"FIRST YEAR" IS HELD SUCCESS

Little Theatre Club Production At Eastern Gymnasium Discloses Talent

LEAD ROLES ARE GOOD

The Little Theatre Club of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School scored a success last night with their presentation of Frank Craven's comic tragedy of married life, "The First Year." The attendance was somewhat of a disappointment but those who were present were rewarded with a worthwhile performance.

"The First Year," as the titles of the three acts imply, sets forth the quarrels and reconciliations of a newly married couple. The first act, called "training quarters," has its scene laid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston in Reading, Ill., where, despite the more romantic nature of Dick Loring, the daughter of the house accepts the proposal of Thomas Tucker, a plodder. The acceptance carried with it a promise to leave Reading.

Miss Mary Stoner Combs, as Grace Tucker (nee Livingston) and Robert Salyers as Tommie Tucker, had the leading roles in the production. Miss Combs was especially good in her more dramatic moments and her tears, while not visible from the audience, were reinforced by very realistic sobs.

Bob Salyers gave further indication of his ability as an actor by his performance. Having changed roles only a few days ago on account of the illness of Harold Rutledge, Mr. Salyers played the part of the harrassed young husband in a manner befitting a professional.

While commenting on the various players it would not be fair to disregard the most convincing portrayals of the roles of Mr. and Mrs. Livingston by Henry Triplett and Margaret Scott. While not calling for a great number of lines the part of Mr. Triplett carried an unusual amount of acting and Mr. Triplett had no difficulty in putting the difficult role across. Miss Scott was entirely convincing in the mother character and fully looked the part.

The newly married couple move to Joplin, Mo. Just why, anyone who has ever been to Joplin will wonder, but they did. Their little one-room, bath and kitchenette flat was the scene of a dinner party at which the purchasing agent for the railroad and his wife were entertained. Tommie had bought options on property wanted by a new railroad and stood to make a large sum of money.

Dick Loring, the other suitor, appeared on the scene just as the deal was about to be closed and announced the railroad would not need Tommie's property. Tommie insulted Dick, the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Barstow, departed, and Grace packed her things and went home to mother.

George Burchette and Thelma Moreland as Mr. and Mrs. Barstow did excellent work in their brief appearance. Cy Green, as Dick Loring, was good enough for any critical audience. Sarah Jones interpreted the part of Hattie, the negro maid, most effectively. Her mannerisms were realistic and her negro dialect near perfect.

The railroad buys Tommie's property at a large figure. Dick loses his job and Grace returns to her family. Tommie got drunk on some bad gin and for nearly a week Grace did not hear from him. When finally he arrives he discovers his wife almost in the arms of Loring and then the trouble begins in earnest. A knock down and drag out fight, climaxed with Grace hitting her husband over the head with a vase, is interrupted by the appearance of Dr. Anderson, uncle of Grace and friend of Tommie. He succeeds in patching up the difficulty and informs Tommie that he is to be

Last Lyceum Show Given At Eastern

General James Tandy Ellis, the entertained from Kentucky, entertained the faculty and students on Wednesday night of last week in the last lyceum number of this semester. General Ellis is a native of Kentucky, being born near the mouth of the Kentucky river in what he likes to call "the river country."

General Ellis is typical of what most people think a Kentucky Colonel should be, a man that dresses the part, looks the part and above all can tell those fine stories as only a typical Kentuckian can.

He presented a varied program. He gave us many good stories with music in the form of banjo, piano, harmonica and jews harp, mixed in to make the stories go better. On the whole the students enjoyed the program.

PROGRESS HAS ANNUAL DINNER

Eastern Paper Staff Meets at Du Clymbe Inn for Banquet; Dr. Donovan Speaks

IMPROVEMENTS TOLD OF

On the night of May 4 the Progress staff held their annual banquet at Du Clymbe Inn. This affair is always looked forward to by the staff with great anticipation. Each member invites a friend and a general good time is had.

Fred Dial, editor of the paper, presided as toastmaster. Keen Johnson, publisher of the Richmond Register, spoke on "The Value of a School Paper." He suggested using it as a laboratory for the English department, giving the students an opportunity to study journalism and newspaper writing.

Professor W. L. Keen, who is faculty advisor of the Progress, discussed "Feature Writing."

