Operetta, "The Mikado," Scheduled for February 22

"The Mikado," a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, is scheduled to be presented on the campus Monday, February 22. This is the second such performance to be presented here. "Pinafore," also written by Gilbert and Sullivan, was given last year.

Appearing in the operetta will be Jimmy Winn, junior, in the part of the Mikado of Japan; senior Hugh Brooks, the Mikado's son who is in love with Yum-Yum; senior Pat Spoonamore is Yum-Yum. Sophomore Freeda Waggoner as Pitti-Sing and junior Joan Scholle as Peep-Bo are sisters of Yum-Yum and wards of Ko-Ko, played by sophomore Larry James, the Lord High Executioner of Titipu.

Ed Burke, senior, is Pooh-Bah Lord High of Everything Else; senior Lawrence Harris, Fish-Tush, a noble lord; and senior Joan Neff, Katish, an elderly lady in love with Nanki-Poo. A chorus of school girls, guards, nobles, and coolies will appear also.

The operetta is a comedy with a Japanese setting. Neither Gilbert nor Sullivan had ever been to Japan, and it is built around what they supposed Japan would be like. This accounts for some of the humor and for the names of the characters. Japanese costumes are used throughout.

The production is being sponsored by the Music Club under the direction of Miss Frances McPherson and Mrs. Vasile Venettozzi. The vocal numbers will be accompanied by the Eastern orchestra.

Article Describes Tape Recording Project Developed At Eastern

Appearing in the December issue of the Journal of Teacher Education is an article written by Kerney M. Adams, professor of history, on "Tape Recording as a Teaching Aid." This article describes many interesting adaptations of tape recording to educational and cultural uses. Activities in various colleges and universities are mentioned, including some of the projects that have been developed at Eastern, though the article does not identify them as such.

In an interview with Mr. Adams we learned that some of the most unusual enterprises described in the article were developed at Eastern in connection with instruction in history and social science and as extra-curricular projects involving use of materials in art, music, literature, and pertaining to inter-cultural relations between peoples and nations.

The foreign embassies in Washington, D. C. have cooperated in providing gratis recorded materials of various kinds. A project developed in cooperation with the New Zealand Embassy and briefly described in the article is one example. From recorded Maori music furnished by the New Zealand Embassy selected portions were dubbed on tape along with pertinent introductory and other appropriate interspersed remarks. Further, through the courtesy of the Embassy, transliterations in English as well as English translations of the Maori songs were obtained from New Zealand.

Then with the use of a 35 mm. reflex camera, these scripts were photographed, developed, and framed for projection so as to enable the listening audience to follow script on the screen as the recorded Maori songs were played back. Preliminary to the playing back of the Maori songs these are read in tape-recorded form as the script is projected on the screen. These readings were made on tape in New Zealand by a member of the Maori folk in response to a special request that these be provided as a part of the project here described.

A similar procedure has been followed in a project involving the use of the very fine EMS recordings, "Anthology of Middle Age and Renaissance Music." These are obtainable through Recorded Music Consulatants of New York. In this instance the problem of making slides for projection is simplified by the fact that these recordings are accompanied by script in the medieval Latin, French, and German languages and in English translation.

Other embassies are cooperating in similar projects. Not described in the article are two or three rather novel enterprises which professors Adams and McLain are developing. One of these is being developed in connection with the history course titled "Ideological Foundations of Western Civilization" (History 498 and 499). This course dealing with the basic ideas in the development of Western Civilization is a discussion class in which classic works in the fields of philosophy, religion, science, economic and political thought are read and discussed. Every session of the class is tape recorded. The plan is to edit this unrehearsed, routine class discussion for broadcast in order that appropriate edited portions of these regular class sessions can be made to serve both collegiate and adult education purposes. The adult radio audience will be invited to send in questions pertaining to topics under discussion and the class will undertake to give some of the class time to discussion of these questions.

No less interesting is the combined use of a tape recorder and a film slide projector as the means of intensifying the experience provided by the reading of Dante's Divine Comedy. Film slides were made for Gustave Dore's etchings which illustrate Lawrence Grant White's edition (Pantheon Books, 1948) of this classic. These dramatic portrayals, especially of the horrors of the Inferno, are said to be unsurpassed. Recorded readings of pertinent portions of the poem are projected on the screen. Further, it is planned to record on the tape and at a appropriate intervals, as the picture are projected on the screen, some classic musical selections best suited to represent the various scenes in the Inferno, Purgatorio, and Paradiso.

Madge Gambill Is Nominee For IFY Exchange Program

Madge Gambill, a home economic major and junior from Paintsville, is one of four Kentucky candidates to be nominated for the International Farm Youth Exchange Program. She has now completed and passed the qualifications and endorsements from the U. of Ky. Extension Department.

