NUMBER 5

New Dormitory Rules

By DORTHY WASH

During the past few weeks, the most revolutionary change in dormitory rules, that has been made on this campus for a number of years was formulated, and is at the present being observed. The program was organized by the members of the Women's Residence Hall Organization, under the direction of the president, Joan Everling. The W. R. H. O. has worked hard to put this program into effect. The program is now on trial. If, at the end of the present semester, it is approved, it will be adopted permanently.

The program provides that for freshmen, any girl may remain out until 9:00 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights. This will enable the girls to go to the library without having to receive special permission. The main purpose of the new program is to promote better study habits. It is intended to keep the dormitory reasonably quiet at all hours, so that a girl can study in her room before 9:00. After 9:00, it can truly be said of Burnam Hall, "that all through the dorm, not a creature is stirring, not even a freshman."

On weekends a freshman may remain out until 11:00. Thus, the plan is, if a girl really studies hard on week nights, she is entitled to extra privileges on weekends.

At present the sophomores observe these same rules, while the juniors and seniors have several additional privileges. The juniors are allowed out one week night until 10:00, while the seniors have every week night until 10:00. Both juniors and seniors have the same weekend privileges.

A plan is now underway to establish a Junior College level and a Senior College level. According to this plan, the sophomores and freshmen would observe the same rules, and the seniors and juniors would observe the same rules, thereby eliminating much confusion when the girls check in.

Another important feature of this program is the "automatic campus." This means that when the clock in the Student Union Building stops striking on the hour when any of the girls must be in, any girl who enters the building within the next ten minutes is automatically campused the following Friday night. If a girl enters the dormitory more than ten minutes late, her name is given to the House Council. This rule applies for both week nights and weekends.

There hasn't been too much difficulty concerning this rule, as the girls have made a special effort to enter the dorm before the specified time. The House Council is rigidly enforcing their rules, in order to curtail the number of girls who check in late. Of course, one story is floating around concerning the freshmen who attended a movie downtown on Saturday night, soon after the rule went into effect. It seems that during the course of the movie, a clock struck—Eleven Times. Our heroine leaped to her feet, grabbed her escort by the arm, and dashed madly from the theater!

However, considering the problem from every angle, the majority of the girls wholeheartedly approve the new program. Perhaps, this is especially true of the freshmen, because a more noticeable change was made in their regulations. The girls are all doing their best to cooperate and make the program a success, in order that it will be permanently adopted February.

The girls appreciate the approval of the plan by Mrs. Case, dean of women. Mrs. Case has expressed her complete approval, and believes that it is the beginning of Student Government, on a larger scale, for campus women.

Betty Gurley, social chairman of the House Council, has announced another new program which the House Council is sponsoring. This new program is the opening of the Recreation Room of Burnam Hall, on Saturday nights. The purpose of this program is to provide a place where the girls can entertain their dates. The room, which will be equipped with a radio, phonograph, ping-pong tables, and magazines, will be open from 7:30 to 11:15, starting this Saturday night, Dec. 4. Each week, two members of the House Council will act as hostesses.

In addition to the weekly parties, once a month each member of the House Council will entertain the section of the dormitory that she represented in the recreation room. Games will be played, and sandwiches and coffee will be served.

Plans are also being made to establish a flower fund, to be used in case of the death of a member of a girl's family. Each girl will contribute a quarter each semester for the fund.

During the following months, the House Council will present other new ideas, which will be for the pleasure and comfort of the girls in Burnam Hall.

Caduceus Club Meets

On Wednesday evening, November 17, the Caduceus Club met in the Roark Building. Mr. Cox, sponsor of the club introduced the speaker Mrs. Shelby Carr, of Richmond, whose subject was, "The Volunteer Health Program of Madison County." She spoke of the workers, now numbering over 300, and the improvements they had made in the one-room schools. The club was shown films that were made at the schools, showing the conditions that existed there, and the improvements that had been made.

In the business meeting that followed, the newly elected president, Don Carman, presided. Plans for the new year were discussed, and a program committee was appointed. This committee planned the programs for the remainder of the semester. The regular meeting time is the second and fourth Wednesdays at 7:00.

