THE EASTERN PROGRESS

Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School

VOLUME V.

RICHMOND, KY., FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1928.

NUMBER 20

AUDITORIUM TO BE CONTRACTED

Bids Are Submitted to Board of Regents; Plans Call for Building Sufficient for Needs

WILL SEAT 2,500 PERSONS

The new auditorium of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School, to be erected at a cost of approximately $125,000, contract for which the board of regents is expected to let Saturday, July 7, will be complete in every detail and of such adequate construction that it will be sufficient for Eastern's needs for years to come.

It will be possible to seat approximately 2,500 persons in the new auditorium, which will be erected in the rear of the new administration building, recently occupied. The auditorium will be connected with the administration building by doors directly across the corridor from the present entrance. It will be necessary to take out the present wall there.

Everything that could possibly be planned for the modern college auditorium has been arranged for the one here. The floor will slope to the stage, which is to be 112 feet from the rear of the auditorium. It is to be 75 feet wide. The stage is to be elevated and the seats arranged so that the view may be had between the shoulders of the person in front.

The main floor of the auditorium will seat approximately 1,800 persons. There are to be two spacious boxes on each side of the stage. The stage itself is a feature of the construction planned. It is to be 30 feet deep and 80 feet in width. The actual space as seen by the audience will be 40 feet in width. In front of it is the orchestra pit. Arrangements have been made for lighting effect for plays and such which will rival a city theatre.

At the left side of the stage there will be three dressing rooms on three levels, and these will be divided into three compartments, making a total of nine dressing rooms. Lavatories will be located in each of the dressing rooms. Large fire escapes are located on each side of the main floor of the auditorium.

On the second floor space has been left for a pipe organ if the officials of Eastern decide at a later date to install one. There is a covering for the first floor boxes on the second floor.

Approximately 700 persons may be seated in the balcony. There are two tiers of seats with an aisle between. Loges are located on each side of the balcony. Large fire escapes also will be erected on each side of the balcony.

The projection room from which the moving pictures will be shown is located in the rear of the balcony. Above the balcony in the roof will be three large domes with vari-colored lights.

In the basement of the new auditorium under the stage will be located three class rooms, 32 feet by 26 feet. In the center of the basement will be several large, dark rooms where various supplies may be stored. There will be a property room on the right of the stage on the main floor. In the basement also will be the fans for the system which will be used to heat the auditorium in winter and to ventilate it in summer.

The architecture of the new auditorium will be made to conform with that of the administration building already completed. The architects are C. C. and E. A. Weber, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The original plans for the auditorium were drawn in July, 1926. Since that time slight changes have been made, but the main plans are as originally drawn.

Numerous bids for the construction of the auditorium have been submitted to the regents. These will be opened Saturday morning and the board immediately will set to work to examine the bids and let the contract that day if possible.

Honor Students to Be Announced Soon

Announcement of the students of the teachers college and normal school of Eastern who will receive the scholarship awards for making the highest scholastic standings during the last semester of the college year just finished will be made next week. The Open Forum committee of Eastern sponsors the work by which awards are made.

During the first semester of the college year of 1927-28 the highest standing was made by Miss Susan Hem. Second was Miss Hazel Broadus. In the normal department the highest standing was made by Mrs. Elbert Callico. Four men were tied for second honor. They are Chester A. Cross, Ralph Powers, Charles A. Pettit and Lloyd Wilder.

E. K. TRAINING SCHOOL CLOSES

Five Are Graduated from Junior High Department; Total Enrollment Was 258

FACULTY TO TAKE WORK

The training school of the Eastern State Teachers College and Normal School last Friday completed its school year and five of its students successfully finished the work offered in the junior high school.

R. A. Edwards, superintendent of the training school, announced that during the year a total of 258 students were enrolled in the school and that this number constituted the largest enrollment in the history of the training school.

Those students who completed the junior high school are Dorothy Tyng, Virginia Parrish, Pauline McDaniel, Douglas Parrish and Harry McCord. These students will go to the city senior high school next year, Mr. Edwards stated.