R. R. Richards, business manager of the Progress, and who has directed the business of the paper for two years, spoke on "Our Policy." He said that the Progress had this year assumed full editorial responsibility. The editorial policy has been one of moderation and good temper, seeking to correct conditions which the students felt might need correction.

Dr. H. L. Donovan said that the staff had made a marked improvement in the Progress.

Dean Homer Cooper said that the faculty had given the staff full freedom and had at no time imposed censorship on the staff.

a father. Grace and Tommie make up and Tommie "hopes he's going to like us."

Harold Douds, as Dr. Anderson, played his part to perfection, save for a fault shared by him with several others, that of needing a great deal of prompting, especially in the first act. This was due no doubt to the shifting of roles early in the week and the little time available for practice.

"The First Year" was directed by Mrs. Cecil Fellows and Miss Pearl Buchanan and is an addition to their stage triumphs. Harold Douds was stage manager as well as taking a difficult role. Henry Arnold is business manager of the club.

"The First Year" is the last production of the club this season and it is hoped that by next year a stage with a decent curtain and enough depth to permit proper staging of productions will be available for their use. The handicap of the facilities in the gymnasium is a great one to overcome.

Mrs. Sam Jones is convalescent at her home on Moberly avenue from a severe fall which she received two weeks ago when she fell and broke two ribs.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. W. L. Bryan, above, president of Indiana University, will deliver the commencement address to the college graduating classes at Eastern State Teachers College, June 1.

Dr. A. W. Fortune Heard at Chapel

On Thursday of last week, Dr. A. W. Fortune, pastor of the Central Christian church of Lexington, delivered his address, "The Relation of Men and Women on the Campus," to the student body and faculty at the Forum's regular assembly.

Dr. Fortune has given this address at several colleges in this section of the state, receiving favorable comment at each place it was delivered, and last week was no exception.

He discussed the relation of boys and girls in a very sound and understanding way. He believes that boys and girls should come in contact with each other on the campus in as many ways as is possible for the benefit of both. "Any boy or girl," said Dr. Fortune, "that does not care to associate with people of the opposite sex has something wrong with them."

He stressed the fact that we should have high and noble ideals and live up to them. He scored Judge Lindsey, saying that in all probability the judge has done more than he has any idea of in undermining the ideals of the American home. He thinks that as long as the boy and girl are not thinking of marrying it matters little who their companions are. But the idea that a girl to be popular must not be too pure was branded as a lie by Dr. Fortune. He stressed the fact that no individual has the right to ask more than he or she can give in return.

Mr. Jarmin, assistant to Dr. Fortune and director of the musical work at the Christian church, rendered two beautiful songs.

SENIORS ENTERTAINED

The seniors will be entertained Wednesday, May 30, by Dr. Chas. A. Keith, class faculty advisor. All seniors are cordially invited.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

One good thing about Mr. Ford's airplanes—they'll never hold back traffic on the hills.

A diamond is a woman's idea of a stepping stone to success.

People with too much imagination pile up mountains and then have to climb over them.

To get nowhere follow the crowd.

He's the kind of a chap who would wire his mother for money on Mothers' Day.

"It certainly pays to have a son in college."

"What does?"
"Dad."

CHEMISTRY OF KISS DISCUSSED

Alchemist Named Adams and Eve, His Assistant, First to Learn of Them

MAY BE SYNTHETIC

Occurrence: Kisses were discovered by an old alchemist named Adam during his research on apples. He was ably assisted in this important work by Eve, to whom much of the credit of the discovery is due. Kisses have long been known to the chemists as potassium iodide, having the formula KIS₂. It may be produced synthetically, but the natural is more widely used. It is found in the free state in parks, automobiles, parlors, porches, and similar places. Its occurrence in the combined state is rare, except in certain localities where it is found in combination with divorce proceedings and the like.

Chemical Properties: KIS₂ is very slightly reactive to the metals of the iron group, but has a very strong affinity for the so-called noble metals, particularly gold and platinum, with which it reacts to form an insoluble complex salt with a liberation of a great deal of hot air. Sometimes the reaction is of explosive violence and great care should therefore be exercised in mixing the ingredients. For example, if one part, by weight, of KIS₂ is added to one part by weight of gold or platinum in the form of a ring to which ¼ carat of a diamond has previously been attached, a violent reaction takes place, which may result in a breach of promise after the reaction has subsided if cooled too rapidly.

