Council To Sponsor New Book Exchange

BY JUDY WOODS, News Writer. The Student Council will sponsor a student book exchange between the dates of January 17 and February 2.

Exchange Table. This is how the exchange will work. If you have a book to sell, you should come to the exchange table and write your name, address, and the price you want for your book on an index card.

EKSC Student is Guest of Lt. Gov. Wyatt

TOM ISAAC

Tom Isaac, a junior at Eastern, traveled to Frankfort, Wednesday, at the request of Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt, and as a guest of the Senate, where he presided with the aid of Gov. Wyatt.

Tom is currently president of the Young Democrats Club at Eastern, and has been for the past two years. He is a Commerce major, and has plans on going into politics in Kentucky after serving Uncle Sam for a period of time.

Tom is also active in the Military Science Department here where he holds the rank of Sgt. First Class. He is a member of the P. I. O. Council for the ROTC, and was directly responsible for television coverage of the First Annual Military Day. Tom will be taking an active part in the Senatorial Campaign this year in Kentucky, where he will be backing Lt. Gov. Wilson Wyatt.

Eastern To Send Five To Model U. N. Meet

Eastern has been invited to participate in the Midwest Model United Nations to be held in St. Louis, Missouri, March 29-31, 1962.

The Midwest Model United Nations (Midwest MUN) is designed to stimulate interest in the United Nations and to give each participant an unusual insight into the positions of all countries on the issues of the day.

The Midwest MUN is the largest intercollegiate activity of its kind ever to be held in the Midwest and one of the largest Model United Nations ever planned. Schools from a 22-state area have been invited; however, participation is limited to 103 schools.

The schedule includes two Model General Assembly Plenary Sessions which are attended by all delegates; an all-day meeting of the five Main Committees, which are attended by one member from each delegation; a Model Security Council meeting, which includes the card back to the book exchange. The Student Council will make no money on this project. It will handle neither the books nor the money. The exchange will take place directly between the students.

Seven ROTC Cadets To Receive Commissions

Seven ROTC graduates will receive their gold bars at Corps Period in Hiram Brock Auditorium next Friday. Dr. Robert R. Martin will address the new 2nd Lieutenants and the cadet brigade who will be there in full strength.

Those to be commissioned are as follows: Phillip Edwin Estep, Richmond, will be commissioned in the Ordnance department of the Army. He will receive his B.S. degree in chemistry upon graduation.

PR's Plan 'Hell Week' During Registration

By Harry Campbell, P. I. O. Council Chairman. Sixty-seven pledges will undergo formal and informal initiation in the annual PR Hell Week beginning Saturday, January 27 and continuing through registration week.

During the informal initiation, given by the active members, the pledges will be required to wear an onion and a sign saying "I am a PR Pledgee" around their necks. When a pledge comes to a door, he will be required to stop, come to attention, salute the door, ask permission to enter, and then thank the door after he has entered it.

Students To Elect Winners In Annual Popularity Poll

These bright and shining faces are the persons who will be placed on the Student Council Ballot Monday and Tuesday as nominees for Miss Eastern, Miss Popularity and Mr. Popularity.

Mr., Miss Popularity Miss Eastern Are Titles

BY MARIAN RAZZY, Editor-in-Chief

Candidates for Miss Eastern, Miss Popularity, and Mr. Popularity will be placed before the students the first two days of next week in an all campus election sponsored by the Student Council and the Milestone.

Brenda Bailey, a junior from Demosville is a French major and a candidate for Miss Eastern. Three elementary education majors, Joanne Sanders, a junior from Richmond, Linda Wood, a junior from Austin, and Nancy Hill, a senior from Cincinnati, will also appear on the ballot.

Candidates for Miss Popularity are: Anne Stanley Johnson, an English major from Winchester; Barbara Edwards, a math major from Prospect; Barbara Sammons, a physical education major from Newton, Ohio; Barbara Rose, an Education major from Lee City; and Evelyn Craft, an English major from Frankfort.

Tom Sharp, a physical education major from Cincinnati; Don Stivers, a math-commerce major from Louisville; Jim Campbell, an accounting major from Ashland; and two education majors, Ralph Newman from Ashland and Harve Turner from Frankfort.

Selection of the candidates was based on a qualifications list circulated to the presidents by the sponsoring organizations. Qualifications for Miss Eastern included a classification of junior or senior, a 1.0 standing, possession of beauty, poise and personality, and a good standing with the administration.

Miss and Mr. Popularity are required to be seniors, possess at least a 1.0 standing, be in good standing with the administration, have contributed to campus life, and have a good personality.

Fifty organization presidents were present to select these candidates. Approximately nineteen organizations were not represented at the meeting which was announced a week in advance.

U.K. Debaters Win Bluegrass Tourney

BY SANDY GOODLETT, Staff Writer

The Bluegrass Debate Tournament held at Georgetown last Friday and Saturday was won for the second consecutive year by the University of Kentucky.

U.K. won the tournament by winning all twelve of their debates, and scored a total of 525 speaker points. Carson Newman placed second with 485 total points, while the University of Pittsburgh received 459 points.

Individual points for each of the speakers was given. The winner here was Dino Curris from U.K. with a total of 139 points. He, like his team, was a repeat winner. Eastern's representatives and their total points were for the affirmative, John Rogers, 105, Jim Stivers, 95; for the negative, Tom Roberts, 95, and Richard Moore, 87.

