Conference on the campus of Eastern next Friday.

Business teachers throughout Central Kentucky have been extended invitations to attend a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. in the Blue Room of the Keen Johnson Student Union Building. Robinson's topic will be entitled, "Some Indexes of Excellence in Teaching."

General session of the annual C.K.E.A. meeting are scheduled for the newly-completed Alumni Coliseum. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of New York's Marble Collegiate Church and author of "The Power of Positive Thinking," will be the featured speaker during the day-long meeting.

Robinson attended Draughton's Business College, Oklahoma City; Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.; Brown University, Providence, R.I., and received the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Denver. He received the M.A. in Education from the University of California, and is presently completing a dissertation in the area of business education for the Doctor of Education degree.

supervisor of guidance and counseling, will serve in the Department of Public Affairs. His duties will consist of high school visitation programs, community relations, and placement services.

A native of Beattyville, he holds an A.B. degree from Centre College, and an M.A. from Eastern. He has done additional graduate work at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Gassaway, a native of Watertown, Tenn., received both the B.A. and M.A. degrees at Eastern. Co-editor of the 1962 Milestone, the college yearbook, she was selected as the first senior to the Eastern Hall of Fame.

For the past year she has served as a graduate assistant in the division of publicity and publications, where she worked mainly with the news bureau.

Dr. Rowlett, professor of industrial arts, will coordinate all research activities on campus and the standardized testing program.

A native of Texas, Dr. Rowlett received both the B.S. and M.S. degrees in industrial arts at North Texas State University and the Ed. D. degree from the University of Illinois.

He will be assisting faculty and staff members in planning research proposals and securing funds for research grants, and he will also coordinate the entire standardized college-testing program from the freshman through the graduate level.

FLAG-RAISING AT EASTERN - A rainy flag-raising Friday morning officially marked the beginning of another school year at Eastern. Three flags—the United States, the Commonwealth and the College—were raised in front of the newly-completed Alumni Coliseum.

Eastern Using 4-Point System

On September 1 Eastern joined with other state colleges in adoption of the four point system.

Dr. Charles Ambrose, dean of admissions and registrar, explains the movement as "part of the attempt being made to correlate the record methods used by the public colleges of Kentucky so that a transferring student will not become confused and lose hours."

Dean Ambrose, serving his second year in his present capacity, is responsible for the development of the new registration program and the more rigid entrance requirements that have been set up in order to help Eastern attain higher educational standards.

Since the four point system has been in effect, the number of grade points set forth by the regulations have been changed so that an A is given the value of four points, B three points, C two points, D one point, and an F no points. The classification of students has also been changed so that a sophomore requires thirty hours, a junior sixty hours, and a senior ninety hours.

When the four point system the scholarship requirements are slightly different—in that any freshman or sophomore student failing to make an average standing of 1.6 for the semester will be placed on probation for the next semester for which he enrolls. If during the probation period he fails to make an average standing of at least 1.6, he may be dropped from the college. Any junior or senior failing to maintain an average standing of 2.00 will be placed on probation for the next semester for which he enrolls, and if he fails to secure a cumulative average standing of 2.00 during the probation period, he may also be dropped from the school records.

Dean Ambrose explains that all good colleges are now on the four point system, and that in reality there is no difference in the new system from the old except mathematically.

When most dollar pens are out of ink the Scripto Wordmaster*refill has enough left for a term paper

Just about the time you figure your Wordmaster should be running out of ink, unscrew the cap. The new see-thru refill says in no uncertain terms that you've got enough ink left to go on writing for quite a while. You shouldn't be surprised. For even though Wordmaster is slim and streamlined, it has a much larger ink capacity than ordinary dollar pens. And that makes it just about the most inexpensive dollar pen around.

By the way... you can get a handsome matching pencil to go along with your Wordmaster. And that's only a dollar, too.

far night play, "Turkey" Hughes Baseball Field; and a woman's hockey field—all new facilities. Hanger stadium is located within a short distance of the coliseum.

Another dedication is planned for Friday, when the Central Kentucky Education Association holds its annual meeting. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale will be the main speaker during the convention meeting.

The Eastern-Louisville basketball game on Dec. 4 will be the dedication game for the arena.

Central University
Ceremonies honoring the founding of Central University, which existed on the present site of Eastern will also take place Monday.

Born out of a schism between the northern and southern Presbyterian churches during the Civil War, Central University was established as a southern Presbyterian denominational school on Sept. 25, 1874.

A liberal arts college and preparatory school, Central offered both primary and intermediate grade work and a normal course for the training of teachers.

Forty years after the action of the General Assembly, which finally resulted in the break between the northern and southern Presbyterians, the group was unified, and Central University became the property of Centre College in Danville.

Five years after the departure of Central, the state legislature established two normal colleges—Eastern Kentucky State Normal School at Richmond, and Western Kentucky State Normal School at Bowling Green.

In the early nineties, Central became co-educational of a limited bases. However, the plan was regarded so favorably that the institution was made entirely co-educational in 1898.