If the candidates are approved of in Washington, they will spend several months in Europe visiting various countries to learn their modes of living.

If Miss Gambill is selected she will leave the United States this coming June and return in November. Expenses of the trip will be paid by the state, the United States government, and the country that she will visit.

GILES IS SENIOR ADVISOR

Collegiate Pentacle Sponsors Reception

Collegiate Pentacle, senior honorary for women, held a reception honoring members of the education department, supervising and student teachers, on the campus and in Madison County, in Walnut Hall, last evening, January 14, at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. J. Dorland Coates and Mrs. R. A. Edwards assisted Connie Robinson, Danville, and Joan Hafer, Covington, members of the social committee, with the serving of refreshments. Other members of the organization who were hostesses for the reception were: Wanda Smyth, president; Ruth Hulker, vice president; Mary Ann Rowlette, secretary, Jane Bourne, treasurer; Mary Lou Jones, chaplin; Betty Beaman, Ann Marie Broyles, Elizabeth Caywood, Jo Nell Harrod, Sue Moorhead, and Mrs. Emma Y. Case, faculty advisor.

Members of Collegiate Pentacle who were off-campus student teaching, and therefore could not attend, were Jane Ball and Glenna Hayes. Katherine Wright, Bellevue, sophomore, furnished background piano music for the occasion.

The purpose of the reception was to promote fellowship and interest among those engaged in student teaching and those supervising this training.

The Lloyds Featured At 2nd Community Concert

The Second Community Concert of this school year was presented by David and Maria Lloyd last Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in Hiram Brock Auditorium.

Mr. Lloyd is leading tenor at the New York City Opera and has been engaged every year by the late Serge Koussevitzky for the Boston Symphony and Tanglewood. The tenor won the Philadelphia Inquirer's Voice of Tomorrow contest in 1946.

Maria Lloyd is an accomplished violinist and appears frequently on program with her husband. The duo for last Tuesday's program presented both solos and duets, accompanied on the piano by Paul Jackson.

The program consisted of an aria from "La Boheme" and arias from "Rigoletto" sung by David Lloyd, and "Sea-Shell" played by Maria.

PLACEMENT BUREAU IMPORTANT TO SENIORS

Graduating seniors, stop-look-listen!

Do you realize that your personal record at Eastern is as important as your scholastic record? Can you imagine yourself applying for a job sometime after graduation and writing to someone at Eastern for a recommendation? If you have your personal record on file at the College Placement Bureau, it would be simple for you to get a recommendation. If not—?????

Every former student and graduate of Eastern who intends to teach should register with the College Placement Bureau, which is located in the Administration Building, room 7. Superintendents and school officials depend on the bureau to furnish the confidential credentials of candidates who are graduates of Eastern.

Remember YOU may need help from this bureau sometime so register while you can.

Information may be obtained by contacting J. D. Carty, Director of Public Relations.

Phalanx Club Gives Dance

On Friday evening, December 11, the ROTC's Phalanx Club held their first social of this school year with a dance in the Little Gym from 8 o'clock until midnight.

Harry Schoen and his orchestra provided music. The Little Gym was decorated with the six different battery colors and flags. Guests included President and Mrs. W. F. O'Donnell, Col. and Mrs. A. O. Hatch, and Col. and Mrs. Haydon Y. Grubbs. Col. Hatch is advisor of the club.

The Phalanx Club is a ROTC junior and senior officers' club.

Debate Team Wins Two In Tourney

Eastern's debate team opened its season Saturday, January 9, by participating in the annual Kentucky Intercollegiate Debate Tournament held at Centre College, Danville. The debate topic for this season is, resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy of Free Trade.

The affirmative team, composed of Roger Stephens and James Snow, debated the negative teams of Kentucky State College, the University of Kentucky, and Centre College. Jim Burch and C. T. Hughes, Eastern's negative team, debated the affirmative teams of Western Kentucky State College, Asbury College, and Centre College. Eastern won two debates out of three rounds, one of which was Western! The University of Kentucky, won first place in the tournament.

Chester Greynolds, Barbara Scoville, and Jerry Taylor, other members of the college squad, and the coach, Victor Venettozzi, accompanied those who debated.

Mr. Venettozzi said that he was satisfied with his "green" team (Roger Stephens and C. T. Hughes having had no previous experience) and that he was looking forward to competing with Western here January 20, and Kentucky State sometime soon.

PIANIST PRESENTED

Nathaniel Patch, a pianist now at the University of Kentucky, presented a piano recital in Hiram Brock Auditorium Thursday evening, January 7. Among the pieces he played were "Ondine" by Ravel and "The Girls in the Garden." Mr. Patch was presented through the Shackleton Piano Company commemorating Steinway Centennial.

