W. L. Keene Gives Founders' Day Address At ESC

New Buildings Dedicated

By BEN CARTINHOOR
Progress Staff Writer

Professor W. L. Keene delivered the principal address at the Special Founders' Day program in assembly Wednesday to commemorate the establishment of Eastern 56 years ago.

Professor Keene spoke on the subject of "Only Yesterday." He asked the question, "Just what concern do I have for yesterday?" A journey into yesterday is "a pilgrimage of respect and honor . . . the purpose could be to examine the charts of the past so as to blueprint the future." Professor Keene went on to praise the men for whom many of the present buildings have been named: Roark, Beckham, McCreary, Miller, Cammack, Weaver, Brock, and others. He told of the days on campus during World War II, and of the many men and women who left to serve their country in their greatest time of need. The 1946 Milestone was dedicated, he said, to those who gave their lives for their country. He ended his talk by simply saying that there was no better time for any of the students to be in college now.

Heck Attends Reception For Sr. Women

A reception for senior women was held Tuesday night in the Rose Room of the Student Union Building. The event was sponsored by the committee on the Status of Women of the Kentucky division of the American Association of University Women.

Dr. Edna D. Heck, president of the state division, interpreted the policies and functions of the AAUW to the group.

Dean Emma Y. Case, Mrs. Mildred Maubin, Mrs. Mary Baldwin, and Dr. August Howard, chairman, served on the committee sponsoring the reception.

After Dr. Heck's talk, refreshments were served in Walnut Hall. In the receiving line were Dr. Howard, Dr. Heck, Mrs. Robert E. Martin, Mrs. Audrey Keith, president of the Richmond branch, Mrs. Florence Irwin, Mrs. Daisy French, and Mrs. Helen Cosby.

Presiding at the tea tables were Mrs. Edith Ford, Mrs. Lucille Whitehead, Miss Margaret Moberly, and Miss Mary Hunter.

The purpose of the AAUW is to encourage the intellectual growth of women. Eastern is one of only five colleges in the state whose graduates are eligible for membership in the organization.

Governor Combs was among the many guests invited to participate in the special activities. He gave a brief talk in which he stressed the progress that is being made in education at Eastern and in the state. He also said that Kentucky has become a state of "firsts" in education. In 1960, the first state to receive an award on the project of keeping America beautiful, and the first to receive a nuclear power plant for peaceful purposes.

After the assembly program four new buildings were dedicated in the Ault Maintenance Building.

The Ault Service building was named to honor the late W. A. Ault, who served the college for 35 years. He was superintendent of buildings and grounds from 1922 until his retirement in 1956 and served as a consultant on a part-time basis until his death in 1957. The building contains three floors.

S. S. Agent Spends Day At Eastern

R. A. Tweedy, District Manager of the Lexington Social Security Office will visit the campus today. While here, he will be located in the office of Mr. Kerney M. Adams, 2nd floor University Building. The visiting hours will be from about 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mr. Tweedy would like to interview junior and senior students who may be interested in employment within the Social Security Administration. He is especially interested in those students who have recently passed the Federal Civil Service Entrance Examination.

Freshman Talent Show

A talent show will be sponsored by the Sullivan Hall House Council, under the direction of Judy Kendle and Ronnie Elliot, Wednesday evening at 7:30 in the Hiram Brock Auditorium. Tickets are 50 cents per person and may be purchased from any House Council member or at the door. Proceeds will go to help finance the White Rose Formal on April 13.

Student Teachers Listed At 196 For Second Semester

One hundred and ninety-six Eastern seniors are performing student teaching at thirty-five off-campus elementary and secondary schools located throughout Kentucky. It was announced Wednesday by Dr. J. Dorland Coates, associate dean of instruction for teacher education.

These students have completed eight weeks of preparation by observing and studying teaching methods of highly trained professional teachers.

Upon completion of their student teaching, these prospective teachers will receive teaching certificates and will be eligible to become certified teachers following their graduation from Eastern. Professional degrees are granted to those who successfully complete their student teaching and other required curricula for the bachelor's degree.

