Gather ye rosebuds while ye may,
While yet there is a chance,
For on February tenth on Friday,
There'll be a Sweetheart Dance.

Yes, girls, this is your chance!

A "girl ask boy" Sweetheart Dance will be held Friday, February 10, in Walnut Hall of the Student Union Building. The traditional dance, sponsored by the Collegiate Pentacle, will be held from 8:00 through 12:00 p.m. with special music being played by the "Marooners," a small Eastern band under the leadership of Jim Layne.

As during previous years, a boy will be chosen to represent Eastern as the annual sweetheart. Don Stivers, a junior from Louisville, was Eastern's 1960 Sweetheart.

The absolutely vice-versa dance will be semi-formal with the girl asking the boy and then buying his ticket. Throughout this week tickets, which are $1.00 per couple, will be on sale in the grill and in the girls' dorm. Flowers are not required.

The theme of the dance will be carried out through white tablecloths, red candles, and red and white favors. Also, all other decorations are in red and white.

All girls are urged to act at once!

Kenamer Stresses Dangers To U.S.

"I want to warn you about the insidious creeping in of ideas which would endanger us, America, wake up!" With these remarks Dr. L. G. Kenamer, presented a presentation of "The World in Ferment" presented Wednesday, February 1, at the student assembly program.

Preceded by piano renditions of selections from Brahms and Mozart by Miss Frances McPherson, Dr. Kenamer engaged the knowledge and experience of his life to place in a nutshell the recent happenings of the world which are of importance to the security of this nation. Dwellings upon the "Heartland Theory," he presented the validity of intention and the potential strength of the forces of the U.S.S.R.

"Youth of this nation and of the world are the prime target of communism." Establishing the fact that recent revolutions have been begun by college students in those countries, Dr. Kenamer discussed the status of Cuba and its present regime. The strategy of President Kennedy to uphold the Monroe Doctrine was a point stressed for future interest to the youth of America. "How serious this thing is... they are planning to bury us!" They refer to the instigators and infiltrators of Communism over the world. "It is so serious that I trust that you will read on the menace of Communism."

Summing up his remarks Dr. Kenamer forcefully pleaded, "Lead or be slaves! I hope that you will choose freedom." His plea ascertained the worth of democracy and the Western world of ideas and ideals. All the nations of the earth are concerned to his way reckoning. The world is in turmoil; "The world is in ferment."

The nineteen high schools represented will each present a thirty minute drama. Those receiving a superior rating will advance to the State Festival to be held at the University of Kentucky March 8-10.

STUDENT DISCUSSION GROUP TO HAVE COMBINED PROGRAM WITH FACULTY ROUND TABLE

Mr. R. G. Chrisman announced yesterday that the Faculty Round Table and Student Discussion group will be merged for the spring semester and will have as their topic of debate "The Teacher In A World of Uncertainty."

The first program will be presented Friday, February 17, at 7 p.m. in the Little Theatre. 7 p.m. Mr. Kerney Adams will speak on "The Challenge to the Teaching Profession. Conditions Which Threaten Academic Integrity." Each session will always have an open discussion period following the speaker.

Other topics to be discussed at other sessions are "What a Student May Reasonably Expect of a Teacher, What a Teacher May Reasonably Expect of a Student, and Professionalizing the Teaching Profession." Students and faculty members will both speak on the teacher-student relationship.

Mr. Chrisman hopes that the subject will prove both interesting and helpful, and will enable the college to realize its educational goals.

Change In Library Hours

Mr. Dick Allen, librarian, has announced that the Sunday library hours will be changed this semester. The library will be open from 6 to 9 Sunday night.

Ordinance Display Set For Next Tuesday

The Army Ordnance Corps Exhibit Unit from Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland, the "Home of Army Ordnance," will visit the campus on February 14, 1961, it was announced today. The exhibit will be displayed in the game room in the basement of the Student Union Building.

The skilled team of weapons demonstrators with the unit will show ROTC Cadets some of the latest weapons developed by the Army for today's Army and the Army of the future. Other interested students, faculty members and the public are cordially invited to visit the exhibit any time between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 5:00 p.m.

Among the weapons to be demonstrated will be the recently-announced LAW, the 4 1/2-pound, disposable light anti-tank weapon; the 40mm grenade launcher that looks like a sawed-off shotgun; the air defense Redeye that follows its target by the heat generated by the plane; the all-purpose M-14 rifle that has replaced an entire conglomeration of small arms, some dating back to World War I; and the new light M-60 machine gun that can be fired by a soldier holding it over his head.

The team from the Proving Ground will be prepared to answer questions concerning the equipment and its use and the mission and activities of the Ordnance Corps which spends approximately three-fourths of the Army's budget and is responsible for all research and development in the Army missiles and rockets fields as well as in weapons for the soldiers of the new infantry, armored and airborne divisions.

Student Killed In Auto Accident

Arnold Pose, Jr., 22, of Lee City, died Sunday, January 29, while en route to a Lexington hospital of injuries sustained in an automobile-truck collision near Campton at 11 p.m. Saturday night. He was the son of Wolfe County School Superintendent Arnold Pose Sr. and Mrs. Rose.

Rose would have been a sophomore at Eastern this semester. He had attended Lees Junior College. Wolfe County Sheriff Bill Jeff Brewer said Rose's car struck the rear wheels of a tractor-trailer truck operated by Reese Oliver, Campton, on Ky. 191. A passenger in the Rose car, Mort Prater, escaped with minor injuries. Oliver was not reported hurt.

