SCHOLARSHIPS ARE AWARDED TO STUDENTS

Open Forum Rewards Students With Highest Standings; Edgar Banks Leads in College Department

THREE TIE IN NORMAL

Scholarship awards for the highest standings made by students in the college and normal school departments at Eastern during the second semester of the past school year were won by Edgar Banks, of Whitesburg, in the college, and John Holbrook, of Southdown; Mousie May, of Hossle Bottom, and Eulah White, of Harrodsburg, who were tied in the normal department.

Announcement of the awards which are made by the Open Forum of Eastern, was made at the chapel period last Friday by Miss Virginia Shearer, a member of the Open Forum committee.

Mr. Banks' scholastic standing in the college department was 2.833, which is close to A represented by 3 in the point system of grading. Second in the college was Miss Hazel Broadus, of Lancaster, whose standing was 2.811. They were sent $20 and $15 respectively.

Due to the tie of three persons in the normal department no second scholarship was given and the money was divided into three portions. The three students each carried two and a half units and each made 2 A's and a B. Honorable mention was given to Ivah Estes, of Owenton.

The first semester last year, when the Open Forum awarded scholarships for the first time, they were won in the college by Miss Verna Poynter of Crab Orchard, with a standing of 2.88 and Roy Staton, of Snow, with a standing of 2.72. In the normal department Mrs. W. R. Winchester won first. Lexie Combs and Mrs. Calico were tied for second.

Members of the Open Forum committee say that this is the first time that any exhibition has been made for scholarship and that the students are to be congratulated upon such action. They also expressed hope that it would continue next year.

The Open Forum is composed of every student of Eastern who elect a committee, known as the Open Forum committee, to direct the work of the organization. At the first meeting last year it voted unanimously to do something for scholarship, which resulted in the awards, the first ever to be made at Eastern.

This is not the only work done by the Open Forum. It has brought prominent speakers here, arranged for the art exhibits and accomplished various things for the improvement of the school life.

Eastern Summer School Is Largest In Its History Despite Extra Sessions

Despite the fact that numerous county teacher training schools are being conducted in various parts of the state under the direction of the state department of education at Frankfort, the summer school enrollment at Eastern is the largest in the history of the institution.

Officials at Eastern, who now has an enrollment of 1,370 students, feel that the large enrollment is especially encouraging since so many summer schools are in progress in other sections of the state. Field agents of Eastern have visited thirteen of these summer schools.

The counties in which such schools are being conducted are Adair, Breck-

Dr. W. J. Hutchins to Speak Here Today

Dr. W. J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, will speak to the Eastern students Thursday morning (today) at the chapel period. He is an outstanding educator and as head of a mountain institution, has done a great work for eastern Kentucky.

Other prominent speakers will be brought here during the second summer term, which starts Monday.

Among them will be Dr. H. N. Sherwood, retired state superintendent of public instruction in Indiana. He will speak at chapel Thursday, July 21. Other speaking dates will be announced later.

EDUCATION IS STATES' DUTY

Judge E. B. Beard Says Federal Government Should Keep Hands Off

HISTORY OF POWER TOLD

"Education is a power which should be left to the states and not taken over by the federal government," said Judge J. B. Beard, of Shelbyville, in an address before the Eastern students Tuesday morning at the chapel period.

Judge Beard briefly discussed the proposal to make a new cabinet member of the federal director of education and to have the federal government enter more actively into the educational field.

Belief that the regulation of child labor also should be left to the states was expressed by Judge Beard. He said that a nation is what its people are and that care must be taken that not too many duties of the people be taken over by the government. He expressed hope that the American people would continue to show the great individuality that has helped build up the nation to its place as the greatest in the world.

The growth of the power of the federal government was outlined by Judge Beard in his talk to the students. He started with the time when the colonies gained their independence from England and traced it to the present time.

Despite the fact that the southern states have been leaders in the fight for states' rights, he said, John Marshall, of Virginia, as chief justice did more to build up the power of the federal government than any other person.

Judge Beard recognized the value of the federal government in many ways, especially the regulation of interstate railroads and of foreign trade.

enridge, Clay, Clinton, Johnson, Leslie, McCreary, Russell, Wolfe, Floyd, Magoffin, Knott and Meade. These schools are being held at points not close to one of the normal schools of the state.

