Snow changes class schedule

By Angle Hatton News editor

The great snow storm of 1994 is gone except for random piles of dirty snow, and it's time for Eastern to get back down to the business of higher education.

University President Hanly Funderburk sent out memos yesterday informing faculty of the plan de-veloped by the Council of Deans for making up the four days of classes canceled last week due to snow.

The plan, approved by Vice Presi-dent for Academic Affairs Russell Enzie and the Faculty Senate Execu-tive Committee before being submitted to Funderburk, actually adds only two days to the regular schedule, both Tuesday-Thursday class days. Three Tuesday-Thursday class days were missed last week, a Tuesday - Thursday flip Friday week, while one Monday-Wednesday class day was missed.

Now, only one day from each class pattern is missing from the semester. The Monday of Feb. 21, originally a university holiday for President's Day will now be used as a Tuesday class day. All Tuesday classes will meet at regularly scheduled times on that day.

Further, finals week will now be compressed into five days instead of six. The last Friday of classes, April 29, will be considered a Thursday where all Thursday classes will meet at regular times.

Enzie said this actually benefits students, because now there is at least a weekend between the end of classes and the start of finals.

"We don't want to have class when no one can come or when teachers can make it and students can't make it," Enzie said.

"Students who work Mondays may not be able to make it to Tuesday-Thursday classes if held on a Monday," Enzie said. "But when Mother

Gay pleads guilty to harassment

Charge of impersonating an officer dismissed

By Angie Hatton News editor

James D. Gay, former assistant area coordinator for Keene, Mattox and O'Donnell Halls, was fined a combined $407.50 yesterday in Madi-son County District Court Tuesday on charges of harassment and terroristic threatening of resident assistant. Mark Hamblin.

Gay pleaded guilty to the two charges. A third charge, impersonating a public servant, was dismissed by Judge John Paul Moore on the conditions that Gay never speak to Hamblin or his family members again and that he stay off the Eastern campus for one year.

Another condition for dismissal of the impersonating charge was that evidence seized by state police from Gay's Keene Hall apartment be destroyed in the presence of Gay's attorney, Charles Coy of Richmond's Coy, Gilbert and Gilbert law firm.

Det. Sgt. Don Gill of the Kentucky State Police said this evidence, destroyed Tuesday afternoon, included at least 13 video tapes and over 100 photographs.

"The photographs and videotapes were of nude and semi-nude male figures," Gill said. "Some tapes were of the victim and some were of other dorm residents."

Although Gill said there was no illegal activity depicted in the photographs or tapes, since all the subjects were over 18 years old, the tapes were seized in the room search because they supported Hamblin's charge of harassment.

Gill said the state police routinely call public safety as a courtesy before they make an arrest on campus. He

Eastern plays host to All "A" tourney

Classes moved from Alumni Coliseum next week

By Angie Hatton News editor

Campus and Richmond will be flooded with cars and basketball fans from 32 high schools next weekend, as Eastern will host the high school All "A" Classic basketball tournament again this year.

This year, in addition to the boys' basketball Sweet 16, Richmond has drawn the state girls' basketball tournament to McBrayer Arena and the state boys' and girls' cheerleading competition to Model Gymnasium.

Besides the crowded streets, the biggest effect the tournament will have on Eastern will be the lack of parking spaces around Alumni Coliseum.

'We're not blocking students from parking there at all," Lucie Nelson, director of special programs, said. "It's a first come, first serve basis (all week).

"On Saturday and Sunday, it will cost $2 to park in AC lot, but anyone with an EKU parking sticker is exempt from the charge," Nelson said.

Eastern has hosted the tournament for the past two years and, last year, received a $1,500 per day fee for renting McBrayer Arena, which is paid by the City of Richmond, Nelson said. The city is then reimbursed from the 3 percent tourism tax on motel rooms for the tournament crowd.

EKU Food Service brought in between $4,000 and $5,000 in concession sales last year as well.

The crowd exceeded 50,000 last year, according to Nelson. The division of special programs is in charge of organizing off-campus organizations that want to use Eastern facilities. In the case of the tournament, the city of Richmond is the off-campus party.

The city will profit from the tournament through hotel, gas station and restaurant expenditurest.

Higher education not a priority in Jones' 1994-96 budget

SS/JAY ANGEL Progress/JAY ANG address in Frankfort Monday.

Funderburk says lack of funding limits what EKU can do

By Joe Castle Managing editor

Eastern and the other state universities were once again put on the funding back burner Monday as Gov. Brereton Jones unveiled his 1994-96 budget, calling for a few new constructions and not much else for higher education.

Other than $46 million for the Commonwealth Library at the University of Kentucky, $14.6 million for a new engineering building also at UK, a $7 million share of the University of Louisville's new $60 million stadium and a few smaller projects, state supporting colleges aren't slated for much additional money over the next two ears, something that bothers Eastern President Hanly Funderburk.

"We are very disappointed with the priority the executive branch has given higher education," Funderburk said. We hope the legislature will place a higher priority on higher education."

State universities will receive a 2 percent operating budget increase in 1994-95 and a 3 percent increase in 1995-96, less than the 3 percent and 5 percent requested for each year by the state Council on Higher Education. If state schools need more money over the next two years, Jones said it must come from other sources, such as program elimination on each campus.

Workers continue construction in the University Building, which will be part of the new John Grant Crabbe Library. The new building is scheduled to open by next semester.

What universities can't do is raise tuition, if the governor has his way.

Too often in recent years, our higher education administrators have postponed tough management decisions by increasing tuition charges to our students," Jones said. "That is

Most students still served in one day, Gilchrist says

By Susan L. Smith Staff writer

Any student who has visited the Student Heath Services this semester has probably noticed that, unless they have an emergency or are getting an allergy shot, he or she now needs an appointment to see a doctor.

However, unlike your family doctor with whom it may not be possible to get an appointment with until several days later, it is possible to walk in and make an appointment for later that same day at the infirmary.

Wendy Gilchrist, director of Student Health Services, said the reason for the new appointment system was that after discussing it with some stu-

After years of opposition and secrecy, universities are starting to lift the veil of silence surrounding student disciplinary hearings, and it comes none too soon.

A recent landmark decision by the Georgia Supreme Court said the Red & Black, an independent student newspaper at the University of Georgia, should be granted access to the meetings and records of campus disciplinary hearings. University officials had previously barred reporters and the public from the student disciplinary proceedings for two fratemities accused of hazing.

What this means is that the fratemities' disciplinary hearings, the on-campus equivalent to court proceedings, are now open to the public, just like any criminal and civil action. Students and the public alike are now permitted to know what goes on during campus judiciary hearings in Georgia.

That's fine if you go to college in the Peach State, but the campus media throughout the rest of the country still have an uphill fight, despite the recent changes.

College newspapers across the nation are encountering unjustified barriers concerning disciplinary hearings, which meet, discuss cases and take action without any public record being kept. Students, faculty, staff and the community alike have no idea what type of punishment judicial boards hand down.

The student disciplinary board has the power to expel or suspend students without the watchful eye of the public. We have no idea what they do behind closed doors. How do we know justice is being served? How do we know students are being treated fairly in those

Several years ago when an Eastern student was charged with violating university regulations by "engaging in obscene or morally offensive behavior or speech" while performing during a fraternity step show, the Progress and the public had no idea what happened behind the closed doors of her hearing.

Two years later, the sanctions enacted by the Student Disciplinary Board against a university football player for his arrest on two counts of disorderly conduct and one count of fourth degree assault, were secret.

The public would have never known that the athlete was placed on university probation for the remainder of his undergraduate college career, required to attend mandatory counseling on a regular basis, evicted from university housing for the remainder of his college days and allowed on campus only to go to classes, to the library, for football-related reasons and to eat in Martin cafeteria.

And the university has kept mum on its actions against Edward Peebles, who was charged with assaulting vice president for student affairs Thomas D. Myers earlier this month.

We should not have to rely on getting information from student disciplinary bodies secondhand.

Universities are required to report crime statistics upon request under a 1990 Student Right to Know Act, which requires schools to report annual crime statistics. If crime records are open to the public, disciplinary records should be as well. Eastern's Division of Public Safety, which makes available campus arrest citations and

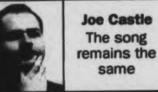

Leave the suitcase at home

A couple of weeks ago, I went to Phone 3 on a Friday night because a friend tipped me off about the featured band. Not expecting much, I was slapped in the face by one of the greatest local groups I've ever seen

They're called Spit Shine Nine, they're from Cincinnati and they rock like a pig. I mean hard. They played cover songs mainly, but two of the best tunes of the night were originals. That's how good they life. Waiting in the drop-add line isn't college life. Getting parking tickets isn't college life.

