The Progress

Entered as second-class matter at the Richmond, Ky., Postoffice.

Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association

This paper prepared by Morris Creech, R. R. Richards, Margaret Neale, and Gibson Prather for the first issue of the summer school.

PROGRESS PLATFORM

- A Campus Beautiful.
- A Professional Attitude Among Teachers.
- A Greater Eastern.

Welcome!

Many former students and many students who have never been in attendance here will enter school for the summer session this week. It is a pleasure, distinct and genuine, for the Progress to welcome these students to Richmond and to Eastern's campus. It is hoped that your stay here will be a pleasant one and that you may take with you gratifying memories of Eastern.

The publishing of the Progress in the summer school is a departure from custom and regular procedure. It is being done because a number of the students in the summer sessions had no medium for publicity or news.

The Progress will possibly be published five times for the students who are in summer school. This paper belongs to the students. It is operated by students, paid for by students, and contains student news. It is dedicated to a bigger and better Eastern. Its editorial policy is formulated with that dedication in mind.

Any student who would like to gain some practical experience in newspaper work can gain a try-out on the Progress staff by calling at the downtown office of The Richmond Daily Register. By doing so, you will be performing a service to the school.

And again we say "WELCOME."

Life-long Education

Prominent educators are now advocating education for a life time. This is the final stage. There was a time when children up to 12 years of age were compelled to go to school at least 24 weeks every year. Those were the days of the three Rs. Then the school age was raised to 14. Finally, it has been raised to 16.

No boy or girl under 16 can work without a certificate in most of the states of the country. In some states, illiterates are compelled to attend night schools to get an elementary education.

Adult education has received considerable emphasis in recent years. With compulsory education extended to a life time, we have come at last to the crowning stage.

Yet there is every reason to extend the education process thru all of life. This is especially true in a democracy.

In Russia and in Germany, they have what they call a "cleansing" of the party. That is a test which is applied to those who are members of the political party which controls the state to find out whether they are still true to its ideals.

Why should not every American citizen from time to time pass a test to see if he or she understands what government is all about, and to learn whether the voter really knows anything about the issues upon which he is called upon to give an opinion thru his ballot.

There are all too many voters who are incompetent to pass upon anything but the most elementary propositions before the country. They are Republicans or Democrats, protectionists or free traders, not because they are intelligent upon the matter, but because they lack intelligence.

There are those who still announce with pride that they always vote a straight ticket. If they were really intelligent, they could not do it.

Candidates for office differ in character, in ability in pronounced views on anything. What claim have such upon the goodwill or the support of the voter?

Of course, we cannot see how the government can support an educational system that carries a man thru life. But the principle is a sound one. A man should be learning and investigating all his life.

We have the opportunities in this country, thru adult classes, thru forums, thru a wide system of extension courses, and thru a great variety of journals on every conceivable subject. All that is needed is that the people should avail themselves of these opportunities.

The Laurel Festival

The Mountain Laurel Festival, held recently at Pineville, represents the challenge of the Kentucky mountains to the rest of the world. Too long have persons everywhere looked upon the mountains of Kentucky as a place fit for comparison as regards civilization with the out of the way places of the world. To the more densely populated parts of these United States, the mountains of Kentucky are peopled by strange barbarians who do nothing but manufacture moonshine whisky and shoot revenue agents.

The festival was a delightful from all reports, as the Mardi Gras of New Orleans, or the Tournament of Roses, in California. And just as civilized and just as cultured.

Eastern should be proud of the part her representatives played in helping the mountain people "put on their show." The White and Maroon band, under the direction of James E. Van Feuresem, proudly led the grand parade. And Dr. H. L. Donovan, as head of the association, welcomed the visitors who had gathered there among the laurel.

Visitors came from everywhere. The mountain laurel, which was for so long the sole property of the Kentucky mountains, has been adopted by the state and nation.

And all this from the vision of a few men who wanted the mountains of Kentucky to be understood by a mistaken outside world who knew only "what it saw in the papers."

