Kentucky's Tallest Dorms

Kentucky's Tallest Dormitories Are Fast Nearing Completion

Todd To Be Occupied By Early April

Construction is nearing completion here of the state's tallest dormitories — twin, 12-story skyscrapers — and one will be occupied in early April, if work proceeds as scheduled.

Mr. J. C. Powell, dean of business affairs, said yesterday that no definite plans as to who would live in Todd Hall have been made, but that several groups were being considered.

When both are completed, they will become the sixth and seventh residence halls completed on the Eastern campus since 1960.

The twin "Towers," both of which will be fully air-conditioned, will house 720 men students. Each will contain two elevators and 71,000 square feet of floor space. There will also be quarters for two head residents.

Connecting the two halls is an enclosed one-story area containing a lounge, lobby and recreation room.

The $2,850,000 project is located between the new Alumni Coliseum and Hanger Stadium — in the same area of other men's residence halls.

Todd and Dupree Halls

They have been named Todd and Dupree Halls, to honor two members of the Eastern board of regents — Dr. Russell I. Todd, Richmond, and F. L. Dupree, Harlan. Todd Hall is nearest completion. Dupree Hall will be completed in late summer.

Architects are Brock and Johnson, Lexington. The contractor is Hargett Construction Company, also of Lexington.

When they are completed, campus dormitory space will be available for 3,807 students at design capacity.

Other dormitories completed since 1960 are Mattox Hall, which houses 206 men; Case Hall, 550 women; Martin Hall, 404 men; McGregor Hall, 448 women; and Earle Combs Hall, which accommodates 238 men students.

Also completed have been 144 units in Brockton, married student housing project.

All dormitories constructed at Eastern are financed by the sale of revenue bonds, with students' room rentals retiring the bonds.

President Martin has announced that the next dormitory project to be begun at Eastern will be an 11-story women's dormitory, also to be air-conditioned.

Nearing completion on the campus is the Bert Combs Classroom Building, four-story, air-conditioned structure containing 138,000 square feet of floor space and 2,200 teaching stations. Set for completion next fall, it will house the departments of business, education and English.

Cost of the building will be $2.9 million.

Three Superiors Given In Drama Festival Yesterday

Three Central Kentucky high schools received superior ratings at the regional high school drama festival, which began yesterday and continues today.

Winning top honors which advances them to the state drama festival on March 12-14 at the University of Kentucky were: Danville High School, Berea Foundation, and Scott County High.

Seven schools competed in Thursday's competition. Besides the superior winners were Model High School, Midway-Pinkerton, Madison Central, and University High.

Eight schools are scheduled to appear on today's program in Hiram Brock Auditorium, including: Bourbon County, Georgetown High, Grant County, Woodford County, Bryan Station, Paris High, Lafayette, and Pine Knot.

Judges for the festival are Dr. West T. Hill, Centre College; Dr. Fred Farrot, Berea College, and Joe M. Johnson, of Eastern.

Director of the festival is D. J. Carty, director of in-service education.

Sociologist Lectures Wednesday

"Growth is not a one-dimensional affair. A person grows up and out in space and time," said Dr. Everett K. Wilson, professor of sociology at Antioch College, as he addressed the weekly assembly at Eastern Wednesday.

In a special program Wednesday night in Edwards Auditorium, Dr. Wilson told a gathering of about 100 that the sociologists' inquiries were in the study of the making, maintaining and changing of groups.

Speaking before an audience of nearly 1,700 students and faculty in the Hiram Brock Auditorium program, he said that "we must know others to know our world; we must know ourselves to participate in this creation."

His topic was "The Growth of a Person."

Dr. Wilson said that "self and personality are co-operatively fabricated through three circles of influence." These he listed as (1) teachers, kin, and friends, who are the customary collaborators; (2) people who reaffirm and re-enforce likeliness are called class, and (3) the general features of the American landscape.

He then suggested three features of American life that seem to bear significantly on the growth of a person. They are: (1) the changing rate of information exchange, (2) the ambiguity of modern life, and (3) the symbiotic interlocking of our destinies as symbolized in the mediating third element in social chains.

Elaborating his ideas, he asked the question, "What does this mean for the growth of a person?" He said that with the faster rate of exchange and permutation of ideas has meant (1) more uncertainties in knowing, and (2) less certainty in conviction.