Unfortunately, there weren't that many other people there to enjoy this sonic orgasm. Nope, everyone was too busy practicing Eastern's favorite athletic event: the mad weekend dash home.

All those things together with some time spent hiking at the Pinnacles, reading a book in the Ravine on a nice afternoon, going downtown with friends to check out a local band and about a million other things you can only do here and now make up college life.

Of course, college life isn't only good stuff.

Sitting in your dorm room or apartment bored out of your skull is a part of college life. So is sleeping friends, you'll get over it. If not, you can cut your losses and focus on more sincere people.

Selling CDs and plasma for grocery or gas money is a big part

But we've got to take the good with the bad. If we could filter out the rotten stuff that happens to us, it wouldn't be life, it would be utopia.

I know it's a cliche, but you're only here once. After you graduate, you will never be in this environment again. You will never again be exposed to life under these circumstances, because most college students are living charmed lives, so to speak.

Most of us have the benefits of living independently but still have the luxury of parents and other relatives to fall back on, financially and otherwise.

secret proceedings?

The disciplinary councils hide their actions behind the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act, more commonly referred to as the Buckley Amendment. This law, originally intended to apply only to academic, financial and health records maintained by schools, has become a shield for campus criminals, blocking access to their disciplinary actions.

But universities have misrepresented the amendment by arguing it prohibits the disclosure of disciplinary proceedings or allowing them to be open because they fall under the "education records" protected by the Buckley Amendment.

"It's just a big run-around, and they keep making up policies to delay access," said Carolyn Carlson, a reporter for the Associated Press in Atlanta who serves on the board of directors for the Red & Black, in an article in Quill magazine last October. "It gets my blood boiling. It's a deliberate obstruction."

The public can learn what sanctions are handed down, but there are only two ways to do that: with the permission of the sanctioned student, or with lots of luck.

incident reports to the public for years. They have generally acted like any other professional police department with their cooperation.

Last October, The Progress requested a meeting with Charles D. Whitlock, executive assistant to President Funderburk and Freedom of Information director for Eastern. At the meeting we want the university to reexamine their policy regarding student disciplinary procedures. We feel cases the disciplinary board hears which would be considered criminal off campus should be subject to the Kentucky Open Meetings and Records laws. We received a response stating he would be happy to meet with us along with university attorney Giles Black. The letter also said Whitlock's secretary will be calling us "to set up a time we can all meet as soon as Mr. Black has a chance to review the issue."

Every time the student disciplinary board meets, a student is being judged. We believe those judgments are matters of public interest and public record. The time to review this issue is now.

Our school is a suitcase college. and that ain't good. It's not good for Eastern, it's not good for Richmond and it's not good for those students who make it a suitcase college.

I'll be the first to admit I was once a "homeboy," too. When the weekend would roll around during my first three semesters here, I would hit Mountain Parkway full steam ahead, Paintsville or bust.

Luckily I came to my senses and realized that by heading home each weekend, I was missing out on one of the most important aspects of college: college LIFE.

Going to classes isn't college off a horrendous hangover on a Sunday morning, if you're the sort of person to get hangovers.

Along those same lines, taking care of a friend who's had a few too many downtown is an important part of college life, and one I think everyone should go through. It teaches patience, builds character and makes you wonder if that friend is really that important in your life, because you'll want to drop him or her off a bridge when it's all said and done. (Those of you who have been there know what I'm talking about.)

Fighting with friends is one part of college we'd like to do without, but it's necessary. If you really are

Once we're out in the real world, that luxury probably won't be there

The bottom line is, if you don't play the part of a college student now, you won't get another chance. There's only one casting call, and if you miss it, too bad.

For most of us, college life is the last stop before real life. I know it will be for me. That's why I want to get the most out of this experience as possible.

And even though I still plan on going out with friends to check out those local bands, I don't think they'll be quite as good when I have a 9-to-5 job to go back to Monday morning.

That so-distant future is quickly approaching. The information highway has almost turned into an autobahn with all the things that are so quickly arriving. Computers are not just for writing term papers and playing games anymore.

Many people remember the Commodore computers that were produced about five or 10 years ago. Those computers were practically made to play games on. The most important program I can remember available for those systems were tax tutors and a business organizer and maybe a typing tutor. The games purchased at stores could be "hacked" to pieces by a skilled computer operator and copied and traded to the kid next door. If you had a modem, all you had to do was have it sent to you via phone line.

Now the phone lines are busy with the sounds of electronic news. People are not only sending games through the phone, but files needing to be sent that would normally have to be mailed. They can get up-to-

Electronic mail is probably the hottest item arriving on the highway lately. If there is someone out there who has the capabilities to receive a message, then you can send one, no matter how far away you are. The good thing is, you may not even have to pay for the long distance call

Depending on what system you are hooked up to, you don't even pay the charge required by the phone company on a regular long distance phone call. You can talk for free.

So what exit do you take first off of the highway? You could try the ever-popular bulletin boards. These boards allow you to get all the scores, copy the games, leave messages for other people to the state respond to and even receive information that would normally be unavailable to get from your local library. I have gotten excerpts from books that my librarian has never even seen or heard of.

Those boards are fun for a while until you receive the bill that you didn't realize it cost to get on. That's right, some of the bulletin boards cost money. If you're lucky, you can find the ones that are free.

Another exit you could turn your attention to is the communication networks. You could carry on a conversation with a person who has the same interests as you. And you could even set up a date.

But what does all this mean to you, the college student? The computers in all the residence halls are access-ready to Eastern's online service. And in most of the residence hall rooms, there is a hook-up so you can go on-line there. If you're lucky enough to have your own computer with a modem, then all this information is at your finger tips.

Pretty soon, The Eastern Progress will have an E-mail address you can send information to. If you think it's newsworthy or even if you don't, you can send your information soon through the computer.

Words are like shadows - onedimensional and shallow. They can be very tall in one instant and very short the next. They are always there but they offer no support.

Words hang in the air waiting to be plucked to inadequately describe yet another emotion. Even these words I am writing are inadequate. Yet, we continue to use words, to abuse words. Is it people or words that are inadequate? Is it people or words that lie? Is it people or words that hurt? Maybe words are lost on or in us. Maybe words are not so bad or good as the people who use them. We have a sick obsession with words. We are always trying to find the right word to mean what we feel. In our search, we use words as weapons or even as shields - throwing them, spitting them, flinging them, tossing them and barking them. We try to control other people with the words we use.

Words cause confusion when we deliberately drag them around until we lose all trace of them. Words tell lies. Words hurt. Words bring a finality to everything. We speak them before we think, and what we really feel slips out to be examined by more words.

Some people maintain that words help us communicate, and yet those same people contradict themselves by saying words are inadequate to describe their feelings. What good are words if they don't describe what we feel?

Commonwealth pipes burst, cause CAMPUS minor flooding

Two pipes froze and broke in Commonwealth Hall on Thursday, causing flooding of the fourth, third and lobby floors of the hall, and one on Saturday which flooded the lobby.

Steve Parsons, area coordinator for Palmer/Commonwealth, said the first pipe broke in the equipment room and flooded the lobby.

The second pipe broke on the fourth floor, flooding four rooms. Water also went down the elevator shaft, flooded and shut down the elevators. The conference room on the third floor was also flooded.

Parsons said the only damages reported in the hall were wet carpets on the fourth floor, loose ceiling tiles and his office was flooded.

The staff assistant on the fourth floor was able to warn people in enough time so they were able to get their possessions up off the floor. Two of the four rooms flooded did not have carpet.

Physical plant responded to all incidents and were able to shut off the water and repair the pipes before the flooding became too serious.

CDC activities are designed to help the social, emotional, physical, cognitive and creative development of the child.

guarantee private health insurance for everybody. Clinton said he wants to make welfare "a second chance, not a way of life," citing the need to reform the system so people will value working over collecting welfare. Reforms would include a two-year limit on benefits, in additon with new education and job training programs.

The president said when people commit a third violent crime, they will be put in jail for good. He also said he supported legislation which would put 100,000 more police officers on the streets.

Clinton said he has cut the defense budget enough. There are still many dangers in the world, he said. His new budget will maintain the readiness and quality of the armed forces by being well trained and equipped.

Scanners to be used in library

By Mary McIntosh Staff Writer

What do your grocery store and the Eastern library have in common?

Bar Codes and Scanners. Starting sometime next year with the aid of a bar code on the front of the new student I.D., students may check out books without the hassle of filling out the triplicate form now in use.

Roberta Kirby, Automation Librarian, said this feature is included in the N.O.T.I.S system the library has been implementing since January 1993.

