Morning Lights

Quite discouraging it is to attempt to "make up" early on rising in the morning, only to find that there is no water. But to find no water and no lights is enough to cause the average college student to say his Sunday school lesson backwards.

Repeatedly appeals have been made to the administration to furnish lights from 5 to 7 o'clock in the mornings, especially at this season of the year when it is practically dark in the rooms at this time of the morning. Undoubtedly the appearance of slashed, partially shaven faces and "polka-dotted" complexions at early 7:30 classes should be sufficient to demonstrate the extreme necessity of morning lights. We must have some light early in the mornings, and undoubtedly shall get it soon, but why spoil about 700 dispositions before turning them on.

However, we should observe that electricity bills are constantly mounting. The addition of many new buildings and great increase in enrollment is necessitating much greater use of electricity, but every student should make it a point to turn out all lights whenever leaving the room. If you have been raised in the "sticks," don't let your friends know it. If you can't read the notice posted by the switch button, don't let others find it out—see to it that all lights are turned out before you leave the room

The Model High debaters will have their first combat on December 17 when Margaret Neale, Henry Baugh and Lucille Case, representing the affirmative team argue against Wilma Bond, E. T. Wiggins and Thelma Saylor. The question is: Resolved, that chain store merchandising is detrimental to the best interests of the United States.

TURN OUT every light not in use and we can get lights whenever we need them. It has been rumored that it would be cheaper to leave the electricity on all of the time if students would exercise ordinary precaution in turning out all lights not in use. Let's cooperate and we might prove this statement.

News

Several times this semester students have complained, and justly, that their organization or their class was not getting the publicity it should.

It is the desire of the Progress staff to gather and use all news that is worthy of consideration as news. For this reason each organization, department, and class was advised at the beginning of the term to either elect or appoint some member of that organization or class who could be held responsible for news pertaining to the work being carried on by them.

This plan has worked beautifully in most cases, but organizations are not all being represented. If you think your class is not getting the publicity it deserves; if something should have been "broadcast" that wasn't, help us to make the Progress typical of Eastern by pushing your reporter a little.

It is impossible for the few people connected with the paper to know about everything that is going on about the campus, without the aid of those connected with the various organizations. If you are planning some event, ask your reporter if he has informed some member of the regular staff.

It Can't Be Long Now

Only a few more days until we'll scatter to the four corners of the state, some to other states. Christmas holidays are almost here. We are going home to spend a few days around the family fireside and enjoy the Yuletide spirit. We are each contemplating some little gift for father, or some token of remembrance for mother, or some present for the "friend."

You will want that token of remembrance to be typically representative of the spirit in which you give it. You cannot make it so if you postpone the selection until you get home. Don't wait until you get there to buy it. Get it now and take it home with you.

You can find in Richmond the best brands of whatever article you wish to purchase. You will find in this Progress the ads of the most reliable group of business men in Richmond. The appearance of their ad in the school paper assures you that they are backing the school to the very last.

During the remaining days before holidays, spend your time looking over the variety of Christmas gifts that they have to offer you. Enter the stores of the advertisers in this Progress, select your Christmas tokens, and take them home with you.

Kentucky Artists
Subject of Talk

Miss Maude Gibson, head of the art department at Eastern, spoke today in chapel on "Artists of Kentucky." Previous to her address, Miss Gibson announced that an exhibit of the work done by students in her art classes would be opened and would remain open all day tomorrow. All who might be interested in seeing this exhibit are cordially invited to attend.

"Matthew Juett," said Miss Gibson, "was the earliest of the great Kentucky artists. He was born in Harrodsburg, and early showed ability in art. He studied law, however, and became quite proficient. As his chief interest was painting, he later decided to give up law and further his ability in art. He went to Philadelphia, where he studied under Gilbert Stuart, a great artist of the time. After his return to Kentucky he began work in Lexington, painting portraits, making about $150 a week. He painted many miniature portraits which are highly valued today. His works are not alone valued for their artistic worth, but for their historic value as well. He was the first of Kentucky's sons who became an artist," said Miss Gibson.

"Joseph Bush was born near Winchester, Ky. At the age of sixteen he found a painting set, and with this set he painted portraits which attracted attention because of the youthful age of the painter. He is known for his painting of 'King Solomon,' a queer, remarkable character, once a ne'er-do-well, but who later became a person of admiration of his service to fellowmen. Joseph Bush was the second great artist of Kentucky from the historical point of view," said Miss Gibson.

"Another of Kentucky's prominent artists was Oliver Frazer. He studied under Juett and later studied in Philadelphia. He didn't have the technique of Juett, but was noted for his brilliant conversation and for his being a scholarly gentleman. His education was self-acquired except for the little his mother gave him.

"The sculptor, Joel T. Hart, lived near Lexington. When but a small boy he loved to model little forms from bits of clay. He was ambitious for travel, and went to Europe to study. He is known for his statue of Cassius Clay, and for his masterpiece, 'Woman of Triumph.' This latter piece of art was lost in the burning of the Lexington courthouse," said Miss Gibson. China, Nevada's poultrymen have estimated, will export 250 tons of eggs every month in 1931. Jackson county, Ore., collected $39,000 in grazing fees from cattle-men in a year.

EASTERN KENTUCKY
STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE
RICHMOND, KENTUCKY

Office of the President

TO THE TEACHERS OF KENTUCKY:

What are you going to do when your school closes? It is time for you to begin making your plans for this period. We are in the midst of a financial depression. You will probably face a period of unemployment until next year. About the only alternative is for you to attend college. This is what hundreds of others are planning to do. May we count on you being one of the number who will enter Eastern at the close of your school?