Have Faith in America

"Let our faith in America overcome our fear of the future." These were the words of Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, addressing the recent convention of that order.

America was built up by faith, and faith is needed to maintain it. If our ancestors had taken counsel of their fears, Kentucky would still be a wilderness.

Those pioneers looked out from their rough cabins into great and terrible forests, where unknown enemies were lurking. But they said their stout hearts were equal to all dangers. So their creaking wagons tolled over the dark Alleghanies, the limitless prairies, the snowy peaks of the Rockies, the scorching desert. They turned this noble land into the grandest garden and workshop the world ever saw.

But in spite of the power thus shown, some people fear that our country is on the verge of some revolutionary convulsion. They forget the sober common sense of the average American, his disposition to laugh when emotional people go up in the air.

Let everyone show courage and keep plugging on his job. The householder should put people to work by mending his roof. No one ever saved money by letting rain leak on his wallpaper. The manufacturer should buy the new machine he needs. No one ever got rich by using obsolete equipment. The out-of-work should keep hustling for a job. People are always getting sick or moving away, always leaving vacancies. The business man should advertise. You can't sell goods unless people know about them.

The shadows of depression are slinking into the background. If you read history, you will find that the American people emerged in triumph from every previous experience of trial, with new wisdom

MODEL HIGH GRADUATION

Mark Gorman Heard in Commencement Address; Necessity of Hard Work Stressed

14 AWARDED DIPLOMAS

At the eighteenth commencement exercises of the Model High School of the Eastern Teachers College, Monday night, May 27, Mark Gorman, state high school inspector, reminded the graduating class of the fourteen members that "there are four things you should know and live by." "These," he said, "are hard work, wise use of leisure time, love and service toward others, and worship."

Mr. Gorman emphasized the fact that "the secret of genius is the capacity of hard work." "Most of us will die," he said, "without tapping the great reservoirs of energy within us."

Speaking of success in life, Mr. Gorman said: "You can't succeed by just doing enough to get by but must apply yourself to your task and continue to do this throughout a lifetime." He reminded the graduating class that the receiving of a diploma did not mean they were educated, for, he said, "education is a life-long process."

In discussing the use of leisure time the speaker remarked that "reputations are made in leisure time." "Your character is formed," he said, "not while you are at work, but while you are not working." "Crime is the product of leisure time," he said.

The graduating class was presented by Samuel Walker, principal of the Model High School and R. E. Edwards, director of the school, awarded the diplomas to the following people:

J. Marshall Arbuckle, T. J. Black, Margaret Louise Culton, Margaret Mae Deatherage, Dann Wood Denny, Ruth Allene Hammonds, Mary Doty Hunter, John Earl Kayse, J. Ross Kirwan, William G. Moore, Charles Edward Robinette, Pearl Mae Stephenson, Joe F. Taylor, Stanley Wilson.

In conclusion, Mr. Edwards remarked that Mr. Gorman had expressed the philosophy of the Model High School in the address he had given.

The Model High School girls' glee club, under the direction of Miss Mary Murphy, and the orchestra, directed by Harold Rigby, furnished music for the exercises.

Rev. F. N. Tinder gave the invocation and pronounced the benediction.

GOODLOE IS HONORED

Paul Goodloe, son of Mrs. Annie Goodloe, of Richmond, has been elected to membership in the Johns Hopkins chapter of the Society of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity. Mr. Goodloe is a graduate of Madison High School and of the Eastern Teachers College. He attended the University of Kentucky where he was a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He is taking graduate work at Johns Hopkins University and will hold a teaching fellowship there next year.

That swept away old evils. Let us have faith in America, and in the power of its people to solve all their problems!

This paper was put out in a hurry. We hope, however, it will meet with student approval and sufficient interest will be shown to justify its continued publication.

The Progress needs staff members very badly. Any person with or without previous experience will be welcomed as a candidate for the staff.

Add goofy puns—The Louisville Times says that the lioness on the make for a lion says to him, "You're a dandelion."

We wonder how people feel when they follow the sign at the head of Lancaster avenue that proclaims "Eastern" in no uncertain terms and then when they turn and come to the college are told that they must go up Second street to go in the "front door"?

