More than Frost

*Whose woods these are I think I know
His house is in the village though
He will not see me stopping here
To watch his woods fill up with snow.*

*My little horse must think it queer
To stop without a farmhouse near
Between the woods and frozen lake
The darkest evening of the year.*

*He gives his harness bells a shake
To ask if there is some mistake
The only other sounds the sweep
Of easy wind and downy flake.*

*The woods are lovely, dark and deep
But I have promises to keep
And miles to go before I sleep
And miles to go before I sleep*

Winter ice storm blows snow removal plan into action

By GINNY EAGER
Features Editor

As of last weekend the University's new Snow Removal Plan was enacted. Sweeping, sanding, plowing and the use of Calcium Chloride will be used to remove the snow.

"With the fantastic amount of snow these past two winters, the old plan had to be revised," said Larry Westbrook, assistant director of Safety.

According to Westbrook, the chairman of the Committee on Snow Removal, the committee revised the old snow removal plan to fit the present needs.

The associate director of Buildings and Grounds, Raymond Gabbard, will be in charge of the new plan which started last weekend with the first snowfall of the season.

With the accumulation of one inch of snow the removal begins. Gabbard will use his judgment as to which equipment will be used on different areas.

Equipment available is a 1.5 ton truck, tractors with snow blades and blades to be affixed to University four-wheel drives. University farm equipment may also be used and in extreme conditions outside contractors may be called in.

The first areas to be cleared will be the roadways, drives and intersections such as University Drive, Kit Carson Drive and Model Lab Drive.

The next areas to be cleared will be the sidewalks and entrances to buildings. This includes all handicapped ramps and the Chapel of Meditation plaza.

Parking lots will be cleared next and as labor and equipment permits all other college owned areas will be cleared.

If any areas become too dangerous for safe travel and the snow cannot be removed, the area will be posted, "Dangerous Walk Area. Use alternate route."

A supply of snow shovels and ice chippers will be kept at the Public Safety Building for checkout by Brockton residents, faculty or staff who wish to clear individual areas.

The Snow Removal Plan can be suspended by the Emergency Operations Center in the event of extremely severe weather conditions such as a blizzard.

Through stormy weather

The ticketman cometh

By SARAH WARREN
News Editor

Never let it be said that a little snow or rain or sleet or ice ever stopped the University's Department of Public Safety.

Yes, even in this weather, one can get a parking ticket.

"We're trying to use as much discretion as possible," said Public Safety Director Thomas Lindquist, but cars will still be ticketed for being out of zone.

Even though some of the painted curbs (indicating no-parking zones) may be covered with snow, Lindquist said there are signs marking many of the red and yellow curbs and therefore students may still be ticketed.

Nine thousand tickets were given out last semester, according to Lindquist, but that was a mere third of the 27,000 that were given out fall semester a year ago.

There have been fewer violations under the new parking regulations, said Lindquist, mainly because of the increase in the ticket fine from last year's $2 to the current $5.

"I'd have to say that is the greatest single factor" in the decrease of tickets, said Lindquist. "The fine is a deterrent."

Of the 9,000 tickets given, 4,000 were given to unregistered vehicles, he said, and of those 4,000, only 600 were paid.

In most cases those were visitors, said Lindquist, but "we're still trying to determine who they are."

Some of the tickets were probably given to "students trying to beat the system one way or the other," he said. Many of them were probably received by students before their cars had been registered and were therefore ignored, he added.

Students who do receive tickets and wish to appeal them may do so after the fine has been paid.

A form from the Public Safety Department must be completed by the student and sent by the Department to the Appeals Board.

The student will then receive a notice in the mail from the Appeals Board regarding the decision and the money will then be refunded if the Board decides in the student's favor.

Unpaid tickets result in the withholding of one's final grades or transcript or during pre-registration, the withholding of one's packet.

Complaints arose recently when students claiming to have paid their tickets were penalized anyway, and then asked to show a receipt to prove payment.

Lindquist said "because there are so many tickets" one "must show a receipt."

If the student has lost the receipt, Lindquist said the student can look through department records for a duplicate copy.

The receipts are kept in order according to the date the ticket was given, Lindquist said, so if one knows the date, he can find his receipt and prove payment.

Linda Williams, transportation secretary at Campus Security, advises students to keep track of their receipts that are issued after the student pays for a University traffic violation. This prevents a student from having to pay for a ticket twice if security has misplaced their copy of the receipt.

Students who pay for their tickets with a check should also write the number of the citation on the check to show which citation is being paid for in case a student should receive more than one ticket during a semester.

Lack of equipment helps keep students on ice

By SARAH WARREN
News Editor

Mother Nature complicated matters for the University again this year causing students to fare ice-covered highways to return to school and tread snow-packed sidewalks to register for classes.

No major snow-related accidents have been reported on campus but Public Safety Director Thomas Lindquist said the problems may start today after the majority of the students have returned, especially if as predicted, the area receives more snow.

Lindquist said he believed any problems caused by the snow would be "handled better" this year though, because people are now more "experienced" in winter driving.

The University has also ordered new snow removal equipment, he said, but it probably won't arrive until mid-January and won't be put into use until the first of February.

As for the clearing of the parking lots, Lindquist said it is going to take "everybody working together," because there isn't enough equipment or manpower to do the job.

"When snow hits, there's not much you can do in the lots," he said, and "you can't touch this stuff... it's frozen solid."

In years past, the University relied on "melting" to handle the snow, Lindquist said. But the heavy snowfalls of the last two years forced the University's Department of Buildings and Grounds to initiate a snow removal plan.

Regents approve Religion degree, possible site for frat row

By MARK TURNER
Editor

A new Bachelor of Arts degree in religion and a tentative site for fraternity row were approved at the Jan. 6 meeting of the Board of Regents.

There were also two new minors approved at the regular Regent meeting.

The new degree in religion would create seven new courses and would change the name of the department of philosophy and religion.

Twenty-five students are estimated to graduate from the program over the next five years.

Western Kentucky University is the only other state-supported school in Kentucky to have a degree offered in religion.

Along with the major in religion there will also be offered a minor in the subject.

The program would offer credit for existing courses in the Latin, Greek, English, art, music, political science and philosophy.

No new faculty is anticipated to fill the seven new courses offered.

A new minor in emergency medical care was also approved at the Regents meeting.

This program would consist of 18 hours of course work which is already being offered.

The minor would allow students to qualify for ambulance service.

Regents approved a Graduate Council proposal of increasing the number of graduate school hours which can be transferred from six to nine.

The tentative site of the proposed fraternity row is just south of Vickers Village.

Bounded by Hall Road, Kit Carson Drive and Lancaster Road, the tentative site would allow for 12 building sites and a common parking lot.

James B. Evans, landscape architect, was employed by the University to do a feasibility study and prepare a plan for the site.

Evans is currently working on cost estimates which will be presented to the Regents when they are completed.

The Regents will then vote on final plans for the fraternity row.

Three revisions to the Student Association Constitution were approved by the Regents.

One calls for the creation of a Public Relations Committee and one increases the number of members on each of the standing committees.

The third revision states that all chairpersons of the standing committees must be elected members of the Student Senate except where otherwise provided for in the constitution.

A petty cash fund of $150 will now be allowed for University Greek organizations.

The fund would let the Greeks keep $150 in a local bank for the purpose of providing party supplies or other organization functions when the University Controller's Office was closed.

Previously, all Greek funds were kept through the Controller.

Bakhtiar government no help in Iran

The demonstrations continue in Iran despite the new civilian government of Prime Minister Shapur Bakhtiar.

Bakhtiar was recently named head of the new civilian government by Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in an attempt to bring an end to the violence that has engulfed the country for a year.

Last Saturday Bakhtiar took over the civilian government but a four day lull in the violence ended the next day with rioting and burning in the city of Tabriz.

Bakhtiar was the second ranking man in the National Front, an opposition group to the shah.

It was reported that Karim Sanjaby, the leader of the National Front, was offered the position but refused.

The shah reportedly announced shortly after the formation of the new government that he would like to take a vacation, possibly outside the country.

An official United States statement was quoted as being in favor of the shah taking a vacation and leaving the country.

If the shah leaves Iran he may find it quite difficult to return.

His attempts to pacify the rioting crowds with a civilian government have failed. Demonstrators still demand his abdication.

Maybe the shah should leave Iran, abdicate his throne.

His presence in the riot-torn country is leading to further violence.

The country has come to a virtual stand still. Its major export product, oil, is barely being produced.

Iran exports 5.5 million barrels of oil per day when it is at full production. Another 900,000 barrels per day are produced for domestic use.

The United States is a major importer of Iranian oil and many U.S. officials seem to feel that gas rationing will result if the Iranians do not resume fuel production.

