Lyndon B. Johnson To Address Graduating Class Of '61

V. I. C. IS HAILED AS TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

The eighth annual Vocational Information Conference began Tuesday morning at 10:10 a.m. with eighteen noted professional persons speaking in thirteen areas.

The conference, arranged solely by the student executive committee with Mrs. Emma Y. Case, dean of Women, as director, provided up-to-date vocational information for the student body. It was also held Wednesday and Thursday.

Six areas were discussed at the morning session, including mathematics and engineering, biology, foreign language, the church and related vocations, industrial arts, and radio, television, and dramatic arts.

Dr. R. E. Shaver, dean of the College of Engineering at the University of Kentucky, told the students at the engineering session that there is no limit to opportunity in the field of engineering, providing one is a good engineer.

He stressed the importance of a good general education, including mastery of not only mathematics and the physical sciences, but English, as well.

"One of the ways we can judge the success of a good engineer is his ability to read and write," he said.

Shaver told the group that the demand for engineers in Kentucky is increasing, especially civil engineers.

Dr. W. H. Spragens, associate professor of mathematics at the University of Louisville, said that mathematics is now a profession, and is not limited to teaching, statistical, or insurance work. "There are mathematicians in business, industry, and government, as well as hundreds of other areas," he said.

He said that out of the 20,000 people who could be called mathematicians 3,000 had a Ph. D. degree, while the others had either a master's or bachelor's degree.

Dr. J. Eduardo Hernandez, professor of Spanish at the University of Kentucky, told the Vocational Conference section on foreign languages that a knowledge of foreign languages is more vital to the survival of our nation than physics or chemistry. "Language is the key to maintaining the United States' position of leadership in the world today," he said.

Reverend Donald Herren, pastor of the Southern Hills Methodist Church, Lexington, speaking on "Careers in the Church and Related Vocations," warned students not to become dogmatic in their thinking. He also said that there was some concern about the caliber of people entering the field of ministry. "Some people turn to the ministry," he said, "because they aren't interested or capable of entering any other field."

Speaking before the section on industrial arts, Dr. C. Nelson Grote, chairman of the division of applied arts at Morehead State College, and Melbourne Mills, of Watkins, Burrows, and Mills of Lexington, praised Kentucky's industrial arts education program and Eastern's program, in particular, as outstanding in the field. "Industry is not a dormant field," said Dr. Grote. "It is all around us," he added.

At the afternoon sessions, areas under discussion were medicine and dentistry, law, social work, library work, home economics, salesmanship and public relations, and nursing.

Moberly Elected Head Of K.B.E.A.

Miss Margaret Moberly, of the Eastern commerce faculty, was elected vice-president of the Kentucky Business Education Association last week during the annual meeting of the Kentucky Education Association in the Sheraton Hotel.

She will take office July 1st and has served as a member of the executive board of the K.B.E.A.

Mrs. Ethel M. Plock, business-education co-ordinator at Ahrens Trade High School, was elected president at the meeting. Other new officers of the K.B.E.A. affiliate group are Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Moore, Lafayette High School, secretary, and Mrs. Glen Stillman, Oldham County High School, treasurer.

Another Eastern faculty member, Mrs. Mabel Jennings, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Kentucky Association for Student Teaching during the K.E.A. meeting in Louisville.

Eastern Hosts Alumni Dinner

Eastern President Robert R. Martin told more than 200 alumni representing Kentucky's six institutions of higher learning that enrollment in colleges and universities will be more than doubled by 1970, as he spoke at the Joint Alumni Council-sponsored dinner Thursday night at Eastern.

"To provide an adequate staff," he said, "one-half million college teachers must be trained during the 1960's. This will mean that in this nation, we need to more than double the number of teachers trained at the doctor's degree level in the next ten years."

Speaking on the subject, "Higher Education Faces the Challenge of the 60's," Dr. Martin said that "even if we had begun to plan and build at the highest speed 15 years ago, we still would not be ready for these increased

Wesley Elects Officers

Officers were elected at the Wesley Foundation meeting April 10. The incoming officers are: Hugh Bradford, President; Barbara Edwards and Mary Jo LaFuze, Co-Vice Presidents; Carolyn Haag, Secretary; Tommy Nichols, World Christian Community; Barbara Reeser and Allen Hammon, Social Chairman; Ethel Shields and Gary Tatum, Publicity Chairmen; Henrietta and Marietta Scalf, Music Chairmen; Susan Stout and Bill Holbrook, Membership Chairmen; and Julia Cios and Jean Ann Shultz, Focus Editors.