Concert Series Procured as Campaign Climaxed With Success; Programs Selected

Campaign of the Madison County Cooperative Concert Association came to a successful conclusion Saturday night at 9 o'clock as a result of a home stretch drive of workers which carried memberships sold to 439 and assured that a three-number series of exceptional merit will be brought to Richmond.

The committee designated to select the artists for the program signed a contract with the Columbia Concert Company for a program on which will appear Goya, gifted Spanish dancer, acclaimed as an outstanding artist in many of the largest cities of the world.

Malcolm and Godden, celebrated two-piano recitalists, will be on the program. The New York Times said of the gifted team: "They were welcomed by an enthusiastic audience that called for encores. The two players displayed excellent team work, dividing solo passages equally between them and returning to the double passages with sure skill. Their own two piano arrangements were particularly effective."

The Imperial Russian Singers, a group of gifted vocalists, will complete the three-number program. The committee endeavored to select a program that would have the widest possible popular appeal and provide sufficient variety to be acceptable to the entire membership.

The campaign for memberships in the concert association moved into an accelerated pace Saturday, as workers redoubled their efforts to carry the endeavor to success. One of the remarkable features was the exceptional success encountered in Berea, where enthusiastic workers sold 123 memberships and made material contribution to success of the drive.

Keen Johnson, president of the association, said "workers who participated in the campaign are to be congratulated upon the remarkable success attained. Their reward will be the satisfaction of hearing three fine concert numbers that will be brought here as result of their efforts." Thanks was expressed to the Glyndon Hotel for permitting the use of the lobby for campaign headquarters.

Longest Cave Trip in World is Offered At Mammoth Cave; Work In National Park Nears Finish

MAMMOTH CAVE, Ky., June 5

An eight-mile subterranean walk beneath two Kentucky counties, requiring approximately eight hours to traverse, awaits summer visitors in Mammoth Cave National Park. It is called the longest cave trip in the world.

The hazards placed by nature through countless centuries in Mammoth Cave have been banished by CCC crews, eighty to 100 youths having worked within its caverns for the last two years to make it comfortably available to the nation's tourists.

Eight hundred more from the civilian corps have been busy above ground in the 33,000 acre national park, building 53 miles of wide gravel roadways, planting three-quarters of a million trees and removing eyesores.

Celebrating completion of the cave and park work will be formal ceremonies next month to which Secretary of Interior Ickes, Robert Fechner, director of C. C. C. works, and Arnold Cammerer, director of national parks, have been invited.

The thousands of visitors who view Mammoth Cave annually now will find refreshments miles under ground from the opening of the long trail. A dining room mid-way along the route has been included in the improvements. Hot lunch will be served in a seventy by forty foot cavern, where two tables more than eighty feet long each with built-on benches have been placed.

Other work along the new trail has included the building up of the path with rocks piled by hand, then covered thickly with sand, removing jagged rocks, eliminating tortuous turns and dangerous step-offs, blasting out low ceilings and transforming the trip generally into a safe and comfortable one. All this subterranean work has been done by hand labor with nothing more machine-like than wheelbarrows to help.

SUMMER TERM OPENS JUNE 10

Eastern Teachers College Offers 112 Courses in 20 Departments

ADD SPECIAL FEATURES

The summer school at the Eastern Teachers College will open Monday, June 10, and continue for two five weeks terms: The first term will end July 12 and the second August 16.

Wednesday, June 12, is the last day students may register for a full load during the first term. They may register for a reduced load, however, until Saturday, June 15.

There will be 112 courses offered in twenty different departments of the college. These include courses in agriculture, art, biology, chemistry, commerce, education, English, French, geography, geology, government, health, history, home economics, industrial arts, mathematics, music, physical education, physics, and sociology. The courses will be taught by the regular instructors of the college.

The normal amount of credit that can be earned in one term is six semester hours, according to M. E. Mattox, registrar. "Students who have a standing at Eastern of at least 'B' will be permitted to earn seven semester hours of credit during one summer term," Mr. Mattox stated. The work taken may be applied toward a degree or teacher's certificate.

