Styles From Cleo

There's no stopping a fashion—drapes started on one side, they have progressed to the front of the dress, they'll soon be seen on both sides and finally we shall see them in the back with a revival of grandmother's bustle. However, the front drapes give an excuse for using one of the very new, very gorgeous cabochon ornaments that are so fashionable just now.

SCHOOL TEACHER'S FRIENDS MADE GLAD

One of them had this to say yesterday: "We never thought that poor Ellen would ever recover, she had suffered so long from stomach and liver trouble and had lost more than 40 pounds in weight. She took a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy upon the advice of her aunt and has steadily improved from the first dose. We are all confident of her complete recovery." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at all druggists.

Patents To Kentuckians

Washington, Nov. 21—Among those who received patents her this week were the following Kentuckians: Eugene Cowles, of Shelbyville, signaling device; Levi Ford, of Lexington, feed tub; James B. Staton, of Nicholasville, tube-holding and closure means; Richard C. Stewart of Covington, radiator protector; James D. Gibbs, of Louisville, casing ring and wedge apparatus; William P. Gold and W. Ryan, of Newport, bottle holder.

John G. Fisher, of McLean Va., obtained a patent on an electric smoothing iron, and assigned one-half interest to F. M. Fisher, of Paducah. Thomas H. Hoskins and H. H. Wessling, of Evansville, Ind., obtained a patent on workman's tackholder.

More than 200 delegates from all over the state are in Mt. Sterling for the Y. W. C. A. girls' conference.

Public Education in Kentucky

The Kentucky Educational Commission issues to-day its report on Public Education in Kentucky. The Commission appointed by Governor Morrow consists of Dr. W. A. Ganfield, Chairman, Pres. Central College, Danville; Gen. G. Barret, lawyer, Louisville; C. J. Haydon, farmer and merchant, Springfield; J. L. Harman, Pres. Bowling Green Business University, Bowling Green, and Miss Katie McDaniel, insurance business, Hopkinsville. The report of the Commission is a first hand description and criticism of public education in Kentucky with recommendations for its improvement. Citizens who do not receive a copy of this report may obtain it free by writing to the State Department of Education, Frankfort.

Fifteen months were devoted to the survey. Sixty-six counties were visited and a careful study made of the conditions in 33 of them, and also in about one-half the principal cities of the state. The educators of Kentucky, including representatives from the faculties of the colleges, normal schools, and the University of Kentucky, members of the State Department of Education, and county and city superintendents, cooperated actively in the work.

The report states that in educational efficiency Kentucky has for the last forty years always ranked low and has steadily fallen behind in comparison with other states: Kentucky ranked 35th in 1890, 36th in 1900, 40th in 1910, and 45th in 1918. In illiteracy, Kentucky ranked 36th in 1900, in 1910, and in 1920. What is the explanation? Not poverty, for the state is rich in resources. The reason is to be sought in the social history of the state. Slavery held the state back; immigration passed to the north and west; industrial and agricultural advantages were not utilized, and consequently there was little to hold or attract vigorous and progressive youth. Social sluggishness therefore accounts for defective educational facilities, and poor schools have prolonged the period of social and industrial inertia.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION AND STATE SUPERINTENDENT

The report exhibits the backward conditions of Kentucky education. A State Board of Education is at the head of the system. But the State Board, instead of being composed of lay members, with no other public duties, is made up of three state officials, elected on a partisan political ticket—the Secretary of State, the Attorney-General, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. This Board has on paper certain duties, but it has no organization capable of performing them. Besides being a political board, as well as ex-officio, it has not enjoyed the full confidence of the state in educational matters; hence, whenever a special need has arisen, a new board has been set up. The result is that instead of a central body with authority and organization, the state has a political Board of Education which lacks both.

The State Superintendent should be a trained educator, acting as the executive of the State Board and so situated that over a period of years he can mature statesmanlike and far-reaching educational policies. Instead of this, he is named by one or the other political party, his tenure is limited to a single term of four years, and he must give way to his successor just as he becomes able to create and direct a progressive program. To make matters worse, though the duties of the office have been enormously increased, the staff is miserably inadequate. The total amount of state money going annually to the office charged with superintending the public schools of Kentucky, on which millions are spent, is $30,000. Four-ninths of this, the Federal Government and an outside philanthropic agency add $36,000 annually to this sum; and it is outside money that supports such high school and rural school inspection and such agricultural and trade supervision as Kentucky now enjoys.

