Can Eastern Produce a Literary Journal?

Three college magazines recently appearing on the racks of the library attracted the attention of this writer, pleased him, and then set him to wondering why none of the three are published at Eastern. These publications were letters, printed at the University of Kentucky, Sewanee Review, from the University of the South, and College Heights Magazine, coming from Western Teachers College at Bowling Green.

The last of the three booklets is a beautiful example of printing and engraving, a display of illustrative photographs, and attractive publicity for the 25th anniversary, which is now being celebrated at Western. From authoritative sources the writer learned that Eastern is planning to publish a book next spring in connection with our own celebration of 25 years of education, which will be even more comprehensive and attractive than the recent publication at Western.

That plan merits the commendation of the Progress. But the other two magazines—what will we do with the challenge which they silently offer? Letters is a literary publication of recent origin, but in the few years of its existence it has grown to an excellent status. The Sewanee Quarterly Review will celebrate its fortieth year in 1932, and is recognized as the oldest and one of the best literary magazines in the south. Way back in 1882 the "Atlantis" was published on this campus by the students of old Central University, and for many years that literary publication came regularly from the press for the edification of the culture of the Centralites. Eastern is now in her 25th year, and at present there is no means for airing the literary merits of her students. Surely there is enough talent on the campus to write, edit, and print a magazine which will rate on a par with those of other colleges.

Cooperation of Student Body and Milestone Staff Imperative

The Progress looks upon the Milestone as an intelligent brother; naturally, we are interested in the welfare of the annual publication. For that reason we are devoting much space to its publicity.

The Milestone is young in years if considered as having existed only from its appearance under that name in 1922 to the present date. This being the case, the healthy youngster will celebrate its tenth year of existence at this time. But the historical documents show that the Milestone has enjoyed two previous existences, the present title being the name of its third reincarnation. Originally, back in the youthful days of Eastern's history, the annual was known as the "Blue Mont," and was published under that caption until changed to "The Student." It is the Milestone today, and personally we like that name. It is fitting that as Eastern passes the 25th milestone of her career this school year that the annual be of a dignity and quality in keeping with the sensational growth of this institution. A glance at the Milestone staff, which is published elsewhere in this issue, will convince the reader that the necessary quality and dignity will be maintained, in so far as the members of the staff are concerned. But that is not sufficient. The hearty support and cooperation of the student body is needed. In a concrete way that cooperation can be shown by complying with the requests of the Milestone editor, which will be made from the chapel platform and through the columns of the Progress. At present the most imperative request is that the students have their photographs made as early as possible. By doing this not only the annual, but the students themselves will save money and avoid the confusion which results if everyone waits until next spring to get his photograph taken.

Growth of Annual Publications At Eastern

The first year book of annual publication to be edited on this campus came off the press in the form of a mere paper-bound pamphlet, very unlike the present year book, "The Milestone," which has evolved from its earliest source, "The Blue Mont," into a volume of interest, historical value, and achievement on the part of the editors who have been responsible for the management and publication of a book of worth such as it is.

"The Cream and Crimson," however, did not fall short of being a worthy publication, for it was the embryo from which a progressive development has revealed itself in evidence almost beyond measure when that primary volume of old Central University is compared with the modern publication of Eastern Teachers College, which is yet on the building platform of an institution mightier by far than its predecessor.

Eastern and the Milestone staff are in debt to old Central and her students who initiated the ambition to found a school of prominence such as Central University became in the days of its glory before the state of Kentucky built the foundation for the institution which stands today and retains the building of Old Central as a prized possession. From "The Cream and Crimson" Eastern probably derived her colors, and from those students who gave their services to advertise their school Eastern has been endowed with like men and women who have the same earnestness and tenacity to make history for their Alma Mater, and set it down in a volume that may become a credit to any library shelf.

"The Cream and Crimson" first appeared in June, 1895. It had been preceded by a monthly magazine, "The Atlantis," published by Central students for a period of sixteen years. This annual was dedicated to L. H. Blanton, D.D., chancellor of the institution, and its staff was composed of men who have become prominent citizens today. They were L. W. Doolan, editor-in-chief; Charles Daly, manager; C. F. Burnam, Jr., secretary; J. H. Chandler, treasurer, and William F. Miller, artist.