Over 75 per cent of Eastern's graduates have entered the teaching profession.

Eastern's student teachers are presently located at these off-campus teaching centers: Bell County, Breathitt County, Carrollton, Clark County, Danville, Estill County, Irvine, Eubank, Franklin County, Frankfort, Harlan City, Loyal, Highlands, Covington, Holmes, Butler, Fern Creek, Shawnee, Southern, Johns Creek, Lee County, London, Bellevue Elementary (Madison County), Madison Central, Madison High, Kingston, Kirksville, Waco, Memorial (Lincoln County), Mercer County, Mt. Sterling, Odham (Continued from Page Three)

Wilbur Says Bio-Warfare Could Be Termed Just

"If war is just, then the use of any weapon to win that war is also just," Dr. Charles Wilbur, Kent State University visiting biologist, told the Eastern faculty Wednesday evening at a dinner in the Keen Johnson Student Union Building.

Speaking on the subject, "Biological Warfare," Wilbur said that this type of warfare is feasible because "we must use the most effective weapons at our disposal." If a conflict develops, "This is a reality we must face," he said. "There is no more immorality in this type of weapon."

Visiting Eastern under the auspices of the Visiting Biologists Program of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, Wilbur spent two days on the campus. He has served in biological research for ten years with the Army Chemical Corps, and presently is dean of the graduate college at Kent State.

The idea of biological warfare is not a new one, he said. "Although America has been accused of inventing this horrible weapon, it was used commonly in medieval days when dead horses, poison wells, and garbage was used to pollute and poison the enemy." He explained this type of warfare as "the use of products of living organisms to incapacitate or kill their will to resist."

"In the history of warfare," he said, "diseases have caused more fatalities than any other means." Some of the purposes of using this type of warfare, he explained, are to (1) destroy strongholds held by the enemy; and (2) to disorganize large industrial areas.

Dean's List Omits Evelyn Craft With Total Of 57 Points

Evelyn Virthann Craft, senior from Frankfort, was one of only two students to earn 57 quality points while compiling a perfect standing for the fall semester at Eastern. It was announced today by President Martin.

Miss Craft was inadvertently omitted from the original list of honor students named to the Dean's List for the semester.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Craft, Fourth Street, Frankfort, she compiled a perfect three-point scholastic standing while taking 19 hours of subject-matter credit.

The other student was Mrs. Maxaline Burns Weddle, Richmond, who also earned 57 points while taking 19 semester hours.

More Notices — Interviews

Mr. Herschel J. Roberts, Superintendent of the Fort Knox Dependent Schools, Fort Knox, Ky., will be on campus Monday, March 26, beginning at 9:00 a.m. for the purpose of interviewing prospective teachers for the school year 1962-63.

Mr. William E. Steed, Co-ordinator of Special Services of the Butler County Schools, Hamilton, Ohio, will be on campus Wednesday, March 28, for the purpose of interviewing those students who are prospective teachers. Interviews will begin at 9:00 a.m. They have notices of elementary vacancies at all levels, and secondary vacancies in most subject areas.

Mr. H. F. McJenkin, Manager of the Aetna Casualty and Surety Company, Louisville, Ky., will be on campus Thursday, March 29, for the purpose of recruiting activities. They are interested in men who from their academic program of campus leadership have demonstrated an attitude for sales. Interviews will be from 9:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Mr. Phillip J. Proud, Assistant Superintendent of the Pontiac City Schools, Pontiac, Mich., will be on campus Friday, March 30, for the purpose of seeking teachers to fill the vacancies for the school year 1962-63. Interviews will begin at 8:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Mr. John Seeman, Administrative Assistant of the Princeton Local School District, Cincinnati, Ohio, will be on campus for the purpose of interviewing prospective teachers for the school year 1962-63. Interviews will begin at 1:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m.

All of the above interviews will be held in room 302, Student Union Building. Persons interested in an appointment should report to the Placement Office, Room 1, Administration Building.