KAY STURGILL

Industrial Arts Department On Tour

The Industrial Arts department of Eastern under the direction of Mr. Ralph W. Whalin, Mr. N. G. Deniston, Mr. David Barnes, and Mr. G. A. Abner sponsored a successful field trip to Louisville, Ky., November 4th. It was attended by sixty-nine students.

The places to be viewed were two of the major industrial plants of Louisville, namely: Consider H. Willett, Inc., and plant number twelve of the Reynolds Metal Co. Methods of mass production and types of machinery used were the main topics to be observed, along with care and maintenance of the machinery, and utilization of materials.

The schedule for the trip did not include a third plant, but owing to the uncertainty of the allotted time it would take to view the first plant, enough time was at hand for a thorough tour through the new Courier-Journal Building.

Mr. Ralph W. Whalin, head of the industrial arts dept. attended the Mississippi Valley Industrial Arts Conference in Chicago, November 11, 12, and 13. This organization is composed of one representative from each industrial arts department in the 18 states representing the Mississippi Valley. The conference is conducted as a round-table open forum with three members presenting the topic in each session and each one in conference contributing to the discussion. Mr. Whalin visited the campus of the University of Illinois on his return trip.

The industrial arts dept. of Eastern was host to the industrial arts staff members of the four state institutions on November 19 and 20. In this group were three from Eastern, four from Western, two from Murray and two from Morehead state colleges.

The program planned for this group was Friday Night, the football game, Eastern vs. Northern Illinois; Saturday morning they toured Eastern's industrial arts department and Berea's student industries and industrial arts shops; Saturday afternoon was given to a conference in the Student Union Building.

Mr. L. T. Smith, head of the industrial arts department of Western State College, serves as permanent chairman for the group. This organization meets annually

Campus Choices Named

A campus-wide election was held on November 22, 23 to determine this year's Miss Eastern and Mr. and Miss Popularity.

The final vote on November 23 showed that Kay Sturgill, a senior from Corbin, was elected Miss Eastern. Miss Sturgill is a home economics major. She has been affiliated with the Home Economics Club for four years, the Kyma Club for two years, and was a member of Cwens. Kay will represent Eastern at the Mountain Laurel Festival this year.

Charlotte Newell was voted Miss Popularity by the students. Charlotte is a commerce major from Maysville. While at Eastern she has been a member of Sigma Tau Pi, president of Collegiate Pentacle, Senior Advisor to Cwens, Vice President of the House Council, a cheerleader, member of Kyma Club, co-feature editor of the Milestone, and was named in Who's Who among students. She is employed as Mrs. Case's secretary.

Herbie Williams, a sophomore from Maysville, was named Mr. Popularity. Herbie is a social science major. He is a member of the Catholic Club and is a Kyma Club tryout.

The nominations were made on November 22. The candidates for Miss Eastern were Kay Sturgill, Adelaide Byron, and Mary Elizabeth Moore. The nominees for Mr. Popularity were Herbie Williams, Bud Moore and Tommy Smith. Mae Marcum, Nancy Hudnall and Charlotte Newell were nominated for Miss Popularity.

The Milestone staff reported that there was a large turnout in voting this year.

Math Club Meetings

The Math Club has held four meetings this year. The officers of the club, elected last spring, are: Alvin McGlosson, president; Nina Hellard, secretary; Fred Miller, treasurer; and Sara Miller, reporter. The following committees have been appointed: Program committee, Peggy McGuire, chairman, Fletcher Gabbard, Henry Bindel; Attendance and Membership committee, Nina Hellard, chairman, James Franklin, Jim Fathergill.

The new members taken in this year include: Glenn Judy, Carolyn Clark, Fred Engle, Artie Wells, Wayne Maddox, John Litton, Joy Lee, Eleanor McConnell, and Paul Cox.

The general purpose of the programs this year is to show how mathematics can be used after graduation. The first program was a talk on "Actuary Mathematics" by Helen Parks. The second in the series was on "Government Positions for Mathematicians, Physicists, and Statisticians" by Mary Lou Ford. Henry Bindel, after making a survey of the campus, gave the opinions of several of Eastern's students as to what they thought of mathematics and physics.

17th Presentation Of "Messiah" Dec. 12

The Eastern Kentucky State College chorus and the Harmonia Society of Berea College will present the 17th annual joint performance of Handel's oratorio, the "Messiah", Sunday evening, December 12, at 7:30 p. m. in Hiram Brock Auditorium and at the Union Church in Berea Wednesday evening, December 15, at 7:30 p. m.

