VOCATIONAL CONFERENCE GIVES STUDENTS CHANCE TO HEAR BEST OF BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WORLD

Up-to-date vocational information for the men and women students of Eastern will be provided at the Vocational Information Conference to be held on campus April 7, 8, 9, 10, in the Student Union Building. The conference will feature speakers from all professions relative to the studies provided at Eastern.

There will be a series of general surveys of the vocational areas and time will be provided for questions and discussion. These meetings are planned to give detailed information on specific careers and are especially for students already preparing for this kind of work or seriously considering it.

Most of the meetings will be held in the Student Union Building, however, dormitory lounges may be used to supplement these meeting rooms. The meetings will last approximately an hour. In sections where there are more than one speaker the meetings will be longer, as each speaker will have one half hour to talk and answer questions.

Students will be excused from their classes to attend the meetings. Those who do not have class immediately following the discussion may remain longer for further information. Personal conferences with the consultants may be arranged if time permits.

All consultants are the guests of the organizations sponsoring the conference while on the campus. Provisions will be made for housing in the dormitory guest rooms, and meals will be provided in the college cafeteria. There will be a student chairman, student discussion leader, secretaries, and student ushers.

Freshmen and sophomores are especially encouraged to take full advantage of the opportunities at the conference will be:

Some of the speakers featured at the conference will be: Dr. W. H. Spragens, Associate Professor of Mathematics at the University of Louisville, will speak on Mathematics and Engineering in Room 201, S. U. B., Tuesday, April 7, at 10:10 A. M. Dr. Spragens received his A. B. and M. S. from the University of Kentucky, and his Ph. D. at the University of Cincinnati.

Speaking on The Church and Related Vocations is the Reverend William H. Poore, Reverend Poore

Highlighting the week of the vocational conference, Mrs. James D. Wyker, D.D. will speak at the Wednesday morning assembly in Brock Auditorium, April 8.

Mrs. Wyker is an ordained minister from Mount Vernon, Ohio. She was born and reared in Richmond and is a sister to Mrs. Baldwin, a member of Eastern's English Department.

Mrs. Wyker was the first woman to receive an honor degree from Transylvania College. She was selected in 1956 by the Washington Pilgrimage of Churchmen as Churchmen of the Year. The Christian Century also chose Mrs. Wyker as one of the six Protestant Church women exerting the greatest influence in American Church Life today. She is the immediate past president of the United Church Women of America and the author of a book entitled "Church Women in the Scheme of Things."

is minister of the Park Methodist Church, Lexington, Kentucky, and president of the Lexington Council of Churches. He has had training at Centre College, Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, and Kentucky Wesleyan College. Reverend Poore will speak in the Recreation Room, Burnam Hall, Tuesday, April 7.

Mr. Robert Frank Cayton, graduate of Eastern and now employed at the University of Cincinnati Library, will speak on Library Work in Room 202, S. U. B., at 2:10 P. M., Tuesday, April 7. He formerly was with the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Ralph Carlisle, who is the Athletic Director and basketball coach at Lafayette High School in Lexington, will speak on Coaching in the Assembly Room of Burnam Hall, 2:10 P. M., April 8. Mr. Carlisle played basketball at the University of Kentucky for three years, and was formerly employed at Madison High School.

Martha G. Barcla will speak about Medical Services at 10:10 A. M. in the Blue Room of the cafeteria, Friday, April 10. Miss Barcla is a graduate of Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, and is now employed as Assistant Medical Record Librarian at the U. S. PHS Hospital in Lexington.

Medicine and Dentistry will be presented by Dr. Robert Straus in the Blue Room at 2:10, Tuesday, April 7. Dr. Straus is Chairman of the Department of Behavioral Science and of the Committee on Medical College Admissions. He has been employed at Yale University and the State University of New York.

Mrs. Agnes Tomichuk, LCDR, Navy Nurse Corps, will speak on Women in the Armed Services. She is the Navy Nurse Procure-

Behind the Podium

A Swan Song

Two weeks ago the Regional Speech Festival was held on Eastern's campus. The contestants for the events are considered to be the most capable and the most promising students from their respective schools.

Needless to say, these people want to make a good impression. To accomplish this, they make more than adequate preparation, and they wear their Sunday best.

The events are held in the Student Union Building. This is as it should be. The Student Union Building is Eastern's showplace, and, as such, could help to draw these high-caliber students to our campus.

I walked from the Little Theater to the Faculty Lounge on the first day of the festival and was horrified to see people sitting on the floor and spilling over onto the steps leading down to Walnut Hall. These people, who should be welcomed and even pampered, had been told in no uncertain terms not to sit in Walnut Hall, a sanctum sanctorum with time-worn furnishings.

