The Curtain Rises

The curtain has risen on the world's newest attempt to solve one of its oldest and thorniest problems. In London, the United Nations Organization is holding Session No. 1. The British capital is indeed a fitting place for the organization to hold its first meeting. It was there that the "Mother of Parliaments" convened and representative government was born. The times, however, are not in step with the place. An organization such as this—one designed to lead the world to peace—should have its inauguration amid bright clouds of optimism and international amity. Instead, the world is seething with hostility.

Clouds and Storms

The United States, one of the leading proponents of the UNO, is undergoing internal struggles which have rarely been equalled. Every form of industry has felt the cold hand of the strike and the picket line. Soldiers have booed major generals and staged mass demonstrations. The President of the United States has had to resort to the radio after failing to reach agreement over labor questions with Congress.

In Great Britain, even as she is host to the initial UNO meeting, the cry of "Uncle Shylock," with which the Britons plagued America during the twenties, has again been raised. Many Americans say that they don't wish to finance British socialism, while the English feel that the United States should be glad to dish out a few billions for services rendered.

It is a patent fact that neither the United States nor Great Britain trusts Russia, and it is equally patent that the feeling is mutual. With the British and the Russians both selfishly greedy for land and concessions in Iran, the Soviets have sheared a province from the Shah's domain with the English observing helplessly from the grandstand.

The much-heralded compromise between the U. S. and the U. S. S. R. seems to amount to this: Secretary Byrnes agreed that the United States would loan the Soviets six billion in return for Russian help in governing Japan.

But All's Not Lost

Yes, as the United Nations begin their work for peace, a black picture of world conditions can be drawn—without exaggeration. In the face of these conditions, one would expect the world leaders—those most "in the know" about international affairs—to have resigned themselves to a catastrophic war within the next few years. This is not true. We find them, instead, leading the UNO campaign for peace. They have seized on the fact that peace requires more preparation than war, and even though mending their war machines are building the fences of peace.

At every period of history, the next few years have loomed up as ones of ruin. Yet man has survived more than 5,000 years of civilization. The optimists of today are just as right as the optimists of ancient Greece during her war with mighty Persia, or of Rome as the barbarians massed along her borders. Man, having endured Attila and Hittlers, will not now do obeisance to mere machines. Whether a third war will result from present conditions, no one can say. But one can reasonably presume that man will be combating this same problem ten thousand years hence, in days when the atomic bomb will be as obsolete as the slingshot is today, and England and Rome alike will be names for history students to learn. Man is bound to survive. There is no other way.

The Progress has been asked to repeat the request that was made during the chapel program on Wednesday, January 9, by Ted Bennedett. The wearing of high school letters has become prevalent on the campus. It is a tradition of long standing and courtesy that only letters pertaining to the college be worn. Please take note and discontinue the wearing of other letters.

EASTERN MARCHES ON

Founded in 1906, Eastern is now beginning her fortieth year of service to Kentucky by preparing teachers for the schools of the State. During these four decades, 3,118 have graduated and have taken their places as leaders in the field of education. They represent the high standards of training and the development of individual qualities which Eastern continues to offer her students today.

This has been arranged by J. D. Turley, member of the faculty at Male High in Louisville and an active member of the Eastern Alumni Association.

Miss Floyd Appointed to National Committee

Miss Mary Floyd, librarian at Eastern State Teachers College, has been appointed a member of a committee to study the relationship and future possibilities of the Association of College and Reference Librarians in connection with the parent organization, the American Library Association.

Other members of the committee are C. H. Brown, of Iowa State College, chairman; Clarence Paine, Beloit (Wis.) College; A. F. Kuhlman, director of joint university libraries, Nashville, and Stanley Pergellis, Newbury Library, Chicago. The committee will report its findings at the June meeting in Buffalo, N. Y., of the national association.

Miss Floyd attended the mid-winter meeting of the American Library Association in Chicago Dec. 27-29. She is a member of the board of the college and reference librarian group.

NEW PROJECTORS INSTALLED

Two new Super Simplex motion picture projectors were installed in the Eastern Auditorium projection room this week replacing machines which have been in use by the college for many years. The new machines are the latest type double shutter mechanisms.

Last summer "Voice of the Theater" wide range sound equipment was installed, and with the new projectors acquired recently, Eastern's equipment is equal to that found in the best theaters of the country.

The Reverend William A. Benfield, Ph.D. will open the Religious Emphasis Week with a chapel address, Wednesday morning, January 30. The week's activities will close Sunday, February 3, with special programs in the churches of Richmond.

Dr. Benfield, who is vice president of the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary, has been active in religious emphasis work on various college campuses and has participated in summer conferences for young people. Last year he was granted a leave of absence to investigate the use of methods in other aspects of American life as contrasted with those connected with religious methods. He has traveled extensively and has been praised highly for his lectures. Graduating from Davidson College in North Carolina, Dr. Benfield studied at the Louisville Presbyterian Seminary and obtained his doctor's degree from the Baptist Seminary in Louisville.

Dr. Benfield will also speak at the Vesper programs Wednesday through Friday from 6:30 to 7:00 p. m. These will be held each evening in the Little Theater.

The subjects of his four talks will be:

- I. "You and the Future."
- II. "Enlarging Life."
- III. "An Affair of the Heart."
- IV. "Get in the Game."

Miss Jane Johnston, Danforth Graduate on the campus, is chairman of the planning committee and is directing the plans and activities for the event.

Discussion groups are being arranged for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons from four to five o'clock. These will take place in the conference rooms of the Student Union Building under the leadership of Richmond ministers. The topics which will be discussed are the place of Christian youth in the economic problems, in interfaith cooperation, in preparation for marriage and home life, and in the world order.

On Friday night, a dinner will be served in the Blue Room of the cafeteria. After the dinner a religious movie will be shown. Recreation will be provided in Weaver Health Building Saturday night, beginning at 7:30.

Four New Members Added To Staff

Mrs. Bettye Davis, Pineville, has accepted the position of college nurse and assistant to Eastern's newly-appointed physician, Dr. Harvey Blanton. She succeeds Miss Elva Combs, who resigned after serving four years.

Mrs. Davis, who has lived in several cities in Kentucky, at present calls her home Pineville. Besides being a graduate of St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, where she received her nurse's training, Mrs. Davis is also a registered nurse of the State Board of Health. For some time before coming to Eastern she was employed as nurse at the Patti A. Clay Infirmary in Richmond.

Mrs. Davis states that she will have office hours school days from 8:00 to 9:00 a. m. in Sullivan Hospital and from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m. in the physician's office, Health Building.

Frank E. Schraeter has been added to the faculty of the Industrial Arts Department. He has been employed to teach metal work.

Mr. Schraeter is from Menomone, Wisconsin, and is a graduate of Stout Institute in the class of 1943. He has recently been placed on inactive duty after serving nearly three years with the navy, both in the European and Pacific theaters. He is married and has one son.

The enrollment of the Industrial Arts Department is rapidly returning to normal due to the large number of veterans who are returning.

Replacing Ben Ashmore, who resigned last quarter as math teacher in the Model High School, is Miss Ethel Dudderar, from Irvine. A former teacher in the Irvine High School, Miss Dudderar has been working in Indiana for the last three years aiding the war efforts of the duPont Corp.

