Five Changes In Faculty Touch Four Departments

Planning class work, discussing world problems, or maybe just getting acquainted are two new faculty members, Monroe Billington, Lexington, who is teaching in the social science department and Calvin Huckabay, Baton Rouge, La., who is teaching in the English department. Dr. W. A. Sprague, Des Moines, Iowa, of the psychology department was not on the campus when the picture was taken.

Five changes in faculty personnel were announced by the President's office this week.

Coach Glen Presnell has become a full-time member of the faculty. Since 1947 he has served only during the football season and for spring practice. He will direct classes in physical education and will coach the track team this spring in addition to his duties as head football coach. Mrs. Presnell and their son, Danny, will move to Richmond as soon as they find a house or an apartment.

Fred Darling, who has been a full-time instructor in the department of health and physical education, coach of the track team, and backfield coach in football, will be on leave of absence during the second semester while he continues his studies for the doctorate at the University of Kentucky. Darling has already completed a considerable part of the work for the doctorate but needed to take a leave in order to satisfy the residence requirements for this degree. He will return as full-time faculty member at the beginning of the summer session.

Monroe L. Billington, Lexington, will substitute for Clyde Lewis in the social science department during the next four months while Lewis completes all requirements for the doctorate at the University of Kentucky. Billington is a graduate from the University of Oklahoma. He expects to receive the Ph. D. degree from the University of Kentucky this year.

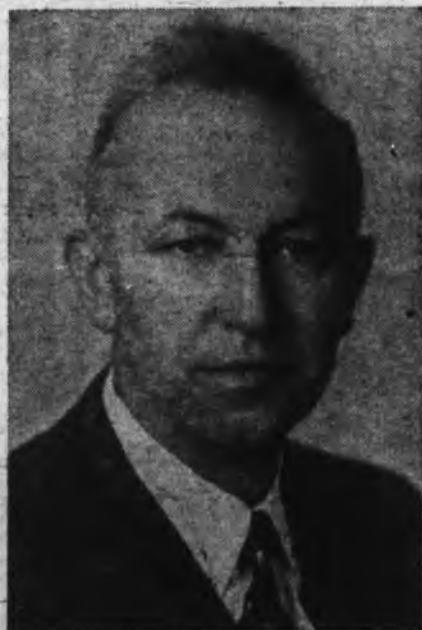

A. G. Wehrli Is Religious Emphasis Week Speaker

Dr. Allen G. Wehrli, professor from Eden Theological Seminary, was the guest speaker during Religious Emphasis Week on February 16-17. The theme for the week was Your Life in God's Plan.

Each day the group attended morning watch, discussion groups, private conferences, and lectures. Some of the topics that were discussed were "Our Responses to the Unexpected", "Reliability and Agreeableness", "Religion at Home and Aboard", "Obstacles to Religious Living", and "Religion That Will Not Wear Off".

Dr. Wehrli has been a professor of Old Testament language and literature in Eden Theological Seminary of the Evangelical Reformed Church since 1922. Earlier he received degrees from Elmhurst Junior College, Elmhurst, Illinois; Reed College, Portland, Oregon; Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Missouri. He also attended the University of Halle, Wittenburg, Germany; the University of Berlin, Berlin, Germany; the Divinity School of the University, the Oriental Seminary of John Hopkins University, Baltimore.

He has been a lecturer, teacher, and preacher in many protestant pulpits and on many college campuses throughout the years.

A. G. WEHRLI

Eastern was extremely fortunate in having Dr. Wehrli as speaker for the Religious Emphasis Week this year.

Top Honors Prize In Election

Election day is drawing nigh! Three of Eastern's top honors, Miss Eastern, Miss Popularity, and Mr. Popularity, will be decided in a contest to be held Monday, February 28th. A voting poll will be set up in the recreation room of the Student Union Building by members of the "Milestone" staff at which all students are urged to express their opinions through the use of their ballots.

Counts Most

Qualifications for Mr. and Miss Popularity are outstanding personality, genuine poise, junior or senior classification, and general popularity with the student body as a whole.

First Qualification

Miss Eastern's qualifications are listed as outstanding beauty, a well rounded personality, genuine poise and a junior or senior classification.

The results of the election will be announced in the March 4th edition of the "Progress."

All three winners will be presented with trophies by the "Milestone" staff, and Miss Eastern will represent her college at the Mountain Laurel Festival where she will be a candidate for queen of that celebration.

Military Ball Set March 4th

One of the biggest dances of the year is almost here. March 4th is the date for the Military Ball! Dave Parry's band has been secured by the Reserve Officer's Training Corps which annually sponsors this dance in Walnut Hall from 9:00 until 1:00.

Tickets which are being sold by every member of the corps have been on sale since Monday, February 14th. Every lady attending the dance will receive a favor as a gift from the corps.

Miss Parker Elected Sponsor

Miss Jane Parker, senior, has been elected by members of the Knights of Artillery to be sponsor for the Second Battalion. The vacancy was made when Miss Carlene Babb, junior, withdrew from school. Miss Parker will be presented with Miss Julianne Weidencamp, Military Ball Queen, and her court at the coronation at the dance.

'Glass Menagerie' In Rehearsal Now

Glen Wilson, director of dramatics, announced recently that the production dates of the "Glass Menagerie" will be March 16th and 17th. A double cast has been chosen since the drama will be presented two consecutive nights in Hiram Brock Auditorium at 8:00 p. m.

Roger Stephens has been named assistant director by Mr. Wilson. Jim Burch has been cast as "Sam," Ann Hobbs and Jerry Taylor as "Amanda," Betty White and Billie Sue Click as "Laura," and Thom McElfresh and Chester Greyolds as "Jim."

Mardi Gras Dance Tonight In Burnam

A "Mardi Gras Dance," sponsored by Collegiate Pentacle, is to be held Friday, February 18, from 9:00 p. m. to 12:00 in the lobby of Burnam Hall, which will be decorated like a French restaurant.

The dance is vice-versa and admission is 50 cents stag or drag.

Named for the Mardi Gras Ball held in New Orleans, February 22, this dance will be semi-formal.

Chairmen of the Planning Committee are Ramona Fletcher, Thelma Park and Denyse Campbell.