Going past the phone booth, I hesitated. I wanted to call President O'Donnell and ask him to allow these people to sit in Walnut Hall. I am sorry now that I did not call him. I am certain that he would have listened to my plea.

The Walnut Hall situation and others comparable to it have discouraged well-meaning staff members from taking part in the social side on Eastern's campus. In having to deal with these situations in order to better the social side, the staff members become a bit tired of sticking out their necks and "making like a rug" that Eastern might grow in something other than number of students.

HELLO - MEMORIAL HALL

The Spice of Life

While sitting in the grill, we overheard two "cats" (one a music major) discussing Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The following is probably how these characters would have worded the Address. (For our intellectual readers—all three of them—we recommend "Complex of the Week" near the bottom of the column.)

"Fourscore and seven years ago this set of cool cats hatched on this continent a swinging nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all cats are hep when the action starts.

As the clock ticks we hipsters are engaged in this walkin' rumble, to see whether or not this swingin' nation or any other cool group it can long stomach. Man, like it just seems like the right jive to play.

But, in a larger sense, we can't cut this cake—we can't swallow it—we just don't dig—this ground. The beat guys, breathing and otherwise, who took part in this natural ball, have consecrated it already, like, cats, we can't wear their fruit boots. The world will little note nor long remember the breeze shot here today, but this real gone bug will always be cat talk. It is for us frantic breathers rather, to be in charge of all the crazy big deals that haven't yet come off, which these nowhere dads have thus far so jazzily dug. It is rather for us bunch of crazy mixed-up boppers to be here resolved to the groovy action that lies ahead—that from these cool stiffs that we make up our beat minds that these noble cats ain't croaked for fun along—that this swingin' nation, under Big Daddy, shall take off on a new beat—and that government of the hep, by the hep, for the hep, shall set up permanent residence in Mother Nature's pad already.

Hello again already. Seven years ago (plus a couple scores) our daddies brought forth on this globe of land a whole new bit. This mild new was conceived on the real gone vector that cats are created cool, and there wasn't a square among them that didn't pick up on the new sounds.

But here's the kick. Now these swingin' cats are engaged in a great big rumble trying to prove that the whole mess really isn't so wild after all. Like, now we are going to dedicate a portion of that rumble-field as a final resting place, cause these slobbs need some sleep—like—they're all dead. The slobbs took a one way trip to never-never land. Yea, yea, pretty baby, these slobbs are dead, but they died so that you and I might live to wave our ping pong paddles for many years. Say, it's real proper to wheel and deal and do this. But in a larger sense, we can't pull all this jazz cause these slobbs have sung the blues in a way that we just can't do. I guess you're nowhere if you haven't got a sax in the background. Of course, the clods on mother earth aren't going to be listening to this platter in a couple of years. But the clods that died had the jive that'll be number one on anybody's hit parade. Crazzee. But we have to keep making with the music that the un-alive ones have started. Still with me dad? The groove is: our organized chaos (the nation man, the nation) is going to kick the habit and make with sounds on, and on, and on.....

Ed. Note: Everyone commemorates Lincoln in his own way.) Knarr and McGrath's Complex of the Week Seymour Movie, Eastern sophomore, came up with one of the strangest complexes in recent years. Seymour is suffering from a "complex instructor complex." Seymour's instructors are so far over his head that he is becoming intensely frustrated. The poor lad is even beginning to develop an inferiority complex. Don't ask us what it's called when an individual with an inferiority complex is really inferior.

In all fairness to Seymour, it must be said that he does have some degree of intellectual curiosity. He once looked a word up in the dictionary. Too bad he couldn't find it.

In closing we must say that there is no known cure for actual inferiority. We suggest a change to an easier major, however, Seymour is now majoring in physical education.

The name "Seymour Movies" is fictitious. The name has been changed to protect Jim Williams.

CHOAS

By Mike McGrath
 "The shortest distance between two points, at Eastern, is usually muddy."—Alfred E. Neuman, 1950
 Contrary to popular belief, Hollywood is not going to make a movie out of H. G. Wells' book, "Outline of History." The director didn't like the ending. I just had my ears glued to the radio listening to the basketball tourney in Lexington. (If I keep them glued to the radio, I'll always know where they are.) Well, anyway, Bad Breathitt County beat Halitosis High School by 7 points and 3 Rice Krispies. Doc Snowden is really hep on psychology. I hear he eats nothing but Southern Freud Chicken. Anybody remember King Kong? He is now working for a peanut vendor in Houston, Texas.
 Many people have been asking what the purpose of this column is. So has the editor. So has my

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Eastern Progress:
 I would like to use your paper as a means of getting a request before our student body.