According to Mr. Edwards there were 84 students in the junior high school this year. This division of the training school constitutes the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. In the future the training school will have a junior high school commencement and diplomas will be awarded. The board of regents of Eastern recently decided that diplomas would be awarded the junior high graduates beginning in 1929.

Mr. Edwards announced that numerous members of the training school faculty would study during the summer. Miss May Hansen has received a year's leave of absence, Mr. Edwards said. She will study this summer at Columbia. Misses Cora Lee, Ruby Rush and Rachel Acree also will study at Columbia. Miss Rebecca Thompson will study at Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn.

Next fall Miss Hansen's position will be filled by Miss Margaret Lingenfelter, who has been studying at Columbia this past semester and has completed her work for her master's degree. She taught the fourth grade here last fall.

Miss Germania Wingo will return next fall from a year's study to take charge of the fifth grade in the training school. Miss Mae Powell, who this year taught the fourth grade, will return to the fifth grade which she formerly taught. A successor is soon to be named for Miss Maude Taylor, who resigned to accept a position in State Teachers College at River Falls, Wisconsin. She taught the third grade here.

The staff of the training school includes nine teachers besides Mr. Edwards and occupies the entire Cammack building. Eastern officials say that it is one of the most complete training school plants in the nation. Mr. Edwards said that the school is preparing for a large year during 1928-29.

REGENT BOARD VISITS EASTERN

Special Assembly Held This Morning at Which Guests Address Student Body

INSTITUTION IS INSPECTED

Today Eastern will be host to the members of its board of regents and will honor them at a special assembly this morning at 11 o'clock in the gymnasium.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School, will introduce members of the board who will bring short words of greeting to the members of the faculty and student body.

Included on the program which has been prepared for the two day visit of the regents to Eastern, beginning today, is the chapel program, an inspection of the entire grounds, luncheon at the cafeteria and various conferences.

The assembly program which the president announced, all of the members of the faculty and the student body are expected to attend, will start at 11 o'clock with the address of Dr. Hugh McLellan, pastor of the First Christian church at Winchester, who will deliver one of the series of talks which he makes every week at Teachers College.

Dr. Donovan will introduce the regents at 11:30 o'clock and talks will be made by State Senator H. M. Brock, of Harlan; C. F. Weaver, of Ashland; Attorney General J. W. Cammack, of Owenton, and W. C. Bell, state superintendent of public instruction. J. A. Sullivan, of Richmond, the other member of the board, will be present but will not speak. R. E. Turley, of Richmond, treasurer of the board, also will be present.

Immediately after the chapel exercises and at 12:15 o'clock the regents will inspect the new cafeteria and kitchen in Burnam Hall. At 12:45 o'clock the regents will have luncheon at the Home Economics building. It will be served by the students in the home economics department.

A general inspection of the buildings and grounds of the Teachers College will be made in the afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. A short meeting of the board will start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to take up routine matters before the board.

Most important among the business which will come before the regents at the Saturday meeting will be the letting of the contract for the erection of the new auditorium as an annex to the new administration building. The bids will be opened Saturday morning and the contract will probably be let by the board that day.

Dr. Donovan announced that the visit of the board was being made on Friday in order that the regents may see the summer session in progress, since this was not possible on Saturday. He said that he expects all of the members of the staff and the student body to be present. Special places will be reserved for the faculty and the students.

Mrs. Hume to Teach Settlement Schools

Mrs. S. B. Hume, teacher of hand-work and industrial arts at the Teachers College, will spend the last six weeks of the summer session traveling to mountain schools, it was announced by Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern.

Mrs. Hume will visit various foundation schools in the eastern part of Kentucky as well as the county schools. She expects to travel through every section of the mountains before returning to Richmond.

Close of Normal School Is Today

Examinations are in progress today in the normal department of Eastern and preparations are being made for the start of the second summer term for that department Saturday. W. C. Jones, acting principal of the normal school, announced that registration would be held Saturday, July 7, from 8 o'clock in the morning until noon.