Junior Misses

Junior Misses of this issue are Martha Thornton and Virginia Durbin. Both girls are leaders on Eastern's campus. Marty is known as being a conscientious and active member in the clubs she joins. Marty is serving as president of the Canterbury Club. Ginnie's leadership qualities are campus-known as is her radiant personality. She is chairman of the Burnam Hall's Administrative Staff and secretary of the junior class.

(Editor's Note: The Progress wishes to announce that the paper is always willing to print submitted editorials or letters to the editor concerning any worthy school matter. May the staff invite students and faculty to express their opinions through the college paper.)

YW-YM Submit "Provisional Student Association" For Trial

The Progress has in the past endorsed the student government movements on the campus. Obviously, the staff members considered those plans advantageous to Eastern or they would have put "thumbs down."

The present crusade for the "Provisional Student Association" seems to have been considered and planned over the Christmas Holidays. We are not certain of the identity of the people directly responsible and if we knew, they would undoubtedly say, "It doesn't matter. The important thing is to get student government for Eastern." This, we believe, is the winning attitude.

The plan which evolved from this period of meditation is unquestionably the best ever to be submitted before the student body. It provides for a short informative campaign followed by mass election in the Student Union Building. The vote will be on a "Provisional Student Association" rather than on a constitution. If this carries, and we believe it will, a committee will be chosen by popular vote for the express purpose of formulating a constitution. This constitution should specify that the students will be organized for a three month trial period. Presumably this provisional set-up was devised to satisfy those people who keep repeating, "I don't know what student government is." In other words, the plan is to let the students, the masses, make student government—constitution and all—in their own way.

This plan, we assure you, did not come from a so-called "clique." The suggestion came, so far as we know, from the YWCA-YMCA through all the clubs on the campus. That is, the plan met approval of all the club presidents and their organizations. It has climbed the ladder, rung by rung, and has now reached the peak of perfection.

Now we think that you will join us in believing that the campaigners for student government (we hope that means every active student on Eastern's campus) have devised a winner. The Progress supports this plan for what it is and student government for the improvements it will make for our accepted but still to be improved Eastern. Student government is for us and for you; it must be, because it is the full responsibility of every student to get it and make it work.

March Of Dimes Needed To Fight And Conquer Disease

The Polio Foundation needs $26,500,000 for 1954. This seems like a lot of money—and it is, but pause—think! Think of the lives which can be saved and the people who can be protected from the disease, perhaps even your little sister or brother. The battle must be won, only we must strike the first blow and be the conqueror.

In sixteen short years, the March of Dimes' research has finally broken one of the many threads of the tremendous barriers that has always stood between man and his conquest of Polio—the discovery of gamma globulin. It has been sixteen long years for those who have been actual victims of the disease.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was the founder of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis; he was, at one time, a victim of polio, but he fought the battle and won. Thus, he had the courage and patience it takes to finally overcome his paralyzed condition. Mr. Roosevelt didn't stop there. He had the stamina to fight still another battle, the battle of helping other individuals to live and walk again.

Only he accepted the responsibility of organizing a March of Dimes, and consequently his picture now appears on the American dime. This exemplifies just how strong an individual can be; blow after blow struck, but he continued at his same speed, making success out of failure.

For the first time, science has a temporary trial vaccine, gamma globulin. The objective is to extend protection by this to the greatest number of people and eventually, with everyone's help, to all the people. But now, now it takes money, and this is the role that college students can play.

The Polio Foundation needs money for a greater amount of research, trained doctors and nurses, iron lungs, hot pack machines, rocking beds, and numerous other things. The only way this can be achieved is by our dimes. If we knew we could help one person to live again with the use of one more iron lung, certainly we would be willing to do so. We can—by just sacrificing that one movie, a few cokes.

When we give, we must realize that those dimes will go a long way toward buying a brace to help some child, somewhere, to learn to walk again.

Now we understand. This is the battle we, a unified nation of people, must fight. In the past sixteen years we have helped to conquer that enemy by giving a single dime. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." God will bless the free giver; who is the one who gives with his heart behind it.

The Progress Salutes —

With this issue The Progress salutes Noland "Tack" Baldwin.

There were several conclusions reached after talking with Tack that made us even more certain that made us even more certain that he was worthy of our salutation.

First of all, we decided he must be sharp because most tacks are. And our decision was not uneventfully reached. Tack is going to study law at the University of Kentucky when he finishes serving in the army. Here at Eastern he is majoring in commerce, and readily admits that accounting and law are his favorite subjects. He must have sharp teeth also because his favorite food is steak.

We assumed and finally decided that this industrious lad was quite a "hopper". This stands to reason since he hails from Hopkinsville, Kentucky, way down in the western part of the state. People down there must be good natured, because Tack is very friendly.

We decided that Tack was a very normal as well as an active person. It seems the only thing he dislikes is getting up in the morning. We didn't need a doctor to tell us this wasn't normal.