Soloists at the presentation in Richmond will include Myron Carlisle, baritone, of Chicago; Miss Margaret Thuenemann, contralto, of Cincinnati; Miss Nellie Marie Stuart, soprano, of Oberlin, Ohio, and Arthur Schoenberger, tenor, of Cincinnati.

The Eastern orchestra will provide accompaniment for the production at Richmond, and the Berea College orchestra will play at the presentation in Union Church. James E. Van Peursem, director of music at Eastern, will conduct the performance here. The Berea performance is directed by Richard Warner, head of the Berea College music department.

Annual Christmas Service To Be Held At College Sunday

The annual Christmas service, "The Hanging of the Greens," sponsored at Eastern State College each year just before the holidays by the YMCA and YWCA organizations of the college, will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in Walnut Hall of the Student Union Building.

The program will include the candle procession and hanging of the greens, solo by Miss Emily Richards, of Liberty, who will sing "Birthday of a King", a song by the audience, "There's A Song In the Air."

The scripture reading—"Prophecy," by Fred Mallott, Antwerp, Ohio; "The Fulfillment," Miss Marianella Thompson, Ewing; "The Kingdom," Edward Strommeier, Frankfort; "Oh, Holy Night," sung by a quartet composed of John Stephens, Batavia, Ohio; Miss Shirley Tracy, Bellevue; James Fothergill, Carrollton; Betty Blair, Harlan.

The message will be brought by the Reverend E. W. Baxter, of Frankfort. The audience will sing "Follow the Glean," and following the address, "Joy to the World." The benediction will be asked by Kenneth Wall, of Waynesburg.

Chimes will be played before and after the program. The public is invited to attend this service.

Is There a Santa Claus?

(From New York Sun, 1897)

We take pleasure in answering at once the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

"Dear Editor:
"I am 8 years old. Some of little friends say there is no Santa Claus."

"Papa says if you see it in the Sun it's so. Please tell me the truth, is there a Santa Claus?"
"Virginia O'Hanlon."

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant; in his intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those which neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. It is all real. Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood.

Service Planned For Eastern Students

A special Christmas Service, with students from Eastern State College officiating, will be held at Christ Church Episcopal Sunday.

The Service, which is the last for the students before the Christmas recess, will begin with an organ prelude of Christmas music followed by a procession made up of the Seabury Club Choir of Eastern.

Richard Heile and William Rankin will read lessons from the Bible, and Mrs. William Joos will read a short Christmas message. The sermon, stressing youth and the Christmas season, will be delivered by Robert W. Estill, rector of Christ Church.

During the Offertory, Miss Shirley Tracy will sing a solo. Members of the Seabury Choir will be: Miss Shirley Tiegan, Marilynn Haas, Joyce Binder, Mary Jean Binder, Sue Ann Lloyd, Marilyn Walker, Phyllis Powell, Messers. Blaine Moore, Melvin Dickerson, George Vardeu, George Robinson, and William Joos.

Slight Fire Reported On Eastern Campus

A slight fire of uncertain origin broke out in a small mailing room of the student newspaper, the Eastern Progress, in the basement of the Administration Building at Eastern State College early today, filling the building with smoke and sending first-hour classes in orderly procession to the campus, while a small group of fighters quickly doused the flames with buckets of water and opened the windows for air.

The fire was discovered by G. M. Brock, business agent of the college. The cause of the blaze was thought to be a cigarette either left in the room or carelessly thrown over an improvised wall separating the mailing space from adjacent store rooms.

The damage was slight. An overturned table, a mass of charred envelopes and last year's newspapers, a half-burned headline proclaiming "Welcome Alumni," and a scorched "Hell Week" column beginning with the warning: "The populace of Richmond may observe strange and baffling sights in the near future."

Concerning that future, and its ever-present hazard from careless smoking on the campus, a lively discussion ensued among the bystanders. But all were reassured when the leading fire fighter emerged from the blackened room serenely puffing a cigar.

The situation was clearly well in hand.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

The afternoon card game was going full blast in the crowded, noisy "Rec" room. The janitor, his name doesn't matter, was picking his way, sweeping, along the scattered groups of people. Doing his job—doing it as quickly, as efficiently as he knew how.