All of the students in the normal school who expected to remain for the second summer term are urged to register Saturday morning. There will also be a matriculation day Monday morning, but officials hope that this may be kept clear for new students who will be arriving for the second term. The second term also will be of five weeks with classes on Saturdays.

DENNISTON IS GIVEN HONOR

Awarded Noyes Scholarship by Bradley Polytechnic Institute; Given Leave of Absence

WAR SERVICE RECOGNIZED

N. G. Denniston, head of the department of manual training and industrial arts, has been granted a leave of absence for the school year of 1928-29 in order that he may accept one of the La Verne Noyes scholarships for research work at Bradley Polytechnic Institute at Peoria, Ill. Mr. Denniston will begin his work there in the fall.

Annually twenty of these scholarships are awarded in various sections of the United States to men who served in the World War, who are willing to do research work and who have a scholarship record of A in the institution in which they studied.

Mr. Denniston was selected from a section which includes several states, among which are Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina and West Virginia. He will do research work at Bradley Polytechnic Institute all of next year, but will return to Richmond for the summer session of 1929.

There are five divisions of industrial work to be studied and in which research work is to be done by the La Verne Noyes scholarship men. Mr. Denniston will take up either factory recreation or junior high school industrial work, the exact one to be assigned later.

Mr. Denniston said that his place would be filled next year by Herbert T. Higgins, originally of Science Hill, Pulaski county, who last year was city supervisor and director of vocational work at Pensacola, Fla. This summer he is studying for his masters' degree at the University of Kentucky where he obtained his bachelor's degree. Mr. Higgins is a graduate of the life certificate course at Eastern of the class of 1922. He has taught both at Ashland and Anchorage in Kentucky.

Mr. Denniston is a graduate of Valparaiso University, of Indiana. He also has attended the University of Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Stout Institute of Menomonie, Wis., and Bradley Polytechnic Institute. He attended Bradley previously during the summer of 1926.

During the World War Mr. Denniston was a junior lieutenant in naval aviation. He served 29 months, beginning March 17, 1927, during which he crossed the Atlantic four times, doing duty in an observation balloon from a destroyer. He came to Eastern soon after his return from the service.

The donor of the scholarship which Mr. Denniston will receive is La Verne Noyes, prominent capitalist. During his stay at Bradley Mr. Denniston will work at the institution four days a week and during the other two days will visit various factories in the vicinity of Peoria, Ill.

EASTERN HEARS NOTED WOMAN

Miss Laura Clay Speaks at Eastern Chapel on "History in the Making"

WAS SUFFRAGE LEADER

A transition in the recording of history in which the modern historians look to the conditions of the masses instead of the battles, dynasties and court intrigues was described Thursday in the Eastern chapel address of Miss Laura Clay, of Richmond, on "History in the Making." Miss Clay was introduced by Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the Teachers College.

History was made with the passage of the 18th and 19th amendments to the United States constitution, Miss Clay said. She spoke but briefly of prohibition, stating that more time must be had to judge its success.

The success of woman's suffrage, she said, depended upon the women in the exercising of the vote which has been given them. All that is wanted by the scheming politicians is that the better element of the community stay away from the polls. It is up to the women to vote and assist in bettering the government. No true American woman would stay away from the polls, once she was informed as to what was at stake. She pleaded for education as to the duties of the voters.

Not only must the women vote, but the men as well. Law making requires personal attention and such duty must not be shirked. The men of the world are on trial as to their governments as well as the women, she said, pointing out that the parliamentary governments are tottering in Italy, Spain, Portugal and Poland.

History deals more today with the condition of the masses, inventions and progress in the sciences than ever before, Miss Clay said. Really important historical events are crowding into this generation that the history of a lifetime today would equal a thousand years not many generations ago.

Today the newspapers are the teachers, Miss Clay told the students. The speaker asserted that the World War was a new starting point for the United States in world relations. It was then that this country emerged a world power. It was thought, she said, that the United States lacked seriously in the fine arts and sciences, but she pointed out that our dual government has been cited as a science in itself and was the best safeguard of individual rights and the best check on the ruling class.