This is how it will work. A library assistant will scan the bar-coded student I.D. on the computer. The barcoded library books will be scanned as well. The computer will then print out date due cards which the library assistant will place back in the books.

The bar codes don't contain privileged information, and proper security clearance is required before any information is available to insure privacy.

It is important to protect these cards like a credit card. Report it as soon as it is lost or stolen so that a block will be placed on the card to prevent any illegal use. A block may also be placed because of excess fines or too many overdue books. A block will not affect students' ability to purchase a meal.

On the back of the new I.D. is a magnetic strip. To purchase meals, students must activate their individual accounts with the strip.

"All cards will have a bar code. All full/part-time students and faculty and staff will have an I.D. with their picture ...everyone will have access to the library,"said Skip Daugherty, dean of student development.

Students seem pleased with the combined card. "I think it makes life easier. No hassles," said junior John Garrett, Richmond.

And about those carbon-copied triplicate forms- they will slowly be phased out as the new automated system is phased in.

O'Donnell Hall residents arrested for car break-ins

Progress staff report

FourO'Donnell Hall residents, including two football players, were arrested last week in connection with a public safety investiga-tion of Commonwealth parking lot break-ins.

According to a public safety report about the incident, which happened Jan. 19, an officer, responding to reports that people were trying to break into parked cars, saw several men running through

Virgil Ryland, 19, was arrested for disorderly conduct and receiving stolen property under $100. Police said Ryland was hiding a telephone allegedly stolen from one of the cars under his coat.

Dwight Martin, 20, was charged with receiving stolen prop-erty over $100 and third degree criminal mischief after police found compact discs that had allegedly been taken from one of the cars in Martin's room.

Maurice Haynes, a defensive back from Orlando, Fla., and Carlo Stallings, a fullback from Louisville, were charged with criminal facilitation and disorderly conduct in connection with the thefts.

CLASSES: Rescheduling complete

Nature treats us this way, someone is going to be inconvenienced. We have to do what helps the most people.'

Thursday night classes will meet April 28 as scheduled, but not for the final exams. The finals will be held on the Thursday of finals week.

Tuesday and Wednesday night classes will either meet for longer periods or have professors who schedule their own make-up classes.

One thing that will not work, Enzie said, is extending the semester, because that would affect intersession. According to Funderburk's memo, all finals will be over by May 7.

Final Exams (Revised)

University President Hanly Funderburk has approved a revision of the original final exam schedule for the semester in an attempt to make up missed time due to the snowy weather. Included is the elimination of the Feb. 21 holiday (Presidents' Day) when Tuesday classes will meet.

BUDGET: Funding increases less than what CHE requested

Jones has ordered no further tuition increases other than those already approved for 1994-95, and no increases at all for 1995-96, marking the first time a governor has prevented administrators from increasing tuition since 1980.

Regional universities have a 5 percent tuition increase budgeted for 1994-95 while the research institutions and community colleges have 15 to 20 percent increases, something that could cause Eastern to fall behind UK and Louisville.

Although any proposed increase is better than the cuts handed down for the past three years, the 2 and 3 percent increases will severely limit what administrators can do over the next two academic years.

"Going up is better than going down," Funderburk said, "but we can't do a whole lot with it."

State schools will receive $3.74 billion, or 14.7 percent, of the total $25.43 billion 1994-96 state budget, which draws most of its funding from the General Fund, Road Fund, and federal funds.

Rep. Harry Moberly, D-Richmond, said budgetary moves like Jones' construction plans are to be expected from the executive office holder, especially near the end of the governor's term.

"Governors like to leave marks," Moberly said. "That's why they like to build buildings rather than work on operational budgets," which have "more of a real effect" on universities than new constructions.

To help prevent cuts like the ones that have plagued universities recently, Jones said he wants to provide a more accurate picture of state income for the upcoming biennium. "We have endured budget cuts

"We have endured budget cuts 12 times in the last 14 years in this state," Jones said. "We have this year for the first time joined forces — legislative and executive branch together — to develop a consensus revenue forecast."

Jones said this more realistic way of projecting state revenue will help keep similar cuts from affecting the 1994-96 budget.

Jones' budget must now go to the legislature, which will iron out the details over the next few weeks before coming up with a final financial plan for Kentucky.

"The governor's budget is pretty significant," Funderburk said. "We will be working very closely with the General Assembly in the next few weeks."

Library campaign crusades for funding

By Don Perry News writer

With the expansion of the John Grant Crabbe Library due to be completed this fall, a project called Campus Campaign is underway to raise money to renovate the existing part of the library.

The Campus Campaign began its fund-raising drive on Nov. 1, and has reached 42 percent of its overall goal of $200,000 in faculty and staff contributions, according to Lana Carnes, university director of relations and developments.

Carnes said nearly $85,000 has been raised with 31 percent of Eastern's faculty and staff participating in the campaign.

Retired faculty members have also become involved in the campaign to help improve the library.

The faculty and staff have responded positively, according to Carnes. "It is demonstrating how important it is to us," Carnes said about their efforts.

"We are off to a good start," said Dr. Bonnie Gray, who is co-chair of the library improvement campaign. "We are nearly halfway to our goal."

The campus campaign is the first phase of various fund raisers planned to raise the $1.3 million needed for the renovation of the existing library and funds for books and equipment for the expansion part of the library.

According to Gray, the $1.3 million being raised will be divided into three main categories:

$500,000 of the money raised will be used for painting, carpeting and refurnishing the existing portion of the library.

Another $500,000 will be used to establish an endowment w h i c h will provide interest to buy books and periodicals.

The remaining $300,000 will be used to buy equipment for t h e new addition, including the University Building.

In addition to a campus-wide campaign, other fund-raisers are planned, which will include both the community and Eastern alumni.

Carnes said many student organizations have become interested in becoming involved in the fund-raising project. She said she was going to meet with some of the organizations Monday to discuss a kick-off date for the student activities to begin.

Carnes encourages any student organization interested in becoming involved in the library renovation campaign to do so.

Hamblin filed the charges against Gay Dec. 15, 1993, with County At-torney Robert Russell.

Hamblin alleged that Gay's of-fenses toward him began on Aug. 28, 1993, with a ride to Lexington and continued through December when he filed charges. "I came forward because I didn't

Special programs offers 78 courses

By Stacy Battles Staff writer

Whether you're interested in mastering the personal computer or learning to make decorative bows, the Community Education's division of special programs has a class suited for your needs.

These particular skills can be picked up from classes called "An Introduction to the PC for the Scared and Nervous" and "Bow Making 101."

In all, there are 78 non-credit courses scheduled for the spring semester. These courses are open to the general public, and no previous college experience is required. Most of the courses are offered in the evening, and no tests or grades will be given out.

Community Education Coordinator Leigh Ann Sadler said the landscaping and home improvement series of courses tend to be the most popular.

"People are into doing things for themselves," said Sadler. According to Sadler, these courses usually attract members of the community and not Eastern students.

The courses are designed to pull people onto campus that haven't been here before and to make it less intimidating for them, " Sadler said.

Some of the new courses being added to the spring semester schedule include "Professional Telephone Skills," "Persuasion: The Ultimate Power" and "Potpourri."

Under the Business and Careers section, two courses are being taught in tax preparation. These courses should prove to be very beneficial considering the tax season is approaching.

Both "Oh No! It's Tax Time" and "Taxes for Your Home-based Business" are being taught by business consultant Robert Keppler.

"The vast majority of people have a basic fear of preparing their own tax returns. Our course is designed to alleviate those fears through the teaching of basic skills in income tax preparation," said Keppler.

Both previous and current students taking these courses have praised the experience. Sue Carter, desktop publishing coordinator for community education, has taken several of the craft courses and found them to be "fun and informative."

I believe the "blame" is within each of us. Most of our health problems are "by choice." We choose them, consciously or unconsciously, by our lifestyles.

Blame it on the life

Smoking is one lifestyle choice that affects student health at Eastern, as well as other people. Lung cancer is the highest cancer killer in the U.S., and 90 percent of these deaths are in smokers.

One currently less emphasized health problem, but one just as prevalent, is obesity. In our country, 30-40 percent of American dults are overweight and 10 percent are obese

The highest incidence of major weight gain is when folks are 24-44 years old. By that age, we all should know what foods are high fat and high calories (although often high priced among the grocery snack foods), yet these are still what many of us consume. Thus, we end up being 30 pounds overweight.

Heavy people are, I believe, some of the strongest people around, as they constantly carry a 30, 50 or 80-pound backpack.

I have trouble carrying the former for six hours a day; yet these folks carry there "packs" for all their waking hours. No wonder their cardiovascular system rebels, causing them to have more coronary artery disease, high blood pressure, high cholesterol and type II diabetes.