This past year we had a total of 128 enrolled in Student Teaching during the first semester. For this present semester we have 170. If we could have a better balance between the two semesters, it would make it possible for the Student Teacher to be more selective in his assignment. This year is not unusual in this lack of balance between the two semesters. It seems that a great number of students put this off until the last semester when they could have done it either semester.

I would like to urge all students who are planning to do their Student Teaching either semester of the school year 1959-60 to get their application in this spring. This would enable us to project our needs for the entire school year.

It would be appreciated if you will make this information available to the students through your paper.

Sincerely yours,
 J. D. COATES, Director
 Laboratory Schools

 Resolved:

1. Smoking differs only in degree rather than kind from drinking, dope addiction, and various forms of vice such as prostitution, the numbers rackets, and so on.
2. Cigarette manufacturers are most anxious to have each new generation of children grow up without being able to remember a time when cigarettes were not more or less universally used and advertised in and about their own homes, in newspapers, in magazines, and on radio and television.
3. Future teachers with a real potential for leadership in the careers which will affect many lives (and into the third and fourth generation) will recognize the insidious aspect of carrying cigarette advertisements in such a key spot as the college newspaper in a teachers college.
4. Future teachers of such leadership potential will endeavor to deter the editorial staff (assuming that they lack such qualities) from accepting paid advertising from such sources.

WILLIE PARKHURT

IT GIVES ME FEVER

Calendar-wise, Winter is over; weather-wise, we're not so sure; but, campus-wide, it seems that Spring Fever is here.

This is evidenced by the fact that we no longer stick to the sidewalks to avoid mud and slush, but instead, take off across the grass. Spring Fever has made us too lazy to take the long way around.

Students are lounging (as usual) but now they lounge in all the open places where it was too cold to lounge all winter. Spring Fever has made us unconscious to the ever-watchful eyes of visitors to our campus.

Class absences, which should be fewer since it's easier to get to classes across the lawns, have increased. Spring Fever makes it nicer to be in a car than in a classroom.

Studies are piling up; unsatisfactoriness have been given out; only seven more weeks of school; but, Spring Fever lulls us into an "I'll-do-it-tomorrow" mood.

The Fever has even entered the minds of some. It has affected them to the point that they think and act as "bunny-hops" again.

In the Grille, there is no big difference between Spring Fever and Winter Weariness. Trash is still on the floor where lack of energy made the trip to the trash can too far; and cokes lie spilt when a sudden urge sent all dashing to the door. (classtime).

Spring Fever is our excuse now, just as Winter Weariness was in the months just past; but I ask you, "Isn't it more HABIT?"

MONUMENT?

When any college goes through a period of expansion, such as Eastern has experienced in recent years, it has various problems in making adjustments to the changes brought about by that expansion.

One of these problems centers around the use of the Student Union. For several years the Student Union has been divided into two sections. One section is for students and visitors to use and enjoy. The other section is for nobody. Of course, the former is the grille and the cafeteria, and the latter is Walnut Hall.

Walnut Hall is an important part of the Student Union. A student union is generally regarded as a place for the students to meet and enjoy themselves. It is also a place for entertaining visitors. If this is the case, why is Walnut Hall not open to the students?

An answer that is consistently forthcoming is that Eastern needs an impressive place to show its visitors. This answer is no longer very substantial with two new men's dormitories and a new music building available.

Another answer for Walnut Hall not being open to the students is that Eastern's visitors need a place to sit and relax. This sounds fine, but it is not practiced. Recently, a group of outstanding high school students were guests of Eastern. Were they allowed to relax in Walnut Hall? No! Instead they were told to stay out of Walnut Hall, and, as a result, some of the top high schoolers in the state were forced to sit on the floor. This kind of public relations will cost Eastern not only in prestige, but also in good students.

Everything that has been said leads back to the initial question. Should Walnut Hall be opened to students? The answer is a very firm YES. If not, then possibly it should have done to it what was done to Snow White by the Seven Dwarfs. Seal it in glass in order to keep it away from the touch of human hands forever, and there it will stand, a monument of nothing, by nothing, and for nothing.

KAPPAS FOR COVER GIRL

Eastern's candidate in The Courier-Journal Cover Girl Contest is Mary Kappas, a twenty-one-year-old junior from Covington, Kentucky. She is majoring in physical education and art. Mary plans to teach these after graduation. She has been cheerleader the past three years. In 1956, she was Homecoming Queen; and in 1958, Miss Kentucky Derby Princess, R. O. T. C. Sponsor, and second runnerup in Miss Kentucky Contest. In May, she will represent Eastern in the annual Mountain Laurel Festival, being chosen Miss Eastern of 1959. Mary is a brown-eyed brunette, 5 feet 6 1/2 inches tall, and weighs 130.

