EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Today's Irritations

In an attempt to analyze the components of reality as well as those of the abstract, the knowledge seekers tend to overlook the finer points of life. Many pet peeves have managed to find their way into the minds and hearts of the semi-conscientious beings. Glaringly included among them is the seeming unknowingness of our student body as to what they should do when the Color Guard begins to cross the playing field or floor at a sports event.

It has been the practice, set in years gone by . . . by people long since past, for the spectators to rise as the symbol holders move. Respect for the traditions of the United States flag is a part of every sports event. It is as much a part of the event as the invocation and the National Anthem . . . it marks the beginning.

Hand in hand with this can be found another peeve which deals with the singing of the Alma Mater . . . Not enough persons know the school song and yet many of these who don't know it insist that Eastern needs and deserves more school spirit from the student body. Why must people just offer constant gripes instead of giving themselves to the solution of the issue?

Barbed wire fences are an asset to some plots of land. With all the recent construction and digging, Eastern is now in the process of arranging new vegetation. Fences don't have to be the answer in a college community in order that grass might be allowed to reach its full glory in the spring. They do, however, serve as perfect points of departure for verbal combat.

Guest Editorial . . .

The Campus Atmosphere . . .

(Ed. Note: This is submitted by Mr. Richard G. Chrisman, head of the Economics Department.)

There is a tendency for many students to become interested in, and highly proficient in, one or two areas of knowledge. Although this type of specialization plays a very important role in our society, if we are not careful, the process of specialization will turn out to be a process of inhibition. It could mean the neglect of important aspects of education development and the failure to obtain the balance and perspective needed to adjust to a rapidly changing culture. We should be able to relate our specialties to the many continuing problems which we all have in common.

It seems then that we owe it to ourselves and to society to become well acquainted with the big problems of contemporary life—problems with which man is not only confronted today, but has coped with in the past and will continue to face in the future. These are persistent human problems. There is need for clearer understanding of these problems and for a lot of good hard straight thinking about the many issues pertaining to them.

These issues should become subjects of formal and informal discussion, debate, forums, and general conversation. Students should want to be challenged in their preconceptions and thoughts. They should welcome the stimulation to their thinking that comes from being confronted with differences. They should welcome opportunities to defend their present points of view and perhaps to make modifications as the evidence warrants. We all should make the greatest use of the freedom to discuss ideas—not just ideas which everyone accepts, but popular ideas. In Russia there is freedom to discuss as long as the ideas conform to the present party line. The real test of freedom of ideas is the freedom to be unpopular and the freedom to be critical. After all, America was born of revolt, flourished on dissent, and became great through experimentation. From the beginning, Americans have known that there were new worlds to conquer, new truths to be discovered. The heart of democracy is independent criticism; the basic freedom is freedom of thought and expression.

It is a fact that every idea, which we now accept as right and proper, ideas such as democracy, capitalism, and Christianity, were all highly controversial and unpopular at one time. Some individuals and some groups had to lead the way. The best answers to the big questions that are yet unanswered will come from students like you who apply their intelligence in seeking the truth.

If such an academic atmosphere is developed on the Eastern campus, a more invigorating air could not be inhaled. In such a climate will be formulated the finest value-judgements. Such a climate offers the greatest hope of realizing our most cherished ideals.

Let's Talk It Over

WITH JIM FARRIS

Is a college education really important? If one were asked this question, he would probably answer, "Yes." But, has he really thought why he said "Yes." Here are some statistics which may help us understand just why a college education is not only important, but imperative in a competitive society.

At this time in history, men and women of high ability and advanced training are in demand on a very wide scale. This demand is an inevitable consequence of our state of development as a society. Education talent is very much in demand.

A person cannot enter most of the professions without advanced training on a college level. In the business world about 90 per cent of all college graduates rise to responsible positions.

A college education was a luxury in the past; whereas, now it is a necessity. Many companies in the United States today do not accept job applications from those who have no college training.

In 1900 there were only 168,000 students enrolled in American colleges. Today there are about 3,500,000. It has been estimated that by 1975, there will be 5,000,000 college graduates in the United States.

Men who have graduated from college earn 88 per cent more money on the average than men whose education stopped at the high school level, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. During a lifetime, this difference amounts to approximately $100,000 more per man. Incidentally, in 1958 the Bureau of the Census estimated the life-time earning power of a man with four or more years of college to be about $350,000. The 1949 figure was $268,000.

Of equal importance with the dollar incomes or the "responsible position," is the enjoyment that comes with a greater appreciation for the world's culture. This type of appreciation is achieved most quickly through a formal college education.

A college education is something not merely important for the male populus. Girls benefit from a college education, whether they want a business or professional career or full-time domestic career of housewife and mother.

