THE NEW EPIDEMIC

The war has brought with it many changes of custom and habit, and produced many new fads and crazes. Some of these have been widespread among Americans, but a few—notably one—have been restricted to a tiny portion of the populace. The one we have particular reference to had its birth on an American warship lying in the North Atlantic about four years ago. Later it received a tremendous impetus under the North African sun of Casablanca, and in 1943 it flowered out in the mystery of far-off Teheran. A touch of historic drama was added when the news reports told of meeting in a tent in the shadow of the Pyramids alongside the ancient Nile. The villa of a Russian czar was next to experience the sensation, and now our craze—the current epidemic of "Big-Three-itis" has broken forth in the rubble of conquered Berlin. There the chiefs of state of the world's three premier powers, plus staffs of hundreds of advisers, are discussing current problems, and those to be faced in the future. It is interesting to note the backgrounds of the members of the "Big Three." Winston Churchill, aristocrat and descendant of one of the greatest of England's military chiefs; Josef Stalin, revolutionary and representative of sturdy peasant stock; and Harry Truman, who has, in the past three months, been built up as the man in the street—a typical small-town American. We expect logical solutions to weighty problems, and sharp, clear-cut decisions of policy, to come from such a meeting. As this is written, however, the most official news we have received is a description of the attire of Mr. Truman, or a recital of how much caviar Marshal Stalin has been able to consume at one sitting. Nothing worth printing anywhere except in a third-section feature column has been released. By the time this appears, full news coverage may have been granted. We hope so, because it is our opinion that the Woodrow Wilson-exposed policy of "open covenants, openly arrived at," should be the international policy.

It is quite a stinking thing; this conclave in the heart of the defeated enemy's country. Possibly this is the reason for choosing the Berlin area as the scene of the meeting. But the drama would take on a tragic hue, if somewhere from the battered ruins of the former Nazi capital, a shell or grenade aimed at one of the "Big Three" were to find its mark. Undoubtedly the area has been, and will be, combed over countless times. But there is always a chance—the fact that this has been considered may be drawn from the shift in the Treasury Department. Under the former setup, if President Truman and State Secretary Byrnes were to meet with misfortune, the Presidential chair would have passed to one Henry Morgenthau, Jr. Although the bosses haven't said anything about this, we believe that it was probably the reason for the speedy appointment of Judge Fred Vinson to the Treasury post. If Morgenthau had happened to become President, he would have found himself in a unique position—President without friends and without influence. So now we see Vinson as the Treasury Secretary.

Yes, it seems as if the chiefs of the world love to meet in dramatic places and under dramatic circumstances. There are probably several thousand places more suitable for the meeting than Potsdam, Germany. Its moral effect on conquered Germany, which would seem to be the only reason for holding the meeting there, is doubtful, since the great majority of the Germans will probably never even hear of the conference. It is to be hoped that the Big Three will shun the caviar and vodka, and get down to brass tacks. The world demands victory now and peace tomorrow.

Foster Music Camp Ends 1945 Session

The Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp closed its ninth annual season on Friday night, July 20, with a final concert by the camp band and orchestra in the college amphitheater. James E. Van Furssem, professor of music at Eastern, was director of the camp.

Other features of the final week included an orchestra concert Sunday evening directed by Henry Sopkin, famous American conductor and arranger, of Chicago; a demonstration of drill and figure work by the 150-piece marching band Thursday evening on State Land Field, and the final dinner Friday evening for the young musicians and the staff. Twelve states were represented by students in the camp.

The program for the final concert included Mozart's Symphony in G Minor; Prelude and Fugue, Bach-Gallit; Overture to Der Freischutz, Weber; Bachanale from Samson and Delilah by Saint-Saens-Reibold.

The 112-piece band played: Ad-ramus Te and Sanctus, Palestrina; Anniversary March, Goldman; All the Things You Are, Jerome Kern; and American Salute, Mortor Gould. The program was concluded with the playing of Lights Out and Taps, ending the summer season of the camp.

