THE EASTERN PROGRESS

Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College

RICHMOND, KENTUCKY, FRIDAY, FEB. 19, 1932

NO. 9

EASTERN HAS 1725 STUDENTS FOR NEW TERM

Enrollment Shows 132 Increase Over Last Year's Second Semester Attendance; From 87 Counties

NO EXTRA TEACHERS

With new students arriving daily at the Eastern State Teachers College since the opening of the second semester, February 1, the enrollment today reached 1,725 college students, representing 87 Kentucky counties and exceeding last year's second term record by 132. Registration will continue until February 23.

The report, issued from the office of Registrar M. E. Mattox, also showed 420 additional students in attendance in the training school maintained by the college, bringing the total of resident students up to 1,725.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern, announced today that the college teaching staff of fifty-five instructors had not been enlarged on account of the increased enrollment, but that the daily teaching schedules of all members of the faculty have been extended, and the number of students assigned to many classes increased above normal to provide for the enlarged attendance. From 350 to 400 additional students are expected when the spring term opens, April 4.

Counties represented by the present student body at Eastern are: Adair, Anderson, Ballard, Bath, Bell, Boone, Bourbon, Boyd, Boyle, Bracken, Breathitt, Butler, Casey, Clark, Caldwell, Carlisle, Campbell, Carroll, Carter, Clay, Clinton, Cumberland, Davess, Elliott, Estill, Fayette, Fleming, Floyd, Franklin, Gallatin, Garrard, Grant, Grayson, Green, Greenup, Harlan, Harrison, Henry, Hopkins, Jackson, Jefferson, Jessamine, Johnson, Kenton, Knott, Knox, Letcher, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Lewis, Lincoln, Madison, Magoffin, Marion, Martin, Mason, McCracken, McCreary, Mead, Mercer, Montgomery, Morgan, Nelson, Nicholas, Oldham, Owen, Owsley, Pendleton, Perry, Pike, Powell, Pulaski, Robertson, Rockcastle, Russell, Scott, Shelby, Spencer, Trimble, Washington, Wayne, Whitley, Wolfe and Woodford.

There are only two students who gave out of the state addresses when they registered. Their parents live in Kentucky and they are themselves natives of the state.

MILESTONE CONTEST ON

Class Making Best Showing to be Guest at Theatre Party

According to the report announced by Gayle Starnes, editor, on behalf of the Milestone staff, an inter-class contest extending over two weeks, beginning February 15 and closing Saturday at midnight, February 27, will culminate with the awarding of a half-holiday to the winning group who shall be the guests of the annual publication at the Madison Theater.

This contest, which is part of the program to make the 1932 Milestone the best in the twenty-five years of Eastern's history, is open to members of the Junior, Sophomore, and Freshman classes. All students of those classes who have their pictures made for the Milestone before the closing date of the contest will be counted. The class having the largest percentage of its enrollment to furnish their photographs to the Milestone within the period designated will be declared the winner. Only members of the winning class in the annual will receive the half-holiday and the subsequent theater trip. The date of the holiday will be selected by the Milestone staff and the president of the successful class.

The appointed solicitors which should be seen by all loyal students are as follows:

Freshman Class—James Isaacs, Vivian Buckhorn, Lloyd Dykes, Ed Hill, Jeanette Hunter, Dorothy Tyng, Minor Clarke, Clay Ritchie, Betty Shelton.

Sophomore Class—Vaughn Berthoff, Theodore Keith, Chas. Flannery, Newton Oakes, Frank Ueltsch.

The local McGaughey studio is the official photographer for the annual. As this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Eastern, the staff has chosen a fitting silver theme to commemorate that event. In keeping with the custom of the past years, the Milestone will be dedicated to a local person chosen by the senior class. The annual of 1932 will be dedicated to Mrs. Donovan, wife of Eastern's president.

According to all reports from the business and editorial divisions of the Milestone the students will this year receive marked reductions in prices and also a corresponding increase in the quality of the production.

Dr. Schneib Goes to Lexington Meet

Dr. Anna E. Schneib, instructor in education at Eastern and president of the Kentucky Academy of Science, was called to Lexington yesterday afternoon to attend a meeting of the academy prior to the meeting of the National Education Association in Washington next week.

Dr. Schneib will leave sometime during the middle of the week for Washington, where she will attend the meeting of the N. E. A.

THEATRE CLUB SESSION HELD

Eight New Members Admitted Into Dramatic Organization; Plan Tryouts

GIVE ONE ACT PLAYS

The Little Theatre Club held its bi-monthly meeting last Tuesday evening in the clubroom where several important matters were dealt with.

The first of these items of business was the admission of eight new members who had been on probation since the try-outs last semester. Those persons passed upon were Mayme Howerton, Lorraine Chinn, Lillian Cox, Annie Laurie Forsythe, Betty Stewart, Horald Mullins, Richard Van Hoose, and Odell Campbell.

After a short discussion it was decided that, as usual, the Little Theatre Club would use two pages in the school annual, The Milestone.

A short discussion was heard as to whether or not the organization would sponsor a dance during this semester. It was not fully decided, but in all probability such an occasion will take better form in the near future for a dance to be held sometime in May.