In a word, the State Board of Education, by reason of its makeup, is incapable of performing the functions that naturally fall to such a body. The State Superintendent, whatever his character, personality, or training, is handicapped by party connections, limited tenure, and inadequate financial support. If the schools are to be effectively administered, the present ex-officio Board of Education must be replaced by a properly constituted lay board; the State Superintendent must be taken out of partisan politics, the office must be placed on a professional basis, and its support must be made commensurate with its responsibilities and duties.

COUNTY BOARDS AND COUNTY SUPERINTENDENTS

The local county school authorities are the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent. They are immediately responsible for the upkeep and conduct of the county schools. The report praises highly the new county unit law passed in 1920, calling it "one of the few pieces of constructive educational legislation to be found in the entire history of the state." The law will undoubtedly bring about great improvement in rural school administration; but its full effects will not be obtained until more and better trained persons are available for the county superintendencies. Up to this time the County Superintendent has usually been deep in county politics; the salary has been too small to attract a trained educator; as a result, many County Superintendents have been anything but educators—they have been farmers, storekeepers, lawyers, doctors, blacksmiths, dressmakers, milliners, etc. Moreover, no proper qualifications have ever been set up. Out of the 120 now in service, many are not professionally qualified to discharge the duties of the office. To make matters worse, they have had few facilities and little assistance. Records and accounts are wretchedly kept; trustees and teachers alike close schools on the most trivial pretexts; the most elementary points in administration are disregarded at will under the happy-go-lucky, do-as-you-please régime that obtains. Conditions are better in the larger graded school districts and good in the largest cities. But there is no agency competent to see to it that proper conditions are everywhere maintained and enforced.

Two gentlemen riding on a train were both very much intoxicated.

First Gent: What time is it?
Second Gent (after extracting a matchbox from his pocket with much exertion and gazing at it intently): Thursday.
First Gent: My goodness! I've got to get off here.

POULTRY POINTERS FOR NOVEMBER

It is now time to dispose of all surplus stock and put the birds in winter quarters. Male birds for next spring's breeders should be purchased now to insure a good selection.

Roup and chicken pox which usually are found associated are the most common diseases that are found among adult fowls in Kentucky. These diseases very often start at this time of the year and continue through the winter, keeping the egg production down and lowering the profit from the flock. In many cases the trouble is caused by damp houses, over crowding or lack of ventilation. Each bird should be allowed four square feet of floor space if they are confined and never less than three and a half feet under any circumstances. For ventilation, it is a good rule to allow one square foot of south front opening to each ten birds. If you wish to remodel your houses to avoid these troubles write to your county agent for Extension Circular 107 on "Housing Farm Poultry."

For treatment all sick birds should be removed from the flock and copper sulphate at the rate of one ounce to 10 gallons of water should be kept in the drinking water. Also give it to healthy appearing birds for 3 days. For individual treatment, clean the birds' nostrils thoroly by washing with lukewarm salt water and then dip the head in same. Apply kerosene in the nostrils with a medicine dropper or feather. If chicken pox scabs are found on the comb or canker in the mouth the scabs should be removed and burned and the sores painted with tincture of iodine.

The Veterinary Department of the College of Agriculture at Lexington, has worked with vaccines for these diseases. They have found that the results of vaccination are satisfactory when the vaccine is prepared from material collected from the infected birds out of the flock to be vaccinated. If interested in using the vaccine write your county agent for further information. It is impracticable to vaccinate flocks of fewer than 100 birds.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

Mr. Kearney Adams has been awarded the Tyree scholarship, mention of which was made in these columns a few weeks back, and left recently to enter the University of Cincinnati, to take up the studies of his chosen profession, law. This scholarship is given in memory of the late Millard Tyree, who was born in Letcher county and who made good in the profession of law at the Cincinnati bar.

Young Adams is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Adams, of Cowan, and is a most deserving young man. His many friends will be glad to hear of his success in landing this valuable prize.

JOKES

Gazing about the grounds of the school one is more impressed with the number of students who are, to all appearances, majoring in campus appreciation.