Eastern debated stiff competition in such well qualified schools as the University of Kentucky, Ohio University, Marshall, Miami University from Oxford, Ohio, Carson-Newman, Western, Georgetown, Middle Tennessee, and Morehead State.

Voice and instrumental students will perform in a recital next Tuesday at 7 p. m. in room 300 of the Music Building. Each of the students will play one selection. The recital is open to the public.

Social Security Positions Open To Juniors Or Seniors

R. A. Tweedy, District Manager of the Lexington Social Security Office, will visit the office of Dr. Kerney M. Adams, 2nd floor University Building on Monday, January 22, for the purpose of interviewing Junior and Senior students who may be interested in employment within the Social Security Administration.

He is especially interested in interviewing those students who have recently passed the Federal Service Entrance Examinations. The Social Security representative should arrive on the campus at about 10 a. m. on that Monday.

Wednesday night at the Eastern State College Faculty Round Table, Dr. Henry H. Jack of the Philosophy Department of the University of Kentucky, spoke on the subject, "Mental Disbalance as a Challenge to Philosophy."

According to Dr. Jack, the challenge to philosophy which has been created by the rapid rate of scientific growth in recent years is a tremendous one. Although there has been for the past several decades a recognition of the circular type of thinking in the area of philosophy, by the philosophers themselves, it was the opinion of the speaker that nothing is being done about it that philosophers are neglecting the great issues of contemporary society.

Duo-Pianists Featured In Local Concert

Howard and Patricia Barr, duo-pianists, will perform at the second Community Concert next Wednesday, at 8 p. m. The couple will play at Hiram Brock Auditorium.

This is the evening's program: "Sicilienne," Bach; "Pasecaaglia," Handel; "Variations on a Theme of Beethoven, Opus 35," Saint-Saens; "Rondo in C major, Opus 73," Chopin; "Fetes," Debussy; "Sonata," Poulenc; "Romance, Opus 17," Rachmanoff; and "Fantasy on Themes" from J. Strauss "Die Fledermaus," Lisboetz.

The Barrs have played nationally. Bravo, national music magazine reports that "wherever the Barrs have played, they have been acclaimed by the public and press."

Are You Ready?

Below is the final examination schedule for the first semester. Saturday classes will have the final examination on Saturday, January 20. All grades are due in the Registrar's Office at 8:00 a. m., Friday, January 26.

Table with 3 columns: Class, Examination, and Date. Lists various classes and their exam dates from Monday to Tuesday.

The professor expressed the opinion that, as yet, the impact of science on philosophy has been slight that there seems to be an effort on the part of philosophers to escape the great force created by the rapid rate of scientific growth and development.

ATTENTION MOVIE GOERS! "Gone With The Wind" which will be featured on campus next Tuesday night will start at 7 pm instead of the usual time. This change was instituted because of the exceptional length of the movie.

FIXING THE FIXTURE—Workmen are nearing completion of the renovation in the Student Union Building. Here they are seen hauling one of the huge light fixtures located in the cafeteria. When finished the cafeteria is to have a new look, including air-conditioning, new lighting, and a public address system.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Freedom Of The Press

Freedom of the press has come to be one of the symbols of the Western world. On the campuses of America's colleges and universities, it has been exercised and limited to various degrees. It has come to the place where freedom of the press has a specific meaning when the purpose of the newspaper is made known.

Freedom of the press on a college campus of any size brings with it other abstract words which help it maintain a status. Some of these words include responsibility, mature judgment, and understanding. Taken individually these words can compose the true meaning of freedom of the press. Responsibility means the realization of the power which a paper wields, the audience which the paper is to serve and the organization which it is to represent. Mature judgment means the exercising of the facilities of the mind which grow and bloom with experience. The latter closely hinges on the ability to understand and place all things in somewhat proper perspective.

Freedom of the press is not publishing everything without regard to its validity, its pertinence and its purpose. Part of the job of the editorial staff of every newspaper is its right to sift and to make final decisions concerning all material which will appear in print. Thusly, freedom of the press does not mean complete and utter acceptance of all written and uttered words presented. Freedom of the press, as a part of the total college community, needs no real rules of censorship if the goal of the paper is to serve the students; and if the abstract words are all considered with the phrase, the limitations are set automatically.

Freedom of the press—the meaning of any exact form is in its beholder. —M. B.

GUEST EDITORIAL

What Is A University?

A university is land and buildings and the physical facilities that make it possible for people to learn. It's buildings that carry famous names, that grow in tradition through the years and become a living part of the entirety of a university.

A university is teachers. Not just ordinary teachers, but those special teachers who give much more than is required, who make the learning process pleasant and interesting.

A university is students. It is that undefinable, always changing conglomeration of restless humanity, which swirls and flows around buildings and across lawns, hunting for something. Hunting for the answers to the questions of life, enjoying the arts, understanding the world of protons and microbes, light rays and bridge beams, plant life and animal growth.

A university is that group of people that screams at ball games, sweats through tests, gets bleary-eyed from acres of small print in the library stacks, and occasionally blows off steam by hanging a coach in effigy or staging an impromptu snake-dance on sacred soil.

A university is color. It is the flash of a cheerleader's skirt, bright jersey against a green field, rippling splashes of color in the stands, and the gleam and dazzle of a marching band.