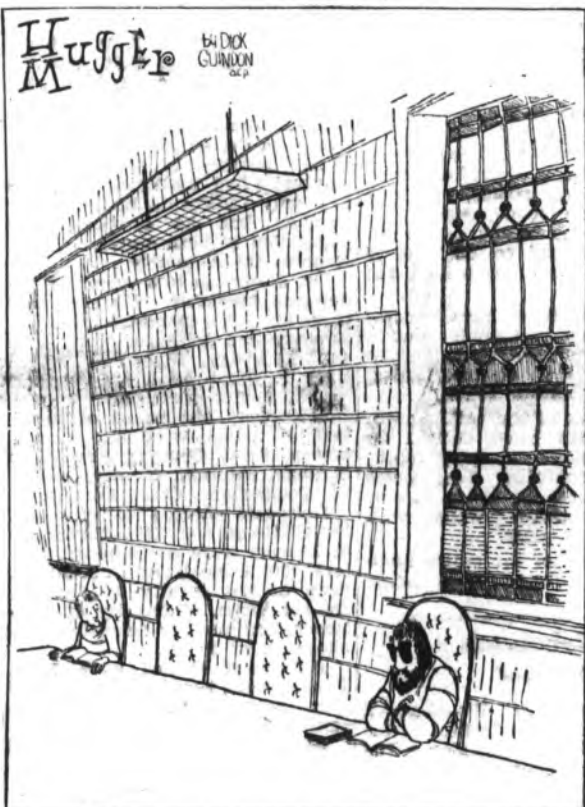

The Commission on the Education of Women, a division of the American Council of Education, expressed this opinion. "A college education is more important to today's women than ever before in history—whether their careers lie in or outside of the house."

The commission's report added that even though more and more girls are getting married in their teens these days, economic reasons will force most of them to hold down full or part-time jobs outside their homes for 25 years of their lives. The jobs held will hinge largely on education backgrounds.

Everyone agrees that motivation is a powerful ingredient in performance. From these few facts and ideas presented, you may have a clearer picture why we should strive to do our best while here at Eastern.

Remember, each of us wants standards and meaning in our lives. When we raise our sights, strive for excellence, and dedicate ourselves to the highest goals of our society, we are enrolling in an ancient and meaningful cause—the age-old struggle of man to realize the best that is in him.

The wealth of our nation consists, more than in anything else, in the number of superior men that it produces.

Dear Editor,

If only six of the "Maroons" were to compete against the full Middle Tennessee squad Saturday afternoon Eastern's chance for success would be narrowed considerably—as is narrowed the chance for a successful homecoming parade if only fifty per cent of the student organizations participate.

Eastern's campus has over forty student organizations. In last year's homecoming parade only nineteen of these were represented by floats. Why the small turnout for such an important event? Money is not the answer as Richmond businessmen are liberal in making donations toward the building of floats in exchange for advertisement. Lack of ability should not even be mentioned on a college campus. Good club organization alleviates the problem of no workers. Floats should not present a perplexing situation with such a versatile theme as "The Old South". Let us dwell for a moment on lack of enthusiasm. Could it be that it is more sport to sit around and complain about nothing to do than to seize this opportune moment and really contribute to the spirit of our school? Judging from the past, it would seem that time and effort stand hand in hand as a threat to school spirit. EFFORT is the stronger enemy with time as a weaker excuse to fall back on. Other people and organizations find the time and make the effort to contribute toward a successful homecoming. Are you doing your part?

THE KYMA CLUB INVITES ALL CLUBS TO JOIN THEM IN MAKING THIS HOME COMING THE BIGGEST AND BEST YET!

Suzanne Hale, President, KYMA Club

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the men of Eastern Kentucky State College, I would like to invite the administration over to any one of our dorms to watch the World Series with us. We are really going to have a good time watching TV, popping popcorn, drinking milk, and rooting our favorite team on.

This sounds pretty nice I know, but there is only one little catch to the invitation: we don't have a TV, only the popcorn and milk. If you do come, please bring a TV with you and we will be glad to furnish the rest.

I know as well as the other boys that you all will be too busy to come to our party, so please just send the TV.

Being without a TV is really going to be rough on us this week. We will be forced to walk down to Speck's or the Starlight to see the Series. This in turn will cause us to buy beer while we watch the game . . . which in turn will cause us to get a little high or something. When this happens, we will never know who in HADES won the game for the day.

Oh, well, so is life. Sincerely,

The Old Senior
P.S. Please, someone, send us a little old TV set so we won't have to walk so far and drink so much.

Eastern's four-year industrial arts program began in the early twenties. It has been respected, since then, as one of the outstanding programs in the nation. The first head was N. G. Deniston.

TV Or Not TV—The Question

Opinions Vary From Fresh To Graduate

By Ronnie Wolfe

With the removal of the television sets from the boys' dorms, a major catastrophe as far as the male populus is concerned, many students have voiced their opinions pro and con.

The sets were removed because of the disrespect which the boys showed for the TV rooms. However arguments to have the sets turned on can be heard in nearly every room.