You will be interested in learning that the increase in attendance during the fall semester is approximately 200 more than we have ever had at this time of the year. We had anticipated a loss in attendance before the opening of school. When, to our surprise, this did not occur we attempted to find out why so many had come to school during these hard times. Our study reveals the fact that colleges always increase their attendance in times of financial depression. During these periods young people recognize more than ever the value of a college education. They turn to the college for help to the end that they may be prepared when the time of prosperity does come. This is what happened at Eastern. Hundreds of young men and women are preparing themselves to be ready to take advantage of the prosperous period which will assuredly come in due time. Will you be one among this number prepared to meet the competition of the age in which we live?

Why should one think of staying at home at this time? It may be cheaper to attend college than to live at home. The necessary expenses for a semester at Eastern range from $108.00 to $135.00. The college is interested in offering to its students a maximum of comfort and convenience at a minimum of cost.

We are also able to offer you at this time a better trained faculty than has ever been assembled on this campus. We now have on our staff twelve women and women who have secured the Ph.D. degree; six or eight more will soon attain this distinction. Of the seventy-eight members of the faculty practically all of them have done graduate work in some of the leading universities of the world. At the opening of the second semester a number of the members of the faculty who have been away on leaves of absence will return. Miss Anna Schnieb will be with us again after spending one and a half years at the University of Vienna, Miss Edna Zellhoefer will return from the University of London, Miss Edith Ford and Miss Jane Campbell will be back from the University of Paris and Professor W. C. Jones and Professor W. L. Keene will return from Peabody after an absence of nearly two years. All of these teachers should be better prepared for their work and more interesting in the class room.

If you have not been at Eastern for some three or four years you will scarcely recognize the campus. During this time we have constructed Burnam Hall, a beautiful dormitory for girls, the Coates Administration Building, a model one-teacher rural school, the very handsome Hiram Brock Auditorium, and will complete the erection during the second semester of the Weaver Health Building. In the latter building will be found two gymnasiums, a swimming pool, handball courts, locker rooms for men and women, class rooms, laboratories and offices. It would be difficult to find an institution with a handsomer building to be devoted to health and recreation than this one. Come and participate in the opening of this beautiful structure.

More courses will be offered at Eastern during the second semester than any time during its previous history. Study the catalog and learn of the extensive courses in Chemistry, Biology, Agriculture, Physics, Home Economics, Library Science, Geography and Geology, Health, Physical Education, Music, Commerce, History, Mathematics, Foreign Language, Industrial Arts, Art, English, Social Science and Education. A student may secure practically any course he desires to pursue.

The value which you may derive by spending the next semester here will make your life richer and will enable you to render a better account of your talents. You are living in an age when the leaders of our country must all be college men and women. Do not permit your youth to slip away from you without achieving a college degree.

We are looking for hundreds of ambitious students when the next semester opens, February 2. Eastern gladly welcomes you. Write now for a room reservation.

Cordially yours,

H. L. DONOVAN,
President

TEACHERS ON LEAVE RETURN FEBRUARY 2

Four Members of Faculty Attending Foreign Universities, Two Are Studying at Peabody

DOING ADVANCE WORK

When the second semester opens, February 2, several of Eastern's instructors who have been on leaves of absence this year will return to the campus to resume their duties.

These instructors are Miss Anna A. Schnieb, Ph.D.; Miss Edith G. Ford, B.C.S., A.B.; Miss Jane Campbell, A.M.; Miss Edna Zellhoefer, A.M.; Prof. W. C. Jones, A.M., and Prof. W. L. Keene, A.M.

Miss Schnieb has been studying in the University of Vienna, Austria, during the past year. The degree of doctor of philosophy was conferred upon her summa cum laude on November 7.

Miss Edith G. Ford, instructor in commerce, and Miss Jane Campbell, instructor in the department of music, have been studying in the University of Sorbonne, Paris, France. Miss Edna Zellhoefer has been a student during the current semester at the University of London.

Professor W. C. Jones, formerly principal of the normal school department, and Professor W. L. Keene, English instructor, have spent the past year and a half studying at Peabody College. Messrs. Jones and Keene will have completed all the resident requirements for the doctor of philosophy degree when they return.

Special Nine-Week Term Plans Made

Plans for the mid-semester, opening April 6, at Eastern are now under way, according to an announcement made by President Donovan. During the nine-week term a special program of classes will be offered to meet the needs of those teachers whose schools close too late to enable them to enter the college at the beginning of the second semester.

Eastern has offered the special course during the spring term for several years in response to a growing need among the teachers of the state for a short term of this kind. The work planned for this term is of an intensive nature. Classes meet twice daily and the same credit is given in each subject as for the regular semester, the schedule being limited to a credit value of a half semester's work. From 350 to 400 students are expected to register on April 6. In making this announcement President Donovan stressed the importance of students registering at the beginning of the semester if it is possible for them to do so and said only those who cannot register by February 24 should attend the spring term. The opportunities offered at the beginning of the semester are much more varied and the number of classes is greatly in excess of those for the spring term. "Teachers are urged to register at the opening of the semester, February 2," President Donovan said.

The class schedule for the special nine-week term will be released later and will be available to those who are interested in the work offered during this term.

Violin Instructor

Miss Helen Hull, above, is one of the new instructors to join the faculty of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, Richmond, this year. Miss Hull is a gifted violinist and teaches violin and stringed instruments at Eastern. Her home is at Bowling Green, Ohio, where she attended the Ohio State Teachers College, receiving a diploma in public school music. Later she entered the University of Michigan where she was graduated this year with the degree of bachelor of music. During her stay at the university she played first violin on the university symphony orchestra. For two years Miss Hull was supervisor of instrumental music at Fordham, Detroit, Michigan, and for the past four years has given private instruction in violin and stringed ensembles. Since coming to Richmond she has given a recital at the college and also for the Cecilian Club.

Rooms are arranged in suites of two with private bath between. A beautifully furnished and spacious lobby occupies the entire first floor of the center section. The college cafeteria is also located in Burnam Hall. A feature of the building is the recreation room with private dining room and kitchen providing for club and society entertainments. A well equipped laundry is provided in the building for the free use of students.