The officer said that the car traveled about 190 feet after hitting the truck but did not overturn.

Plans are nearing completion for Eastern's $1,800,000 physical education plant that will include a combination auditorium-basketball arena to seat 7,000 persons and facilities to accommodate 265 physical education students hourly in activity classes.

President Martin, after reviewing plans submitted by Louisville architects, Hartstern, Louis, and Henry, announced last week that construction probably will begin this spring, and May 31st, commencement day at the college, was given as a hoped-for ground-breaking date. He said that he expects the new plant to be completed by December 1, 1962.

The giant structure, to be erected on a portion of the college farm just off the main campus, will include an arena with over 1,000 theatre-type seats and nearly 5,000 permanent bleacher seats. An additional 3,000 seats may be added later to increase the total seating capacity for basketball games to 9,000.

Seating To Be Elevated
An additional 1,000 seats on the playing will increase the seating capacity for concerts and other programs to 7,000 when the first stage is completed, and to 10,000 upon completion of the addition.

A hydraulically-operated stage will be located at one end of the arena for this purpose.

All seats will be elevated above the playing floor, and spectators will enter and leave the auditorium without touching floor level.

Dimensions of the main building will be 194 feet wide by 304 feet long. A natatorium, 66 feet wide by 122 feet long, will house an olympic-size indoor swimming pool, the same mechanical filter system to be used in an outdoor pool, to be added later.

An auxiliary gymnasium, with two basketball courts and a large gymnastics area, will make it possible for the intra-mural program of the physical education department to be held simultaneously with the varsity basketball teams at the college.

Eight classrooms will be located on one side of the building, two of the classrooms being planned as table partitions separating them and will be used as a game area and for dancing instruction.

Located in the building will be 12 offices, an attractive reception area, dressing rooms for varsity sports, as well as for visiting teams, a projection room, and a conference room.

Charles T. Hughes, athletic director and head of the physical education department at the college, and Dr. Fred Darling, associate physical education professor, both of whom have visited other plants throughout this section of the nation, agree that the new plant of Eastern will be "one of the finest of its kind in the South." "Dollar for dollar, there'll be no finer building in America to

L.T.C. SCHEDULES PLAY TRYOUTS NEXT MONDAY FOR SECOND PRODUCTION

Open casting for Little Theatre's major production of the new year will be held in Brock Auditorium February 13th starting at 7:30 p.m.

The play on the agenda is Padre's comedy production of "Middle of the Night," a recent Broadway hit, that has been made into a movie of the same name.

The plot centers around a May-December romance between a middle-aged Jewish manufacturer and a 24 year old gentle girl, and the conflicts that arise when their respective families are confronted with this unlikely match. The cast includes parts for 8 women and 3 men. There are several very good character parts for both male and female. There are also many openings for work in costumes, set design, publicity and make-up.

Everyone enjoys the magic of the theatre and if you want to know what magic it is, turn, remember you learn by doing.

A JOURNALISTIC APOLOGY

The start of a new semester offers a unique opportunity for re-examining our surroundings and past actions and a chance to turn over the proverbial "new leaf".

The Progress during the last semester examined various aspects of our academic community, giving constructive criticism where it was thought necessary and praising where it was due. Some, no doubt, believe that we were unfair and even cruel in our approach, but we can assure you that everything that has been written has been done in hopes of improving Eastern.

Many people feel that we shouldn't air our "dirty linen" for everyone to see. However, we have found that this is often the only way to get things corrected. We can hardly think that prospective students (one of our most frequent criticisms being that we are driving them away) would be influenced against Eastern because of our articles. The mere presence of such articles in a college paper is an indication of a healthy growing spirit, one that encourages intellectual freedom. Such an atmosphere should be attractive to intelligent, thinking students who plan to come to Eastern.

Perhaps we have been unfair and not positive enough in our approach but we have never been concerned about Eastern's positive greatness since it is here for everyone to see. Eastern is a growing institution. We know that President Martin and his advisors are working for a greater college. Everyone can see the tremendous improvement in our physical plant, and there are even more significant changes being planned that are less obvious. The entire curriculum is being studied and revised. Present plans now call for increased English courses to enable students to minor and perhaps major in drama. Beginning this July, Eastern will offer a degree in library science. The general education program is being broadened. The most qualified faculty available is being sought. In short, we are definitely not stagnating. Eastern can and will become the best college in the state, and the Progress certainly does not intend to do anything to hinder that goal.

However, we do believe that we have a journalistic duty to uphold. The Progress is the only medium for the exchange of ideas for the 3,000 plus members of our academic community. Thus we still maintain that one of the main objectives of a free college press is to promote thought and encourage reader interest, and we can say with some pride that this objective has been achieved.

We shall maintain our standard policy, but we give our solemn pledge that we shall never create or "play upon" news simply for the purpose of placing the college or the administration in an unfavorable position. We too are working for greater Eastern.

VIEWS ON THE NEWS

by Marian Bazzy

Floundering in a world of oppressed peoples on one side and sinful individuals on the other, how the youth of this world must fight for survival! Of course one might attain mellowed age by continuing a track of unified oneness, togetherness, and obedient conformity. But challenge appears on the horizon if the youth are college students in a land of oppression.

