Men Students Honored At Assembly

Recognition for scholarship and outstanding school service was formally rendered to outstanding men of the Eastern State College campus in Hiram Brock auditorium when Kappa Iota Epsilon, sophomore men's honorary fraternity, presented the third annual Men's Honors Day program Wednesday morning.

Sophomore, Tony Parrent, president of KIE, presided, and Lt. Col. Alden O. Hatch, head of the military science department, delivered the principal address, "Leadership, Scholarship and Service."

Col. Hatch told the young men honored that they have proved themselves "to be scholars, leaders and doers." He continued: "It doesn't matter how good the professors are, the important thing is how good a student you are because the professors do not give you an education, you earn it. You should take every opportunity you can to gain knowledge now while you have time to study. Your one main purpose in being here is to prepare you to become a leader for your country."

The speaker added that all of the scholars were not honored in the recognition program today but all young men who have studied and worked hard to learn have accomplished their purpose.

Recognition For Standings
Recognition for standings of 2.5 or better went to freshmen Roy F. Crosthwaite, 2.8, Cheviot, Ohio; Ben V. Flora, 2.6, Bellevue; Gus Franklin, 2.7, Bellevue; Henry W. Giles, 2.7, Richmond; Richard D. Laxton, 2.6, Evanston; Thomas S. Logsdon, 2.6, Springfield; Charles H. Mastin, 2.5, Cynthia; Gobel

Milestone Banquet Honors Winners; Yearbook Will Be Different

The Milestone banquet will be held May 22 at Boone Tavern in Berea at 6:30 p. m. The guests will include President and Mrs. W. F. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Reed, Billie Sue Click, Betty Jean McLocklin and Robert Zweigart.

The occasion of the banquet will be to honor the three students selected as Miss Eastern 2nd, Mr. and Miss Popularity, and to celebrate the production of the 1956 Milestone.

Mr. Reed, the printer, will present the editor with the first copy off the press. Staff members and guests will also receive copies of the new annual at the dinner. This year's Milestone is dedicated to the faculty advisor, Dr. H. Lafuze.

New Look

The '56 Milestone will have a new look. The new cover design will begin the theme of the 59th anniversary which is carried throughout the book.

Two new sections have been added to feature academic achievements of both students and departments. The content has been rearranged to make it more appealing and to reduce monotony.

The Milestone is rated every year by the National Collegiate Press Association. In 1954 the rating was 3rd class and in 1955 our Milestone received a 2nd class rating. The staff hopes that adding the new features will raise the rating for this year even higher than before.

Billy Roy Murphy, business manager, hopes that the Milestone will be ready for distribution to the student body May 25 or 26. Notices will be posted as to the manner of distribution.

Let's Pipe Down

It is a natural thing, when spring is in the air and the sun is shining bright, to want to get out and enjoy the warmth and the scudding breezes, and these warm days are lifting spirits that perhaps have been in the doldrums all the winter. But with the lifted spirits have come lifted voices, and a lot of horseplay on the walks and even in the class building corridors outside class rooms where classes are in session.

Eastern spend a lot of money on teacher salaries and students spend a lot of money coming to Eastern to learn. Learning is impossible with a lot of noise around the class rooms at the beginnings and during the last fifteen minutes of class periods as students gather for the classes the next hour.

Classes are greatly disturbed. Teachers are only human; they cannot teach with a great deal of commotion. Students are human too. They can't be expected to hear, much less absorb any knowledge, with all the riotous voices of spring set loose under every window.

So let's respect the classes that are in session when we are out in the sun or gabbing in the corridors. Let's keep the racket down and let Eastern and her students get their money's worth.

The Prowler Prowls Again

Progress Columnist of 25 Years Ago
Return for Guest Shot — Welcome Prowler

The communication below comes from one who used to make these pages regularly as a Progress columnist back in the halcyon days when Eastern and the world were young. Over the pseudonym of "The Prowler," so our archives tell us, he roamed the shadows hereabouts, bringing into the limelight of print many a human-interest tidbit of the doings of our parents—or was it our grandparents?—when they were walking where we are walking, and with hearts as light and gay.

We are told that The Prowler of yesterday is in reality a certain Mr. Fred Dial, former classmate of Professor R. R. Richards of Eastern, and now a member of the teaching staff of Georgia Military Academy of Park, Georgia.

Welcome home, The Prowler:

It is not often that one gets to be fifty years old. So, congratulations, Eastern, from one who roamed your halls, trod your campus, had a glorious four years there, and got a little learnin' in the bargain. Congratulations on your fiftieth birthday.

President T. J. Coates was in command when I enrolled as a lanky, fresh - from - the - country freshman. At the start of my third year President H. L. Donovan came along, taking over from Dr. Homer E. Cooper, dean of the faculty, who had been acting president for a half year.