But oil is not and should not be the main object of interest in the Iran question. It should be the people of Iran.

One must wonder why the people of this country feel the way they do. Why these people riot in the streets.

It is evident that they do not wish to remain under the rule of the shah. They seem willing to die for their beliefs.

Should a person be forced to live under a government which they believe to be wrong? To stretch an analogy; is this not the feeling that formed the United States to begin with?

The situations are different but the belief is the same.

The Iranian people seem to want a Moslem government but their religious leader, Ayatullah Khomeini, has been exiled to Paris where he still gives verbal and spiritual support.

He was exiled by the shah because the people followed him and his teachings. He was a threat to the shah and his total authority.

Demonstrations met the exile of holy man and at first the shah was able to handle them. The masses grew with the shah's suppression.

At one point the entire country was shut down due to the rioting.

The shah must make a decision now. Either he leaves the country and abdicates his throne or he continues to be the mock head of a nation who refuses to live under his rule.

Ayatullah Khomeini has told his followers that any government supported by the shah must not have the support of the people.

The Bakhtiar government is supported by the shah. In fact the law in Iran states that any government formed in the country must have the support of the shah.

So the fighting in the streets will continue. More people will die.

If the shah elects to stay and continue with his civilian government he is in for continued trouble.

If the shah decides to abdicate his throne and leave the country in the hands of the masses, the country faces turmoil of another kind. No one is capable of running the country effectively right now.

So it is back to the main point of the issue, the people of Iran. They seem to be the ones who will suffer no matter what the shah decides.

Retiring should be personal decision

People in the United States are living longer, according to the American Medical Association.

The reason for this is most probably due to the advanced technology in the medical field.

In accordance with this trend in longevity, the federal government has changed the mandatory retirement age; increasing it by five years.

Now a person cannot be forced to retire, except for medical reasons, until age 70.

This move brought a great deal of scepticism from economists and social scientists.

The economists said that keeping people in the work force until they were 70 would eliminate job opportunities for the younger members of society.

This, according to the economists, would increase unemployment and welfare expenses.

But wouldn't this also cut back on social security and retirement benefits?

Social scientists have said that with the retirement age increased social structure may change.

The youth in society will be forced to wait longer to join the work force, according to the sociologists. This would make people dependant for a longer period of time.

These arguments are foolish. It is estimated that only about 20 per cent of the population is currently working to the mandatory retirement age.

The rest retire early taking advantage of benefits and enjoying the free time offered them.

It is the upper echelon of business that retains most of its employees until mandatory retirement.

These are the people who have worked much of their lives to reach their level and no young worker is going to step right in to their jobs when they retire.

In other societies the old are held in respect. They are considered the wisest and are often times the leaders.

In the United States, the old are forced to retire, quit their jobs which has made up the majority of their lives.

"Old folks homes" have thrived when sons and daughters have admitted their parents so they would not have to take care of them.

Recently an organization of older people have started what they call "Grey Power".

"Grey Power" is an attempt by older Americans to secure some rights which they think they should have.

One of those is the right to work until age 70 if they want to. But it seems that many do not want to.

Nearly 80 per cent retire early. Many before they reach the age of 60.

Companies are offering early retirement benefits to those who wish to take them.

For those who do retire early it is their decision to do so. If a person wishes to work beyond the age of 65 that should be his decision also.

Snowed in

Snow adds new twist to life during spring semester

The problem of snow removal on the University's campus has, in theory been solved by the new snow removal plan.

Like many other plans of this kind it looks a great deal better on paper than it does when students are taking their life in their hands and trying to walk across campus on a thin sheet of ice.

Though the removal plan calls for the use of "sweeping, sanding, the use of Calcium Chloride and plowing", it seems that the campus is back to using the ever effective use of campus maintenance workers and their trusty ice picks. Though effective to a point it is only good for clearing four to six square feet of side walk a day, and it takes a four man crew to do that much.

With the prediction of 60 inches of snow by the first of spring, it may be a very long and treacherous winter for those trying to get around campus not to mention those who are commuters and must contend with the Kentucky Highway Department's attempts at clearing the roads.

It will be a two month period where no one goes anywhere and is pretty much stuck here in Richmond. Maybe now is the time for the Student Senate and Centerboard to plan their stay at Eastern weekend they will have a captive audience. Students will be looking for something to do so take advantage of it while you can.

Downtown business will profit as well but students may find it a bit of a challenge getting back up the hill after a night on the town.

Heaven help anyone who wants to take their car out of a University parking lot once they are parked. Snow plows then come along to clear the aisles in the lots and pile three feet of ice and snow behind the cars, where they stay stuck until the spring thaw.

As long as a car isn't parked illegally there won't be any problem, otherwise you will be stuck with $150 worth of tickets by the end of February.

On the other hand the snow does provide some entertainments not to be had at any other time of the year, snowball fight, building snowmen, or for the more artistic snow sculptures and sledding in the Ravine on cafeteria trays.

It is really all in how you look at it whether or not the snow is all that bad. It definitely adds a new twist to life during the first part of the spring semester.

Love it or hate you can't leave it.

Ticket troubles

Editor: What kind of racket is going on with Eastern and their so called "parking system"?

I was issued a ticket on Sept. 1 at which time I was told I had seven days to pay the ticket.

I was also told that if I wanted I could fill out an appeals form which would be reviewed by the appeals board.

Well, I took the time to write out an appeal and paid for my alleged violation only to find out one and one-half months later that there was no appeals committee.

After numerous calls and a lot of run-around, I found out that a committee was trying to be formed, but there were not enough faculty members who wanted to be on the committee to help examine the appeals.

Well, I guess there were enough students to bother security that an appeals committee was finally formed near the end of October.

At, or very close to, the end of another series of calls finally finding out that my appeal was near the top of the list and would be reviewed in the next meeting.

Two to three weeks later I made some more calls which led nowhere as to finding out any more about the location of the decision concerning my appeal.

One and one-half weeks ago I had taken enough "brill" so I decided to call the office of the vice-president.

I talked to the head of security who said he would check into my appeal.

Monday, Dec. 4, I recalled the head of security who in turn had me call someone who was over the appeals board.

After searching for the decision concerning my appeal, I was informed that my appeal had been denied.

I had been given a ticket which charged me for towing my car which had not been towed four hours after the ticket was issued and for parking in a dorm director's parking space which had no marking sign or was ever mentioned in the regulations booklet which was given to all drivers.

Right now I am more upset about all the hassel and run-around that I was getting in an effort which I should not have had to make, than about the decision which was made.

There should not have been any effort on my part to, after a whole semester, have to find out about the decision of my appeal.

I had to be responsible enough to pay my fine within seven days. What justification does Eastern have for not having an appeals committee and waiting a whole semester before finally returning to me, not by mail but by my effort, a decision on my appeal.

Phillip Stewart

Hold-up

Editor: During the week of pre-registration, I was informed that my packet was being held by security.

Upon contacting security I found that they had one ticket on me for parking out of zone. I informed them that I had paid this with a check for $5.00. They told me that I had to have the check to be cleared for pre-registration, or that I could pay $10.00 and appeal it when I returned from vacation. There was no way I was going to take a chance on losing $15.00.

I traveled to my home to get the canceled check that was dated September 20th. Upon returning to security the following morning, my packet was released and I was allowed to register. I had traveled 200 miles for this privilege. I got no explanation from security.

We students are held responsible for any infractions that we happen to have. Who holds security responsible for the infractions that they commit? Who will pay for the injustice that has been done to me?

Security has a problem that must be cleared up before they can achieve the level of respect from the University community that they must have to function as a responsible and effective law enforcement agency.

I realize it would have been cheaper for me to pay the $10.00, but, do two wrongs make a right? It would have been an admission of guilt for me to go ahead and pay the ticket again as they demanded. I could not do this.

The administration at Eastern should take note of this, I am sure I am not the only one this has happened to. They should take the measures that are required to see that it does not happen in the future.

In the courts... Ex-gymnast sues University officials

By LISA RENSHAW
City Editor

A $500 small claims suit has been filed in Madison County District Court by Brad Wallace naming four University officials as defendants.

Wallace is suing President J.C. Powell, Charles Whitlock, Athletic Director Donald G. Combs and men's gymnastics coach Dr. Gerald Calkin for allegedly not honoring his gymnastics grant-in-aid scholarship.

Wallace was awarded the scholarship covering the cost of his room for one year beginning August 1977 and ending in May 1978. "Coach said I would get it for as long as I was eligible for the team," said Wallace.

According to Whitlock, chairman of the University's scholarship committee, under National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) regulations, all scholarships are restrictive to one year at a time.

Turner faces new charges

By ROB DOLLAR
Staff Writer

Misdemeanor charges have been issued against Granville Turner III, the University student who had earlier charges of first-degree wanton endangerment and kidnapping dismissed against him in Madison County District Court Nov. 10.

