"E" Debaters Are Active

By NEVILLE SMITH

Eastern now has its first debate team in many years. Although this team has been in action for only a short time, it has been surprisingly successful.

Members of the team are: Bill Greynolds, Jim Cunningham, Joe Rich, Keith Wiggins, Victor Venetozzi and George Ruchell. It is coached by Mr. Keith Brooks.

Recent encounters of the team have been with Annapolis, Louisville and Georgetown University of Washington, D. C. These teams were met along with others during the recent Indiana University invitational.

"Don't Use A-Bomb"

Expert Advises

"The atomic bomb is the poorest weapon the United States could use in Korea," Dr. Ralph Overman told an audience of students, faculty and local residents at Eastern's weekly chapel hour last Wednesday.

"The A-bomb is useful only in concentrated areas," Dr. Overman said. The nuclear scientist from Oak Ridge, Tenn., pleased his audience with an informative talk on the constructive and destructive uses of atomic energy.

"'85 Is Largest Ever," Says Dr. J. D. Coates

By BOB ESTEP

Eighty-five students began their student teaching this week. According to Dr. J. D. Coates, Professor of Secondary Education and Principal of Model High School, this is the largest group of students ever to take student teaching at Eastern in one semester.

Science Building Contracts Let

The State Property and Building Commission has awarded contracts totaling $586,270 for the erection of a science building on the campus of Eastern.

The Switzer-Willing Company of Lexington received the main contract on a low bid of $417,143 for the construction of the building. The Harlan Plumbing and Heating Company of Harlan was awarded the contract on the low bid of $116,864 for heating and plumbing. The Union Electric Company of Lexington was the low bidder on the electric work with a bid of $52,263.

Behind Roark

The new building will be erected behind the Roark Building and will be joined to it. After the completion of the new structure, Roark Building will be used for classrooms for several departments of the college. The need for additional classrooms has been very pressing for many years. The enrollment in the college has increased approximately 50 percent since the last addition was made to the number of classrooms on the campus.

It is expected that the contractors will begin clearing the site within the next few days and that the building itself will be ready for occupancy within a year.

The awarding of contracts for this structure is the culmination of six years of effort on the part of the administration at Eastern to get facilities for improving the teaching of science and at the same time to increase the number of classrooms that could be used during the regular college day. In order to accommodate all classes in recent years the college has had to have some night classes for students who live on the campus.

Dr. Dorris Speaks At Rotary Meeting

Dr. J. T. Dorris, head of the History Department at Eastern was guest speaker at the Rotary Club last week.

The historian discussed recruiting and enlistment practices for the armed services in the years past. He exhibited a number of documents, original and photographed, to illustrate his talk. One photograph was that of the general's commission that George Washington received when he took command of the continental army.

Dr. Dorris expressed his desire that this community establish a museum in which to display relics, documents and manuscripts of local historical value. Guests of the club were Kenneth Durham, a student of Model High school, and Ralph Rowlette, a student of Kingston High. They will be sent by the club to the Fifth Annual World Affairs Institute to be held in Cincinnati March 30 and 31.

The AACTE, with a membership of about 300 colleges and universities throughout the United States, has divided the country into four sections and appointed a committee of 15 in each section to study the colleges in each area. Dr. Frank Dickey, dean of the College of Education, University of Kentucky, and President O'Donnell are the Kentucky representatives on the committee. If you want to be a big hit, just wear your oldest and shabbiest rags and use your own judgment about shoes! The Hobo get-together is always one of the merriest events on our campus, so don't be a goon, grab a chick and "drag" her over on April 6.

A New Philosophy?

We live in a changing world. The past 2000 years have brought almost impossible changes. This evolution has yielded automobiles, planes, machinery, and ships all of modern design, as well as the atomic, and possibly the hydrogen bomb.

Philosophies have changed too, especially those of religion, morals, and character. Perhaps those of religion have changed more noticeably than others. For instance, the first century Christian was prompted by a philosophy that caused him to share his every possession with his fellowman. Love, time, and money were things to be used for others.

In the turmoil of the 20th century man searches for a new philosophy, but do we need a new one. The philosophy of the first century was that of Jesus of Nazareth, "love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thy self." What could be plainer than this, love God and love man. It worked too, there had been a world of jealousy, difference in language, and religion, but this philosophy gathered together under one principle, the barbarian, the Greek, the Gentile, the male, the female, th larned and unlarned.

Would such a philosophy work in our present civilization? I think so. However, it would involve paying a price. Loving one's neighbor as one's self may not be too easy, since it suggests that we are to be concerned over his welfare, his comforts, his necessities. That he be allowed exactly the same privileges we possess.