Another freshman, Johnny Holmes from Louisville, feels that "On weekends after one finishes studying, there isn't much to do except to watch TV." His roommates, Don Stapp and Larry Raymer, also Louisvillians, agreed and stated that after several hours of studying, a TV program is great relaxation.

Harold Combs, a freshman from Butler, takes the financial point of view. "A freshman has to watch his expenses, and a TV would cut down on downtown entertainment," he said.

Jon Draud, a graduate student from Southgate, lived in the dorms when TV's were present. "I feel as though it is necessary and imperative that the male dorms should be given access to a television," he said. "It is an equitable act since the fairer sex has been given this privilege. It seems to be a fine gesture in respect to relaxation and the accessibility to sporting events, particularly the World Series."

Some of the boys definitely felt that the sets should not be returned. Hugh Bradford, a senior from Raceand, voiced an emphatic "NO!" When they were here, the place was always in a disorderly state.

Pro or con, many hours of enjoyment are to be lost because a small group of students were careless.

John Thomas, a junior from Geneva, Indiana, says that bringing the TV's back would only lead to repetition of the same old problem. "I would rather see a TV room in the Keen Johnson S.U.B. than to have them in the dorms; but by all means, I feel the student body should have a TV at their disposal."

less. It's the same story: many must suffer in the punishment of a few. The boys, it seems, must be content to listen, not to watch, and wonder if Eastern has taken a step backward in the field of visual education.

In 1948 the Kentucky General Assembly removed the word "Teachers" from the name of the institution and gave the college the right to grant non-professional degrees.

In 1935 the graduate program was started at Eastern leading to the Master of Arts in Education.

Miss Mary Frances Kays, 1960 "Miss Eastern," was featured in a Courier-Journal story recently.

The story titled "Former Queens are Teachers Here," told about several young ladies who previously have won different beauty titles in the state. All these girls are teaching in the Jefferson County or Louisville school systems this fall.

Miss Kays, whose family lives at Lawrenceburg, Anderson County, is a blue-eyed, 22 year old blonde, who was graduated in education from Eastern in 1960.

One of her little girl students, out of teacher's hearing, paid Miss Kays this tribute:

"She's pretty. And I'll tell you something else. She's nice."

We're all proud of Mary, and the wonderful work she is doing. May future graduates for Eastern strive for equal accomplishment.

Maroons Zoom Into OVC With Win Over Murray

Host League Leading Middle Tennessee Tomorrow

Progress Sports Editor

Football fans have a double-barrelled incentive for attending tomorrow's Eastern Kentucky-Middle Tennessee football clash. As if the Ohio Valley Conference headlines weren't enough, with the loop lead hanging on the outcome, more than 2,000 high school musicians from 42 high schools from every section of Kentucky will be present. They will join the famed "Marching Maroons," Eastern's 99-piece marching band, directed by Nick Koenigstein, at the first annual Band Day at Eastern.

The high schoolers will arrive on the Eastern campus about 10 a.m. A downtown parade is scheduled to leave the campus at 10:30.

The youngsters will be the college's guests at a noon luncheon and they will entertain the expected capacity crowd in a halftime show, the likes of which has never been seen at Eastern.

Coach Glenn Presnell's Maroons, jubilant over their 14-13 upset of highly-touted Murray last weekend, will shoot the works in the important OVC clash. He reports that his squad should be in top physical condition for the 2 p.m. kickoff and has admitted that "We'll be hard for anyone to handle, if our injuries heal."

A capacity crowd is anticipated, but athletic director "Turkey" Hughes said that tickets would be available at the gates at 11:45 a.m. Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at the athletic office.

A week can surely make a lot of difference in the outlook upon a football season. Eastern went into the Murray game as underdog and was, according to all prognosticators, except our own Art and one Courier-Journal picker, to lose to Murray. But now, after the big 14-13 win over the Racers, the Maroons are very definitely in the conference running. A win over Middle Tennessee, the team picked along with Murray to pick up the conference marbles this year, could put Eastern in the driver's seat and make the Maroons the team to beat.

Also, a week before the game with Murray, optimism ran supreme in the Murray camp. Talk of winning the conference and bid to the Tangerine Bowl was commonplace. This was all before a fired-up, scrappy team of Maroons invaded the Racers camp and shattered those hopes.

A certain Associated Press writer may be in for a rude awakening after he said in a release, "... although unbeaten in conference play, Eastern can't be considered a title threat." A group of footballers here, Eastern and Maroon fans everywhere, are probably wondering what more is needed to become a title threat than to defeat the favorites in the conference in their own backyard. This writer is apt to find out later that he shouldn't have sold the Maroons short.

Richie Emmons, Maroon halfback, was talking to this columnist Monday and said that for eight years he had played football without any visual aid even though he does wear glasses. In the Murray game he wore contact lenses for the first time and he said, "It was great! I could see the stands, the cheerleaders, and ... the ball." Emmons, needless to say, turned in his usual fine job against Murray.