The French say, after one of their commissions visited this country, that only 8 per cent of the trade in the United States is foreign and, but 28 per cent of that with European countries, according to Miss Clay. This, she said, is a tribute to the free trade policy between the states of this country.

History is abounding on all hands, Miss Clay said. We have grown up with the radio, noted the development of the airplane and the moving picture and seen the liberation of the intelligence of woman, said Miss Clay.

Miss Clay, who was one of the pioneer leaders in the woman's suffrage movement, which culminated in the 19th amendment to the constitution, described its growth. It was the liberating of the intelligence of woman. Woman was in need of suffrage, she said, because the industrial woman had been taken from the home which she had always worked and was forced to labor in the factories.

In the home she had been able to control the conditions under which she worked but with the change of her position in work she was forced to have suffrage, Miss Clay said.

BASKET BALL STARS WILL ENROLL HERE

Members of Carr Creek Wonder Five Plan To Attend Eastern College Next Fall

COURT GAME IS FIRST LOVE

CARR CREEK P. O., Ky.—Do you remember that most amazing epic in basketball circles last April when that wiry quintet of Kentucky boys shot like a meteor into the world of sports from the deeply wooded mountains of Knott county, astounded the blue grass section of the state and set the same world afire at the national interscholastic tournament at Chicago?

Do you remember how they came, unknown, unheralded and timidly without proper garb to try for a place in class B of the seventh regional high school group and how they captured Richmond and Lexington and Chicago and all the sporting world with their brilliant and unequalled skill at the game?

Pitted against the best equipped and best trained high school teams of the whole nation, these boys who had no gymnasium, no indoor court, no suits, unassuming but proud and confident, Carr Creek sprang almost overnight into the limelight of national sports and won for themselves and their little community school, tucked away in the forest alongside Carr Fork, a name and fame that will savor pleasantly a long time in the hearts of sport lovers who admire pluck and grit and ability.

They played eighteen games in the tournaments, those five gritty lads, never used a substitute, never called time out and never a player was put out on fouls. "By a nose they missed the Kentucky state championship, losing to Ashland's brilliant team only after four extra periods by a score of 13 to 11 and they won three games out of four in the international at Chicago against state champions who were equipped at home with the best coaching and outfits that money could buy.

They say they are going to do better next time. They state confidently they will win the international championship. They are now pooling their money, little sums earned this summer at the community school and in the coal mines to buy Shelby Stamper's older brother out of the army so he can take the place of Ben Adams, their star center, who graduated this year and will be out of it. They claim Shelby's brother is better than Shelby himself in face of the fact that Shelby Stamper's brilliant and phenomenal play at the international won for him a place on the all-American.

You don't go to Carr Creek where the little shavers live and have their being in a Packard, or in a Tin Lizzie, either. You do well enough if you can "back" one of the sure-footed mules of Knott county, where they dig coal for a living (sometimes), and hang on while he scrambles over the steep mountains, up and down, and along the slippery paths and up the rocky uncertain bottom of Carr Fork for more than ten miles from Vieco, "at the end of the line," the nearest railroad station over on the edge of Perry county.

When winter comes up here those of the Carr Creek Community Center stay close to shore and travel only when they have to. The mail carrier goes back-and forth every day, some days, but he gets paid for it. Even Shelby Stamper, Zeldia Hale, premier guard, Gillis Madden, almost perfect forward, and Will Hale, sixth man and as good as they make 'em, who never got a chance to play at any of the tourneys because the Big Five of his school wouldn't give out, live at the Community Center in winter, though their homes are all within a few miles—as the crow flies.

The store and postoffice down the creek a mile from the Carr Creek Community Center, with its eight rudely constructed buildings, was known in the governmental postal guide last April as Dirk. Not now, however. Not since those midget mountain marvels startled the nation and put eastern Kentucky on the sport map of the United States. This is Carr Creek Post Office, if you please, and Dirk is no more.

