In Memoriam

Dr. Moses Edward Ligon, professor emeritus of education at the University of Kentucky and first president of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, died on March 27, 1956, after a short illness. He was 78.

Born in Owen County on April 15, 1877, Prof. Ligon attended Owen County rural schools and Owenton Academy, and was graduated from Georgetown College in 1905. He received a M.A. degree from the University of Chicago in 1921 and an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Georgetown College in 1935.

From 1905 to 1908, Prof. Ligon taught in the schools of the Philippine Islands, and traveled in China, Japan, East Indies, Ceylon, Egypt, Palestine and several European countries. Upon returning to Kentucky in 1908 he was employed as principal of the Franklin Elementary School in Paducah. Later he taught at Owensboro. He came to Lexington as principal of the Lexington High School in 1913. It was during this time that he and other high school principals organized the K.H.S.A.A., of which he served as president from 1916 to 1926. In 1919 Prof. Ligon went to Henderson as superintendent of schools, resigning two years later to become principal of Ashland High School. He came to the University of Kentucky in 1924 as professor of secondary education, principal of University High School and director of the teacher placement bureau of the College of Education. In 1930, he relinquished the university school post to become chairman of the Kentucky committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He was president of the Southern Association in 1942. He was president of the Kentucky Education Association in 1925-26, and he served on the athletic board of the University of Kentucky for sixteen years. He assumed a change of work and emeritus status on July 1, 1947.

Prof. Ligon was the author of scores of articles, reports and newspaper accounts. In 1942, the U. K. Bureau of School Service published his "History of Public Education in Kentucky."

From 1938 to 1955, Dr. Ligon served as a trustee of Georgetown College. He held membership in the National Education Association, National Association of Secondary School Principals, National Society for the Study of Education, National Society of College Teachers of Education, Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, National Institutional Teachers Placement Association and the Lexington Country Club. He was a past president of the Blue Grass Executives Club.

Prof. Ligon was honored in 1955 at a program sponsored by the Kentucky committee of the Southern Association. The ceremony, held at the U. K. Taylor Education Building, was a feature of the University's 32nd Annual Education Conference. A portrait of Prof. Ligon was presented to the College of Education by the Southern Association.

The veteran educator devoted much time to church and civic activities. He frequently served as an election officer here and had been a member of the Lexington Board of Education since 1948. He was member of the Calvary Baptist Church, where he served as a deacon and was both teacher and dean of the Men's Baraca Class. He was a member of the Rotary Club, and was president of the club in 1938-39.

Survivors of Prof. Ligon are his wife, a son, two daughters, three brothers, a sister, and three grandchildren. The deepest sympathy of all K.H.S.A.A. member school representatives is extended to these members of the family.

The Flying Dutchman

Tournaments may come and tournaments may go, but it is doubtful if any other state in the country will ever produce a better or more exciting state tournament than the one Kentucky witnessed this year at Lexington.

It was Winchester's "Eck" Bramhan who remarked that there was less "booing" in this tournament than any he had attended, and "Eck" sees them all. Certainly, the sportsmanship of the coaches and players was beyond reproach, all of which continues to merit for Kentucky its reputation as the "Sportsmanship Capitol of the Nation".

The Kentucky High School Athletic Association can be justly proud of the job turned in by its executives in crowd engineering. The manner in which everybody was kept moving and the way in which the Boy Scouts handled the seating was as efficient as any job ever done in Madison Square Garden. The officiating was again of the highest calibre.

This is, without a doubt, Kentucky's most colorful show and one which affords the best opportunity for all Kentuckians to mingle, have friendly conversations and meetings in hotel lobbies and at the games. The holiday spirit which prevails is wholesome and the cooperation of the spectators splendid. Kentucky's State Tournament is just the most enjoyable place to be during the ides of March.

Top this if you can! Coach Andy Jack Fultz, of Olive Hill, lost in a heart-breaking overtime in the State Tourney to Coach Jim Bazzell, of Allen County. Do you know what they did after that game? Andy Jack and Jim lunched together downtown—Brethren, you can't beat that kind of sportsmanship anywhere!

There has to be a wonderful spirit of fellowship in Kentucky's high school athletic program when a basketball official will name a new baby for an assistant commissioner. Arbitrator Omer, of Madisonville, has named his spanking new boy "Joe Billy" after debonair J. B. Mansfield, of the K.H.S.A.A. If the baby has an appetite like big Joe Billy, Whistler Omer had better up his officiating fee.

The next big athletic event is scheduled for April 13 when all of Kentucky's athletic enthusiasts gather at the Brown Hotel during K.E.A. for the annual banquet. This is the occasion when the "Game Guy of 1956" will be honored by receiving the Flying Dutchman Trophy for being the athlete who has overcome the greatest physical handicap to engage in sports.

This year, that honor goes to Edward Earl Ginter, Montgomery County High School, Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. Edward Earl is a unanimous selection for this year's honor from among fifteen nominations from all over Kentucky. Eddie, who lives a "whoop and a holler" from the Montgomery County High School at Mt. Sterling, is 17 years old, an above average student and popular with the teachers and student body. He is a country boy who has not let his physical handicap of losing the use of his right arm keep him from being an outstanding basketball player or from milking the cows, pitching hay or doing anything else on a farm or the basketball court that anybody else can do. So it is that Edward Earl Ginter joins the parade of Kentucky's Game Guys who annually set outstanding examples for other young men to pattern from. Meet this fighting youngster at the K.E.A. Athletic Dinner.

