During the war, people were encouraged to save their money instead of spending it on things which they didn't need. They were told both by the government and the industrial corporations that, as long as the war lasted, it was necessary to build planes, tanks and other implements of war; but when the mess was ironed out, they could expect to have all of the new cars, nylons, washing machines and steel baby buggies they wanted.

No one said when.

It is generally conceded that the war is over, but where are the promised luxuries of the postwar world?

New cars are being made, but few of them are getting to the dealers that one may only dream of a beautiful post-war world where one may buy instead of just looking. Everybody knows nylons are nearly impossible to get even if they are made from coal, air, water and limestone.

The truth is that it will be some time before one can expect to get many of the items that were scarce during the war. Some experts (we do hate that term) have predicted that within ninety days there will be a greater pau-city of goods and a greater preponderance of money than ever before in the history of our nation.

So, at the right psychological time, a group of congressmen, who seemed to have forgotten the con-stituents, decided to do away with the OPA.

It has been said that the OPA is Communistic and a few other things, but it has helped to keep things, but it has helped to keep the prices down and place a lid on inflation. When the QPA dies completely, our fond hopes of avoiding a depression will die too. Prices will go sky high and in a very short time everybody will be broke; except for a few people who have most of the money now and will have all of it then.

It will have a bad effect on our backs too. Digging ditches seems so silly in this machine age, but unless one has a college degree, he won't be able to dig them anyway. Then it would be a pleasure. At the present time another group of senators are urging the lifting of meat price controls, say-ing that this would do away with black markets.

In the previous column we dis cussed Russia and as a direct result we have been accused of a number of small crimes, the main one being that we have a pro-Russian viewpoint.

Attend Recent Regional Conference

Dr. N. B. Cuff, personnel director, and Dr. D. T. Ferrell, head of the Department of Education, attended a conference on "Using Regional Resources." April 21-26. at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. The conference was a continuation of southern regional studies in education sponsored by the American Council on Education and supported by the General Education -Board.

There were delegates at the conference from twelve southern states and from fourteen regional agencies. Morning programs were conducted largely by consultants on such topics as research and planning regional developments, human resources, community schools and development of resources. Afternoon programs were reports by committees on resource education in various states.

Dr. Pennebaker, of Morehead, was chairman of the Kentucky group, and Dr. Cuff was secretary. Reports were given by Dr. Ferrell of Eastern, Dr. Graham of Murray, Dr. Van Antwerp of Morehead, and Dr. Hartman of the University of Kentucky. Ken-tucky was the first state to re-port at the conference on her use of resource education. Dr. Ferrell and Dr. Cuff are of the opinion that Kentucky's program compares favorably with those presented by other states in our region. It was obvious, however, that the needs and opportunities in the south are such that educational and other agencies can and should put into operation improved programs. Dr. Ferrell hopes to use many of the proposals presented at Chapel Hill in the development of a Resource-Use course at Eastern.

Mattox Attends Memphis Conference

Mr. M. E. Mattox, as a delegate from Eastern, went to Memphis to attend a conference on the problems of credits for veterans.

There were reports on evaluating service schools in various parts of the United States, using as a guide the American Council of Education handbook.

One of the main points of the conference was that veterans do not particularly care about receivng credit for their army experience. This credit goes toward graduation as elective credit only, not as required credit.

Of a survey taken from the K. E. A., College Section, the fol-lowing questions and answers show that veterans are doing better than non-veterans in college: What college standards do vet-

Miss Ethel Slade, critic teacher in the Rural Demonstration School, was given a leave of ab-sence for the school year 1946-47 to do graduate work. Miss Lona Turner was also given a leave of absence next year in order to accept a fellowship in Chicago University.