Glancing briefly across the preceding decade, one sees Hungary and its lost glory. Its inhabitants once seemed to have attempted breaking the bonds of everlasting security and friendship with a certain rather strong Communist nation. It seems that the West may have instigated this futile move carried out so picturesquely by the elders and youngsters who moved so idealistically without the aid of the West. How were the college students involved? Firstly, they staged riots, of course; secondly, they fought fatality for the ideals of proposed freedom to the point of blood and defeat. Only they know if the cause was worth it. Although the Free World has ascertained its worth as one of courage and love, it still wasn't worth more than encouragement on Radio Free Europe. After all, just think what a dollar can do.

Let's move to the once oppressed islands of Cuba. Strategically located for sugar growing (and other things), the students of this nation led a revolution in the name of freedom and democracy—two very abstract words which would require a college education to pinpoint. Encouraged by the American (United States) way of doing things, Castro helped his nation break the bonds of oppression and injustice. Oddly enough, now this land of acquired freedom has found security and friendship in a relationship with the same Communist nation that Hungary sought to futilely cast off so dramatically. It's profound that we helped both countries, at least verbally, to achieve the ultimate goals, their present status.

Now we are engaged in a great cold war, testing whether this nation or any nation can put forth the most convincing propaganda. To prove the worth of youth and secondhand education, Russia has established the Friendship University in Moscow. Open to students from countries of the world, underdeveloped ones, their tuition and round-trip fare from their home to school is assured, an ample stipend is also provided, so... All one must do is: have potential, be susceptible to Soviet indoctrination, study the Russian language and history for a concentrated year or so, and then progress in a major which will help his country upon his return. How good-hearted and clever can a nation be!

The youth of America (the United States) must suffer in our progressing school systems. We have no cause to revolt, but there must be something we could do. Maybe our mature outlook on life will lend us to achieve a more biased frame of mind. Liberty was given somewhere along the line so... Is there another Santa Maria on the ocean? Maybe someone will be kind enough to provide a Pinta in the near future. History repeats itself, you know.

Letters To Editor

February 1, 1961

Editors:

(In reference to Mr. Epperson's letter recently published in the Progress.)

Mr. Epperson remarked to me that he had submitted a letter more or less on the spur of the moment, to express a sentiment of that moment. Although I should know better, allow me to stick my neck out for the same reason.

The readers of the Progress will no doubt hasten now to attack the English department. In their defense, may I suggest what was pointed out to us on the occasion of Sputnik: we can have just about whatever educational system the public desires. We can offer high school courses in our public schools to meet any demand, even in physics, chemistry, and mathematics, should a student request such a course. (Of course, his attitudes, values, and career goals are largely a product of his home environment.)

When we are done scraggepating (showing aggression toward a helpless target whenever we are too painfully aware of our personal inadequacies), we might examine our total academic community more closely; and if we did, we might find complacency on the part of students, their high school teachers, (our graduates), perhaps some of our departments other than English, perhaps even in the Progress. It is a bit unkind for a school paper to show up the shortcomings of one of our own, when it is hard to pick up a copy without some exotic departure from what our elementary schools supposedly teach. (Less than two years ago, the Progress staff was unable or unwilling to copy either of my two names correctly for publication of a letter.)

Let us have a little more charity in our hearts for a department assigned the task of keeping alive some part of culture in a hostile camp, or for a student who has come a long way considering that he didn't have even the usual advantages (and seldom a kind word or helping hand), and who made a not-too-surprising error in his good intentions. We can have some academic and cultural "progress" rather than backsliding or marking time when we all make up our minds that we want it.

Chung Hae Hong, Korean Exchange Student, Likes Eastern and United States

by Sandra Nunnally

Chung Hae (pronounced Ha) Hong, a petite, black-haired girl from Korea is doing graduate work in social studies on Eastern's campus this semester. Graduated in 1959 from Korea's largest school, Ewha Women's University in Seoul, Chung Hae came to the United States three months ago. She was one of seventy of 500 candidates who passed a Korean government examination on English and history. One step was passed, but then she had to take another test at the U.S. embassy in Korea. Physically, personal background information, and numerous other channels had to be crossed, but it was worth it. She said, "It takes too long, but this is an honorable thing—to go abroad."

American economic history, geography, and an education course are her subjects this term for nine hours of credit; the language barrier makes it difficult to handle more. During her three years of middle school (comparable to our junior high school) Chung Hae had classes in English composition and translation, but none in conversation. This reporter found that she is quite adept at speaking English although she has only one so far for three months in a foreign language training school in Korea and three months here. After her arrival by plane she spent this period of time in Nashville, Tennessee, with friends.

Much correspondence preceded her enrolling at Eastern. "Mr. Adams (a history professor) is so nice. I appreciate Mrs. Case and President Martin. They all wrote me a letter before I came here. I will keep them all my life; I'm so proud."

When asked what was the first impression she had of Americans, she replied, "There are so many hair colors." Some of our crowning glories aren't natural, she realizes, but in Korea most hair is black.

A second outstanding characteristic of American people turned out to be our custom of smiling and saying hello. In Korea, one never speaks to an acquaintance when meeting on the street. Chung Hae likes the American practice much better. "I feel at home because all of the people are so kind."

She feels at home in other ways too. Our winter weather doesn't bother her because Korea, with the four seasons, has more snow than Kentucky. Korean cities resemble ours, too, but as would be expected, the two countries differ in many ways.