This he called the strange paradox of our times. "The range of knowledge and our powers of discrimination have been vastly refined, while, simultaneously, our ability or willingness to discriminate has been greatly blunted."

Another motif in American life, he said, is the ambiguity in our intellectual, aesthetic, and moral life.

He cited a third characteristic of American society as one that grows out of the complex interdependencies of contemporary life. This upward spiraling rate of information exchange and growth of knowledge is reflected in the growth of social systems.

The 1964 Constitutional Revision Assembly named to draft a new, modern State Constitution for submission to the people of Kentucky is now at work.

It held its first meeting Monday in the House Chamber of the Old Capitol Building where the Constitutional Convention of 1891 gave the State its present charter after 226 days of meetings.

Appointments to the 50-member assembly were announced last week by Governor Edward T. Breathitt. The list includes Kentucky's seven former governors, one delegate from each of the State's 38 senatorial districts and five delegates from the state-at-large.

Besides the former governors, those invited to serve in the assembly include Kentucky's U.S. Senators John Sherman Cooper and Thurston B. Morton; Louisville's Mayor William O. Cowger, Jefferson County Judge Marlow Cook and Republican Louis B. Nunn, Glasgow, whom Breathitt defeated for governor last November.

Republicans Morton, Cook and Nunn are at-large delegates. The two other such delegates, both Democrats, are Louisville's former Mayor Charles F. Farnsley and Judge James W. Stites, former chief justice of the Court of Appeals.

Former Governors Serve

The former governors include five Democrats and two Republicans. The Democrats are A. B. Chandler, Keen Johnson, Earle C. Clements, Lawrence Wetherby and Bert T. Combs. The Republicans are Flen D. Sampson and Simeon Willis.

Two of the delegates are women, Miss Grace Cruickshank, Lexington, from the 13th District, and Mrs. J. Wyatt Wood, Williamsburg, from the 17th District.

The president of the Kentucky State Bar Association, William L. Wilson, Owensboro, is delegate from the Eighth Senatorial District, and his predecessor, Tom Waller, Paducah, is a delegate from the Second District.

Louisville's Republican Mayor Cowger was appointed from the 35th District, and Dr. C. H. Parrish, Jr., professor at the University of Louisville, from the 37th District. Other Jefferson County delegates are Robert Farris, Valley Station, Seventh District; Raymond F. Bossmeier, 33d; Sam Rosenstein, 34th; Oldham Clarke, 36th, and former State Senator Gates Young, 38th.

Other delegates and their Senate districts are:

First, Joe Johnson, Clinton; Third, Ed Hays, Pikeville; Fourth, William Sullivan, Henderson; Fifth, George Boone, Ellettsville; Sixth, Rumsay B. Taylor, Sr., Princeton; Ninth, Dr. C. C. Howard, Glasgow; 10th, James Collier, Elizabethtown, 11th, James Poston, Fort Thomas.

Jesse Stuart Designated

12th, John E. Reeves, Lexington; 14th, T. C. Carroll, Sr., Shepherdsville; 15th, Judge Cooper of Somerset; 16th, Judge James C. Carter, Thompkinsville; 18th, Jesse Stuart, Greenup; 19th, James Lambert, Mount Vernon; 20th, Robert Mills, Georgetown.

21st, James A. Cawood, Harlan; 22d, Edward F. Pritchard, Jr., Versailles; 23rd, Dewey Daniel, Hazard; 24th, Charles Adams, Covington; 25th, Paul Blaser, Ashland; 26th, John Berry, Sr., New Castle; 27th, Dee Aers, Morehead; 28th, J. Phil Smith, Jackson; 29th, Beckham Combs, Hindman; 30th, Edward L. Fossett, Falmouth; 31st, Judge Robert O. Miller, Murray, and 32d, Maxey Harlin, Bowling Green.

Orchestra To Present Concert

The Eastern Symphony, under the direction of Dr. Robert Opelt, associate professor of music will present a concert Monday evening in Hiram Brock Auditorium at 8 p.m.

They will present the music of Purcell, Bottje, Shostakovich, Mussorgsky, Mozart, and Wagner.