Many changes took place those four years. Burnam Hall was completed, with those famed two-room suites for young ladies, a marvelous cafeteria in the basement, and the pleasant, not-to-be-forgotten reception room where a fellow could spend a few minutes every now and then with his currently favored co-ed.

Coates Administration Building and Brock Auditorium came into being during those four years, and the present Health Building was in the making.

And look what has happened since! A fine Student Union Building, an Arts Building, Men's Dormitories, football stadium, baseball field, and other improvements that I do not even know about! Fortunate young people of 1955, to become a part of the Eastern legend.

But with all the changes, it still takes young men and young women to make a school. No change in that respect—and not much change in some other respects, it's for sure. No doubt the "couples" still love to view the scenery down the slopes from the campus drive this time of year, and other couples still haunt the steps of college buildings on late sunny afternoons and at twilight hours.

In the old days no evening was complete without a visit to the Burnam reception room after leaving the cafeteria. Now the visitin' is in Student Union—change in locale but not in purpose. The bookstore and post office are in a new location. But a bookstone—with or without a grill attached—is still a good place for a chat and a coke. And that quick and hopeful glance at the mailbox for a letter from home—or elsewhere—is still the same, no doubt, as it was twenty-five years and more ago.

We congratulate you young men and young women on your privilege of attending such a wonderful school. And to Eastern, again congratulations on your half a hundred years, and on the present crop of youngsters that you have in your care.

Let's hope for a good many more half centuries.

—THE PROWLER.

Kentucky Mourns Barkley

Senator Alben W. Barkley is dead. He is mourned by his state. He is mourned by his party, his family and indeed by the nation.

A man of great political stature has dropped from the ranks, from the roll of Congress, from the register of Kentucky's leading men.

It doesn't matter whether you are Republican or Democrat. It doesn't matter whether you voted for or against him, if you could vote. You will miss his political leadership.

Senator Barkley was perhaps Kentucky's last politician of an old and sometimes forgotten school. He was a Kentucky gentleman looking to the needs of the nation, then Kentucky, and then his party, both as Senator and as Vice-President of the United States.

He was of another generation than that of our present politicians, and he represented a quality of statesmanship which is the goal of every honest politician.

We are not discussing his personal political beliefs. He might have been from another state. We are fortunate that he was a Kentuckian. He might have stood for vastly different things. It is the way he stood for and supported his beliefs that we commend, and it is his kind of statesmanship that we shall miss.

Cheerful Thought
His Own System
A little boy, caught in mischief, was asked by his mother: "How did you expect to get into heaven?"
He thought a minute and then said: "Well, I'll just run in and out and in and out and keep slamming the door till they say, 'For goodness sake, come in or stay out!' Then I'll go in."

Mrs. Neille Moore of Whitesburg announce the engagement of her daughter, Ethel Lee, to W. S. Waincott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waincott of Williamstown. Both are students at Eastern. No date has been set for the wedding.

Senseless Death Claims Victim Drunks Smash Innocent Car On 25

In the first hour of full dark, Sunday night, a car—it doesn't matter what make—carrying two drunken men—their names don't matter either—was traveling north on Route 25 south of Berea. It struck head-on a car carrying a man, four women and a child—their names aren't important either. The man driving the struck car was crushed into the steering wheel. A woman in the back seat was seriously cut and had two bone fractures.

The drunks were unharmed. A trucker pulling a load north stopped and put out red flares in the darkness to slow traffic around the accident. He waved down a passing car with three Eastern students in it and asked them to help the unfortunate people.

They looked at the wrecked cars, talked to the people in the car. They were afraid to move the injured, afraid of further injuring them. It was six miles to a telephone. Six miles means 30 minutes delay in getting help. Those 30 minutes passed while the injured people sat shocked and hurt in the welter of blood and glass.

The two drunks, unscratched, sat in their car in a stupor—half alcoholic and half shock.

The state police arrived in a flurry of sirens and red lights and looked to the injured. Traffic was stopped for half a mile. Nearly a hundred morbidly curious people stood around staring at the accident, not offering to help the police with traffic control or with trying to aid the injured.

The ambulances arrived in another flurry of red and noise. The six ambulance men and a few of the bystanders gently moved the injured into the waiting ambulances.

They roared away to the hospital in Berea. Gradually the traffic jam moved out and there was no light left except the wrecker pulling the two cars into town and the last burning ends of the red flares.

In the long dim basement corridor of the Berea Hospital, doctors and nurses who had been off-duty came flying to aid in blue jeans and bright shirts and sweaters and skirts. There was no time to sterilize. The injured woman was checked and declared out of danger. The other women were given sedatives. The man lay on an ambulance cot in the emergency operating room. He died there.

The doctor worked swiftly and carefully; he cut into the man's chest and held the dead heart in his hand—gently massaging it until the man came a little back to life. For an hour the doctor worked, but the shock had taken too much of the man. He died again. He was 25.