Pavilion To Honor Mr. Van Peursem

Board Decides Other Issues

A band pavilion will be erected in the outdoor amphitheater at Eastern this summer, and named for James E. Van Peursem, head of the music department since 1929, the Board of Regents decided at a meeting here Wednesday.

Costs were not disclosed, but the board accepted plans drawn by Hartstern, Louis and Henry, Louisville architects. Dr. Henry L. Kamphoefner, dean of the School of Design at North Carolina State College, an authority on such structures, had a hand in the design.

The pavilion, or bandstand, will be erected on the present grass stage of the amphitheater, located about in center campus. Earlier plans were to complete the pavilion this summer, but President Robert R. Martin expressed hope that it certainly would be completed by fall.

It was hoped to have it ready for use by the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp, which presents three outdoor concerts weekly.

Fellowships Awarded

The board also announced that three members of the faculty had been awarded Danforth Fellowships for the summer of 1962 for further study. They are: William Berge, assistant professor of history, who will attend Vanderbilt University and work on a doctorate degree; Arthur J. Mangus, instructor of English, to attend the University of Kentucky; and Sydney Stephens, assistant professor of mathematics, who will study at the University of Illinois.

Seven resignations were accepted formally and three personnel were hired by the board. Resignations accepted included: assistant football coach Glenn Gossett, who has accepted appointment as head defensive coach.

Women's Honor Day To Feature Two Areas

Event Is Wednesday

Plans are in the final stages for this year's Women's Honor Day program. The program will be held next Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the cafeteria of the Johnson Student Union Building.

This year's event, the first to be held in the evening, will be composed of two parts. The first will include all social and academic awards and honors. At the end of these presentations, the Parade of Queens for this academic year will be featured. Those queens to be recognized are the Basketball Queen, Miss Eastern, Miss Popularity and the Snowball Dance Queen.

The second section of the program will feature awards and honors for academic achievement. At this time, all women with an academic standing of 2.6 or higher will be recognized. All women who are recipients of scholarships, fellowships, assistantships, and departmental awards will be honored.

Members of the Women's Administrative Council, the ten presidents of women's organizations on campus, are serving as a nucleus for the planning of this year's program. With the help of Dean Emma Y. Case, the group will conduct the program; Barbara Edwards, president of Collegiate Pentacle, will preside at the occasion.

Also to be included in the second section of the program, will be the elaborate taping ceremonies of the Mu Chapter of Omicron, Sophomore.

They're Proud . . . Dean Emma Y. Case, Dean of Women, is winding up her career at Eastern with among other things the fifteenth annual Women's Honor Day program, to be presented next Tuesday evening. With her is seated Barbara Edwards, president of Collegiate Pentacle, who will preside at the event. Reports from the two planners indicate that this year's program will be the largest women's honoring program in the history of Eastern.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

EASTERN PROGRESS WINS FIRST PLACE
AWARD IN STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

Congratulations to the staff of The Eastern Progress, student newspaper at Eastern Kentucky State College. The newspaper received a first place award in its division in the student publications contest conducted by the Columbia University School of Journalism.

It is just as important a distinction to edit the best student newspaper as it is to field a championship athletic team. It is an award in which the faculty, student body and friends of Eastern may feel a sense of pride. It is a noteworthy achievement.

The Eastern Progress was started as a student newspaper in 1920. The publication consisted of four pages, six columns to the page and was issued twice a month. The Progress has kept pace in its growth with the expanding student body and the increased importance of Eastern as an educational institution.

The award winning newspaper is now published weekly in conventional newspaper size, eight columns to the page, with six pages to the edition. The talented staff is obtaining useful experience in newspaper work.

There is a decided shortage of competent newspaper people. It is a profession that is both fascinating and frustrating. The pay is not very high, ranking comparably with teaching.

Perhaps some of the members of the Progress staff may decide to enroll in a journalism school. As newspaper workers we can assure them they will encounter very few dull days. There is no telling what the news will be tomorrow and no two days will be alike.