The interest that Kentucky's school men and athletic leaders are taking in encouraging physically handicapped boys to live normal lives and play normally as do their physically whole friends is gratifying. During March, Bill Ring, of Maysville, recommended Don Ryan and J. T. Whaley, of St. Patrick's, for the Lionheart Lapel Button Award for their courage in carrying on in the field of sports although temporarily set back by physical handicaps suffered in an unfortunate accident.

It is the sincere desire to help other people and to render unselfish service which has caused Kentucky's school boy athletic program to reach the high level it now enjoys. When so many people are interested in the achievements of others and are anxious to gain recognition for them, it is easy to see why so much is accomplished.

A letter from Al Gustafson praises Vine Grove's Chet Redmon, an outstanding leader in Kentucky's high school athletics, for the practice Chet has initiated in saying a prayer with his boys prior to his games in their dressing rooms. Such practices mean a lot to high school sports and the future development of fine men through athletics. Vine Grove gets another well deserved orchid because the parents of the boys do something fine by feeding all the players, coaches and officials in the cafeteria after every home game.

Elizabethtown Catholic High School cheerleaders also come in for special acclaim for the good neighbor practices which they follow by preparing a lunch of sandwiches, oranges and apples after each game for teams and officials. Certainly, Vine Grove and Elizabethtown Catholic High Schools richly merit the award of the Abou Ben Adhem Certificates.

And now, from Bill Knight, "The Duke of Paducah", comes this comment: "I am taking this opportunity to acknowledge the courtesy extended to me as a basketball official by Bardwell High School down in the First District. I have never witnessed greater sportsmanship by a coach, team, school officials and spectators anywhere. I feel that much of this fine sportsmanship can be credited to Coach L. G. Tubbs, who is a shining example. To this fine coach I ask that a Cob Pipe of Honor be awarded and an Abou Ben Adhem Award to his school and community." Bill may be sure that Coach Tubbs now has a Corn Cob Pipe to puff on and that the sportsmanship award now adorns the wall of the Bardwell High School.

Unquestionably, this year's season of basketball in high school circles of the Commonwealth has been great because school men, coaches, spectators and cheerleaders all cooperated to make it that way. There is a lot of satisfaction in just the association with the kind of leaders Kentucky offers to its young people.

With Bill Hunt and Dr. James Fuller leading the way, Mayfield is getting ready to start a big year-round recreation program in that progressive Western Kentucky city. The Dutchman has a trip to make there in April to help get that recreation program started and another to Mount Washington in May for a commencement address—so we are on the move again.

Here's some news for communities of Kentucky who have been wanting to start programs of recreation, but lack the knowledge necessary to launch such programs. A new textbook, written by The Flying Dutchman, will be off the press by June and available to any schools or communities interested in public programs of recreation.

Entitled A New Horizon of Recreation, it represents a guide which may be followed by inexperienced directors just starting in the recreational field. It offers additional service to community planners of recreation who will take the lead in bringing many new public programs of recreation to America during the next two decades. This is a grass roots study. Recorded are the results of twelve years of actual experience in the organization and administration of county-wide recreation tailored to fit the needs of the communities.

The procedure is democratic. The ideas are new and challenging. New conceptions of recreational responsibilities appear, with the Cheerleaders representing the Shelbyville High School were first place winners in the second annual competition for the Cheerleaders' Cup, awarded by K.A.P.O.S. Runner-up honors went to Lafayette High School, with Honorable Mention to Bell County High School. The presentation of the cup was made by K.H.S.A.A. President Russell Williamson during the award ceremony following the final game of the 1956 State Basketball Tournament.

Shelbyville Cheerleaders Best

The cheerleaders were judged on the basis of a seven-point rating scale, which included appearance, ability, conduct while in uniform, and sportsmanship toward opponents and officials.

importance being attached to working with small groups as well as large masses. It is The Dutchman's hope that this volume will speed up the development of the many recreation programs needed over Kentucky and will render real service to Kentuckians. Drop by to see The Dutchman at his Armory offices during K.E.A.

Part B—About value of possession (separate record for each team)

Average recorded for only those games in which the score in the last quarter is close enough to encourage "keep-away" and reckless play by the team behind.

A possession unit begins when the team gets control and it continues until the opponent secures control. It extends through a try, rebound attempts, free throws by that team or any subsequent action up to the time the opponent secures control such as by interception or securing a rebound or control after a violation or successful goal. In a single possession unit, a team might score a field goal, be fouled and score 2 or more points on free throws, intercept a throw-in and score again.

1. In first 29 minutes: (a) Average No. possession units: 61.5 per team per game. (b) Number possession units in which the team scored: 2 points, 30.0; only 1 point, 3.62; 3 or more points, 1.1; 0 points, 27.4.

Note: Last year, possession had a value of between .8 and .85 of a point. The net worth of a bonus penalty was approximately one-half a point.

New Baseball Films

Prints of two new films, WORLD SERIES OF 1955 and CATCHING STARS OF BASEBALL, have been rented by the K.H.S.A.A. and have been placed on loan with the Department of Extension at the University of Kentucky.

The film, WORLD SERIES OF 1955, depicts the highlights of the seven games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees. The Dodgers won the series four games to three after the Yankees had won the first two games. Most of the action, hitting and scoring play, is shown in the four-reel film, with some shots in slow motion.

CATCHING STARS OF BASEBALL shows some of the great catchers of the game demonstrating the proper techniques of receiving, throwing, fielding and signaling. The illustrators are Bill Dickey, Yogi Berra, Al Campanella, and Sherman Lollar. The picture is entertaining to all baseball fans, but is especially designed as a coaching film for catchers.

The season begins with the day when the squad is first called out for practice, and ends with the last game.