He came to the table where the card game had reached a momentary lull in action. He asked, in a quiet, respectful tone, that the table be moved so that the litter underneath might be swept away. Yet they grumbled, and someone even cursed, at such a reasonable request.

The chairs were shoved roughly to a new location. The table was jerked away, spilling a deck of cards on the floor. The janitor looked first at the cards, then at the boys, already settling themselves for another hand. "Here are your cards," he said, in the same quiet, serious voice. "Yeah, we know. Just put 'em there on the table."

And so a man, perhaps twice the age of anyone else in the room, got down on his hands and knees in the dirty floor and picked up a deck of cards that he hadn't dropped.

That man lives in the same community where we are guests. He speaks the same language that we do. He worships the same God. He breathes the same air. Yet, there he was, on his knees, picking up someone else's cards—and not one soul offered to help him. Higher Education? ? ?

Chemistry In The Home

By CHEMISTRY 220

As today's housewife wakes to the sound of an electric clock cased in attractive plastic box, she glances about her pleasant up-to-date bedroom—the walls with their soft green water-paint, inexpensive and easy to apply; the gay chintz drapes and slipcovers, with a glaze that doesn't wash off; the pretty, easy-to-clean inlaid linoleum that doesn't scar off. She slips into her brightly printed robe, knowing that its colors will stay bright and clear, even with repeated washings—thanks to modern dyeing processes and chemistry.

The urgent cries of her small son, sends her rushing into the nursery, where she quickly makes him comfortable and gets his early morning bottle of milk, heated in a special electric bottle warmer. The toy she gives him to play with is of a special bright plastic which can be kept clean by boiling. This room is one of the most carefully planned rooms in the house. Every surface can be cleaned easily, and the windows are of silica glass which flood the room with ultraviolet rays.

In her gleaming kitchen Mrs. Housewife puts on her plastic apron and rapidly makes breakfast preparations for her family. The menus for the day, which were carefully planned, were left in the kitchen for quick reference. She may feel sure that the milk left on her doorstep carries no disease germs to her children—its pasteurized label assures her of its safety. The coffee she brews in her fire-glass vacuum coffee-maker will be good. She knows her children will get the full benefit from the eggs she cooks on a very slow fire—because she understands the effect of heat on protein. Into the oven go biscuits, sure to rise with the proper proportion of flour, milk, shortening, and baking powder.

When her husband and two children come into the breakfast nook, they are instantly cheered by the gaiety of the table—its bright, red plastic surface set with pale-blue pottery dishes. Their appetites are quickly awakened by the aromas coming from the kitchen.

Even though it is raining outside, this mother sends her children to school knowing that they will arrive dry, since their coats have been treated to turn water and their rubber boots are snug and dry. They pile into the family car with Dad, and the noknock gasoline in the fuel tank sets to work with the turn of the ignition key.

Noticing that the plastic porch furniture is still out, she goes to the telephone and calls Mr. Ware to tell him that she is ready to have her furniture stored for the winter.

Mrs. Housewife, left alone with her work, snaps on the plastic radio for company. In spite of the rain, she begins her Monday wash. Sorted into neat piles, her laundry task is begun. Garments that have been stained are put on a counter which has her stain remover box—oxalic acid, carbontetrachloride, acetic acid, hydrogen peroxide. White clothes are put into soak with a mild Florox solution to keep them white. Her rayon and nylon undergarments go in a special tub for gentle handling. The soap she chooses isn't really a soap in the full sense of the word, but one of the many artificial detergents developed in the chemist's laboratory.

HOLLYWOOD BOUND—Paul Wright, one of the greatest centers ever to play on the Eastern gridiron, will depart for the west coast next week to play in an all-star football game. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, the football classic will be made up of four teams. Countries represented in this pigskin tourney will include U. S., Hawaii, Canada and Mexico. All games will be played in Gillmore Stadium, Hollywood, California.

As each tub full is finished, it is placed in a special dryer which rapidly prepares the clothes for the ironing board. Mrs. Housewife's iron is thermostatically controlled so that each type of fabric receives the correct treatment.