The military leaves of Dord Fitz and Dr. Dean W. Rumbold were continued. The former is in the Army while the latter is serving with the Navy. The president reported that sub-stantial improvements had been made in the physical plant of the college during the present year. These include the installation of a heat control system in all buildings not formerly so equipped, the painting of all rooms in Sullivan, Beckham, Miller, McCreary and Memorial Halls, the completion of the painting of all rooms in Bur-nam Hall and all rooms in the Arts building. Valuable equipment from surplus war property has been installed for use in the laboratories and in the department of Industrial Arts. The board approved the exten-sion of the veteran housing program and authorized an application for additional houses from the Federal Public Housing Au-thority. College officials estimate that 100 additional apartments will be required to house the mar-ried students who are seeking ad-mission to Fastarn this fall mission to Eastern this fall.

Dr. O. F. Hume was named a member of the Council on Public Higher Education, while Judge Kauffman was named to the executive committee.

Those present for the meeting Monday were Dr. John Fred Williams, chairman; Dr. O. F. Hume, Richmond; Everett J. Evans, Paintsville; J. C. Codell, Winchester; L. # Dr. Ruth Seabury In Address At Eastern

The one key word Christianity must give to the world is the word "neighbor," Dr. Ruth I. Seabury, educational secretary of the American Board of Foreign Missions. told an audience of students, faculty, and citizens of Richmond in an address at Eastern State Teachers College Monday night April 29, on "How Big Is Your World?" Dr. Seabury said, "We need in our world a common conscience and knowledge that we need each other. Every man in every corner of the world in dire need or in great loneliness might become neighbor to you. In this world in which we live we need to be at home.'

Love can overcome all barriers of race, age, creed, or culture, she declared. The love and com-passion and tenderness of Godthe all-loved Father-can make neighbors of us all, the speaker continued.

Widely traveled and a delegate to a world meeting in India a few years ago, Dr. Seabury told of some of her experiences with all races. She spoke of the influence of Ghandi in India and his belief in a world fellowship of all peoples. Dr. Seabury addressed the college girls on the campus at 10  $\sigma$ clock Monday night, speaking on the subject, "Facing the Future, Single of Double." She also spoke at a dinner meeting and held private conferences with students both Monday and today. She comes to Eastern under the sponsorship of the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis.

Three To Participate In Oratorical Contest

Sponsored by Alpha Zeta Kappa (public speaking), the annual ora-torical contest will be held in the Hiram Brock Auditorium during next Wednesday's chapel program with three students vying for the Regents Gold Medal for Oratory.

Participating in the contest will be Gladys Rice, sophomore from Mayslick; Nicholas Brewer, senior from Chevrolet; and Bob Ryle, senior from Covington. These students have selected their own topics and prepared their talks. Their subjects have not been released for publication.

The contest will be judged by professors from nearby colleges and one member of the English Department of Eastern. They will judge the speeches for content, organization and delivery.

The medal will be presented to the winner during the Commencement exercises on May 29. It is given each year by the Board of Regents to foster good speaking among the student body.

AS WE SEE IT.

A LITTLE GIRL AND A PAINT BRUSH

Walking to town the other day by way of Second Street, we noticed a little girl sitting on the sidewalk completely unaware that anyone was around. In one hand she held a paint brush and in the other hand a small jar in which she had some water. She would dip the brush into the water and then with the patience of an artist she would paint the front of a mud-splattered mailbox that stood in front of her house. She continued with her project until all of the water in the jar was gone then she scampered back into the house after more. We passed on, but the actions of this little girl remained in our mind.

Of course she made little improvement on the appearance of the mailbox, but she had sensed a need. She realized that this box looked bad in front of her house and that no one was going to do anything about it. Perhaps she has visited Main Street on some Saturday night and wished that she had her paint brush with her, or her tiny broom, or her rel wagon. Perhaps she has wondered why the "grown-ups" were arraid they would offend the B.V.D. company. We overheard two old "tracksters" in a typical she has wondered why their teachers haven't told them how to keep things clean. Maybe she thinks that there aren't enough paint brushes.