The semi-annual try-outs for admission to the Little Theatre Club are to be held at the regular meeting of the club Tuesday night, February 23.

At this time those persons desiring admission to the club will present fifteen minute, one-act plays. There may be as many or as few persons in these short productions as are desired by those persons taking part. The members of the L. T. C. will express their opinions of the acting ability of those persons according to their relative achievements in the art of play-acting.

All persons interested in this type of work or desiring to become members of the Little Theatre Club should begin practicing on their skits right away, and for any further details should see one of the members.

LINCOLN IS PAID HONOR

Junior Class Chapel Program Devoted to Civil War President

To celebrate Lincoln's birth, the Junior class sponsored the assembly program Friday morning, February 12, in Hiram Brock auditorium with a program on events which were features of his life.

Annie Laurie Forsythe opened the program with a discussion on "Symphony of Lincoln," in which she gave examples of cases where Lincoln would go thru a strict investigation before having a person executed on a charge bearing an execution with it.

Lillian Cox told of Lincoln's letters and speeches, particularly of the historical facts back of the Gettysburg Address. Clifford Walters brought the program to a close by telling of the Lincoln memorials in both Kentucky and Illinois.

Freshmen Class Holds Meeting

The Freshman Class held its regular class meeting in the Hiram Brock Auditorium, Monday, February 8. The meeting was called to order by Jack Allen, the president.

The devotional was read by Miss Jeanette Hunter, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. Ed Hill.

Mr. Isaacs then gave a short announcement in regards to the pictures for the Milestone.

The president introduced the advisor, Mr. N. B. Cuff, who made a short speech telling of his first year as advisor of the Freshman Class. Mr. Cuff spoke of several subjects he had read in order to see just what an advisor should do. He said that his readings included such subjects as, "Do Colleges Treat their Freshmen Fair" and "Why Do Students Go to College".

Mr. Allen then presented the following program: Misses Pauline and Marguerite Hill accompanied by Mr. Hervey Blanton sang "Just One More Chance," "By My Side," "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Two Little Blue Eyes." Mr. Ray Cooper gave a short tap dance, after which the meeting was adjourned.

MONUMENT OF WASHINGTON AT BRADDOCK, PA.

United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission

This statue by Frank Vittor, of Pittsburgh, Pa., shows Washington as the aide-de-camp to General Braddock. It was dedicated by Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon on July 9, 1930, at the ceremonies of the 175th anniversary of Braddock's defeat by the French and Indians. Besides Secretary Mellon, the United States was represented at these exercises by Senators David A. Reed and Millard E. Tydings, Congressman R. Walton Moore and Henry W. Temple. Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania, representing the city of Braddock, presided at the dedication.

FORESTRY IS TALK SUBJECT

Lecture at Eastern Illustrated With Colored Lantern Slides

FLOOD CONTROL AID

F. W. Nichols, of the State Forestry Service, addressed the student body of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College in Hiram Brock auditorium here this morning on "Conservation of Kentucky Forests."

In introducing Mr. Nichols, Dr. L. G. Kinnamer, presiding officer at the meeting, brought out the fact that Eastern is as interested in timber conservation as any college in the state and is the only school offering a course in the conservation of natural resources.

Mr. Nichols was accompanied to Richmond by G. Y. Bell, assistant state forester, who has been in charge of the work in eastern Kentucky during the past year in which over a million acres of timber land have come under the protection of the national and state governments in cooperation with the land owners.

Wild Game Preserves
Illustrating his lecture with many colored lantern slides, Mr. Nichols discussed reasons why Kentuckians should be intensely interested in forest conservation. Probably the reason he emphasized most was that "industries come from the development of natural resources. Timber is a natural resource and may be grown as a crop in this state."

Perhaps even more interesting to his listeners were the suggestions Mr. Nichols made concerning wild game. He showed conclusively how woods and forest lands are essential to the life and increase in numbers of deer, bear, duck, quail, grouse, and others. He showed how trees are necessary for good fishing by regulating the streams so that they do not dry.

According to Mr. Nichols, a sufficient supply of timber will prevent both floods and droughts. The trees hold the water in their roots and prevent floods and send it back into the air through their leaves so that there can be more regular rainfall.

DONOVAN IN WASHINGTON

After returning from Frankfort, where he has been sitting in on the meetings of the Kentucky legislature there, Dr. H. L. Donovan embarked for Washington Wednesday to attend the meeting of the American Association of Teachers Colleges.

The American Association of Teachers Colleges is holding its annual convention this week-end, in order that its business matters may be brought before the regular meeting of the National Education Association, which will convene in Washington, in the near future.

Dr. Donovan was elected chairman of the Committee on Standards to meet with the American Association of Teachers while he was in attendance at a convention in Montgomery, Ala., of the S. A. T. C. in December, 1931.

Mr. Taylor Speaks at Y. Vesper Meet

Mr. Howard Taylor of Berea College was the speaker at the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. Vesper Service on Sunday evening, February 7. Mr. Taylor chose as his subject "The Secrets of a Happy Life". These secrets he named as four, be good, look good, act good, and do good.