In the hallway, one of the injured women huddled into a blanket and held her sleeping baby to her. She was praying. The two drunks sat across the narrow hall from her. One had his head down on a surgery cart.

A man was dead and a woman prayed quietly. The drunk raised his head a little and vomited on the floor. It splashed onto the blanket around the praying woman.

Derby Better Laments Choice A Student Views Mother

As I approached the Grille on Monday morning a wave of depression and hunger assaulted me—mostly hunger. I tightened my fingers on the cold mound of coins in my pocket and vainly regretted Saturday. I had promised myself laughingly that I wouldn't lose a Derby, but I did and it turned out to be no joke. Hungrily I remembered Saturday.

"Wake up, Jerk. We're almost there."

Ach's voice jarred me awake from my dream of Pentor Lea the Derby, but I did, and it turned with the roses. I unstuck my eyes and yawned twice as we passed through Shelbyville. It was still early morning.

"I wish you'd put your shoes on," Ach said.

I dug under the seat for a moment and emerged with the little blue and lavender mess of straps installed on a slender green stalk called by expert salesman latest thing out in high-heeled sandals.

"Do you call those things shoes?" Ach asked sarcastically.

I would have struck him if he hadn't been my blood brother and if we hadn't had guests in the car. Then Louisville loomed ahead and Whiff came alive and really saved Ach's neck.

"Gee," he said, "We'll never get to the tracks."

Merce, who was driving, cleared his throat and we all relaxed, with hands folded, and waited for his speech.

"It appears to me," he said, "that we are going to be held up a few hours by traffic, so I propose that one of you remove himself to the tracks by mounting a Greyhound so as to place our bets before race time. The rest of us will leave the car to be pushed along by traffic, and then we will migrate on foot to Aunt Lavere's for breakfast."

Robby, whom I love, removed his sleep-laden face from the floor boards and made a brilliant statement. "Nuts," he said.

The rest of us agreed with him, but we let Whiff out at the corner right below Lotie's Place. Then we went out to Aunt Lavere's. Upon arriving we found that she had been camping at the tracks for three days so she wouldn't miss any of the race, but we didn't let her absence hinder our visit any. Robby trudged out into the kitchen and made us all some peanut butter sandwiches on cold toast while I read orally from a book of 1,000 recipes for cherry pie. When I got to the forty-third way, Ach said we had better go, so I put my shoes on and he frowned.

"Do you call those things shoes?" he asked.

I leered at him, and Robby, who loves me, moved over to protect me because he's not afraid of anybody's blood brother, much less Ach.

About an hour later we found the car being pushed the wrong way on Third Street by a blue Cadillac. Merce cleared his throat, again and began orating.

"We shall commence to proceed toward the tracks as soon as I re-establish this vehicle in its proper lipse."

"Nuts," Robby said brilliantly.

The rest of the day we spent approaching the tracks. We found our seats just before race time and Whiff was there with an albino pigeon he had caught behind the club house. The odor of beer was seeping from all around him.

"Did you place the bets?" Ach shrieked.

"Berja life I did," Whiff said.

"What on?" Ach asked.

"Place your all's thirty-four on Pin Lea to win," he said.

"Who'd you bet on?" Ach asked.

"Oertle's Ninety-two. The finest quality brew. That's old Whiff's baby."

Ach moaned and the horses were off. We almost saw them once, but then the crowd surged between us and the track, and all we could see was the back of a fat man with fourteen Racing Forms under his arm. I counted then and screamed for Pintor Lea until somebody told me about a half hour later that the race was over.

We scattered our tickets around our seats despite childhood training of never dropping paper to the ground. Bobby helped me search in vain for my left sandal while Merce kept calling for a photo on the race; he was sure Pintor Lea had won.

Early the next morning we found the car and started home. Whiff was having a hangover in the backseat, complete with dry heaves. Merce had lost all his

... by Doug Robinson

Is there a day that goes by that we do not think of Mom, Mother, Ma, or whatever endearing noun we call our mother? Like the sea shell, wherever we go a part of home goes with us, and, of course, home means Mom and Dad, but most of all, Mania—like the whirling sound that you hear from the sea shell when you place it near your ear, you, too, have a part of Mom with you all the time!

I had not thought of this year's approaching day set aside for mothers until I was in assembly dignity and was still calling back madly toward the tracks for a photo of the finish. Ach was complaining about my shoe, which we never found, when Bobby suddenly remembered that he had left the refrigerator door open at Aunt Lavere's. The Derby was over.

Faint from the new trip and hunger, I approached the Grille door on Mon. morning clutching the cold mound of coins. My only consolation was that if Fearless Fosdick could live a week on forty-two cents, I ought to be able to do it in fifty-seven.

listening to the program that the choir gave; I was sitting there absorbed in listening and enjoying the singing when suddenly out of the midst came the haunting and penetrating voice of a tenor singing a simple ballad called "Yonder." There was something about the song that made me think of home and Mama.