Miss Dudderar received her A. B. degree from Transylvania College in Lexington. She is teaching math and acting as advisor to Miss Virginia Gooch, who is doing her student teaching this quarter.

Miss Louise Rutledge, of Richmond, has been selected to fill the vacancy left by Miss Elizabeth Greer, who resigned her position as assistant librarian. Miss Rutledge received her A. B. from Eastern, her B. S. in Library Sciences from Peabody College and has done additional graduate work at the University of Wisconsin. She was the librarian at Madison High School before accepting her position with the college.

Social Events Are Popular

The social life at Eastern began with a different spirit this quarter. We of Eastern are proud to see this spirit return to the campus because hitherto, social events have been lacking. The new student body shows that it is eager to have more and better social events because of the interesting program it has begun.

The Social Committee of the Women's Residence Hall Organization started the events with an "open house," which was held in the lobby of Burnam Hall Wednesday evening, January 9, from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. Marie Rihard was chairman of the committee.

On Friday night, January 11, following the Murray game, the Veterans of Eastern presented their first dance of the year. The dance was an informal affair held in the Little Gym. The price of admission was thirty-five cents, stag, drag, or hag.

Saturday evening, January 12, the Social Committee of the Student Union Committee sponsored a January Jamboree with a department of fun for everyone. There was dancing, bingo, fortunes, music, cards, a variety show, games, and even a chamber of horrors.

Walnut Hall may again be the scene of good times. The Veterans have already begun plans for a formal dance which will be held later in the quarter. They hope to have a big name band to play for this dance. Informal dances are to be sponsored frequently in the Little Gym.

The Social Committee of the College is meeting next week to plan more social events, and it is always welcome to receive suggestions from students. It is also at the disposal of the boys and would like for them to place their events on the calendar as soon as possible.

With parties and dances, Eastern started a social program that has a spirit typical of the past. Social events of Eastern during the last two years have been lacking because of the absence of the boys, but things have changed this quarter. Any time we enter the recreation room now we may see a number of young men, some of whom are on the floor dancing, but many times in the past the recreation room has been a lonely looking place.

Margaret Jessee To Edit 1946 Belles Lettres

MARGARET JESSEE

Mid-Winter Term To Begin February 6

Beginning February 6, Eastern will offer a special short term for teachers in county and independent school systems which close in January or early February. This is also an excellent opportunity for mid-year high school graduates and discharged service men who wish to begin their college work at once.

These special classes will include: Public school art, reading in the elementary schools, education, literature for children, human development and psychology, principles of secondary education, geography, health, history, industrial arts, mathematics, sociology, and American literature.

The teachers who have been teaching on special permits are eligible to take work in college on the same basis as other students. Those who expect to teach for the first time next fall will be given special attention.

Registration for the mid-winter term will be held February 6, with classes scheduled to begin the next day. The term closes March 6 at the same time the regular winter quarter ends.

The spring quarter will open the following Monday, March 18.

Miss Margaret Jessee, English major from Middlesboro, has been elected by fellow members of the Canterbury Club to edit Belles Lettres, the club's annual anthology of student writings. The 1946 volume marks the twelfth year for this publication.

Miss Jessee will be assisted by two other members of the club in the preparation of the magazine. Mrs. Burma Dean Talbott, sophomore from Dayton, Ohio, will serve as assistant editor and Miss Marilyn Morris, junior from Ashland, will act as assistant editor and Miss Marilyn Morris, junior from Ashland, will act in the capacity of business manager. The sponsor of the publication is Dr. Roy B. Clark, head of the English Department.

A senior, Miss Jessee is now taking student teaching in the seventh and eighth grades of Model High. She is a member of the Madrigal Club and has served as assistant hostess in the Student Union. She will receive her Bachelor of Arts degree in August.

Mrs. Talbott is a reporter for the Progress and a member of the Math Club and the newly-formed club for the wives of the veterans. Miss Morris, a graduate of Ashland Junior College, is also a reporter for the Progress and a member of the YWCA.

The purpose of the Belles Lettres is to give a good representation of the student writing at Eastern. It contains essays, poetry, short stories, short sketches, and criticisms which have appeared in no other publication. A high standard of writing must be maintained, and in order to keep it on as high a level as possible, some selection must be made. Articles will be judged for their originality, interest, and reading appeal.

This publication is expected to go to press early in April and will be available to students shortly thereafter. Approximately three hundred copies of the magazine will be printed.

Any student, regardless of his major, who is interested in writing, is urged to contribute to Belles Lettres. All contributions should be given to the editor or Dr. Clark.

Eastern Again Offers Advanced ROTC Courses To Eligible Students

Beginning with the winter quarter which opened last week, the advanced course in the R. O. T. C. field artillery unit at Eastern has been reactivated.

Lt. Joe Gafford, of Louisville, is temporarily in charge of this unit. Within the next few days, an officer with the rank of colonel will be assigned to Eastern as professor of military science and tactics in command of the unit.

Plans were being made to activate the unit next September, but the large enrollment of men for the winter quarter made it possible to reactivate it earlier. Men who are admitted to the advanced course now are given credit for their basic training if they have had one year of actual military service in the field. They are given commissions as reserve officers with the rank of second lieutenant in the Army Reserve Corps upon completion of the course. Sgt. Thurman Bond has been teaching the basic R. O. T. C. course which was reactivated last fall.

The field artillery unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps was established at Eastern in 1935. It is one of three such units in this area, the other two being at Purdue University and Ohio State. All members of the advanced course will receive the following emoluments:

- (1). A monetary allowance, equivalent to the current value of the garrison ration (approximately equal to 75 cents per day or $22.50 per month) to be paid monthly during the periods of enrollment in the advanced course less the period of the six-week advanced summer camp. (This camp will be held tentatively during the summer of 1947). This allowance will be paid in addition to benefits authorized by the GI Bill of Rights.
- (2). An officer-type uniform, complete with field overcoat and shoes.
- (3). The pay of the seventh enlisted grade ($50 per month) while at advanced camp and travel pay at the rate of 5 cents per mile from the institution to and from camp.
- (4). ROTC texts will be furnished on a loan basis.

The requirements for entry into the advanced course are as follows:

- (1). Not less than one year active service in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard. Such service is in lieu of the two-year basic course normally required.

- (2). A minimum ACQT score of 110 will be required. The test will be given by the PMS & T, and any applicant making a lower score will be given one opportunity to repeat the test.

- (3). The applicant must require at least two academic years to complete all requirements for graduation from the institution or if graduated a student, must require a like period to complete all work for an advanced degree.

- (4). Applicant must be able to meet the physical requirements for appointment in the Officer's Reserve Corps and must not be drawing disability compensation from the Veterans' Administration.

- (5). No applicant will be admitted to the advanced course who is less than 19 or more than 26 years of age at the time of admission.

- (6). Former AUS officers are eligible for the advanced course if they do not hold a commission in the Officer's Reserve Corps or if such commission be resigned.

It is felt that the advantages, both monetary and otherwise, to be derived from participation in this course will be of interest to many students, particularly recently-discharged veterans. Both the War Department and the authorities of this institution desire to establish a strong course this term with at least ten students enrolled. Those interested in securing further information or who desire to sign up for the course should call at the Military Science Office in the Health Building.