On last Sunday Miss Augusta Roberts, Y. W. C. A. Secretary of the University of Kentucky was the speaker.

Every student of Eastern, as well as the faculty and town people are always invited to attend the meetings, each Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

MAROONS GO TO MOREHEAD

Play Eagles in Last Scheduled Contest of Net Season

STATE TOURNEY NEXT

After one of the best net seasons on record the Maroons will journey to Morehead tonight where they will meet the Eagles for the last scheduled encounter of 1932.

Morehead proved to be no competition for the Maroons when the mountain teachers played on the Weaver hardwood. Coach Hughes easily won the contest with the use of his subs. The once great Shelby Stamer, former Carr Creek star who was a team-mate of the Hale boys, Ben Adams and the others here, faded out in the Richmond contest. Several other members of the old Carr Creek delegation who went to Morehead were content to see Eastern trounce the Eagles to the tune of 32-14, after what was expected to be a close game.

Tomorrow the Eagles will seek for revenge on their own court, but the Maroons enter the game as high favorites on the strength of the previous contest and the number of wins during the season.

Following tonight's battle, the Maroons will go into training for the state tourney which is held annually in Winchester. This year it will commence on next Thursday and continue thru Saturday. There will be some hopping for tournament positions on the squad of ten which are allowed for each team represented. No definite report can be made at the present as to which men will hold tournament berths.

However, Eastern stands one of the best chances for taking the honors this year that it has ever stood, and regardless of which ten men Coach Hughes should happen to pick out of the thirteen now on the squad, the Maroons will be well prepared for the big event.

STUDENTS IN KY. COLLEGES ARE FEWER

Dr. Donovan Discusses Educational Problems in Radio Interview; Tells of Teachers Colleges' Service

COST UNDER AVERAGE

The problem of education in Kentucky and the relationship of the four teachers colleges to it was discussed February 8 by Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College from the Frankfort extension studio of WHAS.

Dr. Donovan's discussion was in the form of an interview by J. Howard Henderson, head of the Frankfort bureau of the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dr. Donovan said that the teachers colleges render a distinct service to all the people of the state aside from the education of the students who actually attend them and that this service is their biggest contribution.

"At the teachers colleges we educate young men and women not wholly for what education may mean to them, but that they may return to every community in Kentucky and share with the children of the people the culture they have attained in college. If the intellectual level of the average citizen is to be raised, this development will depend upon placing in the school room a teacher of culture, scholarship and teaching ability.

How Many in College
Dr. Donovan was asked whether there are too many people going to college in Kentucky and what we are going to do with all of these educated people.

In reply he compared the number of college students per 100,000 population in Kentucky with the number in the surrounding states. He said that 446 Kentuckians out of each 100,000 are in colleges. In Ohio 952 were in college for each 100,000; in Indiana there were 699; in Illinois 939; in Missouri 712; in Tennessee 602, and in Virginia 626.

"As an educator, I assert," Dr. Donovan said, "with the evidence all on my side, that all of Kentucky's colleges—both public and private—have not and cannot train

NET TOURNAMENT DRAWINGS TO BE MONDAY

Representatives of Eight Kentucky Colleges to Determine Schedule for Title Which Starts March 25

MURRAY NOT ENTERED

The eyes of sport fans all over the state will be focused on Spencer gymnasium at Wesleyan college on Monday morning, Feb. 22, when representatives of eight colleges will assemble to hold the drawings for the Kentucky Intercollegiate Tournament. The tournament will be held in Winchester on February 25, 26 and 27.

This new Kentucky Intercollegiate Tournament will take the place of the state S. I. A. A. tournament, and will have eight teams entered. Only Murray, of the teams entered last year, will be absent. The eight schools, which have received invitations are Berea, Transylvania, Eastern, Centre, Western, Louisville, Wesleyan, and Georgetown. All are expected to accept.

With Murray, which is leading the S. I. A. A., out of the picture, there is no outstanding favorite to capture the championship this year. Every team entered has been beaten by at least two of the others, and from here it looks as though anybody can win. Prior to their recent road trip, when they dropped two games while winning none, Eastern looked like a probable favorite, and if they regain their earlier form they should cause somebody plenty of trouble.

Favorites don't have an easy time of it in this tournament and every year the public is startled by a big upset. But on season's record, Louisville has a slight advantage that might mean a great deal. A lot depends on the draw.

EASTERN WINS FROM CENTRE

Maroons Pull Ahead in Final Three Minutes to Score Triumph

FRESHMEN WIN TOO

After having the contest knotted twice, three minutes before the close of the first half, Coach Hughes' Maroon veterans pulled away for a final count of 31-24 over the Centre Colonels in the last cage battle of the season on the Weaver court here last night.

The game was a nip and tuck battle thruout the first period, and the period ended with only a 13-12 advantage for Eastern after Centre had tied the count at 10-10 and 12-12 immediately before the gun that closed the frame.

Herman Hale came thru for high point honors for the Maroons with 13 points to his credit. Ben Adams followed with 8. Hawthorn scored seven points for the Colonels and Turney and Bravard had six apiece for second honors.