Well, little girl," there are enough paint brushes. The trouble is that the "grownups" dont know how to use them. And their teachers did tell them how to keep things clean, but they didn't pay any attention to them. Now that they have grown up they will not listen to anyone. They do not think that their front yard extends to the curb or that the appearance of Main Street in anyway reflects upon their pride. To them Main Street is a city dump and a catch-all for their refuge.

But don't become discouraged, little girl, keep on with your cleaning. Get all of your playmates to help you and set a fine example for these "grown-ups." Some day you will take their place and you will clean up Richmond and be proud of your nice city. And you will pass laws and see that the police make people keep their garbage cans off Main Street. And you will make them put lids on those they do have. You will see that the streets are swept and provide the street cleaners with a sprinkler to wash the streets every morning.

Yes, your city will be a clean city and a healthy and decent place in which to live.

ANOTHER BY-PRODUCT-WORLD PEACE

Last week there was on display in the lobby of the Administration Building an ex-hibit by the students of Kingston High School, which they had presented at the an-nual meeting of the Junior Academy of Science. It was an exhibit of the various by-products of coal.

Certainly this was nothing new to add to the annals of science.

Nevertheless, this expression of these high school students completely changed our opinions of teen-age thinking. They did not seek those elements of petroleum production that those elements of petroleum production that would be used by a warring nation. Their am-that's Greek for "We know products were conducive to peace-time living and their motives were for bettering the living conditions of man, rather than finding ways to destroy him. They had not been poisoned by a war-time culture. They were living for their future, one that would be filled with joy and happiness. One in which nations would share their discoveries with other nations and not keep them in secrecy. One in which the findings of science would be directed to civilian uses. Yes, there is hope for a nation filled with such youths. And their teachers can go right ahead and teach the Golden Rule, the Sermon on the Mount, and Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points and rest assured that what they are teaching is worthwhile. They need not fear that they will have to qualify their statements later on. Their fear of the futility of such teachings may now be cast aside. The American youth is not nearly so oblivious to the ideals of peace as some persons believe him to be.

CHURCHILL UPS AND DOWNS There surely were a lot of stu-dents who left the campus last dents who left the campus last week to go to the Derby; however, we haven't heard of any of them coming back with their pockets filled. That is to say filled with anything but losing tickets. That place must have really been crowd-ed; one fellow opened his Racing Become and the renewusion floor. Record and the repercussion floor-Record and the repercussion floor-ed a traffic officer on Fourth Street . . And Don Ameche was there, although he probably doesn't remember it. His mint julep was so strong the leaves withered. All along the betting circle you could hear the cry of "Praise the 'Lord' and pass the ammunition". . And was that track slow—they didn't clock the horses, they just checked clock the horses, they just checked to see if they all got back .... That new "tote" board was a pip -it flashed everything but the size of the jockeys' shorts. It would have done that but the owners were afraid they would offend the turf conversation. One old gentle-man was proudly puffing on a cigar and holding his granddaugh-ter in his arms. Just as we tuned in he was saying, "Yes, Jim, this is my granddaughter, Mary Lou, out of Mary Agness, by Lou Stone."

LOOKING AHEAD Not far are the days of summer With daylight saving time, And the call of Boonesboro's beaches Makes the afternoon sublime.

Yes, the days ahead are joyful But let me make this clear While I love the noonday sunning It's the summer nights I fear.

For the nights will be filled with mosquitoes Who leave the infested dumps

And fly around our heads like P-80's

And cover us with bumps. TEMPUS FUGIT-WITH THE AID OF A CITY ORDINANCE This daylight saving time is a mes It's got me in a stew; What used to be a noonday showe Is now the morning dew.

The sun at high noon isn't high It doesn't rise at dawn. In fact, I think the sunset Is early in the mawn.

I get up grouchy in the morn And act like all men act. I curse my sun dial for being as late As last year's almanac. I take my girl for a moonlight walk

To gaze at the stars and all, But we take one look at the heavens

And are blinded by Old Sol.