WIN $5 BY NAMING STREET

You say you need money. You say you can't pay your bills. Tell you what we're gonna do. We'll give you five dollars if you submit the winning name for the street that is being constructed behind the women's dormitories and will join Second Street below the Telford Music Building. It will be the drive in front of the pre-fabricated houses which will be occupied by veterans.

Every student enrolled in college is eligible to enter the contest. Write your name and your suggestion for the name of the street on a slip of paper and drop it in the box which is in the Book Store. The deadline is noon Monday, January 21. The contest will be judged by students.

AS WE SEE IT

BORN TO BLUSH UNSEEN!

Eastern's Maroon quintet has been playing excellent ball games in the face of tough competition and the entire student body is proud of it. Coach Rankin is enjoying one of the most successful years of his career with one of the strongest teams in the state—but who knows it?

Few papers, other than the "Kentucky Bible," the "Courier-Journal" and the Lexington "Herald-Leader," carry the stories of Eastern's games. Out-of-state papers assert that "little is known about the visiting team from Richmond, Ky." Cincinnati papers list the scores of our games along with the other games of last week, while the Kentucky sections of these papers give write-ups and pictures of the players of other Kentucky fives.

It is obvious that no college spends money for athletics just to provide entertainment for the student body. A strong, game-winning team, as we have now, travels over the country and carries with it the name of the college. Its main purpose is publicity. So why defeat its purpose?

Wouldn't it be to the advantage of the college to give employment to one of its students to prepare at least one press release a day to be sent to all papers in the state and several outside the state? Pictures should be taken of the members of the squad and mats should be made to accompany the articles. Items could then be sent, in advance, to the city papers of the teams we oppose.

At the end of the season the student would not find his job completed. He could then turn his efforts to covering the many events and activities on the campus which are of interest to many people in the state.

A scholarship for a publicity man would be as well earned as one for a trainer or a student manager.

UNDERSTANDING RUSSIA

There is much talk that the United States will have to fight Russia in the next war (or a continuation of the recent one). Probably the reason for this is that we don't really understand the Russian people, their government, their language or anything else about them.

Much has been said of these facts, but there have been few ideas advanced as to methods of changing them.

One idea has been offered which stands far above the rest. It has been used for years by countries on friendly terms. It embodies sending students to Russia to study in the Soviet schools and in turn receiving students from Russia to study in ours. This plan has many more virtues than first seem apparent. Besides learning about Russia, our students would make friends with whom they would keep in contact and the Russian students would do the same in this country. This would give more people a reason to keep out of war with Russia.

Another point is that through these new relations our two countries would be much more likely to exchange ideas concerning government and the thousand and one little problems that prevent us from living happy lives; despite the fact that most people consider Russia a radical nation, some of her methods are unquestionably good.

MAROONED

with BOB RYLE

FROM APO TO CPO

Well, the lights go on again all over the dorm. Beaman's broom flies in frantic flurries and the whole college reverts to meet the returning veteran. Many of them are former students of the "callage" who are now going to complete their education. They were met by the familiar "aloonga zact boing" which is the Anglo-Saxon way of saying "Have a Coke."

Some are enrolling for the first time and are getting a taste of our life at Eastern. We saw one of them the other day going past the library towards the Health Building in the face of one of those "gentle breezes." We stopped and watched him for a while and ten minutes later he was still going past the library towards the Health Building. We think something should be done about that condition or our students will be carried away, against their wishes, to Kentucky Wesleyan in Winchester.

PAPER CLIPS, OR BOSSIE'S CORROSIVE WHICH MAKES HER EXPLOSIVE

We read in the paper that a cow exploded in South Africa, the other day, after eating carbide and we got to thinking just what would have happened if they had developed a breed of exploding cows. Their ads would have run something like this—"Tomorrow morning, for breakfast, pour milk from Elsie the Atomic Cow over your cereal. It will change that 'snap' 'crackle' 'pop' to 'boom' 'crash' 'blooie.' It is rich in electrons and protons and will give you more energy per swallow than any other milk. A-n-n-d for that mid-night snack try our new sandwich spread. Just spread it and forget it. It will take your breath away."

We wonder if you milk a cow like that or detonate it.

LITTLE JACK HORNER

NOW SWEEPS THE CORNER

Little Jack Horner
Sat in the corner,
An inconspicuous place to sit,
But his love he had spider
And sat down besider
And a sad story followed, to wit.

Of the two, she was smarter
She was the bakerman's darter
But Jack's chances were sour.
He heard her father had dough
But what he didn't know
It consisted of milk and flour.

Jack invested his money
On his bakerman's Honey
Thinking he'd really clean-up someday.

So she went to college
And picked up some knowledge
And a boyfriend along the way.

Last week she was wed
To a fellow named Ted
Who had plenty of money to pay.
While poor Jack got a job
With the street cleaning mob
Where he really cleans-up
EVERYDAY.

Soliloquy

By HOWARD ROWLETTE

Hurrumph! It's about time that I'm put aside, these past few years have been a burden to me. Now I'll get a chance to rest and get the wrinkles out of my knees and elbows.

I surely am crowded in this stuffy closet, I wish that sport jacket would get its clashing plaids out of my face and give me a chance to breathe. Look at him hanging there like a kaleidoscopic rag. I never thought Jim would ever wear anything like that.

Something has come over Jim lately. For years he has taken care of me and has given me the best of treatment—always seeing that I was clean and neat and protected from the rain. Why I remember one time in Casablanca when he missed a hop to Dakar

RHYTHM RIPPLES

By "MART" NOTERMAN

Well, chicks, here it is—1946. A new year filled with newer and better records. Rumbas in the South, Jazz in the Middle West and Ballads in the North.

Let's swing along with Claude Thornhill on Columbia with "Buster's Last Stand" and "I Don't Know Why," the latter a mood ballad with fine vocals by the Snowflakes.

Les Brown records his theme "Leap Frog" and "Show Me the Way to Go Home," an old favorite with a catchy vocal. Another, under the Les Brown treatment is "You Won't Be Satisfied," but I assure you that you will be with this platter. The backing is "Come to Baby, Do" with a Doris Day vocal.

T. Dorsey features the Sentimentalist and himself singing a novelty, "That Went Out With Bottom Shoes" and "The Moment I Met You" also by the Sentimentalist.

For a smash vocal, listen to Phil Brito crooning, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody" and "I Used to Love You." Can't be beat!

Bing Crosby teams with Carmen Cavalleri and his piano in "I Can't Begin to Tell You" and "I Can't Believe That You're in Love with Me."

Ella Mae Morse used her Morse code to give you the rocking blues with "Buzz Me" and "Rip Van Winkle." A solid beat and a rip pleat.

Jimmie Lunceford and the Delta Rhythm Boys co-star in a gem, "The Honeydripper" and "Baby, Are You Kidding?"

For a special delight, hear Fred Waring play "Hora Staccato" with a skillful reverse by the Glee Club of "Meadowland," the famed World War II Red Army March.

BEHIND THE MIKE:

Bob Crosby became a civilian again after two years in the Marine Corps. . . . Louis Armstrong will be featured in a short, "Puppetoon" . . . Cootie Williams, Lionel Hampton, and Jack Teagarden met in St. Louis to give jazz lovers some real stuff . . . Hazel Scott is touring the country with Gene Sedric, a Fats Waller alumni, and his band . . . Sammy Kaye was presented the "Key to Broadway" for entertaining longer on Broadway than any other band during 1945 . . . Roy Eldridge, who just left Artie Shaw, has invented a trumpet, approximately a third the size of a regulation trumpet and the same sounds come out, too . . . Post war one-nighters will be made by plane instead of via the usual Greyhound.