Walk it off

Besides choosing all the fast - high fat, high calorie - foods, we also choose to drive every place to buy these items.

Countless times students have begged off going to Pattie A. Clay hospital for a lab test "because I don't have a ride."

burn up 100-200 extra calories by walking.

walking distance. Yet we drive everywhere, foregoing the chance to My response tends to be "In the prime of life, and you're not sick! If you can't walk that one-half mile now, when will you be able to? Legs weren't created to be in fashion shows, but for walking. Likewise professors, several I know, live 5-7 blocks (or less) from campus. Yet, they drive to work every day!

We can all make excuses that there aren't sidewalks, we don't have time or we can't afford the equipment, but in reality these are all choices.

Instead of pizza twice a week, perhaps (in a few weeks) spend money for a good pair of walking shoes. Instead of an hour talking on the phone, spend an hour walking.

We all have to deal with these choices of time and money constantly, and this will not change.

Many of the orthopedic (musculoskeletal) problems we suffer, bring upon ourselves through our lifestyles

Women, more often than men, have bunions from wearing shoes that were too small, too narrow in the toes or with high heels. Joints carrying around the 50-100 extra pounds on an overweight person obviously deteriorate faster than they otherwise would.

Other problems are the result of not using our bodies enough or driving incident or a home accident.

And all of this says nothing about the depression or the panic within our country

Six percent of Americans will suffer major depression during their lifetime.

The stresses of indoor work, meetings, trying to "get ahead" to buy the next bigger house or another computer all take their toll if not in headaches, ulcers or irritable bowels - then perhaps in depression. Depression sometimes leads to suicide, the fourth leading cause of death in white Americans.

Choose the path less taken

Dr. Richard Keeling says multiple studies have shown that young people know all they need to know about STDs and AIDS.

The problem now is changing their behavior to coincide with this knowledge. This can be said about all of us and all of these problems not just here at Eastern and not just among college students.

The most common health problems in the United States are caused by our own life choices. No amount of money will change what needs to be changed from within each of us.

And now I'll go walking, instead of telling you what you already know.

Laughter helps art teacher win award

Dr. Joanne Guilfoll's teaching experiences took her to Alaska for a year where beaver-skinning was school curriculum.

By Dan Smathers Staff writer

It was a quiet night at the Campbell Building when art professor Richard Deane opened a storage door in Room 324 and surprised several live chickens; some trotting around aimlessly, others laying eggs on the floor tile.

It wasn't until the next morning that colleague Joanne Guilfoil could explain to Deane that the chickens were the focus of a lesson on new ways to view nature.

Another surprise occurred at the Campbell Building when the Kentucky Art Education Association declared Guilfoil Art Educator of the Year this month

Guilfoil is the third art education teacher at Eastern to get the award in three years. Deane and Judith Isaacs were the previous honorees.

"It was a big thank you. You don't get many in this business," Guilfoil said.

She attributes the prize, which any art teacher in Kentucky can win, to her work editing the KAEA journal. The book features places where one might take art classes and the names of art teachers in Kentucky.

Anyone who wants to teach in secondary schools in Kentucky must take the art education course.

Because the students in her class will be teaching grades K-4, and are not art majors, artistic expression is something many of them are afraid of doing wrong, Guilfoil said. "Most students are scared or miffed that they have to take this class," Guilfoil said.

Guilfoil said the triumph for the udents comes "when they figure out they can do it - that things are going to be all right."

Guilfoil's humor is natural and apparent in a painting she wins her students over with in the first weeks of clas

The artwork, which was created in response to ads the Eastern Progress ran in the mid-1980s featuring sexy female coeds in bathing suits, portrays Guilfoil's pet mare proudly showing off her derriere. She calls the picture Miss Toots, Classmate of the Month."

Guilfoil enjoys the work of realistic artists Rosa Bonheur and Georgia O'Keefe, and employs photo-realism in her own art.

She said her artistic nature is both learned and inherited. Guilfoil fondly recalled painting by numbers and grafting with her architect-father when she was a child.

Guilfoil had some unique teaching jobs before coming to Eastern in 1989

She taught at a school in Alaska from 1981-82, where the electricity often went out, until somebody brought over a new barrel of oil to feed the generator. The townspeople chose their own school curriculum, which included net-tying and beaver-skinning.

Guilfoil earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1971 and her master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Oregon in 1974 and 1983, respectively.

Tom Hanks portrays an AIDS victim who sues his law firm for firing him because of the disease in "Philadelphia." Defending him is attorney Joe Miller, played by Denzel Washington.

'Philadelphia' touching, but doesn't take risks

Movie

Review

By Chad Williamson Arts editor

The word AIDS became part of the American vocabulary during the early '80s, the opening stages of the Reagan era. Like the man chosen to lead our nation, most of us opted to ignore the word since we all knew it was just a gay

It has taken America 13 years to wake up to the fact that AIDS is not a gay disease, but simply a human disease. And it has taken as many years for Hollywood to make a movie addressing the topic.

"Philadelphia" tells the story of Andrew Beckett, an attorney for a major law firm who is fired when he supposedly misplaces a file for an important case.

Andrew he knows his firing has nothing to do wit incompetence, but simple fear and prejudice.

Nine other attorneys refuse Beckett's case before he goes to see Joe Miller, a black personal-injury lawyer who advertises on TV, portrayed by Denzel Washington. Miller initially refuses to take Beckett's case because of his own fear of homosexuals and AIDS, but eventually bridges his gaps of prejudice when he sees how Beckett has been discriminated instand agrees to take the case to court.

By turning "Philadelphia" into a courtroom drama, the filmmakers venture into safe territory, the area cleared son. After all, everyone loves a good courtroom drama.

Unfortunately,"Philadelphia" is not a good courtroom drama. The trial outcome would be a surprise only to anyone who has lived in a cave all of their life.

"Philadelphia" works best outside of the courtroom, and in those times the movie is stunning and almost brilliant. Tom Hanks never succumbs to stereotypes or easy sympathy in portraying Beckett. Instead, he imbues his character with an endless sense of life combatting against an inevitable death.

In the film's most stunning scene, Beckett explains to Miller the meaning behind his favorite opera aria. In detailing the strength and the life in the music, Beckett describes his own pain. Hanks draws so much force and power from the scene that it is truly awesome to watch.

From the strains of Bruce Springsteen's "Streets of Philadelphia" over the opening credits, to the haunting "City of Brotherly Love" by Neil Young, which plays at the movie's end, "Philadelphia" is an often beautiful film that for the first time honestly portrays the pain of AIDS and its effect on the human race.

What is sad, however, is to think how much better "Philadelphia" would have been had it stayed out of the courtroom and risked enough to just show the tragedy of the death of this man,

Gods give fans Super Bowl rematch made in Heaven

You gotta love the football gods.

They always seem to give the fans something interesting to talk about, especially for the week leading up to the Super Bowl.

Last year, the gods gave football fanatics Dallas up against the Buffalo Bills, who had lost two straight Super Bowls.

Could America's team complete the turnaround from a 1-15 team four years earlier to World Champions?

Or could Buffalo finally win a Super Bowl and remove their name from those references to the Denver Broncos and Minnesota Vikings, who have lost four Super Bowls each?

Only the gods knew.

Twenty-five years ago, the gods did their best work when they sent the New York Jets and Broadway Joe into Super Bowl III in a year that saw the gods finally allowing the AFC to beat the NFC.

This being the silver anniversary of that game, it was apparent the gods were planning something magical for us this season.

And they were. It seemed i. vitable to me that either Joe Montana and the Chiefe would battle San Francisco, or the Dallas Cowboys would stomp the Bills in the Super Bowl this year.

It couldn't be any other scenario.

The first offered a chance to see Montana vs. the 49ers, and Steve Young in the ultimate quarterback duel.

The latter offered a chance to see the Cowboys go for a repeat and a chance to tie the Pittsburgh slammed it home. But Tech wasn't done.

At that point, the Golden Eagles pulled within three after a Maurice Houston free throw with 8:33 left to play, Tech but wouldn't get any closer. The Colonels went on a decisive 12-2 run that put the game Two Allen three-pointers and four consecutive Will Holmes free throws crushed any chances of a comeback by a potent offensive Tennessee Tech squad. "No matter what the score is with these guys, they can explode and put a lot of points on the board. And so can we," Calhoun said.

"I thought we gave it a great effort except three minutes in the first half and three minutes in the second half. That's what beat us," Eagle coach Frank Harrell said.

Saturday, the Colonels pulled off another impressive victory over the Middle Tennessee State Raiders with an 88-72 victory.