Besides being in the Sigma Tau Pi, our senior is in the ROTC and is in charge of that section for the Milestone. Tack was recently selected to appear in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Tack likes popular music and dancing. He came to Eastern because he saw great possibilities for a promising future the school had to offer. The students are at the top of his "likeable" list.

To summarize it all, we feel that The Progress's decision can't really do Tack justice because he is such an all-around good fellow we can't say enough good things about him. However, we do say, for being just what you are Tack Baldwin, we salute you!

"He Came, He Saw, He Went," Never Finding What He Wanted

By MARY JO CAMPBELL

A stranger came to Eastern's campus this year, as had strangers done many times before. He was not a real person—and yet you might say he could be almost anybody. He came in search of something which is not to be found on Eastern's campus, and he went away disappointed.

He came about the time the Freshmen did, and for a time he was very happy—he thought he had found what he was looking for. He went to all the parties, and had a good time. But he happened to stop for a short visit in the dormitories after the parties, and was both surprised and disappointed to find that many, many people did not go to the parties. He went to the campus movie for Freshmen; again was disappointed to see that many of Eastern's new faces weren't there.

He built up his hopes when the upperclassmen came. They were all in wonderful spirits and they were glad to see Eastern, for they had grown to love the school they had attended for one, or two, or three years. They made him like Eastern, too, and he thought he had at least found what he had been looking for.

But he was disappointed. The high spirits of the upperclassmen began to decline along with those of the Freshmen, and no one seemed to like Eastern any more.

Search Continues At Game
The stranger almost packed up and left with many students who went home one weekend. Then he remembered about the football game and decided to stay. Maybe these suitcases have to go home, he thought. So, yelling and waving an Eastern pennant, he went to the ball game, where he was met by a few superior smiles on the few faces which were to be seen at the game. Some people didn't even bother to give him a scornful smile—they were too busy seeing who was with whom, and who had on what.

He went to the dance after the game, expecting to re-play it again in an argument with someone, but no one even mentioned the game. And not too many people danced. Could he possibly find what he was looking for in this college? he thought.

Visited Classes
He visited several classes, where everyone was so disinterested they either didn't bother to come or went to sleep in class.

He went to assembly and found a few people seated on the back rows, sleepily doing tomorrow's math while the speaker talked on—a very good speaker, he thought, but no one else seemed to like him.

He went to a basketball game, and saw several students there, but hardly any in comparison to those who could have come.

He loafed in the grill, but everybody was too engrossed in bridge games. They couldn't tell him where he could find the thing he wanted to find at Eastern.

He heard a few arguments for student government, but no one seemed very interested.

Disappointed Stranger Leaves
Then he received the shock of his life when he walked by a table in the grill and heard a voice say, "And while we're on the subject, let's give three rousing cheers for Eastern—rah, rah, rah," and then the voice laughed in a jeering sort of way. He heard the vicious little taunt several times, and finally knew that what he was looking for was not at Eastern. So he left, disappointed. Maybe he would try again next year.

What was he looking for? School spirit. That invisible, but very real thing which can transform a college into the much talked-about "home away from home."

Easterners have school spirit in a mild, rather sick sort of way, but it seems to come from the fact that they just want to be different. And some of them are enthusiastic so people will laugh at them. When students can show off and be laughed at by showing school spirit, something is wrong. And, in some cases, it happens.

Student Government A Privilege
There is something wrong when the student body of a college won't listen to arguments for and against student government. It should be considered a privilege to be allowed student government, but to so many students, it is a bore! It is an easy matter to find out about student government at Eastern—almost everyone knows a little about it, and a few enthusiastic supporters will be glad to tell you about it. How do you know it is good or bad or indifferent when it hasn't been tried here? Soon there will be a great deal said about student government, for there is an undercurrent of talk going on now. Listen to it. It's your privilege, and your duty.

There is something wrong when a college grill has to be closed at 10:00 every Wednesday morning to induce people to go to assembly. You did know that's when assembly is held, didn't you?

Something Wrong
There is something wrong when half the school goes home on weekends. And only the ones who go home can do anything about it.

There is something wrong when people skip classes, one after the other. Are classes a part of school spirit, you ask? Yes, as much as attending ball games or any other activity.

There is something wrong when students don't have enough pride in their school to stop littering the grounds with papers, destroying property in the buildings, and writing letters home to worried parents about what a horrible place this is. School pride goes hand in hand with school spirit, needless to say.

Can you honestly say you are proud of your school if you don't take part in the activities that go on here? Can you honestly believe that Eastern is your school if you go home every weekend?

You Are The Answer
The only one who can bring more school spirit to Eastern's campus is you—the students of Eastern. The only way you can do it is to work for it by attending things and taking an active part in the activities Eastern offers you. If you do this, then maybe the stranger who visited Eastern looking for school spirit will return and find a different place—a better place—because of something you had a part in bringing to Eastern—school spirit.

