MAROONS ON EVE OF DEBUT

Meet Centre at Danville Saturday; Strong Team in Prospect

BACKS LOOK PROMISING

For three weeks the Maroon football warriors have been plugging along with great determination. Tomorrow the Hembree team meet the Colonels of Centre College at Danville.

With the opening of school, Al Pieh, Beck Combs, Henry Triplett, Ralph Gentry and Buck Hurst reported to Coach Hembree and received uniforms. Al and Ralph will add much zip to the backfield. Al has been calling signals for several days and is getting better day by day. Gentry has been running at fullback position and is looking greater than ever. Pieh, Gentry, Brock, Saufley and Guy, headed by Captain Jesse Moberly, will go to make up one of the hardest hitting and running backfields that Eastern has ever had. It will be worth your time to see them gallop over the gridiron. Combs and Triplett have been working at the tackle positions. They should develop into a great pair with Combs leading. Buck has been working at center and his experience there as a high school player has been telling.

The backfield hopes were somewhat jarred when Roy Cosby, better known as Josh Cosby, found it necessary to drop out of school. Josh was developing into a real back and his withdrawal a long way in building a team morale.

From early indications Eastern will be represented by one of the strongest, if not the strongest, teams in the history of football here. The initial team will be stronger than last year's team, but at present seasoned reserves are not very plentiful.

The work last week was a continuation of the week before with signal practice mixed in and a short scrimmage at the end of the week to perfect the plays. The work this week has consisted of signal practice with much stress on defensive work, especially a defense for a passing attack.

The starting lineup is not definitely known. Coach Hembree will not give out the starting eleven until game time. But work this week indicates the following men will likely face the Colonels when the starting whistle is sounded: Nard, right end; Clayton or Dial, left end; Triplett and Combs, tackles; Crace or Clouse, right guard; Hamilton or Clifton, left guard; Pieh, quarter; Captain Moberly and Saufley or Brock, halves, Gentry, fullback.

The first home game will be October 8, with Union College furnishing the opposition. By that time the bleachers will be in place and there will be seats for everyone. The student body should turn out en masse to this and all home games. They should arrange themselves in such a manner that they will be able to make the most of their cheering ability.

The open date, October 29, has been filled with Tusculum College, Greenville, Tennessee, to be played there. This game completes, probably, the hardest schedule that any Maroon team has ever faced.

BOOKS

"Books are boats loaded with cargoes of ideas, the most valuable goods and vital wealth in the world. They come floating down the stream of time, it may be from distant days and far lands and various climes, and bring us a freight infinitely more precious than the silks of India, or the spices of Arabia, or all the ivory and diamonds and gold of Africa. Yet they are so plentiful and cheap that no one is so poor but may be rich in this treasure."—James H. Snowden.

TRAINING IN MUSIC GIVEN

Free Instrumental Instruction Offered Those Interested in Band Work

MISS TELFORD BACK

The department of music at Eastern is prepared this year to offer quite a number of activities for students interested in this line of work. Miss Brown E. Telford has returned after a year's leave of absence and will resume her duties as teacher of piano. Miss Telford in addition to being a very capable pianist and harpist, has had unusual success as a teacher.

Miss Jane Campbell will again have charge of the orchestra and band work and the work in music in the Training School. A large group of students are expected to enroll for the free instrumental instruction. Eastern is one of a very few schools that offers free instrumental instruction in instruments of the orchestra and band and in addition furnishes free use of these instruments where needed.

Classes in Music Appreciation, Music for Primary Grades, Music for Upper Grades and Music for the Rural School in addition to a class for Music Supervisors are organized and well under way with a very good enrollment in each class. This work is in charge of Mr. John Orr Stewart, Jr., head of the Music Department, who also has charge of the different choral organizations in the school.

The total enrollment for last year in the music department was over five hundred and it is expected that this year's total enrollment will even exceed that of last year.

The Wednesday chapel programs, as in the past, will be in charge of the music department and will consist of special numbers, both vocal and instrumental, community singing, orchestral selections, programs by the music classes and by pupils from the Training School.

A COMPASS

Four things a man must learn to do if he would make his record true:
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellowmen sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and heaven securely.
—Henry Van Dyke.