ALEC TEMPLETON TO PLAY ON HIRAM BROCK STAGE

Alec Templeton, pianist, will present the next in the series of community concerts to be held Monday, February 28, at 8:00 p. m. in Hiram Brock auditorium.

Well known as a concert pianist, he has also been widely recognized as a composer. His musical impressions have been heard during his annual concert tour of some 90 United States cities and as he was star of his own radio program. He has also been guest star on a number of leading radio and television programs. Several of these impressions have been recorded. The most recent is the album entitled "Alec Templeton Improvises Offenbach and Johann Strauss."

Some of his compositions include serious music such as "Piano Quinte" and the Modernizing the Masters series, "Mr. Bach Goes to Town," "Mozart Matriculates," and "Scarletti Stoops to Conga." Besides well-known popular compositions, he is the composer of two string quartets, a song cycle, compositions for the piano and other instruments, and a concert for the piano and small orchestra.

Born with absolute pitch, Templeton has developed his remarkably accurate ear so that today he can identify on assortment of eight or nine unrelated notes without hesitancy. He can hear a new piece one time; and regardless of difficult arrangement, he can play it through after practicing a composition the necessary time for its mastery, he never forgets it. He works he hasn't played in years without a slip—a feat unknown to most pianists— He was born in Cundiff, Wales, and received his musical education at Royal College of Music, London, and London Academy of Music. While at Royal College, he not only won a scholarship but made the highest grades in the history of the college.

He was first invited to appear in America by British orchestra leader Jack Hylton in a series of radio broadcasts for Standard Oil. An American citizen since 1940, he and his wife make their home in Greenwich, Conn.

COMMITTEES PLANNING NOW FOR VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE

At an organizing session in Mrs. Case's apartment, committeemen discuss with the dean of women plans for the vocational conference which will be held March 22nd through March 25th. Mrs. Case is wishing "good luck" to committeemen (seated left to right) Mary Becker, Ray Davis, Jan Campbell, Harry Stigall, Ronnie Smiley and Franklin Elliston.

Planning really takes time. If you don't believe it just ask anyone on the committees that have already been formed to organize the fourth biennial vocational conference which is to be held here March 22nd through the 25th.

The purpose of this conference is to inform students of opportunities, training, and qualifications necessary for any vocation from agriculture to television. The entire campus is co-operation in this effort in hopes that it will better prepare Eastern's students for their professions.

The general co-chairman for this meeting are Virginia Durbin and Harry Stigall. Secretaries are Laura Elizabeth Todd, Mary Becker, and Dean Rubarts.

Program committee are Dean Rubarts and Chester Baker. Other members are Carl Tomlin, Jim Burch, Diana Miller, and Lou Gulady.

Chairman of publicity is Edie Taylor. Members of this committee are Mary Elizabeth Johnson, Bert Bowling, and Mary Jo Campbell.

Colleen Wethington and Bob Zweigart are co-chairman of the committee directing hospitality. Karl Bays, Billie White, Hubert Ramey, Bob Snavelly, and Delores Samson are members.

In charge of contacting high school seniors are Ray Davis and Franklin Elliston, co-chairmen; Jean Walton, Orville Whitaker, Beverly Wilson, Dick Perry, and Nellie Whalen.

Plans for teas and dinners will be made by Denyse Campbell, Nancy Stone, co-chairmen; Ramona Fletcher, Jean Osborne, and Treva Butler.

Directing circulation of pamphlets and arranging exhibits will be Mary Becker, Ronald Smiley, co-chairmen; Jerry Wright, Mary Lake McElroy, Carol Lang, and Tom Schulte.

Faye Marcum and Charles Grigsby are co-chairmen in charge of interviews. Other members of this committee are Sue Appleton, Bill Huffman and Ruthie Pearson.

Information and registration will be taken care of through the committee of which Joan Arnsperger and Jim Allender are co-chairmen. Jo Elam, Doris Edwards and Joyce Blevins are also members of this committee.

Posters will be designed by Shelby Crowe, Pat Perkins, co-chairmen; Mary McMullen, Barbara White, and Bonnie Baldwin.

Janet Campbell and Vernon Bunday are co-chairmen in charge of finances. Freeda Waggoner and Janice Burton will also work with the finances.

The faculty adviser for the conference is Mrs. Emma Y. Case, dean of women.

Student Council . . .

An Evaluation

The end of a semester seems to be a time of taking stock of what we have learned and accomplished since September. So far, no evaluation has been made of one of the most important things on campus—Student Council. The Progress, as an instrument of public opinion, feels that some evaluation and analysis of the work of the council should be made public to the student body.

The editors have asked Ronald Coffman, president of the Student Council, to prepare a statement as to his opinion, as the leader of this group, of the Council's work. Peggy Kraus, a non-member of the organization, has been asked to give her views as to the work of the council. The editors feel that these two statements are representative of two distinct views on the council—the opinion of a member of the group who knows its work inside and out; and the opinion of a non-member, who sees the work which has been done from the view of an impartial student.

"To me the installation of Student Government has been one of the greatest advancements on Eastern's campus." This statement appeared in the "Open-Minded Column" of the Progress earlier this year. Does the association merit such an opinion today?

As an institution, a college is so constructed that there are areas of administration which are best governed by the trustees, faculty, and administrators. Just so, there are also areas that should be supervised by students. The students should have a voice in developing the policies in this student community which affect their lives and happiness while in college. This can best be accomplished through organized efforts of individuals to render their collective energies and resources for the achievement of major goals.

The solutions to all of Eastern's problems cannot be made overnight. It is more of a gradual process. This is especially true in an initial trial year such as this one is for Student Government. In looking over our scrapbook of ideas, however, there have been successful projects instituted—for example, participation in the homecoming activities; exploitation of the seldom-played chimes in the Student Union Building tower; the erection of an entrance sign on the college drive; music in the cafeteria; lower prices in the grill; new soft-drink machines; and an organized clean-up drive on campus—the first of its kind.

Though just an infant, and subject to "growing-pains," Student Government will be nourished and it will grow in strength until soon the organization will be highly respected. Every student's confidence and patience, encouragement and recommendations, are needed. Each student is urged to feel completely free to submit ideas to the Council for discussion.— Ronald Coffman

What has the Student Council accomplished so far in its trial year on Eastern's campus? How can the council improve? Does Eastern have need for an organization of this type?