The Spring Conference will be held April 21, 22, and 23 at Union College in Barbourville. All those interested in attending please see Tommy Nichols, Jean McConnell or Nelle Bonney, or come to the Wesley meeting Monday at 5:00 p.m. in the Blue Room of the cafeteria.

O'DONNELL SPEAKS

300 ATTEND K. E. A. BREAKFAST

Last week during the yearly K. E. A. program, Eastern alumni gave a breakfast. The breakfast was one of the largest ever given by the Alumni Association. There was an attendance of 300.

Dr. Herman Donovan, president emeritus of Eastern, was asked to be guest speaker. Unfortunately he was unable to make the address because of ill health. However, he was presented and greeted by the breakfast guests.

Dr. Gene Farley, president of the alumni and superintendent of Glasgow schools, gave greeting to the guests and then proceeded to make announcements concerning coming events for this year.

Guest speakers were Dr. Martin and Dr. O'Donnell president emeritus of Eastern. Dr. O'Donnell made a short talk which highlighted the dinner. "It was one of the finest speeches that I have heard Pres. O'Donnell make," said Mary Francis Richards, instructor of geography at Eastern. After the breakfast there was a time for a reunion of old alumni. Educators from all sections of the state were able to again return to the standards of their Alma Mater.

MATH CLUB

Ten Are Initiated; Picnic Planned

In the last month the Mathematics Club has initiated ten new members: Raymond Scarton, Sally Johnson, Charles Hensley, Roberta Wilkerson, Ernest Agee, Larry Cole, Judy Driskill, Beverly Gillis, Norma Benton, and John Rankin.

Math students have varying interests. One senior member, John Anderson, has made a hobby of studying anthropology. He entertained the club at its last meeting with a talk, "The Epic of Man," in which he brought out both the biological and cultural development of man.

COME AND GET 'EM!
Several freshman and sophomore Milestone pictures are still on sale at the Public Office in the Administration Building. Any person in these classifications may still purchase pictures at that office. They are priced at 50 cents per envelope. Each envelope contains from three to six pictures.

Frosh Sponsor Dance Tonight In Rec. Room

The freshman class is sponsoring a "Beatnik Dance" on Friday night, April 14, from 9-12 p.m. in the grill of the Student Union Building.

Nicky Zane, a student at Eastern, will have his band on hand to furnish the music for the evening's festivities. Students may come in a very informal manner. Girls will be permitted to wear Bermuda shorts.

Admission to the dance will be 50 cents drag, and 75 cents stag. Cokes will be served by the class.

The freshman class with Ronnie Elliott, their president, and their sponsors, Miss Willie Moss and Dr. John Rowlett, are sponsoring the dance to help finance the various class activities such as the beach party which is being planned for sometime later in the semester.

Graduation Date Moved To June 1st

Vice-president of the United States Lyndon B. Johnson has accepted an invitation to deliver the commencement address at Eastern

Lyndon B. Johnson

Kentucky State College Thursday, June 1. The former senator, a resident of Johnson City, Texas, will announce the subject of his address at a later date.

A graduate of Southwest State Teachers College in San Marcos, Texas, he received a B. S. in 1930, and later attended Georgetown Law School. Johnson began career by two years of teaching in the Houston (Texas) public schools. His first political position was his election in 1937 to the 75th United States Congress to fill the unexpired term of James P. Buchanan. He was re-elected to the House in 1939, and became a United States Senator from Texas in 1940.

Before being elected Vice-president in 1960, his career in the Senate found him minority leader for the 83rd Congress and twice majority leader in following years. He served as a commander in the United States Navy Reserves and assumed active duty in 1941-42.

The Commencement at the college was originally scheduled for May 31 but was changed in order to permit the appearance of Vice-president Johnson. Although plans for his arrival have not been announced, it is known that immediately following commencement exercises in the Hiram Brock Auditorium, Vice-president Johnson will help break ground for a new $1.8 million physical education and athletic plant. The ceremony will be held at the site of the new plant on a portion of the college farm just off the main campus.

Lunger Addresses Assembly In Kick Off Speech Of Vocational Conference Here

"Your vocation is by choice or chance. Will you be content or restless and looking for a change? There is no way of knowing," remarked Dr. Irving Lunger, president of Transylvania College, to the student body in Wednesday's assembly. His address was the kickoff speech for the three-day Vocational Conference held this week.

Following music supplied by Mr. Henrickson and Mr. Baker, Dr. Lunger addressed the assembly on "Choosing a Vocation."

Dr. Lunger stressed the importance of a broad, round liberal-arts education in order to discover one's best interests and abilities and to fully comprehend the society in which we live.