MANY SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS

Five Literary Societies and Numerous Other Interesting Clubs

OFFER OPPORTUNITIES

Eastern has many organizations that are worthy of consideration. There are five literary societies, namely, Horace Mann, Ruric Nevel Roark, Men's Club, Neon Krypton and the Rural Life Club. In addition to the societies there is the Little Theatre Club, Young Women's Christian Association, Home Economics Club, County Clubs and Madrigal Club. The Horace Mann and the Neon Krypton Literary Societies are maintained exclusively for the men and women of the college. The Ruric Nevel Roark Society is a normal school society, named for the president of Eastern.

The Rural Life Club is for those students, both normal and college, who are interested in rural life and the many problems facing the rural people.

The Young Women's Christian Association is one of the largest organizations on the campus. It meets every Sunday evening in a devotional service. This organization is worthy of any young woman's special attention.

The Madrigal Club of Eastern is an organization composed of female voices selected by Director of Music, Mr. Stewart. Applications are received at the beginning of the school year and arrangements made for an individual tryout. This club usually gives one or two programs during the year besides taking a leading part in all musical programs.

The Commerce Club is a new organization at Eastern. Mr. Lawrence, head of the Commercial Department, was active in organizing such a club last year. Any student who is taking a commercial course may become a member of this club. Last year the Commerce Club gave a very delightful program in the form of a minstrel.

Many of the counties organize the students from their counties into a County Club. These clubs endeavor to bring the students into closer contact.

The Little Theatre Club at Eastern is a member of a National Club. It is somewhat of an exclusive organization. The object is to promote the theatrical ability of any students that can meet the entrance requirements. Applicants are allowed a tryout two or three times a year.

The Home Economics Club is for those girls studying home economics. Many and varied programs are presented by this club.

Every student that comes to Eastern should become a member of at least one of these clubs. It will not only bring you in contact with more people, but will give you a chance to do some things that you would not otherwise do.

GOES TO LOUISVILLE

Miss Ollie Morgan, a former student at Eastern, and who for some time has been in charge of the music in the Richmond, Ky., schools, has taken a position as primary music supervisor in the Louisville schools.

Miss Morgan has taken considerable work in music at Eastern and for two seasons was a member of the Madrigal Club, serving as president of the club the last year she was a student here. Her many friends at Eastern and in Richmond will be pleased to learn of this deserved promotion. Miss Morgan's home is at Harrodsburg.

TUBERCULOSIS CLINIC

The health nurse arranged for ten persons in southern Madison county to get to the tuberculosis clinic last week. The clinic is free and a thorough examination for tuberculosis is given. This affords a long sought chance to many who suspect they may have tuberculosis but who have not known just where to get a thorough examination free. Out of the ten who came to the clinic, three were found to have active tuberculosis, one was found to have a serious goiter condition requiring immediate treatment, two with special eye examination necessary, one with serious condition of teeth. Only three were pronounced O. K.

The next clinic will be on Tuesday, October 11. Any person wishing to go call the health nurse about it.

TO SEE WORLD'S SERIES

Among the thirty-two baseball fans who won the free trip, offered by the Courier-Journal, to the first two games of the world's series was Mr. J. Harold Hieronymous, of Eastern.

During his summer vacation Harold put his knowledge of baseball players on a paying basis by selecting the same All-American team that was chosen by Babe Ruth. He submitted only two combinations.

Harold was in the normal school last year but he is back this year and is doing college work.

As he has a heavy schedule, he plans to make the trip as quickly as possible so that he can get back to his school work. While he is greatly interested in the batting averages of the baseball players, he does not want his own to fall too low.

It is unknown who will pinch hit for him while he is away.

School Spirit is Better than "Pep"

Pep is enthusiasm manufactured out of thin air for special occasions by cheer leaders, brass bands, hand-clapping, bass lungs, hurrahs, and hullabaloo. It lacks foundation. It begins when the cheer leader mounts his stand, and ends with the last hurrah. It is temporary, sickly, artificial, insincere, faint-hearted, and a makeshift for something better. A bum school can stir up enough pep to cheer a bum team. But the pep dies at the close of the bum game.

School spirit, however, is enthusiasm standing square on two solid pillars. These are: a worthy school and a worthy team; a school's belief in its team, and a team worth believing in. It takes both. School spirit runs deep; is permanent; is present in defeat; doesn't recognize defeat, even, because it is built on an undefeatable something—the everlasting, dogged, driving grit, and the honorable integrity of a four-square team.