The purpose of the contest is to select the most beautiful and most photogenic girl. The cover girl will be selected through use of a ballot appearing in the Courier-Journal Magazine, so clip that ballot and send it in. The girl and her school will receive a framed, suitable inscribed reproduction of the photograph.

Twenty-four senior colleges and universities in Kentucky and Southern Indiana are participating in the contest, which ends May 31. Candidates are from the University of Kentucky, University of Louisville, Indiana University, Morehead State College, Ashbury, Berea, Bowling Green College, Nazareth, Pikeville, Transylvania, Union, Ursuline, Villa Madonna, Franklin, Hanover, Evansville, Western, and Eastern.

The Opposite Sex . . .

Happy Anniversary! A year ago this column started, and since then it has tried to be of help to the women of Eastern.

Originally the Opposite Sex was to cover an entire page opposite the sports page. It was to cover women's news on campus such as engagements, weddings, reports of the twelve women's organizations, and reports of fashion trends.

The Opposite Sex is now only a column because the students have not been cooperative in turning in news, and there has been much criticism. Ever since the beginning, it has been condemned for its purpose. One boy even said that this page should be bordered in lace to give it a more feminine effect. Why shouldn't the women of Eastern be entitled to a page the same as the men?

Since the beginning a year ago, the Opposite Sex has had many different writers who have put forth their utmost efforts in writing it. The writers have been Nancy Scott Brown, Carol Benton, Masil Allen, Darlene Johnson Garvett, and Betty Byrnside.

The models who have posed for pictures of this column have been Elaine Ragland, Carol Loudon, Regina Dick, and Lola Skeens.

These nine persons have tried to make we students more aware of the fashion trends and society news of our campus.

As the spring season comes, the age-old question of what to wear to special functions on campus arises. For the Vocational Conference, it has been suggested that we wear fairly dressy school clothes which may include wool suits or nice looking skirts and sweaters. Flats and stockings will be necessary. Please, girls, no shoes and socks.

Since we have more teas and banquets during the Spring, we should wear semi-formal dresses which may include taffetas; flow-ered silks, which are very popular this spring; or dressy cottons. Gloves are always worn to these functions. Wear gloves that are about twelve inches in length but never formal length gloves. It is also improper to wear a hat after six o'clock.

For plays produced by the Little Theater Club one should wear the type of dress she would wear to church. Heels and gloves are proper accessories. The ushers should wear formals and the proper accessories. On Eastern's campus for productions of this type and concerts, it is the custom to dress somewhat as one would for a New York theater production.

When in doubt on what to wear to a social function, wear the plainer dress. It is always by far to be underdressed than overdressed.

Attention: Students who are planning to be married this summer, would you like for your engagement to appear in the Progress so you may invite friends on campus to attend? If so, turn in the couple's names, date, time, church, and town to the Progress office or Betty Byrnside before April 24.

KIMMEL'S KALEIDOSCOPE

Have you ever read any of those sly little propaganda folders that go sneaking around campus from time to time? Chances are your first encounter with this trash was also your last. Actually these little bundles of enlightenment can be very interesting besides reducing you to a state of babbling incoherency. For instance, did you know that in 1926, Maximilian Haganahagin ate 13 consecutive meals in the cafeteria with no ill effects, except of course, malnutrition. Another thing that may be hard to believe is the fact that the college was founded six months before Specks was opened, and how they got along nobody seems to know.

Really though, if you have a tendency to notice things like architecture—which is doubtful—you will find it described with glowing terms in any of these informative little booklets. If you think the buildings look more like an archaeologist's unearthings than Georgian Revival, it is probably not your imagination. This seems to be what most people think.

There is one particular publication that frequently produces uproarious laughter when it is read, which is seldom. This helpful little handbook tells in great detail all about our comfortable, convenient and beautifully-furnished rooms. Really this is nothing to joke about, though I guess it is just a rumor that the students at Morehead live in trees and swing to and from classes on vines. Maybe they just want to impress upon us that they are swingin' cats and don't dig anything square like our "spacious" rooms. But after all, our rooms only faintly resemble a prison cell, and it must be better than living in a tree. Another thing this same publication is careful to point out is the many outstanding features and functions of our fine Student Union Building. This friendly atmosphere of Walnut Hall and the speedy, cheerful service in the grill are just a few of the attractions noted. So pay it no mind if you have to cut classes in order to get a cup of the Delicious grill coffee and a Fresh doughnut. The next time you steal through Walnut Hall, don't think that you hear the roar of a big cat. It is probably just a little old kitty with plenty of volume. Pay no attention to these minor details, just refer to this trusty pamphlet which proves things aren't always what they seem. Still another thing that is pointed out is the cordial invitation to male students to make full use of the lobby of Burnam for night studying and socializing. If one of those sweet little old ladies (house-mother is the misnomer they go by) asks you to lower the volume of your breathing, you have a ready reply. Just inform her that she is in danger of ruining the air of congeniality which is clearly emphasized in these books. The primary use of these booklets seems to be for luring unsuspecting high-school graduates to Richmond. The book's passages somehow seem to be describing some sort of modern Promised Land, where all will be delivered from the horrors of illiteracy, and are often irresistible to prospective freshmen. The college must grow and who are we to stand in the way of Progress. (You'll also be in the middle of a ping pong game that it is your Easternotic (not to be confused with idiotic) duty to pass these little gems around back home so that more college candidates may learn of the luxurious accommodations afforded at Eastern and even more humane will clutter us the place in the near, cheery future.