I am a senior and as such what the student body decides to do about carrying on the Student Council will not affect me directly. Keeping this fact in mind I will attempt to look objectively at these very pertinent questions.

When we decided last spring to give a Student Association an opportunity to prove its worth to Eastern's campus there were many feelings on the subject. Contrary to the fears of the more conservative among us the council has not become a disciplinary group nor has it become a tool in the hands of the administration to force various issues on us. Instead it has endeavored to act intelligently on ideas that have been presented by students, working to carry out those ideas that seemed to benefit the entire Eastern family. We did not want a radical group that would try to change Eastern tradition overnight.

We have what we asked for—a group trying with very limited power to aid the students in voicing their opinion. Perhaps it would be a more effective organization were it given more authority, but this like all changes must come slowly with careful thought and a great deal of student and administration cooperation. The council has not done any spectacular work in the sense of attracting a great amount of attention. Instead it has occupied itself with small items that have certainly been needed on the campus for many years—things that have definitely added to life at Eastern.

It might be wise for the Council, if it is permitted by the students to carry on its work next year, to enlarge its program and spend time on a larger project. This can hardly be offered as a criticism of this year's group, how-

The Progress Salutes . . .

Dean Rubarts, the Progress Salute for this issue, is an attractive senior elementary education major from Dunsville, Kentucky. As the old saying goes, "Good things come in little packages," so is it true of Dean, for beauty, poise, personality, brains, common sense, and ambition are all combined in this little 5-3½, 109-pound girl. Dean has blue eyes, brown hair, and is twenty-two years old. She was Basketball Queen in 1954 and in the court of the Junior Prom. This fall she was the Homecoming Queen candidate from Collegiate Pentacle.

Dean's ability to accomplish her purpose has given her many opportunities to plan important and outstanding activities sponsored by the many clubs to which she belongs. She is Special Programs Chairman of the YWCA, social committee chairman of the senior class, and a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Collegiate Pentacle, Progress Staff, Milestone Staff, Usher Committee, Big Sisters Club, Future Teachers of America, and last year was vice-president of the Junior Class. Dean's efficiency is exemplified by her planning of the Junior Prom in 1954, the Sweetheart Dance for three years, Junior Class Banquet and Reception last year, the Milestone Banquet, the Hanging of the Greens and the Sunrise Service, and her work with the Vocational Conference. She is actually "the girl behind the scenes who makes things tick."

Dean attended Berea Foundation for her four years of high school. She said that she came to Eastern because "Madison County just grew on me." Dean has just completed her student teaching in the first grade at the training school with Mrs. Harold Jennings. She believes that she will really love teaching and hopes to be teaching in the first grade next year. Sometime in the future she wants to have her own nursery school.

Dean's likes range from football to oil wells. This covers quite a bit of territory, doesn't it, Dean? Her hobbies are reading, swimming, and hiking. Red is her favorite color, and steak is her favorite food.

During the summers Dean is kept very busy. She has worked at a girls' camp in Ephrussi, North Carolina, at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City as a receptionist, in an office in Cincinnati, and as a receptionist in a first aid station at the Atomic plant in Paducah. This past summer she attended summer school.

While working in New York, Dean became interested in plays, and that has remained with her. Her favorites were "Oklahoma," "Gramsey Ghost," "South Pacific," and "The Moon Is Blue."

A past such as this gives us a definite indication that graduation from college will not be the end of Dean's many outstanding accomplishments.

Student Teaching—The Experience Of A Lifetime—And How!

EDIE TAYLOR

Who are they—or rather, what are they?

Every semester there appears on campus a select minority group of—some sort of human beings. They aren't freshmen—you can tell that by the white shirts and the more or less conservative clothes, with just a dash of color, which they wear. They aren't sophomores—these beings have some form of dignity and composure about them. (That's at the beginning of the semester, though). Are they juniors? There's a slight possibility of this, for not long ago a junior girl had the honor of being admitted to their group.

Seniors? Well, yes and no. At the beginning of the semester they are seniors, but time for grades to be handed out, none of them are quite sure whether they are animal, vegetable, or mineral! These students are commonly known by the terminology of "student teachers." They experience a newer, richer, happier, and certainly different way of life not comparable to anything they have known in college before.

What's complex in such a simple process as standing in front of a class, you say. Just try it and see! This select group learns promptly that comfortable shoes are a "must" for student teachers. Another must is getting their students to participate in class, so the students will have the raw throats and not the practice-teacher.

Problems? Yes, student teachers will admit that there are a few. Problems arise which are so powerful and mighty that they shake Model High School to its foundations. They are discussed at the daily "gripe session" after school in the college grille. A little coffee and a few minutes of listening to someone else's problems goes a long way toward solving one's own.

You should hear some of the battle stories they can tell. One of these classics handed down to posterity is that of the elementary school boy who introduced his student teacher to his mother on visiting day with "Mother, this is the cat that I fight with every day."

This same senior was quizzed by another of her students as to what she was going to do "when she grew up."

Then you'll hear about the practice teacher who took his critic teacher's African violet home during the Christmas holidays so the flower wouldn't die. It died, naturally. The question was, how to tell the critic teacher about it. The problem was solved by a quick jaunt to the Richmond Greenhouse to purchase another violet. He was saved until, sometime in January, the critic teacher noticed a strange violet in her collection. The student teacher sheepishly told his story, with his knees knocking together in fright, and was extremely relieved when she laughed.

Does the practice teacher only have to teach? Heavens, no. Boards have to be washed, furniture polished, window sills dusted, plants watered—one critic teacher was forced to move her flowers to the library after a student teacher insisted on watering the flowers at least seven times a day—books kept in place, and a thousand and one other little chores have to be done every day. One of our more distinguished students on campus had the honor bestowed upon him of being called "the best duster a critic teacher ever had." We honestly believe these few words meant more to him than an OVC trophy would have at that moment.

Another student teacher lived up to the maxim that the teacher is always on the job by going to the rural training school every day during vacations to feed the goldfish, and, when one of them died over the Christmas holidays, he bought another one.