The 142 young musicians who have attended the music camp this summer returned to their homes on Saturday. The Band-Anna, published each summer by the campers showing the activities in the camp, was distributed at the final dinner Friday night for the staff, students, and visitors. A brief program of songs and talks by members of the staff and student group followed the dinner.

States represented in the camp this summer included Ohio, North Carolina, Maryland, Tennessee, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, New York, Arkansas, Alabama, Kansas, Georgia, and twenty-seven Kentucky towns and cities.

Summer Term Enrollment

One hundred and ninety students have enrolled at Eastern for the second summer term. Although this number is considerably smaller than that of the preceding term, it is an increase of fifty of the corresponding term of last year.

The second summer term is usually the smallest in enrollment because of the early starting of many rural schools. According to Mr. M. E. Mattox, Registrar, the enrollment is definitely on the up-grade. The number of students for the fall quarter should signify a noticeable increase with the registration of many veterans and a number of high school graduates, who will be taking their preinduction training.

Receives Discharge

Pfc. Robert W. Mock, of New York, sophomore the summer of 1942, has received a medical discharge from the Army after being hospitalized since February. His hands and feet were frozen during fighting in the Vosges Mountains. He went overseas in August, 1944, and fought in France and Alsace-Lorraine. He has recently been in a hospital in Texas and visited friends on the campus July 14.

College Riders Plan to Participate in Exhibition

On August 17 and 18, a horse show, sponsored jointly by the Richmond Exchange Club and the Madison County Horse Show Committee, will be held on the football field. The show, featuring a contest for the best co-ed rider at Eastern, offers $2,500 in premiums donated by various individuals.

The exhibition, for three and five gaited Palomino horses, will be judged by Mr. Plumber of Millersburg and announced by Mr. Swinebroad, a nationally famous show announcer from Lancaster. On both days, the shows will start at 2:00 and 8:00 p. m.

The Bluegrass Region is peculiarly suited to the breeding of fine horses; Madison County is the home of the proud Peavine line. When breeding is started on a larger scale, this section of the state will become known as the home of some of the world's best horses.

Rings and sponsors for the exhibition are printed below.

Preinduction Training Planned For Fall Term

A preinduction training program for young men who have completed high school will be offered in September. The program, worked out in co-operation with the Army and Navy representatives, will train the young men for radar, shop work, machine shop, electricity, mechanics, and clerical work. Training will include courses to develop mathematical skills, knowledge of and ability to apply principles, basic language skills, occupational skills, knowledge of why we fight, orientation to military life, and physical fitness.

Aptitude and achievement tests will be given by the director of personnel and his assistants to determine the specific courses each student should take. Regular college credit and a certificate will be given to those successfully completing a quarter's work. The work will be offered on the quarter basis. Students finishing the first quarter may continue during the second quarter if not inducted into the service.

The certificate showing successful completion of the training may be presented at the induction center when the student enters the service. Completion of the preinduction program does not necessarily mean that the young man will be placed in such work, but it will greatly increase the possibility of such assignment. The results of his tests and training will become a part of his service record and will help in having him transferred to specialized jobs as the needs arise.

All resources of the college will be placed at the disposal of this program. The organization includes a counselor, an advisory council composed of the teachers of the program, and the director of personnel, Dr. N. B. Cuff. President W. F. O'Donnell and Dean W. J. Moore are ex-officio members of the council, which will carry on a continuous study of the needs in the Army and Navy and methods of instruction in armed force schools.

The college has also had on its campus the Army Specialized Training Program with basic engineering training for the young men, the Administration School for the Women's Army Corps, the Enlisted Reserve Program, a field artillery unit of the Reserve Officer's Training Corps since 1936 which has trained a large number of young men as officers of the Army, and the Pre-radar program which is now being offered in co-operation with the Navy.

Mrs. Case Attends Workshop For Deans

Mrs. Emma Y. Case, dean of women at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, left Tuesday to attend a workshop for deans of women, counselors and advisors to be held for the next ten days at Pennsylvania State College, near Pittsburgh. She was accompanied by Miss Rankin Harris, of Morehead State Teachers College.