The new charges, second-degree unlawful imprisonment and second-degree wanton endangerment, stem from the same alleged incident that the other charges originated from.

Turner was arrested Sept. 5, by the Richmond city police after a University coed took out a warrant charging him with kidnapping and first-degree wanton endangerment.

The charges originated from an alleged incident that supposedly began on the University campus and ended in the Spurlin Trailer Park.

Covey indicted

By ROB DOLLAR
Staff Writer

The Madison County Grand Jury returned an indictment against Fannie Benton Covey, the former University employee charged in October in connection with an alleged class credit fraud at the University.

The Grand Jury returned the one indictment against her on Dec. 1, which bounds her over for trial to face charges for 14 counts of forgery in the second-degree.

Additional indictments for other charges are still a possibility, as the Grand Jury was expected to be in session during the remainder of the week.

Covey was formally arraigned in

Gabbard assumes Brown's position

Rose Gabbard of Beattyville is now serving as president of the University's Alumni Association.

Gabbard, who was elected first vice president of the organization, is serving out the term of Jimmy Brown, Whitesburg, who died.

As librarian at Lee County High School, Gabbard received the Kentucky "Outstanding School Media Librarian" award for 1976-77. She is a member of the CKEA Board of Directors.

She was a member of the University's 1964 graduating class.

the scholarship committee at the appeal and would probably be discussed in court.

Wallace said the reason he is suing is on the basis of discrimination. "He kicked me off the team for reasons I feel were unfair," he said.

"He (Calkin) walked into my room one morning at 8 o'clock and asked if I was a member of the Sigma Nu's. I said, 'yes sir', and he told me to go clean out my locker."

Wallace believes he was kicked off the team because of the fraternity. He said Calkin had advised gymnasts not to become involved in many outside activities because of the time involved in gymnastics practice. But, according to Wallace, Calkin never said that joining a fraternity would make a gymnast ineligible for the team.

Wallace maintains that he fulfilled all his requirements for his scholarship and that he was in the gym every day for practice.

Calkin said that he didn't want to comment on the suit until it is out of court but did say "I don't see any basis for it at all."

Coles Raymond M.D. Faith healing?

I guess most people know that a certain clearly definable type of personality, the so-called "type A," is associated with the highest risk of heart attacks.

Peptic ulcers flare up and cool down or even heal and recur in a rhythm related to the ebb and flow of stress. Medical textbooks refer to the "stress related diseases" and there is one whose title is "Psycho-Somatic Aspects of Gynecology."

So the fact that your head plays a part in making you sick is well established.

That raises the question of whether your "head" cannot play a part in making you well.

Interestingly enough, the idea that it most certainly can is centuries old, from before the time of Hippocrates in ancient Greece through the Gospels, to Christian Science and today's faith healing on TV.

Yet research on psychosomatic healing is at least a generation behind that on psychosomatic disease.

One reason, of course, is the extensive corruption of psychosomatic (or faith) healing by charlatans and "quacks."

The cartoons of Rowlandson over a century ago, and the careers of crooks like Cagliostro, Mesmer and Dr. "Goat Glands" Brinkley show what abuses have occurred.

The whole idea, has stunk for centuries because of this association.

Now, just in the past few years, research on psychosomatic healing has begun to really roll.

Frost defied predictions and walked again

By BRIAN BLAIR
Staff Writer

Edward Frost doesn't remember exactly what happened after his car plunged over a 500-foot cliff five years ago. But the 20-year-old University freshman does recall that the horrible accident nearly killed him.

He was in a coma for six long months and said, "The doctors gave me a ten per cent chance to live."

Frost was en-route to Kentucky from Michigan when, on a stretch of highway in Ohio, a truck was attempting to pass another truck. Because of oncoming traffic, the passing auto was forced to get over in the original lane.

Frost had to swerve to avoid the truck, sending his yellow Impala off the road and over the drop-off. "I remember falling, kind of like in a dream," said Frost, "but I don't remember anything else."

The crash left the student with two badly broken legs, a skull line fracture and vicious bruises over his entire body. His brother, a passenger in the car, miraculously escaped injury. "He didn't have a scratch," says Frost in genuine amazement.

To the doctors' amazement, after two years of surgeries, therapy and general recuperation, Frost was back in high school and living a normal life.

But, it was by no means as easy as it sounds and Frost admits that there were occasions when he was distraught with self-doubt. "There were times when I thought I would never get off crutches and when I thought I would never walk normal again," he solemnly recalls.

However, while the determined Frost was worried about walking, his doctors at the Knoxville Medical Center were worried about his merely living.

One, Dr. Adrian Carrol, was special to the Michigan native because of his concern. "He was really super - and a very religious man," commented Frost. "He told me that what saved me was the will to live. He said he had done all he could."

The direct efforts of the doctors were supplemented by the indirect efforts of his family and friends in the form of moral support and prayers. "In this sense, Frost's mother was a driving force in his recovery, especially because of her unflinching optimism.

"She didn't want to look for bad news. A lot of my recovery is due to her," beamed the proud son, who also noted that she spent four straight weeks - night and day - at his bedside after he regained consciousness from the lengthy coma.

It was at that time that the critically ill youth began to show the first signs of improvement, as well as the expected reactions of fear and confusion.

Frost struggled to describe the thoughts that raced through his troubled mind when he awoke to discover that half a year of his life, which had almost been stripped from him, had faded into the past.

"I remember trying to reach down and feel my legs ... but I found out I was wrapped in a body cast. Then it hit me like a ton of bricks.

"After I came to my complete senses - when I knew what had happened - I said to myself, 'I'm going to die!' It took two to three weeks to cope with that."

Like her son, Mrs. Frost had to learn to cope too - but in a different way. When asked if she felt somewhat helpless standing by and watching Frost suffer, she responded, "Oh, sure. As a matter of fact, I even passed out once.

"I was sitting there one day looking at him, and he just didn't look right. Then, poof! The next thing I remember is waking up in the emergency room," she said by telephone from her southern Kentucky home.

After the body cast was removed, Frost walked with the aid of leg braces and crutches for six months. He was also involved in group therapy sessions for several weeks with people who had similar trying experiences.

Altogether, he spent eighteen months recuperating in the hospital, but the work eventually paid off.

When he finally returned home, Frost discovered a group of friends and relatives waiting for him, who had planned a "coming home" party. "I'm really an emotional person," he said.

"Everybody was there, and I just sat down and cried."

Besides the serious moments at home, there were lighter ones too, according to Frost. Due to the extent of his injuries, he often feels soreness in his joints as bad weather sets in.

"I remember after I recovered my dad would get up in the morning and ask, 'Well, what's it going to be like today?' I would just laugh and say something like, 'Oh, wear your shorts, it's going to be nice!'"

Looking back on the entire experience - from the accident to the time of recovery - Frost admits it was a period of growth which still influences his life even to day, exemplified by the fact that he is majoring in nursing at the present time.

It also gave him the desire to work with handicapped children. "The greatest feeling," he says, as his dimples peek from behind a frequent grin, "is to make them laugh or smile."

Before the accident, I would look at people who were handicapped and criticize them. But now I know where they're coming from and what they're going through."

In regard to his dealing with handicapped children, Frost recalls a special child whom he worked with whose future appeared dim.

"The doctors said he'd never walk, but one day when I worked with him he took three steps before he fell. The kid's six years old now and he's walking on braces and crutches," remarked his proud helper.

Five years after facing intense pain, tremendous challenges and nearly unbearable circumstances, Edward Frost is happy.

Simply because he is alive.

"No, not from what I've seen outside. I imagine it's a rough job but you would think they could do a better job of it."

Harvey Hodak, senior-psychology, Louisville.

"I've only been here for a day, so it's hard for me to say. It seems like some of the steps have been cleaned off."

Charles Figgs, sophomore-philosophy, Lexington.

"They could be doing more. They are doing a lot around here, but the roads...it looks like they could be a little bit clearer."

Mary Halley, junior-health-record administration, Lexington.

"They've done a pretty good job, but they could use some salt."

Judith Halfacre, sophomore-business management, Elizabethtown.

"No I do not. I think if more planning was put into clearing them, it would be done more efficiently."

Melanie Wickham, junior-environmental resources, Louisville.

"I'm doing better than they did last year. I noticed the parking lots being clearer, but I just came from the Coliseum and I noticed there is a lot of snow on the sidewalks."

First Place

Using a 35mm Nikon F-2A equipped with a Vivatar 70-150 zoom lens, Eric Shindelbower captured this young boy observing a train below. The camera was secured to a tripod and was shot at 1/60th of a second at f/5.6 with Tri-X 400 film. Eric is a senior at Model Lab School and has practiced photography for over 1 1/2 years. He is considering a career in photography.