A second-rate student body can, with a brass band, stir up pep for an athlete that shows a white feather, an athlete that shirks practice in the strenuous day-to-day preliminary training, an athlete who loafs thru school, specializes in "snap courses," drifts along the ineligible F line, enters every fall term and then has an urgent call elsewhere after Thanksgiving. A second-rate school can support, in a fashion, a team of such players. A first-rate school never will.

But a good school will, inevitably, rally to a team that shows superior stuff. When good work is done, reward comes.

If Lindbergh had waited for applause to hit the line he would still be carrying mail to St. Louis. He hit the line first, and applause followed. He

HEAR LECTURE BY C. M. RIPLEY

U. S. BEHIND IN AIR

Through the co-operation of the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., the students and faculty members of Eastern had a most delightful hour at assembly Thursday, Sept. 29, Mr. Charles M. Ripley gave his intensely interesting illustrated lecture on "The Romance of Power." Mr. Ripley has gained his information and secured his pictures from travels in various parts of the world. The land, the seas, and the air have been searched by Mr. Ripley in his efforts to gain the desired information for his lecture.

Pictures were shown of the way wheat is harvested and made ready for bread in India by use of oxen, transportation by push carts in China, plowing with elephants in Africa, and women washing clothes in canals in Europe. This was contrasted with modern methods used in the United States.

"In India," Mr. Ripley said, "women carry iron ore from the mines for nine cents a day, while in the United States the ore is lifted from the mines near the Great Lakes by huge power machines."

"We are paid for what we produce and not because we work hard," Mr. Ripley said, "and this is the reason wage earners receive more for their work in the United States than in any other country in the world."

Our standard of living was contrasted with that of other nations and Mr. Ripley said that ours is much higher because a person could consume only in proportion to what he produced. "When men did the work of steam they could produce but very little," Mr. Ripley said.

Mr. Ripley said that the United States uses more electrical power than the rest of the world. In the countries where Mr. Ripley has traveled and studied conditions, he says: "They are paralyzed by tradition. There is a mental attitude the people can't get away from. If these people are asked why they do not change their methods of doing certain things they reply: 'But we've always done it this way.'"

The United States is going forward rapidly in the economics of standardization and large scale production, Mr. Ripley said. In Chicago there is only one light company to furnish the city lights, but in London there are sixty companies, yet Chicago uses twice as much light from this one company as London does from the sixty.

Europe surpasses the United States in the use of commercial airplanes, Mr. Ripley said. Between London and Amsterdam there are three regular passenger planes each way every day.

Mr. Ripley said that there are twenty-one million automobiles in the United States, but less than six million in the rest of the world. Most of these, he explained, were made in the United States. "In Europe," said Mr. Ripley, "popular cars are not big, and big cars are not popular."

Mr. Ripley said that in Holland there are very few automobiles, but there were 700,000 bicycles.

showed himself a man, as well, and applause increased ten fold. No cheer leader was needed in Paris when Lindbergh crossed goal.

Eastern has this year some good men, men of scholarship and character, as well as gridiron prowess. Shall there be for them school spirit or only spasmodic pep? Have we a first-rate school?

The Progress

The Progress wishes to take this opportunity to extend a welcome to the new students and renew its greetings to the old students.

Six years ago the first school paper saw the light of day. It has continued to keep pace with the progress of the school until, today, it is recognized as the official organ of the student body and a vital part of the school organization.

Heretofore the paper has been published thru the regular school year. Last summer it was continued thru-out the regular summer school. Starting with the summer school the school administration adopted a new policy concerning the paper. All students are to receive it free of cost. The school officials want you to have the paper because it is yours and they feel that you need it.

As yet the staff has not been fully organized. By the next issue it should be organized. Any and all students interested in such work should see the editor or faculty advisor and make yourself known.

Anything you have to contribute that is of interest to the students, whether or not you care to become a member of the staff, will be accepted. Any constructive criticism will be accepted and appreciated. It is hoped that every student will take a personal interest in THEIR paper and help make it better than ever.

Registration

There are two periods of each school year which are not looked forward to with joy by faculty members and old students at Eastern. These two periods are none other than registration in the fall and again at the beginning of the second semester. After one siege of this thing called "registration" even new students begin to feel very old.

Registration was speeded up somewhat this fall by changes which were inaugurated for the first time at Eastern. Even with the noble efforts that were put forth by those planning for the opening days of school there were decided holdups along the line.