One bright June day just past I rode up the creek on a mule that knew his business and found what I was looking for—the boys and the place whence came the most unusual and spectacular basketball team the country has ever known. There was Gillis Madden and Zeldia Hale and Will Hale in rough workaday clothes hard at it with several community boys, one about ten years old and one something over sixty, ducking, bouncing and tossing the ball over the same hardpan, scuffed-over court with all the zest and enthusiasm they displayed at Chicago. I learned later that the five of the regular team played nearly every Sunday at Vieco with any scrub team they could get together.

All of the volunteer players balked at the camera except Madden and the Hale boys. They had been "out" and were not shy of strangers and picture boxes, but the game stopped, pronto. Besides, it gets mighty hot about that time of day in June on Carr and they were going to quit for the day, anyhow. Then the "veterans" posed for pictures to show how they shot the ball into the basket with such accuracy.

Alongside a stock barn where they learned to play such a phenomenal game of basketball.

It was the noon hour and they were seeing to it that no grass or weeds should be allowed to grow on the outdoor court. Incidentally, they were keeping in practice, but they love the game anyway. Gillis Madden, 18, who put 'em across with such accuracy at Chicago, was leading the van with Zeldia Hale, 20, and Will Hale, 18, sixth man at the state and national tourneys, whooping 'em up.

Gillis Madden is a carpenter of parts and is working on the new dormitory for boys at the center across the creek from the basketball court.

Zeldia Hale is working in the manual training department of the little school and is making needed equipment for class rooms. He says he is going to study civil engineering. He likes mathematics and is proficient. He expects to do preparatory work at Eastern Teachers College in Richmond, Ky., where Carr Creek made its first phenomenal record at basketball.

Will Hale, Zeldia's younger brother, is doing odd jobs at repair work around the school and he, also, wants to study civil engineering and attend Eastern Teachers College.

Shelby Stamper, all-American, is living at home a few miles from the center and works all day in a coal mine two miles over the mountains. He walks back a full mile under the mountain thru a level shaft before he gets to the work place. He will be a junior in the community high school this year and has a chance to put in two more years at basketball.

Ben Adams, 20, and the "Ole Man" of the quintet, who played center all thru the struggles up to victory and fame, graduated this year and will not play with Carr Creek again. His father and mother are both dead and he is living with the Stampers and working in the coal mine with Shelby. He says he wants to be a school teacher and coach basketball in his native county of Knott. He also may attend Eastern Teachers College.

Guerny Adams, 18, Ben's young brother, is working on a Knott county farm way over on the other side of the county this summer. He put up a great game as guard thru all eighteen of the games played in the tourneys and will be at the center this fall for some more of it.

Beside the good wishes and admiration of the sporting world, Carr Creek's gallant little warriors brought back to the Community Center $2,000 that was given them with which to build a gymnasium. The school can give them no help. Knott county is a pauper county and the citizens are hard put to it to make both ends meet and can only contribute a little at a time to the upkeep of the school itself. But the $2,000 donation belongs to the boys themselves and they are going to start building as soon as the new dormitory is finished.

Miss Marcus Creekmore was in Rockhold a part of last week.

KEITH GOING AWAY

C. A. Keith, head of the history department of Eastern, will not be in Richmond during the second summer term, but will go to Washington, D. C., where he will spend that time studying in the Library of Congress.

Last year Mr. Keith completed his work for his Ph. D. degree at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind., and this summer will complete his work on his thesis.

Mr. Keith is writing "The Life of John J. Crittenden," and the Library of Congress is the only place in the nation which records the public life of John J. Crittenden may be found.

Burroughs—Did you fill your date last night?

Roy—I hope so. She ate everything in sight.

Improvements to be Made on the Campus

Countless improvements to buildings on the campus will be made before the opening of the fall semester at the Eastern State Teachers College and Normal School, it was said yesterday by G. M. Brock, business agent.

Although the board of regents will pass finally on a few matters of repair today and tomorrow, arrangements have already been completed for numerous repairs.