VARSITY WINS FROM FROSH

Maroon Yearlings Force First Team to Extend Themselves to Triumph

GOOD TEAMS FORECAST

The Eastern Maroons took advantage of their experience and familiarity with each other's style of play to defeat a battling Little Maroon aggregation in the opening basketball game of the season at the Madison High School gymnasium Thursday night by the score of 28 to 25.

The Maroons saw the yearlings take a five point lead, pulled up even and then went way ahead, but with reserves filling the line-up slipped and the regulars were hard pressed to stop a last quarter rally on the part of Coach Al Portwood's boys.

Last night the audience of some 500 persons, most of them students, saw what appears to be the "makings" of two good net quintets. Both coaches were pleased with the performances of their men, Coach Turkey Hughes with the evident improvement of Ben Adams and Herman Hale over their efforts of the latter part of last season, and Coach Portwood with the fight and shooting of several of his Little Maroons.

The game was ragged to some extent, to be sure, since neither team has had much practice. The varsity exhibited superior pass work but the freshmen seemed to have the better of the shooting. Both teams guarded fairly well but fouls were committed by both teams, due to lack of practice and over-anxiety.

This boy Jimmy Vest, former Walton ace, not able to get going in the first half of the game, opened up in the second half and made three field goals, all long ones, and had six tries at the basket making only two of them. Vest is fast and appeared to have great possibilities as a running guard.

Gillis Madden turned in his usual excellent performance until ejected on four personals late in the game, and "Flash" Feeback, McDaniel and Guernsey Adams, the remainder of the starting line-up, all played steady games.

Herman Hale was the fair-haired lad for the varsity, sinking five field goals and one foul shot for a total of eleven points. All these were made in the first half, as the regulars played only the final four minutes of the second half.

The varsity accounted for ten field goals and made eight of 21 attempts from the foul line, while the freshmen made nine field goals and made good seven of 16 tries from the charity mark. The varsity committed 14 personal fouls while the freshmen bobbled 16 times.

The freshmen went into the lead when Madden dropped in a crisp for the first score of the game. Feeback got away to sink a crisp and Fryman fouled him. Feeback made it good and the yearlings enjoyed a 5 to 0 lead. McDaniels fouled Ben Adams and he hit two. Zeldia fouled Madden and he hit it. Feeback hit a long one and the frosh pushed their lead to six points.

Zeldia made a difficult side shot and Herman made a short shot good and then hit a long one to knot the count at eight all. Hansen, substituting for McDaniel, fouled Lawrence Hale, substituting for Fryman, and he made it good to give the varsity the lead, which was never relinquished. Ben Adams made a crisp shot good as the quarter ended.

Ben Adams opened the second quarter scoring with another crisp shot. Several fouls were attempted before Zeldia made one of the two shots given him with Vest fouling. Herman again hit a long one to make the varsity have an eight-point lead. Zeldia fouled Hansen who hit one of two. Herman made good a crisp shot and was fouled in shooting, hitting one and missing one. Herman got another crisp and Hord, substituting for Melton, made good a short shot to complete the scoring in the first half. The score at the end of the half was Varsity 23, Frosh 9.

Beginning the second half Lawrence Hale made good a hook shot but McDaniel countered with a crisp. Madden fouled Hord and he hit it and Madden made a crisp shot to end the scoring in the third quarter which ended 26 to 13. Howard and Qualls had replaced Herman and Zeldia Hale early in the third period and an entire second team was in the game.

Vest sank a long one to open the scoring in the last quarter. Jackson fouled Feeback and he hit two and McDaniel hit a crisp as the freshmen started a rally. Howard fouled Vest and he hit it and then Vest sank another long one to pull the frosh up to a 26 to 22 count. Vest fouled Qualls and he made it good when Coach Hughes sent his regulars back into the fray.

The frosh had gotten warmed to their task and they held the regulars to a single foul goal, made by Ben Adams. Zeldia fouled Vest and he made it good and Vest sank a long one shortly before the game ended.

Dean of Men

Dr. C. A. Keith, head of the department of social science, and dean of men at Eastern, resides at Memorial Hall, the men's dormitory. Mr. Keith has recently issued a revised and enlarged edition of his "Notes and Outlines on American History."

Eastern's Training School

This building, named in honor of Attorney General James W. Cammack, a member of the board of regents for many years, is occupied by the training school. Here college students observe expert teaching by highly trained critic teachers, and do their practice teaching under the direction of these teachers. Prof. R. A. Edwards is director of the training school and the new model high school established at Eastern this year. 406 children are now enrolled in the training schools and the new high school.

Eastern's Model One-Teacher School

This model one-teacher rural school is located on the college farm within five minutes walk of the college campus. Children attending this school are country children from the district in which the school is located. The school is taught by Miss Katie Carpenter, a highly trained rural school teacher. Miss Carpenter received her A. B. degree from Eastern and has had a wide experience as a rural school teacher and supervisor. Classes of college students are brought to the rural school by their instructors to observe the management and methods of teaching in one-teacher school.

BIG ENDOWMENT

One of the largest and most unusual endowments ever bequeathed an American college of arts and sciences has just been accepted by the corporation of Amherst College, Amherst, Mass. The bequest, provided for in the will of the late Henry Clay Folger, of New York, provides that the trustees of Amherst College shall administer the new Folger Shakespeare Memorial Library in Washington, D. C., and shall pay the college one ambassador to Mexico.

quarter of the annual net income of the fund of $10,000,000 left for the maintenance of the building. A clause in the will provided that if Amherst did not accept the gift, it should be transferred to the University of Chicago.

Amherst already has appointed a committee of distinguished alumni to formulate plans for the operation of the new Memorial Library. Included on this committee is Senator-elect Dwight W. Morrow, former D. C., and shall pay the college one ambassador to Mexico.