Although she works alone in her household cleaning, Mrs. Housewife receives much help in the form of special cleaners for paint, paper, and silver.

As for her personal grooming, this modern lady knows that she can retain her beauty for many years. Her knowledge of diet and exercise are basic, but the application of make-up gives her appearance its finishing touch. Here she must be careful to choose products which are gentle to her skin as well as pleasing to the eye.

Mrs. Housewife takes an hour out of her daily routine to "dress up" for her family. In her porcelain tub with its no skid bottom, she treats herself to the luxury of a bath oil. The water will not leave a ring around the tub, since the water tank has a water-softener attachment. The curtains at the window and shower are of a long wearing plastic material.

When her family arrives home late in the afternoon from office and school, they are greeted by a home, modern in appearance, neat and clean; by a supper scientifically planned and prepared; by a wife and mother, charming and attractive, who knows how to make chemistry work for the welfare of those she loves and "for the home".

Rec. Room Dirt

"Our Student Union Building is a source of pride locally and the object of envy among the colleges of the nation. We ought to prove ourselves worthy of such a building by taking the best possible care of it," said President W. F. O'Donnell in an interview concerning the dirty condition of the Recreation Room and Grill of the Student Union Building.

"The dirt has become a serious problem", continued the President. "Something should be done about it. That something can only be done by the students themselves."

Although President O'Donnell did not suggest any specific plan of action which might be used in a "Clean Up" campaign; some very good practices on the part of the students would be:

1. Do not carry food from the Grill to the "Rec" room
 2. Wipe your feet on the mat at the foot of the outside stairs before entering the room. It is provided for just that purpose.
 3. Do not throw waste paper on the floor. There are several receptacles standing around the two rooms. Put it in them.
- Our "Rec room is, after all, a place of leisure. It is the place where we go to relax; we should try to keep it as clean and neat as we keep our room, or even our home. Let's try it for a little while. After all, what can we lose?

And Without Hesitation

By BILLY REID

She was an old woman, yes, a very old woman. Her eyes were dull and glassy, her face was covered with the deep shadows of ageing wrinkles. Her long ankle length dress was patched and worn as was the thread bare smock she used for a coat.

I could not help watching as her thin and knotted fingers nervously inspected each item of that filthy, contaminated, container of garbage. Anxiously she was seeking something, yes anything, that might add to her lowly existence. At last she found a crumb of bread. Without hesitation she began to eat.

Could this be America; the land of the free, the home of the brave; the land of golden opportunity, the land of prosperity and plenty? And could it be that this old woman, at that moment, was a symbol of time. Could it be that time would bring to America, to a greater degree then already, this very thing. As I thought of the possibilities of another depression, and of the Berlin crisis, and communism and atheism that abounds today; and of the gigantic destructive power of the atom bomb; and of the damnable hate that lurks in the hearts of men, I could easily see this old woman and time as one.

Frosh Break Even

By JEROME YOUNG

Progress Sports Reporter

Eastern's freshman basketball squad scored an impressive 63-37 victory over the Hutchinson Drug team of Lexington here last Monday night after bowing in their opener a week earlier to Campbellsville Junior in a 78-75 thriller.

Frosh forward Elmer Tolson paced the Eastern scorers in both tilts. In the opener he tallied 27 markers. Against the Lexington independent crew he echalked up 18.

The Maroon frosh quintet is coached by Lee Gellenbeck, assistant cage mentor.

"E" Faces Kansas, Wesleyan, Western

Indiana Central And Dayton U. Are Victims

By The Sports Editor

Seeking their third consecutive victory of the new season, the varsity basketballers play host to a highly touted Kansas State Teachers College quintet here tonight. On Saturday night the Maroons invade Winchester for a tussle with Coach Bullet Wilson's Kentucky Wesleyan squad.

Next Wednesday is the night—Eastern meets Western!! The Hill-toppers will be our "guests" in the Weaver Health Building gym in one of the most important collegiate games in the nation. The Maroon cagers could win all three of these coming contests—if they play the type of ball they are capable of. These coming tilts can only be won with a lot of hustle, good ball handling, fighting for the rebounds, working the intricate plays which Coach Paul McBrayer has been teaching in the many weeks of preparation and "a strong will to get the job done." That's what it will take to beat Kansas, Wesleyan and . . . Western.