Several counties usually go together and have a summer school for their teachers at some point convenient to all. Full credit is given since each school has a six weeks term. The work throughout the state is to be guided by H. V. Bell, state director of teacher training.

Before the students of these schools representatives of Eastern have spoken. Educational topics have been discussed and Eastern described.

COURSE HELD BY EXTENSION ATTRACT 1,198

Daily Increases in Enrollment of Department Are Made Through Field Agents' Efficient Work

DIRECTOR WILL LEAVE

The extension department of Eastern under direction of R. D. Squires has made rapid strides during the past few years until its total enrollment now is 1,198 students in all sections of the state. Further increase in the enrollment is made almost daily.

At present there are 350 persons enrolled in the extension classes of the department. Only recently one of the field agents returned from Jackson county where 70 persons signed up for extension work, which will be handled from the office here.

At the end of the summer session the extension department will lose its director, R. D. Squires, who has resigned his position here to become superintendent of the city schools of Whitesburg.

The extension department of Eastern was established in 1920 and since that time has been growing steadily. There are twenty-five courses in the college curriculum and nineteen in normal school work being offered at present.

Summer Teachers Go to University

E. F. Birkhead, superintendent of the Winchester city schools, who has been a teacher at Eastern during the first summer school, will go to Lexington at the end of the term Friday to begin his new duties as teacher in the University of Kentucky. Mr. Birkhead has taught at Eastern for several summers.

Mr. Birkhead as head of the Winchester schools has become to be recognized as one of the leading educators of the state, say officials of Eastern. He is a graduate of Harvard University.

Musical Program at Chapel Pleases All

A delightful musical program, arranged and conducted entirely by students, was presented at the chapel period Wednesday morning before a large crowd in the open air auditorium. John Orr Stewart, head of the music department, who has assisted in training the group, was in the audience.

Members of the orchestra which presented the program are: Miss Jane Campbell, director; Louise Waters, piano; J. H. Wood, alto; Halien Durr and Esther Brandenburg, trumpets; James Scudder, saxophone; Hollis Matherly, clarinet; and Misses Lillian Smith, Madeline Hammon and Velma Fothergill, violins.

Several selections by Miss Lucy Hammond, who played the ukelele and sang, were well received. The entire audience greeted each number on the program with rounds of applause.

The program is as follows: "Dance of the Crickets." Orchestra. Saxophone solo, "Dreaming," Halien Durr.

String trio, "Andante Religioso," Misses Smith, Hammond and Campbell.

Violin solo, "To a Wild Rose," Miss Smith.

Ukelele and solos, Miss Hammond. "Valse," Orchestra.

Dr. Arps Unable to Speak at Eastern

Due to a misunderstanding in the date that he was to speak here, Dr. George F. Arps, dean of the College of Education of Ohio State University, late yesterday telegraphed Dr. Homer E. Cooper, dean and acting president of Eastern, that he could not appear in Richmond last night.

Dr. Arps offered to come here Thursday night, but because of examinations, Dr. Cooper was forced to inform that the speaking would be postponed until the second term. Dr. Arps was in Bowling Green when he wired that he could not come here.

FIELD AGENTS TALK EASTERN

35 Teachers Representatives of College This Summer

SCHEDULES DISTURBED

Field agents of the Eastern State Teachers College and Normal School during the summer already have visited 35 conferences of teachers of various counties in the state, talking before them on educational topics of the day and upon the college which they represent.

Such work is being done during the summer by Fallen Campbell, Hambleton Tapp, Elizabeth North, D. Myers Coates and R. E. Jagers.

The conferences at which the field agents speak are the meetings which have supplanted the old teachers' institutes. They are held annually in every county in the state for the purpose of organizing the work for the year.

Eastern's field agents have gone to the conferences at the request of the county school superintendents. They report that there is unusual interest in Eastern and in teaching in general.

Into these conferences the field agents have carried the "Teachers' Daily Schedule," prepared by classes in education here. These schedules show how one teacher may conduct a one room school so as to hear each of the eight grades and provide proper study periods at the school.

Compliments from all over the state have come from these schedules which are being used in one room schools throughout eastern Kentucky.

Two New Teachers Here for Next Term

New Kentucky Constitution Is Urged By Winchester School Superintendent

A plea for revision of the constitution of Kentucky and the repeal of antiquated school legislation was made to the students at the chapel period Monday by E. F. Birkhead, superintendent of the Winchester city schools, who is teaching at Eastern during the summer.