A Mark Of Intelligence . . .

College life at Eastern would not be complete for a student unless he becomes an active participant in some of the organizations and clubs on campus. These clubs and organizations fulfill academic, social, and religious purposes for those ambitious students who join them.

Many times, however, a student will become involved in so many of these clubs and organizations that he cannot do justice to any of them. When only one person, the president, attends a meeting of a particular club, and when a club marks its members present instead of absent then some students are not fulfilling their responsibilities. These two incidents have happened on our campus. Others can be cited.

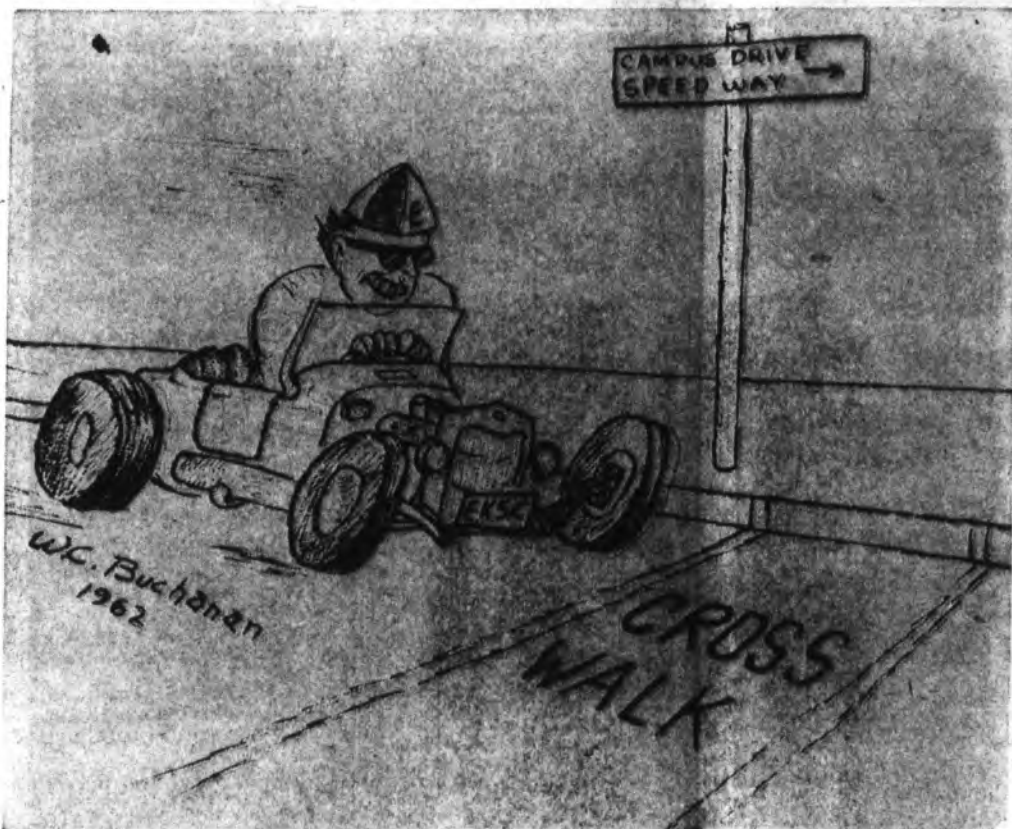

The mature college student should be able to make the decision as to what and how many organizations he can handle. If he cannot, then he should start an intense investigation as to why he is where he is, because, college is a time of decisions.

The mark of a "top-notch" college student is one who through selection and mature judgment has joined a number of clubs which he knows will benefit him and which he knows he can logically handle with his curriculum.

The predicament can work in either direction, however. Those who boast that they aren't getting involved with any club are as great a detriment to the campus as are those who become involved in too much. The solution seems to be "think" then "select" as intelligently as possible. The happy medium is the ultimate goal of every good student.

Believe It Or Not . . .