Favorite American Food
The traditional Oriental food, rice and soup, was her main diet at home. What should be her favorite American dish? Why, hamburgers, of course, with lettuce for a close second! She likes the cafeteria food and has had little trouble becoming accustomed to American dishes.

In the city, the Western dress prevails, but many change into the Korean costume when they go home. Out in the country, most people wear the costume all the time—even the men.

When her father was living, he owned a drugstore. But in Korea, one doesn't go to the drugstore to buy cosmetics, food or paper goods—only medicines.

A Study Of Mountains
Chung Hae excelled in her studies and did her assignments with zest. When assigned to write a thesis for graduation, she chose the topic Jae Ju Mountain. This inactive volcanic mountain, the second highest in Korea is an island in itself where visitors go for magnificent sight-seeing when traveling to Korea.

Chung Hae studied what effect the mountain had on the life of the people living at its base, such as the historical, geographical, economic, and biological factors. She became very ecstatic when describing the many varieties of plants and insects which attract the biology students of the university. When snow covers the mountain in winter, skiing becomes the major sport. "When my English is much better, I would love to tell the people about this mountain."

Chung Hae has already had her chance to tell many because hers was selected the best of the social studies department in the teachers college of the university. The seven departmental winners in the college presented their works to an assembly.

Chung Hae likes to travel. So what is she going to do when she returns to her homeland? Teach others what she has learned from the new experience of traveling to another country—our America.

Chung Hae Hong speaks, "I want to express my appreciation to Mrs. Roberts and my Memorial Hall friends. They are so understanding and helpful. I get homesick sometimes, but by their kindness, they make me feel at home here. Thank you, all Eastern!"

Next week's Progress will feature an interview with Mr. Tuyen and Mr. Glane, exchange students from Vietnam.

"WHAT IS EASTERN LIKE?" Sandra Nunnally (right), newly appointed feature writer, asks Chung Hae Hong, Korean exchange student for her impressions of the campus.

Campus Projects Nearing Completion

A REAR VIEW OF Mattox Hall reveals two other construction projects currently under way on the campus. In the foreground is the foundation of the $3,000,000 training school which is to be completed by September. Eastern's new water tower is silhouetted against the skyline. Mattox Hall will be ready for occupancy by the summer term and will have facilities for 200 men plus a snack bar.

WORK ON EASTERN'S NEWEST women's dormitory, Case Hall is progressing rapidly. Present work will be finished for the beginning of summer school. Construction will start in June for an "L" shaped addition that will provide housing for 200 women. The complete dorm will have an enclosed court and sun deck.

PICTURED ABOVE IS ONE of the units in the married student housing project that will be occupied early next week. All thirty-two units in the project will be in use by the end of the month. The two-bedroom apartments rent for $57.50 a month, including all utilities plus a stove and refrigerator. The rent for a one-bedroom apartment will be $52.50 a month and a one room efficiency apartment including stove, refrigerator, dinette set, and a pullman type sleeper couch will rent for $47.50. Bids will be opened on the twenty-first of February for the remainder of the units in Brockton and construction will begin before the end of the semester.

AN ANT'S VIEW OF the recently completed 400,000 gallon water tower. The tower is now in process of being painted white; the college's name will be painted around the tower in maroon letters.

TEACHING: A JOINT RESPONSIBILITY

by R. G. Chrisman

Although our broad objective at Eastern is of a multiple nature, one of our primary goals is the training of teachers. This very simple statement of an objective carries with it several significant implications in regard to the impact which Eastern must have on the students if we are to succeed in the performance of what is considered to be one of our major functions.

In order for students who receive their training at Eastern to excel in the teaching profession, their experience here on the campus must help them accomplish certain things. It should help them free their minds of prejudices, "set notions" and opinions which are not arrived at as a result of independent critical thinking. They must acquire a knowledge and understanding of their natural and cultural environment, and cultivate a genuine interest in "beyond the immediate," engaging in creative activities whenever possible. Their college experience must help them develop the ability to recognize the persistent great human issues, as well as new problems, which confront man and become skilled in the formulation and implementation of wise decisions pertaining to such issues.

These accomplishments are, I believe, some of the marks of a good student. Although all good students are not necessarily good teachers, I believe that to teach the highest level of excellence in the teaching profession, one must be first of all a good student with a good general education and an intensive preparation in a particular area of concentration in which the student is vitally interested. Finally, after gaining a knowledge and understanding of the learning processes, the meaning and purpose of education, methods and materials of instruction combined with properly supervised internship, a student should insist on teaching in his area of concentration. By following these suggestions, I feel that the student will find that a career in the teaching profession will bring the greatest satisfaction that is possible to be derived from one's life's work.

In order for Eastern to function in a way that her product will be of the type which I have described, there will have to be a joint acceptance of the responsibility of doing the job on the part of both faculty members and students. The nature and extent of this joint responsibility will be explored during the spring semester at the combined meetings of the Faculty Round Table and Student Discussion Organization (See the announcement of the joint program elsewhere in this paper). It is sincerely hoped that all students who are interested in the teaching profession will attend and participate in these discussions. Such a friendly sharing of intellectual life on the part of students and faculty members should be highly stimulating and mutually profitable.

Chorale Offers Varied Program

The Karlrud Chorale, nationally known male singing group, presented a program of classical and folk music at the Brock Auditorium on January 31.