A university is desire. It's the desire to play a good game, to take home a grade slip the folks will like, to gain recognition from others. It's the force that causes students to burn the hours over seemingly endless and useless reports and labs, and instructors to wearily try, just one more time, to explain something to a sleepy and unresponsive class.

A university is all these things and many more. A university is tradition and spirit, test tubes and dances, sweet clothes and Ph.D's. It's a feeling of togetherness, and a feeling of standing alone, all wrapped up together. It's a group of individuals with personal hopes and ambitions and a common ground of experience.

That's what a university is.

Dear Editor:

What this school needs is more spirit! After the New Mexico State game I felt we were lacking when it comes to doing cheers. If it weren't for the P.H.'s in one corner and the band in the other the only noise heard at a ballgame would be the thump-thump of the basketball as it goes down the court.

What this school needs is a good old-fashioned pep rally. It has been many moons since the students had a chance to get together and scream their lungs out.

But alas, we have some kind of rule or some said thing that doesn't allow students to gather for a good lung-screaming rally. Without practice how can we learn the new cheers or do cheers together as a group and not individually?

Oh well, so is life. Sincerely, "The Old Senior"

Dear Editor:

Everyone else has been criticizing everything about everyone, so I'll be different and say something constructive for a change.

I'm a junior and I have spent nearly five semesters in Eastern's "halls of learning." Since the first semester of my freshman year, I have noticed that the curriculum has been becoming a little more challenging than it was the preceding semester. To me, this is a good indication of our rising educational standards. My standing may be dropping but my education is broadening. Furthermore, I am convinced that this improvement will not stop, but will continue until every graduate will be the best qualified in his particular field.

As I recall, the editorial in last week's paper, "Somebody Goofed," I am even more enlightened to see that we have such organization here that will allow such constructive criticism to be published in the school newspaper.

We all criticize at some time or another, but I know that I am at Eastern because I like it for some reason or another and it is because I am proud of it that I, along with everyone else, criticize. Yours, John Thomas

Dear Editor:

What has happened to the progressive era at Eastern? Have we marked its end? In view of many situations found around campus I think that our progress is beginning to lag.

The first of these situations is the one surrounding spring vacation. Why is it that many of the other schools in the state get a full week, while we only get two school days off? Perhaps some people have forgotten how long it seems between February and June. It is a long time, and it begins to get longer after the first of April. A week vacation would do everyone good.

Another situation which points toward a laxing of progress is the failure of lessening the rules on the girls on campus. It seems to me that these rules are tending to become antique. Since the school seems to always consult other schools before making policy changes, which is a good idea, it might be wise if they sought information from other schools on their rules. This would tend to quiet all the noise about rules if it was found that other schools are as strict. On the other hand if it was found that Eastern is behind times, perhaps the rules could be changed.

I feel these changes would once again make Eastern a most progressive school in this progressive era. Sincerely, Sandy Goodlett

Dear Editor:

Why can't students officially bring food through the lobby of the Student Union Building? This has posed a problem for me more than once, especially when friends have been sick and unable to leave the dorm.

If they can't come to the food, and the food can't come to them, what are they to do? Starve? I'd like to know the reasoning behind the ordinance in question. Melva Groot

(Ed. Note: To answer your question would mean delving into a rule which states that no food is to be taken into the dormitories. Before the Grill was located in its present temporary location, this rule was in effect. The present situation brings several points to mind: (1) If the food is not to be taken to the dormitories, why would students want to take food out of the building? (2) If students were to bring food into the lounge of the Student Union, it would have the appearance of a recreation room, instead of its dignified purpose. (3) If students are unable to come out to get food, exceptions will be considered and have been in the past. This is the reasoning behind the ordinance in question, as best we could establish from reliable sources.

(Ed. note: Due to the misprints and omissions in last week's letter from "The Old Senior," we are reprinting it for his loyal readers.)

Dear Editor, I think it is wonderful the way Eastern is moving forward. Changes taking place on campus are really for the betterment of the students. Such as moving the grill upstairs in the S.U.B. is great from the health and social standpoint.

By the grill being so small and always crowded around lunch time, a few of the old grill group are forced to eat in the cafeteria which causes our students to be healthier. Also from the social standpoint this is the first time in the history of Eastern the grill group and the cafeteria group have ever mixed and met each other. It was quite surprising to find out there were other people in school besides "us old eyeballers."

But there is one thing in all this progress that worries me and that is the new barbed-wire walls (Eastern's Great Wall). When I first came back to school, I didn't know if I was leaving or entering the East Sector. This now will work wonders on the weekends by keeping the carpebaggers from going home. The administration could call out the ROTC and have them guard the walls. I can see the headlines across the country now: "TEN CARPEBAGGERS ESCAPED FROM EASTERN."

Oh well, so is life. Sincerely, "The Old Senior"

Kentucky—Poets Laureate

BY HAZEL CHRISMAN, Department Of English

Originally, a poet laureate was one considered worthy of bearing the Muses' Crown, but today the term is applied to one who is popularly regarded by a locality or a country as its outstanding poet.

By the action of the Kentucky General Assembly of March 1926, the much-loved Dr. J. T. Cotton Noe was named poet laureate of Kentucky. As far as I have been able to discover, no one shared this honor with him from 1926 to 1953, the year of his death. Dr. Noe was poet-in-residence on our own campus several times and is remembered for his The Sams of Kentucky and Other Poems, 1926, The Legend of the Silver Band, 1933, and The Valley of Barnassee, 1935.