Peace Corps: 'Ask What You Can Do'

By BERRY WIREMAN
Progress Letters Editor

In his first inaugural speech President Kennedy said, "Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

This statement affected the American people of all ages in many different ways. Some thought of it as a catchy phrase while others as a challenge—a challenge to do something and not have something done for them.

The American who regarded this as a challenge may now be teaching in Pakistan, building roads in Tanganyika, or working for increased farm productivity in Colombia. How? He joined the Peace Corps established by President Kennedy March 1, 1961.

The Peace Corps is one year old this month with 750 members in the field around the world. An estimated 1,600 are scheduled for placement by June 1, 1962.

The requirements for a Peace Corps Volunteer are that he must be at least 18 years old with no requirement on the upper age limit. The oldest Peace Corps Volunteer is now serving in East Pakistan at the age of 62.

The basic educational requirement for the volunteer is the equivalent of a high school education. Married couples are eligible if both husband and wife qualify and if they have no dependents under 18.

The largest single request the Peace Corps has been receiving is for secondary and elementary school teachers in all subjects. The Philippine Islands alone have requested 5000 teachers and Nigeria has asked for 1300.

During June, July, and August the Peace Corps will begin training programs which will prepare American teachers for assignments in over 20 different countries.

The future of the Peace Corps looks bright, with interest growing each day, even though the training is rigorous and the life of a volunteer is a difficult one once he enters the field.

Dr. Clyde Lewis is the Peace

Corps representative on campus. His office is in the University Building.

You Like Europe? Try This New Plan

ALITALIA, Italian Airlines, announces its original adventure—full "VESPA. DO-IT-YOURSELF TOUR OF EUROPE". A new and original way of seeing the Continent; an open invitation to the enterprising individual—the person capable of standing and driving on her or his own two wheels.

Swift, comfortable ALITALIA DC-8 Jets whisk you across the Atlantic to Italy. Upon arrival, you will be formally introduced to your own mini-transport, the rugged, famous VESPA. Then you are on your own, carefree to come and go as you please. Your ALITALIA-VESPA plan includes a complete guide-package: road maps, lists of recommended low-cost hotels and hostels, leads to points of interest and—last but not least—an invitation by European organizations to arrange for you to meet with the peoples of their lands individually.

Your VESPA is delivered complete with registration, license plates, insurance and even shipping from any European port to either New York or Boston for as little as $550.00. You save as much as $90.00 over the U.S. selling price.

Add to the purchase price of your VESPA the regular ALITALIA DC-8 Jet fare from New York to Milan; once you are there, you can travel for as much as $4.00 a day including food, lodging and transportation. You can travel in a VESPA-pack of you can bring your VESPA home with you—it practically fits into your pocket.

Miss Marian Bazy
Editor-In-Chief
Eastern Progress
Campus

Dear Marian:

May I congratulate you and your entire staff for the signal honor which has come to the Eastern Progress and to Eastern, as a result of the Progress being first in the recent Columbia University contest. So far as I have been able to discover, this is the first time that the Progress has been so honored. It does, in my opinion, make it the outstanding student newspaper in the state.

Cordially yours,
Robert R. Martin
President

Dear Editor,

I think that since the "Letters to the Editor" in the Progress are a chance for students to express their opinions, the editor's comments to the "Letters to the Editor" are quite unethical for any competent journalist. Since the paper tries to encourage these letters, it seems quite unnecessary to slander the writers of letters. However, I notice this policy is only carried out on those letters that don't agree with the editor's opinion. A perfect example of this is Mr. McGrath's letter that was written in a serious vein. It was attacked by some statements that lacked any journalistic talent or any possible relevance to the letter. I'm sure that there must have been some well thought-out answers to McGrath's letter. Unfortunately, the readers of the Progress were left with some insipid, slanderous remarks which only succeeded in lowering the status of the journalistic ability of the paper's editors.