Templeton: They say people with opposite characteristics make the happiest marriages.
Fatty: Why? That's why I'm looking for a woman with money.

Scientists say that sleeping outdoors makes one beautiful. At last! Now we know how to account for the hobo's charming appearance.

Had his eye on a seat and a Senior came in and sat on it.

Aera: I had a good joke to tell you this evening, but I see you are not in a condition to receive it.
Irene Frizzle: Why?
Aera: Because if your face lights up the powder will explode.

I. B. Shearer: How is it that your collar is always clean?
Mainous: It's celluloid.

(In Physical Education Class)
Miss Hammond: What do you mean by Pasteurization?
Josephine Yates: Pasturing cows.

Verna Lutes: Why is it one never forgets a love affair?
Judson Harmon: Because that is something learned by heart.

There are some members of the student body who think that a football coach has four wheels.

This is the worst town for gossip I ever lived in. H'm, what have you been doing?

Shelby Carr: How long have you been engaged?
Margaret: This time, or all together?

(In Physical Education Class)
Miss Hammond: Who was Pasteur?
Marjorie Vories: A preacher, I suppose.

Julia Walker: Will you lend me your dress this afternoon?
Virginia Gordon: Why certainly, but why the formality?
Julia: I can't find it.

Edna Davis needn't think just because she is on the entertaining committee for the Girls' Athletic Club that she should date with every coach on the campus, especially those with visiting teams.

LOCAL BOYS STAK ON FOREIGN FIELDS

Bill Crutcher and Jimmie Carr, local boys, who were stars of the Normal Hi eleven last season, have shown up exceptionally well in different uniforms this season. Both have proved themselves to be real players who do credit to Richmond.

The call from Greenbrier Military Academy, located at Lewisburg, Va., caused Crutcher to go there this fall where he made good at once. He has been playing fullback all season, doing all of his team's punting and passing. Besides this he has distinguished himself as quite a drop and place kicker. Whenever he has been called upon to carry the ball he has responded in brilliant fashion. His toe, however, has brought the prep championship of Virginia and West Virginia to his eleven. Last Saturday a 30 yard drop kick on Bill's part spelled defeat to the fast Staunton Academy who were the contenders for the title won by Greenbrier, the score being 3 to 0. The previous Saturday Fishburne, a Virginia military school was defeated by a score of 10 to 3, a 40 yard place kick by Bill being responsible for three of Greenbrier's points. Charleston West Virginia, Hi is among the Greenbrier victims. These boys have played their last game on less Huntington can be secure for a game this week. However, the title would not likely be changed by this game. Kit Crutcher has also shown up well as a substitute on this team.

Kentucky Military Institute was very fortunate in securing the services of Jimmie Carr this year. He has been the bright spot in their team all season. Although not having as successful a season as was hoped for, K. M. I. has won the majority of her games. At present Jimmie is holding down an end but has not been able to play the last few games on account of several ribs being fractured. He will be back in full force, however, in the game with M. M. I. at Millersburg, Friday. Several local people have made arrangements to attend this game.

TRANSYLVANIA HEAD TO PREACH HERE

Dr. A. D. Harmon, recently installed as president of Transylvania College, will preach Sunday morning at the First Christian church in the absence of the pastor, Dr. H. W. Carpenter, who is in Birmingham in a revival meeting. Dr. Harmon, who has recently come to Kentucky, having formerly been president of Cotner University, is already making for himself a big place among Kentucky people and gives promise of leading the forces of Kentucky's oldest institution of learning in another period of great progress. He is not only a splendid administrator, but a public speaker of power and never fails to win his hearers. It is a matter of good fortune for the local church to have President Harmon in the pulpit.

TRANSY FRESHMEN DEFEAT EASTERN

Eastern tasted defeat at the hands of Transylvania Freshmen Saturday, November 18, by a score of 15 to 0, playing on a rain-soaked field in Lexington. The game was the second between the two teams this season—the first resulting in a scoreless tie.

All of the scores made by the Freshmen were registered in the first half. Two of them came in the first period when Captain Stone, of Eastern, was thrown behind the goal line for a safety. Heavy penalties inflicted upon Eastern put the ball within scoring distance for the Freshies in the second quarter. The locals held them a yard from the goal for three downs but Burns carried the ball over by inches on the fourth try. A forward pass to Adams accounted for the last Transy touchdown. Gividon added the extra point by a place kick, bringing the score to 15.