Usually, one thinks of a state's having only one poet laureate, but Kentucky at present has three men upon whom this honor has been bestowed. In 1954, the General Assembly named Edwin Carlisle Litsey of Lebanon and Jesse Stuart of Greenup. Then in 1956, Lowell Allen Williams of Cunningham was similarly honored.

Within the past year I have corresponded with each of these poets and wish to share what I have learned about their poetic activities. Although Mr. Litsey entered the banking business in Lebanon when he was seventeen years of age, he has always found time to write. His best known volume of verse is The Filled Cup, a collection of approximately seventy poems for his daughter, Sarah, who is now Mrs. Frank Wilson Nye. (She, her husband, and son are all writers.) Mr. Litsey has a wide range of subjects and shows that there is beauty in the commonplace. My Kentucky literature class sent Mr. Litsey a greeting on his eighty-seventh birthday (June 3, 1961). He responded with a long letter and a recently written poem. To him, poetry seems to have been a way of life.

Mr. Stuart has published twenty-six books, over three hundred short stories, and over fifteen hundred poems. He has recently returned from a year of teaching at the American University at Cairo. Several of our students and faculty heard him when he spoke at Berea College on December 14. In a recent letter, Mr. Stuart wrote that in late January or early February his new book, Hold April, will be published. It will be beautifully illustrated with wood cuts. This will be his first book of poems since the favorite Kentucky Is My Land. His earlier poetic works included Man with a Bull-Tongue Plow and Album of Destiny.

It is interesting to know that Mr. Williams has been connected with the Atomic Energy Program since 1943. He is now an inspector at the plant located at Paducah. His interests besides writing poetry, include gardening and land scaping. His columns have appeared in many leading newspapers, magazines and anthologies. He has written four collections of verse: This Life We Live, Poems for Remembering, and Across the Wide, Green Valley. Recently, he sent a copy of Across the Wide, Green Valley as a gift to our library, with the greeting: "All kind regards to students of Eastern Kentucky State College."

These three men come from different sections of our state and have had widely different experiences yet in reading their poems, we see that each is at his best when dealing with the observations of everyday life—interpreting character, sharing emotion, capturing laughter, revealing love for a heritage of which even Kentuckian should be proud.

ROTC NEWS

Second Semester Registration Begins Jan. 27 for Saturday Classes and Jan. 29 for Regular Students.

Eastern vs. Western Saturday, January 27, Come Back For the Game!

Sound Off

BY JIM FARRIS
"Our pleas for peace are measured not by the sincerity with which they are spoken but by the strength we can array to enforce them."
General Omar N. Bradley

Bad weather changes corps period. Last Friday due to the rainy weather the corps period training schedule had to be altered. Cadet Col. Harvey Turner conducted a class on inspections for the seniors. Pre-summer camp training was the topic of instruction. Cadets George Doo and Ralph Newman presented to the juniors. Lt. Col. James Farris was in charge of the sophomores and freshmen. These cadets saw a film about the advantages of college ROTC.

Tuesday night the AUSA held their January meeting in the Little Theater. President James Farris presented awards to the junior members. The awards, Membership Certificates and AUSA campaign-type ribbons, came from the Awards Committee of National AUSA. The monthly program was an Army film. The next meeting will be February 5.

Seniors Wayne Hatch, Richmond, Bob Holtzclaw, Lancaster, and Jeff Juett, Ft. Thomas will be in charge of the Military Ball Planning Committee this year. They will return appoint various other committees to help plan this spring event. The exact date for the dance hasn't been announced as yet. The AUSA sponsors the annual Military Ball.

Seven ROTC cadets are to receive commissions next Friday, during Corps period. These men will be: Phillip Estep, Richmond; Floyd Norton, Williamstown, Josh Portman, Lexington, William Satchell, Richmond; Charles Snowden, Beattyville; William Steinhower, Louisville; and Gilbert (Jack) Upchurch, Richmond.

PR's plan for Hell Week. The week between semesters has been set aside for the initiation of Pershing Rifles pledges. Pledge Officer, Harvey Turner, has planned many various activities for these cadets.

Notice: A big source of information is the Bulletin Board, located in the hall outside the ROTC office. A certain section will be set aside for your class. There will be a place for items of interest to all classes. You must check this Bulletin Board either before or after each class. Cadets are held responsible for following all orders placed on this board.

Cadet Of Week

LARRY WALLACE

Cadet Larry Wallace of "A" company is the first Cadet of the Week for this new year. A freshman, Larry shows enthusiasm and a great desire to do well. The Cadet Brigade chose him for his outstanding actions in the program so far this school year.

Larry lives in Fort Thomas, Kentucky and attended Highlands High School. He is taking an area in Social Science for his college major.

Being a pledge in Pershing Rifles reports are very good on his drilling performance. He is often used as a demonstrator during corps period and it looks as if he has the makings of a leader in the corps.

Larry enjoys ROTC and plans on going into the Army after graduation. His hobbies include baseball and hunting. The Cadet Brigade is proud of Larry and wish him all success in his school activities.