"You may become competent with other education, but to taste life fully, one needs a liberal arts education. Literature, poetry, art, history, biological sciences, economics, and sociology, you need this background if you are to live happily."

Knowing oneself is a necessity in order to wisely choose one's vocation. He commented, "You must know yourself... your interests, strengths, and weaknesses. No one can take you off your hands. Ask yourself, what do I want out of a career?" Here again, he remarked, a good liberal-arts education was valuable. He emphasized that students should take advantage of the opportunities offered them to obtain career information through the conference. "This is not a three-day smorgasbord," he said.

Cautioning students to choose wisely, he said, "This whole idea of a vocation requires faith, hope, and self-discipline. Faith in yourself, in other persons, in society, and in progress. This faith supports the hope that will generate self-discipline in knowing yourself... Ten years from now, where will you be? What will you be doing?"

Dr. Lewis Publishes Article on Disraeli

Dr. Clyde H. Lewis, Professor of History at Eastern, recently had published an article on Benjamin Disraeli, one time prime minister of England under Queen Victoria.

The article appeared in the March issue of Victorian Studies, The magazine, a publication of Indiana University, has a consulting board in England.

Victorian Studies is available at the Library or extra copies may be obtained from Dr. Lewis who has had the article reprinted. This is the second article that Dr. Lewis an English scholar, has had printed in the last two years.

STUDENT OF THE WEEK

Active P. E. Major Maintains Strong Academic Standing

Jocelyn Ferguson, an attractive, brown-eyed senior from Manchester, Kentucky, plans to enter the teaching profession in her home state. Her chosen field is health and physical education and if the calibre of her teaching is comparable to her work as a student, it is certain she will make an excellent instructor.

HIGH HONOR THAT VICE PRESIDENT TO BE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

That Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is to make the commencement address at Eastern Kentucky State College is an exhilarating bit of news. It is a high distinction indeed that this great American has accepted the invitation of President Robert Martin to be our commencement speaker.

Richmond, all Madison county, will be honored by the presence of one of the foremost statesmen of the world. There is not an institution of higher learning in the nation that would not be glad to be honored as is Eastern in having the Vice President on its campus in the chief role at its commencement ceremonies. We are quite elated about it and congratulate President Martin upon this happy development.

—Richmond Daily Register

COLLEGE ANATHEMA

American educators have been debating for some time now why Johnny can't read. However, has anyone wondered why Joe College can't express himself. All of us own dictionaries with over a hundred thousand words in them. Yet how many of these words are familiar to us? A small percent—and even a smaller percent that we use.

If a person were to accost you with the statement, "Sesquipedalians are not de regueur for a superminent lexicon", what would you think? For many of us, this would seem comparative to hieroglyphics.

This is an extreme in the use of words but there are so many useful words that would add to our vocabulary. These words are important for each word gives us a means to communicate a new idea or thought. Think of the many things that we just can't find the words to say. If one picks up a dictionary, it is easy to realize that it is a personal lacking and not something that has been overlooked.

As college students, it is a greater demand for us to expand our aggregate of words. When we do not increase our word use, we are frustrating our minds and ourselves for we are limiting our mind from expressing itself. Our minds store ideas by using words or phrases. It is as if we collect music on records; our minds collect ideas by storing words.

So, if we are to use our language, our minds let us start adding new antonyms, cognates, heteronyms, homonyms, homophones, paronyms, and synonyms. The next time, pick up a dictionary and read it instead of a detective story. If we learn to express ourselves we will be able to think big.

The Case of the Hockey Stick Murder (A "Solve It Yourself Mystery")

Worried by anonymous notes and telephone calls threatening his life, Percy (The Iron) Snickerman, the great "tennis enthusiast" (not athletic supporter) and manufacturer of sports equipment, entered his friend Charlie Chump, the great detective in disguise, into the case. Chump arrived quickly with electronic equipment and used up the doors of the sportsman's large mansion to prevent anyone from entering or leaving. Early the next morning, in spite of this precaution, the household was awakened by a spine-chilling scream of agony (the maid). (T-o-u-c-h-e). The upstairs hall was quickly filled with guests awakened by the scream. They discovered the maid seated cross-legged on the floor, cradling a small machine gun in her lap and sobbing hysterically. "Somebody got to him first! Somebody got to him first!"

In front of her was the closed door of the sportsman's room with a telltale puddle of blood oozing under it. After pushing the door open against the opposing force of the body wedged against it, they found the lifeless body of the infamous sportsman and nearby, the bloody hockey stick that had been so instrumental in bringing about his death.