Featuring Edmund Karlrud in several solos, the chorale opened its performance with Beethoven's "The Creation Hymn" and closed with Jerome Kern's "Old Man River" as an encore.

The Karlrud Chorale, which is sponsored by the Community Concert Association, is currently in its second season of nation-wide touring. Norman Johnson is the Director-Accompanist, and Charles Touchette is the Arranger. Mr. Karlrud has appeared in singing engagements in Richmond twice previously.

Kennedy Promises Aid For The Depressed Areas

Among the bills to be brought before Congress will be President John Kennedy's suggestion for relief to depressed areas. The bill is designed to aid areas with poorly developed economies, including Eastern Kentucky. It is believed that the bill will be supported by the Kentucky congressmen.

A staff report of the Senate subcommittee on national policy machinery has suggested a strengthening of the position of the Secretary of State—currently Dean Rusk—as the President's right hand on foreign policy and national security. The committee report criticized the interagency co-ordination committees that bring in numerous departments and offices in the policy process "requiring power to be shared even though responsibility may not be."

President John Kennedy's advisers have informed him that the present administration faces a two-billion-dollar deficit in the current fiscal year instead of a budget surplus of seventy-nine million dollars as estimated by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in his budget message, January 16.

Regarding the decrease of U.S. gold, it is expected that President John Kennedy will submit a broad program to Congress to halt the reduction of our gold supply.

Synovitz Has Article In "Research Quarterly"

An article by Dr. Robert J. Synovitz, assistant Professor of Health and Physical Education was recently published in "The Research Quarterly," a national publication that is circulated among colleges and universities throughout the nation and other parts of the world.

Dr. Synovitz's article, entitled, "Use of Harmful Health Misconceptions as a Basis for the Selection of Subject-Matter Areas and Course Content in College Health Classes," consisted of a portion of a thesis submitted in 1959 as a partial fulfillment of the requirements for the Doctorate of Health and Safety degree at Indiana University.

Synovitz is also an assistant football coach.

Eastern Averages Loss To U of L

By Larry Knarr

Eastern's Fighting Maroons avenged their undesired 70-59 loss to the Louisville Cardinals by downing the tenth rated Cards, 94-68, Wednesday night before a capacity crowd of bloodthirsty Eastern fans. It was Eastern's 31st consecutive win at home.

It was an angry crowd that watched an angry team outfight the unwelcome basketballers from the University of Louisville. The same Maroons had played near-perfect basketball on the night of January 4 but had seen victory stolen from them in a manner that defied every rule of sportsmanship and of the game of basketball.

Two buckets by All-America John Turner and one by Howard Stacey gave the Cards an early 6-0 lead. The Maroons, led by Larry Parks, began a spurge to take the lead at 13-10.

Then with the score knotted at 22 apiece, the Cardinals scored ten straight points to give them a 32-22 lead, their longest of the ballgame, with 5:42 remaining in the half.

Big Ralph Richardson's 25-foot jumper seemed to ignite the Maroons, who scored ten of the next twelve points to pull within two, 34-32 with 2:47 remaining. Richardson scored eight points in this flurry.

The first half ended with Louisville still leading by the score of 40-38, but the Eastern fans didn't seem to be worried in the least.

CARDS PULL AWAY

The second half began with Richardson sinking a free throw to cut the lead to 40-39. Then Louisville pulled away again as two buckets by Olsen and a three-pointer by the amazing Turner put the score at 47-39, Louisville's longest lead of the second half.

Eastern called time out, and apparently following Coach Paul McBrayer's instructions to the letter, came fighting back. Ray Gardner hit a 20 foot jumper, and after Stacey hit a lay-up, Larry Parks made a tremendous three-point play. Louisville's Buddy Leathers hit two free throws around a lay-up by Phil Estep to make the score 51-46 in favor of Louisville.

With 12:51 remaining Louisville's big 7-foot pivot man fouled out of the ball game. Roland Wierwille hit the free throw and Gardner and Parks hit 20-foot jumpers to tie the score at 51-51. Wierwille's tip in—with 10:32 gave the Maroons a 56-55 lead which they never relinquished. The Cards tied the score at 57-57, but that was the closest they were to get.

TURNER CARRIES LOUISVILLE
The Maroons built up a 65-58 lead with 6:53, but the Cards came roaring back to trail by only 68-67 with 4:33 remaining. Turner carried practically the entire Cardinal team in the last eleven minutes, scoring 17 of his team's last 23 points.

However, the magnificent Turner was not enough to stop the determined Maroons, who virtually wrapped up the game with 1:30 remaining with Carl Cole's lay-up giving them a 78-70 lead, their longest of the ballgame.

It was a fine team effort for the Maroons who showed their usual well-balanced attack. Guards Larry Parks and Phil Estep—each hit on 50% of their shots, as they've been doing all season, to gain high-point honors for the Maroons with 16 points apiece. Ray Gardner played an outstanding game in scoring 15 points and grabbing off 7 rebounds.

COLE COLD

Carl Cole, Eastern's most heralded player, had one of his rare 3 of 16 field goal attempts. It was bad nights as he connected on but Cole's two free throws and lay-up in the closing minutes which clinched the game for the Maroons. You can't keep a good man down forever!

Louisville hit 50% of their shots the second half and had 45.8% on the night, so it can hardly be argued that they had a bad night. Eastern hit 41.3% on the evening, which is only so-so for them.