Several special features have been added to the regular work for the summer school this year, Dean W. C. Jones announced today. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer, writer and lecturer, will be on the campus for a series of ten lectures to be illustrated with slides from pictures taken on his expeditions to the frozen north.

Other attractions will include Charles Fite, young pianist, the Coffey-Miller Players, lecturers, prominent speakers on national and world affairs, and concerts by the college orchestra and band.

For the first time, Eastern is featuring a coaching school. Head Coach Rome Rankin and his assistants will conduct this special training course for athletic coaches.

Included in the sports for the people attending the summer school are swimming, playground ball, baseball, speedball, track and field, hockey, archery, and tennis.

The newly elected officers appointed R. R. Richards, class of '29, as secretary-treasurer of the association. Mr. Richards has been serving in this capacity for the past few years. He is a member of the Eastern faculty in the department of commerce.

FINALS HELD FOR 34 GRADS OF MADISON

"All Madison High" Program Brings to Close 1934-35 Term of Richmond City Schools

AWARDS ANNOUNCED

Diplomas were awarded to 34 graduates at the Madison High school commencement exercises last night in the high school auditorium.

As is the custom at Madison High school, the program was a "Madison high school program." There was no guest speaker, only talks by members of the graduating class and W. F. O'Donnell, city superintendent. Music was furnished by the school orchestra, a student chorus, and a trio composed of faculty members.

Miss McCollum Honored

The Girl Reserves cup which is given annually to the girl in the graduating class who has the best four-year scholastic average was won by Norma McCollum. This is the tenth year that the cup has been awarded.

Library tickets were awarded to Edwin Barnes for the best boy scholastic average, and to Gertrude Hahn for the second best average among the girls. The award given to the freshman girl with the best grades in home economics was won by Jimmie Ramsey.

A national essay medal, presented by the Gorgas Foundation, was presented to Lucy Baker for an essay on "Preventable Diseases."

O'Donnell Reviews Progress

Mr. O'Donnell, in a short address, reviewed improvements which had been attained at the city school during the past year. The library, the school grounds improvement program, the use of student assistant teachers from Eastern Teachers College in the lower grades, the financial status of the school, and the music program which has been inaugurated were the improvements he listed.

"I can say without hesitation," he said in speaking of the student teacher plan, "that I think this agreement has resulted in mutual advantage. Our teachers say that these student assistants are of great assistance to them and to their pupils."

The agreement spoken of is an agreement which was made last year between the college and the high school to the effect that the college should furnish a few select student teachers.

Have No Floating Debt

In speaking of the financial status of the school, Mr. O'Donnell said, "This is the first time in nine years that we have had no floating indebtedness. The only indebtedness that we have is a bonded one, which we couldn't pay if we wanted to, as the bonds are not due yet."

The program was opened with the procession, during which the "Assembly Grand March" was played by the high school orchestra. The invocation was given by the Rev. Paul Gillispie of the Richmond Methodist church, following which the junior high chorus gave three numbers.

Paul Fife, president of the graduating class, delivered an address in which he recalled memories of days spent at the high school. He presented the school with a check for $95.00, which the graduating class had made with social events during the past year, and expressed the hope that other classes would follow this example and that the money would be used to help purchase a curtain for the high school auditorium.

School Development Traced
Sula Karrick, a member of the graduating class, spoke on "The 300th Anniversary of High School Education." She traced the development of education from Socrates to the present day. The early schools of this nation, when only those who were financially able were allowed a chance to receive an education, were depicted by Miss Karrick, as was the struggle of women for equal educational opportunity with men.

Joe Christian, another graduate, in speaking on "Our Schools," told of the rise of education in Madison county, and of the advances made in the curriculum by the evolution of the social system. He paid tribute to the early teachers who were responsible for the rise of education in this county, saying, "What great generals are to an army, good teachers are to a school."

Pays Tribute to Teachers
In closing, he paid tribute to the teachers of the local school, and to the taxpayers of Richmond as "the ones who have made our education possible."