The first semester is just now starting, yet students on the campus are lamenting the fact that it will be only seventeen more weeks until registration for the second semester will start. Students and faculty alike dread to see the long lines of slowly moving individuals each registration day. It is vexing to old students, heartbreaking to the homesick lad or lassie who is at Eastern for the first time, and annoying to faculty members.

It seems that it would be a great help to all concerned if the old students on the grounds, who expect to be here the second semester could have a chance to register before the new students arrive. If courses to be offered the second semester could be made available several days in advance of the close of the present semester students should be able to make out their own schedules and present them for approval.

Those desiring to see the college physician can do so by going to the east room of the agriculture building during regular office hours:

Normal School Library

Since the library building has been finished the basement rooms have been used as class rooms, excepting one room on the east end of the building. Because of the growth of the school it was found that more room for library work must be provided. At the beginning of the second semester of last year one of the large class rooms of the basement was converted into a reference room.

The trend toward a standard four year college has thrown the Normal School in the background. Many, or nearly all of the new books coming into the library, are of college rank. Because of this it was decided that a Normal School library should be encouraged.

Last summer a partition was removed and two of the class rooms thrown together on the south side of the basement. This room will be converted into a Normal School library room. It will have a two fold purpose. First, it is hoped that a model high school library may be established. Then those students preparing to teach in high schools will have a chance to see, at first hand, the books that should be in such a library. Second, it is hoped, by moving the books that will be used by the Normal School to this room, that the congestion will be relieved upstairs.

With this arrangement Eastern will have one of the best organized libraries in the state. In one section of the basement will be found the Juvenile library. Next to it will be the Normal School library. Then upstairs will be the College library. Each will be complete within itself and every effort will be made to make each a model library.

213 Enrolled in Training School

Mr. Edwards, director of the Training School, announced Monday that the enrollment at the Training School is the largest in its history, with an enrollment of 213 including 69 Junior High students.

Mr. Edwards has a corps of nine critic teachers in the Training School and four in the rural schools with 44 student teachers enrolled to do practice teaching. The critic teachers are as follows: First grade, Miss May Hanson; second grade, Miss Virginia Story; third grade, Miss Maude Taylor; fourth grade, Miss Margaret Lingens; fifth grade, Miss Rebecca Thompson; sixth grade, Mrs. Julian Tyng; seventh grade, Miss Cora Lee; eighth grade, Miss Ruby Rush; ninth grade, Miss Rachel Acree.

Miss Katie Carpenter and Miss Emily Jones are at Cavanaugh with an enrollment of 59. Mrs. Emma Y. Case and Miss Minerva Pigg are at Green's Chapel with an enrollment of 65.

An extensive health program will be undertaken by the Training School this year. All students will have a medical and dental examination shortly after school opens. Weight charts will be kept with a monthly record of each child's weight. At the end of the year each record will be gone over in an attempt to check the child's progress. In addition to all this, it is hoped that a clinic will be established to take care of any and all defects.

STEWART VISITS SCHOOLS

Returning from his vacation spent in northern Kentucky and Ohio, Mr. John Orr Stewart, Jr., head of the department of music at Eastern, spent several days in visiting the schools of Covington and Ft. Thomas, Kentucky. Among former students of Eastern whom Mr. Stewart had the opportunity to see were Miss Louise Waters, Miss Mary Margaret Richer, Miss Ramona Mathewson, Miss Katherine Morgan, Mr. Russell Alexander. The first two named are teaching in the Ft. Thomas schools and the latter in the Covington schools.

The schools at both places were operating on a half day schedule due to the oppressive heat and because of this Mr. Stewart was unable to visit a number of schools he had planned to see.

Needless to state, all of Eastern's former students seen and those heard from were doing splendid work and reflecting great credit on the school.

Prof. Smith Plans Trip for Students

One of the most important phases of class work with Professor Smith is the delightful trips that he is always planning. He makes it a point to utilize every Saturday, or many of them, in visiting many places of interest in this section of the state. His trips usually have a twofold purpose. First, to study nature; second, to see many of the beautiful places of interest that this section of Kentucky has to offer.

Saturday, October 1, will be the first trip of the fall. Professor Smith has added a third attraction to this trip, that is a football game. Starting early Saturday morning, as many as can make arrangements to make the trip will leave here, by cars, for Dix River Dam. Some little time will be spent there, seeing the many interesting things that are to be found about the artificial lake. From there all will go to High Bridge where lunch will likely be served. Immediately after that the third and extra attraction will be offered in the form of a trip to Danville to see the Maroon football warriors engage the Colonels of Centre College in their opening football game. The return trip to Richmond will be from Danville immediately after the game.