Each team had 26 field goals as the Maroons won it on free throws 28-22. This is probably one of the few games that an Eastern team has even won on the charity stripe. The referees were not bad at all because they were probably being closely watched by NCAA authorities. Louisville led in rebounding 54-52 and in floor errors 21-10.

John Turner was easily the game's outstanding individual performer, hitting 32 points and snagging 11 rebounds. Turner is every inch an All-American in our book.

BIG RALPH RICHARDSON snags a rebound from Louisville's Sawyer (11) by inches. This action occurred during the first half while Louisville kept a narrow cad over the Maroons. Armstrong (12) and Rubenstein (23) look on.

PARKS OUTPOSITIONS Armstrong (12) and Leathers (32) to take the rebound for the Maroons.

Average Last Week's Road Loss

The Eastern Maroons, clicking on 55.9 per cent of their shots in the second half, avenged last week's overtime loss to Tennessee Tech by the count of 94-68.

Roland Wierwille, Larry Parks, and big Ralph Richardson sparked the Maroons to their 30th consecutive home court win. The Maroons are now 5-2 in O.V.C. action.

Tremendous rebounding performances by Wierwille and Richardson helped the Maroons dominate the boards during the second half flurry. Wierwille scored 20 points and had 14 rebounds while Richardson scored 12 and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Carl Cole failed to score 20 points for the fourth consecutive game. Eastern's All-America candidate tallied 5 field goals and 8 straight free throws for 18 points. Phil Estep had 10 points.

Eastern's hard working junior guard, Larry Park, was the game's leading scorer with 21 points. Parks hit 10 of his 12 shots.

Tech was led by Tom McKinney's 17 markers. McKinney, who grabbed off 19 rebounds at Cookeville, was held to just 4. Tom Rychener and Ken Jolly each had 12 points and Don Gorin 11 for the losers.

The Maroons led 42-32 at half time. A seven point flurry on baskets by Wierwille, Richardson, and Parks and a free throw by Jack Upchurch broke the game open early in the second half, giving Eastern a 17 point bulge.

MAROON ROUND-UP

With LARRY KNARR

EASTERN TUMBLES FROM DRIVER'S SEAT

The Maroons of Eastern Kentucky dropped suddenly and unexpectedly from the driver's seat in the Ohio Valley Conference race when they were handed an 86-84 overtime setback by the Golden Eagles of T. P. I. at Cookeville. It was Tech's first O.V.C. win in six starts.

Although the Maroons were not leading in the conference race at the time of the upset, they had seemingly put the hardest portion of the schedule behind them. Front-running Western must still go to Murray, Eastern, and Morehead. If the Hilltoppers are victorious in two of these games and win their other two league tilts as expected, they will be home free.

The Maroons, with two losses already, can hardly drop another decision and still be in the running. The Maroons must beat Murray, Western, and Morehead at home and Morehead and East Tennessee away. Even should the Maroons win the remainder of their O.V.C. games, Western could still win the crown by dumping Murray and Morehead at Morehead.

HOME COURT ADVANTAGE...

The game of basketball is getting ridiculous. It is getting so bad that whenever a team, regardless of its caliber, loses a game at home, it is classed as an upset. For example, Tennessee Tech beat Eastern by two points in an overtime on their home hardwood in Cookeville. One week later, playing at Richmond, the Maroons threw the ball away no less than 25 times and still won the game by 26 points.

We are aware that strange gymnasiums, hostile fans, and the like might have an injurious psychological effect on a team, but the pattern is all too common, indicating that the game of basketball is rapidly approaching the standards of professional wrestling, in which whoever the fans would like to see win, wins.

It can easily be seen that it is the better teams who suffer through this unsportsmanlike practice. Podunk Junction may be ranked 973rd in the nation and Ohio State may be number one, but if the two teams clash at Podunk Junction, Ohio State Podunk Junction pivot man may only have one arm, but if Jerry Lucas fouls out in the first two minutes of play, his handicap doesn't seem so great. It is plain to see why teams in the national spotlight refuse to schedule the weaker teams away from home.

PARKS SPARK MAROONS...

Perhaps the most popular Eastern Maroon nowadays is spunky Larry Parks, who started out the season as a benchwarmer. Parks, who now is a starting guard, is the team's second leading rebounder and third leading scorer.

The Arlington, Indiana junior is a hard-nosed performer who doesn't know the meaning of failure. When he sets out to do something, it gets done. His tremendous desire is reflected in the fact that although being one of the shortest men on the team at 6'1", Larry is second only to Roland Wierwille in rebounding. At that, Parks is averaging less than one rebound per game under Roland. Parks pulled down 17 rebounds in the MTSC game and scored 21 points Saturday night against TPI for his season highs. In the Tennessee Tech game Larry connected on 10 of 12 field goal attempts. Although he is the team's poorest foul shooter, Parks is a deadeye from the field where he is hitting 51.4 per cent of his shots.

A defensive wizard, many of Parks' blocks of shots are controversial. Peck Hickman was sure that Larry was goal-tending at Louisville that he had a technical called on him. Johnny Oldham of Tech was also convinced that Parks was goal-tending. However, the referees are well aware that no 6'1" guard can possibly be guilty of goaltending. Referees have a way of knowing those kind of things.

LATEST STATISTICS...