Doss scored 21 points, establishing a new career high, on 9-15 shoot-

Eastern kept the trey -happy Raiders at bay, holding them to 4-13 shoot-ing from behind the three-point arc for the game and 0-4 in the first half of play.

Holmes had a big game for the Colonels, playing against his former junior college roommate Milton Dean by scoring 16 points and grabbing 10 rebounds.

"I needed something to get me motivated. I had lots of motivation and I was excited," Holmes said.

WIth the weekend's games completed, Eastern has now finished the first half of their conference schedule

The Colonels are alone in fourth place in the standings with their 5-3 mark

Murray State sits alone on top of the standings with a 6-0 record while Austin Peay and Tennessee State follow with a 4-1 and 3-2 record, respectively.

The Colonels will be on the court again this Saturday in Richmond as thy play host to in-state and conference rival Morehead State, who is fifth in the conference with a record of 4-3.

Eastern got the better of Morehead earlier this season, beating the Eagles 90-81 in a game played at Johnson Arena in Morehead

Allen and Arlando Johnson came up big for the Colonels in that contest, tossing in 27 and 18 points, respectively.

Eastern will have to contain Jerry Fogle who poured in 31 in only 26 minutes of play the first time the two teams hooked up.

Steelers and the 49ers for mo Super Bowl victories with four.

It also offered a chance to see the Bills go for their fourth straight Super Bowl loss, I mean their first Super Bowl title.

I knew it would be one or the other; so being a big Dallas fan, I watched the Kansas City-Buffalo game very intensely.

When the final gun sounded and the Bills had won the game, I felt a whole lot better because then I knew the 'Boys were going to Atlanta.

Now I am waiting for Sunday to see if the gods will come through again.

My prediction: Dallas 45, Buffalo 21.

It has to be this way. The gods just won't allow the Bills to win a Super Bowl.

We realized this the first time around when Scott Norwood missed a 47-yard field goal to give the New York Giants the Super Bowl title.

Yet the gods continue to taunt Buffalo.

They give them the red carpet treatment through the playoffs before pulling the carpet out from under them on Super Sunday.

Dallas is quite the opposite. For the most part (try to forget the 1989 season if you can), the gods have been very good to Dallas. They have been blessed with seven Super Bowl appearances, including three - soon to be four - Super Bowl titles.

Basically, the only thing Dallas is missing in its resume is back-to-back championships, but that will be added on Sunday.

I guess the next thing on the list of things to do for the Cowboys is a three-peat.

Will it happen next year? If the football gods have anything to say about, it will.

with a "crucial" 78-67 victory over

Eastern closed out the weekend

The win helped Eastern stay near the leaders in the OVC race as they are in third place.

"We had to win this one to still be in the conference race," junior guard Kim Mays said.

The Lady Colonels were paced freshman center Kim Cunningham, who netted a game high 28 points and also added eight rebounds, including six offensive boards.

Mays followed Cunningham in scoring with 23, and sophomore guard Samantha Young tossed in seven.

Eastern was in control for much of the contest, trailing only twice in the contest.

"I feel like we played about as poor as we could have against State," Inman said. "I still believe we can beat them."

Eastern cut Middle's lead to 69-66 with 2:04 to go, but couldn't capitalize as they missed three 3-point attempts before sending the Lady Raiders to the line where they finished out the scoring for the game.

Mays led the Lady Colonels in scoring with 20, while junior guard Maisha Thomas followed with 10. Cunningham and freshman forward Lisa Fussell tossed in 9 and 7, respectively.

Freshman forward Jerilyn Cushing pulled down 10 rebounds, and Young dished out seven assists in nized for having outstanding performances last week.

Mays was named OVC Co-Player of the Week along with Murray State senior Jennifer Parker.

Mays averaged 26 points and 5.7 rebounds over three games that saw Eastern win two and drop one.

She had 35 in a win over Austin Peay last Monday, 20 in a loss to Middle Tennessee State and 23 in the Tennessee Tech victory.

The OVC Rookie of the Week ent to Lady Colonel Cunningham who netted an average of 18 points a game while also pulling down eight rebounds a contest.

Cunningham's big game came on Sunday when she led all scorers with 28 points against Tech.

She also had 17 points and 11 rebounds against Austin Peay.

Tennis begins new set

Another promising season is about to start for Eastern's tennis team, as they are coming off a 2-1 fall season.

'We just use the indoor season to prepare for the spring," said coach Tom Higgins. "Right now, we're really getting into the conditioning aspect

"With a few good practices this week, we should be ready for a good opening weekend."

The men open with Western Kentucky University at 10 a.m., Friday and Evansville later that day at 3 p.m.

The women will travel to Ball State to kick off their season.

Former Eastern Kentucky track runner Jamie Gorrell has stepped in to take over the assistant coaching position.

Leading the men will be Jeff Hechemy, who is returning as the No. I seed for the third year in a row. Juniors Matt and Andy Smith will round out the second and third spots. Alfie Cheng, who ranked highly in his home country of Malaysia, will also add reinforcement to the lineup.

"We'll have to get the best out of everybody," said Matt Smith. "We have to work on getting everyone in sync and flowing with the same momentum. We just want to have fun and try our best.

Ann Carlson and Kim Weiss will lead the women as the No. 1 and 2 spots, respectively.

"It's just real obvious that they are the leaders," said Higgins. "They're doubles partners and are both really tough.

Olivia Nickels and Jenny McGinnis will fill out the third and fourth spots on the team.

"I'm really satisfied with where we'reat," said Higgins. "We're no world beaters, but we're giving maximum effort.'

"Consistency is what is going to make or break us," said Higgins. "Being able to hit 15-20 shots a point in order to make those big shots that we see on television is something that we're going to have to be able to do to win."

Pollio follows dad's tracks to Eastern

By Stacy Battles Staff writer

He may not be quite as vocal as his counterparts on the sidelines, but when men's basketball graduate assistant coach Marty Pollio speaks up, the team knows he means business.

Pollio is quickly coming into his own after recently graduating from Indiana University in 1993, where he served as the team's student manager from 1989-1993 under basketball god Bobby Knight.

"I had a lot of great times at Indiana," Pollio said. "There were some tough times, especially working under Coach Knight, but I think it made me a better person."

Pollio went to Indiana with ambitions of becoming the team's manager. His enthusiasm and dedication to the game gained him the attention he needed from Knight and he landed the position.

"I know most people around Kentucky aren't big fans of Bobby Knight, but you won't find another coach who works harder to be successful and who cares more for his players and those who work around him," Pollio said.

Pollio obviously made quite a transition leaving the larger program at Indiana and coming to Eastern, but Indiana's revenue and television exposure doesn't sway Pollio's devotion to his new team.

"That doesn't mean that Eastern doesn't work as hard," Pollio said. "We proved that we could play with them this year."

Some might say Pollio is following in his father's footsteps by taking a coaching job at Eastern.

Former Eastern coach Mike Pollio, who holds the position of assistant athletic director at the University of Louisville, was the Colonel's head coach from 1989-92.

"I came to Eastern because I knew about it, because of my father," Pollio said. "I also knew what kind of coach Mike Calhoun was and how he was dedicated to winning and dedicated to his players.

"I knew that Calhoun was the kind of person I wanted to work for, and when he gave me the chance to come, I jumped at the opportunity to coach at

Eastern," Pollio said.

Calhoun has an equal amount of respect for Pollio. He describes Pollio as having "an enormous amount of spirit, enthusiasm and knowledge."

"It's one thing to have a tremendous work ethic, but he puts a lot of productivity with it," Calhoun said. "He certainly knows when to say and do the right things at the right time." The players share a similar regard for their graduate assistant coach.

"He's really enthusiastic during practice and games," sophomore guard Kevin Maggard said. "He always has a way of psyching us up before a game." "He knows what it's like to win and that's what he wants for us," sophomore forward DeMarcus Doss said.

Off the court Pollio enjoys bicycling, reading and music. "Most of my life revolves around basketball," he said.

Pollio credits his love for coaching and the game to observing his father over the years.

As a child, Pollio traveled with his father and the various teams to games. "I was like the 'full-time ball boy,"" Pollio said.

"Ever since I was a little kid, I've always wanted to first be a basketball player, but mainly a basketball coach."

Sunshine on your mind?

It's Spring and you've made it through the first two-thirds of a grueling school year – cranking out papers, cramming for exams, trying to digest hundreds of pages of psych or econ or marketing so you can make something resembling an insightful comment at your 8 a.m. class – and the strain is starting to take its toll.

You need to head south!

In the pages that follow, you'll find the kind of information you need to make the most of your Spring Break: places to go; things to do; bargains on accommodations, transportation, entertainment, vacation supplies – everything you need to have the kind of vacation you've been pining for since the first day of classes.