In the frosh contest, which preceded the varsity game, the Little Maroons trampled the Centre yearlings by a count of 32-29 after a hard fast game. Eastern led at the half 18-14. Carter and Hale divided scoring honors with 12 points each for the Little Maroons. Coleman led Centre with eight.

Lineups and scoring follow:
Eastern (31) Pos. Centre (24)
Morton (6) ... F. ... (3) Garnett
H. Hale (13) ... F. ... (7) Hawthorn
B. Adams (8) ... C. ... (6) Turney
Z. Hale (4) ... G. ... (6) Bravard
L. Hale ... G. ... (2) Tenik
Substitutions: Eastern—Spurlock, McDaniel, Centre—Jones, Meek.
Official—Bray (Xavier).

as many young men and women as should receive a college education. The depression is no time to cease the preparation of leaders who must be depended upon to guide the future destinies of our state. The people of this commonwealth should recognize that the college attendance of the state is extremely low as compared with other states."

Per Student Cost
The per capita cost of training a student in a teachers college in Kentucky is $258.92 annually, Dr. Donovan declared. The per capita cost for similar institutions in the United States is $270. The annual cost to the student at Eastern is $244 for all necessary expenses. In similar institutions in the United States it is $335.

"Students with plenty of brains and an abundance of energy, but with little money, may secure a college education in any of the teachers colleges. These institutions are, in many respects, the poor man's college. Is higher education a privilege to be enjoyed by only the sons and daughters of the wealthy?" Dr. Donovan asked. "Our answer is emphatically 'No,'" he replied.

"The one fact I should like to emphasize is that there are not too many teachers in Kentucky, but there are at the present time too many people holding low-grade certificates which do not qualify them to teach. There is certainly a great difference between a holder of a certificate and a teacher."

George Washington

Monday morning, February 22, President Hoover will officially open the Bicentennial Celebration in Washington, in commemoration of the man who, as the first executive of the land, has been recognized as perhaps the greatest figure in American democracy.

George Washington, whose birth dates back two hundred years from this coming Monday, set the example of freedom and independence for all who have and will follow in his position as president of a nation which has grown to omnipotency.

It was Washington whose leadership, personality, generosity and military strategy led the Continental army of the thirteen colonies to victory over the English red-coats in that epochal American Revolution. It was he who laid the first stone that paved the way to independence at that famous meeting in Yorktown, when General Cornwallis and the British army surrendered to the American cause. Later it was under Washington's first administration as president of the young nation that Adams, Jay and Franklin were delegated to draw up America's first treaty at Versailles. It was this treaty that opened the highway to independence, and secured the actual freedom from the mantle of the English despot, King George.

George Washington has been the only man ever to be offered a third term in the president's chair, and his nobleness placed two terms as the standard period of office. His diplomacy won for him the title of "the father of his country." Only two other men, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson, have had to face the problems under which Washington so gallantly mastered a critical situation.

His fairness in the execution of his presidential duties, his sincerity in purpose, his far-sightedness, and his foreign policy, which if only kept would have made the United States far safer for future democracy than it is today, mark George Washington as a man who really had his country at heart.

Boost the Milestone

The Milestone is well under way. Materials are nearly all collected. The majority of upper-classmen's pictures are in. Freshmen, the largest class on the campus, about 500 in all, have turned in only 75 pictures, not even one-fifth of the class. Certificates seem to be the only aim of our freshmen. Freshmen, enter in the spirit and life of Eastern by cooperating in putting out a bigger and better yearbook.

The graduates of this year, the largest graduating class in the history of the institution, is going to offer to the student body of Eastern the best yearbook ever put out by any class of grads to leave the college.

An earlier start has been made toward the compilation of material for the Milestone than ever before. A great percentage of the individual pictures has been made; the material for the sports section has all been gathered; mounting of the material has been started.

The publication of an annual shows that the college takes pride in its students and that the students are proud of their Alma Mater. Yearbooks contain evidence of student activity that can be secured from no other source. They are the official handbook of the college to which the alumni can refer for data which they can obtain from no other source.

The Milestone to be indicative of the life and the spirit of EASTERN must contain your picture. You are a vital part of the college and by any omissions will not make the annual truly representative of the college as you would like to remember it. Have your pictures made at once.

Let's get behind the seniors, student body, faculty, and administration and help them produce something of which we can all rightfully be proud.

What's a College For?

Faculty and alumni association of a small eastern college of the highest type have for some months been engaged in a sort of intellectual stock taking, for the purpose of ascertaining what their institution has to offer undergraduates, how effectively it is discharging its functions and how it may increase its usefulness. They have gone to the root of the matter by trying to determine precisely what the aims of the college are, what they ought to be and how they may best be attained.

The results of these studies are so valuable and so interesting that we suppose there are few colleges that could not engaged in like surveys to their own signal advantage. Too many of them are scarcely aware that they are carrying on in a new era.