I. A. Students On Field Trip

The Industrial Arts Department at Eastern Kentucky State College took their annual Field Trip on Wednesday, March 25, it was announced by Ralph W. Whalin, sponsor and head of the department.

Reward Offer

Thieves entered the Music Building on Eastern Kentucky State College's campus the evening of March 19, 1959, and relieved the College of more than $2,000.00 worth of equipment, much of which was relatively new. Equipment missing included two electric typewriters, a calculator, an adding machine, and dictating equipment.

A $300.00 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves. Persons having information leading to the identity of these thieves should contact the State Police, Chief Carl T. Newland of the Richmond City Police Department, or G. M. Brock, Business Agent of the college.

THIN CLADS CARD 9 MEETS

Coach Fred Darling, with a career record of 42 wins, 4 losses and 2 ties, will send his Eastern Kentucky track squad up against nine opponents in dual competition this spring, it was announced by Charles T. Hughes, Director of Athletics.

Dr. Darling, Eastern's football line coach and associate professor of physical education, has served as track coach since 1949, and his record as coach of the Maroon thinclads is an enviable one. The inaugurator of night track meets at Eastern, Darling annually fields strong teams.

The Maroons, who compiled a 6-1 mark last season and finished second in the Ohio Valley Conference Meet behind Murray, open with Georgetown at Richmond's Hanger Stadium on April 8th. Other dual meets include Berea, while the cindermen meet East Tennessee, Morehead, Union, Georgetown, and Kentucky on the road. The conference meet is scheduled for May 15 and 16 at Murray.

The Maroon's lone loss last season came at the hands of Berea by a 67-64 count, Berea's margin of victory coming from the javelin throw, an event that Eastern does not participate in.

The schedule:

April
8—Georgetown	Home
11—East Tennessee	Away
14—Berea	Home
24—Morehead	Away
28—Union	Away
30—Georgetown	Away
May
5—Tennessee Tech	Home
9—Kentucky	Away
12—Morehead	Home
15—OVC Meet	Murray

Eastern Host To Professors

The Kentucky Conference of the American Association of University Professors will hold a meeting on Eastern's campus Saturday, April 4, attended by approximately fifty university and college professors who will represent each college and university in Kentucky.

Dr. W. E. Blackburn, head of the chemistry department at Murray State College, will preside at a luncheon to be held in the school cafeteria. President of Transylvania will deliver an address on some aspects of the relationship of AAUP to the college community.

The afternoon session will include detailed reports on individual chapter activities and a general business session.

Why doesn't Eastern have required assemblies? Then there would be no grumblings when the library and the grill close, and the campus cop blocks off the street exits every Wednesday at ten.

During Vocational Conference, April 7-10, the 8 parking spaces immediately to the front and right of the S. U. B. (as you face it) will be reserved for the speakers of the conference. The reserved area will be designated and we will more than appreciate your cooperation in extending this act of courtesy to our visiting speakers. Thank you. — Kappa Iota Epsilon.

Methodist Movement Meeting Here

The Kentucky Methodist Student Movement will hold their annual spring conference in Richmond, April 3-5, as the guests of the Wesley Foundation and the First Methodist Church. The platform speaker will be Dr. D. D. Holt, member of the General Conference Commission on Higher Education. Other outstanding speakers will include Mrs. Orville Gross, Dr. and Mrs. Joe Brown Love, Kent State University, Ohio; Miss Grace Thatcher, Methodist Deaconess just back from a trip around the world; Mr. John Landrum, Sue Bennett College; Mr. Lewis Ricketts, Western Kentucky State College, and Rev. Albert Sweazy, First Methodist Church, Richmond.

Students from colleges all over Kentucky will participate in the worship services, devotionals, recreation, business meetings, workshops, and the banquet during the three day conference. Registration begins at 6:30 p. m., April 3.

Much work has gone into the preparation for this conference. Arrangements have been made by Mrs. Morris Swofford and Mr. Edsel Mountz, Wesley Foundation sponsors; Rev. Albert Sweazy, pastor; and Betty Thomson, local president.