Had this been the case in former times, would Hitler have ordered the bloody massacre of the Jews? Would Mussolini have adopted his savage plan? Would the barbaric policies of Japan have been the same? Last, but not least, would Red Russia desire to extend the iron curtain around the world if she loved her neighbors and loved God? It isn't very probable that she would.

A new philosophy? No, we need to use the old one. Love God and love man.—Bill Slagle.

EASTERN HUMORÉTTES

STIFF SALE

Two Richmond businessmen were exchanging tall tales, mostly about their business experiences. One of the men had just finished telling about a big business deal on which he had made over $1,000. "Why, that's nothing!" said the other. "A woman came into my store the other day to buy a suit to bury her husband in, and I sold her an extra pair of pants!"

LIGHT CLIMB

Inmate N. 4622 of the alcoholic ward fingered his electric flashlight lovingly. "If I turn this beam straight up in the air," he said to inmate No. 4623, "I'll bet you a trillion dollars you can't climb up it."

"I'm wise to your tricks," sneered No. 4623. "I'd get half way up and you'd turn it off."

BABY POT

An old cannibal chief sat anxiously outside the hut of the tribal witch doctor. The doctor finally appeared with a happy smile on his face. "Chief Wampum," he declared, "you are the father of a bouncing eight-pound baby boy. Do you want to take him with you or will you eat him here?"

BRIDES NOTE

A famous man had a tough time deciding whether to marry a very beautiful but stupid girl or a rather painful looking creature who was blessed with a magnificent voice. Art triumphed. He married the soprano. The morning after their nuptials, he woke up, took one look at his bride, nudged her and shrieked, "For Heaven's sake, SING!"

CALLING McBRAUER

A pastor decided to have a sign made to put over the door of the church during the Christmas holidays. The manufacturer lost the note which gave the dimensions of the sign and the inscription that was to be printed thereon, so he wired the pastor, who was out of town, "Rush copy of motto and dimensions." A new lady clerk in the Western Union office got the reply and promptly fainting. It read, "Unto us a child is born. Eight feet long three feet wide."

RAT RACE

"Doctor! Doctor!" called Mr. Smith, frantically, "come quick! You know how my wife always sleeps with her mouth wide open? Well, just now a mouse ran down her throat!"

Burnam Breeze

By ANN HULKER

A voice upraised, a laugh too loud; The hall police disperse the crowd. (That is to say, unless you find A closet, a bed to hide behind.) A little lecture, very brief— Oh, I'll surely come to grief! A kindly smile, a last request, "Please sign this book, you little pest; And if you sign it just twice more, We'll campus you one time or more." What shall I do? I sit and pine. Alas! Alack! It's after nine. But venture out I cannot do, For of black marks I have two. But now I know it doesn't pay To holler, shout, or be too gay. I'll men my ways; I'll surely be A newer, quieter, campus-less me.

Jackpot for Crackpots

By E. TUDOR MOOSEPOTE, *B. M. O. C., *K. K., *O. P., Norfolk U.

INTRODUCTION

Dear Students:

You are about to read for the first time in the hallowed pages of the Progress the esoteric musing of E. Tudor Moosepote on Western Civilization, particularly eastern Kentucky. When Professor Moosepote discovered a sanctuary of knowledge named— weirdly enough— Eastern Kentucky, he hastily hastened to that scholarly institution, after resigning his position as sub-janitor at Notre Dame. French critics have dubbed him the Andre Gide of Mossy Bottom, the English have dubbed him the Somerset Maugham of Somerset, and that esteemed magazine, "American Golfer," has just dubbed him. Mr. Moosepote, on assuming this high office, said: "I want to make you all, my readers." In order to make his readers happy, Professor Moosepote now is presenting, through the excellent medium of our college crier, his first-hand impressions of a cursory survey of the campus, escorted by the guardians of our peace, Mr. Whittaker, and Mr. Ault. Here are a few excerpts from the Journal of E. T. Moosepote:

"There was the nonsensical quibbling of Hannah, Patricia Ruth, Pat L., Parksey, and Gay over who won an ambiguous contest in Burnam Hall one early morning some weeks ago. I gathered that Pat L. was third, and Parksey the most unique 'leap-frogger'."

"And the questionable assignment of two lovers in a phone booth. Wickets said he was calling Winchester, and D. D. stated with indignation, 'The door was open.'"

The Passing Daze

"I am somewhat impressed by some noteworthy remarks in a recent issue of 'Life,' of Robert Maynard (The Boy Wonder) Hutchins, so I shall repeat them here in my Journal for the benefit of the literate readers:

"The regular cycle from the bottom to the top is to take a course, memorize it, take a test on it, pass it, and forget it."

"There are two ways to have a great school. It must either have a great football team or a great president."