854 STUDENTS ARE ENROLLED IN CORRESPONDENCE COURSES; 157 IN EXTENSION CLASSES

Prof. Kerney M. Adams, director of extension, in an interview with a staff reporter of the Eastern Progress today said the number of students enrolled in the correspondence department at the present time is equal to that of any period in the history of Eastern's extension division and that a larger number of students are enrolled in extension classes than heretofore.

The official figures, according to Mr. Adams are 854 students enrolled in correspondence courses and 157 in extension classes being conducted by members of Eastern's faculty. Extension classes are now being conducted by the college at Irvine, West Liberty, Mt. Vernon, Liberty, Covington, Falmouth, Beattyville, and Williamsburg. Faculty members who are engaged in teaching these classes are Dr. Roy B. Clark, Prof. Kerney M. Adams, Prof. F. A. Engle, Dr. L. G. Kennamer, Prof. G. O. Bryant, Prof. W. J. Moore, Dr. Noel B. Cuff, and Prof. L. G. Wesley.

One of the advantages of correspondence study, Mr. Adams pointed out, is that this work does not in any way interfere with the student's regular employment, such as teaching, and he explained that while only a limited amount of the work leading to a certificate or degree can be taken by correspondence, many students had found correspondence study most helpful and beneficial to them. He said since the organization of Eastern's extension department in 1919 thousands of students in all parts of the state and in other states had taken correspondence courses. All of these are taught by regular members of the faculty who teach the same subjects in residence. "Only regular members of Eastern's faculty are engaged in offering correspondence instruction for the college," Mr. Adams said. "Students taking correspondence work are assured of the same high quality of instruction as given in the class rooms of the institution."

Another branch of the service of the extension division is the bureau of appointments which is conducted by Dr. L. G. Kennamer, head of the department of geography and geology. This department is maintained to assist students and graduates of the institution in obtaining teaching positions and has been instrumental in placing hundreds of students in good positions every year. Any former student or graduate of the college is entitled to the free service offered by the bureau of appointments.

In addition to the activities of the correspondence department and the organization of extension classes and the operation of the bureau of appointments the extension division of Eastern attempts to maintain contact with teachers in service and to assist them in their work in every way possible. Recently the extension division distributed a bulletin entitled "Helps for One-Teacher Rural Schools" in which much valuable information is contained for the proper conduct and management of one-teacher schools. Numerous other bulletins and publications have been issued to teachers by this department. The extension division publishes a bulletin containing full information and detailed description of all classes in extension courses offered.

Eastern's New Gymnasium Nearing Completion

Above is an architect's drawing of the new Charles Weaver Gymnasium now under construction at Eastern. This building is expected to be completed this spring. Its outside dimensions are 100x220, occupying the largest ground area of any building on the campus. It contains official size swimming pool, lined with white tile and provided with all necessary equipment for heating and purifying the water. Three basketball courts occupy the main gymnasium. A smaller gymnasium on the left provides for basketball and other sports for the training school and model high school when the main gymnasium is in use by college students. The right wing houses the department of health including the offices of the college physician and classrooms and laboratories for the teaching of health, physiology, bacteriology, sanitation and hygiene, and physical education. The director of physical education will also have an office in the building. This gymnasium is one of the most modern and complete in the State and probably in the entire south. It is patterned after the Washington & Lee University gymnasium at Lexington, Va.

NEW TEACHERS ON FACULTY WELL TRAINED

Teaching Corps Augmented
By Instructors Who Have
Exceptional Qualifications—
Hold Advanced Degrees

REQUIRED BY GROWTH

The faculty of Eastern has been augmented by the addition of several new instructors this year. Employment of these teachers was made necessary either on account of other instructors being on leaves of absence or due to the necessity for enlarging the teaching staff on account of an increased enrollment.

Among these instructors are Miss Harriette Krick, Miss Ellen Pugh, Miss Helen Hull, Prof. Wilson Boettcher, Miss Nancy Richardson, Dr. T. C. Herndon, Miss Mary L. Adams, Miss Eliza Hanson, Miss Anna A. Cox, Alfred E. Portwood, Miss Clara A. Daviess, and Miss Maude Harmon.

Miss Harriette Krick, Ph.D., instructor in biology, succeeds Miss Norma Pearson, who resigned to accept a position with the United States department of agriculture. Miss Krick received her doctor's degree from the University of Chicago.

New critic teachers employed in the training school are Miss Helen Pugh, M.A., Ohio State University; Prof. Wilson Boettcher, Ph.D., University of Chicago; Miss Eliza Hanson, M.A., Peabody College; Miss Anna A. Cox, M.A., Columbia University; Miss Mary Adams, M.A., Columbia University.

Miss Helen Hull, B.Mus., University of Michigan, is instructor in violin and stringed instruments. Violin instruction is being offered at Eastern this year for the first time. Miss Hull was supervisor of instrumental music for two years in the public schools of Fordham, Detroit, Mich.

Miss Clara Daviess, B.S., Kansas State Teachers College, is a new instructor in library science and also is assistant librarian. Miss Nancy Richardson, A.B., North Carolina College for Women, has been employed as cataloger and assistant librarian to succeed Miss Hallie Day Bach.

Miss Maude Harmon, M.A., Leland Stanford University, who was formerly a member of the faculty at Eastern, was re-employed this year after having been away several years during which time she taught and studied toward her doctor's degree.

Dr. T. C. Herndon, who received his Ph.D. degree from Peabody College this year, returned to Eastern after a leave of absence of a year spent in study. Dr. Herndon is an instructor in the chemistry department.

Mr. Alfred Portwood, A.B., University of Kentucky, was engaged to coach freshman athletics at Eastern this year. Mr. Portwood had considerable experience as a football player on the University of Kentucky team during his attendance there.

the transportation system in Italy today is in better condition than it has ever been. The government has determined that each year every man, woman, boy, or girl in Italy vided by means of a tax on bach-lors a revenue to support the cost of vacations for many children. Mussolini believes in great population and encourages the growth of large families.