It should be called to the attention of Eastern fans that we have an OVC first this year. Chittum's punt return Saturday was the first of the year in loop play.

This corner takes this opportunity to wish the Cincinnati Reds all the luck in the world in their first World Series in 21 years. It is interesting to note that Fred Hutchinson, Cincinnati manager, was a pitcher in the 1940 World Series for the Detroit Tigers, who the Reds faced that year.

George Lee and Tom Stapleton are still leading the Maroons in rushing yardage, even though the fullback post was supposed to be Eastern's weak spot this year. Lee has carried the ball 15 times and has netted 89 yards; Stapleton has 74 yards in 15 tries. Both have caught passes from Tony Lanham good for touchdowns to help the senior quarterback in his assault on Roy Kidd's record of 11 touchdown passes in a single year.

WORLD SERIES TID-BITS

The first time the Cincinnati Reds played in a World Series, they won it in 5 out of 8 games ... but it was later discovered that the Chicago White Sox "threw" the series for the first time and he said, "It was great! I could see the stands, the cheerleaders, and ... the ball." Emmons, needless to say, turned in his usual fine job against Murray.

The Eastern Maroons pulled what may be the biggest upset in the OVC race Saturday night as they knocked off the powerful Murray Thoroughbreds, 14-13, in the Maroons' conference debut in Murray.

Kick-Off To ESC

Eastern won the toss at the start of the ball game and elected to receive. The kick by Harry Kotagides went to the goal line where it was picked up by Jimmy Chittum and returned to the Eastern 23. Three plays carried the Maroons to the 31 yard line and a kicking situation. Gene Blackwelder boomed out a 34 yard punt to give Murray the ball first and 1 on their own 3.

The ball exchanged hands twice more and the Maroons found themselves in a first and 10 situation on their own 20. On the next play Stapleton fumbled and the bobble was recovered by Murray's Bill Unyl. Murray was fast to take advantage of the situation. Charles Watkins struck off tackle twice for 13 yards. Jerry Shelton got three up the middle and Watkins carried the ball down to the Eastern one. Watkins then carried the ball into the end zone with 2:16 left in the first quarter of play and the placement by Kotagides was good to provide a 7-0 lead that held at the end of the quarter.

Second Quarter Tight

The second quarter was tightly played with the ball changing hands six times. Neither team was able to sustain a drive as both defenses were working to near perfection.

With only 16 seconds left to play in the period, Murray found themselves fourth and 16 on their 42. Jack Crider booted the ball down to the Eastern 15, where it was caught by Jimmy Chittum. Chittum started down one side line and then reversed his field, picked up beautiful blocking and streaked untouched into the Murray end zone, with not a Murray player within 20 yards of him. Dave Hatfield's kick was good and the score was knotted 7-7 at halftime.

The Maroons came back a fresh ball team after the halftime break. Hatfield's kick was returned to the 26 by Searcy. Three plays later Murray still had the ball on the 26, only now the down was fourth. Crider boomed out a punt to the Eastern 32 where the Maroons took over, first and ten. Stapleton shines.

It was then that the much talked about explosive offense of Eastern showed what it could do. Chittum skirted the right end for seven yards. Then Stapleton hit the center of the line twice to pick up the yardage for a first down. Richie Emmons hit over left tackle and picked up four.

Tony Lanham threw to Richard Carr on the Murray 42 for another first down. Then Stapleton ripped over left tackle and burst 22 yards down to the Murray 20 and a first down. Stapleton picked up five more and then Emmons got five down to the Thoroughbred 10. Stapleton was called on again and he managed two yards into the Murray forward wall, which had gone into an eight man line. Lanham then hit Stapleton in the end zone for his second touchdown pass of the year to appropriately end the drive in which the fullback had played such an important part. Hatfield's point after touchdown was good and the Maroons led 14-7.

Then a deluge of rain started that was to continue for the remainder of the game. The rain came down in sheets and in just a few minutes the entire area was drenched, making further passing attacks impossible and dangerous.

Art Picks 'Em

Dr. Litkenhous has his own system of prognostication ... so does the Progress' Art.

Although his system has no name and he will not reveal his secret method to anyone, including the Progress staff, it must be a good one, for only the pea-pickin' Georgia Bulldogs, upset by Vanderbilt, and doggone Ohio State, tied by Texas Christian, foiled a perfect day for our prognosticating expert.

In all, Art picked 13 winners, including the game of the week, Notre Dame over Oklahoma, and absolutely missed on the Georgia-Vandy game. However, since Art assures us that he will not settle for ties, he counts the tie game a miss. "Ohio State outgained T.C.U.," says our expert, "but I will count it a miss, for our critical readers."