Featured soloist will be Mr. Alan Staples, violinist and member of the Eastern music faculty. He is the first violinist with the Kentucky String Quartet at Eastern. At Eastern three years, he came here after being with the Cincinnati Symphony. He will be heard in the Concerto No. 5 of Mozart.

Mr. Staples teaches violin and chamber music at Eastern and directs the Model Laboratory School senior orchestra.

Also on the program will be the first movement of a new symphony, by Mr. Will Bottje a member of the faculty of Southern Illinois University.

Other selections include Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary," two pieces by Shostakovich and Mussorgsky, "Prelude to the third act," "Dance of Apprentices," "Procession of the Mastersingers" from Wagner's opera "Die Meistersinger."

The concert is free to the public.

Wildlife Expert Set For Lecture

Walter H. Berlet, Audubon Wildlife lecturer, will present the Audubon Wildlife Film, "The Deer," next Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in Brock Auditorium.

Mr. Berlet, of Casper, Wyoming, will personally narrate the all-color film which is fourth in a series of five Audubon Wildlife Films presented by the Eastern biology department and the National Audubon Society.

Inventor of the Berco Lens attachment, Mr. Berlet will present the story of the Rocky Mountains. More than eight years in production, the film covers the states of Wyoming, Montana, and Idaho, and includes film footage of trips afield into the wilderness with Olaus Murie, naturalist and conservationist, who died recently.

Steve Spelman Is Hearts King

Steve Spelman, Cincinnati resident and a student at Cincinnati Academy of Arts, was crowned "King of Hearts" Friday night at the Sweetheart Dance held in Walnut Hall.

Spelman was nominated by Miss Brigitte Johnson, sophomore and a member of Owens, which sponsored the event. Coeds nominated their dates for king upon entering the dance and the name of the winner was drawn during the dance.

Designed for the dance, numerous decorations typified the Valentine's Day tradition. On each of the tables red candles, along with valentines for each girl, were placed. The familiar heart and cupid were hung from the light fixtures.

Debaters In Action In Berea Tomorrow

Tomorrow will find the Eastern debaters at Berea College competing against about fifteen colleges for the eight trophies to be presented.

A first in Eastern debating will be the cross-examination debating, which is done by the varsity team and its advanced debate. The debater is skilled in interrogation just as a lawyer does a witness on the witness stand.

The varsity team will be affirmative team, Jay Roberts and Joe Dunn. The negative team will be Emmie Moore or Charles Lewis and Gordon Camuel. For the novice team, affirmative, are Betsy Schwertfeger and Shirley Greene. On the negative team are Jim Glass and David Hill and Robert Langley, a substitute.

A special significance of this tournament is that it is being held on Washington's birthday.

Two Women Appointed

In making known the make-up of the assembly, which includes two women, Breathitt said:

"If ever Kentucky had a blue-ribbon group capable of solving some problems, this assembly is it. Members are a cross section of thoughtful, responsible Kentuckians. Each has deep knowledge of Kentucky and her people and each has achieved eminence or distinction in some field."

The Governor also said that he and the officials who helped him "were careful to select the delegates without partisan political consideration and we have supreme confidence that this group will come up with a model constitution."

The delegates, excepting the former governors, were chosen by Breathitt, Lieutenant Governor Harry Lee Waterfield; State Representative Shelby McCallum, speaker of the House of Representatives, and James B. Milliken, chief justice of the

Volunteers Meet Monday

A chapter of the Appalachian Volunteers will be formed at a joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. Monday at 6:30 p.m. in room 104, University Building.

All interested persons, whether they are "Y" members or not, are invited to attend.

Mr. Phillip Conn, a member of the White House Special Projects Commission, will speak at the meeting.

Frosh To Elect New Class Officers Soon

The freshman class will hold elections next Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. at a dance to be held in the Student Union Grille.

There are five candidates for vice-president and three for treasurer.

Running for vice-president are Alexander Capulis, an English and physical education major from Miami, Florida; Harry Oliver, an accounting major from Savannah, Georgia; Donald Coleman, accounting major from Lookout, Kentucky; Michael Murphy, commerce and business administration major from Richmond; Susan Watkins from Lexington.