New ROTC Curriculum

By Jim Farris

A number of modifications in the General Military Science program are being made to help cadets cope with the pressing tempo of today's undergraduate study. As a result of the new ROTC policy decision announced in February 1960, the ROTC curricula has been revitalized and the on-campus military instruction has been reduced by about 25 percent.

Classroom instruction in certain subjects such as crew-served weapons has been shifted to the summer camp session. During the junior and senior years, forty-five hours will be subtracted from Military Science III and IV each, if the college so desires. The college will then teach such subjects as general psychology and political institutions as substitutes for the equivalent ROTC subject.

The modified program solves a number of Army ROTC problems. The Army seeks not only to remove some measure of academic pressure from the cadet; it hopes to attract outstanding college students into the program. The revised curricula also re-emphasizes the importance of the regular A. B. degree as an essential requirement for an Army commission. As a result, the Army hopes that universities and colleges will be more willing to give credit to the new ROTC curricula on an equitable basis with other subjects.

There are many features added to the regular classroom curricula. Through unit drills held during the school year cadets receive practical experience in organization, teamwork and in giving commands. When summer arrives at the end of the junior year, the cadets disperse to Army posts scattered around the nation for a six-weeks' concentrated course. This is the crucible for determining the officer potential of the cadet. Under field conditions, he must show his fitness for command while learning the military profession. Leadership is developed by rotating the cadets through command assignments.

They learn by actually doing these jobs. The summer camp serves a vital function—exposing the cadet to the actual life of the soldier. He gains a deeper insight into the job he will deal with when he receives his commission the next year.

EASTERN, MURRAY GAME SHOWS CALIBER OF PLAY IN O.V.C.

If the 82-80 upset win by Murray here Monday night is any indication of the basketball to be played in the conference this year, the loop crown is any team's for the taking.

Murray, having a young team, showed they can't be overlooked as they did what 38 straight teams couldn't do in beating our Maroons in the Weaver Health Building. We have already shown what we can do on four occasions, including the Phillips game, and haven't any justifiable fears about the outcome of the season.

With Morehead and Western strong, the loop race could develop into a duplicate of last season's three-way tie between Eastern, Morehead and Western. These three teams were pre-season picks to finish 1-2-3 with Morehead leading the pack.

This season there's a new voice in the crowd of title contenders. Tennessee Tech has a power-packed outfit that fell to Morehead by only six points in the Eagles' gym, quite a feat in this tough league.

The other two Tennessee teams can't be sold out, however, as East Tennessee and Middle Tennessee could pose definite threats to the record of any would-be conference winner.

With all four Kentucky teams loaded and ready to go, Tennessee Tech with the strongest Volunteer State team in a few years, and two other Tennessee teams upset-hungry this race could wind up any way as the conference gets ready for wholesale action in the following weeks.

JENNINGS SHOULD BE TREMENDOUS

Jim Jennings, the 6-6 sophomore that scored the winning points against us Monday night shows promise of developing into one of the best centers in the Ohio Valley Conference's history.

The youngster burned the nets on nine of 15 attempts from the field for one of the best shooting performances of the game and connected on seven of 10 foul shots. He tied Russell Mueller for rebounds with 11, but most of his came on the defensive board where they did the most harm. He was averaging 18.9 per game.

It's not very often that you find a sophomore averaging over 20 points a game and over 10 rebounds game in the O.V.C. When you do, it's usually an indication that he is going to set the league on fire for three years.

MURRAY'S SHOOTING WAS UNBELIEVABLE

This corner saw something Monday night that it didn't expect this season, that is, an opponent out-shooting our Maroons. Murray did it, though, and in convincing fashion.

Murray dominated both phases of shooting by beating us 55.1 per cent to 38.0 from the field, and 80.0 to 60.6 at the foul line. These low percentages dropped our field goal average to 39.6 per cent and our foul shooting to 72.4, a far cry from the 81.0 per cent that was good for third in the nation a week ago.

The amazing thing about their foul shot percentage is that of the seven foul shots they missed, three were by one player and no other man on the team missed over one. Al Varnas was very impressive as he sank nine straight crucial foul shots before missing one. It was this foul shot shooting that paid off in the end, for regardless of the field goal shooting, we still had three more buckets than they, but labbed 28 to 20 at the line.

It can't be believed, however, that Murray hits this way all the time. You don't find any team averaging over 55 per cent on all their games, but it takes great potential to do it in one as the Racers did. A team with this potential can beat anyone on a given night.

Murray Racers Break Maroons' Winning Skein

BY DOUG WHITLOCK

The Murray Thoroughbreds proved Monday night that the Eastern Maroons were not the only surprising team in the Ohio Valley Conference as they posted an 82-80 win over Eastern to snap a win streak at home at 38.

The blow that killed Eastern came at the hands of one of Murray's four starting sophomores, Jim Jennings. The 6-6 youngster connected on a 20 foot turnaround jump shot just as the horn sounded.

The telling factor in the game was the shooting. The Racers hit 27 of 49 from the field for an exceptional 55.1 per cent. Eastern hit three more field goals than did Murray, but their 30 of 79 attempts was good for only 38 per cent. The real payoff came on foul shots with Murray hitting 28 of 35 and Eastern 20 of 33.

Eastern's 58 to 35 edge in rebounding is very misleading since the Maroons missed a large number of tips and the rebounds on Murray's end of the floor were few and far between. While Eastern led in rebounding the Racers always seemed to come up with crucial shots.