Physical Properties: It is insoluble in water, but readily soluble in alcohol, cosmetics and other organic solvents. If it be dissolved in a cosmetic solution and then evaporated to dryness, an amorphous residue is left which when examined under the microscope appears in the form of elliptical particles. It is exceedingly sensitive to light—particularly moonlight.

Uses: KIS₂ because of its peculiar chemical as well as physical properties, finds varied uses in the arts—especially in the art of love making. Little is known about the properties of this substance, but many heads are now at work on the problem.

EASTERN WINS WILMORE PRIZE

Beatrice Vaught Takes First Place in State Declamation Contest

OTHERS SHOW UP WELL

The series of contests held in the Normal School ended in a trip to Wilmore by the winners in the oratorical, public discussion and declamation contest on May 9 to compete in the contests with other schools whose membership is listed with the Eastern Kentucky Oratorical Association.

Miss Beatrice Vaught, Eastern's entry for declamation, won first place in her contest. While this was the only prize captured by Eastern representatives the other contestants made a good showing. It should mean much to Eastern because this place was won in the most difficult contest of the meet.

Other representatives from Eastern were: John Bailey, in public discussion contest; Charles Alfred in the oratorical contest. The Eastern delegation was accompanied by Hambleton Tapp, president of the Association, 1927-28, and Mary Floyd, history instructor.

At the business meeting of the executives Mr. Burkholder, principal of Bethel Academy (Asbury College) of Wilmore, was elected president for the ensuing year, and Mr. Weir, of Berea Normal, was elected secretary. The constitution was changed in order to allow those in the public discussion to take up only one side of their topic and discuss it. It was also arranged for a triangular debating schedule between the Berea, Eastern and Morehead Normal Schools, allowing each school two teams, each team to take up different sides of the question to be debated.

While at Wilmore the representatives were entertained royally and with the utmost courtesy on the part of the students and faculty members of Asbury. It is only hoped that Eastern can show their thankfulness to them when we have the opportunity to be the hosts to the different schools.

The contests will be held at Berea next year.

ETERNAL CHILDREN

Somebody said that a man has four ambitions: to plant a tree, to write a book, to build a house and to beget a son. There is something peculiarly satisfying to a man when he has a son. It may be a survival of the old feeling that one must have an heir to inherit his estate.

The affection between man and his son is peculiarly tender. It is not the same kind of feeling that he has for his wife or for his daughter. Somehow the son seems to carry on his own personality and when he looks at him he feels that his life has not been in vain. A man at a banquet the other day got up and said:

"I am lonely. Nearly every man here tonight has his son with him. I have only the memory of mine." Then he disclosed the fact that his son was somewhere in France, either in an unmarked grave or lying unidentified near some wire fence or in a ditch.

The father wanted to go, but he was too old; they wanted young men. The son never came back. It may be faint consolation, but this boy has an advantage in that he will always be a boy. We lose our children in two ways. They either die or grow up. In either case they separate from us. The eternal children are the ones who die. They always linger in our memory as children. We expect to see them in the next world as children. They will always be children. But those who grow up and develop their own personality and individuality swing away from us.

Perhaps after all the loneliest person is the one who has seen his loved ones grow away from him, rather than the one who has lost them by death.

Progress

The end of the school year is here. One more milestone has been reached, time to stop and take inventory to see just where we stand.

Some students have failed to come thru, and we are sorry. Most students have made good, for which we are glad. We congratulate those finishing this year and extend to them the very best wishes for success. To those not so fortunate to be with the graduating class, we hope that you will see fit to continue your work at Eastern next year.

In some respects, perhaps, we have failed as a student publication. But we like to think that we have gone forward just a little. At least, we have made an attempt to portray student opinion and believe some good results have come from our definite stand on some questions. We hope that those having to do with the paper next year will see to it that a firmer stand is taken on questions that are vital to the student body. As we see it, that is the only excuse for a school paper.

This school year found us becoming a member of the Inter-Collegiate Press Association, an organization that will bring our school and paper into closer contact with other schools of the state. The Lexington Herald Company invited those students interested in journalism from the various schools of the state to come to Lexington and have complete charge of the editing and publication of one issue of the Herald. Eastern was included with those schools invited this year. Two members of our staff went to Lexington and helped with the work.