Running for treasurer are Shirley Richardson, physical education major from Waterbury, Vermont; Leah Strehlow, from Arlington Heights, Illinois; Thomas Kase, English major from Cincinnati.

Vice-Presidents Listed

Capulis served as the vice-president of his class in high school. Oliver is a member of the BSU executive council and of the Eastern band. Coleman was a member of the student council and editor of the school paper during his senior year in high school.

Murphy is a member of the Eastern band, ROTC band, DSF and MENC. Miss Watkins served as co-editor of the school paper and president of Quill and Scroll during her senior year in high school.

Miss Richardson served as secretary of the Vermont Association of Student Councils and as treasurer of the senior class in high school. Miss Strehlow was a member of the student council in high school and she is a member of the KYMA Club at Eastern. Kase has been chosen by the American Information Service to work and study in Germany this summer. He participated in football, basketball, baseball and track during high school.

ECONOMICS CAN BE CHUCKLES

Many of you have been avoiding economics because it is so widely known as "the dismal science." Oh, good friends, stop cheating yourselves of many a laugh and cheer, because economics is a positive riot! True, it is called the dismal science, but that is only because it was invented in 1681 by Walter D. Dismal.

It is easy to understand why Mr. Dismal's discovery of economics is today almost forgotten, for the fact is that he himself only stayed with the subject for two or three days. After that he took up embonpoint, which means fatness. It is said that at his apogee, Mr. Dismal reached 1200 pounds. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.

It was not until 1776 when Adam Smith published his Wealth of Nations (or Oxyandias, as it is usually known as) that the world came to realize what a rosy, twinkly, fun subject economics is. As Mr. Smith showed in his jocular little treatise, there is nothing complicated about economics.

When there is a great demand for a product, a great supply is placed on the market. When there is a small demand, there is a small supply. Take, for example, castanets. You walk into any average American town today and I'll wager you won't see more than eighty or ninety castanet shops. That is because the demand is small.

For Marlboro Cigarettes, on the other hand, the demand is great. Thus, you will find Marlboros—with all their yummy rich tobacco flavor and pure white Selectrate filter and pliable soft pack and unipliable Flip-Top box—at any counter where cigarettes are sold in every one of our fifty great States and Duluth.

To Adam Smith, I say, belongs the distinction of popularizing economics. Mr. Smith was followed by David Ricardo. In fact, everywhere he went he was followed by David Ricardo. Mr. Smith finally got so annoyed that he summoned a bobby, as British policemen are called, and had Mr. Ricardo arrested. This later became known as the Louisiana Purchase.

Upon his release from gaol, as a British jail is called, Mr. Ricardo reported to his parole officer, Thomas Robert Malthus. They soon became fast friends, and one night over a game of whist they invented the stock exchange, or chutney, as it is called in England.

Well sir, with the British having, you might say, a corner on economics, the French decided that they wanted some economics too. Being, however, a proud nation, they refused simply to borrow British economics, but insisted on inventing their own. At first they tried using the traffic hound as a medium of exchange. When this proved less than satisfactory, they switched to pomade. Discouraged by this second disappointment, they finally shrugged and said, "Oh, who cares about economics anyhow?" and returned to the guillotine and Maurice Chevalier.

America, I am pleased to report, had much better success with economics. Our early merchants quickly broke down economics into its two major categories—coins and folding money—and today, as a result of their wisdom, we can all enjoy the automatic toll station.

Well sir, I could go on and on about this fascinating subject, but I know you're all in a tearing hurry to rush out and sign up for Econ 1. So I will leave you now with two kindly words of farewell: Gresham's Law.

© 1964 Max Shulman

We, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, are tobaccoists, not economists. But this much we know about supply and demand: you demand full flavor in a filter cigarette; we supply it—Marlboro!

Another Postscript: To The Greeks

We'll admit we never make mistakes (especially about the dates of drama festivals) but last week's editorial about fraternities and sororities left a few things (very few, mind you) unsaid.

We said then that the basic idea of fraternities and sororities is good, but the misuse, and the misconception of the idea, is bad. We still mean this. What, however, is this idea? As was said in an earlier edition of the Progress:

"All the observers in the world could not catch the one big goal of fraternities: fraternalism.