Second Place

Bruce J. Nadorff, a senior art major created this picture using a slow shutter speed.

Honorable Mention

Using a time exposure, Brian Potts shot this scene with a Pentax camera with a 35mm lens.

Photography Contest Results

The Camera Shop awarded prizes to the first and second place winners. First place winner Eric Shindelbower receives a camera bag, fifty dollar value. Second place winner Bruce J. Nadorff receives a Ten Dollar gift certificate.

Honorable Mention

Shelia Jones used a Canon 35mm camera with a 135mm lens at 1/125 of a second at f/8. The film was Tri-X EI 1200.

Campus briefs: Book Exchange

The Student Senate Book Exchange is in operation again, but this time it works differently from past semesters.

In the past, students brought their used books and the books were kept at the Exchange until someone purchased them.

However, this method proved inefficient and it has been changed. A student must now bring in a list of the books he has for sale, the prices that he wants for each book and his phone number.

When a person wants to use the Book Exchange, he must contact the Student Senate, tell them what book he wants and they will refer him to a person who has the book for sale.

The Exchange is working now and anyone wishing to sell or buy books may contact the Student Senate office.

Free U

The Free University is organizing for this semester again. Although there are already some teachers and classes ready to begin, more teachers are needed.

According to Sheri Mefford of the Student Senate, there is a great demand for dance classes. Disco dancing is a popular subject and teachers are desperately needed.

The planning committee of the Free U meets this week. Announcements concerning deadlines and a complete listing of all classes offered will be released soon. This will include the times and places where the classes will meet.

For more information or to volunteer for teaching call Student Senate at 3696 or 3697.

No-Smoking Clinic

A No-Smoking Clinic sponsored by the Student Health Services will be held Monday, Jan. 15 through Friday, Jan. 19.

The clinic will be held in Conference Room B of the Powell Building at 7:30 p.m. each evening. The sessions will last until 9 p.m.

The Five Days to Stop Smoking will be presented by the Seventh Day Adventists Church. The clinic will use filmstrips provided by the Church and by the American Cancer Society.

A $5 donation is asked from each participant to cover the costs of materials used in the clinic. For more information call the Student Health Services at 622-2836.

The great spirit will arrive Saturday, Jan. 20 when the Progress, the Milestone and the Office of Student Activities sponsor "Spirit Day." It's the day of the big game -- the Colonels vs. the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles -- and the Progress wants to see banners.

The first 2500 people to arrive at the game will receive free pom-poms courtesy of the Milestone. There will be a contest, of course. Any resident hall or organization on campus can compete. A $50 prize will go to the best banner and $25 will go to both the second and third best.

The banners are to be exhibited around the bleacher railings and the prizes are to be awarded at half-time. Banners must be registered by 12 noon the day of the game at the student door of Alumni Coliseum. The game is to begin at 1:30 and will be televised on WKYT, channel 27, Lexington.

Middle's Raiders are definitely blue after Colonel win

By KEN TINGLEY
Sports Editor

Eastern's Colonels scored 12 unanswered points early in Monday night's OVC opener against Middle Tennessee and went on to defeat the Blue Raiders 81-77.

James "Turk" Tillman provided the scoring punch, pouring in 29 points, while center, Dale Jenkins proved to be a dominating figure scoring 14 points and hauling down a bundle of rebounds before fouling out early in the second half.

The loss dropped Jimmy Earle's Blue Raiders to 1-1 in conference action and 9-5 overall. Earle commented before the game, "I think Eastern has to be the class of the OVC. You can toss the rest of the teams in a hat because on any given night any team can beat one of the others."

The win raised the record of Ed Byhre's cagers to 7-4 and ended a five game road trip which saw the Colonels go 3-2. They now open a five game home stand beginning Saturday night against Austin Peay.

EASTERN KENTUCKY (81)
Tillman 9 11-11 29, Merchant 3 0-0 6, Jenkins 4 6-6 14, Jones 5 3-7 13, Elliott 6 3-4 15, Williams 2 0-1 4, Blocker 0 0-0 0, Joiner 0 0-1 0.

MIDDLE TENNESSEE (77)
Armstrong 3 0-0 6, Haynie 2 0-0 4, Harris 1 4-4 6, Joiner 8 3-6 19, Coleman 6 2-2 14, Frost 1 0-0 2, Riley 6 7-9 19, Johnson 3 1-2 7.

Halftime - Eastern 38, Middle 31. Fouled out - Harris, Jenkins, Merchant, Tillman, Armstrong. Total fouls - Eastern 24, Middle 25. Technical foul - Middle Coach Jimmy Earle.

With the OVC season underway the Holiday split leaves hoopsters at 7-4

By CHRIS ELSBERRY
Staff Writer

Returning to cozy Alumni Coliseum after a cross country swing over the holidays, the Colonels basketball team sports a 7-4 record after a 2-2 split over the Christmas break.

The Colonels started the trip off well, beating North Carolina Charlotte, 86-80 at UNCC. Reserve guard Kenny Elliott had a super game against the 49ers, scoring 30 points hitting 10 of 13 shots from the field and 10 of 13 free throws.

"Turk" Tillman had 19 points for Eastern who lead throughout most of the game. "We played real good at Charlotte," said Colonel boss Ed Byhre, "anytime you can win on your opponents floor it feels real good."

Reno, Nevada and the Wolfpack Classic were a totally different story. The Colonels were blown out by the running Wolfpack 116-84. "They physically beat us to death," said Byhre. "The Fresno State coach told me after the game that the refs in our game (with Reno) were the worst he had ever seen."

Tillman again led the Colonels with 29 points and Reno marked the return and departure of center Dave Bootcheck. Bootcheck played and had 12 points against the Wolfpack but injured his ankle and his expected return to the team is unknown.

Eastern took the consolation game over Fresno State 84-78 as Tillman destroyed the Bulldogs, scoring 36 points and set a Wolfpack Classic record for the most points in the tournament with a two game total of 64.

"Toledo was a total disaster for us," (an 82-57 loss) said Byhre. "We played poorly, very poorly." Elliott came off the bench to pace the Colonels with 15 points. Tillman however, had one of his worst nights ever as he tallied only 11 points and he connected on only three of 16 field goal attempts.

Tillman's shaky play could be attributed to the Colonels practice the night before. Tillman and Coach Byhre collided and both suffered bad cuts over their eyes. Tillman's required five stitches to close while Byhre's needed 15 to seal the wound.

Joiner dismissed

Lovell Joiner, the 6-7 junior All-OVC center, has been dismissed from the team for the breaking of team rules. The dismissal comes on the heels of an earlier suspension which occurred in the middle of December.

Joiner was an All-OVC forward last year after transferring from Robert Morris Junior College. He was voted to the pre season All-OVC team this year but got off to a bad start this year which was compounded by a nagging injury. Joiner was averaging 5.8 points a game and 5.6 rebounds. Joiner was unavailable for comment.

digit scoring for the Colonels with 13. The game was only the second one for the Colonels since Dec. 21 and it showed as Eastern turned the ball over 22 times. However, they proved adequate at the line as they hit 22-33 shots but they did miss some key 1-1 situations.

One outstanding attribute to the Colonels was their poise going down the stretch. Their whole front line fouled out but the Colonels held off a Middle rally to win by four.

COLONEL CORNER:
Tillman was ranked 13th in the country in scoring before his 29 point performance Monday night.

20 of Tillman's 29 points came in the second half Monday night before the junior transfer fouled out.

Kenney Elliott lays in two of his 30 points against the University of North Carolina - Charlotte. The Colonels went on to upset UNCC on their home court 86-80. Elliott scored all of his points coming off the bench.

Holidays highlighted for women hoopsters by Madison Invitational

By CRAIG COMBS
Staff Writer

The Lady Colonel basketball team finished 1978 with a second place finish in the James Madison Invitational Tournament, and have opened the new year with two straight defeats.

At James Madison in Harrisonburg, Va., Eastern beat Western Carolina in the first round 78-66, then fell to host James Madison 57-56 in the finals.

Leading the way during the tournament was the team's top scorer, guard Peggy Gay, who scored 51 points in the two games to earn Most Valuable Player honors.

Intramural highlights

Although the rest of the state is still digging out from under the ice and snow, the intramural department is already in the process of planning a winter sports program.

On Monday, January 15th at 4:15 p.m., a meeting will be held for all teams interested in entering a team in the intramural basketball league. The meeting will be held in the Ferrell Room

Also on the all-tournament team for Eastern was freshman forward Sandra Mukes, who scored 20 points in the two contests and led the team in rebounding.

Head Coach Shirley Duncan said she was pleased with the second place showing, stating, "We played much better than we had been, because we had struggled against Tennessee and Indiana, and were never really in either the Northern Kentucky or Morehead State games."