Win Two Games

The opening victory over Indiana Central by a 65-55 margin, was a typical curtain-raiser for the Maroons. The varsity did not perform with the exactness which local fans are accustomed to seeing them display. However, the lads of "Big E" started out in fine shape by jumping to an 8-1 lead in the opening minutes, never to be headed.

In this tilt Chuck Mrazovich and Paul Hicks paced the scoring with 21 and 17 points respectively. Jim Baechtold, promising freshman forward, made an outstanding debut in tallying 12 points as a reserve, playing in most of the second half action.

Top Dayton 48-40

Sparked by the play of Walter "Speedy" Reid, Russell Roberts and Jim Baechtold, Eastern staged a second half comeback to whip a fighting Dayton University quintet 48-40 in the Gem City last Saturday night.

The Dayton Flyers jumped to an early 5-0 lead on a pair of fielders and a foul shot. With the Eastern offensive bogged down by loose ball handling, the Flyers moved into the halftime intermission with a 24-19 lead. It was the play of Speedy Reid in the first half which kept the Maroon victory hopes alive. The speedy guard from Newark, Ohio hit three long shots in addition to steadying the Maroon offensive.

Comeback

Shortly after the second half got under way, Mrazovich, Baechtold and Roberts mounted the Maroon score with a series of goals to tie the count at 29-29. With 11 minutes of play remaining, Mrazovich tossed in a hook shot that put the Maroons ahead 31-29, a lead which they maintained for the remainder of the game.

In second half play, it was the floor work of Reid and Roberts that sparked the Eastern attack while Baechtold and Mrazovich were strong on tip-ins and defensive rebounds. Baechtold paced the point makers with 13 while Mrazovich trailed closely with 12 markers.

Aiken Ties

Bill Aiken, star Maroon griddier of the 1947 squad, was married recently in Pikeville. The lucky gal is a former Eastern student, Dot Lafeveres.

CAPTAIN—When the varsity gridders cast their votes in electing the team captain for the 1948 season, guard Delmas Freeman was the winner by a wide margin. Freeman's election marks the second successive year that an Evarts High School product has captained an Eastern football team. Last year, Bill Aiken won the honor. Freeman is a senior and has plans of coaching following his graduation next summer.

Maroon Gridders Close Season Victoriously

Eastern's "Maroon Knights" of the gridiron were treated as royally as kings on their trip into Dixie land to play Southeastern Louisiana College in the final pigskin battle of the 1948 season. Coach Tom Samuels' warriors showed their appreciation of the fine treatment by trouncing the Southeastern Lions 26-7.

The trip south began on Monday evening, Nov. 22. (As chief rooter Dean Moore put it, "the team went to the south, the deep south that is.") In preparation for the Lions, the varsity gridders drilled on Saturday and Sunday afternoons following the last home tilt with Northern Illinois. Early Monday afternoon the final home workout of the year was staged on the campus practice lot.

Boarding a reliable Black Brothers bus Monday evening, the Maroon crew headed for Louisville to make train connections. A short while after their arrival, the squad members were aboard a pullman car headed for the next leg of the journey—Memphis, Tenn.

As the train pulled away from the Louisville terminal, many of the Eastern gridders were already "tucked away" in their respective berths. A few lingered in a comfortable observation car until the usual bedtime, ten o'clock.

At the crack of dawn as the train rolled through the Tennessee cotton lands it was Joe Dove who was the first to rise. Dove, always an early riser, was busy shaving when your reporter yawned into the rolling washroom. Within the next thirty minutes the entire squad was up, washed and packed, ready to make the breakfast call in Memphis. Twenty minutes after arriving in that city, the entire crew had eaten the morning meal and was ready to board a southbound train.

The remainder of that day was spent in a modern comfortable chair car carrying only the Eastern travelling squad.

At nightfall the destination was reached. A short walk followed and then the Easternites set up a two-day stand at the Casa de Fresa Hotel in Hammond, La. Following the supper meal, the varsity gridders boarded a bus and took a short ride to Strawberry Stadium for a brief pre-game workout, one felt fairly convinced that "Big E" would certainly take this one. And that they did.