After the arrival of the police, Charlie Chump, being a famous detective, naturally took over the investigation of the murder. First he called the suspects into the murder room. The chief suspects were Ernie Bardot, the sportsman's plavboh nenhew who was in line to inherit the Snickerman fortunes; Adolph Hershey, Snickerman's business partner who would get the sporting goods company in the event of his death; Alice Snickerman, his estranged wife who was visiting for the weekend to get some much needed rest and bleed for a divorce; Manners Stinkweed, the butler who was really Joseph Snickerman the disinherited son, and Agony Stinkweed, the maid, who really wasn't the butler's wife.

To make the murderer reveal his identity, he seated the suspects in a circle and had them play parlor games. The main game was called Motive and Alibi (it was invented specially for the occasion). Everyone wrote an essay of 1,500 words or less on the topic: "I didn't want him dead and if I had I couldn't have done him in." While Charlie Chump read, the police stood with drawn bills ready to awaken anyone who might fall asleep under the magic spell of his monotonous voice.

Ernie Bardot: I had no motive for killing the old man. I didn't mind waiting in poverty for the old fool to die before he used up all his fortune. Anyway I was with Alice in her room all night.

Adolph Hershey: It never entered my mind to kill P. U., just because he had discovered that I was stealing money from the company and the fact that the company is now all mine is beside the point. I can prove I didn't do it anyway. Alice was with me in my room all night.

Alice Snickerman: Except for the fact that Percy wouldn't give me a divorce and that he often beat me unmercifully because he was convinced that I ran around, we got along just fine. Manners will verify the fact that I took a sleeping pill when I retired and could not have awakened to kill anyone.

Manners Stinkweed: He may have been a sorry mess, but he was my Pop. Anyway, I was passed out drunk under the staircase. Agony can tell you that.

Agony Stinkweed: No matter what I may have said while I was hysterical, I was only returning a gun that I had borrowed, Mr. Snickerman never made any advances. Ask Manners, I told him where I was going when I left our room.

"Well, Chief," said Charlie Chump, "I knew who the murderer was even before I read these conflicting stories."

How did he know? Who done it? Think! Turn the page over to see if you are correct.

Letters To The Editors

Dear Editor: I would like to make a minor correction in last week's Progress concerning the picture and article entitled "Poverty Hall Gives Way for Expansion" by Mr. Dwight Short. Mr. Short made a mistake in the connection of his picture and story. Truly the story is that of Poverty Hall, which was located behind Stalaland Hall. Poverty Hall was torn down several years ago and all that remains is a broken walk that led to its door. The picture which appeared on page four in connection with the story was the crumbling walls of a two room brick building that was being occupied by four of us boys who are now working on the college dairy farm milking, pasteurizing, delivering and servicing milk machines.

I am sure if those broken walls could talk, they would tell many interesting stories that have happened within their keeping for more than a century. I have only been here since early June, 1960, but have already heard many interesting stories of its past. According to the late A. B. Carter, it was used for several years after Eastern obtained the Old Gibson Farm, approximately fifty years ago, for a milk room. Following that it was used for several more years as a farm shop and later a hatchery. About 1864 students who worked on the New Stalaland Dairy Farm started living there. Four boys lived there until it was recently torn down.

The little brick building could have been referred to as Poverty Hall, too, by boys who have lived there but it was more often referred to as 'The Little Brick Cabin.'

Sincerely, Brent Cornelius (Ed Note—It was not author Short's fault. Our information in setting up the picture was wrong.)

Mrs. Martin is shown above adjusting the hands of the grandfather clock in the hall of Blanton House. The clock is a symbol of an historic past in the newly renovated house.

BLANTON HOUSE REVEALS A NEW SIDE AFTER RENOVATION IS ENDED

By SANDRA NUNNELLY In 1886, a large fourteen-room mansion was erected by old Central University, predecessor of what is now known as Eastern Kentucky State College, for its second chancellor, L. H. Blanton.

Today, seventy-four years later, finds Central University gone fifty-nine years hence, and its successor, Eastern Kentucky State College, with its fourth name and sixth president, and in its fifty-fifth year of service.

The mansion still stands today, but with a "new face." Upon assuming office as the sixth president of Eastern Kentucky State College on July 1st of last year, Dr. Robert R. Martin ordered a thorough investigation of the condition of the historic president's home and found that a complete renovation must take place if the mansion was to stand for another seventy-five years, or more.

The house, named only recently by the Eastern Board of Regents, upon the recommendation of Dr. Martin, in honor of Chancellor Blanton, has served as the home of five of Eastern's six presidents. Only her first leader, Ruric Nevel Roark, who served from its founding in 1906, did not live in the Blanton House.