Mr. Birkhead told the students that they must act early if they wish to accomplish anything before the state legislature. The candidate for the general assembly now are in the field, he said, and must be pledged at this time if the teachers are to depend upon their action at Frankfort.

In explaining the situation that the present constitution and laws have left the schools of the state Mr. Birk-

750 STUDENTS MAY BE HERE SECOND TERM

Only 128 Are Enrolled In Normal Department; First Term People Leave For Teaching Work

FULL SCHEDULE ARRANGE

Officials of Eastern estimate that approximately 750 students will be here for the second summer term, which starts next Monday for the college department. The second term in the normal department was begun last Monday.

So far a total of 128 students have been enrolled for work in the normal department. This group is composed mainly of teachers who have decided to attend college during the next academic year.

R. E. Jagers, principal of the normal school, said that most of the 346 students who were enrolled in the normal school the first summer term have left to teach in the rural schools of the state which are opening about this time.

The registration of college students for the second term will start Monday morning at 8 o'clock and will be completed in one day. G. M. Brock, business agent, estimated that 150 new students would come here for the second term. Many city school teachers were unable to come for the first term because their schools had not closed by that time.

Mr. Brock said that a full schedule of entertainment would be held during the second summer term as during the first. Lectures, picture shows, concerts and other features will be continued. He said that the second term would be just as attractive as the first from every viewpoint.

The second summer school for the normal department will end August 12 when the five week term will come to a close. Classes will be held six days a week. The college second term also will be of five weeks, closing August 19, a week later than the normal, because it opened a week later. Classes also will be held six days a week.

The Eastern staff for the second summer term, Mrs. Emma Y. Case in the normal school and John Howard Payne in the college. Mrs. Case has been one of the critic teachers in the rural schools maintained by Eastern.

Mr. Payne, who formerly was superintendent of the Richmond city schools, will come here the second term to conduct classes in education. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky. Later he took advanced work at Columbia.

head said that the state superintendent of public instruction is allowed by the constitution to receive only $4,000 a year. This keeps the highest type educators from the office, he said.

Mr. Birkhead also advocated that the state superintendent be appointed by a board instead of elected. He vigorously declared that a constitutional convention was necessary and should be called as soon as possible.

Mr. Birkhead also assailed the Howard textbook bill, which requires that books shall be adopted for ten years in the state of Kentucky. He urged that the sub-district trustee be abolished and that sweeping changes be made to assist the schools of the state.

SOUTH DAKOTA

Following is a description of a railroad journey across the northern part of South Dakota from east to west on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. This trip entered Dakota about fifty miles from the northeast corner of the state and ran almost as straight as a line to the northwest corner, a distance of 400 miles.

The country is almost level, as you can see ten miles at least in every direction. The soil is black, dry and rich. It is as green as Kentucky but not a tree of any kind except a few scrub trees along the infrequent water courses. Not a shade tree, not a fruit tree in the distance of 400 miles. Think of it! It is covered with prairie grass where it is not cultivated. The crops are wheat, spring and winter wheat, and alfalfa, mostly grass.

The rainfall is about 23 inches—about one-third of that in Kentucky. It is a little better than usual this year.

If the people can get ten bushels of wheat to the acre they are doing well. Many of the people do not plow the land for wheat. They simply sink it in where the land has ever been plowed. This land is high now at $25 an acre.

Let me say that the people do not like our emigration laws as they want people. The people whom they do get from Europe are altogether from the north European countries. The south European people stop in the large cities in the east.

The snow fall is heavy in winter. On the north side of every railroad cut the railroad has built one or two rows of heavy fences to protect the roads from snow. This is true along the whole of Dakota and Montana.

Corn looks about as well as it does in Kentucky this year where there is any, but it is scarce, though I was told they could grow 35 or 40 bushels to the acre. It is strictly a two-crop state; wheat and alfalfa. Keep these facts in mind. When they do raise corn, they raise hogs, the Duroc and Poland China; as might be expected in such a grass state, they raise cattle.