Bright and early the next morning while the Maroons were still asleep, your reporter, accompanied by Dean Moore, headed for "the land of dreams," New Orleans. In the Mardi Gras city we took in a hurried view of the tourist havens after accomplishing the mission of supplying the local press and radio with information on that Eastern

Kentucky football team. Gametime

When the Maroons took to the field Wednesday night, the Louisiana fans stood up and took notice as the team which was dressed in the classy maroon and white uniforms charged onto the gridiron. Two hours later these same fans applauded as the Easternites carried their coaches from the field after walloping the hosts 26-7. The Eastern team played a great game that night. They had to in order to defeat the home team which boasted a starting lineup of eleven seniors, all of which were named co-captains.

Banquet

After packing away their gridirons for the last time, the Maroons took a short bus ride to an exclusive eatery labeled the "Cave." What took place was an after-game dinner, in actuality it was a private banquet for the team and the hard working coaching staff. After the senior members expressed their gratitude of being a member of this fine team, the coaches exclaimed their feelings of satisfaction on the team's play.

Early Thanksgiving-day morn, the long trip home got underway. Boarding the "City of New Orleans" the varsity crew members made themselves comfortable for the long rail journey. That train convinced all on it that it was the most modern on the rails for it was complete with soft, roomy seats, air conditioning and a spacious lounge car equipped with a powerful radio. The train traveled at a speed upwards of 65 miles

Varsity Picks Gridiron Foes

Ohio Valley Conference team members dominated the "All Opponents Team" selected by the Maroons at the close of the 1948 football season last week.

One unanimous choice highlighted the balloting. That honor went to Xavier's outstanding center, O'Dea.

A close battle took place in the voting for the all-opponent quarterback with Western's Jim Pickens gaining a one vote edge over Fortunato of Northern Illinois. By virtue of his great play against the Maroons, Pickens gained the nod also over Xavier's ace passer, McQuade.

The other selections include: Browning of Western and DeFrancisco of Xavier at ends, Mullins of Morehead and Wettergreen of Southeastern Louisiana at tackles, Gerhardt of Evansville and Macaluso of Southeastern Louisiana at guards. Wing of Morehead and Logel of Evansville at halfbacks and Wetzel of Marshall at full-back.—PD.

THE SPOTLIGHT By FRED ENGLE, JR.

The Spotlight shines this week on Jim Baechtold, freshman hoopster from Coraopolis, Pennsylvania.

Jim stands 6 feet, three inches and weighs 190 pounds. He is twenty years old and served two years in the Army. While in the Army he was stationed in Japan.

Before going to the Army, Jim played basketball at Moon Township High School. During his Senior year he tossed in 320 points.

He is majoring in Phys. Ed. at Eastern and hopes to be a coach. He scored 12 points in Eastern's first game and should be a great help to the Maroon team this year and in future years.

an hour. Station stops were announced over a loud speaker hidden in each car, replacing the old fashioned method of a conductor groaning the names of the towns.

It was a tired but happy squad of Eastern Maroons that arrived on the campus early Friday morning. Months of hard work of football preparations had come to an end. The end was a successful one for this year's team established itself as truly one of Eastern's greatest.

SPORT SHOTS

By PAUL DUNCAN, Sports Editor

Coach Tom Samuels' varsity gridders successfully closed their 1948 pigskin campaign by trouncing Northern Illinois 32-7 in the home final and then walloping Southeastern Louisiana College 26-7 in the strawberry enter.

In chalking up a record of 8 wins against three losses in a long and tough eleven game schedule, the Maroon gridiron machine established one of the best records in the history of Eastern football. In fact, according to Head Football Coach Tom Samuels, this is the "best record of any Eastern team." Although other Eastern teams had better won and loss records, this year's squad played against competition which was of much higher caliber.

Home Finale

Playing on a soggy gridiron in their home finale against a bigger Huskie squad from Northern Illinois State College, the Maroons performed like champions in winning a 32-7 verdict.

The varsity's first touchdown was scored by Paul Moore from the four-yard line early in the first quarter. A poor Illinois punt had given the Maroons the ball on the visitors' 29 a few plays previously.

Chuck Hertzler intercepted an Illinois pass and ran 47 yards before being knocked out of bounds on the one-foot line in the second quarter. Harry Sweesy went over for Eastern's second T. D.