Neither did Robert L. Brock, founder and first chancellor of Central University, occupy the yet-to-be-built home. "The only other person who lived in the home," according to president emeritus, W. F. O'Donnell, "if my memory serves me right, was Leslie Evans, one-time mayor of Richmond, who rented the home for a short time."

Full of tradition and history, the Blanton House has a new face, but the walls that hold many memories are the same. They have only been treated and strengthened.

An Eastern professor wrote in "Five Decades of Progress," the history of Eastern: "Within its walls seems to linger with the passage of time the hospitable atmosphere of the 'Old South' and the visitor never leaves without feeling that his life has been enriched by such surroundings."

President Martin lists these improvements that took place within the three month renovation period: (1) all the wiring was dangerous and outmoded, and was replaced; (2) new heating was installed to replace the old schoolroom radiator-type; (3) plumbing and sewer lines were replaced; (4) the walls were thoroughly tuck-pointed to prevent water from coming through the mortar; (5) the 30-year-old kitchen range was replaced; (6) much of the age-old plaster was replaced; (7) modern light fixtures were installed; (8) an inadequate basement was made into a modern laundry and storage space; and (9) rugs and drapes were purchased for the first floor.

"No new furniture was bought," said Martin. He said that all the furniture either was purchased by the State for prior presidents or is the personal furniture of his and Ann's.

The large house consists of two parlors, a kitchen, dining room, and living room downstairs. Four bedrooms and a study are located upstairs. A lovely winding staircase leads to the upstairs. Of the renovation, Dr. O'Donnell, who occupied the house for nineteen years just prior to Martin's administration, said that it needed renovation, "in the worst way." He said that it is a much better house than ever before, but could not estimate the approximate worth of the home now.

The Martins said that now that they are in their new home, they want to share it with the students and faculty of the college, as well as well as visitors to the Eastern campus.

"We are delighted with our home," said Mrs. Martin. When asked what part of the home she liked best, the lovely first lady said, "I always have had a hard time making up my mind. . . I really don't know if I like any one room better than the other." And upon touring Blanton House, one understands why Mrs. Martin can't choose a favorite among the lovely redecorated rooms.

The dining room may well be the most outstanding. Boasting a beautiful seascape, the wall-paper colors were used as the basis for the color scheme of the first floor. Wall-to-wall carpeting and wood-work of the downstairs match the green in the scenic print, and oyster-colored, para-silk drapes are in tone with the ivory background of the scene. Cherry furniture belonging to the college and a hutch and drop-leaf table of the Martins furnish the room.

"Emagandy velvet upholstered chairs and some Victorian furniture richly set off the parlor with its quaint black marble mantle. The entire downstairs redecoration had to be based not only on the dining room wall print, but had to also incorporate the many types of furniture. The only two re-upholstered pieces belonging to the college were the living room sofa and chair. A floral design on a very light beige highlights the mahogany desk and marble-topped table. When the paint was peeled off the mantle, a lovely light-brown wood was discovered which has been suggested to be gum.

In the hall is a sofa belonging to Mrs. Martin's mother, re-upholstered in a tone to match the carpeting.

Hand-blocked linen curtains of her uncle's estate hang from windows in a back study.

A winding cherry banister of one staircase keeps you from falling as you walk up the stairs into a forest of trees on the hall wall-paper.

Coming down the front stairs, you pass a small bay window. Here again is another marble top, and this reporter learned about Anne's weakness, her hobby of collecting marble slabs. At one time, a love seat probably occupied the tiny nook which overlooks the Administration Building.

One major change in the floor plan was the building of several closets for storage space. Several doors were removed to give more wall space.

So this is Blanton House today—remodeled, redecorated to stand for many more years. A grandfather clock stands in the hall to remind of the old, but new colors, new designs show that Blanton House truly has a "new face."

This is one of the two parlors in the Blanton House. The more comfortable of the two, it is often the scene of informal gatherings of faculty and students.

SPORTS TALK

By Bill Cloyd

As present plans progress into their final stages of completion and all details are rechecked for convenience, Eastern's new multi-million dollar fieldhouse promises to provide new and unparalleled experiences for its students. The lay out of this building and variety of activities offered will surpass even the most casual observer.

The combination classroom and dancing area will provide both fun and instruction for any student wishing to participate in modern dance.

Another group of similar rooms will be available to student groups who wish to use them for projection purposes. Each room will seat one hundred students. (Darts, anyone?)