One well-known student—not known for his modesty, however—admitted frankly in the grille one afternoon that he never knew how nearly perfect he was until he took a student-teacher self-evaluation test. And he's improved by now.

Tears, anger, happiness, temper, patience, and the joy of knowing that a job has been well-done—these are a few of the emotions which are felt during a practice-teachers one-semester career. Sometimes the days are full of tears and heartbreaks, worry and work, and then come days packed full of fun and happiness.

Just as no girl can claim her college career to be well-rounded until she has experienced at least one "campus," neither can many graduates say that their college life is complete unless they have experienced the glorious, fascinating, frightening semester of practice teaching. It's an experience—and how!

FINNISH OFFICIAL TO VISIT EASTERN

"Finland's position between East and West" will be the topic to be presented at assembly hour, 10:00, Wednesday, February 23rd, by Max Jacobson, Press Chief of the Finnish Embassy.

This embassy official from abroad who is working in Washington D. C. now will speak on prominent questions in the news today and answer any questions which the audience might have toward the end of the hour.

A dinner will be held in honor of Mr. Jacobson at 5:30 in the Blue Room on the same evening when he will discuss other questions that may be asked. Films on Finland will be shown later in the Little Theater. These programs are sponsored by the International Relations Center on our campus.

MEN'S HONORARY ORGANIZED HERE

"This is not just another club, but it is an organization to help the campus," stated Glen Wilson of the English department in reference to the Junior-Senior Men's Honorary Society.

The first meeting of the Honorary was held Monday, February 14, to elect officers for the remaining year. An assembly program will be held Wednesday, March 2 and will be the official inauguration of the organization. Mr. W. L. Keene of the English department will be the speaker.

Mr. Victor Venetozzi and Mr. Wilson, both of the English department, are sponsors of the Society. Mrs. Emma Y. Case, dean of women, did most of the ground work for it.

The club has charter members who are elected by faculty vote. A "B" average is necessary for eligibility.

Students are chosen in accordance with this scholastic standing, leadership, and character.

What's Your Opinion?

By JANET HARKLEROD

Why did you decide to make Eastern the college of your choice?

Mary Elizabeth Stanley: freshman—I came to Eastern on the advice of my friends and because so many from my home were over here.

Gene Worthington: sophomore,—I came to Eastern on the advice of my high school commerce teacher.

Freda Robinson: freshman—Sometimes I wonder myself.

Betty Sue Stanifer: freshman—Don't know; do you?????

Eloise Morrow: freshman—I want to get my MRS. degree.

Jo Anne Braden: —Because of the size of the school; it is neither too large or too small.

Janet Newsome: sophomore—Because all my friends told me about the friendly atmosphere of Eastern.

Ralph Jones: freshman—Because Harry Tom Cooper influenced me to patronize this institute of higher education. (ha)

Billy Rucker: sophomore—I refuse to answer on the grounds that it might incriminate me.

Rudy Bicknell: senior—Because I had been following all of Eastern activities, and I became interested in Eastern as a result of these various activities, especially sports.

Don Thomas: sophomore—Because I heard about the big, quite, dorms and all the pretty girls.

Denzil Elliott: senior—Because of the location and I had been told it was a friendly campus.

Bob Zweigart: junior—The columns on Burnam's porch fascinated me!

Paula Payne: freshman—I wanted to attend a small, friendly college which I found Eastern to be on several visits to a friend here last year.

Marion Dick: freshman—That one I will never figure out!

Monday

By THOM McELFRESH

The passing sun banished the white clock tower and threw some rays through two small holes in the window blind to make him retreat under the blanket. The sun was willing to go away and did, but the alarm clock was less co-operative. Less co-operative even than the roommate who conjugated "Je suis, est, nous sommes..." not loudly enough to awaken, but loudly enough to annoy. After a moment he won the battle and awakened. Monday.

When he walked into the coffee shop, he felt more awake than before. The place was nearly deserted. Everyone at first hour classes or still asleep. He bought the coffee—one black, one heavy on sugar, light on cream. And waited. At quarter 'til nine he put a nickel in the juke box. And there she was. She never failed to make her music cue.

A dozen times he had seen her miss cues for stage entrances, but never had she missed this one—entering just as the second chorus began.

Only after she had tasted the coffee and found it too sweet did she speak. "Sleep well?"

"Yeah."

"You have a busy day today?" They were making talk. Last night had been the worst one. Really the worst. He hadn't kissed her good night. The fight had been about not going to the Valentine Dance.

"I wasn't sure you'd come this morning," he said.

"I wasn't sure I was going to," she said.

The record ended. He started to play it again as he always did, but she stopped him. She didn't want to hear it again.

A class was out early and several people came in just then. The quiet was broken by the small clatter of voices. All around them.

He started to take her hand in his, but didn't.

They sat there staring at their coffee but not drinking. The noise grew in intensity all the time. He thought of several things he wanted to tell her—not important things, just things she would like to know. Things that weren't even connected to them—the little stories that passed from hand to hand on the campus. The ends of rumors. The beginnings of others.

"Good morning people." That was Jan, bright and cheerful as always. By noon she would be dragging, but she always felt good in the morning. "Who invented Mondays?" Now she tried to match their mood. Not knowing, she tried. That was Jan.

When she acknowledged defeat and walked away, he looked across the table at the girl again. She was staring at her coffee. Staring at the table. He lit two cigarettes and handed one to her. She took it without nodding or speaking.

Another burst of people from classes. The crowd was edging next to them on all sides. The noise ricocheted across the room and stopped in their ears. Around their table was a little circle of silence. They sat alone within it, within the heat, within the noise and laughter—pleasant laughter.

Then she carefully put on her gloves. The still air outside was freezing. She buttoned her coat slowly without looking at him. And as she flung the end of her stole—red plaid—around her shoulders she moved away through the crowd.

She had only tasted the coffee.

The Ghost Writer

Hey, gang! Did you see the game with U. of L.? Wasn't that the greatest? I saw Phyllis Counts and Chester Raker together there—wonder what happened to June McKinney?

Say, what's happened to Jerry Boyd and Janet Hibbard? Have you decided to play the field, Jerry?

You just can't depend on these couples here at Eastern. For instance, I thought Jim Mitchell and Barbara Hoffman were doing fine, but it seems that Barbara has just "up and eloped"! I know another dark-eyed girl who would love to take her place, Mitch. Just buzz room 13, Burnam Hall.