In the last half Eastern was far superior to the Freshies but lacked the punch to carry the ball over. Captain Stone was the main ground gainer for Eastern. He carried the ball time after time around the ends for gains ranging from 25 yards down. Moberly also showed up well during the time he was in the fray. Covington, besides playing excellent ball at right end, intercepted a Transy pass late in the game, thus stopping a Transy advance which had carried the ball to the locals' thirty yard line. The line-ups:

Eastern: Word te; Davis lt; Spencer lg; Carr c; Hampton rg; Lewis rt; Covington re; Stone qb; Holt lh; Long rh; Powell fb.

Transy: Gividon te; Waiters lt; J. Morrison, lg; Baker, c; Thompson rg; R. Morrison rt; Wyatt re; Mathews qb; Burns lh; Adams rh; Hamlin fb.
 Substitutes: Eastern, Moberly for Long; Combs for Lewis; Jayne for Davis. Transy, Field-

ATHLETIC CLUB SHOWS REAL LIFE AT BONFIRE

Girls Help Eastern Put Over 6 to 0 Score Against Cumberland.

The Eastern Girls' Athletic Club is now organized. This latest addition to school activities, tho the baby organization of the campus, is lusty and healthy and rapidly making its presence felt.

The school was first aware of the infant when she started a "peppy" affair called a bonfire, combined with much cheering, singing and snake dancing on the night before the Cumberland and Eastern game. This was followed by a noisy reappearance the next afternoon, which Coach George Hembree thinks helped Eastern men put over that 6 to 0 score.

Inquiries concerning this lively young club indicate that Alberta Allen, its president, with Sara Desha, vice-president, Marjorie Vories, secretary, and Sue Stokes, treasurer, are up and doing officers with plenty of ability to guarantee its future. Its pep committee composed of Carolyn Rice, chairman, Maude Knox and Verna Lutes, are all live wires. Its entertaining committee, with Alice McEldowney as chairman, assisted by Edna Davis and Ida Bair, are likely to make all visiting teams rise up and call Eastern "Blessed."

NORMAL TO HAVE LOTS OF BASKETBALL

The girls of the Eastern Kentucky State Normal School, who are out for basket ball, have organized into four teams and have elected captains for each team. ing, Barton, Alexander and Henderson.
 Officials—Byars and Tinsley.

The girls are doing fine work at every practice and are looking forward to a most successful season, under the direction of Miss Katherine Hammond. The teams are as follows: (1) Forwards, Glenna Wood, captain, and Dorothy Terrill; center, Josephine Yates; guards, Margaret Barber and Margaret Crockett; (2) Forwards, Jennie Ransey, captain, Thelma Owens; center, Evelyn Witham; guards, Edna Perkins and Marshall Fowler; 3 Forwards, Valeria McCabe and Maude Knox; center, Kate Huff, captain; guards, Rachel Luk and Sara Bright; (4) Forwards, Irene Frizzell and Ethel Karrick; center, Ruth Fugitt, captain; guards, Glenn Faulconer and Ida Bair. The first and second teams will have a practice game December 9th. The opening game of the season will be December 16th, when Kentucky Wesleyan will meet Eastern on the local floor. The exact dates of other games have not been made.

The girls of Eastern met October 25 for the purpose of organizing the Girls' Choral Club with nearly one hundred present. After the meeting was called to order by John Orr Steward, director of the club, the following officers were elected: Alice Kalusy, President; Georgia Smith, Secretary; Mary Vance Day, Treasurer; Della Clark, Librarian; Cora Black and Ramsey, Sergeants-at-Arms.

These officers were to appoint the committee to draw up the by-laws and constitution.

At the second meeting, November 1, a motion was made, discussed and acted upon favorably that a Normal Music Club be organized. This will be a combination of the two Choral Clubs. The main feature of the work will be the presentation of "Rose Maiden," which will be given in May at the annual May Festival. There will be in the choruses over a hundred voices.

Mr. Stewart, with the co-operation of the two clubs, is planning a great musical year for Eastern.