After all, though "The Blue Mont" was the virtual father of the Milestone, "The Cream and Crimson" should be recognized as the forefather who established the idea of a year book, and who laid the first stones in a structure which has been realized in the form of an engraved volume of annual records dealing with the life and activities of a modern youth in contrast to those of a youth of the past.

Is It Justice?

The Eastern Progress is dependent upon the advertising merchants of Richmond for its financial resources. Advertising is the chief medium furnishing the financial backing so necessary for the upkeep of the paper.

Students, is it fair to the merchants who keep your paper on a financial basis, for you to patronize other merchants who refuse to buy advertising space? The student body and the Eastern Progress staff are indebted to those merchants who advertise. They are the ones responsible for the existence of this newspaper. Without their assistance you would not get your regular copy of the newspaper that you call yours.

Certain merchants of the city not only refuse to take advertising space, but also refuse to pay for some that they have taken in previous issues. And do you know that these are the merchants you are patronizing? It is a challenge to your sense of justice. Are you fair to the merchant who makes your paper possible?

GLEANINGS

Owen D. Young, in a speech at Wesleyan University, during its centennial ceremonies, in criticism of American colleges, said that most students fail to get a broad economic outlook. Students are not gaining a knowledge of the complexities of our economic relations with the world.

He stated that economic and political organizations are over-reaching and to some extent paralyzing one another, and that: "We have been training men in the technique of production, distribution and finance, but not for that additional 'overhead' of economics, which is necessary today."

Y. M. PLANS TO STAGE PLAY

"Little Town of Bethlehem" Will Be Given December 9

CAST IS SELECTED

Regular practices for the Y. M. C. A. Christmas play, "Little Town of Bethlehem," under the supervision of Miss Pearl Buchanan, director for the Little Theater Club, are well under way and the play has been scheduled for Wednesday evening December 9, in the Hiram Brock auditorium.

The theme of the play is centered around the life of Christ, and the romance of a Roman maiden, infatuated with a Greek poet and a Roman soldier. The leading characters will be portrayed by Louise Rutledge, Thompson Bennett, Iris Jones, Bobby Tannin, Richard Van Hoose, Odell Campbell and a few others of prominence from among the realms of the Little Theater Club and the Y organization.

Miss Allena Pardue, Yaddo Estate, New York, is the original composer of the music for the play and she has consented to loan much of it which she still has in her possession to the performers here at Eastern. The remainder of the music is being composed by Mr. Van Peursem, college department of music. Costumes are being ordered from the Cincinnati Costuming House. Staging and setting are being designed by Adolph Appa, leader in the new school of expression.

In addition to the main cast, 22 extra characters will appear, and efforts are being made at the present toward the proper interpretation of their roles.

Please

Have your MILESTONE Certificate Photographs made before December tenth.

Band Dance

The annual Thanksgiving dance sponsored by the Eastern Teachers College Band was given in the New Health Building Wednesday evening November 26. Many of the old band members attended the dance and several of the old students who came to spend the Thanksgiving holidays on the campus were there. The music was furnished by "The Kentuckians".

Sigma Lambda will have the annual initiation dinner for their pledges Thursday evening, December 3, at 5:30 p. m. in the reception room of Burnam Hall.

There will be a faculty dinner meeting Wednesday, December 2. The guests of the faculty are to be present. This is the only meeting of the kind given during the semester. Mr. Edwards will give a book review.

Four Covington girls Misses Vivian Buckshorn, Virginia Lilly, Helen Frish, and Dorothy Lee McKenzie spent the week-end November 20-22 in Covington. They attended the annual pre-Thanksgiving football game, banquet and alumni dance.

Miss Mary Katherine Burns spent Thanksgiving day with her mother, Mrs. Jean Burns in Lexington and attended the Kentucky-Tennessee game.