Joyce Cornelius, I want to know what has happened to your own little "Cleo"?

I was under the impression that Don Boyer had a steady at home, namely "Suzy". How about this, you two?

Meet The Faculty . . .

By JANE PEYTON

"To paraphrase William L. Phelps, 'I do not know that I could make entirely clear to an outsider the pleasure that I derive from teaching. I had rather earn my living by teaching than in any other way!'" This was the statement given by Dr. William Hopp, assistant professor of Biology, when asked about his work.

Dr. Hopp is a native of Terre Haute, Indiana. He received his B. S. degree from Indiana State College, and his M. S. and Ph. D. degrees from Purdue University.

At Eastern Since 1947. He held a fellowship in his first year of graduate school. He was a teaching assistant at Purdue for one year. The years 1943 through 1945 were spent teaching at Indiana State. In 1947, he came to Eastern and has been here since then. While at Eastern, he received his Ph. D. degree in 1953 from Purdue.

Dr. Hopp's hobbies are practically anything pertaining to the field of biology. His most fascinating spare-time occupation is herpetology—reptile collecting!

His leisure hours, he says, are spent in reading and in nature study.

Met Wife Over Dead Cat

Mrs. Hopp is an Eastern graduate, and Dr. Hopp was her biology teacher. Incidentally, he says, they met over a dead cat. (There must be a story here!)

Today education seems to be at a crossroads and there must be an answer as to where it is going, Dr. Hopp thinks. He believes that the answer to this problem lies in instituting an increasing number of fields of knowledge in higher education.

Regrets H-Bomb Invention

Dr. Hopp, with a Republican background, has no firm party convictions. He is definitely in favor of the United Nations and says that he regrets deeply the invention of the H-Bomb.

His future plans are to continue teaching and perhaps to do some research work.

Asked about his interest in biology, he replied, "I always have felt a fascination in animals." In observing Dr. Hopp dissect a cat, for example, one can clearly understand that this interest is indeed intense.

Dr. Hopp, naturalist and independent, gives inspiration to his students with his love of study and teaching, for he himself is an earnest student and an active professional worker in the field of biology.

pened to Charlie? Looks as if someone new has taken over!

Here are some new couples for your approval: George Griffith and Sydne Brown, Greenie Kincaid and Barbara Relford, Tom Mergrove and Marlene Tracy, Bob Zweigart and Betty Bosshammer, Bobby Thompson and Janet Harkleroad. Keep up the good work, you guys and girls!

Looks like the biggest joke of the month seems to be on Horace Harper. Come on, you guys, do you have to keep it a secret?

Jimmy Franklin is being madly pursued by a dark-haired beauty from Ravenscroft. Why not give her a break, Jim?

Ronnie White, why don't you come out from under that cap and at least give the girls a fightin' chance?

Looks like Bradford's acting up again. What's that matter, Lois, can't you calm him down?

I hear that Julian and Bobby are going to make it a June wedding. Congratulations, you two!

Mary McMullan is—all smiles lately. Could it be because C. L. is back, honey?

I heard via WEKY that somebody has "their eyes on you," Bob K!

Well, I guess before I end this issue!

HOME SEASON CLOSES; MURRAY CLASH TOMORROW

BY WALLY SULLIVAN

STUDENT BODY MAKES PLANS FOR OVC

Once again, that time is here—time when students begin making hotel reservations, packing their toothbrushes and belongings, and getting all set to travel 105 miles northwest on U. S. Highway 60, and park their vehicles in front, or near, the Seelbach Hotel, or what have you, in Louisville, home of the OVC cage tourney.

If this year follows the usual trend, over half the student body will show up in Louisville to root the Maroons on to victory in Kentucky's most colorful college basketball tournament, which will get underway on Thursday night, February 24th at the Armory. We think Coach Paul McBrayer's Maroons have more than a good chance of winning the meet this year, and if they should happen to experience two good halves, they should have very little trouble with anyone they should happen to meet. On several occasions throughout the 54-55 campaign, the local cagers have played to near perfection in one half, but never have they played their best brand for the entire contest. Now, we aren't saying that the boys haven't put out all they had for an entire game, but they have not done their best for a complete game. Well, we are certainly hoping that the Maroons walk away with the tourney, and we're wishing them the very best of luck.

OVC DEFINED

Last winter, about the time that the OVC was getting underway, we got hold of a good definition of the OVC. (You all know what it really means—don't you?) Someone told us that Dean Moore defined the OVC as — now, get this—"Our vacant campus." Well, I don't think any hard feelings resulted from the teachers for any of us who attended the tourney last year, so let's make our campus even more vacant this year. If that did not sound just right, please forgive us, Dr. Moore.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO SPORTSMANSHIP

Only a few weeks ago, this corner passed along to you Coach McBrayer's appreciation to the student body for their fine support and loyalty. Also, we joined in with the "Big Irishman" in asking that sportsmanship be demonstrated in every game. Well, the home season will be over by the time you read this (if anyone does), but we can still ask for your support in showing the best brand of sportsmanship at Louisville next week. The support at the U. of L. game last week was really wonderful, but the sportsmanship was as bad as we've seen lately. Of course, the officiating was poor—even the officials admitted that—but your booing them does not help matters any. This does not make a very good impression on the out-of-town guests who visit our campus, and certainly Coach McBrayer does not appreciate it. A large part of the poor sportsmanship should be rightfully blamed on the town folks, but the school gets all the blame. Let's support the Maroons in the tournament next week, but again, let us say, "Do it in a sportsmanship manner."

ADAMS AN ALL-AMERICAN

"Jack Adams is fast becoming one of the top players in the country," commented Coach McBrayer. Adams, the 6'4" junior who is leading the Maroons in every department, continues to spark the Maroon and white clad warriors as they close out their 1955 regular season. Jack is averaging 23.7 points per game and 14 rebounds. The cat-like Adams has ripped the nets at a torrid 45.2 percentage. Many sportswriters are beginning to take notice of Mr. Adams and we wouldn't be surprised if Jack isn't mentioned on several All-American teams this year, and many more in '56.