It is the home of the cowboy, some of whom can yet be seen loafing around a railroad station in his strange costume. The cattle are not scrubs, as I expected, but largely Herefords. The dairy cattle are generally Holsteins, as they are in Wisconsin and Minnesota. I was told that the people winter their cattle out in the prairie on the grass alone. The roads are dirt roads, tho better than we have on account of the dryness.

Let me repeat, lest you forget it, that there are no trees but the whole country is green with grass.

The railroad was built before the state was settled. Keep this in mind. It is the key to the whole state so far as people are concerned. It is an agricultural state of two crops. Get this picture in mind. About every ten miles there is a village of from 200 to 1,000 people. Some of the towns are larger. Aberdeen, for example, has 14,000. This village is built a little off the railroad. Nearly all the houses are wood, painted white, and scattered. They are white and clean. Every home has a garden.

Every town has a large, fine school building. Consolidated schools, I suppose. I saw scores of towns of 500 with as good a school building as our Roark Building. Every town has from two to five grain elevators for the storage of wheat. The streets are not paved—no concrete—no asphalt—no surfacing. I forgot to mention the courthouse where there is a county seat.

Every town is just alike. You can see one from another often. I did not see in 400 miles a single one-room school. They may have some but I could not see them from the railroad.

So much for the towns—now for the country. The land is laid out in quarter sections, half sections, sections square, 160 acres—320 acres—640 acres. Some farms larger, some smaller. The homes are arranged in rows as far as one can see. Every home is almost exactly alike. There is a dwelling house almost always two-story, painted white.

The barn, usually a dairy barn, looks as good as our new barn, same shape—and painted red. So with all the other numerous out buildings—small and painted red. On every farm there is a windmill.

Usually you can see a herd of dairy cows, some small, some larger, on the farm. From the number of milk cows at every station they must produce a great deal of milk.

Let me repeat—for 400 miles every ten miles there is a town almost exactly like every other town. For 400 miles the country homes are almost exactly alike. It is the simplest arrangement I ever saw. If the whole state is like what I saw—and people told me it is—it is easily understood.

The first railroad built was the Union Pacific. It runs from east to west south of the C. M. and St. P. railroad, often only a few miles separating the two roads. The government gave the road every alternate section of land on both sides of the road for 50 miles.

The road sold this land to speculators and much of it is still in their hands. This is bad for the state. There are now in this immense state only about 650,000 people although it increased about 75 per cent in the last 20 years. There are still horses, low priced land for thousands of people.

I have tried to give you a pen picture of South Dakota as seen from a train going 40 miles an hour. I suggest you see if your students can catch the idea I have tried to express. Will write you later.—T. J. Coates.

Teachers Schedules Are Proving Useful

Into the remote as well as the near school districts of eastern Kentucky are going copies of the "Teachers' Daily Schedule," prepared by education classes in school management at the Eastern State Teachers College. The business office reports a great demand for these schedules.

The schedule shows the teacher of a one room school how he may conduct recitations of eight grades during one day and at the same time provide ample time for study at the school. Numerous county superintendents have written to Eastern for copies of the schedule.

The schedules are being sent only on request. These requests have come from 80 counties of Kentucky. A sample copy first was sent to the county superintendents who immediately sent for others with which to provide their teachers. Counties in the western district also are requesting copies of the schedule.

The state course of study requirements are provided for in the schedule so that one teacher may carry on all classes in the eight grades and have sufficient study periods in a single day. Field agents at the teachers' conferences and summer schools report that the schedules are very popular.

FORMER OFFICIAL VISITS

F. C. Gentry, former business manager of Eastern and now secretary of the University of Louisville, was in Richmond Sunday visiting friends. Mr. Gentry said that he was well pleased with his new position, to which he went from the Richmond Motor Company. He is well known among faculty and students of Eastern.

REGENTS MAY INCREASE POWER HOUSE FACILITIES

At the next meeting of the board of regents of the Eastern State Teachers College and Normal School the proposal to install a dynamo of large capacity in the power plant will be taken up so as to provide for the greater demands for electricity from the new buildings which are being erected.

The present arrangement at the power house will not provide sufficient electricity to furnish the needs of the institution once the new section of Burnam Hall is opened and the new administration building is in use.

G. M. Brock, business agent, said that it would be necessary to provide for greater horsepower since some of the kitchen apparatus in the new part of Burnam Hall will require more than the present current can furnish.