Enrollment Down This Semester

It was announced this week by college officials that there are 2,784 students enrolled for the spring semester, 1958-59 school year, at Eastern Kentucky State College.

A total of eighty-six Kentucky counties account for all but 112 of the total number while the remainder of the enrollment comes from seventeen other states and Guam.

Of the total, 1,551 are men students while 1,233 are women.

Madison County boasts the highest enrollment of 336 students. Jefferson County is second with 138 and Harlan County has 120.

Maroon Corner . . .

by Larry Knarr

Now that spring is here, a lull has been reached on the campus as the basketball season has ended and the spring sport season lies just around the corner. During this annual lull that comes between basketball and spring sports, there are many things that arise to capture the imagination of campus sports enthusiasts. Right now most of the conversation is running along the lines of the state tournament, the NCAA tournament, and the coming major league baseball season.

Of course, not a whole lot of people thought that North Marshall would walk away with the schoolboy crown this year. Not many people thought Cal would win the NCAA tourney either, but they did it. Personally, I was hoping Sacramento would win the KHSAA tournament mainly because I drew them in a pool. And I guess everyone knows who I favored in the NCAA. As usual, I'll be rooting for the Reds when baseball season rolls around, but the Reds are a team you just don't pick to win the pennant. (I've picked them to win it the past five years in a row, and I've been wrong every time.)

Back to the state tournament, North Marshall won the fancy of the fans early in the tournament and they won for two reasons: they wanted to win, and the fans wanted them to win. These two things coupled with a very favorable break in the drawings enabled the small, scrappy team from the first region to prove themselves the best high school team in the state. How strong is 38 wins out of 39 games?

Louisville Manual and Dunbar fought it out among themselves in the semi-finals while North Marshall was disposing of a tough Olive Hill quintet. However, Manual played a much better game against North Marshall than they did against Dunbar. Dunbar was positively terrible against the Crimson, and Manual was only a shade better. Manual played three times as good in the evening as they did in the afternoon. Still it was not good enough to beat the Jets who would just not be denied. They were terrific.

Outstanding player in the tournament in the eyes of many was Tom Thacker of Covington Grant. The 6-2 Thacker scored 72 points in two games and was probably the most versatile player in the tournament. Not only did he score a lot of points, but he had many assists, rebounds, and steals. He also was tremendous on defense, blocking five of 6-7 Pikeville star Emil Dixon's shots.

In the NCAA, red-hot Louisville was hurt by a week layoff during which they cooled off. West Virginia and Cincinnati stomped the Cardinals by fifteen points each. California, showing a wondrous defense, came out of nowhere to win one of the whackiest NCAA tournaments in history.

Returning to major league baseball, it looks like the Pirates will be the team to meet the Yankees in the World Series in 1959. The great strength of Pittsburgh lies in their pitching, which is the best in the league. Friend, Kline, Law, Witt, Raydon, and Haddix make up the front-line hurlers while Gross, Face, and Daniels comprise the toughest bullpen in the majors.