A lot of you are probably saying, "Nice idea, but how am I supposed to afford a vacation when I can barely keep myself in pizza and Coke, and dollars for the movie rentals?"

Well, that's the other great thing about the Coca-Cola Spring Break Guide. It gives you all the options, presenting a variety of travel alternatives that can fit within the budget you've set for yourself. So if you're headed to Florida or Texas the Guide has options for ways that you can make the most out of your break without going broke in the process.

We give you the alternatives. In the Guide, you'll find activities, points of interest, concerts, parties and a whole lot more.

That's the goal of the Guide: to present all of the choices from reckless abandon to rest and reflection. It's all out there, and we want to help you find it.

The Coca-Cola Spring Break Guide wants to make the cumbersome details of planning a trip easier to handle by giving you the inside information.

We also have bargains to spare on everything from hotels to beachwear to restaurants.

So take a look inside and use the Guide to make your dream vacation a sunny reality.

Always Fun. Always There. Always Coca-Cola.

What marathoners, weight lifters and stark-raving lunatic party animals thirst for.

Coca-Cola Jam Fest at Daytona Beach

VIP Club Cards, interactive sporting events, prizes, and entertainment for Spring Break.

The Coca-Cola Road Trip will be taking an extended break from its nationwide tour to spend Spring Break with the hundreds of thousands of students who migrate to Daytona Beach.

The Coca-Cola Road Trip will make The Park, just outside the "campus crossroads" at the Daytona Marriott, its home from March 13-27. This multi-event party station will offer Spring Break goers the latest in interactive entertainment.

The party complex will offer music (including live entertainment), interactive Sega video games, sports games, prizes, lots of specialty Coca-Cola retail items, and refreshments to all who visit.

Coca-Cola is the official drink of Major League Baseball, the NBA, the NFL, and World Cup Soccer. The Cocal-Cola Road Trip has some unusual twists to these sports planned for Daytona. The sports games will include: Coke Shot Basketball, Football Challenge, Fast Pitch Baseball, Inline Skating, and World Cup Challenge Soccer. Prizes will be given for exceptional performances in the sporting events.

Participation with the Coca-Cola Road Trip is completely free. In addition to all the free entertainment, the Coca-Cola Road Trip offers beach-goers a true passport to excitement with the Coca-Cola Club Card.

The Coca-Cola Club Card is a VIP credential that entitles students to the inside track on winning beach gear, offers premium concert seating, allows discounts on Spring Break merchandise, and provides discounts on Coca-Cola beverages and food at participating restaurants and food stores that surround the Daytona Beach Strip.

With tens of thousands of Club Cards available, anyone attending the Coca-Cola Road Trip can win one. At anytime, day or night, the Club Card could be the passport for special prizes and information on Spring Break activities.

Locating this mammoth of Spring Break entertainment will not be difficult. Just look for the two large Coca-Cola Bottles, the incredible stage, or the towering scoreboard, or the sounds of a Coca-Cola Spring Break.

The scoreboard will keep track of all the sporting event scores, Sega video game competition scores, and trivia quizzes. Club Cards can be won by participation in any of these events.

In addition to the Coca-Cola Club Card, guests can win special Coca-Cola Spring Break prizes including baseball caps, beach towels, T-shirts, squeeze bottles, flip-flops, and the grand prize Jet Skis...

Lucky cardholders will also be eligible to receive four-day passes to Walt Disney World, near Orlando, Florida and many other premium items.

Look for the free commemorative Spring Break '94 can of Coca-Cola available at the Coca-Cola Road Trip. In addition, 32-ounce Spring Break cups will be available at participating fountain outlets.

During the three-week party, look for the special Coca-Cola Silver Dollars ("wooden nickels"). These tokens are good for free Coca-Cola soft drinks at participating Daytona Beach merchants.

KEY WEST, FL. "Key West or Bust" signs will grace many student vehicles across the nation in the next few weeks as the self-proclaimed American Caribbean Island gears up for that traditional rite called "Spring Break". The best news is that this Caribbean island city is accessible by car from anywhere in North America! In fact, just ahead south until you can drive no further on US Highway #1 (Atlantic Coast) and you'll arrive at the southernmost city in the United States: Key West, Florida.

Parrot-heads unite, Key West is beckoning you to visit the land of Jimmy Buffet, Margaritaville and that tropical aloe tan. Indeed, Key West is a first-class worldwide reputation for its Caribbean climate, beaches, and offshore treasure-hunting. Onshore in Key West, there are many landlocked treasures to be found in the multitude of curio shops and restaurants that line Duval and Front Streets in "Old Town". Accommodations in Key West are as upscale as your budget allows, from 5-Star Hotels on the Waterfront to motels, motor inns and even a local campground.

A diversity of lifestyles are found in Key West that make San Francisco and Provincetown look tame. Key West simply is ... like no other Spring Break destination in the continental U.S.

The Key West Spring Break daytime action is generally found on the water, at the beach, or shopping on historic Duval Street. There are literally hundreds of charter boat operators on the Isle of Key West ready to take you on snorkeling, fishing, sailing or private "do-it-all" trips to the only shallow water reef in North America, just six miles from Key West! Smathers Beach, Key West's landlubbers playground, is roughly a mile long stretch of sandy paradise with volleyball courts, placid Atlantic waters and hot pizza stands. It's all HOT, HOT, HOT on Key West beaches this time of year, whether you are sampling the hot lunch licks, or the hot water fun -- sailboarding, parasailing, catamaran sailing, jet-skiing -it's all available in Key West! And there are all sorts of contests and games organized by the local radio stations, who broadcast at the beach daily. When away from the beach and water, the shopping in Old Town Key West can be entertaining to say the least! Duval and Front Street shops offer a myriad of specialty clothing, gifts, bars and restaurants. It will take you all week to discover them all!

After a "tough day" frolicking on the beach, the water, or "shopping till you drop" the evening usually begins with the gala island sunset festival at Mallory Square, followed by dinner at one of the scores of great restaurants on the island and cruising the Duval Street nightclubs. Entertainment and dancing in the clubs ranges from island music to reggae, calypso and soca music, to rock and roll, blues and piano-jazz. Many of the acts can be seen and heard from the sidewalk of Duval Street as you stroll by in the balmy night air of Key West.

Key West is easy to find on a map, just find Florida and look for the Florida Keys, south of Miami. If you have an aversion to using "geographical aids" the way I do, then take along a compass that points south or just follow the signs to Miami, via Interstate 95, Interstate 75 or the Florida Turnpike. For the deep-pocketed, Key West does have an airport that is serviced by American, Delta, and US Air, and all the major rental car agencies.

Once you reach the Florida Keys tune into the official Spring Break radio stations, WEOW 92.5 FM, and WOZN 98.7 FM. They'll have the scoop on all the hot deals, and they'll be giving away lots of great prizes at the beach and "on air". If you need transportation around the island and don't have a car, be sure to rent a motor scooter. Scooters are the preferred method of getting around the narrow island streets, and there are literally hundreds (maybe thousands) of scooters to choose from for as little as $20 a day ($15 if you're lucky). Do yourself a favor though. Find out about the local traffic laws from the scooter rental people, before you set out. It could save you the price of a $100 traffic ticket or a night in jail.

Motels or condos are the preferred lodging, as campgrounds are scarce. Expect to pay at least $40 per person, per night, (average room rate is $100-$150 per night). For information on Key West lodging alternatives call toll free, 1-800-FLA KEYS, or 1-800-352-5397.

As a final note, the local authorities always get a little nervous about the "Break of Spring" and they are generally serious about enforcing their statutes. A few words to the wise:

* DO NOT DRINK AND DRIVE, ALWAYS FIND A "DESIGNATED DRIVER".

If you are not yet 21, avoid the spirited or you may be involuntarily escorted.
Obey the local parking laws, or you

* Do not partake in physical discrimination of any kind, as KEY WEST is home to a variety of lifestyles and "bashing" is taboo, and very uncool.

* Take care of yourself and the environment, don't get trashed or trash the beautiful Florida Keys!

DAYTONA Spring Break Festival. . . A new Wave of Fun

Daytona Beach Spring Break Festival Fact Sheet

WHERE? Daytona Beach is located on the Central East coast of Florida. It is 88 miles south of Jacksonville and 60 miles northeast of Orlando.

WHEN IS SPRING BREAK? Because of Easter, the dates of Spring Break vary each year. The peak dates for 1994 are March 14th through April 3rd.

HOW MANY STUDENTS ATTEND? Our visitors come from the eastern United States and Canada. They range in age from 18 to 24 and stay one week. Mid-Florida Marketing and Research, Inc. estimates that over 200,000 students come to Daytona Beach for Spring Break during the peak weeks.