Provision already has been made for the increased demands for heating facilities which will be made by the new building now under erection. Burnam Hall will be opened at the beginning of the fall semester and the administration building shortly afterward.

STUDENTS MAY VISIT CUMBERLAND GAP SOON

A trip to Cumberland Gap and the scenic region near the border line of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee is being planned for Saturday by Prof. G. D. Smith, who has conducted numerous student expeditions during the summer.

It is the plan to go to Cumberland Gap by special train. Mr. Smith said that 200 persons would have to sign up for the trip before it could be assured. He advised that any persons wishing to go communicate with him as soon as possible.

Last week a party of twenty-five persons visited Dix river dam, Herrington Lake, Fort Harrod, Snakertown and other points of interest in that section of central Kentucky.

Examinations Begin Today In College

One thousand students of the college department of Eastern will embark on the Convict Ship for a two-day cruise, beginning at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning and ending at 11:10 o'clock Friday morning. The torture masters, however, will have only one period in which to give the examinations.

Examinations in afternoon classes will be held Thursday and in morning classes Friday, so announces Dr. Homer E. Cooper, dean and acting president. The exams will be given at the regular period and for only one period.

FORMER TEACHER, NOW AT PITTSBURGH, VISITS HERE

J. V. Logan, former member of the faculty of the Eastern Teachers College and a grandson of the chancellor of old Central University, whose campus is now occupied by Eastern, was a visitor in Richmond this week. Mr. Logan has just finished a year of study at Princeton University. He will teach English next year at the University of Pittsburgh, having charge of sophomore work.

FLOWER GIVES MOTH

A five spotted Sphinx moth, which is very rare, according to Prof. G. D. Smith, has just been given to him by a woman student of Eastern. She captured the prize on the campus. It now is on display in Mr. Smith's room. He said the girl who gave the moth to him was "Miss Angelia Sattiva."

Extension Classes' Enrollment is 1,198

New students in extension department are being received daily as the result of the work of field agents. Numerous teachers throughout the eastern part of the state take work by correspondence while they are teaching school. Since most of the rural schools start in July, an increase in the enrollment is expected soon.

Every department of Eastern offers extension courses which are handled by the regular instructors. The entire work is supervised by the extension department, however.

Miss Marion Webber, a graduate of Eastern, is assisting Mr. Squires in handling the work of the department. She has been connected with Eastern since her graduation several years ago.

Work on Publicity Pamphlet is Pushed

A total of $225 has been secured from Richmond business men to finance the publication of a publicity pamphlet which will set forth the resources of Madison county and recite the industrial advantages offered by Richmond, it was reported at the dinner meeting of the Rotary Club last night.

A committee composed of Dr. W. A. Fite, R. E. Turley and Overton Harber was named to aid in the preparation of the material to be contained within the publication much of which has already been assembled by Green Clay.

Arthur Mills, of Lexington, who is investigating possibilities of establishing an ice cream and milk plant here, was a guest of the club and served some of his brick ice cream.

The club had as a guest Alex R. Gibbs, of Kingston.

Health Conditions Are Discussed Here

Miss Adelbert Thomas, director of health education for the state board of health at Louisville, last week was at Eastern, talking with students and discussing how health work may be carried out further in the schools of the state.

At the chapel period last Thursday she spoke to the students on some health problems which are confronting the teachers in the rural districts. She urged that care be taken that upright children were not seated at desks which caused them to be bent and deformed.

Miss Thomas also called attention to the existing state laws regarding health conditions in the schools. Many of these laws, she said, regarding sanitation and methods of disease prevention, are being violated in every county in the state.

While she was in Richmond Miss Thomas maintained an exhibit in Roark Hall, where she gave out posters and booklets to assist the students in correcting conditions in the schools which they will teach.