Playing against Kentucky in Lexington for their first game in almost a month, January 5, the Lady Colonels were blitzed 44-26 in the first half and were beaten 73-52.

Aided by five technicals on Kentucky before the opening tip because of the Lady Kats failure to turn in their starting lineup soon enough, Eastern jumped out to a 9-0 lead. Gay sank the five technical free throws, and along with Sandra Mukes scored an early basket for the advantage.

The UK strategy of sending guard Janet Timperman to the basket to either pass or shoot began to click, however, and the Lady Kats went on a 13-3 spree to take the lead for good at 13-12 midway through the first half. Timperman, a senior, led all scorers with 17 points.

Eastern's leading scorer Peggy Gay was held to 12 points, 11 under her average, by a sticky Lady Kat defense.

A plus for Eastern is the fact that last year's starting center Sandy Grieb, who had not played at all in previous games due to a foot injury, played 18 minutes against Kentucky and scored 10 points with five rebounds.

In the first game of a women-men double-header at Middle Tennessee Monday night, Eastern fell to the Blue Raider women 75-61.

Sharon McClannahan and Kathy Riley combined for 50 points, scoring 26 and 24 respectively, to lead the way for Middle Tennessee.

Sandra Mukes led the Lady Colonels with 19 points, and Peggy Gay had 17. Eastern now stands 2-6 overall and 0-3 in the KWIC, going into a Wednesday game with Miami of Ohio.

Youthful thinclads prepare for indoor opening

By CRAIG COMBS
Staff Writer

Led by seniors Chris Goodwin and Doug Bonk, and sophomore Bill Morgan, the men's track team will open their indoor schedule this weekend at East Tennessee.

Goodwin, the school record holder in the triple jump, Bonk, an All-OVC cross country performer the last two years who will perform as a distance runner, and Morgan, the school record holder in the 1000 yd. run, are all expected to help the Colonels in their attempt to better last year's seventh place finish in the OVC championships.

Head Coach Art Harvey says he feels much of the Colonels success will also depend on many young people. "We have several young members of the team that haven't proven themselves yet, so we don't know exactly what will happen," he said.

Eastern will compete in notable meets such as the Indiana University Relays at Bloomington and the Mason Dixon games at Louisville. Also on the schedule are Ohio State and Virginia, and a meet against in-state rivals Kentucky and Morehead at Morehead, along with the OVC championships at Middle Tennessee in February.

Probably more than most people, Harvey is hoping for some decent weather this winter. "Because we don't have an indoor facility, we have to do a lot of outside work, and severe weather hampers us," Harvey said.

The only major absence through graduation for Harvey's charges is OVC champion shot putter Scott DeCandia.

Coach Harvey adds that, "the OVC is very strong in indoor track and it will take some super efforts for us to place well in the conference."

Monday night's game against Murray State will be team picture night at Alumni Coliseum. The first 5,000 fans to arrive at the 7:30 p.m. contest will receive an autographed 8x10 color photo of the 1978-79 Colonel basketball team.

Loretta Coughlin is hacked during the Lady Colonels early season loss to top ranked Tennessee. The ladies went on to finish third in the James Madison Invitational and now have a 2-6 record on the year.

"Quote of the week"

"I was going to make some lineup changes anyway."

Ed Badger, Head Basketball Coach of the University of Cincinnati after two of his starting players were suspended from the team and expelled from school after they were caught breaking into a gift shop and looting the store after a game which they lost.

Four team fight Colonels still tabbed tops as OVC action begins

By KEN TINGLEY
Sports Editor

The Ohio Valley Conference basketball teams have finally begun inter-league play after a long month against some very tough opponents. Although they did not play each other, the one thing that all the OVC teams did share over the past month, was that they all lost against their toughest opponents.

This year's race shapes up into a four team battle with Eastern's own Colonels tabbed by the coaches to end up on top when all the shooting, dribbling, and rebounding is over. The Colonels split four games over the holidays before Monday's conference opener against Middle Tennessee. Highlighting the holidays was Eastern's upset of North Carolina - Charlotte and a victory over Fresno State in the consolation game of the Wolfpack classic in Reno, Nevada. Middle Tennessee came out of holidays with the most wins of any OVC team as they racked up eight victories in 12 outings. All-OVC forward, Greg Joyner leads the Blue Raiders with a 20.8 scoring average and a 9.5 rebounding average. The Raiders have been impressive as of late, losing to Nevada - Las Vegas by 12, before going on a three game winning streak with wins over California - Santa Barbara, David Lipscomb and North Carolina - Asheville.

Western Kentucky has won six of their last seven games and are once again a force to be reckoned with in the OVC. Western's only losses have come at the hands of powers Duke, Illinois State and Florida State. The loss to Illinois St. was by a point in overtime. Western is led by Greg Jackson with a 16.6 scoring average.

Morehead entered OVC action with a

500 season at 5-5 and could prove to be the darkhorse in conference competition. Herbie Stamper leads the Eagles with a 16.4 scoring average while Charlie Clay has been the strength under the boards snaring 7.8 bounds per game.

However, the Eagles schedule has not been as competitive as some of the other OVC schools. Morehead's one game against a major basketball school saw them lose by 43 to Indiana.

Austin Peay could also be a factor in the very even OVC. Peay has managed just a 4-6 record going into conference play but the improvement of such players as Alfred Barney, who is averaging just under 20 points a game, could make the Governors a major factor in the outcome of the conference championship.

The fight has begun for the OVC title and the team with the best conference record will this year, for the first time, earn the right to host the OVC tourney.

Gymnastics Women open with upset victory

By KEN TINGLEY
Sports Editor

Eastern's young women gymnasts opened their season with a surprising tri-meet victory over Ball State and Western Illinois just before the holiday season and are now preparing for a meet in Louisville against some of the top teams in the nation.

In winning their first meet of the season, Agnes Chrietberg's freshman dominated team had to come from behind to beat out a Western Illinois team. "We were really kind of lucky," said Chrietberg. "We had a real good last event and they had a real bad last event. It was really exciting."

The women were led by Cheryl Behne who had an all-around score of 32.30. The final standings at the meet were Eastern 123.25; Western Illinois 121.45; Ball State 113.05.

This weekend the gymnasts will travel to Louisville where they will meet with such national powers as Louisville and Ohio State. Both are usually rated in the top ten in the country.

Chrietberg also commented that this year's team has quite a bit of skill and experience for being so young. "They always rise to the occasion," said Chrietberg.

Weber leads men to split; Miami next

By KEN TINGLEY
Sports Editor

Led again by another strong performance from team captain Tony Weber, the men's gymnastics team finished second in a triangular meet with Kent State and Miami of Ohio just prior to the holidays.

The meet at Miami saw Kent State take first place with a 172.6 while Eastern just trailed by six finishing at 166. The Colonels finished well ahead of Miami who scored 146.75.

Team coach Gerry Calkin commented, "that he was very pleased with the performance of the team and hopes that they will be much improved this week when they again take on Miami of Ohio in a dual meet which will be the first home meet for the gymnasts.

Calkin's main concern was if the long layoff would hurt his team. "We are not really worried about Miami after beating them by 20 up in Miami," said Calkin.

The Colonels will also have the benefit of having Dave Cole return. Cole was out three weeks with a shoulder injury.

This week's meet will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and will be in the Alumni Coliseum. The meet will precede a basketball double-header against Austin Peay.

Remembrance of a friend

By DON MCNAY
Staff Writer

As the Eastern swim team begins to prepare for another season, there is one person who will not don the trunks for Eastern's swimming Eels this year. He only attended this school for a brief time, but an exceptional athlete was lost to the University when Ron Flerlage passed away this summer.

Swimming was always a part of Ron's life. At age six, Ron began his career with the well-known Cincinnati Marlins. Ron had great success as a young swimmer, until at age 13 it was discovered that Ron had contracted cancer of the lymph glands. This began Ron's long battle against the effects of this dreaded disease.

When the disease was first discovered, Ron was only given eight weeks to live. Miraculously, his disease went into a remission and Ron regained most of his strength.

Ron's condition improved to the point that in his freshman year at Covington Catholic High School, he was state champion in three different events. Battling his illness throughout high school, he still led his team to two state championships. He was one of the premier swimmers in the state the entire four years that he was in high school.

Ron came to Eastern last year in order to continue his swimming career and enter into the law-enforcement program. While taking a routine physical, tumors showed up again in his body. Ron was forced to withdraw from the University and return home.

Ron never gave up hope that his cancer might possibly go into another remission, and that he could resume swimming at Eastern. However, his condition progressively worsened until on August 1, 1978 Ron Flerlage died at the age of 20.