Northern Illinois scored its only touchdown in the second period when Quinto Squadroni ran over guard for 23 yards. Eastern really turned on the power in the third quarter. On the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter, Moore ran 78 yards for a touchdown. Sweesy almost duplicated the feat by galloping 74 yards to pay dirt a few minutes later.

Sophomore end Harold Kittrell ended the scoring in the last quarter. Kittrell, playing his best collegiate game, blocked an Illinois punt on the loser's 28, picked up the ball on the 15 and ran over the goal line unmolested. Kittrell played a brilliant defensive game all evening.

Strawberry Bowl

The Maroons avenged a 1947 defeat from the Lions of Southeastern Louisiana College by giving them a 26-7 beating in Strawberry Stadium at Hammond, La. Paced by six seniors playing their final game, Eastern struck early in jumping to a 19-0 lead in the first quarter.

Ed Zoretic started the fireworks in the season finale when he took a pass from Chuck Hertzler on his own 38 and ran 62 yards for the first touchdown. Bub Moore converted to make it Eastern 7 and Southeastern Louisiana 0. Two minutes later the Maroons recovered an enemy fumble on the host's 21-yard line to set up the second score. The tally came about when Hertzler faded back and pitched a perfect pass to end Bob Tankosh who was standing in the end zone.

A third Eastern score came in the same period when halfback Russ Russo received a quick kick and behind good blocking dashed 69 yards to pay dirt. After the home eleven pushed one score across, Eastern commanded a 19-7 lead.

Late in the fourth quarter it was Ed Zoretic again scoring for the varsity. The blonde haired scabbard stole an enemy pass on the enemy 20 and sped to the end zone untouched. Final score: Maroons 26, Lions 7.

Wit Maroon center Paul Wright seeing only limited action, Joe Dove took over the center spot and turned in a fine performance. After compiling as fine a record as the one made this season, Eastern will, no doubt, have difficulty scheduling games for next season. Is that right, Louisville?

MAROON MARDI GRAS . . .

The trip to Louisiana by pullman was the first such trip during several of the Maroon gridders . . . It was the first game at which all three coaches (Samuels, Presnell and Darling) were present. Line Coach Fred Darling is usually absent on scouting missions . . . Textbooks were noticed in possession of most of the varsity members . . . The battle cry of the entire journey was "Has anybody seen Russo?" . . . (For details ask senior fullback Mike Jasko) . . . After leaving Memphis there was no such thing as a weak cup of coffee . . . Center Paul Wright kept wondering about "that certain party in Hazard" . . . Egge Lewallen made the trip "formal-like" attired in a dazzling mid-night blue suit. He hated to leave Kentucky for he missed Mimi Chandler's coffee-time program . . . Dave Rogers is still wondering who plotted the call for him on the speaker system of the train. A call came out for Rogers to report to the FBI in the club car . . . Possibly, Carl "Moose" Martin knows more about the plan . . . Dick Scherrbaum, Louis Manning, Jack Bahlman, Don Franklin and Jack Cottengim were active most of the time in a rum game . . . Ed Zoretic and Paul Moore spent most of the voyage getting in some sack time . . . Included in the bridge players were Fred Darling, Coach Presnell, Joe Yanity and Nick "the operator" Semak . . . Frank Darling was hoping to get a chance to write a letter to that special gal in Ohio. . . Bob Tankosh spent his time laughing at comedian George Pavlovich. . . Brian Gibbs was a silent traveler with his comic books. . . With the exception of gametime, Harold Kittrell was thinking of "My Nancy" . . . Carl Plantholt was one of the unfortunates who had to take a health test on the trip. . . Steve Pulawski maintained a constant grin on his face while teasing his mates. . . Harry Sweesy was in hopes that the game was staged in Florida, wonder why? . . . Hinkle's Drug store was the item on Chuck Hertzler's mind. . . Roman Todoran and Delmas Freeman were well at home in the dining car. . . Billy Emmett thought he was quite a long ways from Middleboro. . . Poor Ross Herron suffered with a hip injury all the way home. . . Steve Hlebec had good company with a Spanish book on the trip. . . In closing, Coach Tom Samuels had a big smile on his face during the entire return journey. Some said he looked happier than Truman on a Wednesday morning in November. Then there was the disappointed Easternite who looked all over New Orleans and found no Mardi Grass!!