According to President Comfort, of Haverford College, we are in the midst of "the deepest heart searching that American education has undergone. There are now said to be upward of a million students in our colleges and universities. The task of educating such numbers as individuals has proved impossible with current resources. Everything has been done to encourage numbers; entrance has been made easy, inducements have been extended, material and social advantages have been emphasized. College life has become attractive, if not for educational reasons, at least for many other reasons. True education has been seriously jeopardized. As a result, our institutions of higher learning have been overwhelmed, not with scholars but with amiable bipeds; undergraduates have been taught in droves, they have been quartered all about the town, they have been allowed to study what they please, they have grown independent of authority and have developed a great variety of their own diversions, which have cut deep into the serious purpose for which the colleges exist.

There will be found few to deny that we have lately rounded a turning point in American academic history. For the first time more young people are seeking higher education than the institutions devoted to it can accommodate. For that reason colleges are in a position to pick and choose their students; and all over the country they are doing it. In the parlance of trade, the colleges are in a buyers' market. As Mr. Lowell, of Harvard, puts it: "The idea that going to college is one of the inherent rights of man seems to have obtained a baseless foothold in the minds of many of our people. To select the fit and devote our energies to them is our duty to the public for whose service we exist."

Harvard will have plenty of company in the pursuit of this policy. Many, perhaps most, of the attempts to define the aims of the American college are in substantial agreement. President Hopkins, of Dartmouth, says its function is that of giving "a perspective on the conditions of life." President Park, of Bryn Mawr, declared to her students: "That the college gives to its best ability an education preparatory to living is its justification, and perhaps its only justification." Again quoting Mr. Lowell: "The object of cultural education is to broaden and deepen the range of thought; that of vocational to prepare for a particular use. The primary aim of the former is building the brain; that of the latter, storing it. These objects are not inconsistent, and both kinds of education produce both results, albeit to a different extent."

As all the foregoing expressions of opinion come from academic sources, it is interesting to note how they square with the sentiments of outstanding men in the world of business and affairs. Probably the beliefs of Mr. Owen D. Young will be accepted as fairly representative of those of this latter class, of which he is a conspicuous member. In his opinion, the objectives of an American college should be to assist a student to develop his character, to stimulate his intuition and emotions, to discover his mental aptitude and to train it, to learn enough about our organized machinery of society to apply his gifts effectively, and to acquire skill in his communications with others. Mr. Young amplifies his last specification by explaining that it means "languages, both oral and written, and manners too."

The alumni who assisted in the studies previously referred to found English far and away the most important subject they had taken in college, both from the utilitarian and from the cultural viewpoint. Mathematics was their second choice for utility, and philosophy for cultural value.

Marjory Mix

Dear Marjorie:

What can a girl expect of a boy these days? I've known this certain boy for about a week and a half. He kept very kissable the first week of our romance but now, without cause or reason, he's turning to another brand, or pardon, I mean he's no longer so ardent. Can it be that he didn't mean all the sweet nothings he whispered in my ear? If you think I should nip the bud well and good, I will even though it breaks my heart.

—Virginia Lilly.

Dear Virginia:

In this affair of yours I know not what to advise. You say if you break it off later it will be another notch on the life pumper anyhow. Why not take your love where you find it, or try somebody else?

Miss Marjorie Mix:

I suppose you answer personal questions as well as love-lorn intricacies, so I'm coming to you with this problem, because even my best friend won't tell me. I'm terribly bashful, so much so that they say "Big Bad Bill" is "Sweet William" now. Listen, that isn't so, on account of I never was bad. My friends can't understand why a big handsome brute like I could help from being bad, but thank goodness I'm pure—99.44 percent. How can I overcome this bashfulness? I like the femmes and loves them to like me. Do you think I can acquire enough "it" to pull me thru a stage of popularity and still remain a "Sweet William?"

—Bill Ramsey.

Dearest Bill:

Have you ever stopped to consider your advantage over millions of other members of the stronger side of life? Here are you, tall and handsome. What girl wouldn't fall for that alone? If your best friend wouldn't tell you maybe he's interested in your field of inquiry. After you acquire aforementioned "it" maybe he'll be pleased to listen to things you'll be able to tell him. An idea, huh?

Dear Miss Mix:

As I sit writing to you, I am viewing the beautiful scenery of the campus from my room in Burnam hall. I hate to think of ever leaving this spot. I've grown to love it so. No, that isn't the real reason, I'll fess up, I'm not only in love

Dear Mildred:

Let your conscience be your guide, but let actions speak louder than words. If good ole "Sleepy" proves susceptible why should you go into the reform business and refrain? These S. D.'s are always dangerous. How can one go on having them, getting no results, and still get a kick out of it?

Students have started the new semester off with pep, vim and vigor, so to speak. At any rate, the library is nearly too small to hold the numbers who have been coming there each night to study. The circulation of books for the past week or so has been exceedingly great. The reading room, the reference room, and the lobby have all been filled with busy students continuously for the first two weeks of the semester. This can prove but one thing, and that is that the students of Eastern are here to work. The librarian and the assistants are trying very hard to supply the demanded books and references and to keep everything systematized for the convenience of the users of the library.

PROGRESS POSTOFFICE

Dear Editor:

It seems to me that since the new semester is well underway, some student organization or the faculty social committee should arrange for some sort of a social.