Miss Della Marie Coates and Virginia Alexander spent Thanksgiving Day in Lexington.

Misses Mona Daniel, Helen Stidham, Ruth Miller and Virginia Moody attended the Kentucky-Tennessee game at Lexington.

Mr. Jack Kitchen, Centre College was the week end visitor of Dan Burns.

Thanksgiving saw many of the old students back on the campus, among those were Haldon Durr, Kenneth Marshall, Frances Procter, Allington Grace, Marie Howard, and Mr. Reynolds.

Miss Mary Moren spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Moren, London, Ky.

Miss Ruth Strieblch of Covington was the guest of Miss Virginia Lilly over the Thanksgiving holidays.

Hi, everybody. What's the low down? I'll confess that Thanksgiving caused a slight depression in the scandalmonging business, but then we are consoled by the few priceless gems we did find.

CHAS. LAWHORN, the campus cop, can scarcely walk, have you noticed that? Well, he got that way trying to catch Sueanna Cheatum, when Sue's Baxtoris friend brought her home a little later than he usually does every night. Really you dignified Seniors should be more fraternal. Where is your class spirit? (Onl Riley who is watching me write this suggests that maybe they had drunk it all up.) Tsch! Tsch!

Imagine this, LUCY MITCHELL denies emphatically that THEODORE KEITH means anything in her amorous young life. And all this in the face of the fact that he is her escort at nearly all dances. She told INEZ MCKINLEY that THEODORE was utterly impossible but then didn't a girl have to get to the dance in some manner? Shame on you LUCY, you designing woman. "MOON", "BUSTHEAD", "SQUIRT", "BANGO EYES" MULLINS asked MITCHELL DENHAM if LUCY was an arm full and MIKE told her he ought to know after the Junior Hay Ride.

It is about time the editor came out with a big piece about the progress of the Milestone. The truth about the matter is that progress is at a standstill. MILDRED MAY takes up so much of J. D. TURLEY'S time that he just can't formulate the artistic plans of the book. Can't blame J. D. tho, because MICHAEL DENHAM says that MILDRED is sure a hot number.

MR. MATTOX said that he caught PROF. DICK RICHARDS and LEVADIS HOLIDAY in the ravine. He didn't say what they were doing. Looks like the discipline committee is going to have to call the PROF. on the Green Carpet.

KENNETH CANFIELD must be trying to get on good terms with the MAYES family. He and MILDRED went home for Thanksgiving dinner. She must be a believer in "The way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Well, if you know any more scandal than this don't be so tight with it next time, and let us know so the whole campus gets a chance at it.

The president of the 1931-32 Senior class requested that through this column ask all those who expect to become alumni this year, and want their pictures in the 1931-32 Milestone to please get in touch with him or with Mr. Gayle Starnes, Editor.

We are not able to present in full the addresses of all our class of '30 because we were not able to secure full information. Again we solicit the support of all Alumni to make this list complete. Class of '29, it is your turn next! Please let us hear from you.

The Class of '30 began an active class career with Senior Day. Their Senior play was "Loose Ankies" which this loyal, spirited class gave a second time during the summer school for the benefit of the Student Loan Fund.

They are now located as follows: Maude Bowen is teaching at Slade, Ky.; Hazel Broadus is doing graduate work at Peabody College; Sallie Bush is teaching at Winchester; Swopton Clayton is teaching at Morehouse, Mo.; James H. Cornett is teaching at Paint Lick; Mary Daniel (now a Mrs.) is living at Stanton; Fred Dial (our "Prowler") is at Branchland, W. Va., teaching; Mabel Dudley is at Richmond; O. J. Graham is teaching at Maysville; Colonel Hammonds is instructor at Mt. Hebron; Charles Hart is at Fleming, teaching; Geneva Hord is teaching in Richmond.