Here are the statistical leaders of the Maroons after the completion of fourteen games:
Field goal percentage—Estep 53.3%, Parks 51.4%, Upchurch 42.4%, Richardson 41.8%.
Free throw percentage—Cole 84%, Gardner 75.8%, Upchurch 73.1%, Estep 72.5%.

FLOOR ERRORS COSTLY...

A floor error or turnover occurs when a team brings the ball down the floor without getting off a shot. Eastern committed 22 floor errors in their loss to Tennessee Tech and 25 in their win from Tennessee Tech.

This is a lot of points to give away, 94 to be exact!

CHILTON CLEANING UP...

East Tennessee's Tom Chilton dumped in 52 points against Austin Peay last Saturday night. Prior to the game, Chilton was third nationally in scoring and second nationally in rebounding.

Chilton and his roomie and teammate Mike Morrison are in the dry-cleaning business at East Tennessee.

WELL PUBLICIZED GAME...

The Eastern-Louisville game was carried over 5 radio networks. WHAS and WINN of Louisville were on hand as were WLAP and WVLC of Lexington. Bob Spradlin and WEKY were also on the job.

NCAA STATISTICS...

According to the latest NCAA statistics, Phil Estep is seventeenth nationally in field goal percentage, Eastern is third in personal fouls committed, Western is sixth in free throw percentage, and Morehead is eighth in team offense.

MAROONS PREPARE FOR CRUCIAL OVC CLASHES

—Eastern Kentucky's magnificent Maroons, exuberant over Wednesday's precision-like 80-74 win over ninth-ranked University of Louisville, have that pressure off their shoulders, but now are faced with the perhaps-more-dreadful and pressure of continuing their battle in the hot Ohio Valley Conference race.

They return to action in loop play Saturday night when they host an expertly-drilled Murray State Thoroughbred quintet in the third of the current four game home stand. On Monday, they tangle with arch-rival Western Kentucky in the next-to-last game that will be played on the familiar hardwood of Weaver Gymnasium, where they have rolled over 31 straight foes.

Saturday's opponent, Murray, brings to Richmond a well-blended team with all starters averaging in double figures. In Gene Herndon, they boast the conference's second leading rebounder with a 15.5 average per contest, and another leading rebounder in Mike O'Riordan, averaging 8.1 grabs per game.

Herndon also paces their scorers with a 13.9 average. He's followed by Jarrell Graham, 12.4, O'Riordan, 10.8, Larry Bale, 10.5, and Ron Greene, 10.2.

The Racers, 75-73 victims of the Maroons earlier at Murray, are currently tied with Eastern for third place in the OVC, each team sporting 5-2 loop records. They are 10-7 on the year as compared to Eastern's overall mark of 10 wins and 5 losses.

Coach Jim Baechtold's freshman team entertains the University of Louisville freshmen in a 5:45 preliminary.

COACH PAUL McBRAYER

McBrayer Given Top Billing By National Basketball Publication

A two-thousand word feature story on Eastern basketball coach, Paul S. McBrayer, was given front page honors in the January 22nd issue of "The Weekly Basketball Record," more commonly known around the sports trade as the "Green Sheet," and the "Basketball Bible."

The article, by-lined by Don Feltner, Publicity Director, Eastern Kentucky State College, is entitled, "Paul McBrayer Wins Sweet 200; Eastern Kentucky Coach Held in High Esteem, Strives to be the Complete Coach."

A national publication that reaches coaches, sportswriters, and sportscasters all over the nation, "The Green Sheet" is available at most news stands. It is priced at seventy-five cents.

In the story, Coach McBrayer's fifteen year tenure at Eastern is described, with several incidents, both serious and humorous, adding a personal touch. For instance, early in the current basketball season, the Maroons returned from a New York trip, where they met and narrowly lost to St. Bonaventure. "Coach McBrayer asked three strapping sophomores why they thought they did not make the trip. Two of the youngsters came up with reasonable replies, while the other answered, 'Coach, I couldn't have gone anyway... I had a test.' This incident was used by Mr. Feltner to point out the emphasis McBrayer places on his athletes maintaining a good scholastic record.

The first two lead paragraphs read: "In Richmond, a little Blue Grass town of 12,000 that is Kentuckian in every respect, folks are celebrating and rejoicing, for tobacco has brought a record-breaking price at the markets and the basketball Maroons of Eastern the midst of a great season."

Eastern Kentucky, a 54-year old state-supported college that has been nationally recognized for many years as one of America's top-flight teacher-training institutions, today has another claim to major-league basketball program brought to the college 15 years ago by a big, red-faced Irishman, with a true Irish name, Paul S. McBrayer.

Other excerpts from the article are:

"Another example of Paul McBrayer's overall basketball program happened last season after the Maroons had miraculously overcome a 19-point deficit in the last ten minutes to edge East Tennessee in two overtimes. After the game, the team, rather than returning to the hotel, where they had dressed for the game, was led straight to the dressing room of the gymnasium by their coach, who said, 'Boys, I don't think we had much to do with winning tonight... The Lord won this one for us, and I think we ought to thank Him.' At that time, the squad gave thanks.

A perfectionist and expert psychologist in his handling of his boys, McBrayer has been known to make one of his players get a haircut during a lunch break en route to a playing site, and to help in the selection of a pair of shoes for one of his players, who shoes for one of his players, who ing pair, during a trip."