Rushes often ask juniors and seniors what their fraternity means to them. Invariably examples of fraternalism can be cited. Some exaggerate so much that it becomes ridiculous. The fact remains that the men in a fraternity are brothers—more so than any observer can realize."

This is, of course, the raison d'être of both fraternities and sororities—imagine young women, as sisters, in the paragraphs above. Brothers and sisters who have a realistic interpretation of the relationship between their "family" invariably want the best for their relatives. We should think, therefore, that since the principle of fraternalism seems to receive much more than mere lip service from the national organizations, (and their institution here or not is what this is all about), then it seems that the logical conclusion is that the Greeks, when they live up to their purpose, will help every brother or sister to the highest scholastic attainments of which he is capable, to be a worthwhile, producing member of his campus, to do his best in extra-curricular activities, and to live an enjoyable, and honorable, life in the companionship of his "family." When a Greek organization does not achieve this end, then it is a farce, a mere front for the irresponsible and immature satisfaction of immediate desires.

Any fraternity or sorority worthy of status has this common goal that is actually individual betterment, not the glory and prestige of the national organization or local chapter. Each Greek group enters into a partnership with its members; they must work for the chapter, it is true; but in working for the chapter they should be really working for themselves, in a sharing society. And children must learn to share; but adults (supposedly) already know how.

We are making no forecasts, one way or another, about whether fraternities and sororities are here to stay. One thing we do know: the idea of fraternalism should survive as long as man survives, and heaven help us if it dies.

CCUN Blew Hot, Cold

By DOMY A. GAREN
Progress Staff Writer

A frigid atmosphere, punctuated only by periods of heated discussion bearing a striking similarity to "four-real" sessions of the U.N. characterized the Sixth annual U.N. Model Assembly last weekend.

Nowhere else in CCUN history were the patterns of Bloc Alliances and political maneuverings so evident than in this year's four-day CCUN model assembly, where nearly 400 delegates representing 55 colleges and universities attempted to tackle, via U.N. machinery, the problems of this world.

Since the kick-off meeting of the Model Security Council on Wednesday evening to the General Assembly's adjournment on Saturday afternoon, the various halls of the university reverberated continuously with rhetorical flurries, finger-shaking, and outbursts of eloquence.

Debate Is Fierce

Personal issues and explosive situations from the Rhodesia Question to the more current Panama struggles were debated fiercely. The delegates often hurled such phrases as "selfish designs of Western imperialists" and "obstruction policies of the barbarous Red colonialists."

Not to be outdone, Eastern's eleven-man delegation, representing Nationalist China and Czechoslovakia, joined the battle lines from the beginning and in opposite directions, as prescribed by the logic of their respective political alliances. Except from the Security Council, where only Nationalist China was represented, Eastern students soon found themselves giving angry glances and jumping at each other's throat.

"Don't glare at me like that again," said Sharon Zimmerman, a Chinese Nationalist delegate from Eastern, to the Czech delegate during a break. "I cannot support your stand and remain in character." "Support my resolution or else . . ." ran an intimidation from one Eastern delegate to another, representing a committed nation. "Sorry, I am Czech first, today," came the curt reply.

Foreign Students Attend
The delegates were as diverse as the world's peoples they represented. Lending an international air to the meet were many foreign students scattered throughout the various delegations. African students were numerous in the delegations of African nations. European exchange students were also present.

The head delegate of the U.S.S.R. attended the conferences with Red Medals, while the Cuban delegation had a bearded delegate resembling Fidel Castro. The U.S. delegation were conspicuous with their U.S. Air Force Academy uniforms and over-sized portfolios, but Eastern's Jim Gross caught the limelight at the Plenary Meeting by lodging a protest in Czechoslovakian (interpreted by Lois Campbell) on the wrong way the Czech flag was hung.

Dr. Arthur Larson, director of the World Rule of Law for the Duke Law School, gave the opening address and outlined specific ways and recommendations on how the U.N. could most effectively intervene on critical world situations.

The conference had as its main speaker Dr. Tran Van Choung, former Vietnamese Ambassador to the United States, who explained the background of the Viet Nam war and the possible solutions that may be followed.