So "Drink," the bards may cry aloud

And drive your cares away For tomorrow, why tomorrow Was perhaps some yesterday. CURTAIN TIME

Well, it's getting about time for the close of another quarter and calls. on't know it but you'll have you to show it". . . And everyone starts singing "Everybody Knew But Me." And this quarter we have the graduation exercises to close the term in a triumphant ring. The commencement speaker will have another lecture for conjecture. We hope he will be on time this year, last year the Guy nor was so late two of the grads had already completed some work toward their master's degree . . . Those banquets are really nice that they have for the seniors. Eastern can boast that she really sends forth a well-fed college student. Somehow or other you have the feeling that they are fattening you for the market . . . And some of those who have had offers for teaching positions consider it the slave market. We wouldn't say the banquets were too close to gether, but last year one fellow was eating chocolate custard with one hand and sipping tomato juice from the other . . . One after-dinner speech was marred by the speaker having a mouth full of split pea soup. However, everyone seemed to have a good time and when they passed out the diplomas there were two Alka-Seltzers included in the envelope.

As one of several guests at the meeting of April 9, Miss Mac-livaine covered the sporadic milk shortage. Although the milk supply seems to be sufficient for stu-dent use at present, there are times when the student need can-

Guest Speakers

Two outstanding figures of Eastern activities were favorably received by the organization re-cently with informative addresses. On April 16, Mr Coates, of Model High School, spoke of the influence upon the high school students. At present, that influence is a contributing factor to their character as a whole. But, on the other hand, the actions of the college students on the campus may easily sway the actions of the high school students. He therefore urged that we consider this fact in the eyes of the younger people. The meeting of April 30 was climaxed by the talk of Dr. Blanton, college physician, who explained the medical setup which is now in effect. Dr. Blanton's services are now divided between his work in town, and his position on the campus which is on a part-time basis. However, he will gladly receive any patient at any

The Length of the Fish

I large fish has been caught and the following re-lationships observed between his various parts. The head is as long as the tail and one-half the body. The body is as long as the head and the tail together. The tail measures 12 inches in length. The problem is, how long is the fish?

Again from the World's Best Humor, we take what we consider good jokes.

He: "So she's a business woman. What business is she interested in?" She: "Everybody's."

"They say money talks." "It does, but it never says but two words to me, and they are 'Bood-bye'."

He: "Would you scream if I kissed you, little girl ?'

She: "Little girls should be seen and not heard." "Our sponge cake was a total failure," spoke the dejected bride."

"How was that?" asked the husband in a idsappointed tone

"The druggist sent me the wrong kind of sponges."

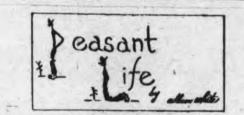

Clothes don't make the man. But what man wants to run around without any clothes?

Life-saver (modestly): "Lady, permit me to hand over to you this medal for daring; nothing I ever did can come up to that bathing suit of yours."

"What is the difference between the stuff Rip Van Winkle drank and the modern moonshine?" "Rip woke up."

"What would you do if the girl you were calling on said that she never wanted to see you again?" "I'd jump to my feet and leave." "And let her fall to the floor?"

The fish described in the problem was ninety-six inches long. This length was divided thus: tail (given in the problem) 12 inches; body, 48 inches; head 36 inches. One-half the body length is 24 inches, which added to the tail length is equal to the head length as required. Also the length of the body, 48 inches, is just equal to the lengths of the head, 12, and of the tail, 36, combined, and so again the requirements of the problem are met. There is no other length of the fish which will sat-isfy the conditions of the problem.