This week, Art picks some good 'uns, including an Eastern Kentucky upset over Middle Tennessee. Here's how Art picks 'em this week:

Morehead over Murray Tenn. Tech over E. Tenn.
Western over Austin Peay
Penn State over Boston U.
Arkansas over T.C.U.
Miami (Fla.) over Navy
Michigan over Army
Auburn over Kentucky
Cincinnati over Xavier Mississippi over Florida State
Iowa over Southern Cal.
Michigan State over Stanford
Notre Dame over Purdue
Ohio State over U.C.L.A.

Game of the Week
Eastern over Midd. Tenn. in an upset victory for the fightin' Maroons.

SEASON RECORD
13 hits; 2 misses (including that darn tie)
Batting average: .867

In the 1918 World Series, the "Babe" set a new record, pitching 29 2/3 scoreless innings in Series play, his Boston Red Sox won the series, and the players "struck" for more play. This actually happened, before the fifth game, but things were settled and the fifth game was held up only about an hour. P. S. The players did not get more money.

Player Of The Week

Player of the Week for the second week of the 1961 grid season is Jimmy Chittum, the sophomore speedster who saved the day as the Maroons upset highly-touted Murray State College 14-13 in an important Ohio Valley Conference game at Murray. A 5-10, 170-pound lightning-fast halfback from Lexington, Virginia, Chittum returned a Murray punt 86 yards for Eastern's first touchdown in the closing seconds of the half. Dave Hatfield booted the extra point and the Maroons went to the dressing room at halftime with a 7-7 tie. Chittum's sensational run was cited by Coach Glenn Presnell as the spark that got the Maroons going.

Maroons Eyeing OVC Lead Spot

Eastern Kentucky's undermaneuvered and unheralded "Iron Men," after shooting into contention for the Ohio Valley Conference lead with an impressive 14-13 victory over the Murray Thoroughbreds, have an opportunity to grab the lead for the first time in eight years Saturday. Coach Glenn Presnell's Maroons host league-leading Middle Tennessee in the highlight of a big Band Day celebration.

Tabbed now as definite threats to the Tennessee domination of the Ohio Valley Conference, the Maroons are spirited as they prep for their upcoming meeting with loop favorites, Middle Tennessee at Hanger Stadium.

Top Physical Condition

Coach Presnell reported today that his team may be in top physical condition for Saturday's important battle. Starting guard, Ken Goodhue, who missed the Murray win with an injury sustained against bruising Louisville, is expected to be back in action. Halfback Larry McKenzie, who saw only limited service last week, and quarterback Elvin Brinegar, who missed the Murray tilt, will be ready for service. End-halfback, Harvey Yearry, suffered a broken nose against the Thoroughbreds, but Presnell says, "We couldn't keep him from playing if we put a harness on him."

The visiting Tennesseans are 3-0 for the season, with impressive wins over Austin Peay, 40-7, Morehead, 19-14, and Western Kentucky, 14-6, under their belts. Their 2-0 conference slate is best in the OVC. The only other team, besides Eastern, with an unblemished loop record is Tennessee Tech, also with a 1-0 worksheet.

A win over the Raiders Saturday would definitely stamp the Maroons as the team to beat in the hotly-contested conference that has been dominated by the Tennessee contingents since Eastern won the title in 1954 and went on to participate in the Tangerine Bowl.

Raiders Constant Winners

Not since a 26-0 win in 1954 has Eastern beaten Middle Tennessee. The Raiders have won them all since then, by these scores: 1955, 12-14; 1956, 26-19; 1957, 35-14; 1958, 14-0; 1959, 14-6; and 1960, 14-12. The series, that dates back to 1953, when the Maroons won 15-4, stands at 6-2-0, with the Tennesseans leading.

Last year's narrow 14-12 setback was a result of a 35 yard extra point. On two previous attempts, the Raiders were penalized, and on the third try, a two-point pass play proved to be the winning margin in a hard-fought battle at Murfreesboro.

In seniors Terry Bailey and Jerry Pearson, the Raiders boast two outstanding quarterbacks that compare with Eastern's combination of Tony Lanham and Elvin Brinegar.

Big Gene Watson, 220 pound junior, and hard-running 175 pound sophomore, Phil Grammer, give the Raiders perhaps the strongest one-two punch at fullback in the league. Little 5-9 Jimbo Pearson and big 200 pound Jim Nabors are the starting halfbacks, but they are backed up by Charles Rice and Larry Whaley, both with experience.

CADET BRIGADE COMMANDER Harvey Turner reviews his Brigade Staff. Standing before him are Lt. Col. James Farris, Major Alan Coleman, Major Harry Campbell, Major Ronald Wallace, Major James Montgomery, and Sgt./Maj. George Beckett.

Military Science Department Chooses 7 For Brigade Staff

The Military Science Department has selected six senior cadets and one junior cadet to comprise the Brigade Staff for the 1961-62 year. These cadets were chosen because of their over-all leadership ability, scholastic average, and military knowledge.

Col. Harvey Turner, Cadet Brigade Commander, will regulate and supervise all corps matters. Lt. Col. James Farris, Deputy Commander, will work closely with him, co-ordinate staff activities, and preside over staff meetings in the absence of the corps commander.