The game started out as a field goal exchanging affair, but then the Thoroughbreds paced by Jennings and Robert Goebel began hitting the basket with remarkable frequency.

Full To Longest Lead

They pulled to their longest game lead with 2:36 remaining in the first half at 45-33 on a jumper by Jennings, who led all scorers with 25. In the final two minutes Larry Parks and Ron Pickett went on a two man crusade and closed the gap to 46-39 at the half.

The Maroons came out hot in the second period and knotted the score at 49 all and went ahead, 51-49 for their first lead since a 4-3 advantage in the opening minutes.

Jennings and Al Varnas put Murray on top for good as Murray swept to a 56-51 lead and then pulled away to nine points at 78-69 to set the stage for a valiant, but futile drive for the Maroons.

Herman Smith hit from 20 feet and as Murray with two men out on fouls was trying to get the ball up court Ray Gardner stole the ball and went in for a layup to make the score 78-73 with 3:39 remaining.

Larry Parks scored on a brilliant tip-in to make it 78-75 at 3:08, but Joe Parker drove down the middle for a snowbird to make it 80-75 at 1:52.

In the remaining time up to one second the Maroons held the Racers scoreless. Jim Werk hit from five feet to close the gap to 80-77 and Gardner came through with another layup to move the Maroons to within one with 51 seconds remaining.

Freshmen Lose

Following 27 seconds of mad scrambling for the ball, Eastern was awarded possession out of bounds and the Maroons called time out. The ball had been back in play six seconds when Len Mahoney fouled Russell Mueller to send the 6-6 junior to the foul line with 18 seconds left to shoot a one plus one. Mueller hit the first one to tie it up but the second rolled off the rim.

Murray got the rebound with 16 seconds remaining and called time. They put the ball into play and seemed in no hurry to shoot. With one second to go Jennings took a pass at the top of the foul circle and turned to hit the shot that gave Eastern its first loss in the Weaver Health Building since an 89-80 loss to Western, Jan. 11, 1958.

After the game Coach Paul McBrayer stated that he was very disappointed in losing, but that he was certainly not ashamed of being beaten by what he termed, "The team to recon with in the conference." He added, "We were out-played and out-shot."

The freshman preliminary was also a heartbreaker as the baby Maroons fell to the Morehead yearlings 73-72. Ex-Ashland great Harold Sargent led all scorers with 25 and was followed by Eastern's Wayne Morris with 23.

Player Of The Week

RONNIE PICKETT

Player of the Week laurels for the week following the 66-54 win over the invading New Mexico State University Aggies is 6-7 junior center, Ronnie Pickett from Frankfort.

Pickett was the Maroons second leading scorer in the prestige-packed win with 11 points. He also pulled down a dozen important rebounds to help the Maroons go on top for good in the nip-and-tuck contest that was never decided until his opponent at the pivot, George Knighton, fouled out.

Pickett is considered to be the finest center prospect ever to play at Eastern. In the words of Coach Paul McBrayer, "For the first time since he's been here, Pickett has shown the desire to play that is necessary in a great player."

His strongest forte in the win over New Mexico was several great defensive moves he made on Knighton, considered a bonafide All-America candidate.

Presnell And Assistants Attending Convention

Glenn Presnell, head football coach at Eastern State College, and two of his assistants, Jim Cullivan and Don Daily, left for Chicago to attend the convention of the American Football Coaches Association at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel. The session began yesterday and will end tomorrow.

Jack Curtis, president of the association, has appointed Presnell to serve during the convention on the public relations and press committee. Others on the committee will be Ray Nagel of the University of Utah, Joe Oillet of Louisiana Tech, Bill Jennings of the University of Nebraska and Marvin Levy of the University of California.

McBrayer Not Ashamed; Maroons Meet East Tenn.

Their four-year-long, 38 game home winning string now in the history books as a result of the 82-80 upset loss to a tremendous Murray team Monday night in their first loop firing, Eastern Kentucky's Maroons now turn to East Tennessee their Saturday night opponent at Johnson City, as they attempt to remain in contention in the tough Ohio Valley Conference.

A packed gymnasium of about 3,000 remained silent "what seemed like five minutes," according to many observers, after Jim Jennings' 20-foot left-handed jump shot had ripped the nets just as the final buzzer had sounded to give the fired-up Thoroughbreds a victory they wanted badly. It was the first time in the college careers of the 4,200 members of the Eastern student body that they had seen their beloved Maroons go down to defeat in Weaver Gym. They had watched Coach Paul McBrayer's cagers roll over 38 foes in a row.

Murray Started Streak
Ironically, it was a 72-64 win over the same Murray on January 22, 1958, almost four years ago, that got them started on their long winning streak. The last team to beat them in Richmond was Western, which turned the trick 89-80 on January 11, 1958.

Coach McBrayer said following the heart-breaking loss that he regretted losing, "but there's nothing to be ashamed of," he said. "We were outplayed and outshot and beaten by a team that was ready to play."

"Murray will have to be reckoned in this race," he remarked, "if they continue to play as they did tonight. They are an exceptional team, overall," he said, as he praised the great effort by Coach Cal Luther's Racers in handing the Maroons that loss.