Herman Horton is principal at Grahn; Clyde Humphrey is at Morehead; Richard Jacobs is teaching in Scott county; Georgiana McGlosson is teaching at Madison High; Lloyd Martin is teaching in Madison county; Francis Mason is one of Eastern's librarians; John Masters is a teacher of Mathematics at Hagerman, Ia.; Mrs. Gladys Miller is teaching at Mitchellsburg; Willie Griggs Moores is president of the Eastern Club at Covington where she teaches; William Ogg is at Greenbrier, Ohio; Ethel Owens is at Perryville; Jessie Belle Pletcher is a housekeeper (now being Mrs.) in Cincinnati.

Alma Regenstien is teaching at Corbin; James Richardson is in Richmond; Thelma Slucher is at Midway, Ky.; Mrs. Alton Smith is at Waco; Eva Smith is teaching at Danville; Moe Stocker is at home in Richmond; Mary Taphorn is teaching in Covington; Virgil Tarter is teaching in the Fidelity school system; Flora Tate is teaching near Carr Creek; Margaret Telford is at Erlanger, Ky.; Henry Triplett is teaching at Corbin; Cecil Washburn is teaching at Blue Diamond, Ky.; Mary Washington is teaching at Russell; J. J. White is employed in the California, Ky. school system; Hortense Willoughby is teaching in Richmond; Huldah Wilson is a teacher in Covington.

Caduceus Club Elects Officers

The Caduceus Club met Monday night, November 23, to elect officers and reorganize. The Caduceus Club is the campus premedical club, organized for the purpose of studying recent researches and latest devices used in medicine. This club is entirely a study club and not a social club.

Dr. J. D. Farris, sponsor, called the meeting to order. The following officers were elected: President, William A. Cheek; Vice-president, H. L. Chinn; Secretary and Treasurer, Tom Evans.

The club meets the first and third Tuesday of each month at 6:30 p. m. in the library building.

Plant Shrubs to Beautify Campus

The administration has completed extensive additions to the physical beautification of the campus, which in time to come will be in even greater evidence than at the present. Over $600 has been paid out for shrubbery, trees of the hardwood type, and flowers, which, with the exception of the sets which were made by Hillenmyer's nursery, have been planted and cared for entirely by student labor. Many transplantings of old shrubbery to better locations have been made by students employed by the administration, and under the supervision of Dr. Farris.

Eastern's campus is at present one of the most beautiful in the state, but as most of the trees are water maples, which are short-lived, it is exceedingly desirable that they be replaced by hardwood settings such as pin oaks, white oaks, elms, or sugar maples.

the campus every day. Yes, and other famous celebrities are in our midst. Haven't you met ALEXANDER or Miss DIETRICH? or ROUSSEAU? No? Not even COLE? It may be the old king himself. Really, there is a freshman called KING, but it is rumored that the two TUDORS and a LACKEY are plotting to seize the title. If they have WITT maybe they will. At any rate the BISHOP and the four POPES will referee the scrap and the BANKS will DOWELL to finance it. When the thing is DUNN the CHAMPION will be proclaimed and a HOLIDAY decreed by the WHITEHOUSE.

IRELAND, PARIS, and BRITTON are not in Europe; they are now in Richmond. And let us hope that the SUMMERS will stay all this winter in spite of the HAIL and HALE. Let us look ahead still further: maybe the time will soon come when the FAIRCHILD, the ANGELS, the TRUE, and the FLIPPENS will jump in the only FORD and RUSH in PAYNE, thru

PARKS and LAYNES, over Hills and STONES, chased by BOGIES, and at last arrive in a HUFF and a HUBBLE at one of the BARNES or HALLS, in time for the BALL. There we shall see, to the accompaniment of HORNS, CORNETTS, BUCKSHORN & CANNON, HOWE Mr. CROSS, CHEEK to CHINN, can WALTZ with Miss COY. If the party is not too LONG or MOODY, and the WILES get no WILDER, nor comes the GAMBILL, then the affair ought to be a HELLER. And when it is over if those in charge will serve the HAMM, OLDHAM, HART, RICE, the BERRY from the BRAMBLE, the WRENN, and the HOGG, then certainly the fling will be a success. Finally, when we have heard the COX to CROWELL, the LOCKES to CLICK, and are all GANNAWAY, then remember that of all the names from AARON to ZARING, ALMA is BEST.