Major Alan Coleman, S-1, will be responsible for staff records to include attendance merits and demerits, rosters, orders, and assignments. Major Harry Campbell, S-2, will be in charge of the maintenance of the Military Science area and facilities, co-ordinator of rifle team, and chairman of the P. I. O. Council. He will also supervise the raising and lowering of the national and state the S-1 and co-ordinator of the Color Guard. Another of his duties will be to supervise Sgt./Maj. and First Sgt. functions in the cadet corps.

The basic purpose of a staff is to assist the commander in the exercise of his command. The commander gets assistance from his staff in five main ways: they provide him with information, study the details of the situation for him, submit recommendations to him based on their studies, issue orders for him, and finally, supervise the execution of these orders.

From this brief description of primary duties one can see the importance of a well organized staff.

Sound Off!

By Jim Farris
We regret to inform the student body that Colonel Joe M. Sanders was called away this week because of the death of his father at Rock Hill, South Carolina.

Company R-1 Pershing Rifles are still accepting any cadet applicants who are interested in becoming a member of their organization.

This year for the first time we will observe October 21 as Military Day. The entire Brigade will form in Hanger Stadium for the football game with Austin Peay.

"New Look"—It has been reported the Pershing Rifles Company R-1 has new drill uniforms. They are gray and white with Confederate insignias.

Advanced Corps Cadets receive $27.99 a month from the U. S. Government.

Did you know? The Association of the United States Army or the United States Government. The Association is not supported financially by the Army or the government; its funds derive primarily from membership fees and advertising in ARMY Magazine.

Last week, the First Regimental Commander of Pershing Rifles visited Company R-1. Col. Hugh Long was very impressed with the record R-1 has and said, "Without a doubt, R-1 is one of the best companies in the Regiment."

Another feature of the Progress ROTC page will be a weekly cartoon drawn by Cadet Lieutenant Bill Blankenship, senior art major from Crab Orchard.

Have you noticed? The Lancaster House has been given a facelift this fall. Job well done PR's, keep up the good work!

The first alumni of Eastern were five women who were mailed their two-year diplomas in 1907. Last year 886 received either the bachelor's or master's degrees from Eastern at the spring and summer commencements.

In 1948 Eastern changed from quarter system to the semester system.

The Eastern pep song, "Hail Eastern Maroons," was written in 1940 by Henri Schabl, band director, and words by an Eastern student, Frank H. Wilcox, Jr.

Cadet Of Week

JIM MONTGOMERY

By The P.I.O. COUNCIL

Meet and greet this week's top cadet in the Brigade Corp, Cadet Major Jim Montgomery. Jim is the S-4 on the Cadet Brigade Staff and so far he has done an outstanding job in this capacity. Some of his many duties include the responsibility for issue, maintenance, and inspection of uniforms, equipment and training aids for the cadet corps. He also has to supervise S-4 functions at Battalion level. This Cadet Major has a great deal of energy and enthusiasm which he imparts to the men he supervises. His deep interest in the ROTC, and high morals clearly mark him as a promising young officer and a definite asset to the Army. He is always neat in appearance, possesses an excellent military bearing and a good sense of humor. He works well with others and is highly respected by both superiors and subordinates. He consistently produces excellent results in the accomplishment of assigned tasks.

Jim was born in Middlesboro, Ky., on May 18, 1939, and has made his home there ever since. He attended Middlesboro High School and graduated in the spring of 1958. Since he has been at Eastern he has taken part in many activities and has been a credit to all of them. Jim has been on the P.R. Drill Team two years and now is the Executive Officer in this organization. Being business manager of the Milestone is another fulltime job and he is also active in the World Affairs Club. His hobbies include bowling, reading, chess and most sports. Jim is majoring in commerce and history and expects to make the Army a career upon graduation in the spring. For doing such a dynamic job, Jim, the Brigade Staff congratulates you!

On March 21, 1906, the law establishing the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School was signed by Governor J. C. W. Beckham. On May 7, 1906, the Normal School Commission, meeting in Louisville, selected Richmond as the site for the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School.

In 1922 Eastern became a four-year institution known as the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School and Teachers College.

Rifle Team Faces Many Matches; 'Jouvre' Range

Under the coaching of Sgt. Willis Brickey, Eastern's ROTC Department will field a rifle team which should be one of the best in the history of the school. This team will compete with other college teams from across the nation. Although most of these will be in the form of postal matches, many shoulder to shoulder matches are scheduled at "Jouvre" Range.

Only two years old, "Jouvre" Range is one of the finest 50 ft. 22 caliber rifle ranges in the nation. Among the many features of this range are firing points, modern lights, a raised coaching stand and rifle rack.

Team members will be using the new equipment available such as shooting jackets, palm rests and gloves. The rifles used are fitted with special sights and are the best money can buy.