"Our shooting was still far off," he said. McBrayer had thought that this was one of his better shooting teams this year. The Maroons hit just 30 of 79 field goal attempts for 38 per cent and connected on just 60.6 per cent of their free throws. The Racers hit 27 of 49 fielders for a blazing 55.1 per cent and 28 of 35 charity throws for 80 per cent.

"We got the shots all right," the Eastern coach continued, "and we controlled the boards very well. That second half, we were in control most of the way, but just couldn't get ahead. Don't take anything away from Murray, though," he emphasized.

Eastern outrebounded Murray 58 to 35 in the losing cause.

McBrayer praised the effort of senior co-captain Larry Parks, 6-2 jumping-jack from Arlington, Ind., but said that his performance was not as he might expect of him.

Following the East Tennessee encounter at Johnson City, the Maroons have a week to prepare for their always eventful journey to Dayton, Ohio, to meet the Dayton Flyers in the familiar confines of the U. D. Fieldhouse. They return home Monday, January 27th, for an engagement with arch-rival Western Kentucky at Weaver Gym, followed by a Thursday night, Feb. 1 meeting with Morehead, also at Richmond.

Scoring Dropping
Statistics for the four "official" games show the Maroons' scoring average dropping to 83.8 points per outing, compared to their opponents' 72.8. Last week Eastern led the nation in scoring with a 94.5 average. The Maroons' poor field goal shooting has dropped them to 396 from the floor, to their opponents' 427, and in free throw shooting, where they were third in the nation a week ago, dropping to .724, to the opponents' .770.

The Maroons are outrebounding their opponents by 15.8 rebounds per game, 58.8 to 41.0.

Junior forward Jim Werk, the tenth leading scorer in the land a few days ago, has dropped off to a 21 point average per contest. He is followed by Parks, 16.2, co-captain Ray Gardner, 13.8, and junior center Ron Pickett, 13.0.

Pickett is the leading rebounder with an 11.8 average and Parks follows with a 9.8 average per game.

Statistics do not include the Maroons' 106-80 thumping of the Phillips Oilers, which do not count in NCAA figures.

Woman's View Of Sports

By Myrna Young
 Attention all women! Do you like to bowl? Now is the time to start. You can make up your own teams. A team will consist of five girls.

Intramurals will start the beginning of second semester. You will bowl 4-6 p.m. Monday and Wednesday. There is plenty of time to organize a team by the first of February so all you women bowlers get together and let's bowl.

For questions and further information contact Barbara Sammons, 400 Case.

Sign up by the 1st of February with Barbara Sammons or Patty Boyd, in the women's locker room.

Volleyball Clinic
 WRA attended a volleyball clinic last Saturday at Centre College in Danville. Other schools present were University of Louisville, Union, Midway, Berea, Centre, and Georgetown.

In the tournament which took place, Eastern's first foe was University of Louisville. Eastern won with hands down but then lost to the eventual tournament winner, Georgetown.

Last Tuesday, Eastern's WRA traveled to Berea to play two matches of volleyball. It was a very successful day for our girls. Eastern took both matches.

All these events were under the direction of Mrs. Boyd, WRA coach.

Gossett Takes S. M. U. Position

GLENN GOSSETT

Eastern lost the services of Glenn Gossett permanently Saturday when the former Eastern assistant grid coach accepted a position as head defensive coach at Southern Methodist University. Gossett had been on a leave of absence to study for his doctorate at the University of Arkansas.

Gossett came to Eastern in 1958 after compiling a remarkable record by guiding the Homer Louisiana High School to the finals of the La. State Championship Playoffs with a squad of 20 boys in 1957. This resulted in his receiving the coveted "Ark-La-Tex" Sports Award as the outstanding high school grid mentor in the area.

Before the 1961 football season President Martin announced that Gossett was on a one-year leave of absence to continue his doctoral studies at the University of Arkansas. He served there under Frank Broyles, one of the top five coaches in the nation. Gossett was due to return to the Eastern campus June 1, 1962.

On December 16 S.M.U. Hayden Fry was named to replace the present Mustang coach, Bill Meek, who coached there five years. Fry was Broyles' top assistant, serving in the capacity of offensive backfield coach.

Fry wanted Gossett to accompany him to Southern Methodist and told the young coach, "You'll be at S.M.U. as long as I'm there, anyway." Fry has inked a four-year contract.

Gossett also served Eastern as the head track coach and last season guided the Maroon thimble to a 13-0 record, the best in school history.

Williamson All-American

JIMMY CHITUM

Chittum Makes Williamson All-American

Jimmy Chittum, sensational sophomore halfback for the Eastern Kentucky Maroons this season, was named this week to Williamson's 1961 mid-bracket All-American football team.

The 170 pound Lexington, Virginia, speedster, who established a new Eastern Kentucky record with seven touchdowns this fall, was listed as an honorable mention selection of the all-star team.

The Williamson mid-bracket All-American team is not a "little" All-American team, explains the Williamson Rating System of Houston, Texas. The players are mostly from colleges with a high rating in their system and many hold their own on a field with name squads. "Many would have made 'Big' All-American had they played on a major college squad."

A first team All-Ohio Valley Conference selection, Chittum was the Maroons' leading ground-gainer with 417 net yards on 67 carries for a 6.2 average per carry. He also led in pass receiving with 17 catches for 237 yards and a touchdown, in scoring, with 42 points.