Our first Maroon "E" goes to Jack Smith, radio tenor who has gained fame recently on the Family Hour every Sunday and now has his own show, "The Jack Smith Hour" over C. B. S.

Jack has been putting a jump into ballads that swooner fans do not hear from Sinatra or Crosby. His music gives one an infectious lift and makes one want to join in.

Coming straight from Hollywood this 185 lb. 6'2" hunk of man is only interested in radio and teaching. Yes, I said "Teaching." By day, he becomes an instructor for the New York School of Aircraft Instruments.

To bad he's married gals, but here's luck to a non-swooner king of vocals.

Yours For The Asking

Your Inquiring Reporter was very inquiring this week. The majority of those questioned were very cooperative. The suckers didn't know that their answers would appear in the PROGRESS!

The question: How many dates should a boy and girl have before the first kiss?

Madelyn Salyer: I think it's O. K. to kiss 'em on the second or third date, but definitely not the first.

George Maines: Sure, kiss her on the first date—that is, unless it's a real nice one. Then wait until the second or third.

Pauline Caudill: It's all right on the first date. It may not be etiquette, but I'm for it.

Goebel Ritter: I think three is about right—but no more than that.

Marilyn Trieschmann: On the first date, you can kiss him once; second, you can kiss him twice; for the third one, go ask the House Council.

because he had left me in his room and wouldn't leave the city without me. Now he hardly ever takes me out for an airing or a brushing. That's gratitude for you.

Why only yesterday, while he was dressing, he almost knocked me on the floor. In his hurry to don that hideous loafer of a grey tweed, he bent the hanger on which I was resting. Yeah, that grey tweed, the manufacturer was unable to finish it until he hit upon the idea of making the sleeves plain blue. If that isn't adding insult to injury. I guess I am just useless . . .

"You said it, useless is right." Oh, so you've been listening. Well, I've seen more of the world than you'll ever see. Jim would never wear you anyplace.

"Listen, you old has been," said the sport coat shrugging its shoulders and showing jealousy for not

Davis Hahn: Go ahead and kiss her on the first date. If you don't, somebody may beat you to it.

Maria Stergeos: No kissing on the first date. If you use up your kisses then, you won't have anything to look forward to.

Dan Dougherty: Date! Don't even wait for a date! What's wrong with the first five minutes? When surrounded, attack!

Ernestine Park: If it's human, nothing's wrong with the first date.

Jody Cornelison: I'm not going with anybody now, so I'll say three dates. That's etiquette.

Jane Acree: He's a crumb if he tries on the first date. But if he does, go ahead and kiss him, of course—that is, if he isn't too repulsive; and if he is, you oughtn't to be out with him anyway.

Casey Nowakowski (advice from a husband): The first date. Why waste two or three?

having lived, "you may have been around, but you certainly show it. Why my two cousins, Sloppy Joe and Blue Dungeares are quite more aristocratic and acceptable to society than you. You're outmoded and are good for nothing but moth food. Why did Jim ever buy you?"

Jim didn't exactly choose me, but I was quite popular the last few years. You see, I kept him pretty warm and comfortable from his basic training to his discharge last month. I was his best and only clothing for many years. Now I will be saved for the Legion parades.

Stand back! See my buttons! They still shine, not much, but some. Jim will keep me long after he has discarded you and the rest of his college clothes. You see, I am a part of Jim. I represent four years of his life, but you will only be one of many in a few years.

Here it is—a new quarter, a new year, new faces on the campus and we are still copying other people's work for a column.

Henry Ford didn't know who Benedict Arnold was or what a mobile Army is.

And he didn't know much about Porto Rico and ignorant idealists; but Henry Ford has a whole lot of millions of $$$$$$.

Now I know that Benedict was born in 1747 and he was an American general and he was a traitor and that a mobile Army moves and that Porto Rico is in the West Indies and became American on July 17, 1898;

I have never even seen a million $$$$$$.

Now, I would like to know what is the use of a college education?

Room Mate—"Couldn't find it."

Good Advice—

Older: "Please burn this at once."

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN

Never smash thy promise, lad;
Never break thy word;
Never kiss a lady's lips,
Lest thou seem absurd.

Be a rock the girls can trust;
Never tell a lie;
Never come thou back again
When they say hood-by.
Never let them wonder, lad,
If thou'll be on time;
Pay thy debts with diamonds,
Never with a rhyme.

Never be a wastrel, lad;
Make of honor a business,
Make of truth a trade.
Never mind a maid;

Do thou as I tell thee, lad;
Be the best of men;
And girls won't write of thee in verse,
Nor think of thee again.

"I don't like your heart action," said the medical examiner. "You've had some trouble with Angina Pectoris."

"You're partly right, doctor," said the applicant sheepishly, "only that ain't her name."

A pretty girl was eagerly watching a drill at a camp when a rifle volley crashed out. With a surprised scream, she shrank back into the arms of a corporal who was standing behind her.

"Oh, I beg your pardon," she exclaimed, blushing, "I was so frightened by the rifles."

"That's all right," said the corporal, "let's go over and watch the heavy artillery."

If you don't feel just right
If you can't sleep at night,
If you moan and sigh
If your throat is dry,
If you can't smoke or drink,
If your grub tastes like ink,
If your heart doesn't beat,
If you've got cold feet,
If your head's in a swirl—
Why don't you marry the girl.

There's a place in Northern Greenland
Where there is no ten o'clock;
There's a place in Northern Greenland
Where there are no deans to shock;
Beyond the seas, where all things freeze
Beneath those Northern Lights,
Fair Esquinox spoon with their beaux
Though the six month's night—
OH, BOY—that six month's night!

Pfc. Thos. Moberley Dies In Accident Near Winchester While Returning Home

Thomas Moberley, Jr., 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thomas Moberley, of Mt. Sterling, was killed instantly shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night in an accident on the Winchester-Lexington road, near the Scott Judy home.

Another ex-service man, Ashby White, 21, of Winchester, was also killed in the accident. White was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry White of Winchester. Both of the boys had just returned from overseas and were en route home after being honorably discharged at Camp Atterbury, Indiana.

According to reports, the two ex-service men were riding in the cab of a gasoline transport truck owned by R. P. York, Winchester, and driven by Oliver Corey, also of that city, who escaped with a fractured leg. According to Corey, the tragedy occurred when the trucks' lights failed four miles west of Winchester on Highway 60 and the truck plunged down a 12-foot embankment into a creek bed on the south side of the highway. The bodies of the two boys were not extricated until about 1 a. m. Monday. Corey stated he jumped from the truck as it went over the embankment which probably saved him from meeting a similar fate of his two companions.

Mr. and Mrs. Moberley's other son, James C. Moberley, of the U. S. Navy, was reported missing two years ago after the battle of Java and has never been heard from since. Besides his parents, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, Henderson, and Mrs. Paul Murphy and Miss Virginia Moberley, of this city.