Sincerely,
Charles Klonne

To the Editor:

I read the scathing remarks which you made in answer to Mike McGrath's letter to the editor in this week's Progress. The remarks were very typical, as I have observed in the past weeks. Anyone who dares to criticize the Progress hares himself to this type of cynicism. Let me please remind the editor that although the Progress is a fine student newspaper, it has varied faults, one being that it does not lend enough credit to academic achievements. If, indeed, the Progress is a student newspaper, why not let the students make a suggestion now and then without becoming the butt of the bitter remarks of the editor. Of all the suggestions I have seen in letters to the editor, I have yet to see one of them followed.

If this letter is worthy to be printed, I will be rather anxious to see what your comments will be.

Sincerely,
R. S. B.

(Editor's note: Thank you for your letter. Although we are deviating from our policy to publish it—it has no signature, just initials—we realize that its point of faults is well taken. We are only human. We suggest that you do look at the front page of last week's paper and the types of stories which appear therein.)

Dear Editor:

I feel it is my duty to express my dissatisfaction with your "Editor's Note" to Mr. McGrath's letter of March 16. I would criticize your reply on two basic points. (1) I do not believe you really disagreed with the points Mr. McGrath brought out, but rather reverted to a low form of personal criticism. (2) It seems to me that the charge of hypocrisy could more truthfully be directed at the editors of the Progress than at Mr. McGrath. If the editors feel that free thinking is desirable, why do they not exhibit some of the same? The editorials of this year's Progress have been notable in their avoidance of controversial issues, and in their failure to take definite stands on these issues. Surely the editorials have a function beyond praising the administration for the magnificent job it is doing.

Sherri Hatfield Is Selected Best Dressed Candidate

Chosen From List Of Five Coeds

By LINDA CAHON
Progress Staff Writer

Miss Sherri Hatfield, a 19 year old sophomore from Louisville, has been chosen Eastern's candidate for Glamour magazine's "Best Dressed Girl" contest. Sherri, an elementary education and music major, and the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. D. B. Hatfield, was chosen by the Progress staff out of five candidates. Pictures of Sherri, in three different examples of her wearing apparel, were sent to Glamour magazine where their editors will choose the top ten entries sent in from colleges and universities throughout the United States. These ten co-eds will be featured prominently in the August issue of Glamour and will receive an all expense paid trip to New York City in June. The qualifications for the contest, set up by Glamour, are that the candidate have a good figure, excellent posture, and the ability to manage a wardrobe in relation to budget and occasion.

Although born in Bluefield, West Virginia, Sherri spent most of her childhood living and traveling in many parts of the world. During this time her father was the superintendent of Foreign Missions in affiliation with the Church of God. When she was three Sherri and her family went to Palestine where they lived in Jerusalem and Bethlehem for 10 months. After leaving Palestine, they went to Egypt for another 10 months. While in Egypt Sherri attended an American school. From Egypt they moved on to Cyprus where they spent three and a half years. During her stay out of the United States, Sherri traveled in 10 countries throughout Europe.

In general Sherri leads the life of a typical co-ed, with most of her interests centering around swimming, bowling, tennis, and dancing. She is particularly interested in piano and voice. After she graduates from Eastern, Sherri hopes to teach the sixth grade and give private music lessons.

Sherri's mother, who also attends Eastern, is doing graduate work in elementary education, while Reverend Hatfield carries on his ministry in Louisville.

This is the first time Eastern has entered the contest.

Do Buildings Interest You?

By KENNETH C. JONES
Guest Writer

Have you ever paused in front of an old building and wondered about its history? Almost everyone has. Richmond is full of interesting buildings and objects to both the historically-minded and the just curious onlooker. You probably fit into one of these two categories, so why don't you come along with me on a brief tour of some of the most important buildings?

We may begin by walking down Lancaster Avenue from the campus. The first building we come to is that of any consequence is the Irvin-McDowell Memorial Hospital. It was built in the early 1820's as the private home of Doctor A. W. Rollins, who sold it in 1829 to David Irvin. "Irvin-ton," as the place came to be called, was the scene of entertainment for many of the prominent names in Kentucky's history, such as the Clays, Burnams, McDowells, and Shelys.