"Italy is concerned with foreign problems. France has a jealous feeling toward Italy. Italy has coveted Tunis for a long time, and would like to get Corsica. During the period of unification she gave up Nice and Savoy in order to bring about unification. It looks as if Italy is going to surpass France in population. Italy realizes that a growth of population to a large extent will demand more room to support it. As a consequence, Italy realizes the needs of colonies, and is determined to have them.

"The Fascist party is the party politically dominant in Italy today, and the government with Mussolini as dictator will stand for no opposition. The government of Italy believes in educating its people for membership in the Fascist party, and maintains organizations to encourage the Fascist party development. One of these organizations, called The Advance Guard, is a more potent factor in the government of Italy than the Boy Scouts are in ours," said Dr. Dorris.

College Physician

Dr. J. D. Farris, college physician, spoke recently in chapel on "Life". A report on his address appears in this issue of the Progress.

NO INCREASE IN EXPENSES

Cost of Attending School at Eastern is Extremely Low.

The policy of the Board of Regents of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, with regard to fees and expenses of students, has been to keep all necessary college expenses as low as possible to be consistent with high standards. This becomes immediately apparent when a study of the college catalog reveals that $109.00 to $136.00 will pay all necessary expenses for one semester at Eastern, including room rent, board, the incidental fee, and physical welfare fee, but not including the small laboratory fees which students taking laboratory courses pay. These laboratory fees are most reasonable and are intended only to cover the cost of necessary supplies required for laboratory classes.

The college book store, located in the Administration building, carries a complete line of necessary books and supplies for students. At the close of each semester students are permitted to return regular textbooks at the book store and these books are sold for the student and the money paid to them, a small percentage being retained for handling the sales.

Laundry rooms have been equipped in both the men's and women's dormitories for the free use of those students who desire to do their own work. Electric washing machines are provided and students have access to these machines at all times.

Directs Music

Professor James E. Van Peursem, A. B., Mus. B., head of the department of music at Eastern is a graduate of Oberlin College of Music. Professor Van Peursem directs the college orchestra, the glee clubs and Madrigal Club and teaches public school music.

MUSICIANS TO BE HEARD

Noted Artists to Appear at Eastern in Second Semester

IN FINE ARTS SERIES

Musicians and entertainers of note are to appear at Eastern in two programs of the Fine Art Series booked during the second semester. The Brahms quartet, an ensemble of distinguished singers, will appear on February 9. This company has been pronounced by the Deland (Fla.) News "a quartet of such perfection that it might be compared to a faultless instrument played by a genius."

On April 14, Ernest Davis, tenor, and Margaret O'Connor, harpist, will be presented in a joint recital. Mr. Davis has sung with the Chicago Festival Opera Company which last season appeared at Eastern in the "Barber of Seville." He has also played with the Boston Opera Company, singing principal roles. Miss O'Connor is said to be an exceptionally talented harpist and has won the highest praise wherever she has appeared in recital. These programs will be given in the new Hiram Brock auditorium which is exceptionally well adapted to the presentation of fine music and entertainments.

The Pavley-Oukrainy dancers, a company of twelve talented ballet artists who appeared at Eastern November 15, were acclaimed a great success by the large audience which assembled in the auditorium. The Cincinnati Little Symphony Orchestra, directed by Walter Heermann, was heard in the second number of the fine art series on November 28 and presented a splendid program of music which was pronounced by music critics one of the finest programs of its kind ever heard by a Richmond audience. The fine arts committee which selected the talent for this season's programs is composed of Mrs. Janet Murbach, chairman; Professors C. E. Caldwell, James E. Van Peursem, L. G. Kennamer, J. D. Farris, also Mrs. Maurine Todd, Miss Brown E. Telford, Mrs. Gladys P. Tyng, and Miss Jane Campbell.

Grow Old When Surrender Ideals

"People do not grow old by living years, but by the giving up of their ideals," said Dr. J. D. Farris, college physician at Eastern, speaking on the subject, "Life," before the student body during the chapel hour recently.

"Life has been divided into seven different ages," said Dr. Farris, "and people have been found who will say that each age is better than the rest. The period of which you are now living should be the best for you, but no matter what age you are in, you should possess youth, which is after all but a state of the mind. As long as love flourishes you are young, but you are old when it is dead. If pessimism and cynicism are characteristic of your life, you are old if you have only reached the age of twenty," asserted Dr. Farris.

"There are many things that make up a successful life. The mere matter of length does not make your life successful. In order to be so a life must possess breadth and depth. We do not see the end of human actions, for our influence lives on after death. By depth we mean the ability to appreciate and enjoy the finer things of life. Our enjoyment in life will increase as we learn to appreciate these finer things. Health, friends, self-control, dependability, happiness, and high ideals play important roles in molding a truly successful life. To get happiness from life you must give it," said Dr. Farris.

"Life is a different thing to every person. To the preacher it is but a sermon, to the lawyer a trial, to the joker a jest, and to the poet a vision. Each individual has his own interpretation of what life is to him. Whatever that interpretation may be," asserted Dr. Farris, "life is just what we try to make it."

LEXINGTON—City Commissioner W. C. Wilson, legislative committee chairman of Kentucky American Legion, says divisional veterans bureau headquarters and offices of Kentucky disabled ex-service men's board will be moved from Louisville to U. S. veterans hospital here before February 15.

SIGMA LAMBDA GIVES PARTY

English majors and Minors Represent Books and Characters at Book Week Party

The special exercises at Eastern in observance of Book Week were brought to a close by a book entertainment sponsored by Sigma Lambda and the Canterbury Club in the recreation room in Burnam hall on Friday evening, November 21.

The program was informal and was intended to foster an interest in recent books. One feature of the entertainment was that all guests took some part in the program. Three prizes were awarded—one for presenting the best discussion of a recent book, one for guessing the greatest number of books and book characters impersonated by the guests, and one for guessing the greatest number of authors by their photographs and associating them with recent books they wrote.