The school has gone forward in many respects. The Normal School has become a member of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools, and the College will likely become an active member of the Southern Association of Colleges within the next semester. With the opening of school next fall Eastern will become a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, all of which are steps toward enlargement of Eastern and betterment of the scholastic standing thru broader contact.

The present year found two new buildings brought to completion. Burnam Hall was completed, giving Eastern the most modern girls' dormitory in the state. The Administration Building was completed along about the same time, making room for all the administrative offices, the book store, post office and many class rooms.

Our new president has requested that all faculty members employed in the future have a master's degree or the equivalent. Those members of the present faculty without a degree will have to finish the required work for a degree within a reasonable time. This within itself is proof of Eastern's progress in scholarship.

By the opening of the school next fall work will have been started on an auditorium. And as soon as money can be had work will be started on a modern gymnasium, giving some hint of the immediate future for Eastern.

All signs have been toward steady growth. Indications are that such growth will continue for an indefinite period. We consider it a privilege to have been and be in school when such progress is being made. If we have been the least bit of help in advancing such progress, we count it a privilege. If we can be of greater help, we are ready.

CLUB HOLDS MEETING

The Eastern Club of Northern Kentucky held their monthly meeting May 10 at the fourth district school in Covington, Kentucky. After a very delicious dinner a business meeting was held and the following officers elected: D. B. Hubbard, president; Ethel McLaughlin, vice president; Golda Huff, secretary; Ruth Lane, treasurer and Jean Dudley, correspondent. Miss Pearl Buchanan was the guest of the evening and gave some very delightful readings. The next meeting will be held in September.

"OL' EASTERN"

To Eastern I'm devoted,
 Not for learning that is quoted,
 Nor the team that is so noted,
 Ranking bright.
 But for the old friends whom I greet there,
 And the new ones that I meet there,
 With amusing eye.
 Miss Zellhoefer's childish like sarcasms
 Fill my soul with sharpest spasms.
 To consign to her chasms
 Old silence, I would seek;
 Razed by intellect so shally
 How can my reason rally?
 How can I hope to dally
 In philosophy so deep?
 But now my mind in melancholy
 I see the many acts of folly
 Which sure as heck, by golly,
 I'll regret.
 I sure have worried 'Fessor Schnieb
 And I should have taken heed,
 I've been a dradful siner,
 You can bet.
 With language quite sarcastic
 And ideas very drastic
 I've argued with Mr. Hembree like a fool.
 I have cut a lot of classes
 With some other dumb jackasses,
 But we didn't fish for basses—
 When we should have been in school.
 No more repose in class room dreaming.
 Gazing at the sunlight beaming
 But instead I shall be learning
 Things that I am honestly earning.
 For when comes June clover,
 Our happy school days will be over
 Then I can dream my dreams forevermore. —Alyce Beck.

LOST

A green Sheaffer fountain pen. It was probably lost near the tennis courts on Eastern's campus. The initials M. L. C. had been cut on the black part of the pen near the point. Finder please return to Mary Louise Covington or leave at the business office.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The Eastern Madrigal Club, assisted by students from the Physical Education department of the school, will present a program consisting of vocal and instrumental music and dances at the gymnasium auditorium Monday evening, May 21, at 8:15 o'clock. The admission will be 25 cents. Tickets may be secured at the school book store or from any member of the Madrigal Club.

COMMERCE CLUB DANCE

If the Commerce Club could function as effectively thruout the year as it did last week in arranging for the Commerce Club dance given Saturday night, May 12, it would be th wonder of the campus. No arrangements had been made for the dance until Tuesday of last week when a group of the members of the Commerce Department met with Mr. Lawrence and Miss Ford and decided to have the dance on Saturday night. Many contend that gentlemen prefer blondes, but ladies and gentlemen both prefer the kind of a dance that the Commerce Club gave. And there is nothing so convincing of this as the happy expression on the faces of the sixty-five couples that left the gymnasium at eleven o'clock Saturday night.