Roberts Picked Director
Jay Roberts, junior from Richmond, was designated CCUN State Director for Kentucky at the Business Meeting on Friday, at the suggestion of Tom Coffey, present CCUN Associate Regional Director. Coffey, junior from Somerset, and overall head of Eastern's delegation, also previewed possible courses of attack to gain support and interest to the CCUN in the Middle South Region.

A Fulbright student from Denmark, when asked how she felt about the U.N. Model Assembly at the end of the meetings, replied: "I seem to have now a deeper understanding and insight, not only to how the U.N. machinery

The Editor's Post

We have received many letters on the subject of fraternities and sororities, but because of a lack of space in this issue, will be unable to publish the letters this week. Watch the "Editor's Post" for a selection of comments from these letters. We will welcome more; bring the letters to the Progress office, Room 5, Administration Building, by Wednesday noon. No letters will be accepted for publication next week after that time.

Eels At Vandy Tomorrow; Beat Evansville 53-42

Eastern's swimmers, the Eels, will travel to Vanderbilt for a meet tomorrow against the tough Tennessee squad.

The Commodores handed the Eels one of their two losses last season, and the locals will be out for revenge against one of the strongest teams in the South.

In a meet last Saturday, the Eels ran their season record to 7-1 with an exciting 52-43 record shattering victory over Evansville here.

Eastern's victory was decided in the final event as the Eels took the 440-yard freestyle relay in 3:39.1, just one tenth of a second ahead of the Evansville foursome.

The time was a school and pool record, one of eight pool and three Eastern records that were shattered in the meet. Evansville set five records.

Fred Bartlett led Eastern with 11 3-4 points. He set pool and school records in the 200-yard freestyle and in the 200-yard

Raiders Here Tonight For Vital OVC Contest

Maroons Still High In Loop Race

Eastern, thanks to an 88-72 win over Tennessee Tech here Tuesday night, remains with Murray and East Tennessee in the Ohio Valley Conference basketball race.

The Maroons must win their remaining games in the OVC starting with Middle Tennessee here tonight if they hope to be on top at the season's end.

Murray, the pre-season pick to win, has jumped to the No. 1 position with a 7-3 record. East Tennessee is in second place with a 6-3 mark. Eastern follows at 5-4.

Middle Tennessee surprised the Maroons in Murfreesboro on Feb. 13 with an 83-73 upset.

Ray Kempa and Larry Stewart led the Blue Raider assault with 24 and 23 points respectively. The reverse dropped Eastern to 4-3 in the conference at the time.

Play Austin Peay Monday Monday night the Maroons will take on another tough loop foe in Austin Peay on the road. The Governors are only 4-7 in loop play, but their play of late has been improved. The Clarksville chargers are paced by guard Doug Stamper.

Stamper led his team with 22 as Austin Peay lost to Eastern 69-60 here earlier in the season.

Murray gave Eastern its fourth league setback with a 93-87 win last Saturday.

The Maroons kept their title hopes alive Tuesday night with their second victory of the season over Tech.

Tolan Gets 23 Bob Tolan led the Maroon triumph with 23 points and 12 rebounds. Dennis Bradley added 20 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Eddie Bodkin regained the scoring lead from Herman Smith by popping in 19 to Smith's 15. Bodkin now has 294 points in 19 games to Smith's 292.

Lee Lemos, the other starter, garnered 12.

Bodkin led the rebounders with 14 and Smith, from his guard position, picked up 11.

Eastern led 40-37 at the half after overcoming a 32-27 Tech lead with 8:25 left in the half.

Tech led 48-45 in the second half and its last lead was 57-55 midway the second half. Eastern went ahead at 58-57 and proceeded to build its advantage. Eastern's longest leads came at 86-88 and 88-70 near the end of the contest.

Lemos Leads at Murray In the loss to Murray, Lemos was Eastern's high man with 19, followed by Bodkin's 18. Others in double figures were Smith with 12 and Walton with 11.

Jim Jennings led Murray with 28.

Eastern outscored the Thoroughbreds from the field, 36 goals to 33, but Murray hit 27 free throws to the Maroons 15.

The Maroons rallied late in the game to cut down a 20-point Murray lead, but the volley failed to be sufficient.