The workshop will deal with the guidance program in the colleges, the post-war problems for women, and education for women in general.

Mrs. Case will stop en route at Washington, D. C., to see her daughter, Mrs. Wayne Garnett.

Speaker Discusses Frisco Conference

"The San Francisco Conference and United Nations Charter" was the subject of an address at an assembly program in the amphitheater on Monday night, July 10, by Dr. Anry Vandembosch, professor of political science at the University of Kentucky. He was one of the secretaries at the Conference.

The Charter has no mythical qualities, the speaker stated, but is an international agreement for carrying on relations between countries just as states organize for their mutual benefit. The Conference and Charter rate with the Congresses of Vienna, Westphalia, and Paris of 1918.

Discussing personalities at the Conference, Dr. Vandembosch said no man there compared with Woodrow Wilson in stature, though there were many strong delegates, among them Anthony Eden of Britain, H. V. Evatt of Australia, Peter Frazier of New Zealand, Lord Halifax and Clement Attlee, of the United Kingdom delegation. The speaker paid tribute to Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, who represented the United States on seven of the ten committees and showed exceptional qualities of leadership.

The five great powers were given permanent membership on the security council, small states were given seats, and the middle powers, Australia, Canada, Brazil, and others, semi-permanent seats. This council will not be so important if peace reigns as the General Assembly, the Social and Economic Councils, and the International Court, Dr. Vandembosch stated.

The small states have a collective veto on the great powers, and the large states have an individual veto on the small countries, he continued. The small powers are not united and the position of France is uncertain, he said, declaring that France did not lead the revolt of smaller states nor take an enthusiastic part with the larger powers. The Charter goes much further than the Covenant of the League of Nations, the speaker said, adding that its success depends finally upon the people of the world.

Workshop In Irvine

Dr. Anna A. Schnell, Professor of Education at Eastern, is now in charge of a workshop in Irvine, Kentucky. She is being assisted by three teachers from Irvine, Mrs. Mamie West Scott, Miss Dimple Heater, and Miss Happy West. The course being taught is Education 19, a laboratory course in rural education. The fifty-five participants will receive eight hours credit for the work.

This work is very important, especially during the war when many of the old teachers have gone into the service or into war jobs. It enables the teacher to carry on noble work and also further their own education.

Capt. Richards Transferred

Capt. R. R. Richards (29), member of the commerce faculty now on leave of absence, has been transferred from Detroit, Mich., to Dayton, Ohio, with the Contract Audit Branch of the Army. He was in Richmond on a brief visit June 23-24.

Summer Recreation At Eastern

United We Stand

Summer school students at Eastern are finding interesting extra-curricular activities to divert them from the consistent grind of class work and study.

The field of athletics offers a four-fold extra-curricular attraction for the sports lovers. The baseball diamond in front of Weaver Health Building is the scene of many three-bagger and double-play thrills. Due to the manpower shortage, scrub teams are holding the field this summer in lieu of the usual regular teams.

Tennis enthusiasts find the macadam courts behind Memorial Hall in excellent condition. The courts are open to all students at all times.

The most recent athletic attraction set before the student body is horseback riding. Horses are available for use on the bridge path every evening between five and eight p. m. Mr. Tudor and Mr. Gumbert are instructing in the regular course which is offered every Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday for 1/2 hour's credit in Physical Education.

The favorite summer sport—swimming, is enjoyed by all participants in the well-equipped indoor pool in the Health Building. The pool is open Tuesday and Thursday evenings from seven until nine p. m.

Eastern's Business Agent, Mr. G. M. Brock, has established contracts with all six of the top-ranking motion picture companies: Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Twentieth Century-Fox, Columbia, Warner Bros., and Universal Studios, to provide worthwhile motion picture entertainment for use in the campus theater. The pictures are shown in the lovely and spacious Hiram Brock Auditorium in the Administration Building, for a moderate fee. Selected short subjects and Universal newsreels are shown with an outstanding feature attraction each Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday night at eight o'clock.

Batter Up!