His 86-yard punt return against Murray State set another Eastern record and was the longest scoring play at Eastern since Don Daley, now an assistant Eastern coach, romped 97 yards against Morehead in 1961.

There will be a track meeting in room 201 of the Health Building Thursday. Coach Don Daley asks for all interested students to be present.

Europe Anyone?

A different and interesting itinerary in Europe is offered with the "Hartman Tour" for 1962, operated by Wakefield, Fortune World Travel of New York and London. This tour offers a choice of East-bound trans-atlantic travel either by the new luxury ship, the SS FRANCE, leaving New York on June 22, or by BOAC Jet, departing New York on June 27.

The itinerary includes England, Holland, Denmark, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Greece, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, the French Riviera and Paris. Unique features of the trip are an Adriatic Cruise along the Greek Islands.

The tour, which allows 50 days on the Continent and returns to New York by air on August 24, is fully escorted and all-inclusive at rates of $1875 for members; departing from New York by air and $1965 for those preferring to sail on the France. A special "Budget Edition" of this tour is available also which omits London, Copenhagen, the Riviera and Madrid, but is identical to the main itinerary in Europe in all other respects.

The transatlantic travel both ways, however, is by the well-known Dutch Student Ships, leaving New York on June 26th and arriving back on September 3. Casing The Clubs

MELVA GROOT — Clubs Editor

Recky is Caduceus Speaker
Dr. Jack Recky, Chairman of the Board of Admissions of the U. K. Medical School, was the guest speaker for the Caduceus Club Monday evening.

In Dr. Recky's talk on "Why Study Medicine" he said that a person who plans to enter medical school and later practice as a physician should enjoy studying the natural and behavioral sciences. In addition, he said the potential medical student should develop his main interest and take advanced courses in that field.

During the business meeting it was announced that committees will be organized to plan the annual Caduceus Club banquet, and that club members are to start selling tickets to the movie Gone With the Wind, which will be sponsored by the club Tuesday, January 16.

Math Club Squares Off

The first meeting of the year for the Math Club was concerned with squares. Square dancing, that is. As a more calculated aspect the club discussed going to see the University of Kentucky computer but a definite date was not set.

Indian Students to Speak on Hinduism

The Canterbury Episcopal Student Group will hold its regular weekly meeting next Sunday at 8 p.m. in Room 202 of the Student Union Building. Miss Meena Bagwe, a student at Eastern from Baroda, India, and Mr. K. M. George, a student from Kerala, South India, now studying at the University of Kentucky, will discuss some aspects of Hinduism.

All students are invited to attend this meeting.

Laurel County Club Plans Socials
The Laurel County Club had its first meeting of the year, a dinner at the Benaut Inn attended by 21 club members, last Monday.

The next club social will be a bowling party in February.

DSF Outlines Coming Programs

The DSF held as its first meeting of the new year a song and worship program. The speakers at the worship service were Tom Henderson, who spoke on "So Christmas Is Over", and Sandy Goodlett, who spoke on "The Coming Year."

This Sunday, the group will have recreation at the church. Sunday, January 21, there will be a study hall held for those members who cannot study in their rooms. The College of the Bible will give the initial program of the "What Do We Believe" series. The topic will be "What Do We Believe About God."

Canterbury Club Sets Awards
W. L. Keene Speaks To Group
Prize money awarded for the best prose and poetry selections submitted to Belle Lettre will be doubled, reports the Canterbury Club.

An award for the outstanding senior English major, determined by grade standing in English, will be given on honors day as well as the Belle Lettre awards. He said that if he were to be abandoned on an island he would take with him a dictionary rather than the works of Shakespeare, because the dictionary contains Shakespeare and much more.

He emphasized the importance of using the right word by distributing to the members a sonnet which in some places offered a word choice to individual. Each person made his selections and then the author's choices were given.

Lexington Businessman ESC Assembly Speaker

Penrose Ecton, prominent Lexington businessman, told Eastern State College students Wednesday that Kentucky know-how and leadership are the reasons for the Commonwealth's recent progress.

Speaking in assembly, Ecton praised Kentucky's growth over the past three decades. He said that Kentucky has made many advances and has actually changed its face from 30 years ago. Kentucky people have become prominent all over the United States. "We can be proud," he declared. "Anywhere you go, you can find Kentuckians who can hold their own."

Giving the reasons for this progress, he told the students that Kentucky know-how and leadership are responsible. "The thing that I think is impressive to outsiders coming into the state is the Kentucky people's know-how," Ecton said. "Their being able to apply training and education," he remarked, "is well-liked by industry." He said this know-how is the reason why people are coming into the state.

Ecton is looking for more progress in the future. "With the qualities we have in Kentucky, and the improvement we've made, we can do it," he said.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Three views of an average, healthy girl

LESSON 1 - How to recognize a girl

It is not surprising, in these days of constantly changing fashion standards, that girls are often mistaken for men.

Certain popular items of apparel, such as slacks, baggy sweaters and boxy suits, contribute to this unfortunate situation. Therefore, we suggest that new students of girl watching start with the fundamentals (see above diagram). As you can see, girls are easiest to identify from the side. However, even the beginner will soon achieve proficiency from front and rear as well.

Advanced students can usually tell a girl from a man at five hundred paces, even when both are wearing asbestos firefighting suits. (You might try offering the subject a Pall Mall, but you won't prove anything. It's an extremely popular brand with both sexes.)