Pfc. Moberley attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Eastern State Teachers College at Richmond before entering the armed forces. He had been overseas about two years and had only recently arrived in the States and was hurrying home after receiving his discharge at Camp Atterbury.

He was a lovable, and exemplary young man, quite popular with all who knew him, and his tragic death is mourned by the entire community. Mr. and Mrs. Moberley and his sisters have the deepest sympathy of all our citizens in their hour of sorrow.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Methodist church. The Rev. P. C. Gillespie, pastor, and Dr. John E. Moss officiated. Burial was in Machpelah cemetery.

Active pallbearers were: Billy Henry, Lindsey Douglas, Jr., William Pierson, Harry Hadden, Jr., E. R. Wade, Jack Tipton, Marion Eubank and Byron E. Reed, Jr. Honorary bearers were: Ralph Greene, Shirley Mason, Crawford Mason, Richard Winn, William Woodford, Charles Duff, Robert Howell and the Rev. Orlus Hamilton. (From Mt. Sterling Ky., Advocate, of Dec. 13, 1945.)

Pfc. Moberley attended Eastern the second semester of 1941-42 and fall and winter quarters of 1942-43.

Eastern At Biarritz

News has been received from T/Sgt. Jim Squires, '41, of Lexington, of a meeting of Eastern men at Biarritz American University in France. Sgt. Squires wrote the following report of the meeting:

"Eastern students have met in various climes and under strange conditions. The last word in such meetings was held December 21st in the swank dining room of Hotel Miramar overlooking the bay of Biscay in Biarritz, France.

"For many years Biarritz has been a famed mecca for vacationists but its recent fame comes from Biarritz American University, an army education project, which had an enrollment of 4,200 soldier-students during its second term which ended December 21st. The student body of B.A.U. has been made up of soldiers from all over Europe and Great Britain while the majority of the faculty came directly from civilian colleges and universities in the States.

"Six of the 4,200 B.A.U. GI-Joe collegiates and two of the faculty members have fond recollections of Eastern-Western feuds, the ravine cloaked in its finest fall garb, and other memories cherished only by those who know the 'friendly college.'

"At the Miramar conclave Claude Rawlins, '43, and Jim Squires, '41, represented the old grade; Russell Weingartner, whose junior year at EKSTC was interrupted by the Army, spoke for those who would have graduated in '45; and the ASTP lads, who found Eastern and Richmond models of Kentucky hospitality, were Bob Reed, Bob Balch, and Bill Lemonds. Interlocutor at the dinner table was Prof. James E. Van Peursem (Mr. Van to all Easternites), who will be a part of B.A.U.'s music faculty during the third term.

"After the meeting had adjourned to the Miramar lobby Mr. Van was approached by Capt. Robert H. Ward who asked him if he wasn't from Eastern's music department. Capt. Ward was a junior at Eastern in '34 and is a member of the B.A.U. economics faculty.

"Since Mr. Van had to pack his suitcase bag for his between-terms furlough to England, the meeting ended at midnight. It was concluded that wherever good people congregate one will always find someone in the congregation from Eastern.

Sgt. Squires has been overseas about fifteen months and expects to return to Kentucky in February. Discharged.

Grads Overseas

An article about Capt. Stephen Edwards, '38, son of R. A. Edwards, director of the Training School, and Mrs. Edwards, was included in a recent issue of "India Ink," publication of officers and enlisted personnel of the Eastern India Air Depot, Army Air Forces, India-Burma Theater, Panagarh, India. Capt. Edwards, who has been in India the past 29 months, has been interested in visiting the various parts of the country so far as possible. The article reads in part: "Capt. Stephen Edwards, our ambulatory air inspector, has returned from three days of leave at Benares so impressed by the holy city of beggars that he seems to have memorized the guidebook. 'Benares is the real Mother India,' he says, 'predominantly Hindu, with an aggregation of temples, burning ghats and other holy places, an excellent place for G. I.'s interested in Indian lore to go.'"

"The captain said there are only scanty remains of the very ancient Hindu temples at Benares because the conquering Moslems razed them or converted them into mosques. Excavations have revealed what are believed to be the remains of Buddha himself. Since the Moslems are no longer a ruling class a new crop of Hindu temples has been built which, like other such places throughout India, gets a play from many tourists who have little interests in the historical viewpoint.

"Smiling and easygoing, Capt. Edwards has gained a reputation for romantic adventure and intrepidity from a nineteen day photographic exploration of the Himalayas."

Capt. Edwards entered the service in July, 1941, and was stationed at McClellan Field, Calif., before going overseas with the 47th Air Depot Group, Hq. & Hq. Sq., APO 690, New York.

Hils-Ertel

Autumnal hues predominated in the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Hils, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hils, Jr., Bellevue, to Mr. John David Ertel, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Ertel, Covington, which was performed with ecclesiastical simplicity Thursday morning, November 22, 1945, at Sacred Heart Church, Bellevue.

The Rev. Carl Merkel, pastor, officiated. Altar vases were filled with fluffy white chrysanthemums for the event.

Miss Helen Louise Reinke, of Bellevue, cousin of the bride, sang Gounod's Ave Maria.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a rich, white brocade satin gown. The neckline was sweetheart shape, and the bodice, fitted. The voluminous skirt, which ended in a sweeping train, was gathered in front at the right hemline to show several inches of old-fashioned crinoline skirt, edged in lace. Her fingertip veil of silk net fell from a becoming tiara of pearls. Her only ornament was a gold filagree cross, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and orchids, based on white poms.

The maid of honor was Mrs. Ethel Hils, the bride's sister-in-law. Mrs. Peter Rowe, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and Miss Thelma Hils, sister of the bride, and Miss Ruth Ertel, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. Mr. Lawrence Miller, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Messrs. John L. Hils and Tom Ertel.

The bride's attendants' gowns were fashioned along similar lines with high necklines, outlined by rolled collars, long sleeves, ending in V's over the back of the hands, bodices buttoned down the front, and full skirts that were identified at the front waistline by pommels and in the back by flat bows. Mrs. Hils, who was in cerise crepe, carried a cascade arrangement of pink chrysanthemums; Mrs. Rowe, in bronze crepe, carried gold chrysanthemums; Miss Hils, in gold, carried bronze poms, and Miss Ertel, in moss green, carried large yellow chrysanthemums. Their hats, which matched their gowns, were of wired chenille, fan-shaped in front. Shirley Ann, niece of the bride, flower girl, was in chartreuse and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

The wedding breakfast was served at the New Heidelberg, followed by a reception at the Sacred Heart school.

The bride's mother chose aqua crepe, a cerise hat, with an orchid corsage, and Mrs. Ertel was in gray crepe, cerise accessories and her flowers were orchids.

For her bridal trip, the bride wore a tan travel suit, with matching accessories and topcoat.

The couple are now residing on the campus at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College which they are attending.

Blood, Sweat and Tears

By JULIE HOFFMAN

Practice teaching! Thou art my life
And, when in the trials and the strife
Of facing life, we find ourselves
Immersed in complication's tales
I merely think of thee—and then—
And then . . . eeeek!

Sleep, sleep, beautiful sleep, how I love thee! Why do you flee from me? Why can't I find thee, as in days of yore, when all I had to worry about was sixteen hours of the ordinary sort of work a person does anyway when they are taking courses other than practice teaching? All of the above of which might lead readers of this feature, (if such there be) to assume that practice teaching is something terrifying, a thing to be derided and to be feared, a thing hauntingly horrible looming on the educational horizon of those who plan sometime to become schoolteachers, or who happen to be interested in securing that sort of training. Anyhow, for reasons known only to themselves.