Baptist Consider The Quality of Christian Intellect

Baptist students will consider "The Quality of Christian Intellect" in a special series of Vesper programs on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, February 24-26, at the Baptist Student Center, 325 South Second Street. The programs will highlight the second Freshman Week observance this year for Baptists and will begin at 8:30 p.m. each day.

Dr. Byno R. Rhodes, professor of English, will initiate the series on Monday. The Rev. Dwight K. Lyons, Tuesday's speaker, is local director of BSU activities. The concluding discussion will be led by Robert Blankenship, president of the Freshman executive council.

Several BSU'ers will attend the annual Student Mission Conference on the campus of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, on February 28-March 1. "The Word in the World" will be the conference theme.

All students are invited to visit the Center on Saturday, February 22, for an informal program. Dinner will be served at 5:30 p.m., and a Bible study and discussion period will follow.

Protestants Compare
A panel composed of student representatives of different Protestant churches will discuss their religions at the DSF supper meeting at 6 p.m. this Sunday.

The regular Thursday night suppers are being planned again and the first one is scheduled for 5 p.m. Feb. 27 in Martin Hall. The group will meet in the main lobby, go to the cafeteria for supper and have devotions following the meal.

A bowling party is planned for Friday, Feb. 28.

Catholics Elect New Officers
The Newman Club has elected Tom Whelan as their new president and his officers include Kathy Kunkel, vice president; Sara Sarels, recording secretary; Ann Midden, corresponding secretary; Pat Tauber, treasurer and Nancy Dotson, reporter.

Members are reminded that the Stations of the Cross are held every week day at 12:40 in room 101 of the Student Union Building.

AIR FORCE OFFICER HERE
Captain Gustave W. Killenny, United States Air Force Selection officer, will visit the campus February 27 and 28. He will be located just outside the Grille of the Student Union Building.

Marcus Cheney Elected President of Pulaski Co. Club
The Pulaski County Club elected Marcus Cheney President for the spring and fall semesters of 1964. Other officers elected were Ronnie Baker, vice president; Arlene Cornett, secretary; Susan Fritts, treasurer; John Silvers, student council representative; and Richard Franklin, reporter.

The club announced that meetings will be held bi-monthly every other Thursday night. The next meeting will be Feb. 27, at 6 p.m. in Room 101 of the University Building.

Learn Photography
Anyone interested in joining the Photo Club may attend the Feb. 25 meeting at 6 in the Science Building. No experience is needed and there will be many opportunities to learn. Special programs, events, and parties have been planned for the semester.

At the last meeting to the club Rev. John McGuire discussed papal infallibility.

Biology Club Hears Brenda Woody
Brenda Woody spoke to the members of the Biology Club on her seminar "Preparation of the Animal for the Hibernation State." She brought out in her talk that the "preparation of the mammal for hibernation must be influenced not only by the direct action of external factors, but also by the affect of the environment, on the behavior of animals."

The next meeting of the club which was canceled due to the Audobon Film and Lectures Series that night.

The dance in Burnam Hall after tonight's Middle Tennessee game will be sponsored by the club.

KDP Hosts Foreign Students
Kappa Delta Pi, National Education Honorary, heard four of Eastern's foreign students speak on "Education in Our Countries." Amiko Ando, Gisela Herdler, Beigin Danisman and Tawfig Chihale spoke to the group concerning education in Japan, Germany, Turkey, and Iran.

First Art Course Off Campus Ends

Thirty-five students from the Somerset area have completed the first art class taught by extension by Eastern.

And due to the continued interest another art course will be taught during the second semester. Instructor for the introductory course in oil painting was Mr. Randolph Dozier, assistant professor of art at Eastern.

Thirty students have enrolled for Art 201 — Drawing, Painting, and Composition — scheduled for Thursday nights at the Ferguson School. Mr. Dozier will also teach this class.

Interest in art in the Somerset and Pulaski County area was stimulated by an art exhibit held in 1963 in the Somerset-Pulaski County Library and at the County Fair. Mrs. John G. Frather, president of the Friends of the Somerset-Pulaski Library Association, contacted Eastern in regard to sending an art instructor from the college to give instruction for credit and non-credit.

Since the response was so great in the Somerset area, the College anticipates offering art extension courses for adults in other communities.

First semester classes were also held at the Ferguson school one night a week, and paintings by members of the class were displayed in the County Library for a week.