(In conclusion, Mr. Moosepote stated that Mr. Hutchins, past president of the highly experimental U. of Chicago, must have been only jesting and that actually the man did not even has his Ph.D.)

"La Garage will have the best basketball team in 1952, but I wouldn't want to bet on them."

The staff of the Progress was sadly informed by Professor Moosepote that he had intended to produce other material from the "dominion of the muses," including his "Musings on the O. V. C.," but unfortunately a canine who goes by the appellation of "Mozart" ate the last ten pages of his manuscript. But, reader, rest peacefully, for we have just been assured that we are in for more literary wizardry from the pen of E. Tudor Moosepote.

Bing Crosby's Hits Head Best Records

Surveys made among music publishers, composers, bandleaders, disc jockeys and music stores showed that records made by Bing Crosby, Artie Shaw and Glenn

Miller lead a list of "The Top 25 Records of All Time."

Results of the poll, published in the February issue of Cosmopolitan magazine, list three of Bing's records among the top 25, with Shaw and Guy Lombardo winning two places each.

Crosby's "White Christmas," which sold over eight million copies, was named most popular in the survey, and his "Jingle Bells" was runner-up.

The next four platters, listed in order of their popularity, are: Glen Miller's "In the Mood"; Artie Shaw's "Begin the Beguine"; Les Brown's "Sentimental Journey"; and Shaw's "Stardust."

Guy Lombardo's "Winter Wonderland" and "Humoresque" were in 17th and 24th places, respectively. The oldest record on the list is Gene Austin's "My Blue Heaven," made in 1927.

"The all-time hits," says radio and TV columnist Jack O'Brian, who reports the survey, "as a rule, are not flash favorites. The recordings that endure are those people genuinely like to listen to—not the bizarre or novel."

Spring Sports Awaiting Fair Weather

Various Varsity Teams Eye Season Openers

The weatherman is holding up Eastern's spring sports program which will include baseball, track, football, golf, tennis and the various phases of the women's athletic program. The majority of these teams have already staged preliminary workouts. They have been chased indoors by constant threats of rain and snow.

Baseball Opener

Athletic Director Charles T. Hughes will again coach the Maroon baseball squad. The varsity nine will be defending the OVC championship won last spring. The baseballers will open their 1951 campaign here on April 5 with the Miami University Redskins of Oxford, Ohio.

Football Classic

Coach Tom Samuels' footballers will stage their annual spring grid battle in Hanger Stadium on Friday night, April 6 at 7:30 p. m. This Maroon-White classic will terminate the spring grid drills. Samuels' 40 man squad will be divided into two teams. This meeting will be the third in the history of the varsity's football program.

Quarterbacks Roy Kidd and Larry North will head the respective offenses. One of the promising "newcomers" to the varsity eleven is former basketball player Carl Eagle of Harlan. Eagle will be eligible for football next fall. The "Harlan flash" has been looking well in workouts thus far.

Track Meet Here

Coach Fred Darling's track team will open its spring campaign here on April 17 with Centre. Coach Darling has already scheduled six meets. The OVC track meet will be held at Cookeville, Tenn., on May 19. Students interested in track are urged to contact Mr. Darling.

Tennis Planned

Science instructor Bob Gaines will tutor the varsity tennis team this spring. With the opening match carded here with Centre on April 7, the racquetees are expected to take part in 10 matches in addition to the conference tournament.

Golfers Too

It is expected that Mr. Ben Owen of the Madison Country Club will act as instructor for the Maroon golf team this year. The golfers are slated to open on April 11 with Tennessee Tech on the local course.

OVC Tourney To Remain In Louisville

The Ohio Valley Conference last week namer Athletic Director Bernie Shively of the University of Kentucky director of officials. The conference members also voted to retain the Jefferson County Armory at Louisville as the site for its 1952 basketball tournament.

Shively appeared before the conference members at a meeting and explained his plans for assignment of conference football and basketball officials. The members then voted to accept his plan and assigned him the job of getting the set-up started.

The University of Kentucky athletic director will assign the officials from nominations made by coaches. C. T. Hughes, Eastern Kentucky State College athletic director, and Ellis Johnson, Morehead State College coach and athletic director, were assigned to a committee to work with Shively in establishing a booking office.

The new plan will be on a one-year basis, effective at the start of the football season next September, and will not interfere with Shively's duties at the University of Kentucky.

The seven-member conference, in setting the dates of next year's tourney for February 21-23, inclusive, revised the set-up. Three games will be played on the first night of the tournament, the semifinals on the second night and the championship tilt the final night. Under this plan, the consolation game will be discontinued.

Johnson New President
Johnson assumed the presidency of the conference, replacing Luther Poling of Marshall. His term expired. The presidency is held on an alphabetical, rotating basis.