Decorations were brought and the gym was decked, the "Footwarmers" were there and all feet were warmed, refreshments were served and everybody was fresh, so with such arrangements it is little wonder that everybody had a good time. Yes, many of the aforesaid ladies and gentlemen have expressed a sincere desire to have more such (if there could be more such) dances on the campus.

Yes, the dance was a great success. The conduct was splendid and all went well. There are only two things to be sorry for: one is that we can't have the dance again, and the other is for the people who missed it.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Canterbury Club which was organized recently held its regular meeting last Tuesday. The following program was given: Early Life of Robt. Frost—Mildred Redding.

Later Life of Frost—Mary Cox.
 General discussion of the works of Frost—Mrs. Wells.

At the close of the program delightful refreshments were served by the lady faculty members of the club.

This club is coming to be one of the foremost organizations on the campus.

All members are urged to be present at each meeting.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

J. Herman Wood, member of the senior class, has received a scholarship at the University of Tennessee for the coming year.

It will be necessary for Mr. Wood to do some teaching, but the scholarship carries with it a sum of five hundred dollars that will go a long way in defraying his expenses.

He has been a very active student all thru the year. Besides being assistant to Mr. Cox, professor of chemistry, he has been carrying a regular schedule of classes, is a member of the Open Forum Committee, is president of Neon Krypton literary society and is taking a part in the senior class play.

COMMENCEMENT FOR EASTERN

Activities Begin May 24. Conclude With College Graduation June 1

BRYAN TO BE SPEAKER

Commencement week at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School, which begins on Thursday evening, May 24, with the presentation of the senior class play, will come to a close on Friday morning, June 1, with the college commencement exercises.

Dr. William Lowe Bryan, president of Indiana University at Bloomington, will deliver the commencement address to the class of 1928 of the college department in the old auditorium at 10 o'clock. Dr. Bryan, who is one of the leading educators in the middle west, will speak on "Nature and Human Nature."

The commencement services for the normal department will be held on Thursday morning, May 31, at 10 o'clock, when Keen Johnson, editor of The Richmond Daily Register, will deliver the address.

Many events of interest will be held during commencement week. The senior play, "Enter, Madame," under the direction of Miss Pearl Buchanan, will start the program. It will be presented at the auditorium on Thursday evening, May 24. Miss Buchanan has been successful with her amateur productions and a high standard of theatricals is maintained in the senior productions.

The commencement sermon will be preached Sunday evening, May 27, at 7:30 o'clock at the auditorium with the Rev. Sanford M. Logan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Jackson, Ky., delivering the sermon.

DOES EUROPE NEED AMERICA?

Anna D. Olesen, Redpath Lecturer, Makes Answer.

Famous First Woman Candidate for U. S. Senatorship to Discuss European Situation.

Anna Dickie Olesen, of Minnesota, first woman candidate for U. S. senatorship, will speak here on the sixth afternoon of Redpath Week on "What Does Europe Think of Us?" Mrs. Olesen has just returned from Europe, and has made a graphic first-hand analysis of the changing attitude of the European powers toward America.

Mrs. Olesen made a spectacular record in political circles with her intensive campaign for senatorship. According to a leading national magazine she is said to have "broken all

ANNA DICKIE OLESEN records, male and female, for political speaking." Josephus Daniels, Ex-Secretary of the Navy, writing of Mrs. Olesen in the San Francisco Examiner, said, "She has quickness of intellect, a vivacious black-haired little woman with plenty of stamina and spirit. She does not attract merely by a pleasing personality, but by clean-cut presentation of live issues and an appeal to the moral conscience."

The annual campus fete for the entire student body will be held on Tuesday evening, May 29, on the campus. This will be followed by rhythmic games in the gymnasium until 11 o'clock. Senior class day exercises will be held on Wednesday morning, May 30, at 9:30 o'clock at the gymnasium, with field day exercises held on the athletic field from 10 to 4 o'clock.

A banquet in honor of the alumni of Central University, predecessor of Eastern, will be held at the cafeteria in Burnam Hall on Wednesday evening, May 30, at 7 o'clock. Many prominent alumni of old Central have signified their intention of being present.

The annual business meeting of the alumni of Eastern will be held Thursday afternoon, May 31, at 2 o'clock at the auditorium. The election of officers of the alumni association for the year will be held at this time.