MAGNIFICENT FRESHMAN

Clayton Stivers, the 6'5" freshman from Manchester, is the boy to watch in the future. Starting the season on the freshman team, Stivers was moved up to the varsity after a few weeks and has seen action in 9 games this season, starting the last three. He saw only brief action in five of the nine games but in all, the big boy has tossed in 47 points and garnered in 50 rebounds. Against Louisville, in his starting debut, Clayton garnered in an even dozen rebounds and saved the ball on numerous occasions. Stivers tallied 16 points and got 15 rebounds for a great night's work against Loyola. Eastern's opponents in the future will certainly watch Clayton Stivers, for the big country boy with springs in his legs will beat you.

MAROONS MEET OMAHA NEXT FALL

Among the Maroon's 1955 grid opponents will be the University of Omaha, Eastern's Tangerine

Bowl conquerors this past January 1st. The arrangements were worked out just two weeks ago as a one year relationship was established between the two schools. Other newcomers on the Maroons' schedule include Morris Harvey College of Charleston, West Va., 1951 Tangerine Bowl champs, and possibly Wofford College of Spartansburg, S. C. Dropped from Eastern's '54 card were John Carroll and Youngstown. Louisville will return to Richmond again next fall as an agreement was reached between Eastern and U. of L. for the Cards to play in Richmond for the second straight year as Louisville had too many home games and Eastern needed one. The complete schedule is as follows:

Sept. 17	Toledo	Toledo, Ohio
Sept. 24	Middle Tenn.	Richmond
Oct. 1	Murray	Murray, Ky.
Oct. 8	Tenn. Tech	Cookeville, Tenn.
Oct. 15	Omaha	Omaha, Neb.
Oct. 22	Morehead	Richmond
Oct. 29	Morris Harvey	Richmond
Nov. 5	Western	Richmond
Nov. 12	Louisville	Richmond
Nov. 19	Wofford (tentative)	Spartansburg, S. C.

Glenn Presnell, popular grid coach, who guided the Maroons to their greatest season in '54, his first year as head man, will be making his coaching debut this spring when the genial coach takes on the coaching duties of the track squad. Fred Darling, who has coached the cindermen to three straight undefeated seasons (undefeated in season play) has a leave of absence from the college as he is working on his Doctor's degree at the University of Kentucky. Presnell was a star sprinter and shot putter in his high school days in Nebraska, holding the state mark for the shot putt. He participated on the freshman track squad at the University of Nebraska, but did not take part in the varsity events, as Nebraska had at that time, the number one track team in the country, and had some of the greatest competitors in the world. "Press" really has his work cut out for him, but the likable mentor seems to think that the '55 version of the cindermen will have another good season. We are sure that the boys will put out for Coach Presnell and he'll have a very representative team.

WHA' HOPPEN TO SWIM TEAM?

For those of you who are wondering what has happened to the swim team, we will offer the following explanation. Due to some work that is being done on the pool in the Heath Building, the Eastern mermen have had no place to practice—unless they were brave enough to break the ice on the Kentucky River at Boonesborough to practice. Last week, a trip to Tennessee Tech and Vanderbilt was postponed because of this fact. The trip has been reset for February 28th. The next home meet will be with DePauw University on March 5th at 2 p. m. Let's try to be there to support the boys, for they put in hard hours of practice to gain recognition for our school, and, for those who do not know, swimming is a varsity sport, as well as basketball, football, and baseball.

BASEBALLERS MAY TAKE SOUTHERN SWING

Eastern's reigning OVC baseball champions, who enjoyed their most successful season last spring, have a possibility of making a southern swing this spring when the pea-ball season opens. If certain financial matters are worked out, then the planning of a schedule will begin. Should the Maroons go South, they'll probably face Vanderbilt, Georgia, or Georgia Tech, Georgia State, Stetson, and possibly Rollins, last year's national collegiate runners-up. Now those are only probable teams that may be included on the road schedule. By the way, who knows where the new baseball field will be located? Well, all we know is that the present plans are for the field to be located on Stateland farm somewhere. But, as to how much work has been done on it, your guess is as good as mine. Let's have some action, gang!

GYM TO BE OPEN SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AFTERNOONS

For those of you who have wanted to use the gym on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, but found the doors all locked up, "Turkey" Hughes announces that it will be open from one to five on those two afternoons. Better have your ID cards with you, though, as each boy will be checked for one.

ATTENTION P. E. MAJORS

Mr. Hughes also asked us to announce that Harold Bedenbaugh, executive of the Blue Grass Council of the Boy Scouts of America, will interview all persons interested in entering the Scouting work professionally. This interview should be especially helpful to persons who have taken P. E. 250 (Scouting & Clubcraft). All interested persons are asked to meet in Health 201 on Friday, March 25th, at 3 p. m.

The basketball fortunes of the Eastern Maroons, though somewhat dim as far as the regular season championship of the O. V. C. goes, look very bright for the forth-coming OVC Tournament. After the tremendous pace the Maroons have set in their last three outings, many followers agree that the McBrayermen are hitting that all important peak, and if this is true, some of our dear friends around the Louisville region will see the Maroons walk away with the championship, instead of the all-powerful Western Hill-toppers.

Coach McBrayer's high flying Maroons will close out the regular season tomorrow night when they travel to that unmentionable part of the state to play the Murray Thoroughbreds.

If you remember, the Maroons ran off and left the Thoroughbreds at the post January 29, when they raced here on the home court 104-63. In that game, Coach McBrayer played ten men, and each one contributed at least 2 points to the score. Bill Baxter led the way with 22 points followed by Adams with 20. However, Murray's great guard Howie Crittenden did not see action that night, and he will be on hand tomorrow night. To many there was doubt that the Thoroughbreds would have been able to cope with the Maroons that night, even with Howie in top form.

The only game the Maroons have lost since the last issue of the Progress was to Western February 5th, at Bowling Green, when the Maroons fell 98-76. Again it was the work of Lynn Cole, who sparked the Hilltoppers, that made the difference.

It was the case of a hot Western who seems to have a tendency to be hot on its home court, as they hit for 48.6 percent of their shots.

Just two night's later, the Maroons set their record high for the number of points scored against one team as they blasted Middle Tennessee 109-69 at Murfreesboro. This brought the total points scored by the Maroons against the Raiders to 217 this year.