In conclusion read this RIDDEL: This column may be both SHARP, SMART, and TRUE, but don't take it too LITTERALL. Now IGO.

HORD CHOSEN GRID LEADER

Chosen Captain of Maroon Team at Annual Football Banquet

Ben Hord, junior and veteran of the gridiron, was elected captain of the 1932 football team at the annual banquet of the Maroons Tuesday night, November 24, in the recreation room of Burnham hall. Hord is recognized as one of the most versatile players that has performed on Eastern's squad in many years. As a triple-threat man he is able to play any position in the backfield, is a good safety man, and handles punts well.

The banquet was enlivened by a speech of inspiration from Kentucky's newly-elected lieutenant-governor, A. B. Chandler, better known as "Happy" Chandler. Praising the coaching staff and commending the progress that Eastern is making in every department, the speaker made a most acceptable talk. In reference to football and life, Chandler stated that "A team should always try to win, but it is also important to learn how to lose; because everyone sooner or later will undergo that experience. It takes a much better broken field runner and field general to dodge and get around bill collectors than it does to get thru and around a strong line and a tight backfield."

Other speakers on the banquet program were President Donovan, retiring captain, Kenneth Canfield, Dr. Dorris, Prof. Keith, Coaches Hughes and Portwood, and Prof. W. F. O'Donnell, superintendent of Madison High school.

Coach Portwood awarded numerals to the following: Captain Young, Brock, Brown, Cox, Dykes, Ellis, Evans, Hall, Hinkle, Robins, Robinson, Slone, Smart, Tarter, Tierney, Thorpe, and Manager Posten.

NET SQUAD IS WORKING WELL

Good Basketball Material From Last Year's Freshmen; Madden in Uniform

According to Coach Hughes the varsity basketball squad is developing rapidly and shows prospects of being an even better one than the cage group of last year, which defeated the Berea Mountaineers in their opening tilt in the S. I. A. A. tourney at Jackson, Miss., after they had taken the state tourney at Winchester.

Monday night's practice brought out two of the highlights of last season's net team in Ben Adams and Lawrence Hale, both of whom are in splendid physical condition for probable standing positions on this year's first string quintet.

"Of course," Hughes said, "no one has yet sewed up a position on the team this year, but from Portwood's frosh squad of 1930 there are several prospective men for the first string who are giving plenty of competition to the old players."

McDaniel, Vest and Feeback appeared in uniform Monday and seem to be going about the game like true blue veterans. They added greatly in building up a championship team for Portwood last year, and should put up equally as good a game for Coach Hughes.

ADAMS, HALE, McDANIELS

As the center of sports activities begins to change from the gridiron to the hardwood the old spirit of basketball gradually introduces itself on the campus, and Eastern is beginning to see the largest squad in history all diked out in her colors just "rarin" to go on the fine new court, which she has provided for her cage men this year in her new Weaver Health Building.

Buring the past week the old veterans from Carr Creek and around have been limbering up their stiff football muscles, and the court has been wild with the spheres arching their ways thru the hoops. Big Ben Adams, that lumbering player from up in the Carr Creek vicinity who has so eventfully disappointed the hopes of many of last years opposing scorers, seems sure of his old berth, and around him is being built another strong defense which will be impenetrable when Ben sets his head and gets that hard determined expression on his face. It is really interesting to see the boy put on that look in the midst of the battle fray, and when he does, he just seems to say, "they shall not pass", and few men have ever sailed around him for those little crip shots which so often beat a team when they are least expecting it. They don't catch Ben off his guard, and the opponents may as well take to the center of the floor for their shots at the basket as long as Ben remains in the Eastern line-up, for they are only going up against a stone wall to try to get around a net man of his caliber.

Ben has been a running mate for Zeldia Hale for the past three years now, and without him to snatch the old ball out of the hands of the opponents and pass it from the end line to the floor for offensive play, Zeldia would be almost lost. Adams is one of Turkey's best standbys. He is the iron man of the hardwood for the Big Maroons, and though there is an abundance of valuable material out this season, there are few who can rival Ben.