Ron faced his sickness with a courage few people ever realize. One never heard him complain about the painful treatments he underwent. Ron never seemed to notice the ugly sores that peppered his body, or deviated from the happy-go-lucky personality that characterized him. He faced his illness with a courage that inspired all. Ron Flerlage was a champion who will not be soon forgotten by those who knew him.

In the wake of the Orange, Rose, Cotton, Sugar, Tangerine, Bluebonnet, Holiday, Pioneer, Pimento, Watermelon, Squash and all those other bowls there comes a time to re-evaluate your team and your league. Especially if your league fails to make it to any of the post season thrillers.

The Ohio Valley Conference was one of those leagues that failed to make a post-season appearance despite their move to Division IAA where four of the nearly 50 teams make it to the playoffs.

In a recent rating by the Bob Harmon football forecast, the OVC was rated 18th in the country out of more than 65 football conferences. The ratings are based on each league's power quotient average determined from the ratings of all teams in every conference.

1. Big Eight Conference
2. Pacific Ten Conference
3. South West Conference
4. Southeast Conference
5. Atlantic Coast Conference
6. Big Ten Conference
7. Western Athletic Conference
8. Mid American Conference
9. Southland Conference
10. Pacific Coast Athletic Conference
11. Missouri Valley Conference
12. Southern Conference
13. Mid-Continent Conference
14. Ivy League
15. Big Sky Conference
16. Gulf South Conference
17. Yankee Conference
18. Ohio Valley Conference
19. Lone Star Conference
20. Southwestern Athletic Conference

Despite being ranked in the top third among conferences in the country, it would seem that the league would have the potential to be rated even higher. Such conferences as the Big Sky, Yankee, and Gulf South would seem to be on a par with the OVC.

The question is: Is the OVC receiving a bum rap?

The OVC joined Division IAA last year with nearly 50 other teams in hopes of upgrading the league and the chance of attracting national TV which they did when ABC televised the Eastern-Western game regionally this past fall.

The new division seemed to help the league. Not only did they have a game televised regionally but they also placed two teams in the top ten in the country (Eastern and Western). Despite this fact the OVC was ignored in the selection for the post-season playoffs which would eventually lead to the Pioneer Bowl.

A playoff berth would have really given the OVC a chance to compete against some of the other conferences that are on or near their level. But they were denied the opportunity.

Of course you can't judge a conference by a one team representative. The fact is that besides Eastern and Western the rest of the OVC was quite mediocre.

There is only one way that a conference can gain respect and that is for the teams to go out of its own conference and defeat teams of another league. Of course every team has to step up and play teams that are at least as good or better but the way they will gain respect is to consistently beat these teams.

DIAMOND DUST:

This Saturday will begin OVC "Game of the Week." The first game will feature Morehead vs. Murray in a 1:30 p.m. contest. Next week (Jan. 20) will feature Eastern vs. Tennessee Tech also in a 1:30 p.m. start. The games will be aired over the Ohio Valley Conference Television Network.

Three members of Eastern's 1978 football team attained honorable mention All-American. They are: Dean Stucky, David Neal and Dale Patton.

Board approves fraternity row

By ROBIN PATER
Organizations Editor

A "fraternity row" at Eastern Kentucky University?

Possibly, if all goes well during the next few months, the answer may very well be affirmative.

Last Saturday, Jan. 8, the Board of Regents approved only the concept of creating a fraternity row after receiving an architect's recommendation on a site plan for a proposed housing development.

A Lexington landscape architect James B. Evans has proposed that the housing locate in the area behind Keene Hall. The area would be bound by Lancaster Road, Hall Road, and Kit Carson Drive, just south of Vickers Village.

Presently, Evans is preparing cost estimates that would tentatively provide 12 fraternity houses and one common parking lot. According to Dr. Thomas Myers, vice-president of student affairs, the houses will be financed, constructed, and owned by each individual fraternity. First, however, the University—who will lease the land to the fraternities—will be responsible for preparing the land for construction.

"This will include the installation of gas and electric lines," said Myers.

Why 12 houses for the development project when there are 15 social fraternities in actuality?

"12 would meet our needs," commented Myers. "In the future, there will be room for expansion," Myers added.

Skip Daugherty, director of student activities, added that "only four or five fraternities right now would be able to build in the next two years, financially."

"We're looking about 15 years ahead," said Myers.

Myers explained that this project is in its second of three phases—cost analysis.

"Currently, it is up to the architect to come up with an estimate to go before the Board of Regents," continued Myers. "Hopefully, it will be this spring," he added.

"The concept is good," feels Daugherty, "but there are a lot of variables involved."

These kidnap victims aren't so helpless, they turned the tables on the gangsters. The girls took their hats and guns and the guys started reaching for the sky. But from the kidnapers point of view, the crime was a success with 465 cans of food collected for needy families.

Informal rush underway

Spring informal rush is now underway. Plan on meeting the women who make up our sororities at EKV. Attend each sorority's open house in the Powell Building on Monday, January 22 and Tuesday, January 23 at the following times:

Gangsters collect food for needy

By GINNY EAGER
Features Editor

Al Capone would have been proud, if he'd seen the way Lambda Chi Alpha handled that crowd. The crowd at the Annual Sorority Christmas tea that is

While the campus sororities were enjoying their tea in the Keen Johnson Ballroom they were rudely interrupted when a group of gangsters dressed in black and carrying pistols charged in.

The band of gunmen abducted the presidents of the sororities and made their getaway. The stunned sisters soon heard from the kidnapers, who demanded a ransom of one can of food for each victim.

No, it wasn't really a kidnapping, it was actually a sophisticated canned food drive. The surprised sorority members paid the ransom and the presidents were safely returned.

The fraternity collected 465 cans of food. Some of the food was given to two needy families in Madison County whose names were obtained from the Baptist Student Union.

The remainder of the food was donated to the campus wide canned food drive which was sponsored by the Chapel of Meditation.

According to Tom Hillman, of Lambda Chi Alpha, "It was kind of a surprise plus it was a lot of fun doing it."

The only people who knew about the kidnapping were the fraternity, Skip Daugherty and the sorority presidents.

'Lord of the Rings' makes uneasy transition to movie screen

By MARK TURNER
Editor

J.R.R. Tolkien's "The Lord of the Rings" has been the subject of many readings by many persons.

Despite the length and complexity of the work, people have often read it more than once.

The work itself is magnificent, filled with the adventures of dwarves, elves, men and the heroes of the story, hobbits.

Now Ralph Bakshi has made "The Lord of the Rings" into a feature length animated film.

The movie is a noble attempt at an impossible task.

Tolkien's world, called Middle Earth, is too complex to be made into a movie. There is just too much there.

The work itself, a trilogy, is close to 500 pages long (in the official paperback version).

In fact if you have not read the trilogy, you probably would be lost.

The movie follows, as best it can, the story line of the books. Too much had to be cut and there is so much vagueness that it is hard to follow.

Even the true cultists, those who go to the movie wearing "Frodo Lives" T-shirts, seem disappointed at the lack of continuity.

The story is lengthy. It is set in a time when the Dark Lord of Mordor needs the one ring, the ring of power, to rule all of Middle Earth.

The ring has fallen into the hands of Bilbo Baggins, a hobbit of the Shire. (This occurs in the Tolkien book, "The Hobbit").

Gandalf suggests to Bilbo that he give the ring to Bilbo's cousin, Frodo.

It is Gandalf who discovers what the ring really is and helps organize the expedition that will destroy the ring by casting it back into the fire from which it was forged.

Simple, except that the ring was forged in Mordor, where the Dark Lord rules.

A Fellowship was formed of dwarves, elves, men, hobbits and the wizard, but it is broken and separated.

Evil Riders and orcs are about and trying to steal the ring from Frodo.

The movie ends with the defeat of Suraman, a wizard who has turned to evil with thoughts of owning the ring.

Frodo has still not made it to the fire that can destroy the ring so diehards will have to wait for "The Lord of the Rings II" (or will it be "Son of the Lord of the Rings") for the conclusion.

Movie Quiz

Questions:

1. Who directed the 1940 classic "Rebecca?"
2. Who portrayed Lillian Roth in the 1955 movie "I'll Cry Tomorrow?"
3. Who wrote the script for "Casablanca?"

Answers:

1. Alfred Hitchcock
2. Susan Hayward
3. No one. They had no script just a story line.

The movie is not without its good points, though.

It is the animation that first impresses the viewer. It is splendidly done. An elf looks like what an elf should look like.

Not all of the movie is animated. There are several places where actors are used but with special effects so even they look, somewhat, animated.

The music, composed by two time academy award winner Leonard Rosenman, is full of magic and mystery, suspense and fantasy.

May it be recommended to those who wish to see a movie about the trilogy to wait until Rings II comes out. With the story line, this proves to be more exciting.