'KAMPUS KATS'

Did Santa bring you girls that favorite Toni hair-curling doll and you boys that Lionel choo-choo trains? From one "kat" to another, I want to wish you all the happiest New Year ever.

Gee whiz, lots of changes have taken place over the Holidays—I come back and all I see flash sparkle, and shine—oh, so many diamonds! Through certain standards we dedicate this section to the newly-engaged couples: Jennie Chatlin and Bob Mulcahy; Carol Melburg and Roy Kidd; Toby Wells and Charlie True; Ray Tingle and Peggy Kraus; Mary Hall and Nick DeSantis; Joan Neff and Don Knowland; Joan Dawson and Frank Matthews; Patsy Spoonamore and Carl Cummins; Martha Applegate and Ed Hardin. Some of the girls are engaged to boy friends back home: Sue Moorhead, Betty Crank, Ann Quinn. Congratulations!

On the married list is Mr. and Mrs. Ed McNabb. The Mrs. is a former student at Eastern—Ann Barker. Also married are Harry Wilson and Cora Griffith and Kathryn Keene and Shirley Kearns. Lots of happiness to all!

Hear that Blanche McCoun likes desserts—especially Puddin', a boy back home. Wonder if Marty LeFevers has gone into some secluded hiding place—this kitty never sees her. Some more steadies are Judy and Pudgie, Anglia and Jimmy Wynn, Betty White and Del—just how serious is all of this, hum?

Gordon Fleck seems to have a new interest—they tell me she's Mary Ruth Childres, a transfer from Marshall. Mary Ann Odgen and Bob Muller are getting to be a familiar pair on campus lately. Seem to see Barbara Issac with a different boy each night—What has happened to Wally Sullivan? Oh, well, he doesn't seem to be at a loses for female company.

Another campus miss that listened to weddings bells over the holidays was Katherine Akers who married a U. of Ky. boy. Katherine will transfer to Lexington the end of this semester.

January

"Living More Abundantly" was the theme given to the fire side chats begun last January and held in the lobby of Burnam Hall. Cyens, sophomore honorary for women, sponsored the programs which included a local minister speaking each Monday evening.

February

One of the highlights of last year's dramatic productions was the presentation of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" given on campus February 25. The play was also given at Bloomfield and at Lexington.

March

The month of March bring to campus the annual Military Ball one of our biggest social events. Last year's Corps Sponsor, crowned Queen at the dance, was the former Miss Pat Rickey.

1953 ON PARADE

September

What could be more typical of the month of September than a registration line? School doors opened this semester on September 18 and registration lines formed bright and early for the next several days.

May

During the last month of school, excitement runs high with the approaching graduation and the summer vacation. Another event which is always eagerly looked-forward to is the annual Junior-Senior prom. Last year's Queen was Blanche Rose McCoun and the King was Clyde White.

December

Eastern's campus never misses to capture the Christmas spirit. Banquets, parties, the Messiah, and the Hanging of the Greens are only a few of the programs which brings the holiday greetings to all. Pictured above are members of Burnam's House Council decorating the hall's tree which adds to the Yuletide atmosphere.

November

Football! Homecoming! November! This year's Homecoming game found Eastern defeating Western by the score, 12-7. Miss Carlene Babb, sophomore from Ashland, was crowned Queen of the Homecoming activities which expanded into a two-day program. The winning float was sponsored by the ROTC.

McBRAYER WINS PRAISE DESPITE LOSSES

Senior Tom Holbrook, an unanimous choice, and Jack Adams, Sophomore, were chosen for the first annual All Kentucky Invitational team. Hitting for fifty per cent of his shots, Holbrook was the only player to be an unanimous choice. The All Tourney team included: Marshall, Spoelstra, and Able of Western; Noble, and Cox of Louisville; Crittenden, Murray, Foster, Houston; Schaefer, Villanova; Kirsah, Siena; and Plontek of Xavier.

A winning team will always make a coach look good, but with men who know and understand the game of basketball they can always pick out the outstanding teachers of the game. So it is with head coach Paul McBrayer, who despite having his worst season in eight years has sports writers sitting up taking notice because you can't keep a good man down. He has come a long way since he once told his mother he was the worst ball player in the world. An All-American guard at U. K. during his playing days, he is now to Eastern fans an All-American Coach.

Dean Eagle (Louisville Times Sports Editor)

"Pat for Mac . . . Most of the coaches agreed on one thing: that Paul McBrayer has done a tremendous job in building a team at Eastern this season . . . It is the most inexperienced club to represent Eastern since McBrayer took the reins in 1946 and brought the Maroons into national prominence . . . Richmond people naturally were downhearted about Eastern's coming so close to an upset of national significance but they were proud of the Maroons even in defeat.