The first part of the entertainment consisted of informal book discussions with booksellers who kept stalls of recent books on different subjects. During this time tea and wafers were served. The display of books was extensive and the interest of the guests in the different book stalls was keen. After this informal part of the program the booksellers contested in explaining one or more of the books they selected from their stalls.

The next part of the entertainment was a more formal exhibition of book titles of characters which were presented by the guests through costumes, impersonations, or charades. While these were being enacted, the guests put down on paper distributed for the occasion the names of the books represented.

As another part of the entertainment, there were displayed on a separate table about thirty-five photographs of recent or living writers and as many titles of books they wrote. Those interested in this part of the program tried to guess the writers from their photographs and associate a book in the list with the author.

Most of the guests were in costume, and as a result the assembly was full of color. Clay Shackelford received the prize for giving the best explanation of a recent book. The prize was a volume of Joseph Conrad's short stories entitled "Youth." Dr. Krick received the prize for guessing the greatest number of book of character impersonations. Her prize was Josephson's recent book, "Zola and His Times." Miss Maude Harmon received the prize for identifying the most authors' photographs and titles of books. This prize was Henry Vandyke's "Companionable Books."

Miss Gay Nell Bodkin, of Paris, attended the C. K. E. A. and was the guest of Miss Blanch Wimble.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT PREPARING GIRLS FOR JOBS AS TEACHERS; GRANT B. S. DEGREE

The curriculum of the Home Economics department of Eastern Teachers College has recently been revised. Girls completing a four year course, receiving a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in home economics may now qualify to teach home economics in any high school in the state that receives federal appropriations from the State Vocational Educational Board. This new curriculum provides for forty-one semester hours of credit in the field of home economics exclusive of five semester hours of credit in Food and Nutrition Chemistry.

With the general revision of the curriculum several new courses have been introduced. A course in household physics will enable the prospective vocational teacher as well as the homemaker to be more efficient for her job. The credit for the course in child care has been increased from two semester hours of credit to three semester hours of credit, in order to better qualify the high school teacher to carry on a unit of work in this important phase of her home economics work with high school girls.

A five semester hour course in home management has been introduced. In order to carry on this course profitably a home with new furnishings and modern equipment will be opened the first of February. Senior girls will live in this house under the supervision of a trained director. Here the girls will be given opportunity to develop managerial skill and study family relationship.

Six girls are now scheduled to live in the house from the first of February to June. Girls who are out in the field teaching and desire to meet the qualifications for vocational teaching may do so by taking summer school work. The home management house will be open the first summer session. Reservations for this course have already been made by five girls who are now out in the state teaching.

The senior high school department which was opened this fall offers a splendid situation for the student to do directed teaching in home economics. A well trained and experienced teacher conducts the work in home economics in the high school.

With the general revision of the curriculum for teacher-training in home economics, new equipment added to the department, the establishment of a home management house, and the addition of the senior high school home economics courses as a means for student teaching, a girl may prepare to enter this fast growing field of vocational teaching.

Extensive Program of Classes To Be Offered Second Semester; Courses in Education Complete

The most extensive program of classes ever offered at Eastern is being prepared for the second semester, according to Prof. M. E. Mattox, registrar, who has charge of making the schedule. He says the complete class schedule will be ready for distribution in the next few days.

The return to Eastern of several instructors who have been on leaves of absence during the fall semester and the addition of new instructors who were engaged at the opening of the fall semester will make possible the offering of an exceptionally varied and attractive schedule of classes in all departments. Many departments are offering new courses. The Foreign Language department plans to offer courses in German next semester.

The courses offered in Education will be particularly complete. The facilities for student teaching have been greatly increased since the new model rural school was built on the college farm last year. Prospective rural school teachers may now observe expert teaching in this model rural school of eight grades taught by a highly trained teacher. The training school together with the model rural school provide almost unlimited opportunities for observation and teaching. This year the new model senior high school was established on the campus in the building formerly occupied by the normal school which has been discontinued. Teachers preparing for high school teaching are trained in the model high school. Professor R. A. Edwards is director of the training schools and Professor Samuel Walker is principal of the new high school.

The science departments, having recently acquired considerable new equipment, will provide an unusual wide range of science courses. These include chemistry, biology, bacteriology, geography and geology, physics, and physiology and hygiene.

The music department will offer a complete schedule of classes in public school music, as well as orchestra and band instruction and private instruction in violin, piano, and voice during the next semester. It has been announced by Professor James E. Van Peursem, head of the department.

Prospective students desiring a copy of the schedule should write the college requesting that it be mailed to them.

SPONSOR FOR EASTERN BAND

Musical Organization Contains Fifty Pieces; Uniforms Maroon, White

Miss Louise Rutledge, Richmond, a member of the sophomore class at Eastern, was recently elected band sponsor by the college band. The band has fifty members, including students of Eastern who are regular members and several musicians of Richmond who are honorary members. The uniforms are maroon and white. Sidney R. Griffith of Lexington is band director.

At a recent business meeting of the band an executive committee was appointed to prepare rules and regulations for the governing of the band and the election of the band sponsor. The committee is composed of William Ramsey, Hustonville, chairman; Arthur Bowles,mond; Joe Blunschi, Richmond; Henry Lutes, Berea, and Edwin Holder, Vanceburg.

The new regulations provide that only girls in the sophomore and junior classes shall be eligible to the position of band sponsor. They also provide for a field band, which will include all the members, and a concert band, which will be selected by the director from the best musicians to form a well-balanced musical organization. The concert band will give at least one public concert in the Hiram Brock auditorium each semester. An admission charge is to be made to defray the expense of the purchase of sweater awards for band members who have shown unusual proficiency in music and whose records of attendance at rehearsals and public appearances of the band are good.

The rule contains the provision that failure to comply with the regulations shall automatically suspend a student from membership and cause him to forfeit his uniform and privileges as a band member.