Another man who is stepping back into the lime light this year, a veteran player also from Carr Creek district, is Lawrence Hale, brother of Zeldia. He is one of those basketballers built on the lines of speed, and how he can dart thru an opposing defense when an opening presents itself. Lawrence was one of the leading scorers of last year's delegation, and was somewhat of a triple threat to the hardest teams on the 1930 card. He has been slicing the nets with the ball in a regular Maroon uniform too for the past week, and his appearance this year as one of the leading forwards to carry on for Old Eastern is more promising than ever. Hale is in more than excellent shape, and seems to be picking up speed at every practice. Like his other brothers, who have made basketball history for the Maroons, he is a natural born basketeer. It is little wonder that Lawrence can so easily find the loop; it runs in the family. He possesses that natural love for the game that has helped mold him into such a valuable player. When the team travels to Springfield in December to play Wittenberg, Lawrence should find himself in a regular position giving the Ohio boys plenty to worry about.

There is one man who has ascended from the realms of last year's frosh delegation that played a big part in carrying "Al" Portwood's Little Maroons to a state championship, and that is no one else but T. C. McDaniels, commonly called "Mac" on the court. He is out in varsity colors every afternoon now, and is putting up some of the keenest competition for the contenders of positions on the first string five that even the casual observer couldn't miss. "Mac" made a fine record as a center last year for the yearlings, and this time he is seen putting even more spring into those muscles and getting up to unusual heights to tip the sphere easily over several of his competitors. He is a man of importance to any cage group, and he is one of the most promising and reliable centers that Coach Hughes has out for the team.

"Mac" comes from Portwood's supervision well trained to rapidly outwit his opponent at the center berth. He is sly on the jump, and presents a form hard to equal in all the duties attached to the center position. He will most probably see much service this year on "Turkey's" team, and in the years ahead of him a bright future on the court should be in store. He is a good goal shot, a good defensive man, and a splendid offensive man, so with these features combined with good sportsmanship, McDaniels fully deserves to wear the Maroon.

pigskin on their own twenty. At the opening of the final period the Little Maroons drove ten yards to the thirty for a first down and Tarter tore off eight thru the center of the line, but Kentucky forced them to punt. At this point came the most exciting play of the game when Billbro took the Maroon punt on his own 25 and evaded all tacklers except Hall who finally stopped his 57 yard dash on Eastern's 20 to save the game. Hall made one of the most spectacular tackles ever seen at Eastern, for after overtaking the Kentuck back, he had to take a big gamble in his dive from behind and his lunge just did bring him in contact with Billbro's heel.

Dykes, for the Little Maroons, smeared the Kentucky backfield for a 15 yard loss following Hall's tackle and a penalty on the Kittens brought the ball out to Eastern's 35 as the time keeper announced 6 minutes of playing time until the final gun. Hall then opened another attack on the Kentucky delegation with several line drives which were terminated by Robinson and Tarter, who added another first for Al's eleven, to carry deep into Kentucky territory, threatening another score for the Eastern yearlings. But fate was against them and a penalty returned the pigskin to mid field again. Sloane took Robinson's place in the Maroon line up and made a neat tackle of the Kentucky receiver of Eastern's punt, which traveled to Kentucky's ten yard stripe.

Kentucky attempted the air again in order to pass the Maroon line, but Tarter slipped thru and muffed up the play to intercept a pass and gain possession of the ball for Eastern on the visitors' twenty yard line as the gun cracked to end the game with a final score of 8-6 in favor of Portwood's boys.

As a whole the game was characterized by a punting and passing duel between the two teams. Little distance was gained thru the Maroon line by the Kentucky boys who made the major parts of their gains thru aerial heaves. On the other hand, Eastern made consecutive drives thru the Kentucky line in many instances, and their first score was attributed almost solely to line plays.