Following the rendition of "At Your Pleasure," by Cheyette, by the orchestra, the class was presented by A. L. Lassiter, principal of the high school, and diplomas were awarded by Dr. H. G. Sandlin, chairman of the city school board. Other musical selections were given by a double male quartet, and a trio of faculty members. The benediction was given by the Rev. Mr. Gillispie.

THE CLASS OF '25

By E. C. MULLINS, Class of '25
Ten years ago we bade adieu,
It seems but scarce a day,
To Eastern, Alma Mater true,
And set out on our way.
We knew not what, nor when, nor where,

Perchance our lot would be,
But only knew to do and dare,
Our Eastern, dear, for thee.
Of many hazards full aware,
And dangerous curves ahead,
On various roads, or rough or fair,
From Eastern's gates we sped,
To fairer fields though some were sent,

Mid grass, and trees, and flowers,
O'er deserts of life still others went,
To scatter soothing showers.
But east or west, or north or south,
Whether ease or hardship came,
Each gave himself—his noble best,
In Eastern's honored name.

We come today in memory
Of the swift flying years,
Since Eastern gave us her degree,
Her blessing, and her cheers.
Now all the hardship, all the pain,
The weary years have brought,
As Eastern's old grads meet again,
Are quickly set at naught.
Each hand we clasp, each face we view,
Each scene we look upon,
Our faith, our hope, our love renew,
Our sorrows all are gone.

Again we breathe the Eastern air,
Once more we feast our eyes,
On beauty blowing everywhere,
Beneath fair Eastern skies.
We lift our hands, we stand erect,
Proud of our high estate,
The called, the chosen, the very elect,
Eastern's first to graduate.
Then here's to Eastern, old and new,
The grads of every year,
To her may each and all be true,
As the ten year grads now here.

PLAN SCHOOL FOR COACHES

Rome Rankin to Conduct Five Week's Course at E. T. C. Summer School

COLLEGE CREDIT GIVEN

A five weeks' coaching school will be conducted by Coach Rome Rankin during the first term of the summer school at Eastern Teachers College. The school will be in charge of the Eastern head coach and his assistants.

Two weeks' instruction in football and a week on athletic training and equipment have been outlined by Coach Rankin in the syllabus for the course.

High school coaching will be stressed in the course, as it is intended primarily for coaches who will be in summer school taking other work. College credit will be given on the course.

Systems of line play, signal systems, instructions in the teaching of fundamentals, and field generalship is included in the two weeks to be spent on football.

Passing, dribbling, pivoting, team play and methods of offense and defense are in the basketball course of instruction.

In the week spent on athletic training, the purchasing of equipment, care of equipment, and bandaging and equipment will be discussed.

A large enrollment in the school is expected by Coach Rankin and T. E. McDonough, head of the department of physical education.

FIRST CHAPEL TO BE HELD TUESDAY

The first chapel exercise of the summer school will be in the Hiram Brock Auditorium Tuesday morning, June 11, at 9:50 o'clock.

Chapel during the summer school will be held two days each week instead of the three which is customary during the regular school year. The third period—9:50 until 10:05—on Tuesday and Thursday has been reserved for chapel.

Eastern Class of '34 Holds Reunion

The first annual reunion of the class of '34, of the Eastern Teachers College, was held Thursday at the Glyndon hotel. Thirty-six members of the graduating class of last year attended the meeting, with Robert R. Martin, president of the class, acting as chairman.

President Donovan spoke to the group and chose as his subject, "The Last Year at Eastern." He discussed the many different things that have occurred on the campus during the past year.

Members of the class briefly told what they had been doing since leaving Eastern. Dr. L. G. Kennamer closed the meeting, speaking on "Shall Reunions Become a Custom?" Doctor Kennamer was faculty sponsor of the class.

The class elected Robert R. Martin, Miss Ula Pike, and Miss Georgia Bush, all of Madison county, to serve as an executive committee for the class.