Home—suddenly I was smelling the delicate and delicious aroma of cooked and cooking foods that comes from the kitchen where Mama spends most of her time. I was seeing her going about her work humming—as busy as a bee. My heart was hungrily filled with an intense longing to be home, home where security beckoned to me to come.

Then it came to me, as it has undoubtedly to you, how much we take our mothers for granted. We don't mean to, but we do! We are so used to Mama doing for us that we find it hard at times to do for ourselves. A mother is a many-splendored treasure: a comforter, a friend, a companion, but above all a mother. When we seem at our wit's end, a word from Mama at just the right moment can mend and make the day

Mother's Day is one of the most special occasions of the college year. For nineteen years Mrs. Emma Y. Case, dean of women, has sponsored this event, and each year it grows more impressive. There is a specially designed program prepared for mothers in the Student Union Building. There will be music, speeches—and afterwards an informal party in Burman Hall. Then we will have a chance to introduce Mama to all our friends, their mothers, our teachers. It will be a day that she will never forget.
After she has dedicated 365 days to us, we dedicate one day to Mother. Let's MAKE IT A GREAT DAY. HAVE YOU INVITED HER?

IF YOU ARE AMONG THE CATEGORY OF "SUITCASERS" AND HAVE NOT SEEN ANY OF THE SPRING SPORTING EVENTS, THEN YOU HAVE MISSED SOMETHING THAT IS A PART OF YOUR COLLEGE EDUCATION AND ALSO A PART OF YOUR OBLIGATION TO THE COLLEGE.

There is nothing to lose by attending the baseball games, track meets, golf or tennis matches. After all, no admission is charged and the caliber of talent that you see is much better than at the high schools that you attended, and you supported them. So, if you haven't already packed your suitcase and headed for home by the time this humble piece of writing is out, how about giving it a try just this one weekend, one of the few that remains before the school year is over. Instead of going home to Mom's cooking, invite her and the rest of your family down for the weekend—this weekend, in particular, to attend the Mother's Day services on Sunday and take her out for dinner. And, if she gets here early enough, take her to the ball park with you. I'm sure she would enjoy it.

Tomorrow will be your last chance to see the Maroon baseballers and the track squad in action this year. The baseball team closes its home season, playing host to the University of Kentucky, while the thin-clads host the University of Louisville on the cinders at Hanger Stadium.

The largest crowd of the season should be on hand at both events to watch top-notch outfits go at it. All of you fans who like both baseball and track can watch most of the track meet and still get to the baseball field in time for the 2:30 p.m. encounter with the Wildcats.

John Cooper's tennis squad is at Cookeville, Tennessee, tomorrow to meet the Tech Eagles. They have one home match remaining, that being Monday afternoon with Centre College.

And, Smith Park's golf team will meet Centre also on Monday at the Madison Country Club, and Kentucky May 24 to close out the season.

WELL, GENE BALLINGER, THE "BAD WEATHER" JINX on the Maroons' pitching staff, finally had the opportunity to start a game last Saturday and, although beaten by Tennessee Tech by a 5 to 3 score, Gene pitched himself a fine ball game. The former Madison-Model athlete had been previously rained out of a game in which he was scheduled to pitch. The lanky curve-ball artist has hurled some good baseball this spring and will go today against Transy, if he didn't pitch yesterday against Morehead. Ballinger and Dan Bennett were to hurl the two games but who was to pitch which game wasn't definite at the time of this writing.

Mr. W. L. KEENE, "Progress", faculty advisor, who was the master of ceremonies at the recent athletic banquet on the campus, did a job well worth mentioning. The jovial professor of English used adjectives galore in introducing Eastern's coaches. When he got around to introducing Shirley Kearns, who coached the freshman cage squad this year, and was substituting for the ailing Coach Paul McBrayer at the banquet, Mr. Keene, who, incidentally, is Shirley's father-in-law, said, "And now, I would like to present a young man that I seem to know very vaguely, who is substituting for the beloved, respected, great, popular, immortal, Coach Paul McBrayer, Mr. Shirley Kearns." We were expecting Shirley to reply, "Thanks, Pop" But, he didn't.

THE SURPRISE FIND OF THE YEAR among the baseball squad was their sophomore third baseman, Angus Begley. Hailing from the mountains of Hyden, Kentucky, Begley sat out the season opener but his desire and attitude made him too strong a competitor and he couldn't be kept out of the lineup. Angus, in seven games, has rapped out 12 base hits in 33 times at the platter for a very respectable .364 batting average. He has batted in 11 runs, only two off the pace Don Boyer is setting.

BEGLEY

WE'RE GLAD TO SEE that an intra-mural softball league has been formed. And, we understand that the fellow behind this move was George Griffin. So, George, we would like to recognize you at this time for that move. Incidentally, George is quite a softball pitcher.