You that haven't arranged to make this trip, should do so. You will not only have a chance to see the Maroons open their football season against Centre, but you will have a chance to see one of the largest dams in the county as well as what is said to be the highest railroad bridge in the world.

PERSONALS

Of those old students that are not at Eastern this year we learn that Sadie Routenberg, Harold Bennett, Bill Mansfield, James Owenby and Charlie Cobb are at State this year.

Misses Hazel Broadus, Margaret Scott and Nell Pelphrey spent the week end in Lancaster at their respective homes.

Mrs. Virgil Tarter, formerly Miss Mabel Harnos, who is teaching near her home in Whitley county, was here this week end to be with her husband, who is in school here.

Those students who secured rooms in new Burnam should be adept in moving, as some have moved three times already. These students are using the rooms in Burnam and Sullivan, that have not been taken by students, till their rooms are finished.

Miss Edna Minter spent the week end at her home.

The B. Y. P. U. of Richmond elected its officers Sunday night. Quite a few of these officers were Eastern students. Among these were the following: Charles Alfred, president; Hollis Matherly, vice president; Jennie Ramsey, secretary; Chester Alexander, Bible reader; Mildred White, corresponding secretary; Ira Bell, second group leader; Nell Pelphrey, third group leader, and Halden Durr, group captain.

Miss Lyda Bales, who attended Eastern the past two years, was at home this week end. She is teaching school in Covington this year.

Mr. Dorland Coates, who graduated from Eastern this year and is now principal at Buckeye school near Lancaster, was at home this week end.

Miss Lena Henry, of Lancaster, has been confined to her room for several days on account of a small-pox vaccination.

Miss Pearl Ignight, of Cincinnati, with two friends, Mr. Kurk and Miss Kurk, were guests of Miss Mary Hutchcraft Sunday. Miss Ignight was at Eastern last year.

How Maroon Men Spent their Vacation

It is always interesting to know what football players do thru the summer vacation. In light of this fact, a word or two will be used in attempting to give you some idea as to what the Maroon football players were doing last summer. The men mentioned below are from last year's squad, excepting Al Pieh, who was here most of the year.

Captain Moberly, stayed in summer school, spent two weeks at Camp Knox with the local student Hospital Corps and three weeks working for the Kentucky Utilities Company.

Combs was at his home in Knott county all summer. About six weeks was spent in teaching before he decided to come back to school.

Crase spent part of the spring and summer working in Dayton, Ohio. He spent two weeks with the Hospital Corps in Camp Knox.

Hamilton stayed in summer school and spent two weeks at Camp Knox.

Clayton was somewhat of a rambler. He, with three other boys, toured the great open spaces of the west. Part of his summer was spent with a brother in Texas.

Clouse was in summer school. After school was out he spent some time in spreading paint for his father.

Gentry worked here in Richmond.

Pieh stayed for the first half of summer school. The last half of the summer was spent on the Great Lakes.

Dial spent most of the summer working in Detroit. The last four weeks before coming back to school was spent on his father's farm in West Virginia.

Half of the literary world doesn't know how the other half sells its stuff.

EASTERN HAS HOSPITAL UNIT

National Guard Outfit Composed of Eastern Students; Weekly Drill

IS PLEASANT DIVISION

For several months there has been a local hospital company of the Kentucky National Guards in Richmond. This company is made up of local town boys.

Last year a hospital unit that had been stationed at Winchester was mustered out. Some of the local doctors that had had active army service asked that the equipment, belonging to the Winchester company, be transferred to Richmond and permission granted to organize a hospital corps composed of students from the Teachers College.

This request was granted and a company was organized last winter. Captain Floyd, one of the local physicians, was made commanding officer. Our own Dr. Scudder and Coach Hembree were commissioned as captains. Outside of one or two more captains and a sergeant or two the whole company is made up of school boys.

The company meets for one hour drill every Wednesday night. The members of the outfit receive regular army pay for the time spent in drilling.

About the first of August the company was ordered to Camp Knox for a period of two weeks. The two weeks were spent in a regular army way. All the boys who attended camp said that every minute of the time spent there was of real value and that all had a fine time.