There are many students here who have not been here before, and who have not become acquainted with each other and the faculty. It is going to be difficult for them to know each other as they should and would like.

Several persons have remarked to me that they would like for some kind of a party to be had. I think it would be well to have a get-together in the near future.

Miss Elizabeth Riddell spent the past week-end with her people at home in Irvine.

Miss Irene Horton and Virginia Harrison attended the leap year dance in Hazard, last Friday night, where they were guests of Miss Laura Rose.

Miss Amelia Legon spent the past week-end in Lexington, attending a leap year dance Friday night.

Ed Hill, freshman basketball player, underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday night at the Patton A. Clay Infirmary.

Newt Lee, staff member of the Progress, was called home Wednesday for the funeral of his grandfather, who passed away sometime Tuesday night.

Levados Holliday spent the week-end at her home, Winchester, and in Paris.

Eloise Reeves was ill for a few days last week.

Amelia Legon, who is making her home with President and Mrs. Donovan while at Eastern, spent the past week-end at her home in Lexington.

Betty Baxter went home for the past week-end to visit her parents in Lexington.

Mary Edelen and Thelma Royalty spent the week-end between semesters in Huntington, W. Va.

The Elementary Council of Education entertained with a tea in the recreation room of Burnam hall, Friday, February 12, as a reception for the new majors and minors in elementary education. Bridge and games were followed with refreshments.

Qualls-Cox

Miss Bess Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cox, Lawrenceburg, and former Eastern student, was united in marriage with Denver Qualls, Cumberland, Ky., on Monday, February 8, in Frankfort. Mr. Qualls was also an Eastern student, and former player on both basketball and football squads last year.

Students Attend Baptist Meet

On Friday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock about thirty of Eastern's students were entertained at the meeting of the Baptist Student Union at the University of Kentucky. Twenty guests were present from Georgetown.

Mrs. Donovan and Mrs. Barnhill, with twelve faculty members, attended the program at Woodland auditorium, Lexington, Monday night, given by the world renowned violinist, Mischa Elman.

CHURCH SOCIAL

Friday evening February 12, in the parlors of the Christian Church, the young people entertained the students of Eastern with a social program, which included games of all kinds, two short plays, and several guitar numbers.

The Young People hold their regular meeting at the church every Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Everyone is invited.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

On Monday morning, February 22, at the regular chapel period, the newly organized Social Science Club will sponsor a program in commemoration of George Washington.

Four members of the club will give talks on George Washington. Those who are to speak are: Herschel McKinley, Mrs. Flora Morris, Jane Rowlette, and Ross Anderson.

Another feature of this program, which the club does not wish to announce until that day, will be one of the means of conveying the appreciation of these members for their school, as well as a patriotic attribute to the "Father of Our Country."

GRAB BAG

By LUNA TICK

Dear Iva:
When Mabel McKinney came out of the pool the other day I heard her say that she looked like an old weathered barn. What made her say that?
Jimmy Lentz.

Dear Jimmy:
She probably meant that they were both in need of paint.

Dear Miss Carr:
When my boy-friend was very angry with me he said I was just like a candy bar. Why should he say such a sweet thing when he was angry?
Lillian Casner.

Dear Lil:
He was probably referring to the idea that one can't judge the filler by the wrapper.

Dear Iva:
Why wouldn't Marilee Unthank accept an invitation to a house party I invited her to?
Elmo Simpson.

Dear Elmo:
She'd rather dance.

Dear Miss Carr:
What should I tell Joe when he says he's burning with love for me?
Marietta Vivian.

Dear Marietta:
Simply tell him not to make a fuel of himself.

Dear Iva Carr:
What does it mean when a girl runs around a lot?
Mattie Lewis.

Dear Mattie:
It doesn't necessarily mean that she's being chased.

Dear Miss Iva:
What did Mr. Keith say was the last line to this—"Where there's a will—"
Mendel Parsons.

Dear Mendel:
"Where there's a will, there's hell to pay."

Dear Iva:
What is that story about the three Aspinin tablets?
Bill Ramsey.

Dear Bill:
You mean the one about the three Bayers?

Dear Miss Carr:
Who enticed Moon Mullens to pay a visit to the corset factory the other day?
Icabod Corns.

Dear "Pain-on-the-toe":
I think it was their advertising sign—"All kinds of ladies stays here."

Dear Iva:
Who is the biggest joker around here?
Josh Cosby.

Dear Josh:
I don't know about the biggest JOKER but it takes the stork to KID us along.

Dear Miss Iva:
If one's daughter is convent bred, what would one's son be?
Bill Cheek.

Dear Bill:
Daughter convent bred, huh? That would probably make the son a college loaf.

Dear Miss Carr:
Why don't the departments carrying girl's clothing do more business here in Richmond?
Dot Crutchfield.

Dear Dot:
The most probable reason is that there are too many girls of the same size on the campus.

Dear Aunt Iva:
I am writing to inform you that I am a big shot here at Eastern.
Lloyd Dykes.

My Dear Lloyd:
Then why don't I hear better reports?