FRESHMEN WIN FINAL

Defeat Kentucky Kitten Reserves 8 to 6; Hall Averts Defeat

MUCH OF PUNTING DUEL

A wave of despair passed over the Eastern stands in that final contest between Al Portwood's Little Maroons and the Kentucky Kitten Reserves here Saturday, Nov. 21, when an 8-6 victory seemed trampled in the dust as Billbro, stellar Kentucky back, charged down the field towards his goal for over fifty-seven yards in the last six minutes of play, but out of the scrimmage pile came a fleet-footed Maroon back who answers to the name of Hall to chase, down that flying mass of football brawn and tackle him on Eastern's 20 yard marker, saving the day for the Little Maroons and capturing victory for Eastern.

Not only did Hall show up in the last few minutes of play, but all during the contest he was responsible for the major gains for the Little Maroons and also for both the first tally, which came in the early part of the second quarter, and for the safety, which resulted from his tackling Cottrell behind Kentucky's goal line late in that same period.

The first score for the Little Maroons came early in the second period when they took the ball on a punt on their own 22 yard stripe. Hall then took five yards and added eighteen to place the pigskin on Eastern's 44 yard marker. Robinson took a pass from Robbins for a ten yard gain and a first down on Kentucky's 46. The Kentucky line stopped the attack temporarily and Robinson punted to Saunders who fumbled on his own twelve yard line to give Eastern a recovery that enabled Hall to buck the line on the fourth down with two to go for the tally of six points. The point after touchdown failed.

On the kick-off Kentucky received the ball on her own 30 and carried to Eastern's 45 marker before being downed. Arnold was injured on an attempted block for Kentucky on the next play. Kentucky then pnted over the Eastern goal and the Maroons received the ball on their own twenty. A penalty on the Little Maroons for holding placed the ball back on the goal line, but Tarter bounced off tackle for twelve yards to bring the ball out to safe territory. Following that,

Dice picked up a fumbled punt in the Kentucky backfield to dart for sixty yard run over the Kentucky goal line and apparently a score for Eastern, but the ball was brought back to midfield by the officials in the Maroons' possession.

The second score of the game for Eastern came after the Little Maroons had driven the Kittens on line plays down the field back of their own goal and forced them to try a punt out of the rut. Cottrell fumbled and Hall dashed thru for the Maroons to cover the Kentucky back and declare a safety of two points to Eastern's credit.

Kentucky drove nara on a kick-off from the twenty to Portwood's boys who took the ball back of the fifty and returned a punt to Kentucky's 15 yard stripe. A penalty on the Eastern yearlings brought the ball back to Kentucky's 45. Holding for downs, the Little Maroons recovered the ball and attempted a long pass to Tierney who fumbled, but Robbins darted in just in time to pick up the ball before it grazed the field to make a gain of twenty yards as the time keeper ended the half with the score standing at 8-0 in favor of Al's yearlings.

As the second half opened Dog Young took the field at center for Tierney in the Eastern line. Eastern received the ball on her own 20 yard line and carried it to the 35. Kentucky recovered a fumble in the Eastern back field, but a penalty stopped their line onslaught in mid field. Resorting to the air, Kentucky then sent Billbro down to take a 15 yard heave but he was downed in his tracks by Young. Billbro then took 20 yards more for Kentucky on an aerial heave, and was downed deep in Maroon territory. With the ball resting on the five yard mark, in Kentucky's possession, the Little Maroons made a half attempt to check the blue and white threat, but the visitors drove to Eastern's three and Billbro scored thru the center of the line. The placement failed and the score stood at 8 to 6 for the Maroons.

From the kick-off, Hall carried the ball for the Little Maroons from his own 10 to his 45. Tarter then took six thru the line and the next play the Maroons attempted to take the air over Kentucky's head, but Saunders spooled the heave and was downed with the ball in Kentucky's possession on their own 35. Eastern took a penalty for offside which gave Kentucky five more yards, and a long punt put the ball in the safety hands on Eastern's five. The Little Maroon safety ran out on his own 35 in carrying the ball back. Kentucky intercepted another pass and once more threatened a score deep in the Maroon territory. As the third quarter ended, Eastern held Kentucky for downs and took the