Ed Ashford (Lexington Herald)

In picking a coach for the first All Tourney team he stated . . . "For Coach I'd have to take Paul McBrayer of Eastern, who did a masterful job in forcing Western to the limit to score an 81-78 win . . . McBrayer lost all five starters from last year's team but Western with practically everybody back and one of last year's regulars, Dan King, beaten out of his starting berth, got only 28 field goals to Eastern's 33."

Larry Boeck (Louisville Courier-Journal)

"He may lack material, but Eastern's Paul McBrayer gets results anyway."

And so all over the state and parts of the nation no one is counting McBrayer's Maroons out of the picture, for next year's team could well be another N.C.A.A. team.

Intramural Starts

Eastern's 1953-54 Intramural basketball league is now under way. In charge of all arrangements, senior, Ed Mircle is serving his second year as head of the league. There are a record 21 teams in the league and games will be played three nights a week, (Monday, Wednesday, Thursday. In order to get all the games in there will be four games a night, two at 6:30 and two at 7:30. The games are held in the Health building and are open to the public. There are four rules that each team must follow in order to stay in the league.

1. All games will start promptly on time.
2. Team captains are responsible for having their teams present.
3. If a team fails to show up twice, they are automatically dropped from league play.
4. Each team will pick their own official and have a scorekeeper present.

Maroons Number One --- In Personal Fouls

That mad urge to beat upon the opposing players has cost Eastern many a ball game but it finally has placed Eastern in the Number one spot. The Maroons have the honor (?) of committing the most fouls average per game. Their average of almost thirty (29.8) means that just about 6 players may foul out per game. Tain't no way to win ball games.

MAROONS BATTLE 'TOPPERS TOMORROW

Second Meeting

Right now the whole state looks and feels like a deep freeze unit, but comes this Saturday night the sector around Bowling Green is liable to become red hot. The Eastern Maroons take the long ride to the home of the Hilltoppers to face the nations longest win streak, 15 straight by Ed Diddles boys.

The last time these two teams met it was touch and go with Western getting the last touch for a three point victory. But Western on their own floor and just back from a stirring win over Dayton will be tougher than usually. Needless to say that when these two teams get together regulation goes out the window and the team with the breaks wins.

Eastern just about half way down their schedule has an unimpressive 3 win, 8 loss record, but just cast your eyes on the caliber of the teams they have engaged. Compare this with Western's schedule if you get a chance.

E.K.S.C.	Opponents
78	Centre	55
59	Middle Tenn.	60
65	Dayton	73
112	Tenn. Tech.	82
60	N.C. State	83
94	Morehead	96
74	Siena	58
78	Western Kentucky	81
67	Xavier	86
81	Toledo	89
70	Louisville	86

Tom Holbrook is the first player on the squad to score over 200 points. He has 201 for a 18.1 average. Bob Mulcahy has 138 points for a 13.8 average and Jack Adams is the other player with over 100 points with 128 and a 11.6 average. Adams also leads in rebounds with 91, personal fouls with 52 and foul tries attempts with 67, he hit for 40 of them.

The team on the whole has a 39.6 shooting average as to a 35.8 average for their opponents.

CHEERFUL THOUGHTS

Two little rabbits were being chased by a pack of wolves. One little rabbit turned to the other and said, 'How about you and me stopping a minute and outnumbering em?'

The teacher played the Star Spangled Banner and asked her first grade class to identify it. "That's easy," shouted a pupil from the back seat. "It's what they play every Friday on TV just before the fights."

"Let's make a date for Saturday."
 "I have a date for Saturday."
 "Then let's make it Sunday."
 "I'm going out of town Sunday."
 "How about Monday?"
 "Oh, darn it, I'll go Saturday."

Grandma (looking at her granddaughter's new bathing suit): "If I could've dressed like that when I was a girl, you'd be six years older today, Missy."

SPORTS

By NICK De SANTIS

A few generations ago when you spoke of Kentucky you are speaking of good straight whiskey; one generation ago when you heard Kentucky mentioned you thought of the worlds finest race horses; this generation the best brand of basketball runs hand-in-hand with the mention of Kentucky. But it is also this states misfortune to have some of the worst basketball refereeing in the nation. Western hasn't a game in Bowling Green since we beat them five or some years ago and we were the first team to beat them there in a long while, in a good many of their wins it was quite plain that the Hilltoppers used seven men to keep this streak going. Morehead fans are still kicking about the raw deal that Peck Hickman and his refs gave them, but then who don't get a raw deal in Louisville. Time and time again Eastern fans have sat a watched games in our own health building that were handled on a yower scale then high school B teams. We'll back Tom Kubeck, of the Morehead Blazer, 100% when he stated that "We should have state high officials clear up this mess before basketball is ruined."