It seems only a year ago since I bade farewell to my poor old gray-haired Ma and hiked off to col-lege; I can still see her standing there sobbing o'er the pig trough, and as I kissed her tenderly on the gazekas, she slipped a golden-ripe corn cob into my caloused hand. To this very day I have that simple token in remembrance of our little log cabin on the banks of the muddy Ohio, and it's days like on the banks of the muddy Ohio, and it's days like that which I remember. RHYTHM RIPPLES

The melow blend of voices comes to our ears when we hear the Ink Spots with "I'm Gonna Turn Off the Tear Drops" and "The Sweetest Dream." Slow, easy and an Ink Spot must.

Dick Haymes and Helen Forest double with two favorites, "Give Me a Little Kiss" and "Oh, What It Seemed To Be." A pair that gives out with the best.

There are some soft intimate sides sung by Mildred Bailey in her album. These include such fav-orites as "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "These Foolish Things," "Gypsy In My Soul," "The Man I Love," Sumertime" and a few others.

Kay Kyser and his Music Makers makers it easy on dacing with "I Don't Wanna Do It Alone" and The Campus Kids singing a slow ballad, "Slowly." It's refreshing.

Still standing out in front in singing and playing is Duke El-lington with two original ballads. Typically Ellingtonia in music is "The Wonder Of You," a blues "The wonder Of You," a blues ballad with vocals by Joya Sher-rill and a more striking low down blues, "I'm Just A Lucky So And So," which spotlights Johnny Hodge's pure alto sax.

FOOTBALL UNDER LIGHTS

Plans have been made to light Hanger Field and as a result East-ern fans will be able to watch Maroon football games at night. This addition fill help swell the attendance at future gridiron classics. Many patrons of the sport will now be able to enjoy an evening entertainment, whereas, before they were not able to attend the afternoon contests.

Improvements such as this are welcomed and each improvement adds to the glory that is Eastern's.

BASEBALL

The baseball season at Eastern is entering the home stretch so far The baseball season at Eastern is entering the nome stretch so far as the number of games are concerned. As this goes to type the Ma-roons have won four and lost three. Two other games will have been played by the time you read this. The season so far has been success-ful in providing a fine afternoon's entertainment to a sports hungry student body. Without baseball in the spring, Eastern's students would find life rather dull at the friendly college.

There is more to an athletic program of any kind than just win-ning the ball games. The pulse of the campus is quickened and made healthy by an energetic athletic program. A team with plenty of spirit and determination backed by a faithful and cheering student body adds something to a college that brick and mortar can not duplicate.

EASTERN PROGRESS

De Venzio Stops Ky. With Two-Hit Win

Bill De Venzio hurled eight in-nings of no-hit ball and then al-lowed two hits in the ninth to give Eastern a 4 to 1 victory over the "Big Time" University of Kentuc-ky nine on the Eastern diamond Wednesday aternoon.

De Venzio won for himself the laurels of being Eastern's ace pitcher although this was his first pitching engagement this year. He showed more control and more speed than any pitcher who has hurled on the Eastern diamond this season.

With the bases loaded in the top of the fourth and no outs against Kentucky, De Venzio came out of that tight spot by striking out the next three batters in succession in big league style.

Wren Drives In Three

Sharing the honors with De Ven-zio for Wednesday's victory was Leftfielder Luther Wren, who stepped up to the plate in the sev-enth, with three on, and clouted the first ball over the Kentucky centerfielder's head—a ball that had suit the features of a honor run had all the features of a home run. Wren scored the three winning runs but failed to touch third and was given credit for only a two-base hit.

Crossing home plate on Wren's long hit were Paul Myers, Fred Lewis and De Venzio. Catcher Dick Scherrbaum singled in Chester Mielcarek from third for Eastern's first run in the second inning.

U. K. Scores In Sixth

The Marcons held the Big Blue team scoreless until the sixth when Triplett hit to shortstop and scored Gardner.

De Venzio was credited with 12 strikeouts against U. K. and five bases on balls. Powell hurled the first five innings for the visitors and was relieved by Jones. Jones connected for a two-bagger in the ninth for one of U. K.'s two hits. Score by innings: R H E