All team members are eligible for awards such as jackets, varsity letters and medals which are given for outstanding marksmanship. A man on the rifle team will also be presented with a rifle team cord by the Professor of Military Science. This cord is worn every Friday on the cadet uniform.

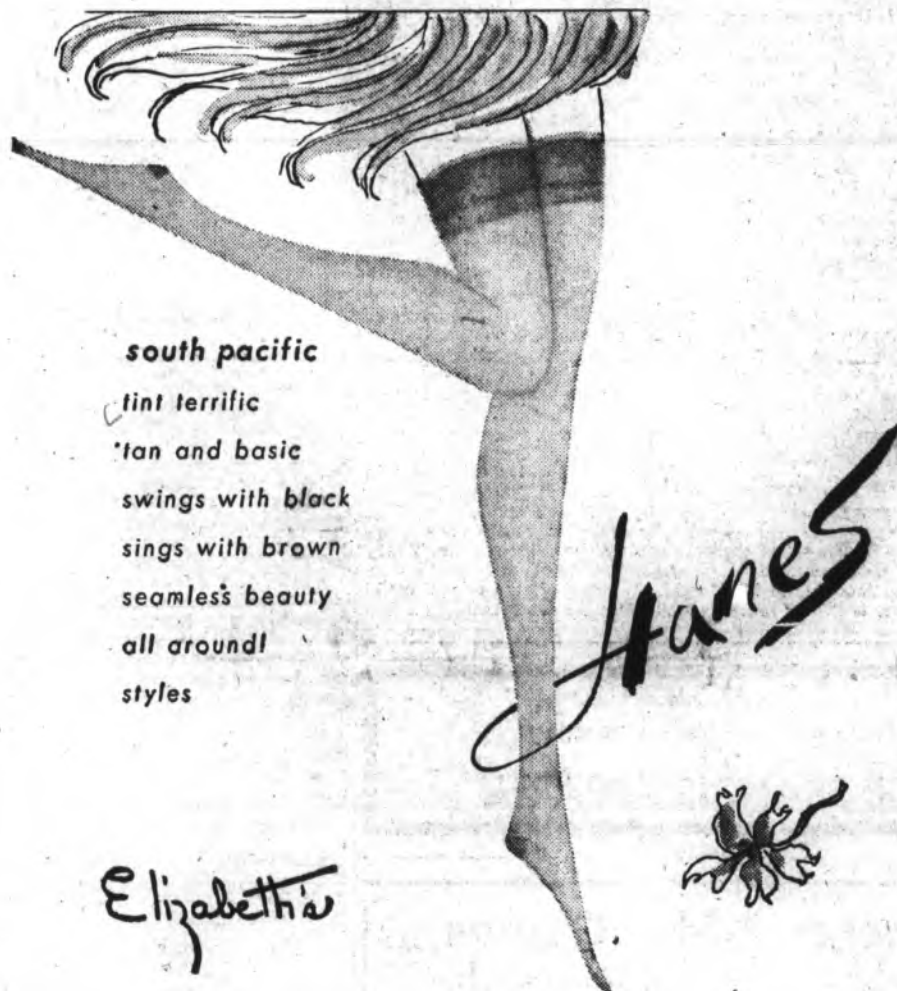

Last year's team set many school records which can be broken if all men on the team put forth a little more effort. These records are posted at the range and should prove as a challenge to the new team members who will be joining six returning lettermen.

A woman once served as president of Eastern Kentucky State Normal School in Richmond. She was Mrs. Mary C. Roark, the wife of Eastern's first president, Ruric Nevel Roark, and served as acting president from April 16, 1909, until October 1, 1909, when she was elected dean of women.

Parking Space Enlarged By New And Old Lots

The search for more parking space at Eastern is coming to an end with the development of several parking lots and the improvement of some of the old ones.

Besides the usual parking facilities, a lot behind the library has been surfaced and in use for some time. Another one behind the football stadium has been completed also. Each new dormitory is to have ample parking accommodations. O'Donnell Hall and Mattox Hall are already completed with the parking problem eased. Martin Hall is to have ample parking facilities when it is completed. Additional parking area is being provided for behind the University Building and around the Music Building.

Besides all these, the new Alumni Coliseum is to have a huge parking area, enough to accommodate 1600 automobiles. Since this parking area will only be filled on special occasions, it will be used for P. E. classes, ROTC drills, and other activities.

Present construction has made the parking problem more pronounced, but, with the cooperation of the students, satisfactory situations can result. The objective of the college officials is to have ample parking space for everyone on campus and to completely relieve all traffic congestion.

Little Moran cut a hole in the carpet because he wanted to see the "floor show."

PERSHING RIFLES

Evelyn Craft and Londa Lewis were chosen as co-sponsors by the Pershing Rifles at the first regular meeting on October 4. Both girls will accompany the Drill Teams to the drill meets and other organizational functions. Miss Lewis will sponsor the club in the Homecoming Queen contest.