This writer, though, is going back and re-reading the trilogy, to see what the movie missed.

Presenting.

The first annual Bernardian musical awards for 1978

Personality of the year

Dolly Parton - Under that enormous pile of synthetic silver hair and that gaudy skin-tight suit, Dolly Parton is an immensely talented performer. She has widened not only the scope of country music but also the realm of popular music.

sending them to the top where they've always belonged.

Album of the year

Some Girls - Rolling Stones - This album by the Rolling Stones was the nastiest, most biting piece of music to be released in several years. It proved once more that Mick Jagger

Quarter Moon in a Ten Cent Town - Emmylou Harris

The Stranger - Billy Joel

The Cars - the Cars

Single of the year

Two Out of Three Ain't Bad - Meat Loaf - Some of the most provocative and powerful lyrics were contained in this song by the Incredible Hulk himself, Meat Loaf.

Single runners-up

MacArthur Park - Donna Summer

You Needed Me - Anne Murray

I Love the Nightlife - Alicia Bridges

Miss You - Rolling Stones

Baker Street - Gerry Rafferty

Male singer of the year

Billy Joel - Americans found a new poet with a singer-songwriter who sang of love, faith and religion in a style young Americans could relate to with a passion.

Female singer of the year

Linda Ronstadt - For this and all other years, Linda Ronstadt proves that she is a talented performer both on stage and off stage (Jerry Brown will probably attest to that).

Jazz artist of the year

Chuck Mangione - Sure his jazz is commercial, but Mangione's music has helped bring jazz back into prominence after a long dry spell.

Country artists of the year

Emmylou Harris and Willie Nelson - Each one of these country performers are highly individualistic musicians, but each were in part responsible for country music becoming a national phenomenon.

Disco performer of the year

Donna Summer - As terrible as disco can be sometimes, this lady always seems to make disco at least halfway bearable. "MacArthur Park" and "Last Dance" were classy disco renditions in a world of mindless lyrics and so-so music.

Larry Bernard

Arts Editor

Band of the year

Rolling Stones - Mick Jagger and Company reached a new height of success with their album Some Girls, has what it takes.

Album runners-up

Bat Out of Hell - Meat Loaf

The 'Turkey' awards for 1978

Worst album of the year

Mixed Emotions - Exile - Exile produced an album here that somehow didn't know what direction it wanted to take. A mixture of limp-wristed disco and boring bubblegum music was enough to prove that Exile was just another washed-up band before they have even really begun.

Worst album runners-up

Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band [Soundtrack]

Grease [Soundtrack]

M.I.U. Album - Beach Boys

A Single Man - Elton John

Worst single of the year

Kiss You All Over - Exile - So Exile had a number one hit song with this mediocre record. Big deal. The fact still remains that Exile has produced a song here that is dumb and sugar-coated.

Worst single runners-up

Hopelessly Devoted To You - Olivia Newton-John

Part Time Love - Elton John

Summer Nights - John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John

You Light Up My Life - Debby Boone

The 'big bust' award

Dolly Parton - When Dolly's blouse burst open at the Country Music Association awards show, it was rumored that several people were hit and remained unconscious for a few minutes. Fortunately, no one was seriously injured.

Coming out of the closet award

Richard Nixon - "Officially, you can say I'm out," were the eloquent words of Mr. Nixon himself. It was always evident that Nixon was a little bit different and strange, but who would have believed that he has finally decided to step out of the closet?

Comedian of the year

Anita Bryant - Once again that darling little orange juvie girl proved herself to be an ass in the eye of the public. It was always easy to laugh at dear Anita. This year she should be especially proud because she had some heavy competition for comedian of the year.

The 'Preparation H' award

Jimmy Carter - No other case of hemorrhoids could be as famous as those inflamed tissues of the president. Oh, well Jimmy, I guess the answer is a daily application of Preparation H and gritting those big, pearly-white teeth.

Biggest rip in

Russell County award

Eloise - No one else could be such a rip as Eloise. She fooled around so much she lost a good thing. Oh, well, you're still a good friend, but my, my, you're such an old rip, Eloise.

John Prine

John Prine, a native Kentuckian, who's credits include "Paradise," "Dear Abby," "Sam Stone" and "Illegal Smile," will be performing in Brock Auditorium sometime in February (the exact date has not been set.)

'Tuesday In The Museum'

By BETTY ANN GOINS
Staff Writer

A museum is a dramatic learning experience according to Jane Munson, curator of the Jonathan Truman Dorris Museum on the 4th floor of the Crabbe Library.

"If you talk about history to children they have no concept, but when they come to a museum and do and see and touch they have an idea as to what it might have been like," said Munson.

Munson, who has been at the University since 1972, put her beliefs and concepts about the "museum as a learning tool" to work by forming a program entitled "Tuesday In The Museum."

"All it takes is an imagination and a small budget. The community has a lot to offer," commented Munson.

"Tuesday In The Museum" consisted of 10 different programs offered throughout the fall semester, for ages 6-10.

Snakes Alive, was the title of the first program in which A.L. Whitt, professor of biology, presented live snakes for all students to see.

"The whole program started with a suggestion to have Whitt bring his snakes and sit in front of the cabin. Well, we had one program and we couldn't just have it once, we had to have more than that," said Munson.

The second program, Soapy Toys, allowed all participating children to carve toys out of soap scraps that were donated by a shop in Berea.

As word of the "Tuesday In The Museum" program spread around the community participation really began to grow. There's a drawback to large groups, though, according to Munson.

She stated that because of the response and the museum's limited staff and facilities, it had become a crafts activity, where children come and make something and there's very little learning going on.

Although there is a positive side, "The important thing is they are coming to the museum, they are enjoying themselves and maybe this will set a trend where they will want to come," she said.

Rhonda Smith, exhibit designer for the museum, is in charge of teaching the crafts. The 1974 University graduate is also in charge of photography and publicity for the museum.

"There's not really that much teaching, with so many kids not that much instruction can be done. But it is exciting," said Smith.

Other programs conducted by the museum were Spirit Masks, which consisted of creating Indian ceremonial masks and Pinch Pots - in which hand made pottery was created.

During one program, professor of history, Quentin B. Keen entertained over 50 youngsters with "Jack Tales" - stories from Appalachia.

The remaining programs consisted of such topics as candle making, simple weaving, creating turkeys from turkey feathers and traditional music.

Students who participated in "Tuesday In The Museum" had many favorite reasons for coming to the museum.

"Mainly it's being able to see all the different things. You get to do things and most museums wouldn't have something like this," commented a ten-year old Model student.

"It's something to do after school and sometimes it's pretty fun. It keeps me off the streets," said a 9 year-old Model boy.

Munson has many hopes for the future and plans to expand on the "Tuesday In The Museum" program. She explained that by January of 1980, the museum, which has in excess of 3,000 items in its collection, will be moved to a new facility, the Carl D. Perkins Building.

After the move to the new facility Munson plans to set up curriculum guides for the teachers and possibly get grants to have workshops for the teachers so they will know what the museum has to offer.

Munson believes this is necessary in order to make the trip to the museum a learning experience, not just a field trip.

The new building, which will cover 14,000 square feet, will have a special workshop room which will allow for more programs and participants from all age levels, not just ages 6-10.

"The museum has come a long way and it's got a ways to go but it should become, and I believe it will become, an integral part of the educational system," said Munson.

Time Passages

With a campus full of chandler looking trees and bushes, the tower of the Keen Johnson Building points up through the snow and ice as a constant reminder of passing time.

Outstanding students

The 1978-79 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges will include the names of 50 University students.

They "have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders," the publishers, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., said.

The students were selected by campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory on the basis of their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and future potential.

The University students "join an elite group of students selected from more than 1,000 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations," the publishers said.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since 1934.

Open house

'One step at a time'

By JANET JACOBS
Guest Writer

"One step at a time" describes the way the open house policy will progress after this semester according to Dr. Thomas Myers, vice-president of Student Affairs.

The open house system has taken a "big jump" this year with visiting hours increasing from 2 to 16 per week.

Evaluations by student affairs and the residence halls will be made next semester and those on the committee which instigated the new policy are anxious to see the results.

An increase in the number of resident assistants (RA) and better training programs made the extension of hours possible. However, most of the RA's are on institutional rather than federal work-study programs creating a greater expense for the university.

The investment, as observed so far, seems to have been worthwhile. Jeannette Crockett, Dean of Women, feels that "it was a significant change that we needed."

Greg Ryan, president of Men's Interdorm, reports better participation because "students are more satisfied in the number and variety of hours."

A random sample of 31 students living on campus produced verification of these comments. Out of 28 responses, 26 were strongly in favor of the new hours; the other two had no opinion.