Any boy that cares to take advantage of the chance to live the life of a soldier, for at least one hour each week, as well as the pay for the time spent in drilling, should have a talk with Captain Hembree or Captain Scudder. Either of these men will be able to give you information you will want to know about the unit.

CLARK AT CHAPEL

On invitation of President T. J. Coates, Rev. W. L. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist church, appeared at the student assembly last Friday morning. Rev. Clark spoke for a few minutes, extending an invitation to the student body and faculty to attend, not only his church, but any of the churches in town.

Upon introduction by Rev. Clark, Mrs. Sory sang for the students. Immediately after the song, Rev. J. C. Patty was introduced. Rev. Patty talked for a few minutes on pleasing God. He placed much stress on the fact that we owe all to God and it is our bound duty to do every thing within our power to please Him.

Rev. Patty's home is in Nashville, Tennessee. He has been here for several days assisting Rev. Clark in a series of meetings.

COMMERCE DEPARTMENT HAS NEW INSTRUCTOR

Miss Edith G. Ford, Alexandria, Louisiana, and Washington, D. C., has arrived to teach in the Department of Commerce. She will teach shorthand and typewriting in both the normal and the college.

Miss Ford is a graduate of George Washington University and of the Bowling Green Business University and has had teaching experience in some of the largest high schools in the south. Her typewriting students made an unusual record in the state contest in North Carolina.

The Commerce Club, which did some splendid work last year, will organize in a few days. All students taking one or more subjects in the department, or who have courses in the department, are eligible for membership. Hollis Matherly, president second semester last year, is back and will call a meeting soon.

FACTS ABOUT EASTERN

Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College was established in 1906 as a co-educational institution. It is maintained by the state for the training of prospective teachers. It is located on the south side of the city of Richmond.

Eastern's campus was formerly occupied by Central University, now Centre College of Danville. Fifty acres of beautiful blue grass dotted with many shade trees go to make up Eastern's campus—one of the most beautiful spots in Central Kentucky.

The foothills of the Cumberland Mountains border the eastern horizon while the fertile blue grass county rolls away to the west and north.

Eastern is now a standard four year college offering a degree in addition to four years of normal or secondary work. Seventeen buildings will be found on the campus. The girls' new dormitory that is being completed will be one of the largest and most modern dormitories in the south.

WORKING THEIR WAY

A total of $25,500,000 was earned last year by students in 408 colleges and universities in the United States. Of the entire enrollment in these institutions thirty-nine per cent were partially or wholly self-supporting. Of students in co-educational institutions forty-four per cent are working their way. A third of the students in men's colleges and a sixth of the students in women's colleges are earning at least a part of their expenses. Of the 600 colleges embraced in the survey only twenty-seven reported no student earnings during the school year. Journal of Education.

WHAT IS A FRESHMAN?

Anyone who can change from a self-respecting, worldly-wise, fluent person to a blank-faced, puzzled dependent in one day must surely possess some unfathomable power of transformation.

Surley no one ever delighted in such strange occupations as carrying any thing from books to shoelaces to any part of any building at any time merely for the sake of exercise, or walking past one door to go in another for a few more cubic inches of air. Then it seems very queer that busy young men and women should like to wear perfectly useless articles of clothing such as caps the size of saucers or green cloth bracelets when these things must take at least three minutes valuable time for adjustment.

A freshman is what a high school senior wants to be. A freshman is anyone who thinks all bells worse than real fire alarms and all classrooms places of torture. A freshman is what a senior was one time.

YESTERDAY'S FRESHMEN

There once was a freshman as bloomingly green
As the leaves of the tulip tree.
She turned out her light to the minute of ten;
She was cautious, as cautious could be.

Broke records in running to eat;
The sound of the bell was the pistol crack sharp;
The hall was the track for her feet.

Quite softly she breathes for the Council might hear;
On schedules and rules she did dote.
She asked questions galore—"Who?"
"Why?" and "What for?"
And letters and letters she wrote.

And now, verdant freshman, who's read to this point,
This poem is not about you;
Take heart! That freshman's a senior girl now
Who gives you advice what to do!

A license in time saves a fine.
One transformer doesn't make a super-set.

Stateland Farm, renamed New Stateland, was purchased in 1923, adding 160 acres to the campus. It is used for experimental purposes. The buildings and grounds, including New Stateland, are valued at about $1,500,000.