This tremendous fluttering of the nets was led by Dick Culbertson who dumped in 33 points on 14 field goals and five free throws.

Middle Tennessee fought to make a game of it in the early part of the contest, as the Maroons led by only 45-37 at half-time, but then Eastern found the range in the second half and completely routed the Raiders.

Last week, the Maroons played one of the best games of the current season as they tipped the hitherto-untouchable Louisville Cardinals 79-77 in an overtime. This was a great upset to some, but seems very reasonable in view of the fact that even though Louisville had beaten the Maroons twice this year, both games were played on the U. of L. court, and a team is usually 10 points better on its home court.

It was a very exciting game, as most of you know. This was really a team victory in the true sense of the word. Everyone played wonderful ball, and any way you look at it that big red Cardinal has just a little more trouble flying around without the aid of one big tail feather, which only adds to the luster of the Maroons of Eastern.

Last Saturday night, the Maroons took over undisputed second place in the O. V. C. standing when they downed Morehead 81-73.

Eastern led all the way in this one, as Morehead was only able to tie the score three times, 53-53, 55-55 and 63-63 before the Maroons jumped out in front to stay 66-63 on a free throw by Jack Adams and two by Jimmy Mitchell.

Coach McBrayer again displayed one of the reasons which has won the respect of coaches all over the country, as he used a possession type of offense the second half in order to combat the terrific number of personal fouls piled up the first half. There were 53 personal fouls called in the game, 29 against the Maroons, and 23 against Morehead. Both teams hit an unusual percentage from the floor; Eastern hitting 23 of 47 for 48.9 per cent, and Morehead connecting on 21 of 47 for 44 percent.

Adams led Eastern's scorers with 23 points while Dan Swartz, the states leading scorer, led with 31.

Eastern fans were greatly relieved by the speedy recovery of Jim Mitchell, who suffered a possible concussion during a scramble 50 seconds before the end of the battle.

Last Tuesday night, the Maroons hit their highest total of the season, as they walloped the dangerous Loyola of New Orleans Wolfpack 120-91. This was by far the most impressive showing made by the Maroons as they downed a team that has beaten such teams as Illinois, George Washington, and Xavier, and lost to strong Marquette in a double overtime.

Reliable Jack Adams set two new records as he gathered 40 points to pace coach McBrayer's cagers. Adam's 40 points tumbled the old individual record of 37 held by Jim Baechtold and Elmer Tolson, and Adams also set a new high for the number of points in one season, as his 40 Tuesday night brought his total for the season to 474. The old record was 442, held by Jim Baechtold. Eastern came within one point of tying the single game scoring record as the record stands at 121 set in 1952 against Tampa, Fla.

The game was pretty close the first half, as Eastern led by only 51-46 at the intermission, but there was little doubt as to the outcome after that. Altogether, 10 Maroons saw action, and all of them figured in this scoring parade.

This was the last home game of the current season for the Maroons, and the last time that seniors Bill Baxter, Guy Strong, and Jim Floyd will be seen in action on the home court. These three boys have been very influential this season in helping the Maroons to compile a good regular season record of 13 wins and seven losses.

Don't be surprised if the Maroons play their best ball of the season in the O. V. C. and walk off with the championship!

Either way it goes, and even though we disagree with some of the things that take place on the court, let's try to refrain from booing the officials so much and also our own team, just because they are trying to keep the score down and therefore keep from humiliating the opposing team. Let's also remember our own players are just as human as we are, and they can have "off" nights as well as we can be off just a little. So let's just remember they are giving the best they have, and that they are trying just as hard on the court as we do every day in the things we do. In other words, even if we do get kicked a little let's not squeal quite so loud.

MAROONS EYE OVC TOURNAMENT

Cagers Seek Second Championship; Opponents To Be Drawn On Sunday

By DON FELTNER

Eastern's hot and cold Maroons will go into the seventh annual Ohio Valley Conference tourney next week (Feb. 24th is the opening date), seeking their second tournament championship since the loop was organized back in 1948.

Both the Maroons and the Western Hilltoppers have a single game remaining—both to be played tomorrow night. The Maroons' chances of tying Western for the conference season championship hinge on the Eastern victory over Murray at Murray and a 'Topper loss to Morehead at Bowling Green. And both Murray and Western are mighty tough at home.

Eastern vs. Western Possible In Final

Should the Maroons finish in second position in the conference, they will be seeded in a different bracket than Western and the chances are that the games will follow the usual trend since the tourney began: that is, Eastern vs. Western in the finals. Of the six tourneys, Western has taken four, Eastern, one, and Murray, one. In 1949, the conference's first year, Western defeated Eastern by 70-54, and in 1950, the Maroons of Paul McBrayer licked the Hilltoppers 62-50, to win their lone championship. Murray took the measure of the Maroons in '51 in the finals by 92-83, and in 1952, the Maroons were defeated by Murray again, only this time in the opening round. Western dealt the Maroons losses again in the finals in '53 and '54 by scores of 70-60 and 85-69, respectively. So, of the six meets, four of them have seen Eastern and Western battling it out in the finals.

The tourney drawings are set to be held Sunday, the 21st, at the Armory in Louisville.

Coach McBrayer, whose Maroons have a season slate of 13 wins and 7 losses (not including the Murray game in over-all season play, and a conference record of 6 victories against 3 losses, is fairly optimistic of the chances of his ball club in taking the crown this year. Coach McBrayer, although realizing that the conference is the most evenly balanced since its origin, agrees that his cagers have an excellent chance of taking the winners' trophy this year. Of course, one must remember the Maroons' upset at the hands of little Tennessee Tech and the Hilltoppers' loss at Middle Tennessee, the two weakest members of the conference. Upsets such as these are common occurrences in the OVC. Last year, Middle Tennessee sprang an upset at the expense of Murray, which defeated the Maroons twice and then Morehead came too close to the mighty Hilltoppers for comfort only before the Diddlemen were able to pull away in the closing minutes.