The entire interior of Sullivan Hall is to be repainted. Also the entire north wing of Burnam Hall, that part built several years ago, will be replastered. The drive way through the campus is to be repaired and possibly rebuilt, Mr. Brock said. Extensive repairs will be made to the roof of Memorial Hall, men's dormitory. Mr. Brock said that some repair would be made to each building on the campus during the summer.

In the recreation room in the main part of Burnam Hall, completed less than a year ago, will be placed folding steel tables and chairs and the place will be adequately equipped to carry out its function, Mr. Brock said.

Training School in Play Presentation

The final day in the junior high department of the training school was featured last Friday by the presentation of the play, "The Knave of Hearts," by members of the Eighth A English class.

A small admission was charged and the proceeds given over to the fund with which the training school plans to equip a children's room in the new Pattie A. Clay Infirmary in Richmond.

All of the junior high school and members of the Eastern student body who have been taking practice teaching in the training school were present at the production of the play, which is a version of the poem, "The Queen of Hearts," who made some tarts on a summer's day.

Miss Cora Lee, a teacher in the training school, and Miss Edna Cram, a practice teacher, directed the production. They were assisted by members of the play coaching class taught by Miss Pearl Buchanan.

The members of the cast were dressed in court costumes decorated with hearts.

The cast is as follows:

TEACHERS TO REMAIN

J. W. Bradner, superintendent of city schools of Middlesboro, and Paul Boyd, superintendent of Carrollton schools, who have been members of the staff of the Teachers College during the first summer term, will also teach during the second term, it was announced yesterday by H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern.

Both the superintendents are instructors in the department of education at Eastern and both have been teaching here for the past few summer sessions.

MISS HANSEN LEAVES

Miss May C. Hansen, teacher in the training school, left Richmond Tuesday for New York City, where she will attend the summer session of Teachers College, Columbia University. Miss Hansen has been a member of the staff of the Teachers College for 16 years and through-out that period has been a teacher of the primary grades in the training school.

Upon her arrival in New York City Miss Hansen will be with Miss Van Greenleaf, formerly of Richmond and a former member of the Eastern faculty, who also attended the summer session at Columbia.

Miss Hansen's home is at Green Bay, Wis., where she will visit at the end of the summer session at Columbia. Before going to her home, however, she will take a short trip through New England. Miss Hansen will not return to Richmond in the fall and as yet has not decided whether she will study.

Prospects Are Good for Second Session

Prospects are good for an excellent second summer session, starting July 16 for college students and July 9 for normal students, it was announced yesterday by G. M. Brock, business agent of the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School.

Mr. Brock said that applications were being received daily from prospective students for rooms in the campus dormitories. Arrangements for all of the extra curricula activities have been completed and an attractive program of pleasure features has been arranged, Mr. Brock said.

Numerous applications also are being received from high school graduates from all sections of the eastern part of the state for rooms for the fall semester. Every week brings numerous students to the campus to inspect the institution.

Play Coaching Class Attends Chautauqua

Members of the play coaching class of Eastern, with Miss Pearl Buchanan, director of the class and expression teacher, attended the plays given at the Redpath Chautauqua in specially reserved sections.

The class with Miss Buchanan went behind the stage after the production of "The Cotter's Saturday Night" and Miss Mary MacMahon, a member of the cast, demonstrated how to perfect a make-up and gave a short talk on preparing for a production. Other members of the cast also showed the class various things regarding the production.

Similar attendances were made by the class when the popular comedy, "Tommy", and "The Shepherd of the Hills" were presented.

Miss Buchanan said that the class profited much from the visits to the Chautauqua plays since the students were brought in actual touch with high class productions and received vivid impressions of various intricate details associated with a stage production.

Various members of the Little Theatre Club at Eastern also attended the plays. Miss Buchanan is director of the Little Theatre Club, which has successfully plays in Richmond for several seasons past.