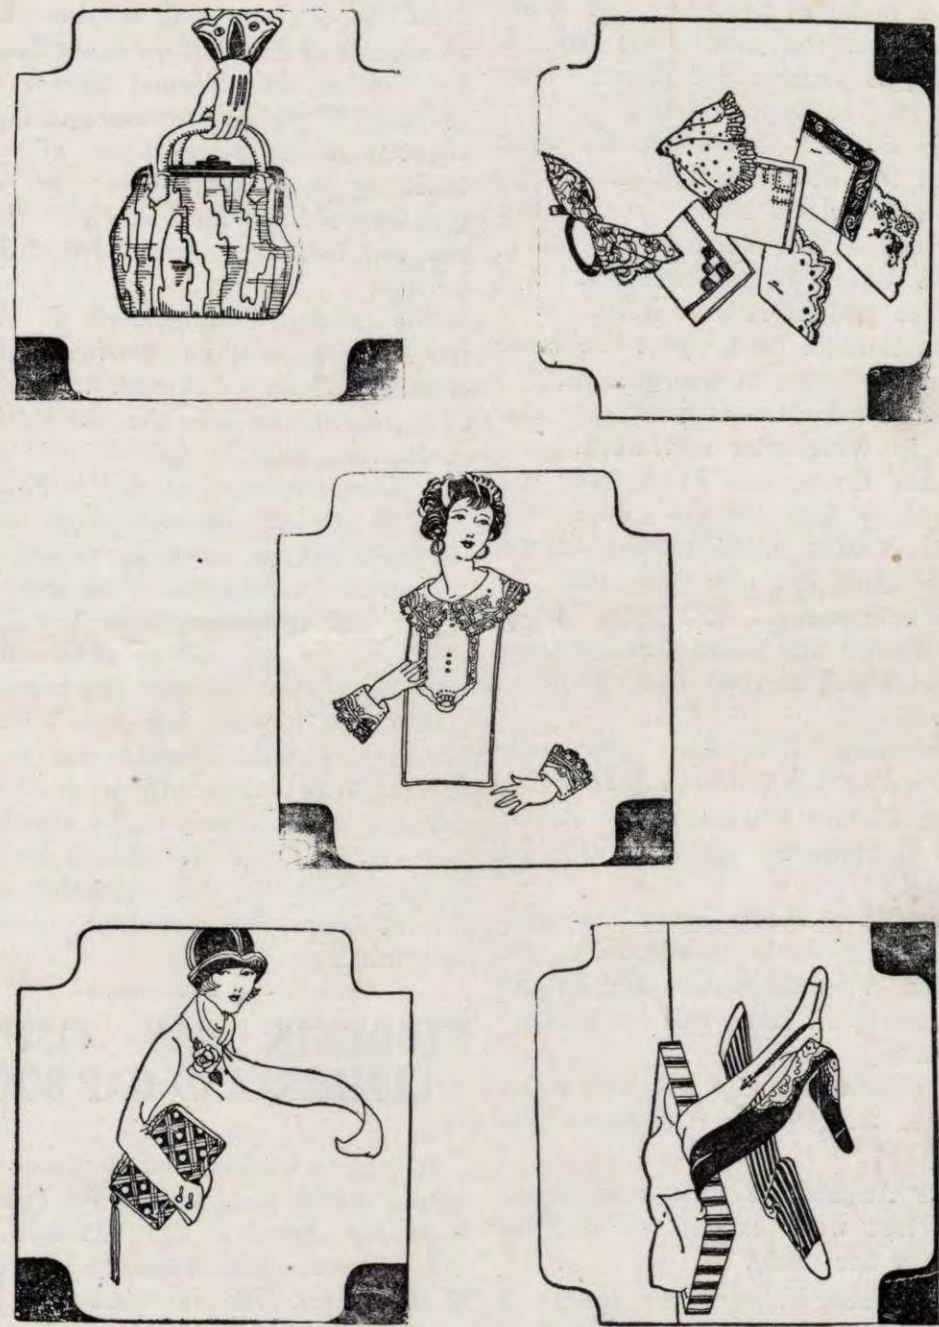

PRESIDENT'S LAWN IS REBUILT AND BEAUTIFIED

Extensive work on the lawn of the president's home on the campus has just been completed, leaving that section of the campus in excellent condition. The lawn was built up several inches with dirt obtained from the excavation for the new administration building.

Several trees were removed in order that the grass on the lawn might have more sunlight. Parts were sodded and the remainder sown in grass.

In front of the president's home a new concrete sidewalk was built. The entire lawn and property in front of the house was arranged for better drainage with the result that it soon will be one of the most beautiful spots on the campus, say the builders.

Very, Very Different

A Eugène Permanent Wave is very different from the old-fashioned kind. It is natural — and preserves the natural beauty of the hair. It is the gentle way of waving — with tiny jets of clean, white steam.