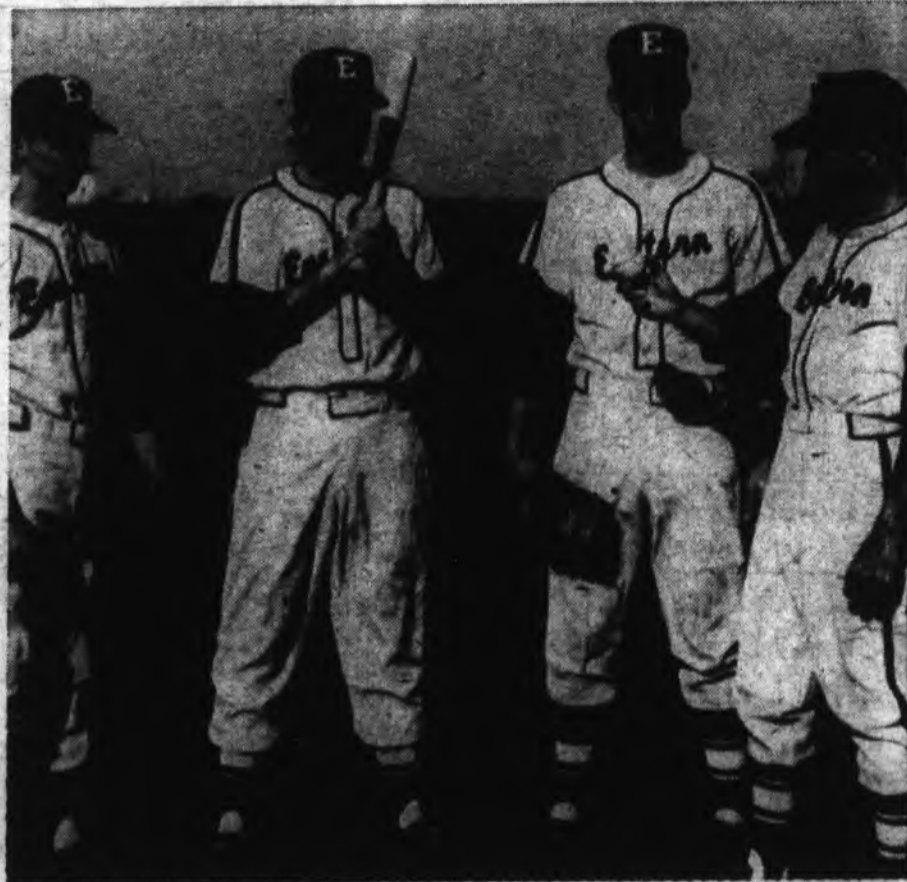

The Pirates with Kluszewski, Mazerowski, Hoak, and Groat, have a very strong infield. Clements, Skinner, and Virdon are a trio of banjo hitters that will kill you. Smoky Burgess' hitting and Hank Foiles fielding speak much for the Bucs' strength behind the plate. It looks like to me they—and not Milwaukee—are the team to beat in the National League.

The Braves will be tough, as usual, but they'll be up against many psychological factors as well as a fatal inability to win against Pittsburgh. The Pirates always have been able to fare well against the Braves.

The Reds and Giants will probably fight it out for third and fourth place, but both teams need a little more pitching to be classed as serious contenders. The addition of Frank Thomas and a comeback by Don Newcombe will make the Reds first division material and the young Giants should make it on power alone. They have many good, young ballplayers, but the sophomore jinx will undoubtedly hit some of them.

The second division will be led by the new-look Dodgers, West Coast edition. The Dodgers are youthful—too youthful, but they'll be back in business before long. Ernie Banks' Club will be strong enough to beat out the Cardinals and the Phillies, although a good year by Musial might bring the Cards up. The Phils seem to be a unanimous choice for eighth place.

The Yankees will undoubtedly march away with their fifth consecutive pennant. Cleveland will probably lead the seven team second division followed by Detroit, Boston, Chicago, Baltimore, Kansas City, and Washington.

Maroons Beat Whites, 30-0

Richard Layman Scores Twice

Richard Layman, junior half-back from Ashland, scored twice Tuesday night to lead the Maroons to a 30-0 win over the Whites in the annual Maroon and White intra-squad game which brought to an end spring football practice at Eastern Kentucky.

The slightly-built speedster scored first with just two and a half minutes elapsed in the game when he raced over from the six, after he had sped 20 and 54 yards, respectively, to set up the score. The Eastern ace punched over tackle for the two point conversion to give the Maroons an 8-0 lead.

Tony Lanham, Corbin sophomore, threw the first of his two touchdown passes with 2:07 remaining in the second period when Orville Howard, senior end from Pineville, pulled in a 38 yard aerial to score. Lanham then passed to Layman for the two pointer to give the Maroons a 16-0 lead at the halftime intermission.

The White team, on a series of passes from Elvin Brinegar, Irvine freshman quarterback, made their deepest penetration when they advanced to the 10 yard marker of the Maroons before time ran out.

Early in the third period, Layman, on a punt return, raced 90 yards to ice the game for the Maroons. Lanham then tossed to Dickie Miers for the extra point to put the Maroons ahead 24-0.

The White team could get no further than midfield while the Maroons added an insurance marker when Lanham threw 15 yards to Scheller for the final score. Lanham's pass for the attempted two pointer was incomplete.

The Maroon team rushed for 113 yards while gaining 87 in the air for a total offense of 200 yards. The White team netted 79 on the ground and 61 in the air for a total offense of 140 yards.

DSF Presents Transy Choir

The Transylvania College a Cappella Choir will present a concert at the First Christian Church at 7:30 p. m., Sunday, April 12, it was announced by the Rev. F. N. Tindler, church pastor. The concert is being sponsored by the Disciples Student Fellowship of Eastern State College campus and First Christian Church.

The public is invited to attend the concert. It will be the first appearance of the 48-voice choir from Lexington, Ky., since its annual spring tour.

The program to be presented here is divided into three parts, all centering around the life of Christ. Part I deals with the advent and nativity, Part II tells the Passion Story and Part III offers reflections on the promise of redemption through Christ.

Band On 'Band-Wagon'

A seventy-piece band led by Mr. Nicholas Koenigstein went on tour to several Kentucky high schools April 1 and 2.