COLLECTION OF RARE KY. BOOKS BOUGHT

Townsend Collection of Kentucky Literature and Valuable Manuscripts Placed in Eastern Library

IN KENTUCKY ROOM

Numerous books have been added to the library of Kentucky literature recently at Eastern and the collection of books and manuscripts on Kentucky and by Kentucky authors now assembled in the Kentucky room of the college library is one of the most complete Kentucky libraries in existence. The John Wilson Townsend collection of books and manuscripts, numbering more than five thousand items, was acquired by Eastern this summer from the well-known Lexington author and collector of Kentucky books.

The Townsend collection includes the work of more than four hundred Kentucky writers. It has been pronounced by critics to be second only in importance to the famous collection of Colonel Durett of Louisville, which is now in the library of the University of Chicago. These books are now being catalogued and made accessible to students and the librarian, Miss Mary Floyd, has announced that practically the entire collection will have been catalogued by the opening of the second semester.

These books are not placed in circulation but are used for reference purposes in the Kentucky room in the library. Much valuable and rare material by Kentucky writers is contained in the Townsend collection.

George L. Fowler, Louisville bookseller, who inspected the Townsend collection shortly before it was acquired by the college, declared that the works of James Lane Allen, Irvin S. Cobb, Madison Cawein, John Fox, Jr., Ingram Crockett and Robert Burns Wilson and many other Kentucky authors contained in this collection were unequalled. This is the opinion expressed by many writers and students who have seen the Townsend collection.

The Kentucky room in Eastern's library is a veritable storehouse of Kentucky history and literature and affords unusual opportunities for students who are interested in the literature of the state.

A unique feature of these books collected by Mr. Townsend is that most of them are autographed by the authors and many have autographed letters attached to the fly-leaf.

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By MRS. MARGERY MIX

Dear Mrs. Mix:
I don't know just how to tell you about my problem, but I feel as though I have to have some advice before it's too late. I'm one of those fellows who has to have "his lovin'." I have aspirations of being an all-Southern basketball star, and last year my basketball was largely due to a certain little girl who always sat on the sideline and urged me on to victory.

This year that little girl only smiles at me. She loved me, then left me. Now basketball season approaches, and I fear that my success is doubtful. I just can't get out and fight like I once did. Help me to win her so that I can win for Eastern.

HELPLESS ATHLETE

Dear Helpless Athlete:
I don't know what my advice to you should be, but I think I have your problem solved. Just wait until you play your first game, play with all your might, and you will soon have a whole army of fair maidens. They'll all fall when they hear of your success as all-Southern star. But beware, all that glitters is not gold in this modern world. Be sure that the one you want wants you.

Yours, M. M.

Dear Mrs. Mix:
The mid-term grades were turned in this week, and when I went by the registrar's office to make inquiries about my standing I was very much surprised to find that I had an "F" recorded against me in Math. There is a certain girl in my class who is greatly responsible for this poor grade. I could fall in love with her in a minute. She sits in the back of the room, and I can't get my mind on my Math lesson for looking at her, but if I thought she would ever care for me I know I could devour every problem in that Math book and pass with flying colors. Should I make any advances, or take a chance on getting by in class?

A FRIEND IN NEED

Dear Friend in Need:
Speak now or forever hold your peace. It is better to be turned down completely by this girl than to get another "F" on your Math course and thus lose three hours credit. I don't think you need to worry, though, for most girls like attention, and I'm sure she would be very happy to know just how much you like her. Your professor might even let you move your seat closer to her, and this might be of some aid in making a better grade. A friend,

M. M.
Last week end I thought I was all set for a big date (the first one I'd had this year) but had to face a disappointment after all. "He was all right, but he just didn't come." It seems that there is no justice in this world. Other girls were going out, having a jolly good time, and there I sat dressed in the best I had, wearing a million dollar smile, and trying to look like a sixteen-year-old, waiting for that surprise date, and he never came. That's always my luck. I've heard that if a girl doesn't marry before she is twenty there is little chance for her. I'm afraid I've lost all my chances. Can't you offer me some good advice?

BLUE ME

My dearest Blue Me:
You are probably a happier girl today than you would have been had you met this man, so don't let him worry you. Pick your ideal man and take advantage of these pre-leaf year dances. Ask him to go with you and be sure to show him a good time, then the rest will be easy. Don't worry about being an old maid.

SCANDALETTE

This is real 'low down.' I passed MARGIE MATHERLY'S room the other night and saw a man's overcoat lying there. What could it mean? I wonder if BOB COX snatched his coat while running from NIGHT WATCHMAN LAW-HORN. Most of the boys on the lower floors of MEMORIAL HALL are wondering how the boys of the third floor annex always get A's on their rooms at inspections. CHESTER ROSE says that the third floor boys have a system whereby HERSCHEL MCKINLEY stands as look-out and spies the INSPECTORS coming, then the boys have a general cleanup.

It has been rumored that VIRGIL FRYMAN bribed MR. KEITH to leave RED EASTIN'S room unlocked on the last inspection, so he VIRGIL could stack it. According to JAKE ADAMS, he did. RUTH BINGHAM tells us that WILLIAM MCGIBNEY resembles some sort of an oriental snake doctor when he dances forth to greet the audience in the DOCTOR OF LONESOME FOLK; and MARY KATHERINE BURNS turned the tables on RUTH when she confided that MISS BUCHANAN gave RUTH a 'heap big-gum' reprimanding for slipping away from play practice the other night for a late date.

BESSIE HENRY says MITCHEL DENHAM'S appetite is growing bigger and bigger since she has been carrying his meals to the BAKERY for him. Maybe BESSIE is just sulking for CHRISTINE GANTLEY since CHRISTINE is dating with CLARENCE ELLISON. Speaking of heavy dating, have you noticed BILL WHITE and MARY ALICE LAWRENCE? Wonder what has become of KITTY? ALLINGTON GRACE hinted that BILL realizes that Christmas is near.