Which is a view on matters we would like to alter. We may, in our lighter moments, jestingly deride and describe Education 46, but when we think seriously of the course, we don't really believe it is so bad as tradition would have it to be. Of course, we must admit to a shortening of the nose, as a result of keeping it to the grindstone, we must admit to a throbbing of the head, as a result of trying to think in the faces of from five to thirty students looking right at us all at once, and we must admit to a solving of the luggage problem due to additional baggage under the eyes collected in the course of burning midnight electricity writing units, but on the whole, it isn't so bad. In fact, the more and more a person becomes accustomed to it, and catches on to what to do with the noisy boy in the third row from the rear, it isn't so bad. In fact, it is actually fun, sometimes.

And when we say that it is actually fun, we aren't kidding. We mean every word of it, for in all seriousness we can say that we find the various personalities of the students divergent and interesting; that we find them quite intelligent and in the whole sincere in their tolerance of our blundering efforts to teach them something; and we cannot overlook their almost universal sense of humor as displayed in joyous love of life at the ages at which they on the whole find themselves. And their honesty in regard to almost everything they attempt or undertake or presume to do is especially warming to the heart—they haven't yet learned some of the subtle quirks of the unpleasant sophisticate in vacillating moments of disdain. In short, the pupils which the practice teacher confronts over in the training school, and over in Model High, add generously to the pleasure of it all.

And it goes without saying that critic teachers, on the whole, aren't the ogers they traditionally and by heresy are cut out to be. That is, from the observations of the present practice teachers.

Practice teachers! That reminds us—style note for Herbert Searcy has changed from casual shirts to ties, coat, and a habit of abruptly announcing to his friends that, "Well, I've got to go get some Education now," and leaving. He teaches English, while Virginia Gooch teaches mathematics and related subjects; Margaret Jesse, English; Sara Dan Walker, Home Ec; Margie De Van, Social Science, and Julie Hoffman, Social Science, who frequent Model High in anklet-less shoes; while over in the grade school, there are Charity Cowin, second grade; Mrs. Juanita Johnson Hickey, fourth grade; Miss Margie Lea, also teaching in the fourth grade; and Miss Charlotte Berlin, who works with grade one.

And so we cease. And so we should. And so we end on the note of dealing with the blood, sweat, and tears of the entire situation, paid out in interest on a deal which does us much good when we realize how we profit in the cessation of it all—for after all, we do not need to bother with final exams, as college students; we do not need to worry about impressing our college teachers with all our diligence; all we need to impress upon anybody is how the sum total of our college life is serving us in the stead of the final analysis—practice teaching. Which is enough. Excuse me, mother, while I run out screaming.

Announcements

On January 25, Robert Goldsand, pianist, will be presented by the Fine Arts Committee of the college. The program will be held in the Hiram Brock Auditorium at 8:00 p. m.

The Student Union Music Committee will sponsor a White Elephant Sale Wednesday, January 24, in the Little Theater. Everyone is invited to attend.

Progress is being made in the securing of the prefabricated houses for Eastern's veterans and their families. Construction is to begin in the near future. Waiting?

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

A FARMER friend of mine, accompanied by small son, took his well-used truck and drove over the river to the county seat on a recent wet Saturday. He did the week's shopping, treated the boy to a "western" and started home; but no! The road was under rising water on both sides of the bridge. Returning to town he engaged a night's lodging and tried to telephone home.

Service on his party line had grown steadily worse since Pearl Harbor. Now the instrument at his ear crackled like cold breakfast food and the ringing signal suggested Central America. He feared the worst. Strangers menaced him, wanting something—the telephone maybe. At last the operator cut in with her impersonal "Waiting?"—and the farmer exploded.

Express MOST people have had Opinions such experiences. Congressmen in Washington know the feeling well, I am told. Not pretending to know all the answers, they try earnestly to get word from the electorate. Pressure groups menace them, wanting something—their votes maybe. Their deliberations are belittled by frantic executives saying "Waiting? Why the delay?"

What do you think about paying $25 a week for 26 weeks to Tom, Dick and Harry? Do you favor America's helping the Russians build bigger and better atomic bombs? How do you feel on the subject of compulsory military training? Do you believe Congress should guarantee government jobs for all unemployed? Your representative wants to vote your wishes in these matters.

Creditable CONGRESSMAN Research Carter Manasco and a score more representatives recently listened to testimony for more than 30 days on the question of guaranteed jobs. They invited every citizen with an idea on the subject to come and testify and especially urged many to appear. They were liberal with time for presenting testimony. The Committee deserved much credit and took plenty of panning for that cautious job.

It was about a year ago that sixty citizens of Batesville, Ark., met voluntarily to study a piece of proposed legislation about to be considered by the House committee of which their Washington representative was a member. They deliberated thoughtfully, reached a conclusion and mailed Hon. Wilbur D. Mills a brief statement of their wishes and a list of their names.

I wish the back-home friends of every congressman would hold a meeting soon on one or more vital, national issues. It would twist the lever from the hand of pressure groups. It would clear the atmosphere along the Potomac. It would strengthen the morale of Congress which is the individual citizen's only citadel from oppression.

THE VETERAN'S FRIEND

Q. If a veteran is taking part in a government vocational course and is training for a particular trade or profession can he change to another type of training?

A. The veteran can change only if he can furnish reasons to the satisfaction of the Veterans Administration, that the change is to his best interests. The facts in the individual case will be the controlling factor.

Q. Can a veteran collect unemployment allowance if he is unable to find a job after discharge?

A. Yes. He can receive "readjustment allowance" for not more than 52 weeks providing he is not receiving a subsistence allowance for education or pension paid while he is pursuing a course of vocational training.

Q. Can a veteran pursue part-time study at government expense?

A. Under the GI Bill it is possible to do so, however, correspondence schools have been ruled out. If you go to a full-time law school, etc., at night and work in the daytime, you get tuition, books, but not subsistence.

Q. Is it possible for an ex-serviceman to have the type and nature of his discharge reviewed and changed?

A. Yes. A board of five members will review the type and nature of the discharge or dismissal upon request, except a discharge or dismissal by reason of the sentence of a general court martial.

Q. Does an honorably discharged veteran of World War II have to give anything as security in obtaining a government loan?

A. Nothing, except lien or mortgage rights.

Q. What recourse does a veteran have if his former employer refuses to restore him to his former position of employment?

A. Contact the Selective Service System or the United States District Attorney. They will see that the rights of a veteran are observed.

Q. Are women who are disabled in the service of the nation eligible for membership in the Disabled American Veterans?

A. Yes. Nurses in World War I who were disabled have been members of the DAV for many years. A large number of former WACs, WAVES, SPARs and Women Marines are now DAV members.

Q. When a disabled veteran has completed his training under Public Law 16 can he keep his books, supplies and equipment?

A. Yes. Books, supplies and equipment are released to the veteran if he successfully completes his period of training.

World Affairs Club

Meeting for the first time this quarter, the World Affairs Club was entertained January 15 by Dr. Jack Allen of the college faculty who described how the Navy used radar in its Pacific fighting. Limiting his discussion to his personal experience, Dr. Allen was able to give an interesting talk without revealing too much information about the equipment. He pointed out that although much has been written and said about the matter, there is still a great deal that is being held from the public.