Of the 26 students, 14 would like to see more hours during the week, and 15 voiced an opinion for more hours on weekends.

However, Dr. James Allen, Dean of Men, "doesn't anticipate another increase in hours in the near future."

Possible differences in hours suggested by the students surveyed include: 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays and 10 to 2 a.m. on weekends, 12 to 9 p.m. weekdays and 12 p.m. to 1 a.m. on weekends, 6 to 11:30 p.m. each evening, 2 to 3 hours each afternoon or evening, 24-hour open visitation on weekends.

Faculty sabbaticals

The deadline for requesting sabbatical leaves has been extended until Monday, Jan. 15.

Faculty wishing leave for the 1979 Summer term, the 1979 Fall term, the and 24-hour open visitation seven days a week.

At the present time, keeping later and longer hours would be impossible because of the expense in staffing, therefore, twenty-four hour visitation will be a long time in coming.

"I would be very skeptical of 24-hour visitation," said Allen. "I don't believe the Board of Regents would allow it. Besides, I think many of the institutions that do have it find it to be quite a handicap, an invasion of privacy."

Crockett does not discard the idea altogether, although she does for the immediate future. Crockett said she feels it will depend on the "climate of the other regional institutions" due to competition for students.

"If all the other regional institutions went to such a policy or indicated interest, I think Eastern would. But we would definitely have to ease into it," she said.

One idea being talked about is turning the Miller - Beckam - McCreary complex into 21 and over or graduate student housing. Hours would be extended on the theory that older students have more experience and could select their own hours.

This project would be beneficial to students such as Catherine Baker, one of the students surveyed. Baker, a 25-year-old graduate student, feels she should be able to have the choice of 24-hour or perhaps coed housing.

But because of their construction, most of the dorms are "not adequate for 24-hour open house," according to Mabel Criswell, Associate Director of Housing. "There is not enough privacy for their residents."

After arranging such a large increase in hours for this year, most of those involved want to collect feedback on the new program before beginning plans to develop still another policy.

"We've been pleased so far," said Myers. "But before initiating any changes, we're going to try to get a good evaluation on this policy."

1980 Spring term or the 1979-80 academic year must fill out the "Request for Sabbatical Leave" form. The form may be picked up in the office of Academic Affairs, Coates 108.

With the campus thoroughly engulfed in whiteness a lot of students will be spending the next few days close to their television sets while they wait for the snow to melt. The television industry offers several good shows for the snowbound including three newly made movies.

Sunday night ABC will air "The Dallas Cowboys Cheerleaders," an account of a reporter's experiences in the Cowboys' cheerleader tryouts and performances. The movie stars Bert Convy and Jane Seymour at 9 p.m.

Monday night NBC will present "Charleston" which, from the reviews, could be renamed "Gone With The Wind II." Martha Scott and Lynne Moody star in the 9 p.m. revival of Scarlet and her Tara. NBC offers a movie planned for the mystery buffs of the world at 9 p.m. Tuesday night. "Murder in Music City" which stars Sonny Bono and Lee Purcell is the story of unexplained deaths in Nashville.

For those wishing to brave the weather to venture to the Pearl Buchanan Theatre the University is offering the return of Billy Jack in "The Trial of Billy Jack" on Thursday and Friday nights at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

For Saturday and Sunday nights the University Film Series will present "FM", a musical movie, at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Wednesday of next week the Pearl Buchanan Theatre will be showing "Magnum Force" at 7:00 and 9:00.

A special "Movies at Midnight" showing at Buchanan Theatre will present "Magnum Force" on Friday night and "FM" on Saturday night.

The men's basketball schedule puts the University against Austin Peay on Saturday and Murray State on Monday night in Alumni Coliseum.

The women's basketball team will be up against Austin Peay on Saturday and Murray State on Monday. Both games will be at home.

At 1 p.m. Saturday the University gymnastics team will be competing against the team from Miami (Ohio).

Auditions for "The Shadow Box", the University Theatre's next presentation will be held January 15 and 16 at 3:30 and 7:30 in Room 137 of the Campbell Building.

The Student Senate is offering the Free University again this semester although teachers are needed for the classes. The Senate is also sponsoring the book exchange the first week of this semester.

Welcome back to another semester of work and activities.

PBS PRESENTS A World of Difference

Check local PBS station for broadcast day and time.

In 1945, B.F. Skinner shocked the world by putting his 13-month-old daughter Deborah into a "box." The box was actually a climate-controlled crib designed for comfort and protection, and the young psychologist was merely testing his theory that environment controls behavior. Deborah has grown to be a normal, well-adjusted adult, but the storm of rage and protest over her father's unorthodox theories continues.

On A WORLD OF DIFFERENCE: B.F. SKINNER AND THE GOOD LIFE, Jan. 18 on PBS, NOVA portrays the life of this famous behavioral psychologist. In this intimate, biographical film, NOVA traces Skinner's early childhood and work and takes him on a revealing visit to Twin Oaks, a self-supporting cooperative inspired by the utopian ideas in his book, Walden Two.

Skinner, now in his 70's, made his first major contribution to behaviorism at Harvard in the '30s and '40s with his work on pigeons and rats. In a series of experiments, the psychologist demonstrated he could dramatically control their behavior by manipulating their environment through positive reinforcement with food. He further illustrated the crucial role of reinforcement in learning with the now classic example of training pigeons to do everything from turning in circles to playing ping-pong.

With these experiments, Skinner confirmed the central principle of behaviorism: that environment alone molds behavior. Humans, he claimed, are different from animals only because our environment is more complex. By insisting on man's lack of free will in shaping his own behavior, Skinner established himself as the central figure in the ensuing furor over behaviorism.

Thirty years after Walden Two, NOVA invited Skinner to visit Twin Oaks. In practice, NOVA finds Twin Oaks, the rural, 11-year-old co-op, has succeeded in applying the basic Walden Two system. But there have been problems, as well. The candid exchanges between Skinner and the residents of Twin Oaks raise new and challenging questions in the continuing controversy over his work.

Attention 1979 grads

The Division of Career Development & Placement, 319 Jones Building will be scheduling approximately 100 employers who will visit campus spring semester to conduct employment interviews. Employment opportunities will be available for qualified candidates with school systems, business and industrial firms, public or private agencies and federal-state government. Be prepared to take advantage of the services provided by the Division of Career Development & Placement and all the employment interviews for which you are qualified.

Placement registration packets are available in the Division office, 319 Jones Building from 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. These packets provide the required forms to start your placement file (credentials) and the data sheet which must be completed and returned to the office before interviews can be arranged.

Summer jobs

1/4 U.S. Government summer job announcement 414 and applications are available in the Division of Career Development & Placement, 319 Jones Bldg. Deadline date for individuals applying to take the written test for clerical positions is January 12, 1979. All other positions do not require tests but the majority of application deadlines are between January 15 - March 15 depending on the agency and or position.

2. DANIEL BOONE NATIONAL FOREST - SUMMER FOREST SERVICE POSITIONS

Application Deadline: January 31, 1979
Applications and additional information can be secured in the Division of Career Development & Placement, 319 Jones Building.

Teacher interns

The Teacher Corp Intern Program is now accepting applications from interested students. Interns would be involved in specific educational projects designed to strengthen the educational opportunities available to children in areas having concentrations of low-income families. Internships run for 2 full years, preceded by an intense orientation period during the summer. Applicants must have a B.S. degree and no prior teaching experience. Additional information and a limited number of applications are now available in the Career Information Resource Center located in the Career Development & Placement office, 319 Jones Bldg. All applications should be filed with the Teacher Corp Intern Program no later than March 15, 1979.

College to career?

With the new year already under foot, those who will soon be completing degree requirements and entering the employment market should make a New Year's resolution to actively implement a job campaign which will make their college to career transition smooth, and effective. Early defining of career goals and objectives, followed by an organized course of actions to achieve these goals can be a key combination to obtain successful employment. A well prepared job campaign which incorporates forethought, goals and objectives, planning and organization, likewise reflects the kinds of qualities that an employer looks for in a prospective employee.

Stop by the Career Development & Placement office and let our staff assist you in putting together a solid job campaign.

Next Week: Organizing A Job Campaign Part I

Student teachers

Most school administrators agree that, other than the actual interview, an applicant's student teaching evaluation is the most essential element in the employment screening process for teaching positions.

Upon completion of student teaching, the EVALUATION FORM FOR STUDENT TEACHING is forwarded to the Division of Career Development and Placement. If you have credentials on file, it is maintained as part of your credential folder. If you have not filed credentials, it is maintained by the Division, but cannot be released on your behalf without your consent.

If you student taught Fall semester, and would like this document released on your behalf but do not have credentials in file with our office, we encourage you to stop by and sign a statement of release.