It may be a joke but some people don't think it's runny. Movies of Eastern's three point loss to Western show that Spoelstra did knock an Eastern shot out of the basket as it was on it's down ward flight which should be an automatic two points for the Maroons. Movies also show that in the closing seconds Western's Able went into back court with the ball, which should give the ball to Eastern out of bounds but didn't; Movies also show that Able drove into a corner and while there lost the ball but picked it up again, this should give Eastern the ball out of bounds, but didn't All this happened in the last few seconds with us one point behind. Like I say it isn't funny . . .

Resolutions Aren't Answer, Discover Cause," Says Ward

By MARY ELIZABETH JOHNSON

"I'm against New Year's resolutions," said Dr. William Ward, instructor of psychology here at Eastern. "New Year's resolutions are an indication that a person is not satisfied with himself and shows that he would like to change his behavior but making a resolution is not the answer. One should try to discover the cause for the unsatisfactory behavior and eliminate this cause before resolving anything."

Ward holds three degrees, a Bachelor of Science, a Master of Science, and a Ph. D. He graduated from Western Illinois, West Chicago, and completed his doctorate at Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois. After service with the United States Marine Corps, a state hospital at Bartonville, and Bradley University as assistant counselor and psychologist, he came to Eastern University and is now in his second year of his

Physical Education Major
 Majoring as it may seem, Dr. Ward majored in physical education for his bachelor's degree. He coached junior high school basketball and feels that participation in constructive recreation is one of the best means of adjustment that has for all ages.

Professional Baseball
 Professional baseball claimed Dr. Ward's services for two seasons. He played with the Duluth, Minnesota team in the Northern League until a bus crash temporarily disbanded the team. Dr. Ward was one of only four who escaped without being either fatally or seriously injured when their bus was involved in a head-on collision and rolled over an embankment in 1947. Coming through the emergency exit of the bus is the last thing Dr. Ward remembers before waking up in hospital.

Psychology is one of the most important fields for modern day students according to Dr. Ward. "I am seeking satisfaction, being able to understand one's self and others through psychology. The most important step toward self-knowledge and happiness. Therefore everyone should have some instruction in psychology, beginning on the high school level.

Mrs. Ward was introduced to Dr. Ward at a friend's wedding. The moral to this story according to Dr. Ward is "just attend the right weddings and everything will be just fine." Susan Jean, a very sweet and very small dark haired daughter, completes the Ward's family circle.

Intellectual Curiosity Lacking

"There is a very friendly atmosphere here at Eastern that I have not seen in other colleges or universities," remarked Dr. Ward, "but our students here at Eastern should have more intellectual curiosity. Only a few students here have the desire to learn subject material so they can use their education in their careers later. If I gave any suggestion for improvement on our campus it would be that the students develop a greater intellectual curiosity."

"Uncle Scrooge" and "Jungle Jim" are some of the nick-names that students have good-naturedly pinned to Dr. Ward because of his beliefs that children not be deceived or inhibited; not even in the beliefs that there is a Santa Claus. The reporter would like to recommend Stan Freburg's "Christmas Dragnet" and "Dennis the Menace" to show what happens when... to our reserved and intently observant psychology professor.

Visitation Group Rates College High

The committee on standards from the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education which visited Eastern last November 9 and 10 have submitted the report that the all-around general program of the college is rated very high, announced Dean W. J. Moore. Dean Moore remarked that, as in all cases, Eastern's program can be improved and that suggestions were made by the committee for these improvements.

The three-year revisitation schedule of all colleges having membership in the AACTE was begun in January, 1951, and was completed at the end of 1953. The purpose of the visits was to make studies of the member colleges, give instructions on meeting new standards set up by the Association, and to offer suggestions for improving the college's whole program.

President W. F. O'Donnell has, himself, been chairman of visitation committees studying various colleges in AACTE membership during the past three years.

The chairman of the committee which visited the campus was Dr. F. G. Macomber, dean of the School of Education, Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. He was assisted by President Harry B. Heflin, Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va.; Dean David W. Heary, School of Education, University of Toledo; Dr. Hubert Von Haden, Professor of Education and Director of Placement, Miami University; Dr. Delmar Somerville, Head of the Department of Education and Psychology, Glenville, State College; Orville Ulry, Director of Student Teaching, Miami University.

Also in the visitation group were J. M. Dodson, Louisville, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association; Miss Louise Combs, Frankfort, assistant director of teacher education and certification, State Department of Education, and Miss Virginia Murrell, Bellevue, representative to the State Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

Dean Moore was co-ordinator for the faculty committees at the college which were making evaluation schedules on various standards of the AACTE.

Students Attend Youth Convention in Alabama

The Presbyterian Fifth Quadrennial Youth Convention was held during the Christmas Holiday at the Polytechnic Institute in Auburn, Alabama, from December 29 to January 1.