Faculty Members are Popular as Speakers

A. B. Carter, manager of the Eastern at Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College and Normal School, spoke Friday to the teachers of Montgomery county on health education and various phases of health as associated with the schools. He spoke last Saturday to the teachers of Nelson county at Bardstown. The meeting of the Montgomery county teachers was held at Mt. Sterling.

Meredith Cox, head of the Chemistry department, this week will visit Paintsville and Prestonburg, speaking to conferences of teachers.

Various members of the Eastern faculty are in the field, addressing county groups of teachers. Increasing demands are being made upon the officials of Eastern to furnish members of the staff for speaking engagements.

CHAPEL GIVEN TO HEALTH DAY

Blue Ribbons Awarded to 55 Who Have Physical Defects Corrected

ATHLETIC BADGES GIVEN

Health Day for the training school of Eastern was observed at the chapel exercises last Friday at which numerous awards were made to various students of the training school.

To 55 students blue ribbons were given, these children being those who during the past year had corrected all physical defects and had been vaccinated for smallpox or received the toxin-antitoxin treatment of they were under 10 years of age.

The ribbons and health certificates were presented by R. A. Edwards, superintendent of the training school. These children complied with the standards set up by the state board of health.

Ten boys were awarded athletic badges, having previously successfully met the standards set up for boys of their ages by the American Playground and Recreational Association. They are Warfield Bennett, Henry Baugh, Thomas Fox, Cyrus Fox, Richard Dunn, Harry McCord, Kermit Cornelison, Donald Dorris, Daniel Miles and Eugene Tipton.

Mildred Abrams and Dan Denney were awarded certificates and badges for excelling the athletic events enumerated by the playground association. Also a certificate was awarded the fifth grade as the prize room.

The children who received the awards for correcting their defects are as follows:

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

Students at Eastern who plan to teach in Madison county will be interested in the announcement by Miss Lelia Jane Harris, superintendent of schools of Madison county, that the last teachers' examination of the year will be held Thursday and Friday, July 12 and 13. She also announced that the rural teachers' conference of the county will be held July 18 and 19, at which time prominent educators of the state will make addresses. The rural schools will begin July 23, she said.

NEWTON-FIELDS

Miss Willie Sue Newton and Prof. David S. Fields, instructor in summer school at Teachers College, were married Wednesday, July 4, at 10 a. m. in the study of the First Baptist church, the Rev. Clyde Breland officiating.

Miss Alberta Newton, sister of the bride, and Miss Lenora Murdock, both of whom are students at Teachers College, were present for the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Fields were teaching in the graded school at Jenkins, Ky., when the happy romance began. At the beginning of the fall term they will reside at Grayson, Ky., where they will be engaged in school work.

Chautauqua to Be Brought Back in '29

The Redpath Chautauqua which completed its stay of a week on the Eastern campus Tuesday, will return to Richmond next summer during the first summer term, it has been announced.

Richmond's Exchange Club, which for the past two years has guaranteed the Chautauqua, agreed at its meeting Monday night at the Glyndon hotel to sponsor the Chautauqua for another year.

Mr. A. B. Thomas, superintendent of the Redpath organization in Richmond, made a short talk to the Exchange Club on various phases of the Chautauqua work, which was received with much enthusiasm by the club members.

The club members by unanimous vote instructed Bennett Farris, president of the club, to contract with the Redpath Chautauqua for its return to Richmond during the summer of 1929.

A total of 1,096 students purchased season tickets for the Chautauqua, it was announced yesterday by G. M. Brock, business agent of Teachers College. This is close to the total enrollment of the Teachers College and Normal School.

The closing program of the Chautauqua was presented Tuesday night before a capacity tent. A capable cast gave "The Shepherd of the Hills," favorite of the stage for many seasons. The play, a drama of the Ozark Hills, is based on the popular novel by Harold Bell Wright. It was excellently given and the stage settings were very effective. It was the old shepherd of the hills and the stranger from the city who sought the real things of life in the mountain fastness, who encouraged the characters when they were faced with stirring trials.

Other plays which were received well were the popular comedy, "Tommy," and "The Cotter's Saturday Night." Numerous lectures were given during the week. One in which especial interest was taken was by Mrs. Onna Dickie Olesen on "What Does Europe Think of Us?"