PARTICIPATING IN HIS FIRST TRACK MEET, Carl Wright, popular as a Maroon basketballer, took first place honors in the mile run and second place in the two mile last Saturday at Lexington. What makes this so interesting is that Wright was running against two teams, both Kentucky and Western in the triangular track meet at Stoll Field.

NOW, COMES THE TIME FOR MORE FUN. Let's begin with a little animation. "Mr. Pawnbroker," said the customer, "This is my talking dog. I'll sell him to you for five bucks."

"Go way with that talking dog nonsense," growled the pawnbroker.

The dog looked up with tears in his eyes. "Please buy me," he pleaded. "This guy has been cruel to me—me, the greatest athletic dog in the country. Why, I beat Dillard in the hurdles. I outscored Mikan in the 1943 NCAA. I beat Willie Mays in a home run hitting contest."

"Well," cried the pawnbroker. "He really talks! What a miracle! Why sell a dog like that for five bucks?"

"Because," replied the customer, "I'm sick and tired of his lying!"

Converting an outfielder into a third baseman is real tough, requiring a long orientation period plus a selling job on the prospect. For example, when Bob Elliott was persuaded to try the noble experiment years ago, his manager, Frankie Frisch, told him that the infield would add five years to his baseball life.

The first ground ball hit at Bob caromed off his skull, knocking him cold. Upon being revived, he looked up at Frisch. "There," he said, "go at least three of those five years."

U. K. Edges Thin-Clads; U. L. Here Tomorrow

Glenn Presnell's under-strength Maroon cindermen finished second in a triangular track affair at Lexington's Stoll Field last Saturday behind the victor, Kentucky, and ahead of third place, Western Kentucky.

The Wildcats of Kentucky accumulated 68½ points, while Eastern finished second with 43½. Western had 39 points for third place.

Billy Mitchell sparked the Wildcats, winning the high jump, in which he set a new UK record when he leaped six feet, two and three-fourths inches, the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash.

The Maroons had no entries in the sprints or the pole vault as some of the thin-clads remained in Richmond to play on the baseball team and others were out due to injuries.

Presnell's lads scored well in the distance events and the field events. Carl Wright, making his first appearance, won the mile run and Garman, third.

Tod Lanter placed third in the 880 and Billy Rucker, second in the 440.

Eastern took all three honors in the discus with Don Hortman winning the event with a throw of 134 ft. 4½ inches. Bob Tishue placed second and Earl Knight, third. Knight got a third in the shot and Hortman, fourth place. Without the services of their ace broad jumper, Al Pipes, the Maroons did manage to get a third place from freshman Hugh Gabbard. The Maroons, under-strength also in the mile relay, placed second.

In dual competition, Eastern has a record of two wins against three losses. They hold wins over Georgetown and Union, while they have been defeated by Tennessee Tech, Berea, and Morehead.

Eastern Golf Team In O. V. C. Conference

by Bob Zweigart
Eastern at last ended Tennessee's athletic supremacy but it took the little heard of Maroon team to do it. Tech has taken the first golf match at Cookeville from Eastern this year, Tuesday, at the local golf course, the Maroon linksters really got hot to put down the conference champions 12-6. Bobby Young, with a 73, beat Bill Branch, Tech's number one man, 2½ points; but Ron Hickman's 76 bested Bob Zweigart's 76 for all three points. Tom Hammons, playing number two for Eastern, fired a blazing 73 to take Bob Clevenger for 2½ points. Don Edwards' 74 took 2 points from Tech's third man, Hubert Smith. This brought Eastern's winning streak to five straight with an overall record of 6 wins, 2 losses, and 1 tie. It was Tech's second defeat of the season and the first time in three years that the Maroons have even come close to the Tennessee golfers.

Maroons Knocked Out Of Conference Race Meet Transy Today, U. K. Tomorrow

Eastern's Maroons, knocked out of the Ohio Valley Conference eastern division race last Saturday by champion Tennessee Tech, seek their second win of the year over Transylvania's Pioneers this afternoon at Lexington, and play host to the University of Kentucky-Wildcats tomorrow at Maroon field. Game time for tomorrow's home finale is 2:30 p.m., CDT.