Roy Stewart, athletic director at Murray State College, became vice-president. Dean W. G. Nash of Murray was named to the judiciary committee for three years.

ALL-OVC—Jim Baechtold, "The Big Cat," was the first player named when the all-tourney team was announced at the Armory on February 24. Baechtold, a 6-3 junior, wound up his third year as a Maroon regular. Despite the fact he drew the toughest defensive assignment in many games, "The Cat" had a 14 point per game average. Truly one of the best all-around players in the nation today, he appears headed for a great season in his final year in the 1951-52 campaign.

OVC President Announces Policy On Spring Sports

The Ohio Valley Conference Baseball League will be divided into an Eastern and Western section this Spring, according to Luther Poling, president of the Ohio Valley Conference.

The Eastern section will be composed of Marshall, Morehead and Eastern, while the Western section will include Murray, Evansville, Western and Tennessee Tech. Each team will play the other teams in their respective sections twice in regular season play and then the winners of each section will meet this year on the Western section champions' home field for a best two of three games for the Ohio Valley championship.

The first two games in the play-off will be seven inning affairs while the third game if necessary will be a nine inning tilt. In the championship playoff two games will be played on May 21 and a third if necessary the following day.

Voice of Eastern

If the international situation permits, Eastern's 1951-52 basketball team will play the toughest schedule in the nation! Coach McBrayer isn't the type to build his success on "breather" schedules. . . Many people suspect unfair play in the scheduling of Louisville and U. K. in the first round of NCAA play at Raleigh, N. C. The same thing happened several years ago when both teams were in the Olympic playoffs. Spivey and Company should beat the Cardinals.

Cuff Notes Taken at the NIT: "Eastern Kentucky's basketball team rates with the best in the nation," said Beloit's Coach Dolph Stanley prior to the start of the tourney. Stanley added, "I would sooner play Kentucky than play Eastern!" . . . The Beloit Bucs had an off day in losing the tourney opener to Seton Hall . . . Dayton, led by big Don Meineke, looked good in the early rounds . . . Remember Eastern has beaten both Dayton and Beloit . . . No other school in the state has played the number of NIT teams that Eastern has. The Maroons have played four including close setbacks to North Carolina State and Brigham Young . . . Meineke's play in the Garden will certainly make him an All-American next winter . . . Goebel Ritter of the New York Knickerbockers is very popular with the youngsters in New York. They flock to him and yell, "Hey Tex (Ritter), how about your autograph!" . . . Fred Lewis, former cage great, is studying at NYU by day and coaching in Long Island at night.

Gov. Wetherby To Speak At Cage Banquet Here

Eastern's basketball squad will be honored at a testimonial banquet here on March 26, with Governor Lawrence Wetherby as guest of honor, President W. F. O'Donnell announced today. The banquet is open to students, faculty and Eastern's many basketball followers.

OVC Lifts Ban Against U. of L.

University of Louisville got what it wanted and the Ohio Valley Conference at the same time saved face when the conference lifted the scheduling ban against Louisville but continued the suspension of Louisville from the league.

Sentiment among U. of L. authorities didn't favor rejoining the league anyway. Basketball Coach Peck Hickman had expressed a desire to play some of the better drawing teams in the conference like Eastern and Western, but was not interested in playing a full conference schedule.

Now it's left up to the discretion of Western, Eastern and other league teams whether they'll play Louisville if Louisville wants to play them.

EASTERNOLOGY

There was a young lady of Natchez Whose garments were always in patches, When comments arose on the state of her clothes, She drawled: "When Ah itches, Ah scratches!"

WOLF HUNT

Dad labored hard for 18 years To keep the wolf away; Then daughter up and married one And brought him home to stay.

The banquet will be held in the main dining room of the Student Union Building. It is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m.

Lettermen Announced

Coach Paul McBrayer has announced his lettermen for the past campaign. The list includes: Joe Harper, Carl Eagle, Harold Moberly, Alex Stevens, Elmer Tolson, Bill Bales; Roger Geyer, Jim Bingham and student manager Don Bales.

Final Record

The Maroons closed the season with a record of 18 victories and 8 setbacks in a backbreaking schedule. One of the country's leading basketball rating powers lists Eastern in the top 25 of the nation.

Maroons Pick Best Opponents

Eastern's Maroon basketball squad picked an all-opponent team and named the following as the best they faced during the past season:

- Mel Hutchins—Brigham Young
- Jack Feeman—Toledo
- Ron Bontemps—Beloit
- Monk Meineke—Dayton
- Harry Axford—Evansville
- All-American Mel Hutchins was an unanimous choice. Others who received votes were Sam Ranzino—North Carolina State, Rip Gish—Western Kentucky, and Garrett Beshear—Murray Ky. State.