A complete new wide range sound equipment, the Altec-Lansing Sound System, now being installed, will improve the sound to a degree equal to that found in the outstanding theaters of the nation. The purpose of the new installation is to reproduce musical tones with greater fidelity, giving a complete range of high and low tones, and modulating and deepening all tones to a pitch pleasing to the normal ear.—JEANNE RUARK.

ORCHIDS TOO!

Last term we were petitioned by many students to campaign for the betterment of conditions of the tennis courts. Since we thought that this problem was of great interest to both the men and the women of the College, we accepted this task.

Realizing that we criticized rather severely, we want to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the changes that have been made.

A G.I. WILL THANK YOU

The Office of Defense Transportation has been urging civilians to avoid all unnecessary travel and the student who goes home every week-end is completely ignoring this request.

WHOSE FAULT?

If you were to take a drive to Greendale, Kentucky, this afternoon you would see hundreds of boys and girls in one of the State's penal institutions.

Perhaps we can best understand this by considering the answer, "I didn't like it," which one of the boys gave when he was asked why he didn't stay in school.

We must find the answers to these questions and do our utmost to remove the stigma of the willow switch and the dunce cap from the school system.

Will the boys and girls in your classroom be in Greendale next year?

DID IT EVER

DAWN UPON YOU?

by Neil Roberts

Well, what do you know?—Either your milkman-columnist is adopting a policy of slothfulness and lying in bed too long, or has found some "birds of a feather" with whom he can associate.

Last week I must have been talking to myself as I did my morning run, because the Misses Wingo, who live on Barnes Mill Pike, told me the next day they'd heard a man on their back porch.

You might think that a milkman would see very little of life in the afternoon, but yesterday he saw Mr. N. G. Deniston, of the Industrial Arts department, tending a fire at the barbecue pit over at New Steland Farm.

Black Boy is the moving and terrible story of how a Negro boy grew up in the South. It is the story of Richard Wright's own life—not fiction, but the record of how things were with him, set down straight.

ODDS AND ENDS

by NINA MAYFIELD

The Private Papers of Private Purkey

According to authorities, letter-writing since the war has regained its former importance in American life. If the letter below is a sample of this grand old art, we wonder. Literary, ain't it.

Dear Ma: This is just to tell you some more about the I.Q. tests in the army. I.Q. stands for Intelligence Quotient, meaning is quick at answering questions. I will explain explain some of the questions.

Question 1 was state if a trigger is a kind of flower, a music instrument or a part of a gun. Well, ma, if there is any jeep who thinks a trigger is part of a flower or a music instrument, all I hope is he ain't in my outfit during a hot battle.

Question 3 was to check witch was right a callope is used for range finding, for washing bay windows or for giving off music. Well this kind of struck me. I know a callope ain't used to wash windows but I ain't sure about the other two, so I took a chance and said a callope is used for range finding.

Question 5 was to check witch was right in the sentence vitamins are good for airplane motors, human health, or rock gardens. I showed 'em I was no fool there, ma. I said vitamins was good for all three and from all the advertisements claim they must also be good for small-pox, flat feet, top sergeants and even army tanks.

Question 7 was to check witch was right a callope is used for range finding, for washing bay windows or for giving off music. Well this kind of struck me. I know a callope ain't used to wash windows but I ain't sure about the other two, so I took a chance and said a callope is used for range finding.

Question 9 was to check witch was right a callope is used for range finding, for washing bay windows or for giving off music. Well this kind of struck me. I know a callope ain't used to wash windows but I ain't sure about the other two, so I took a chance and said a callope is used for range finding.

Question 11 was to check witch was right a callope is used for range finding, for washing bay windows or for giving off music. Well this kind of struck me. I know a callope ain't used to wash windows but I ain't sure about the other two, so I took a chance and said a callope is used for range finding.

Question 13 was to check witch was right a callope is used for range finding, for washing bay windows or for giving off music. Well this kind of struck me. I know a callope ain't used to wash windows but I ain't sure about the other two, so I took a chance and said a callope is used for range finding.

Selected While You Wait

It's getting nowadays so you can't even turn around without somebody picking a list of the ten best something-or-other—best dressed women, best books, best all-time center fielders.