WHICH COMPANIES SPONSOR EVENTS? Daytona Beach is proud of its national corporate sponsors who yearly invest millions of dollars into Spring Break to reach their target market. These products range from automobiles to personal care. Public relations firms and independent promotional companies transform Daytona Beach into a youth festival.

HOW DO I GET INVOLVED? There are a variety of ways a company can participate in Spring Break at Daytona Beach. Our beach is 23 miles of hardpacked sand -- perfect for sports or interactive games and product sampling. The Bandshell, Ocean Center, and Peabody Auditorium can be utilized for live entertainment such as concerts or comedy shows. In addition, there are scores of hotels with pool decks that offer promotional opportunities.

Coca-Cola Beach Jam Provides Entertainment for Panama City

Live Entertainment, Competitions, and Free Cold Coca-Cola available on the Beach front of the Ramada-Days Inn

The Party Is At...

BAR& GRILL

Coca-Cola will liven up the Panama City Spring Break beaches with the Coca-Cola Beach Jam. From March 5-27 this will be one Beach Jam that does not leave you thirsting for more.

The Coca-Cola Beach Jam can be found on the beach front just behind the Giant Volcano at the Ramada-Days Inn.

The focal point of the Beach Jam complex will be the 20' x 30' stage. In front of the 30' backdrop, the stage will be manned by a live emcee/DJ. The emcee will hold wacky contests for prizes, play music, and announce Spring Break activities that all beach-goers will want to know about.

Live performances by area bands and radio remotes will also be positioned from the Beach Jam stage.

Just beyond the stage stands the Coca-Cola Oasis. This domed inflatable hut will offer free Coca-Cola refreshments, have Coca-Cola Spring Break merchandise available, and provide a shaded seating area to enjoy a break from the heat. The Oasis will have palm trees and graphics on all sides to distinguish it.

The Coca-Cola Beach Jam is not just an oasis of beverage and music. Interactive games will be available. Competitions will be held for premium prizes.

Panama City Beach, FL is at the Top of the List for Spring Break '94

Panama City Beach, Florida -- There is no other place tobe! In 1993, Panama City Beach was one of the most popular spring break destinations for college students -- a place where over an estimated 550,000 spring breakers from around the United States and Canada traveled for their spring break vacation.

Tom Cason, director of the Panama City Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, stated, "The decision to make Panama City Beach their spring break destination for many college students in 1993 was an easy one. When most students are looking for a beach destination and value for their limited funds, Panama City Beach is at the top of the list." For many colleges and universities, Panama City Beach is the closest beach that offers affordable to them.

Of course, the prime attractions for any visitor to Panama City Beach are the snow white sands and emerald green waters along the Gulf of Mexico. The beaches in Panama City Beach have carned the reputation as the "world's most beautiful beaches." The breaker's spring vacation to Panama City Beach can be occupied in a variety of ways, including water sports such as windsurfing, parasailing, or cruising up and down the shore on a wave runner. Working on that golden Florida tan or spending an afternoon around a busy pool is just the thing for others. Many breakers even hit the beach for a competitive game or two of beach volleyball. And, if you're seeking a change of pace, take a scenic boat cruise to uninhabited Shell Island where you might enjoy the wonderful snorkeling, diving, or fishing experiences.

After a day of fun and sun on the beach, a night on Panama City Beach can please any college crowd. There are beach clubs where you can listen and dance to some of the top bands around.

There are over 16,000 accommodations options at the most reasonable prices, most offering an excellent vantage point for beach watching. Restaurants offer cuisine to suit all tastes -- from a plentiful breakfast buffet, a standard beachgoer's mainstay of burgers and fries, to the best seafood the Gulf of Mexico has to offer.

With twenty-seven miles of the world's most beautiful white sands and emerald green waters, the Gulf Coast beach can put any spring breaker on the beach at least one day earlier, turning the extra travel time to other Florida beach destinations into valuable fun and sun time on the beach. And be assured, Panama City Beach is the place for an action packed and safe spring break that won't be forgotten.

For more information, write the Panama City Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, Post Office Box 9473, Panama City Beach, Florida, 32417, or call 1-800-PCBEACH (US) or 1-800-553-1330 (Canada).

Beach Jam

The Beach Jam's Beach Bowling and Stick Ball, offer new twists sporting competitions. In Beach Bowling, contestants will hurl a 22-pound medicine ball at large Coca-Cola bottles. Stick Ball is the chance to swing away for homers with a Velcro wall in front of the participants.

The Beach Jam Mud Dive will take place in a 20'x12' inflatable cage. One dive into the mud, and it's off to the surf to clean up. What a good excuse for getting in the water. Just as unique as the mud pit, Coca-Cola Beach Jam brings Panama City a specially designed obstacle course.

Prizes will be awarded in all activities, and participation is free. But the frue passport to excitement is the Coca-Cola Club Card. This VIP credential entitles beach-goers the inside track on winning beach gear, information on Spring Break activities and discounts on Coca-Cola products and food at participating restaurants.

With thousands of these cards available, almost anyone attending the Coca-Cola Beach Jam can win special prizes and VIP treatment.

All across the hotels of Panama City, Coca-Cola Spring Break '94 commemorative cans will be available. These special items will only be offered during the Spring Break period.

PowerAde will be on hand within the Beach Jam complex offering its World Cup Soccer Kick-on-Goal competition. Free samples of PowerAde will be given away at the soccer event.

The Coca-Cola Beach Jam is the headquarters for Panama City Spring Break excitement. With updates on the beach events, music, games, and free Coca-Cola, the Beach Jam will be the central party location. Just look beyond the giant volcano for the two khuge Coca-Cola bottles or listen to the sounds of a Coca-Cola Spring Break to find the most interactive Beach Jam on the sands.

COCA-COLA SPRING BREAK GUIDE

The Coca-Cola "Spring Break Jam Fest" will be the multi-event party headquarters awaiting the hundreds or fifty thousand plus students who will descend upon South Padre Island for Spring Break 1994. The Jam Fest will take place from Mach 6 through March 26 at the Radisson Resort Hotel, right on the beach.

The event will feature DJ's on the beach, three on three basketball tournaments, free throw contests, outdoor concerts, Coca-Cola prize give-aways, sports games, celebrity appearances, and refreshments. The real passport to island adventure is the Coca-Cola Club Card, a VIP credential which gives students the inside track on winning beach gear, participating in on-site stage activities, extra discounts on merchandise, and special deals on food and Coca-Cola at participating restaurants and food stores throughout South padre Island.

Anyone can win a Coca-Cola Club Card

by participating in the Coca-Cola Spring Break Jam Fest events. There are tens of thousands to give away and at any time the Club Card could be the ticket for unannounced prizes, special contests, and special VIP treatment.

Along with the Coca-Cola Club Card, visitors can win special Coca-Cola Spring Break prizes including T-shirts, baseball caps, watches, squeeze bottles, and koozies.

Coca-Cola has also produced a limited edition commemorative can for Spring Break 1994 in South Padre Island. This very cool can may be purchased in stores only on the island and will be available for the three weeks of Spring Break.

So for fun and excitement, grab a Coke and head to the Coca-Cola Jam Fest on the beach at the Radisson Hotel. T-shirts, prizes, celebrities, basketball, wacky games, and music is all part of the fun. Always Cool. Always Coca-Cola.

Many visitors don't realize just how strong the sun's rays can be in Florida. After only one day of fun in the sun, they have a painful sunburn that may ruin the rest of their trip -- and their skin.

Don't let this happen to you. A conservative approach to sunning will assure you that your remaining vacation days will be as pleasant as the first. And you can go back home with a healthy glow instead of an itchy peel.

Because Florida is closer to the equator than many northern states, the ultraviolet rays are four times stronger. This can mean you tan four times faster or burn four times faster, depending on your "sun sense". Local skin specialists, lifeguards and sun lotion manufacturers recommend the following guidelines for beachgoers:

Day 1 -- Use Sun Protection Factor (SPF) 15 or higher everywhere skin is exposed, especially on face and delicate areas where skin is thinnest and more sun-sensitive.

Day 2 -- Continue with the same SPF you used yesterday.

Day 3 – If you started with an SPF higher than 15, drop down to 15. If you started with 15, stay there one more day.