Mr. Koenigstein says that they played to a total of 3,500 people in the two-day tour, which included Clark County High, Winchester High, Bourbon County High, Paris High School, Maysville High, Harrison County High, and Georgetown High School.

This was the second annual tour of the band. The purpose of the tour was to exhibit the skill of Eastern's Band and to arouse high school students' interest in attending Eastern.

The band played a wide variety of types of music—marches, overtures, and original compositions—many of which were used in the concert the band gave in March. One of the selections, "The March of the Steel Men", features four trumpets and a group of trombones. The Brass Choir also played several numbers.

The band will present another concert in the auditorium on May 7.

Symphony Concert
The Eastern Symphony Orchestra will present a concert April 8 in Brock Auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

The forty-five piece orchestra, the largest since its organization, has added three cellos, three double basses, two violas, and three violins.

Beethoven's "Prometheus Overture" is one feature of the concert's predominately traditional program. Two movements from "Hyden Symphony 97 in C" and "Slow Air" in memoriam of its composer Ralph Vaughan-Williams recent death are also scheduled. "Dance Rhythms" by Wallingford Riegger will add a contemporary note.

In the two movements from Vividie's "Concerto Grosso", Ross Sticker and Susan Hammer are violin soloists.

Gibson Portrait Unveiled

The portrait of Miss Maud Gibson, retired art teacher, has just been placed in the Hall of the Arts Building, where it can be viewed by all who pass that way. This likeness was painted by Clint Whitesel, an artist, of Richmond, and was presented by Dr. Fred P. Giles, head of the Art Department.

Miss Gibson came to Eastern in its infancy, and devoted her life to sharing her knowledge and skill with the myriads of students who have passed through her classes during her more than forty years on the campus.

Mr. Whitesel has succeeded in catching the personality of Miss Gibson in this portrait, and her hundreds of friends and former students will thoroughly enjoy an examination of this fine picture. The picture has caught Miss Gibson in the prime of her life, which will be well remembered by all who knew her by her radiant personality and resplendent geniality, which were outstanding traits of this former teacher.

Although Miss Gibson retired from active teaching, she still resides on the campus and is constantly interested in the welfare of Eastern and its students. Finding time on her hands, after such an active life, she still paints and writes and visits with old grads

Campaign Now For Council

Would you like to be an officer of the Student Council? If so, prepare yourself; for election time is nigh! It is hoped, by the election committee, that each student will consider it his duty to nominate and elect qualified and capable people to govern the Council.

As most of you know, nominations are made in the form of a petition supported by at least fifty names and certifying the eligibility of the candidate named. Petitions will be started on April 20th and turned in to Student Council Officers by April 24th.

The primary election will be held to select candidates during the week beginning April 27, and the general election will begin on May 4.

Any person nominated must have, at least, a one point standing to be qualified. The president and vice-president must be, at least, second-semester sophomores and the secretary and treasurer must, at least, be sophomores at the time they take office. All term offices are for one year and no officer shall succeed himself.

Any officer of the Student Council will accept nominations and will answer questions concerning the elections. The officers are: President, John Ratliff; Vice-President, Glenn Fields; Secretary, Scottie Brown, and Treasurer, Leroy Carter. All the qualifications must be met or the nominee will be disqualified without notice.

Take seriously the job of electing officers to the council to represent you, and vote for the person who can and will do his best to serve you. Remember that the most popular student is not necessarily the most capable.

Dance for a Dinner

The Kyma Club presents its first "Spring Invasion Ball", Friday, April 10, 1959. The dance will take place in Walnut Hall of the Student Union Building, during the hours of 8:00-12:00 p. m. The attire will be of the "semi-formal" fashion and "no flowers" will be necessary.

Not only is the purpose of this dance for the acknowledgement of the beginning of spring but there will also be "April Showers" in the form of valuable prizes. Listed below are some of those "April Shower" prizes:

- 1—Sirloin Steak Dinners—Courtesy of Specks.
- 4—Chicken Dinners—Courtesy of Sweet Shoppe.
- 2—Dinners of "your choice"—Courtesy of Luigi's.
- 1—8x10" Personal Portrait—Courtesy of Stanifer's Studio.
- 6—Free theater tickets—Courtesy of Madison Theater.
- 1—$5.00 Certificate—Courtesy of Cornett's Pharmacy.

And many other dinners, certificates, portraits and prizes of interest to you the "winners".

"But how can I win?," you say. Just buy a ticket to the dance from one of the Kyma members or pledges. This ticket may win you one of the above prizes.

Tickets are now on sale, hurry and get your lucky number!

Music will be furnished by a combo known as the "Playboys", a new and exciting group we are sure you will enjoy hearing.

Don't forget to come, your ticket is surely a winner! How much is the admission for all this music, dancing, and prize winning? Only 75c per person! Run and get yours now!