Local fans will have their last opportunity to see the Maroons in action this year tomorrow against the Wildcats and a goodly gathering is expected to be on hand for the affair. The Maroons, beaten 5 to 3 last Saturday by strong Tennessee Tech, the defending OVC champion, are now out of the race for the eastern division crown and the fight to meet the winner of the Western division in the loop playoffs on May 17 and 18.

beating the Eastern Maroons 5 to 3 in a closely-contested and well-played baseball encounter. Ballinger To Pitch Today Gene Ballinger, loser to Tech last Saturday in a well pitched game, will probably be on the mound this afternoon when the Maroons meet Transy and either Pellegrinon or freshman Dan Bennett will go tomorrow against the Cats from the University of Kentucky. After eight games, the Maroons have themselves with four wins, three losses and a tie. The charges of Coach "Turkey" Hughes boast a very respectable team batting average of .295, with 88 base knocks in 295 times at bat.

while senior shortstop Kenny Stephens is third with 15 hits in 37 at bats for a .405 average. Boyer leads in homeruns with three, and runs batted in, with 13, while Stephens leads in triples, with five, and stolen bases, with eight, two of which have been thefts of home. The number four hitter on the club is Angus Begley, sophomore third baseman, with 12 hits in 33 at bats for a .364 mark, while Bobby Brown, senior rightfielder, rounds out the .300 or better hitters, with a .320 average. Kiser Leads Pitchers Jim Kiser, sophomore southpaw, is the leading hurler, with two victories and no defeats. He has given up 19 runs, 11 of which have been earned, in 20½ innings, 24 hits, 10 bases on balls, and struck out 11, and hit one batsman in compiling his 2 and 0 record. Kiser was slated to twirl against Kentucky Wednesday. Other Maroon hurlers with a win to their credit are Dan Bennett, freshman righthander, who has a 1 and 0 mark, and senior righthander Ron Pellegrinon, with a 1 and 1 slate.

The Maroons met Kentucky Wednesday at Lexington and were ahead yesterday on the local diamond. (For results, see story on this page). Last Friday, Transy's Pioneers were on the short end of a 9 to 3 count in a Maroon field encounter. Senior Ron Pellegrinon and freshman Don Stahl limited the Lexingtonians to just four safeties. Pellegrinon, in six and two-thirds innings, gave up three hits and fanned three. Tech Whips Eastern Tennessee Tech's Golden Eagles crapped up the championship of the Ohio Valley Conference eastern division here last Saturday in

Still leading the Maroon hitters is senior centerfielder Al Pipes, having rapped out 16 safeties in 35 at bats for a .457 average. Pipes is tied with Stephens and Boyer for the number of doubles, with three. Don Boyer, senior catcher, has moved up to the number two spot, as of the first of the week, with 12 base hits in 29 at bats for a .414 average

Head coach and athletic director, "Turkey" Hughes, announced that the Maroons will meet the Western Hilltoppers in a doubleheader at Bowling Green next week in case the Toppers do not get into the playoffs, which are scheduled to get underway next week. Then, the Maroons meet Louisville at Parkway Field in Louisville on the 24th and close out their season at Berea on May 26, meeting the Berea College Mountaineers in a return game.

Eastern Takes Xavier

Monday, the Eastern boys took Xavier 9½-8½ at Waketawah Country Club in Cincinnati. Bobby Young, our most dependable man, was low for both teams with a 73, but Tom Hammons moved up to the number two position with an 80 as Don Edwards and Bob Zweigart came in with 84 and 85 respectively.

At Bowling Green last Saturday, Eastern defeated Western for the second time this spring by a score of 10½-7½. Bobby Young shot a one-under par 69; just behind him was Don Edwards' 72 and Bob Zweigart's and Tom Hammons' 74.

Other matches include our victory over Centre at Danville, 14-4, as Don Edwards came in low with a 74. At Louisville the Bellarmine linksters went down 10-8. Edwards again was low with a 73. Our second defeat came at the hands of a powerful Louisville team at Louisville; we were smothered 16-2. The previous match with Tennessee Tech wasn't quite as successful; Coach Roy Brown's Eagles have been O. V. C. champs for the past two years.

Eastern's golf team is young—this is only its third year. The past two seasons found the Maroons finishing fourth in the conference, but prospects have been much brighter this spring.

Only Western, Tennessee Tech, Middle Tennessee, and Eastern will enter teams in the O. V. C. tournament at Murfreesboro next weekend.

First Golf Coach For the first time, Eastern has a coach to lead its golfers, Dr. Smith Parke, who is now also the president of the Madison Country Club. He is very enthusiastic about the golf team and is doing a creditable job of organizing it. The golf team is the smallest athletic team at Eastern; it carries only four players although some schools use six or eight men. Starting the season as number one man was Bobby Young, a freshman from here in Richmond. Last year Bobby finished third in State High School competition and last fall won the Madison Invitational Tournament here. Bobby is a long hitting, par-shooting golfer who can always be counted on.

Don Edwards, a sophomore and also from Richmond, started the season at number two position. Don is a veteran; his greatest golfing asset is his hiking experience he picked up in the infantry. About Ben Hogan's size and temperament, Don has a local reputation for being a cool-headed, consistent golfer who averages in the low seventies.

The bottom half of Eastern's golf team has less to show and a lot farther to go than the one and two men. But Tom Hammons has blossomed out with 5½ out of six points which proved decisive in winning the Xavier and Tech matches this week. His 73 against Tech was nothing short of sensational. Bob Zweigart, bringing up the rear, hasn't done so well, but is in there fighting.