New Recreation

The newly adapted physical education areas will include an assorted variety of recreational games including darts, shuffle board, and ping pong.

Closely tied to the special section, set aside for collegiate wrestling (none of this stuff), where both men and women may participate in the event or receive instruction in the art of Judo.

For the squash and handball fans, a series of seven official-size handball courts will be provided. They will be entered from separate corridors and may be used co-educationally. Observation windows near the ceiling will provide room for instructors and spectators.

In addition to the main basketball arena, which will be used for physical education classes also, four basketball courts will be available to the students for recreational use. The main arena (which will seat 6,500 and expand to 9,000) is of sufficient size to contain two cross courts for basketball, and will be used for intramurals and physical education classes, when the regular varsity is not in practice.

Two additional basketball courts of official high school size will be located in the auxiliary gym, which will also have a gymnastics area available for student use. (Trampoline instruction, tumbling, horizontal bars, parallel bars, and side horse.)

Another new and different facility will be the adapted conditioning department, including a variety of the latest equipment for conditioning and body building. This department will include weights and bicycle exercises. (Special room for you muscle builders.)

Swimming Facilities Available!

Contained within the combination plant will be an official-size Olympic tile pool with many new features. Outstanding feature plan: underwater panels to allow the coach to observe and correct his swimmers' strokes from the underwater vantage point. Underwater lights will grace the pool and divers will be executing their dives from two 1-meter boards and one 3-meter board. This is not all! In addition to the present pool and the new Olympic pool, there will be an outside pool for use during the summer months.

What Else!

The girls will not only have access to the present Weaver Health Building but will be extended privileges in the new field house. To give an idea of the size, visualize a football field with a building completely covering it and far into the surrounding track.

This is an outstanding building, combining both recreational fun with physical education, comparable to any such plant in the United States.

Spring Sports Come Thru

Hats off to the track team as they continue to pile up impressive wins over all comers. In the first three meets, Eastern has defeated Pikeville, 120-14; Cumberland, 107-27, and Austin Peay, 87-42.

New Records

In the recent meet (April 1, 1961) with Austin Peay, sophomore John Thomas of Geneva, Ind., broke Carl Wright's old 2-mile record of 10'28.4 by taking first in the event with a 10'24.2 time mark. In the same race Ernie Brown also broke a school record by coming in second with a time of 10'28.8. Ernie is a transfer student from Kent State (Ohio).

Jumping Ernie Dalton of Dayton, Ohio, broke his own broad jump record of 22'4" with a jump of 22'4 1/2".

The 440-yard relay team set a school record by running their event for the first time. Boys running this event are Roger Kincer, Bob Scott, Richie Emmons, and Dennis Sprouts.

Ted Onkst almost defeated Toledo single-handedly with his performance last Wednesday. Ted got 3 hits, scored 3 runs, and stole 3 bases. (Keep up the good work, Ted.)

Eastern's baseball team who are the O. V. C. champs for 1959-60 will defend their title for the first time this Saturday, as they go into a double header against East Tennessee.

Eels Capture O. V. C. Crown

The 1960-61 swim season is over and the Eastern Eels have captured another OVC crown. With the sound trouncing of the Morehead team twice this year, Coach Don Combs' swimmers still keep their virtual monopoly on the swimming crown. This year's team was a vast improvement over last year's. They compiled a 7-7 season for a perfect .500 average. Besides Morehead the team defeated Berea, Bellarmine, and University of Kentucky Freshmen. They breezed by Vanderbilt and defeated the U. K. varsity, after a last event disqualification. Their losses were handed to them by the University of the South, University of Cincinnati, Union, and the University of Louisville. The Eels lost heartbreakers to Vanderbilt and Union.

Despite the .500 average the team placed last in the state invitational meet. The only bright spot were John Vetter, who received a second place medal in the fifteen hundred meters and Josh Portmann, who placed second in the two hundred yard butterfly. One thing to note is that Eastern holds five of the state swimming records.

The outstanding man for the team this year was Co-captain Josh Portmann who compiled the highest point total. Other outstanding men for the team were Co-captain Ray Leger, Bob Goes, Bob Mansfield, and John Vetter. The strong man for the team this year was freshman Jim Mitchell who is expected to give strength to the team for three more years. Other freshmen on the team were Ed Pemberton, Bob Eaton, Steve Sheehan, Frank Bolm, George Proctor mgr., and Carl Hammond who did a fine job of taking over diving chores at mid term. Arnd Rehffuss and Jack Vaughn, both upperclassmen rounded out this year's team.