The entire article was built around the two hundredth victory the Maroons presented Coach McBrayer by defeating Murray 75-73. The article said this about that game: "Following that narrow 75-73 win over Murray State, Coach McBrayer thanked his team for showing 'great courage and character.' At that time, in a heart-touching moment that every person on the bus will remember the rest of their lives, the 12-player squad, along with a few other team officials, rose and gave the water-eyed 'Big Irishman' a tremendous cheer for having attained his 200th win."

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

ROLAND WIERWILLE has been selected as Player of the Week for his outstanding play in the Tennessee Tech game. Roland sparked Eastern to its 54-48 win by pulling down 14 rebounds and dumping in 20 points.

Gridders Sign Grants-In-Aid

Football coach, Glenn Presnell today announced the signing of two more gridders to football grants-in-aid at Eastern Kentucky State College, making the total number now standing at seven.

George Brauer, a 5-11, 165 pound halfback who will graduate this spring from Baltimore Junior College, and Mike Wolf, 6-2, 197 pound end from Dayton, Ohio, both signed grants this week to do this collegiate playing for the Maroons.

Brauer, who is the Maryland State Amateur Spring Champion, has a 9.6 record in the 100 yard dash. The speed-burner is a graduate of Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Brauer, 1700 Woodbourne Avenue, Baltimore.

Wolf, a rugged highly-sought-after end, was named to the all-city defensive team while playing for Dayton Chaminade High School.

Others who have signed grants at Eastern are Tommy Headen, Louisville Male; Robert Green, Louisville Manual; Richard Carr; and Wendell Wheeler, both of Ashland; and Gene Van Hoose, of Dayton Roosevelt.

ANOTHER MAROON GRIDDER—George Brauer, 5-11, 165 pound halfback from Baltimore Junior College, the latest gridders to sign an Eastern football grant-in-aid. He is pictured being congratulated by head coach Glenn Presnell.

P. R. Hell Week: A Campus Tradition

PERSHING RIFLES PLEDGES in their initiation schedule eat a "square meal" with their eyes closed in the cafeteria. Everything from proposals to duals were seen last week with the pledge the center of attraction.

P. R. PLEDGES BOB LEIGH and Jack Hibbard read to some girls from their Drill Manual while J. R. Eads and Jerry Dryden offer the world in their marriage proposal.

Pike College Students Join Governor's Campaign To Keep Ky. Green

FRANKFORT, KY., Jan.—Pikeville College students have taken the lead among the state's institutions of higher learning in promoting Governor Bert Combs' program to "Make Kentucky A Cleaner, Greener Land."

Ronald E. Webb, president of the college's student body, has organized a group of students to explain the clean-up and beautification program to high school and grade school pupils in the area.

Members of the Pikeville College group have already visited seven Pike county schools, enlisting the co-operation of the schools' pupils in the campaign. They have also distributed literature emphasizing the importance of the drive.

Assistant Conservation Commissioner Robert Montgomery, director of the "Make Kentucky A Cleaner, Greener Land" program, has been impressed with the voluntary work done by the Pikeville College group.

"We have realized from the beginning," Montgomery said, "that if our program is to succeed it must have the active help of the young people of our state."

"This action of the Pikeville College students in initiating their own campaign to assist their work is

P. R.'s Move To Lancaster House

The National Society of Pershing Rifles last week were united in what seems to be the first organized step toward social living at Eastern.

Due to the request initiated by the Pershing Riflemen to move to the Lancaster House, the Administration having foreseen the future and realizing the pressing living conditions and the advent of social living that is now taking place throughout the nation, approved the request for the move.

After reviewing the past performance of the organization to the school, President Martin has entrusted his faith to them in the hope of continued service to Eastern. Also the condition of the Lancaster House was such that a dependable organization was selected in order to maintain and improve the living conditions of the house.

It is hoped that the student body will approve and understand the need for such a fraternal movement.

proof that they realize the importance of our program to the welfare and economy of Kentucky.

"We hope," Montgomery added, "students in other colleges and universities of the state will follow the lead of Pikeville."

Pershing Rifles Initiate 25

Twenty-five strong, determined young men of Eastern were officially initiated into the National Society of Pershing Rifles last Friday. The new members are Jim Salyer, Jim Hughes, Neil Ray, Sam Chandler, Charlie King, John Holland, Ron Elliot, Bob Leigh, Ed Oler, J. E. Eads, Willie Joe Pack, Don Estes, Brent Pace, Jerry Dryden, Greg Thacker, Bill Robinson, Jack Hibbard, Wade Evans, Chester Hillard, Eddie Hitch, Tom Talbot, Hershel Hise, Jim McKinney, Vernon Hutchcraft, and Jim Cornett.

Hell week started Saturday midnight, and for one entire week the pledges were trooping and stomping all over the campus and Madison county. Various methods of mental harassment were used in weeding out the weak and non-determined boys from the men. Everyone saw the pledges, saluting doors and water fountains, marching in the grill, carrying big juicy onions and eggs and dancing with one another. The speeches and resitation were something to hear. Everyone had some fun, the spectators, the revengful sophomores, the active P. R. members and, of course, the pledges who were in the spot light all of the time.

Many people wonder why someone is willing to sacrifice so much just to become a member of the Pershing Rifles organization. There's something the P. R.'s have and to find it you must be one.

Pledge week is over but the work has just begun. The P. R.'s still have the big Regimental Drill meet at Ohio State which will take a lot of preparation.