Final Two Home Matches

The final two matches of the season will be played at the Madison Country Club. Centre is here Monday, May 14 and Kentucky Thursday, May 24. Dr. Parke has invited all students to watch these matches. You are sure to see some good golf and enjoy it whether you have ever played or not.

P. E. Majors To Continue Study

Miss Katherine Ann Johnson and Ray Brackett, both senior physical education majors at Eastern, have received graduate assistantships in the field of physical education and recreation at Eastern Kentucky State College and Penn State, respectively, for the school year, 1956-57, it was announced this week.

Miss Johnson is the third woman physical education major from Eastern this year to receive an assistantship. Previously, Dorothy Quisenberry and Betty Jim Ross received graduate assistantships at Tennessee and Smith College, respectively. Miss Johnson, who will receive her B. S. from Eastern this spring, is the president of the WRA, and an active member in the Drum and Saddle, the Kappa Kappa Sigma, and has her instructor's in First Aid and Water Safety. This summer she will be water-front director in Texas.

Miss Gertrude Hood, head of the women's physical education department at Eastern, says Katherine is as deserving as any girl anywhere. "She is an active participant in every venture of the physical education department, playing a large role in every occasion that takes place," says Miss Hood.

Ray Brackett, who is also scheduled to receive his B.S. in physical education from Eastern this spring, received his assistantship at Penn State, where he will be a candidate for the M. S. degree in physical education. Ray is married to the former Francis Preston of Allen, Kentucky. He is the president of the Physical Education Club and an active member of the Veteran's Club on the campus. One of the outstanding physical education seniors on the campus, Ray is from Louisville, Kentucky.

NEWS from our ALUMNI

News, Please! Alumni In Business

This page of the Progress has been set aside for news of the alumni, for the alumni, or by the alumni.

Sometimes there is more than enough to fill the page and something has to be omitted or deferred. Most often deferred are notices of weddings or the arrival of junior alumni. When this happens, effort is made not to postpone these items until the wedding has grown old or the infant grown up.

Little Lost Eagle

But sometimes an item gets lost. Such was the case of the birth announcement of Gary Gene Eagle, which belatedly appears in this issue. This announcement was set in print months ago and was then lost in the hurly-burly of a print shop. Now it has been found and printed, with the hope that Gary Gene, now all of six months old, is growing in stature and wisdom, unperturbed by an unintended neglect.

More Information

Sometimes there is not enough news. Then the editors begin to wonder if, among the 5000 alumni there aren't dozens of news or human interest items that would grace or honor this page, or give spice or piquancy or warmth or wisdom to it.

So the reason for this writing: The Progress welcomes news or human interest items of, for, or by the alumni. They should be brief, usually. It is hoped that all can be printed.

Junior Alumni Grown Up

Eastern's "Junior Alumni File" often loses members to the alumni files of Eastern and other institutions of higher learning.

This year Miss Shirley Ann Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Rose, will become an alumna of the University of Louisville. Shirley Ann has two sisters, one in the elementary grades and one in a junior high school of Louisville. Mr. Rose, class of '32, former teacher, county superintendent, and state senator is now contract negotiator for the Veterans Administration in Louisville. He and his family live at 2381 Valley Vista Road.

Kenneth A. Marshall, '31, informs us that if the graduation of his daughter, Patricia True Marshall, from Duke University this spring conflicts with the twenty-fifth anniversary reunion of his class at Eastern, then Patricia's graduation comes first. Mr. Marshall and his family live at 115 East Ash Street, Goldsboro, North Carolina.

Harold M. Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bell, is valedictorian of his class at Wayne High School at Monticello, Kentucky. Record Attendance Sought For 50th Anniversary Reunion

Record Attendance Sought For 50th Anniversary Reunion

... The fifty years since last we met
Seem to be fifty folios bound and set
By Time, the great transcriber, on his shelves,
Wherein are written the histories of ourselves.
Longfellow: "Morituri Salutamus"

A larger than usual number of alumni are expected to return to the campus for the fiftieth anniversary reunion, alumni banquet, and commencement beginning Saturday, May 26.

Activities will begin with registration and open house for returning alumni in the Student Union Building from 2:00 to 5:00 Saturday afternoon, and will continue with the annual six o'clock reception and dinner.

Group Host and Hostesses

It is hoped that no returning alumna or alumnus will feel lonely on the campus this year. For not only is every class specially invited, but all classes are grouped in larger units, with a hostess or host for each, whose business it will be to insure for all a feeling of being at home.

"The Pioneers," so named by themselves, are the veterans of the first three classes, who were here during the brief but brilliant administration of Dr. and Mrs. Ruric Nevil Roark. Mrs. C. S. Dale is hostess of the "Pioneers."