Next year Coach Combs is expecting to have a strong team because he will lose only two seniors, Portmann and Leger. Next year it is hoped that everyone interested will either come to tryouts or support the Eels who soon will have a five hundred capacity spectator pool in their new field house.

ESC To Figure In TV Program On Sunday

Eastern State College students and local sports fans will be given a special treat on Sunday, April 16, by WHAS-TV, according to Don Feltner, director of publicity at the college.

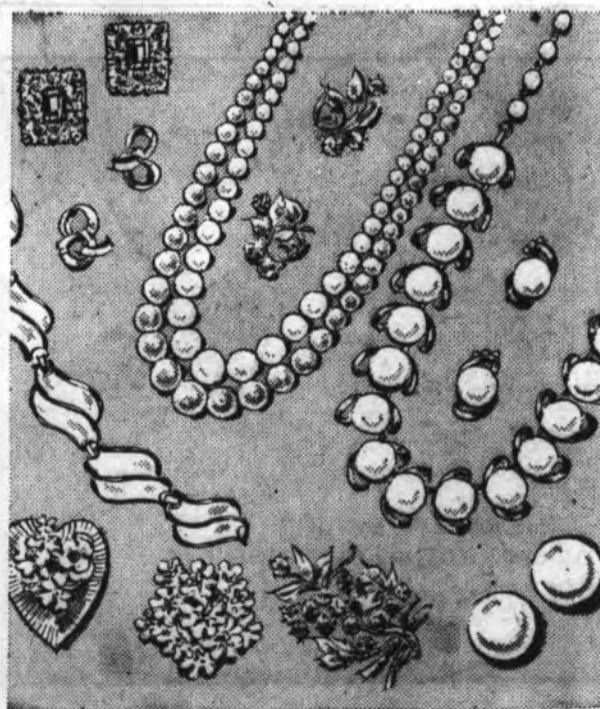

The Louisville station will air a special presentation ceremony concerning Eastern at 1:10 p. m. CST (2:10, Richmond time). The presentation will precede the baseball game to be televised Sunday.

Should the baseball "Game of the Week" be rained out, and WHAS is forced to air the alternate baseball game, the presentation ceremony will be aired at 1:40 p. m. (Richmond time), according to Cawood Ledford, sports director of the Louisville station.

Radio station WHAS will present the recorded presentation on a Monday evening radio sports program, it was announced late today.

NEWS FROM OUR ALUMNI

Irvin I. Eastin, flowing more than 18 years of association with Goodyear Aircraft Corporation's lighter-than-air flight operations, has joined the company's sales organization as a contract administrator in the sales administration department.

Eastin began training as an airship pilot in 1942 following more than seven years with the Goodyear organization. During the 18 years which preceded his present work, Eastin's prime assignment for the company found him at the controls of both Goodyear commercial blimps and Navy airships. During World War II he helped conduct test flights and training missions for Navy blimps.

A native of Williamsburg, Ky., Eastin was graduated from Eastern in 1933 with a Bachelor of Science degree in mathematics. He resides at 422 Drexel Ave., Akron 10, O.

James C. Holt has transferred to Convair Astran out of San Diego, Calif., and will be connected with the Atlas missile installation for about two years. He will be located at Altus, Okla., 1317 E. Adams Street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Holt were graduated from Eastern in 1947.

William J. Buck, class of 1952, has transferred from Castlepoint, N. Y., to Durham, N. C. He is serving as Chief, Registrar Division, V. A. Hospital in Durham.

Lt. Robert D. Henderson is attending the Armed Forces Special Wpns. School at Albuquerque, N. M., and for permanent duty he will be located at USA Ord. Depot (Sierra), Herlong, Calif. Lt. Henderson was graduated in 1959.

Donald E. Hamrick has a new

V.I.C. Is Success

The speakers were guests of the student hosts for lunch and dinner this evening.

Wednesday, Dr. Irvin E. Langer, president of Transylvania College delivered the keynote address at the assembly in Hiram Brock Auditorium.

Later that afternoon, sessions were again held in the student union building.

Discussing the field of chemistry with a group of interested students, Mr. William Gammon, assistant director, research and development, Ashland Oil and Refining Company, told them that there is no other field in America today that offers such opportunities for advancement and self-satisfaction.

"The chemical industry," he said, "often makes it possible for those who enter the industry to continue their education at the company's expense."

Coaching, as a profession, was discussed by a panel of three outstanding Kentucky High School and College coaches: Brad Jones, Georgetown College; Homer Rice, Highlands High School; and Alex Stevens, Danville High School. The group was told that there are currently great opportunities for good coaches. Hard work and honesty are essential to the success of a high school or college coach.