Other members to attend the meeting were: Joe Dennis, James B. Moore, Clifford Rader, J. D. Turley, Landon McDowell, Gladys Onstott, Robert Carpenter, Gladys Norris, Clara Mae Nelson, Sara Margaret White, Clarence Margaret, Margaret Durham, Leland Wilson, A. H. Wilder, T. C. McDaniell, Iris Jones, Denver Hoskins, Mrs. Gertrude Roysdon, Geneva McCarthy, Mary Emma Vaughn, Harold Prim, Mitchell Deuhain, G.

Quiet, unassuming Combs was overshadowed by the boisterous Babe, but he continued to play a steady, workmanlike brand of ball that made him one of the really greats in the game. When the club was on the rocks it was Combs who stayed in there every day and gave all he had; when "dog days" were on, the quiet Kentuckian never slumped. Base hits continued to rattle off his bat when the rest of the Yankee team was hitting hard, but hitting little else beside air on third strikes; and though on the same team with Ben Chapman, the fastest man in the game, he was one of the most feared base runners by the league catchers.

One of the finest tributes that any athlete has ever been paid was accorded the Kentuckian when he was injured last year while chasing a fly in St. Louis. Players, managers, sports writers, and fans all over the country mourned the passing of a great ball player, and a gallant gentleman. Ecomiums were lavished on Combs in every newspaper in the nation. And this spring when Earle Combs hit the return trail, every mourner was an ardent enthusiast for him to come back.

Back he came. He's still in there. The Babe has gone, Bob Muesel has gone, and Miller Huggins, Wally Pipp, Everett Scott, Joe Dugan, Herbie Pennock, Wally Schang, Benny Bengough, and all the rest of the great ones whose names were cheered in Yankee stadium when the Kentucky rookie broke in are gone, but Earle Combs, son of Eastern, is still in there taking his three cuts at the ball, still hawking flies, and still being a Kentucky gentleman of whom Kentucky and Richmond may be proud.

But Combs is not Eastern's only contribution to the diamond greats. This year there went to the Detroit Tigers, American League champions, a young left-hander named Clyde Hatter. He went up from Louisville, just as Combs did. And some idea of his possibilities may be gathered from Manager Mickey Cochrane's statement, "If Hatter isn't a big league pitcher, then I never saw one." And Cochrane has seen all the modern good ones!

Another is Henry "Red" Phillips. Property of the Cincinnati Reds of the National League, Phillips was farmed out last year to the Piedmont League, and this year to the Texas League, which is a notch higher. He, like Hatter, throws from the left side.

There is one man here at Eastern who is in a great measure responsible for the success of these men. He is George Hembree, one of the most successful college baseball coaches in the country. It was he who started these men on the road to baseball success. His college team this year laid a very good claim to the state championship. And we confidently expect to see more of the products of Coach Hembree pastiming in somebody's big league ball park.

CLASSES WILL BEGIN TOMORROW MORNING

Classes for the first summer term will start at 7:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, June 11, Dean W. C. Jones has announced. "We expect every student to report to class promptly," Dean Jones said. "Sometimes students enroll at Eastern," the dean continued, "who seem to be lost for a week and do not attend class." The dean emphasized the fact that in the short summer term it is imperative that students do not miss class.

On the summer school schedule will be found the periods the classes meet, the rooms where they meet, and the number of the rooms in the buildings where the classes meet. Most of the classes meet daily. This means that they meet six days each week. If a class does not meet six days each week, it is so indicated on the schedule.

The class periods will be 75 minutes long during the summer, with 10 minute intervals between each class. The fifth period of forty minutes—12:30 until 1:10—is reserved for lunch. The periods are as follows:

- |                      |               |
|----------------------|---------------|
| First Period         | 7:00 - 8:15   |
| Second Period        | 8:25 - 9:40   |
| Third Period         | 9:50 - 11:05  |
| Fourth Period        | 11:15 - 12:30 |
| Fifth Period (Lunch) | 12:30 - 1:10  |
| Sixth Period         | 1:20 - 2:35   |
| Seventh Period       | 2:45 - 4:00   |
