Effective date of suspended programs for currently enrolled students: (if applicable)
B. The justification for this action: Because we have dropped various courses and added new ones, we must also shift some courses around in the curriculum. The currently proposed curriculum represents a major clean-up effort that does many things: all courses in the curriculum will be taught by anthropologists, some courses that have not been taught for many years have been dropped, some courses have been re-envisioned with some catalog description changes, some courses have been shifted in the curriculum as entire categories have been dropped (cultural area and linguistics have been dropped, because they were no longer viable or were otherwise not adequately meeting the needs of the program). Finally, the new curriculum is more straightforward for students to understand, and more accurately reflects our program.
C. The projected cost (or savings) of this proposal is as follows: Personnel Impact: none Operating Expenses Impact: none Equipment/Physical Facility Needs: none Library Resources: none

Academic Honesty

The University faculty has the right to expect students to adhere to the principles of academic honesty. These principles require students to present as theirs only academic work that they are actually responsible for. Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Depending upon the seriousness of the infraction, students found guilty of plagiarizing or cheating will be sanctioned in any of several ways. These range from receiving a failing grade on the assignment to being assigned a failing grade in the course. In addition, if the case is assigned to the Student Disciplinary Council, severer sanctions are possible. For a full description of what is considered plagiarizing and cheating, refer to the section entitled Academic Honesty Policy in the University Handbook for Students.

Please Note: If you are registered with the Office of Services for Individuals with Disabilities, please make an appointment with the course instructor to discuss any academic accommodations you need. COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING:

A. Class Participation: (20 points). This includes participation in each class session. There will be special emphasis on the in-class presentations you are required to make and your participation in all brainstorming sessions.

You will be evaluated on how prepared you are on your topic, how you deliver your topic, and your analytical ability to assess the appropriate direction of your case.

B. Written Documentation: (30 points). This includes documents you are responsible for drafting and preparing. This includes, but is not limited to case memorandums, case status reports, time logs, telephone logs, releases, affidavits, letters, requests for information, etc. This also includes managing all other materials you receive in your case. At the conclusion of each semester, the student must also write a global summary of their work. A copy of every important document you write or receive must be sent to Gordon Rahn for the master file. This is extremely important since the master file is a legal document which actually belongs to the client.

C. Time Management: (10 points). Throughout the course, you will be asked to complete various assignments which may involve managing time, scheduling appointments, consultations with experts, KIP staff, collection of documents, meetings, correspondence, etc. Your initiative, diligence, and ability to successfully complete these tasks will be measured and evaluated.

D. Field Assignments: (40 points). Field assignments are considered all tasks outlined in each class session expressed in the curriculum. This also includes any verbal instruction or assignment given to you. The ability to follow instructions, complete assignments on a timely basis, and to acquire necessary components within appropriate boundaries will be evaluated. Students who are chronically late with assignments and lack progress in their case work will not receive an acceptable score in this area. Client contact will also be evaluated as to completeness. Each student is expected to keep the client informed as to the progress of the case on a regular basis.

Grades will be determined by a percentage of the points earned each semester. 100-90= A, etc.

Additional Requirements: You must make a commitment of two semesters to earn credit for the Externship. Students will only be awarded credit for partial completion in extraordinary circumstances such as illness, withdrawal from the University, etc. You are also to maintain appropriate confidentiality of all client materials and sign an agreement. All client materials remain the property of the client and/or the Innocence Project and must be returned by the student at the conclusion of their participation. No grade will be given without the return of materials. Students who do not maintain standards of confidentiality or ethical duty to the client may be asked to withdraw from the program.

Attendance Policy: Students are expected to attend all regular class lectures and meetings.

Academic Honesty

The University faculty has the right to expect students to adhere to the principles of academic honesty. These principles require students to present as theirs only academic work that they are actually responsible for. Academic dishonesty will not be tolerated. Depending upon the seriousness of the infraction, students found guilty of plagiarizing or cheating will be sanctioned in any of several ways. These range from receiving a failing grade on the assignment to being assigned a failing grade in the course. In addition, if the case is assigned to the Student Disciplinary Council, severer sanctions are possible. For a full description of what is considered plagiarizing and cheating, refer to the section entitled Academic Honesty Policy in the University Handbook for Students.