Veterans Provide Preliminary Games

A much improved Veteran basketball team avenged a defeat it suffered earlier in the season by winning a hard fought 52-51 victory over the McKee Independent team, Wednesday, January 9.

Coach Bill Hickman's boys journeyed to the opponents' court to play the return game. It was a close game all the way, with the McKee five holding a one-point lead in the last half minute of play. Rault, high scorer for the Vets, with 31 points, was fouled at the sound of the gun. Shooting two fouls, he made the second one good to keep the college group in the running. Then, in a hotly contested overtime, the Vets proved the margin of victory.

Facing the Nicholasville Independents in a preliminary game to the Madron-Murray game, the Vets dropped 25 points thru the hoops to top the opponents' 17. The Vets led throughout the game to finish with their eighth victory of the season. High scorer for the victors was Shannon with 10 points.

Three New Players

This quarter's team is a great improvement over last year's team. There have been three additions to the team. They are:

Rault, 6-1 center from Jeffersonville, Ind., where he played four years of independent ball before entering service. He is a good man to have around the backboard in addition to being a good shot.

Osborn, 6 foot high school star from Jeffersonville, Ind. An injury has kept him on the bench so far this year, but he is expected to perform with great steadiness soon.

Benedict, 6-1 guard from Virgie, where he was a high school star and an independent ball player.

The rest of the players on the team are Tackett, Colley, Martin, Jentry, Harris, Stelley, Talbott, and Scott.

Bill Hickman, a newcomer to the campus this year, is coach of the team. This is his third year in the coaching business and he expects to bring home the bacon for the Vets.

VOX VETERANI

The students at Eastern again are reminded of the Veterans' ball games preliminary to the college games. These games will start at 8 o'clock on the evenings Eastern plays. A good turn-out will assure the club the school is behind it. January 30 will find McKee again on Eastern's court facing the veterans.

The informal dance and get-together after the Murray game and the wonderful response of the student body is evidence of the need for more and better social events and a revival of school spirit. This dance was sponsored by the Veterans in an effort to raise enough money to assure a "big name band" at Eastern sometime this spring. The committee which planned the dance was made up of Charlie Floyd and Carl Scott, co-chairmen; Windy Tackett, refreshments; Jack Walker, music; Bill Shannon, chaperones.

All students showed a desire to help make the dance a success. Many faculty members were also present and the club would like to express its thanks to them. Whenever a game comes on either Friday or Saturday night the Veterans Club plans to have a dance afterwards. Cooperation by all will make our "big name band" a reality, as well as afford some wonderful amusement.

All of the fellows who were at the last meeting were surprised to see a "woman" in their midst. She is Mrs. John Ertel, a discharged Spar, who is the wife of one of the members. She is the first woman member of the Veterans Club at Eastern.

At the last meeting, the possibility of extending the length of time that the library is open was discussed. It is thought that the library should be open on Saturday and Sunday afternoon. Action is to be taken at a future meeting to have this discussion brought to the attention of the college and library officials. It is hoped that this matter will be seriously considered.

To Instruct Phys. Ed.

The appointment of Roy F. Pille of Dayton, Ky., as head track coach and instructor of physical welfare for Ohio University was announced by President John C. Baker.

Pille, recently discharged from the Army with the rank of major after nearly five years of service, assumes his duties in the athletic department Feb. 1, 1946.

From 1936 to 1940 Pille coached football and track at Dayton high school where he had good success in the Northern Kentucky Conference. He was one of 30 college students selected to represent the American Association of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation at the Olympic games in Berlin, Germany, in 1936.

A graduate of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College in 1936, Pille won three letters in track and three in football in his undergraduate days. He ran the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds flat. He is six feet one inch tall and weighs 190 pounds.

The 31-year-old Kentuckian earned a Master's degree at Indiana University in 1940.

Pille entered the army as a private in January, 1941. He was commissioned as a Second Lieutenant a year later. Attached to the 85th Division as the Division's Special Service Officer, Pille fought all the way through the Italian campaign. He holds the Presidential Unit Citation, the Bronze Star Medal with three campaign stars, and the Service medal.

Married and the father of a daughter 19 months old, Pille expects to move his family to Athens soon.

Rankinmen Win Over Xavier 67-46

Eastern, after a closely contested first half, pulled away from St. Xavier and won easily by a 67 to 46 score in the game played here last night.

During the close first half, which ended with Eastern leading by a 26 to 24 score, the Cincinnati team tied up the game five different times and for short periods held the lead over the Maroons.

St. Xavier was apparently out to stop the Maroon scoring ace, Fred Lewis. But Lewis, although failing to find the basket during the first half, began connecting with his shots in the latter part of the game and managed to accumulate 17 points.

Goebel Ritter outscored all other player, dropping in nine field goals and four free throws for 22 points. His performance in grabbing off the rebounds from the board was the best seen on the Eastern floor this year.

The first half began like a real ball game as St. Xavier set out to avenge their loss to Eastern in Cincinnati on January 5. The visitors put up good defensive action and would not permit the Maroons an open shot. They tied the score at 5-5, 7-7, 9-9, 11-11 and 13-13. The Maroons managed a slight lead midway of the half.

Eastern evidently was trying to conserve its strength in view of the big game Saturday night against Louisville at Louisville. The Seacards lead the KIAC.

The Maroons broke away from the tight Xavier defense and began their rally early in the second half of the game. During the last period, Eastern connected with fifteen field goals against eight by the visitors.

Eastern Downs Western For Fifth KIAC Victory

It has been a long time since an Eastern basketball team has had the satisfaction of trouncing the Western Hilltoppers by a ten-point margin but that is exactly what Coach Rankin's Maroons did to the Diddle coached team at Bowling Green Tuesday in a fast, well played contest.

Eastern led from the beginning, obtaining a 4-0 lead within a few minutes after the ball was put into play. The Maroons led 23-13 at the half and piled up points almost at will.

Lewis, one of the nation's top scorers, added 16 points to his total—five field goals and six free throws. Goebel Ritter made 15 points for Eastern, only one less than Lewis.

For Western, Chalmers Embry piled up 11 counters and Maurice Hale was second with nine.

It was the fifth conference victory for Coach Rome Rankin's boys to no losses in K. I. A. C. play. The game was Western's first in the conference after a score of non-conference tilts, the majority of which the Hilltoppers have lost.

The Sporting Thing

By GUY HATFIELD

There is hardly any need to say that I find it extremely pleasant to be here at Eastern again. Just four days before Christmas I became a civilian. That, in itself, I considered a major event and to enroll at Eastern once more was another. The editor of the Progress, Bob Ryle, added to my merriment of matriculation by granting me the privilege of resuming this column. To dehydrate the whole story—it's great to be back.

During the 1940-41 term, when I last wrote for the Progress, Eastern was receiving a lot of publicity due to the fact that the Maroons were winning ball games. The football team finished the season undefeated and untied in the fall of 1940. Two of the players, Chuck Schuster and Bert Smith, were named on the Little All American team that year and Spider Thurman and Fred Darling were honorably mentioned. With the winter came the basketball season during which Eastern lost only four games while winning thirteen. On the ball diamond that year, with the late George Hembree coaching, Eastern lost only two contests.