Eastern's student attending this meeting were Peggy Shackleford, Cynthia Jones, Mary Lake McElroy, Paul Hager, Mary Jones, and Tom Campbell. Rev. Oliver Carmichael, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Richmond, was in charge of the Worship Service for the convention.

"The Christian's Mission" was the theme of the conference which was attended by 1800 representatives from the United States and foreign countries.

Principal speakers at the convention were John A. Mackey, president of Princeton Seminary and a native of Scotland, and Dr. Kenneth Scoot Latourette, Professor Emeritus of Mission and Oriental History at Yale Divinity School.

Bible study, religious discussions and recreation were also a part of the convention program.

Dr. Frank Price, Lexington, Virginia, spoke at the Watchnight Service held on New Year's Eve.

Two Delegates Represent Wesley Foundation

Representing the campus' Wesley Foundation at the National Methodist Student Conference held on the University of Kansas campus in Lawrence, Kansas, was junior Janice Treadway and sophomore Billy Roy Murphy.

The conference, which lasted from December 28, to January 3, was attended by 2300 students from the United States and 46 foreign countries.

"Christ Transforming Culture" was the theme for the days filled with worship, speeches, discussions, Bible study, vocation-interest groups, concerts, and recreation. The highlight was a New Year's Eve communion service.

The conference was directed toward the enrichment of personal spiritual life.

For what reason do you think twenty-one American soldiers have turned to Communism and refuse to repatriate?

Ruth Hulker, senior: "I don't know. I think it's obvious that we don't have all the facts. Maybe the soldiers are afraid. I think there is a good explanation, but we don't know it."

Dr. Ward, psychology department: "Probably the distorted political picture being presented to the men by the Communists has a great deal to do with their refusal to be repatriated. As a theory, Communism may be presented in a rather favorable light. The men are probably swayed in their points of view by continued suggestion."

Ray Davis, sophomore: "Some soldiers joined the Army due to trouble at home. Not returning to the U. S. may seem, to them, a way to forget the problems at home."

Don Schaefer, senior: "Some people think that they get something for nothing, and Communism highlights these factors."

Jerry Taylor, freshman: "Because they're crazy or have been forced into it."

Chuck Vineyard, senior: "I think the reason would be that the background of these boys has been very poor. They haven't been given the opportunity by either their parents or our social standards in the United States to understand what Communism really is. It is possible that the people in the U. S. are partially responsible."

Bev Wilson, junior: "Men who would forgo the privilege of freedom and growth in a land of democracy and moral development probably never understood enough so as to be a full part of such opportunities. Therefore the doctrine of Communism and the false realization of being a necessary member of such a group has gotten to the core of their personality needs."

Wayne Pressley, senior: "These men as a group are rather young and when they went to war, they had probably formed no definite sense of values and were easily impressed and twisted by the Communists."

Cynthia Barrick, freshman: "I don't think they could possibly know the true meaning of Communism. Some method of teaching Americans what Communism really means should be established in the United States."

Mr. McLain, history department: "The reasons fall mainly in two categories: those who have opportunistic reasons for accepting Communism (rewards, position and fame) and those who have failed to accept democracy because of social, environmental or other reasons. We must be careful to judge these men in the light of the fact that a few aberrations are always to be expected in any such ideological struggle."

Bill Woolam, freshman: "Some of them got involved with the Communist Party and would like to leave but are afraid to."

'The Fabulous Invalid', Speech of Mr. Wilson

by Charles Fair

Glen Wilson, dramatic instructor, recently delivered a very interesting speech entitled "The Fabulous Invalid" to members of the World Affairs Club. The speech concerned the theater and its relationship with world affairs. Mr. Wilson compared the type of plays produced today with those of previous ages.

Since the days of early Greece and Rome to the present day, the theater has reflected in its drama the thought and feeling of the times. Today the legitimate theater is fighting for survival along with its counterparts, television and the movies. The type of play produced today follows the trial and true method of "boy meets girls" and "boy marries girl," while the plays of former times were concerned with more fundamental problems of man.

Today the type of entertainment is no longer accepted by the general public, but has been replaced by plays of entertainment or pictures man as a mixed-up individual living in a mixed-up world.

Mr. Wilson, however, does not believe that the drama will die but he is most optimistic about its future.

He concluded by touching briefly on McCarthyism and communism and its influence on the theater of today.

Faculty Facts

The program consisted of a panel discussion on General Education, followed by a social hour with Mrs. Homer E. Cooper, Chairman of the Berea Social Science group, as hostess.

Mrs. Lewis Smith, Mrs. Roscoe Giffin, and Mrs. Fu Liang Chang assisted the hostess in serving spiced tea and fruit cake made by Mrs. Kerney M. Adams.

fessor Adams on "Tape Recording as a Teaching Aid."