Also the P. R.'s decided to build their own float for the homecoming parade. In the past, the P. R.'s have co-sponsored a float with the Cadet Officers' Club.

On Saturday, October 7, James Montgomery, John Hanlon, James

Rice and Robert Leigh will represent the company at the Pershing Rifle Regimental Assembly at Ohio State University Columbus, Ohio.

Drills Promote Team Action And Cooperation

Drill and ceremonies are only one part of each cadet's training. This section of the program is very important though, because the cadet learns teamwork and the value of unified and cooperative actions. The first real opportunity the cadet officers have to build the spirit of teamwork is on the parade ground. Here, all cadets learn that there can be no orderly movement of men or units without a precise and united effort, and every man learns to play his part in the squad, platoon, or company.

Drill consists of certain movements by which the squad, platoon, or company is moved in an orderly manner from one formation to another. These movements are to be executed with order and precision. The men will be trained to stand, step off, march, halt, and to handle the rifle smoothly as individuals.

Ceremonies are formations and movements in which a large number of troops execute movements in unison and with precision upon command just as in drill.

The progress made by individuals is determined by:

1. The methods instruction and the thoroughness of the instructors.
2. The organization of training groups into units of the most effective instructional size.

Instruction is the generator of unified action. It is the means by which the lessons of experience are passed to untrained men. These are the main objectives to remember about one's instruction methods: Keep it simple, have but one main object, stay on the course remain cheerful, be enthusiastic, and put it out as if the ideas were as interesting and novel to you as to your audience.

Proper instruction by our cadet officers will help develop the esprit de corps any organization of our type needs.

On April 13, 1960, Robert B. Martin was elected by the board of regents as the sixth president of Eastern. He took office July 1, 1960, and was inaugurated November 17, 1960.

For six weeks this summer, 35 Junior ROTC Cadets from Eastern camped at Ft. Knox, Ky., Home of Armor. This group put into practice what they had learned in three years of classroom and drill instruction.

Under field conditions, each cadet learned many detailed techniques of the professional officer. This practical experience is designed to develop leadership in phases of which Army Officers must be familiar.

Many of Eastern's cadets held leadership positions such as Platoon Leader and Company Commander. Reports from their cadre sergeants and officers show that they did an outstanding job.

Lab Dedicated

Receives Standing Ovation
O'Donnell received a standing ovation upon being introduced.

Dr. J. Dorland Coates, associate dean of teacher education at Eastern and son of the third president of the college, Thomas Jackson Coates, dedicated the auditorium to E. A. Edwards, who served the college for more than 40 years. Edwards was director of the elementary training school.

Coates said, "This building is the finest . . . this auditorium is certainly the finest in the United States." He said the laboratory school will be the heart of the college's program.

Wendell P. Butler, state superintendent of public instruction, said, "This building will stand as a monument to the educational progress in the entire state of Kentucky . . . It is magnificent in appearance and in facilities."

Pritchard Speaks

Also appearing on the program was Dave Pritchard, head of the Department of Engineering, State Department of Finance, who said, "This building represents only a part of Gov. Combs' progress throughout the state . . .
This is the criteria of all laboratory schools . . . You will have visitors from all over the United States who want to see the best school in the nation, and this certainly is."

Upon being introduced by President Martin, Governor
Combs said, "after that introduction, I just know that Bob Martin is coming back to Frankfort to get what's left." The governor was referring to Eastern's nearly $16 million construction program.

Following the dedication ceremonies, the principals participated in the laying of the cornerstone at the main entrance of the building.

John Vickers, Director of College-Community Relations, congratulated the honoraries on their achievements and commended them for a job already well done.
He emphasized their participation in helping with the big projects such as Band Day and Homecoming.

The Dir. of Publicity and Publications, Don Feltner, praised the students and Dean Case for her many years of devoted service to Eastern.

Larry Martin, Assistant Director of Buildings and Grounds, proceeded to tell the group how they could serve as an example to the other students in keeping the campus clean. "Impress upon them that they should get a parking place and keep it," he said, "we are doing all we can, but if each student insists on driving to each class, we cannot accomplish our purpose."

The sponsors of the two men's honoraries, Dr. Harold Zimmack, OAKS, and Dr. Quentin Keen, KIE, gave their impressions and congratulations to the honoraries.

In the absence of President Martin, his assistant, J. C. Powell, told of the president's illness and offered his praises to the organizations for their achievements and their dependability in helping with the various school functions.

Construction Worker Injured At Martin Hall

Jerry Perrin, Nicholasville, an employee engaged in construction work on Martin Hall, one of Eastern new dormitories now under construction, was admitted to Gilson Hospital late Monday afternoon after being injured earlier.

Reports say that roofing materials fell on him while being hoisted to the upper floors of the dorm. X-rays made later revealed no fractures. He was treated for bruises and lacerations of the scalp.