Dear Miss Carr:
If football is brutal, what is croquet?
Flash Feedback.

Dear Flash:
Croquet is "wicket."

JOKES

Contributor: I sent you some suggestions telling how to make your paper more interesting. Did you carry out my ideas?
Bill Martin: Did you meet the boy with the wastepaper basket as you came in?
Contributor: Yes, I did.
Bill: Well, he was carrying out your ideas.

Charlie Wilson (caught speeding): But, officer, I am only a student.
Cop: Ignorance is no excuse.

Wife: Do you know what day this is? It's twenty-five years ago today since we became engaged.
Absentminded Prof.: Twenty-five years? Why didn't you remind me before? It's high time we were getting married.

Still at this business of giving the public the scandal it should have, and yet not step on anyone's toes too hard. The public cries for it, we authors look for it, and the "Progress" prints it. We hope you use it well enough to contribute your share of scandal that is un-accessible to the authors. Mayhap a romance will somehow be started by a few lines in this feature, and maybe a catastrophe will be avoided. Anyhow, here Tik.

After many friends had suggested to CLIFTON DOWELL that he call up his girl and remind her that he still loves her, he sneaked to the telephone booth one evening. "Hello, Lillian, whaddya say?" "Nothin', ERNEST RAYMOND, what do you say?" "Er Nothin'. Goodbye."

HARVEY BUSH bought a new Cord Roadster the other morning . . . but he said the darn alarm clock went off before he had a chance to use it.

We finally found the reason for the wee-begotten expression on CARL GARRETT'S face lately. We found that a little freshman girl has been pursuing him . . . and is she persistent? And CARL, this is Leap Year too.

We wonder if that certain Frosh at U. K. is the reason HELEN FRISH has taken a sudden fancy to Lexington, and also if the Berea boy-friend is the reason for ALICE MUTH moving to town?

EARL RUFARD has been eighteen weeks finding out that he liked VIRGINIA LILLY, but at last somebody has given him a break.

BILL RAMSEY wonders if the date he had with VIVIAN BUCKSHORN at the game the other night was boring her. Too bad PORTWOOD wouldn't let LLOYD DYKES be with her.

JOSH COSBY said that he was two-thirds married. That he was willing and the preacher was willing, all that he needs now is the girl to be willing.

It is evident that TURKEY HUGHES does not believe in the adage that an apple a day keeps the doctor away. He thinks it takes a bushel a day.

It has been rumored that MATTIE LEWIS is taking swimming just in order to be near ZELDA HALE'S hangout. MATTIE said the rumors have it all wrong. It's BEN ADAMS that she's crazy about.

FRANK RACE suggested putting mayonnaise on the meat he eats just to make it a little more pliable.

Here we present WILLIE WILSON starting his second semester at EASTERN and pulling something like this: When MR. MOORE spoke of "assets" in his speech in chapel the other morning WILLIE was heard to ask why MR. MOORE insisted on mentioning young mules so often. He also wanted to know when they moved the capital of this country to Europe. Tch! Tch! WILLIE.

RED EASTIN recently started wearing a rubber band from his shirt to his vest in order to keep his shirt from blousing in front. TOM EVANS thinks the next stage will be for him to start wearing those large knots in his tie like TALLIE DEWITT, HAROLD MITCHELL, and JIMMY BURNETT.

We would like to know the method used to get boy-friends. TOMMY BOWMAN and LUCY ASHCRAFT get one every night we have a ball game. We would like to meet people from out of town too.

MARILEE UNTHANK says she can't get a boy to look at her since her sister, FLOSSIE, came back to school.

HENRY MARSHALL is undecided which of the two girls he likes best. The question is which will be the lucky girl, CLARA BELL TRUE or LOIS BELL.

ROSS ANDERSON said that he thought girls were the "weaker sex" but SUE RANSEM proved to him that she wasn't when she lifted him in her arms the other day. ROSS still insists that she is weak—in other portions.

It has been explained that the reason for EASTERN losing the ball games last week was that ANNIE LAURIE FORSYTHE'S speech in chapel the other morning turned all the players literary minded.

HERSCHEL MCKINLEY said that MITCHELL DENHAM and MENDAL PARSONS act like a newly wed couple. HERSHEL can explain that.

HERE'S one worth the public's attention. CHRISTINE GANTLEY was the proud possessor of a gentleman's hat the other morning. She found it in her bed and has no explanation for it.

NEWTON OAKES has been telling tales out of school. He told LUCY MITCHELL that his roommate was daffy about her.

FROSH LOSE TO KITTENS

Little Maroons Downed 38 to 18 by U. of Ky. Yearlings

HALE SCORES 8 POINTS

After a slow and uninteresting net encounter with the Kentucky Kittens here Tuesday night in the Weaver gymnasium, the Little Maroons passed up their chances to get revenge over Coach Gilb's quintet for a defeat dealt them in Lexington last month and went down to a second defeat in a final count of 38-18.