Day 4 -- Depending on your natural skin tone and the color of your Florida base tan, you may move down the SPF ladder as follows:

Very fair to fair -- Stay with SPF 15 Fair to medium -- Drop down to SPF

Medium to light tan - Try SPF 10 or

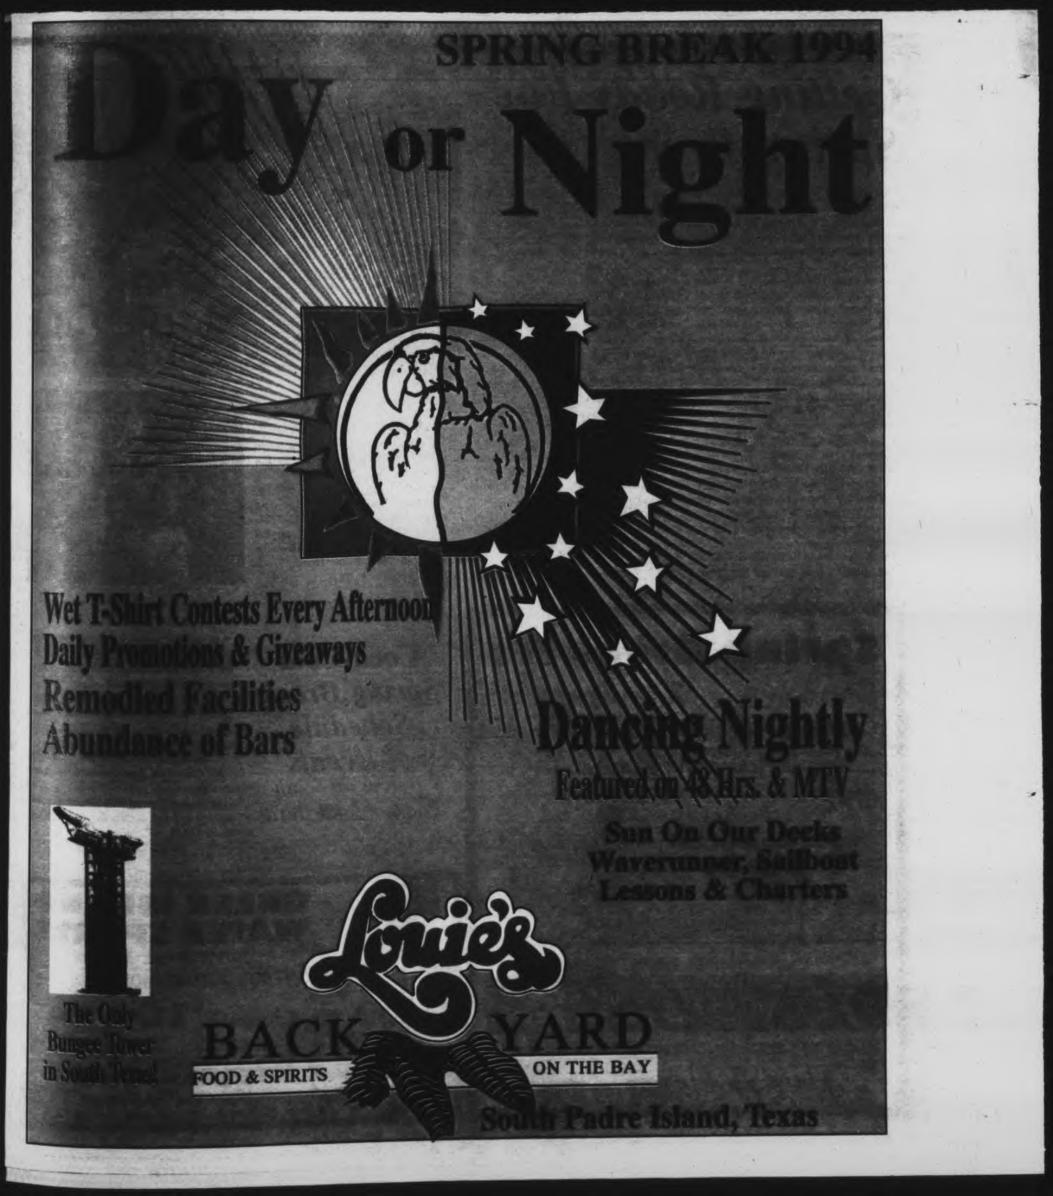

Tan to olive skin -- Should be safe with SPF 8 or 6

Deep to dark skin -- Use SPF 4

Day 5 and beyond -- Follow Day 4's advice for the rest of your stay. As your tan increases, drop your SPF gradually so that you maintain a beautiful tan with no burning or peeling.

Always keep a higher number SPF on your face. This avoids wrinkling.

APPLY TODAY

IT'S YOUR LIFE. TAKE CHARGE.

When it comes to credit card offers, there's probably very little you don't know. Because by now, you've seen them all.

But once you get past the "no fees" and "free cards," what do you really find? A lot of surface, not much substance.

The American Express[®] Card is different. It's not just about great offers (although our new travel savings are second-to-none). It's about what the Card offers you. A way to help you do what you want, when you want. And knowing we're there to back you up. It's all about taking charge—of being in control of your life.

And because we believe in you and want you as a Cardmember now, we're relaxing the usual requirements. That means getting the Card may be easier now than it will ever be again.

Get the Card and get ready for take-off. By yourself or with a friend.

Our new travel savings let you do just that. In more ways than one.

• The "Fast Getaways" certificates. Need to get on a quick flight back home? Get not one, but two roundtrip travel certificates good anywhere Continental Airlines flies within the 48 contiguous United States. You'll fly for $179 roundtrip, $239 during peak months.¹

• The "Plan Ahead" certificate. Thinking about the beach during the winter? Or maybe the Grand Canyon for the summer? You'll get a travel certificate worth $50 off a domestic fare of $250 or more.

• The "Overseas Adventure" certificate. Dreaming about Paris? Good news—flying internationally just got cheaper. Because with our international travel certificate, you can save $50 on a fare of $400 or more—or $75 on a fare of $600 or more.

Hate to fly solo? With the Card, you don't have to. Because all these travel certificates let you take a fellow student along at the same price when you purchase the tickets with the Card.

More help making ends meet.

We know getting everything you need on your budget isn't easy. So we try to help you stretch your funds a little further.

You can get up to 30 minutes of free long distance calling on MCI every month for a year.² You can save over $44 without even changing your current long distance company. Just use the American Express Card as your calling card. Your calls will appear on your monthly Card statement, so they can't get mixed up with roommates' calls. And you'll continue to get savings with MCI's low rates, even after the first year.

And with Student Privileges[™] Value Certificates, you can get lots of things-for less. These certificates give you savings from famous names like Eddie Bauer, Princeton Review, and more.

Best of all, these aren't just one-time savings. Whether it's traveling, talking long distance or shopping, you'll get new student benefits every year you renew your Cardmembership as a student.

Life's complicated enough. Make it simple.

You've got a lot on your mind. But as a Cardmember, your finances don't have to be one of them.

To start with, you won't pay interest charges because you pay your bill in full each month. No interest, no revolving debt. Simple.

Plus, by handling your finances responsibly, you can start to build the credit history needed for the things you'll want later.

And when you're making a purchase, you don't have to worry if you're over your limit, because we don't impose a pre-set spending limit on you. Your purchases are approved based on your ability to pay as demonstrated by your past spending and payment patterns, and your personal resources. You know what you can afford. What could be simpler than that?

Things happen.

You've got a question about your bill. You've lost the Card. The catalog company lost your order. Call on us, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year and you'll find a friendly voice ready to help with whatever you need.

If you're far from home and need a doctor, or if you want to get a message home to family, no problem. As a Cardmember, you've got access to the Global Assistsm Hotline whenever a problem arises.

And with over 1,700 Travel Service locations³ around the world, you can always find a friendly face in a foreign place. Someone who can rearrange travel plans, or even get you an emergency replacement Card.

The bottom line.

There are a lot of credit cards out there. But it's hard to find another card that gives you all American Express does. All for just $55 a year. That's the bottom line. So apply today. And take charge.

1. To be eligible, you must apply for the Card by July 31, 1994. You will receive two roundtrip travel certificates to any Continental destination in the 48 contiguous United States. Off peak, fly for just $179 roundtrip. Peak months are March, July. August and December, Reservations must be made and tickets charged to your Card account within 14 days of travel. Seats at these fares are limited. Maximum stay of 9 nights, 10 days. American Express

- these fares are limited. Maximum stay of 9 nights, 10 days. American Express makes these certificates available solely as a service to its Cardmembers and incurs no liability in connection with their use or non-use. Continental is directly responsible for the fulfiliment of this offer and the delivery of travel services. See certificates for complete terms and conditions 1. A credit of up to $3.70 for long distance phone charges will appear on
 - A credit of up to 83 70 for long distance phone charges will appear on each billing statement for 12 months after enrollment, 53 70 is equal to the charge for a domestic 30 minute night/weekend MCI Card Compatibility call and appropriate surcharge. Call from any phone, using the American Express Card as your calling card. You must enroll by July 31, 1994.