The annual alumni reception and banquet will be held on Thursday evening, May 31, at 7 o'clock in the new cafeteria in Burnam Hall. Following the reception and banquet the alumni dance will be held in the gymnasium with Leon Elder and His Elks' Assembly orchestra furnishing music for the occasion.

WHAT WILL IT BE?

WE ARE LOOKING FOR IT. We know what we want, but we haven't it. Come to our rescue, we need your help. Let's have a name for the athletic teams of Eastern, a mascot.

Every school within the state and all of those in other states, have something for a mascot or at least their teams are known by some characteristic name. It is true that the teams here have gone by the name of Maroons and Maroonettes for some time, but those names are not satisfactory for two reasons. First, that name means nothing more than a color. Second, next fall we will become a member of the S. I. A. A. making it necessary to have a freshman team in all sports and it will be necessary to have a name that can be used for both varsity and freshman teams. For example, the University of Kentucky varsity teams are known as "Wildcats," and the freshman teams as "Kittens." Centre's varsity teams are known as "Colonels" and the freshman as "Lieutenants."

The following names are listed as suggestions but cannot be used as they have been adopted by some school within the state. "Wildcats,"

"Colonels," "Panthers," "Tigers," "Mountaineers," "Cardinals," "Crimson" and "Eagles."

Now, your job is to help select the name that future athletic teams of Eastern are to be known by. Fill in the blank found below, tear it out and drop same in box to be found in the post office or book store. The suggestion in majority will be used. Suggestion:

"Do Animals Think?" Asks Redpath Lecturer

What does a tiger think about when it escapes from its cage? What would you do if you were elected to manure a lion? What does a baby polar bear look like at birth?

These are just a few of the questions which George F. Morse, eminent zoologist and former director of the Boston Zoological Park and the Boston Aquarium, will discuss in his vividly interesting lecture "Wild Animals in Captivity," which he will give on the second afternoon of Redpath Week here.

Mr. Morse is a noted authority on animals. In addition to his extensive expeditions in this country, he has traveled through Europe studying zoological conditions there, and is the author of many interesting magazine and newspaper articles.

He gives what is really a lecture-entertainment. It is an amusing and amazing narrative crowded with thrilling stories of the dangerous hazards incurred by the zoologist, and replete with interesting anecdotes of animal life.

That animals have been created with reasoning power and can and do make use of it, Mr. Morse emphatically affirms, and he presents much new and startling information in support of this statement.

Mr. Morse is director of Shedd Aquarium, Chicago.

"No, shir, never took a drink in my life—hic!"

"But you're obviously—"

"Never took a drink—hic—I always paid fer 'em!"

—N. Y. Medley.

"Did you ever hear Marion Talley?"

"No, you see I never play bridge."

—Westminster.

"Will you marry me?"

"No, you drink."

"Then marry me and save me."

"I don't want a husband per served in alcohol."

—Texas Ranger.

"It's terribly disagreeable in Montana in the summer, isn't it?"

"Why, yes, but we have Great Falls."

—Virginia Reel.

He: Which are your favorite movie actors?

She: Lon Chaney.

—Chicago Phoenix.

Bertie's school report had just come in. It wasn't very good.

"I'm losing patience with you!" exclaimed his father. "How is it that young Jones is always at the top of the class, while you are at the bottom?"

The boy looked at his father reproachfully. "You forget, Dad," he said kindly, "that Jones has awfully clever parents."

—Towney Kat.

Mrs. McGuire: And what is your old man?

Mrs. McGinty: A banker.

Mrs. McGuire: A what?

Mrs. McGinty: Sure, he banks up ditches.

—Cornell Widow.

First Woman: You know, we have the worst time in our family. Every watch reads differently.

Second Same: You have quite a time of it, don't you? On second thought, hours is always the same.

—Denison Flamingo.

"Sir! I'll have you know there's blue blood in my veins."

"I hope you are taking something for it."

—Dartmouth Jack o' Lantern.

Street Sweeper (jumping from forty story building): Dis'll be a swell joke on me buddies!

—Stanford Chaparral.

"I was on the stage once."

"Yeah?"

"Uh-huh, I fell out of the balcony."

—Reserve Red Cat.

The only difference between a modern co-ed and a seventeenth century pirate is that the pirate is dead.

—Westminster.