Throughout the week that the Redpath organization was in Richmond, various musical programs were presented with much success.

TO THE STARS AND STRIPES

By Alice Hatcher

Oh radiant Stars, oh gleaming Stripes
We have in you our liberty, our rights
And should offenses come our way
We'd fight for you without delay.

We'd give our very lives for you,
There's nothing that we'd fail to do;
And whether you're waving near or far

We honor you where e'er you are.

In war your rival can't be found;
You were never known to be hauled down,

For with you waving o'er the fight
Men fight the foe with all their might.

And when at last the battle's o'er
You look still brighter than before;
You still are floating in the air
O'er towns and villages everywhere.

Today we see you soaring high;
Still waving as the years roll by.
God grant that you may forever wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

When a Chinaman is puzzled he scratches his foot instead of his head. That seems a strange thing to do, but after all, one operation is quite as likely to be as helpful as the other.

"Do you really think that there is danger in kissing?"

"Wait. I'll sneak upstairs and find out if dad is really asleep."

WORK IN RURAL CLUBS PLANNED

Miss Anna Schnieb to Visit Schools in Garrard, Madison and Other Counties

OFFICIALS SPONSOR PLAN

In furtherance of the plan of Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of Eastern State Teachers College and Normal School, to carry Eastern to the communities which it serves in preparing teachers, numerous members of the faculty will work in various counties during the summer. Miss Anna Schnieb, teacher in the education department, will do extensive work of this kind.

During the week beginning July 30 Miss Schnieb will return to Garrard county where she did extensive work in the county schools last year. She also will do work in the schools of Madison county similar to that which she did last year. She will be at various conferences and in various counties during the entire five weeks of the second summer term, beginning July 16.

In Garrard county Miss Schnieb is expected to do much the same type of work that she did last year. She visited all of the schools in the county, taught one or two classes to become acquainted with the teachers and students and organized various clubs to better either the school or the school child. She did similar work in Madison county.

Both of these projects were culminated with a convention of representatives of the school children of those counties which brought them to Eastern to discuss the work done and to plan for future work. The teachers of the counties met here at the same time.

It is the plan of Dr. Donovan to have the members of the Eastern faculty do as much of this work as possible in order that the communities may feel that Eastern is ready to serve them and to show the type of training and instruction that may be obtained in Richmond.

In each of the clubs organized in schools of Garrard and Fayette counties there were eight student committees to guide the work of the club. Such clubs were formed as Good Citizenship Club, Audubon Club, Daily Improvement Club, and "Keep Klean Klub." The committees were: Program, social, publicity, health, library, study attendance and buildings and grounds.

Miss Maude Taylor To Leave Eastern

Miss Maude Taylor, of Paris, who for the past year has been a teacher in the training school, has just resigned her position at Eastern to accept a similar place in State Teachers College at River Falls, Wisconsin. Miss Taylor will begin her work in Wisconsin in September.

Besides teaching in the training school here Miss Taylor was a member of the staff of the Paris city schools and numerous other school systems. She was graduated from Kentucky Wesleyan College at Winchester with the degree of bachelor of arts.

While she was in the training school staff Miss Taylor had charge of the third grade. She has resigned to have charge of the same grade at the training school of the State Teachers College at River Falls, Wis. She was only at Eastern one year.

Ramsey—None of the girls seem satisfied with the male they get.

DR. COOPER BACK

Dr. Homer E. Cooper, dean of the Eastern State Teachers College, returned Thursday from a short trip to Harrisville, West Virginia. He was accompanied by his wife and children. His wife, Dr. Clara C. Cooper, will study this summer at Columbia University, New York City.

GO TO SUMMER SCHOOL

W. F. O'Donnel, superintendent of Richmond city schools, and A. L. Lassiter, Madison high school principal and coach of the athletic teams, will leave tomorrow morning for New York City where they will attend the summer session of Columbia University. They expect to return the latter part of August.