The six classes of 1911-1916, with Marcus C. Redwine, of Winchester, as host, will meet under the banner of President John Grant Crabbe's regime. They will be known as the "Crabbes," though surely there will be nothing "crabbed"—not even "crabbed age," as the poet puts it—among them.

Host and hostesses of the other three groups had not been appointed when this was written. But these groups will be known as "The Coates" (or should it be "The Coateses"?), for 1917-28; "The Donovans," for 1929-1941; and "The O'Donnells," for the past fifteen years.

Other Groups Invited

In addition to these combinations of classes, other groups given special invitations are the present and past members of the Board of Regents, former members of the faculty and staff, past officers of the Alumni Association, and the mid-fifty-years class, the graduates of 1931.

Program Book Available

Details on program and plans will be available in the "Program Book" made available at the time of registration. Some advance announcements are that dress for the alumni dinner will be informal, and that tickets, which are

$1.50, should be requested at least by May 19.

All in all, this seems like a proper year for all alumni within reach of the campus to return and to read again some of the membered pages of those "folios bound and set

By Time, the great transcriber on his shelves,
Wherein are written the histories of ourselves."

Faculty Speak At High School Commencements

Several members of the faculty will make commencement addresses this month.

President O'Donnell will be commencement speaker at Anderson High School May 17, at Barboursville May 24, and at Carrollton May 31.

Dean Moore's schedule of commencement addresses includes Liberty May 3, Monticello May 8, and Berea May 29.

Dr. Jagers addressed commencement audiences at April 25, and at Rockhold May 27. He will go to Hellier High School May 10, Vanceburg May 22, Hustonville May 23, and Cambridgeburg May 25.

Dr. L. G. Kennamer, who once introduced as "the man who has made more commencement addresses than any other in Kentucky," and who in his peak years gave commencement speeches at present limiting himself to some commitment, an address at Bald Knob High School, in Franklin County, May 23.

Vets Views

BY GORDON DAVIS

The Vets Club, at their regular meeting May 8, donated $15 toward the purchase of a resuscitator to be used in and around Hammond. The gift resulted from a statement by Milton Hall of the Hammond Fire Department that a resuscitator, free of cost to the club, is needed for emergency use in the Richmond area.

Attendance Encouraged James Williams, president of the club, brought out that attendance at recent meetings has been good. Appreciation was expressed to all who had paid their one-dollar dues, but it was emphasized that a dollar's worth of energy is needed too.

It was urged that all veterans did not join the club this year. Present membership is 150. There are some 300 veterans who are not joined.

The club is having a wiener party at Lake Reba May 17 at 7 p. m. Every Vet is invited to bring his girl friend or "squaw" to attend the outing. Everything free.

Public Law From the registrar's office, news worth passing along to veterans subject to Public Law (Korean vets) should come to the office after they have had their examinations and their attendance report. This provides a check that will be given around June 20.

Memorial Fund Funds for the Vets' Memorial program are coming along fine. Hopes are strong for a good year by fall. New ideas concerning the program are welcomed. The Vets Club was represented Sunday evening by Dr. Jaggs, chairman of the Eastern District, in a discussion of the American Flag Means Life.

The college year draws to its close, it should be noted the Vets Club has accomplished what a lot of people did not think could be done. President James Williams has shown that can be done with an organization. President Williams proved himself a capable manager of the Vets Club work, and no doubt present and new members will be of this in the fall election for Vets Club officers.

VOISINE—SWANN Lorraine Voisine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albenie Voisine, Beryon, Maine, and A-2C Ron Swann, formerly of Russell, Maine, are united in marriage March 10 in Maine. Mr. Swann attended Eastern.

Senior Women Receive Fellowships

Official announcement has been released from President W. F. O'Donnell's office that four senior women who will be graduating this month have been awarded graduate fellowships on the campus for this next year.

Joyce Blevins and Ray Davis will be working through the dean of women's office as freshman counselors in Sullivan Hall. Katherine Ann Johnson will be assisting as a member of the staff of the health and physical education department. Dolores Samson's fellowship will include work in the dean of women's office.

Miss Blevins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Blevins of Ashland, Kentucky. Her college activities include physical education club, Women's Recreation Association, KYMA Club, Drum and Sandal and serving as a major-ette. She was named on the Who's Who list for 1955-56, recognized for outstanding service and participation in Modern Dance Club 1954-55, and was a nominee for Miss Eastern. She is graduating in May with a B.S. degree in health and physical education.

Ray Davis will also receive her B.S. degree in health and physical education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Davis of Maysville, Kentucky. While in college she has been active in Kappa Kappa Sigma, Women's Recreation Association, KYMA, Drum and Sandal, Physical Education Club, Big Sisters and as a member of the Milestone staff.

Katherine Ann Johnson will be another graduate with a B.S. degree in health and physical education. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Johnson. She is from Winchester, Kentucky.