The basketball situation so far this year is in fine shape. Only one game has been dropped in eight. Looking ahead to the end of the season it appears that Eastern again will rack up another successful adventure in basketball.

All of that comes out to something like this—when I left here Eastern was winning ball games—as I return I find that Eastern is still winning ball games. It gives you something to be proud of when you realize that Eastern is flooring one of the strongest teams in the state and at the same time spreading her fame to other sections of the nation.

A winning ball team is an excellent advertisement of a college. The publicity derived therefrom will, in the future, more than repay the money and effort required in producing such terms. It is my hope that Eastern will continue to maintain the superior teams which she has had during the past few years and that she will strive to better the standard already attained.

Many of Eastern's former athletes must have played with service teams during the war. Exactly what men played and with what team they played I don't have much information. I would welcome any news that anyone is willing to pass along concerning this matter.

This past season, one former student of Eastern played halfback for the 84th Infantry Division. Some of the old timers may remember Paul Kline; once a member of the Maroon freshman team. Kline was a regular star for the 84th Division Rallspitters of the Seventh Army League. I saw him play in four games at Mannheim, Germany. As I watched his superb running and passing abilities, I wished that he could be back in Hanger Stadium doing the same things for the Maroons.

The services are discharging thousands of men daily—so they say. Some of these veterans will come to Eastern. From this group will come basketball, baseball, track, and football stars who can help bolster the athletic program at Eastern. From all indications the male population should approach pre-war normality by the fall quarter. That is an encouraging thought in anticipating the Maroon squads for the coming year.

Many of you have been watching the basketball team since the beginning of the season. I have had the opportunity to see only the past two games with Xavier and Murray. There are only three men on the entire squad that I knew when I left here. I'm hoping to know them all in a very short time. It will be nice to know a bunch of men that play basketball as they do. Whether it is the best team that ever played for Eastern is something for the coaches to say. They are definitely one of the best that I have seen at Eastern. Perhaps I'll rate them "the" team when I have observed them in the games to come.

Training School At Eastern Entered, Gold Watch Stolen

The training school building on the Eastern campus was entered Wednesday and a man's gold watch, belonging to one of the teachers, was taken, it was reported Thursday.

R. A. Edwards, principal, said the building was entered by removing a screen from one of the basement windows. Three class rooms, which are kept locked when the school is closed, were entered.

Mr. Edwards said the watch was taken from the Home Economics room and belonged to Miss Elizabeth Wilson, teacher. Keys to the rooms were kept in a cloak room and were found in the doors of the three rooms this morning when the school opened.

Kentucky To Play Tennessee Saturday At Knoxville

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 18—Kentucky, winner of 11 of 12 games, swings into defense of its Southeastern Conference basketball title this week against Tennessee, one of the principal contenders.

The Vols, victors in eight of nine tilts, tangle with the Wildcats at Knoxville in the 25th regular meeting between the arch rivals since the conference was formed. Kentucky holds a 17-7 edge in the series.

Maroons Outscore Murray In Hard Fought Game

The Eastern Maroons outpointed the Murray Thoroughbreds 71 to 66 here Friday night in a fast-scoring contest in which both teams connected with a large percentage of field goals.

The Thoroughbreds were obviously fatigued after a hard winning game the previous night over the tough Morehead Eagles, but were able to keep pace with the fast breaking Maroons.

High scoring Fred Lewis maintained his scoring pace last night, tossing in 12 field goals, all but one from behind the foul circle, and four free throws for a total of 26 points. Goebel Ritter played an outstanding defensive game and personally accounted for 17 points.

Junior Herrold, Murray's freshman threat, was held to 10 points. John Padgett, tall Thoroughbred center, was a definite contender for high scoring honors but went out on personal fouls late in the last half after racking up 19 points.

Four Foul Out
Three first string Murray players went to the bench in the last half on personal fouls and halted Murray's chances of overtaking Eastern. Padgett, Haines and Reagan went out of the game on fouls. Becker was the only Eastern player to foul out.

The scoring was tied five times in the first half. It was knotted at 7-7, 11-11, 13-13, 15-15, 22-22 and the first half ended with the score at 37-37.

Eastern pulled away early in the last half and gained a ten-point lead at 66 to 56 in the last few moments and then both teams went on a fast scoring spree, tossing the ball from one end of the floor to the other for two field goals each in less than a minute's play.

Losing Only One Of First Eleven Games

With ten of their twenty-one scheduled games completed Eastern's Maroons have a record at this writing, of seven wins and only one loss. This defeat was by the strong Bowling Green, Ohio five. Of the victories, three are from teams in the KIAC.

In the first game of the season, they had little trouble outscoring the Berea quintet 91 to 29. The Berea team was without the services of the V-5 unit which was there last year. Every player on the squad saw action in this game and was led in the scoring by Fred Lewis who filled the basket with 27 points. De Venzio was next with 12, Oldham and Maines had eleven, with Ritter collecting 8. Robbins was high for Berea with 9 points.

Eastern found little opposition in their next game and defeated Georgetown by the lopsided score of 60 to 27. Again Coach Rankin substituted freely and Lewis was high point man with 18 points. Ritter was close behind with 17 points followed by Oldham who tagged 8. Enlow, tall forward for Georgetown, collected eight to lead his team.

Suffer First Defeat

Traveling to Cincinnati, the Maroons lost their first game of the season to Bowling Green, Ohio in the Xavier fieldhouse by a score of 54 to 44. Don Otten, 6' 11 1/2" center for the opponents, proved to be too tall to handle and he dropped 17 points through the goals to lead his team to victory. Again Lewis was high point man with 18 and Ritter followed with 8. Oldham and Argentine picked up 6 apiece.

In their second KIAC game, the Maroons went to Winchester to down the Wesleyan five 74 to 53. In the free scoring game Lewis scored 24 points, Ritter 17, and Oldham 14. Bill De Venzio tallied 12. Woods and Gillespie led the Winchester team with 13 apiece.

Win Two At Kansas City
For their fifth and sixth games the Maroons traveled to Kansas City for two holiday tilts.

They had little or no trouble beating Hamline 55 to 45. Lewis led both teams in scoring with 27 points. Next was Merritt of Hamline with 16. Ritter continued to hit the mark for 11 with De Venzio making 8 and Oldham 6.

At the halftime mark of the Kansas State game, the Maroons were ahead 31 to 15. But the Aggies came back in the second half to narrow the winning margin to seven points with Eastern finishing with 54 points to Kansas State's 47. Lewis made 21 points to bring his two game total at Kansas City to 48. Weatherby of the Aggies made 14 to come second in the scoring. De Venzio tallied 11 and Ritter 7.

In the seventh game of the season, Eastern had a hard time outscoring Xavier of Cincinnati 49 to 41. Faced by Lewis' 22 points, the Maroons were able to overcome X's lead in the final minutes of the game. De Venzio made 13 points and Ritter 8. Geraci led St. X. with 23 points.

STATISTICS

So far this year the Eastern Maroons have scored 543 points to the opponents' 407. This gives Eastern a game average of more than 60 points to the opposition's 45. Fred Lewis has the highest game average with 22.1 per game. Ritter is next with an average of 11.9.