And don't try to argue about what constitutes "impressive." There are certain standards to be stuck to.

Another list which will probably be widely quoted by press and radio is the ten worst things to put on chocolate ice cream. They are: grapefruit, garlic, grenadine, glycerine, gravy, vinegar—bet you though we were going to begin them all with G—horse-radish, mustard, curry powder, and white lead.

Would you like a list of the ten most foolish things you can do? It won't do you any good to say no. They are: Blow in a cat's ear. Call your butcher a [!]*-x-!!! fool. Shout "Heil, Hitler!" Jump off the SU Building. Try to get from Natchez to Mobile on an A card. Bet on the Phillies to win the 1945 World Series. Raise five times on a pair of deuces. Ask for cigarettes in the Book Store. Shave with an egg beater. Think you'll get two spoons of sugar in your soffee by asking for it.

Well, we feel as though we'd done a good day's work.

The Old Songs—1955

Let's play the old sweet songs again. These current tunes are well enough, but tonight, my dear, I long to hear The strains to which we fell in love. Remember that elfin little piece, The one whose pulsing tender notes We hummed in duet the night we met?

Darlin, remember MAIRZY DOATS? And that other tremulous rhapsody . . . Don't sing it, sweetheart. Breathe it! Sigh it! A poignant theme which touched our dream, Oh, MIKMAN, KEEP THOSE BOTTLES QUIET!

Repeat the old nostalgic songs! What raucous modern lay can give The heart such ease as melodies Like ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE? The Tale of a Skunk

A skunk once needed extra gas, upon a summer day; He went to get his coupons from the local OPA. The perfume pussy pestered them, and though they saw it through, They told him in the future he'd be served by the OPU.

Yours for the Asking

(As told to Lema Aker)

The question asked this week by your reporter proved to be very informative. Below appear the printable replies to, "Do you let your conscience be your guide?"

Marie Rihard: If this is for the Progress, yes! Naomi Dodson: No, not always—sometimes my conscience won't let me do everything I want to do. Nordeah Burreas: Yes, your conscience is always right. It is, isn't it?

Patsy Newell: Not always, I just do what I want to do and I don't care what people say. George Gumbert: Are you kidding? It depends on where it guides you. Capple Heath: No, if I did I wouldn't have any fun.

Jack Rogers: Sure, cause I'm a nice boy. Miss Hood: I don't have a conscience. Lorraine Brown: Yes, my conscience won't let me do anything I'll regret. Creepy Smith: Yes, I like where it takes me. Elva Marcum: I guide my conscience so I can do what I want to.

George Houston: Yes, sometimes. Other times it can't keep up with me.

News of Our Alumni and Former Students At Eastern..

The News Letter, with the Progress, is mailed without charge to all Eastern men and women in military service whose addresses the Alumni Association is able to obtain. Information about graduates and former students should be sent to the Alumni Secretary, Miss Mary F. McKinney.

Former students and alumni not in the service may receive the publications from the college by payment of $1.00 annual dues.

Complete addresses of men and women in the service overseas may not be published but will be supplied upon request to their friends.

Graduates Overseas

Lt. Joe Bill Siphers (43) of Benham, is at present in a rest camp near Manila, according to information received from Mrs. Siphers (Carolyn Miller, senior in 1942-43). Lt. Siphers has been with a field artillery battalion in the Pacific since September, 1944. His APO is 75, San Francisco. A gift of $5.00 was recently received from Lt. and Mrs. Siphers toward the publications fund. Mrs. Siphers is at her home in Boone, N. C. Their baby died at birth several months ago.

Capt. James W. (Spider) Thurman (41) of Benham, is now stationed in Burma and in a recent letter to Coach Rankin stated that he had seen Major Walter Duch, sophomore in 1941-42, who is a squadron commander. The two Eastern men are stationed only four miles apart in Burma. Major Duch, of New Britain, Conn., has been awarded two Air Medals, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, two Presidential Citations, and three Combat Bronze Stars. Capt.