The managing editor of the Courier Journal, Ben Reeves, told a group of future journalists of the opportunities and difficulties in the newspaper business. "You may starve to death," he said, "if you don't work hard."

Mrs. Anette Patton Cornell, South Ft. Mitchell, discussed freelance writing with the same group. She stressed the difficulties in finding outlets for a freelance writer's work and the small financial reward for a beginner.

"You have to be dedicated to the work before you can succeed," Mrs. Cornell told them.

Good ethics and truth were pointed out as important qualities for those people who are interested in advertising and marketing.

Students interested in working with children heard Mrs. Clara Wallis, administrator, Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, relate her experiences working with children in the hospital area.

Approximately 500 students were involved in planning the conference. Faculty consultants attended each session to inform students concerning the various enrollments that we expect in the next ten years."

"The task is an unsurmountable one," he said. "The truth is more and more students who could succeed in college will be denied their chance for a college education unless we accept our great challenge." He told alumni representing Eastern, Kentucky State, Morehead, Murray, Western, and U. K., that the average unmarried student spends $1,500.00 annually during the school year. "This means," he said, "that Eastern students spend over $5 million in Richmond annually."

The dominant theme at the meeting was "quality vs. quantity" in education.

J. Marvin Dodson, executive secretary of the Kentucky Education Association, reviewed and projected "Trends and Plans in Public Education." He said that the United States, as a nation, must marshal all of its resources to make available to our American youth the best educational advantages possible, regardless of where the child lives or regardless of race, color, or creed. He said that the people of this nation are not going to risk an inferior system of education and that the trend is more and more in the direction of the federal government subsidizing public education in the United States.

Maurice D. Bement, executive director of the Joint Alumni Council of Kentucky, outlined "The Role of the Alumnus in Meeting the Challenge." "The degree to which the alumnus accepts his rightful role," he said, "may well determine the ability of higher education to meet the challenge."

With dedicated and enlightened administrations in our public institutions of higher learning, and with a concerned and interested awareness, we can face the future with confidence."

Rowlette Is A. I. A. A. Speaker

Dr. John Rowlette, Associate Professor of Industrial Arts, addressed the twenty-third annual convention of the American Industrial Arts Association, a department of the National Education Association, on Friday, April 7, in St. Louis Missouri.

Speaking on the "Psychological Implications relative to teaching Junior High School Drafting," Dr. Rowlette addressed the convention at an afternoon session in the Hunt Room of the Chase Hotel. The theme of this year's convention was "Technological Advance and Industrial Arts."

Munsen Announces Girls' Hours Change

In a surprise announcement before a group of students attending a Burnam Hall coke party, Diane Munson, president of the Girls Dormitory Council, revealed that the hours of sophomore, junior, and senior women have been changed from 11:00 p.m. for sophomore women, and 11:30 p.m. for junior and senior women, to 12:00 p.m. for all three groups. These changes are re-evaluated Friday and Saturday nights only. "These changes are relevant Friday and women," Diane said.

"The girls themselves have always made the decisions concerning their own hours," the Dean of Women said in an interview with a progress reporter. "When the Dormitory Council presented me with their request for an hour's change," she said, "it was taken as an indication of changing time. The action was taken in order to insure the women of a voice in their own affairs."

The Dean went on to say that she is not being insincere when she says that she has affection for each of the girls on campus. "Some people have no faith in the younger generation," she pointed out, "but the Dean of Women's office feels otherwise."

"We have good girls that can be trusted with added responsibilities," she went on to say.

NEW ANGLE PARKING — Students coming back from Spring Vacation were surprised to find a change in the parking facilities in the area of Campus Drive in front of Burnam and Sullivan Halls. This attempt to solve the perennial parking problems allows space for more automobiles while at the same time allowing more room for passage. So far this phase of Eastern's "New Look" is working out fine, increasing parking spaces about one-third.

Sinfonietta Tours Louisville Schools

The Eastern Kentucky State College Sinfonietta, a select orchestra of outstanding students and faculty members of the music department, performed on April 13 for its second tour of the season to the Louisville schools. Under the direction of Robert O'pelt, the Sinfonietta made appearances at Manual, Atherton, and Butler High Schools.

The featured soloists were James Libbey, cello; Jacqueline Vanzant, violin; and Arlie Noble, trumpet.

Mr. Parkhurst will attend the bi-ennial national conference of Pi Tau Chi, a national religious honorary, in Columbus, Mississippi, this week-end. Mr. Parkhurst, sponsor of Pi Tau Chi at Eastern, is vice-president of the national organization.