FLOYD GAINES says that ROSWELL HARRISON got sore when he was put out of the basketball tournament on personals and didn't show up anymore. I heard GEO. CARROLL say that MR. McDONOUGH had to tell CYRIL FIELDS where to get off at the tournament. And to think, CYRIL is my best boy friend.

JAMES HAROLD HIERONYMUS tells that BERT HOWARD, who is planning to take up law, is making a study of the laws of LEXINGTON, especially those pertaining to parking. BILL MCGIBNEY confided this week that the LEXINGTON LEADER is going to be a much better paper since ALBERT CRUMBAUGH gave MR. WACHES, the editor, many new ideas when the JOURNALISM CLASS visited Lexington last week.

The best thing yet was RABBIT WALDROP'S placing his application for a room in NEW STATELAND when he heard that the HOME EC girls were going to keep practice house there next semester. BILL MELTON says RABBIT wants the job of being JANITOR at NEW STATELAND next term. KENNETH MARSHALL says that at least the girls ought to know how to cook STEAKS better than they are in the cafeteria.

ANNA LAURA FORSYTHE overheard THEODORE KEITH telling about paying the MAYOR of Lexington a visit last week, but it turned out that it wasn't the mayor that he wanted to see; he was looking for the DESK SERGEANT to pay off a parking ticket he received.

CYRIL FIELDS boasted last week that "he had never gotten his name in the Scandalette." BLANCHE WIMBLE said CYRIL felt slighted and knew that was a good way of being listed in the "dope" column. Undoubtedly, KATHERINE BALENGER thinks the hall on third floor BURNAM is a gym. At least MISS ROBERTS thought so when she sent KATHERINE scampering to her room. I've heard of people setting their goal high, but ANNA

MAROONS WIN NET CONTEST

Trounce Former Wildcat Stars by Score of 34 to 22 in Fast Game

CARR CREEKERS BETTER

By JAMES A. MILLER, JR.

It was Carr Creek all the way Friday night as the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College Maroons took the Kentucky Greyhounds, an aggregation of former University of Kentucky stars, into camp by a score of 34 to 22. Four young gentlemen who claim the little community "up Carr" as their home accounted for 31 of Eastern's points.

Zelda Hale, all-S. I. A. A. guard, led the way with five field goals and a foul shot for eleven points; Herman Hale was close behind with four field goals and two fouls for ten points, and "King Ben" Adams sank four from the floor for a total of eight points. Lawrence Hale, another of the brothers, got two foul shots for the other two points. Bill Melton added one point on a foul shot and Ben Hord, substituting for Melton, rang up a field goal.

The Maroons looked good against the all-star aggregation. The Greyhounds boasted on their line-up "Pisgah" Combs, Hays Owens, and "Spooks" Milward, of last year's University of Kentucky team; Gayle Mohney, former U. of K. star and know well-known football and basketball official; Len Miller, former Kentucky frosh satellite, and a young fellow who said his name was McGregor, or some other good Scotch cognomen.

Two particular plays stood out in the evening's entertainment. In one of them Herman Hale furnished the fireworks as he sank a one-hand wrist shot from the corner while completely surrounded by guards. A few minutes later Milward pulled the spectacular by jumping high into the air, turning as he leaped, and sinking a one-hand shot from the side.

Ben Adams broke the ice last night by looping in a long one, a short time after the opening whistle blew. Miller held Herman and he hit. Miller fouled Lawrence and he made it good. Owens sank a long field goal to make the first point for the Greyhounds, but Zelda countered with a medium distance shot. Combs fouled Lawrence and he again made it good, but Milward rang up a field goal to make the score Eastern 7, Greyhounds 4 as the first quarter ended.

Owens fouled Melton and he made it good. Melton fouled Milward and he missed one and hit one. Herman made a long goal from field. Zelda sank a long one and Milward again broke into the scoring column as the half ended with the score Eastern 15, Greyhounds 7.

Lawrence Hale fouled Owens and he made it good. Gayle Mohney fouled Ben Adams and then Herman, but neither of them converted. Ben sank a field goal and Owens fouled Zelda and he hit it. Adams sank a jump one and Herman made his spectacular shot as the third quarter ended with the Maroons leading 24 to 8.

Zelda opened the last quarter scoring with a long one and then Milward pulled his unique shot from the corner. Owens hit his stride and hooked two through the hoops before Eastern countered with a follow-up goal, Ben Hord heaving the leather. Herman broke in for a crisp and Jackson fouled Owens, who hit the second of two tried. Milward made good a gratis toss when Zelda fouled him, but Zelda came back with a field goal. Owens made good a technical when Howard, substituting for Jackson, talked. Zelda hit another field goal and Owens made a foul. Len Miller broke through for his first shot of the evening and made it good for two points and Combs made the final score of the game a few seconds before it ended.

The Maroons chalked up 14 field goals and made six of eleven foul shots. The Greyhounds made eight field goals and made good six of nine free tosses. Eastern committed nine personals and the Greyhounds bobbled 12 times.

LAURA FORSYTHE breaks the record. She says MR. RICHARDS is going to be her new BEAU. Wonder if he knows it yet. Speaking of beaux, EVADEAN SQUIRES asked MARIE ARMSTRONG if ZACK RICE ever attempted to get sentimental. Innocently, MARIE replied she couldn't remember. What poor memories some girls have. Why, if I could only thrill in ZACK'S arms, I'd never remember anything else.

What sort of a spell has this MEECE girl over LITTLE BILL RICHARDS? He almost swore last week that he'd never go with another girl. He may think so now, but I've determined to try him after Xmas. And that reminds me —I'm going to be a little easy on you this week. SANTA CLAUS may be watching me, or might get hold of one of these papers. Have your little fling during Xmas for I won't be watching you, but look out next year. Wishing you all a MERRY XMAS. Don't forget to turn over plenty of new LEAVES on NEW YEAR'S DAY. See you next year.