Coach Portwood's cagers seemed to be far off form against the Kittens, and before the Little Maroons began to elick, the University yearlings had mounted a lead that could not be overcome. The first few minutes of the contest started like a tight battle would ensue. Neither team scored for at least five minutes after the first whistle. Kentucky started the scoring and continued consistently throught the game, while the Little Maroons were unable to connect to any advantage.

The second frame was a bit more closely contested than the first. The Eastern yearlings showed signs of retaliation after the canto was well under way and hit for the major portion of their score during the final eight minutes of play, but the Kittens, led by Lawrence, who accounted for 13 marks of their final count, pulled away to close the battle with an 18-point advantage. Hale led the scoring for the Little Maroons with 8 counts to his credit.

Five Stars In Final

The game with Centre last night marked the last appearance on the Eastern hardwood for the five veteran basketballers pictured above, who have led the Maroons thru thick and thin since their entrance here. The above five consisting of Herman Hale, Zelda Hal, Lawrence Hale, Ben Adams and Bill Melton all graduate this June with Henry Spurlock, who is not shown, but who has also won a Maroon costume during his four years here.

Maroons Avenge Defeat at Hands of Pioneers With 31 to 13 Triumph

HERMAN HALE IS STAR

Transy's Pioneers proved no match for the Maroons in the return cage tll played here Tuesday night, Feb. 9, for Coach Hughes' men led the Underwood basketballers throught the entire contest to win by a final score of 31-13.

After the defeat dealt the Eastern net men in Lexington by the Pioneers last month, the contest on the Maroon court promised to be a close one with Eastern holding only slight favors over Transy. Things did not turn out that way, however, and Eastern, after allowing the Pioneers to score the opening tally, settled down to its old steady system of play to gradually mount a lead which Transy could not overcome.

Herman Hale followed Estes opening mark to knot the score at 2-2 in the first five minutes. Then Zelda made 2 for Eastern. Herman added two more tallies for 8-2, and by the close of the first half the score stood at 13-5 in Eastern's favor.

The Pioneers tightened up somewhat in the second period. The game was fast and hard fought throught the second canto, but with five to go until the final gun, Eastern held a 24-12 advantage over the Pioneers, and allowed them but one point more while the Maroons shot the score up to 31-13 for the final decision.

Herman Hale was the feature man for the Maroons in the contest, and when Coach Hughes substituted Feeback for him near the last part of the second half, Herman came off the floor with 16 points to his credit. Ben Hord who stepped out against Wesleyan took second point honors with seven counters. Estes accounted for six of Transy's marks to lead their scoring.

In a preliminary contest, the Little Maroons defeated the Speedwell High School quintette, one of the leading Class B cage squads in this part of the country, by a score of 36-19. Coach Portwood had a good chance to use all of his men on the bench in the game, and the Little Maroons got a good workout. Carter hit 20 points for the Little Maroons to cap scoring honors. Tierney ran second with seven. Yates made high score for Speedwell with eight marks accredited.

Eastern Varsity Whipped by Louisville U. and Western Hilltoppers; Frosh Win at Louisville

WESTERN EVENS SCORE

The tour taken by the two Eastern cage squads last week-end netted only one victory out of the four games played. At Louisville, in return engagements with the Cardinals, the varsity dropped a 25-22 bout to Coach Weber's five, but the Little Maroons tipped the Louisville yearlings by 28-19. Traveling on to Bowling Green to meet the two quintettes of the Western Teachers, the Maroons came out on the short end of the string in both contests there. The Little Maroons went down to the tune of 31-24, and the varsity took a 47-20 defeat from the Hilltoppers.

The frosh game at Louisville was all Eastern's from start to finish. Louisville's yearlings never endangered the score of the Little Maroons, and Coach Portwood's five easily piled up a nine point decision by the close of the contest. On the other hand, Coach Hughes' quintette found considerable trouble with Coach Weber's boys, and after a slow but interesting game the Maroons gave in for the final count of 25-22 against them. The Cardinals took an early lead, and held a 9-6 advantage at the half. During the second period, Louisville ran up a 21-12 margin, the edge by which the Maroons had previously defeated the Cardinals in Richmond. Near the close of the period, Eastern stepped out to get within three points of Louisville at 21-18, but the Cardinals pulled away for 24-18. Feeback counted for Eastern. Bott hit a free throw for Louisville, and Herman Hale hit for a field marker just as the game ended.

The Western Teachers, playing the most perfect brand of ball that they have played this season, sought revenge over Eastern for the stinging defeat dealt them in Richmond, in the opening contest of the series played here. Taking the lead at the opening of the contest, the Hilltoppers assumed a 24-4 margin over the Maroons at the intermission. Eastern opened for a stiff rally after ten minutes of the second canto had gone, but Western held their advantage and struck up their final victory of 47-20.

In the preliminary contest with the Little Maroons, the Hilltop yearlings were kept on the run by Coach Portwood's team, and they did not get the chance to freeze the ball for such lengthy periods as they pulled in Richmond, when they gave the Little Maroons two defeats in a row. After a fast game, the Westerners took a lead in the last few minutes that mounted the score to 34-21 over the Eastern frosh.

Feeback led Eastern's scoring in the Louisville battle, and Madden took highest point honors over Western.