Same Starting Line-up

"The Big Irishman" will probably go along with the same starting lineup, with a possible change in one of the guard positions. All-American candidate, Jack Adams, a 6'4" junior from London, will open at one of the forward posts while his running mate will be Clayton Stivers, 6'5" freshman from Manchester. At center will be big Bill "Spider" Baxter, a 6'6" senior from Glasgow, while the probable starting guards will be senior Guy Strong, 6'2" from Irvine, and junior Dick Culbertson, 6'2" from Columbus, Ohio. Ronnie Pellegrinon, 5'11" Portsmouth, Ohio, junior may gain a starting berth, replacing either Strong or Culbertson while 6'8" senior Jim Floyd may open at center for the Maroons.

O. V. C. CAGE TOURNEY BEGINS NEXT WEEK

The seventh annual Ohio Valley Conference basketball tournament is slated to begin next Thursday, February 24th at the Jefferson County Armory in Louisville. The meet will last through Saturday night, the

The Maroons will be seeking to capture their second championship in the tourney's six year history. Four times the local warriors have settled for the runner-up trophy.

Books of tickets for the entire meet may be purchased at the athletic department and are priced at $7.50. Students who desire individual session ducats may obtain them by sending a money order and a self-addressed envelope to the Jefferson County Armory in Louisville. Individual session ducats are priced at $2.50, $2.00 and $1.50.

Lions, Cards Draft Gridders

Bob Muller, Don Daly, and Karl Bays, three of Eastern's brightest stars on its championship '54 grid team, were drafted by the Detroit Lions and Chicago Cardinals, both of the National Football League, to continue their football abilities on the pro gridiron.

Muller, a 5'11", 205 lb. Amityville, New Yorker, and Don Daly, 5'10", 190 lb. athlete from Covington, Ky., were drafted by the Detroit Lions, 1953 World Champions while Bays, 6'3", 220 lb. Corbin native, was called up by the Chicago Cardinals.

All three boys were stalwarts on the Maroons' grid teams during their collegiate careers. Daly was named captain of the 1954 All-Conference team and was named honorable mention on the AP Little All-America team. Don led the Maroons in rushing throughout the '54 campaign as the hard-running halfback gained 767 yards on 121 carries for a handsome 6.34 average. Muller, also all-conference, although laid out for three games due to a dislocated ankle, was the third leading rusher with an average of 4.87 yards per tote. Bays was one of the most dreaded tackles in the conference and enjoyed a great season.

Muller will report for training camp sometime in July, while Daly and Bays will wait until they serve their hitch in the Marine Corps before actually reporting to their respective clubs.

UP AND IN!—Ronnie Pellegrinon, Maroon sparkplug, lifts up a crisp shot as Jim Mitchell (No. 50) awaits a possible rebound.

13 Teams Tied In Intramural

The local intramural basketball league, which is composed of a record 28 teams, finds a total of 13 teams tied for first place, according to Jerry Johns and Ed Miracle, directors of the "Play-for-recreation only" league. The standings do not include this

No individual records were available at press-time, but it is reported that this year's intramural program is the most active since its origin. Very few runaway games have resulted and most of the teams have shown a great

WHAT'S THIS?
For solution see paragraph below.

OBVIOUSLY, THE TITLE of the above Doodle is: 47 insectology students enjoying better-tasting Luckies while studying 3 fireflies. All kinds of students are bugs about Luckies. Matter of fact, college smokers prefer Luckies to all other brands—and by a wide margin—according to the latest and greatest of all college surveys. Once again, the No. 1 reason: Luckies taste better. They taste better, first of all, because Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better . . . cleaner, fresher, smoother. So, enjoy the better-tasting cigarette . . . Lucky Strike.

6 RESOLUTIONS PASS COUNCIL

Six resolutions were passed by the Student Council Monday evening, February 7, for action within the month. They were presented by Betty Pack, Roger Stephens, and George Wofford as they received them from students.

These resolutions are:

1. Resolved that phones be put on all floors of Burnam for the convenience of the girls so they will not have to dress before coming down to answer lobby phones.
2. Resolved that pictures be placed in the Recreation room of the Student Union Building to show that this is Eastern and also to give some atmosphere to the blank walls.
3. Resolved that boys or friends on dates or visits not be compelled to leave the lobby of Burnam at 7:30 p. m. since closing time is extended until 9 or 10 depending on classification of female students.
4. Resolved that the hours to get linen in Sullivan Hall be changed to fit the needs of the residents there.
5. Resolved that order of registration be reversed so that seniors will register first and freshmen last because many upper classmen have to go to school an extra semester in order to graduate.
6. Resolved that a stamp machine be set up in the Grill for the convenience of the students and Mrs. Arnold, post mistress.

ENROLLMENT REACHES 1,787

The enrollment of Eastern Kentucky State College for the spring semester of the 1954-1955 school year has reached 1787 students according to Dr. W. F. O'Donnell.

The first semester of this year there were 1690 students as compared with 1404 the second semester last year. This increase in enrollment has necessitated the addition of three members to the faculty.

An additional 150 students are expected to enroll for the spring term which begins March 28. This term is designed primarily for teachers who wish to work on their degree but are teaching until this date.

ever, because we indicated in last year's election by not giving it a unanimous vote of confidence that we wanted it to proceed slowly. Picture if you can a Student Association acting as a coordinator between the many organizations on campus. On many campuses a point system of club membership is used to discourage any one person from assuming too many responsibilities in a number of groups and to scatter the honor of club officership among more persons. Couldn't Eastern use a system of this sort? There are uncountable ideas that could be offered as suggestions for Council action, if we are interested enough to give the problem some thought.

In answer to the last question, Does Eastern need an organization of this nature? —how can anyone conscientiously deny that? During my four years on campus students have invariably objected to having no voice in what is done. It is impossible for each student to be given an individual chance to take part in important decisions. A Student Council with authority would be the ideal way for student opinion to be expressed. We must be careful to choose competent, capable leaders but certainly college students should be able to accomplish that. It is done on university campuses ten times the size of Eastern.

The Student Council has worked to help us this year. It can be improved, and that is up to the students. Eastern has desperate need for such an organization. Let's make our wishes known in an organized body by establishing the Student Council as a permanent group. —Peggy Kraus

February 20th, and on February 24th Fellowship Hall, a portion of the new annex to the First Christian Church in Lexington was opened to the D. S. F. for the first time at their meeting on Sunday, February 6th.