Through the years it became the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Irvin, who left it and many family heirlooms within to the Medical Society of Kentucky at her death in 1918. It was converted to a hospital for those whose vision had been impaired by trachoma until 1945. It has since then been almost abandoned except for various caretakers and their families. The present caretaker, Mr. Rufus Brown, has maintained the grounds of the old estate as a park for almost seven years.

Another prominent residence of the past which also has been converted to a hospital is the Ezekiel Field House, now known as the Gibson Hospital. This building on West Main Street was constructed in 1880 by Colonel Ezekiel Field, a merchant of Richmond. He furnished his home elegantly with such places as a spinet inlaid with pearl.

The last and most important building covered on this brief tour is the Madison County Courthouse, built in 1841. It is impressive and beautiful with its massive, classic architecture. Inside are approximately fifteen offices, and two court rooms. The lower courtroom has a capacity of about one hundred people, while the one upstairs can seat between two and three hundred.

In the Courthouse Square are some 125 stately decorations. There is the Pioneer Memorial Fountain, erected in 1904 by Governor David B. Francis of Missouri, a native of Madison County. There is also a Wilderness Road Marker, showing where the famous road of Daniel Boone passed through Richmond.

The most interesting object in the Courthouse Square is the "Squire Boone 1770" Rock. The story of the rock is that in 1769, Daniel and Squire Boone came to Kentucky to hunt and explore. Squire returned to the settlements east of the mountains to get supplies of ammunition, salt, and other necessities. On his return a few months later, he carved his name, Squire Boone, and the date, 1770, on this large limestone rock to let Daniel know where he was. The rock stood in a conspicuous place between Buzzard's Basin Knob and Morton's Knob in southern Madison County until its removal to the Courthouse Square in 1908.

We have covered but a few of Richmond's and Madison County's many interesting and historical objects, buildings, and places on this tour. If you are interested in learning about more of them, why don't you go on a tour of your own?

Border skirmishes, Princess Grace of Monaco, an Algerian cease fire and mid-term tests had the college crowds on the edge of their seats. . . particularly the last. Geneva is occupied with big plans and planners, and "Spring is here!"

The March winds are still blowing when one least expects one . . . Gatlinburg, Tennessee, is found with snow on its peaks not to mention the below zero temperatures for foolish March campers. Egypt is growing in international prestige. . . the OAS is not to be confused with the secret army of Algeria. . . and there aren't many people who would like to swap places with DeGaulle.

Princess Grace will make another Alfred Hitchcock picture beginning this summer. . . the reasons for this decision seem to be founded in fact that when she married, she still had one more picture on her contract. . . also it is a gesture of human kindness and friendship—she and the producer-director are friends from way back. But what of Elizabeth Taylor? . . . no news is good news. . . surely the press won't allow the many titled princess to steal the spotlight!

Syria is moving troops to her Israeli border. . . who could have started an incident like this? . . . could it be a cover-up for internal affairs in one of the nations? . . . Americans only read the papers and listen to the news (if they have time). . . this is of no real concern to the average man about town or campus.

Russia seems that the United States is using the proposed April meeting for its personal benefits. . . whether the people of America know it or not, it seems that Russia has detected the truth which is that our leaders and scientists want to test in the atmosphere. . . now, how do you like that thought. . . they know more about our leaders and our policies than even our intellects and political science majors. . . remarkable.

Powers' public will be glad to know that he is well and seemingly not suffering any real effects from his stay in Russia. . . others will be glad to know that Glenn, Jr., is functioning in his capacity as a Marine officer as well as serving as an excellent example of that type of people who would be one of Kentucky's Cabinet while orbiting the earth. . . will wonders never cease?

It seems that the results of 1848 had some significance. . . there was a definite trend in the political thoughts of that time. . . also, the spring flowers are blooming. . . no World War III is anticipated, and there are people in this world who profess allegiance to the ideas of a neutral nation yet who do not know the meaning of neutrality.

Thank heaven for the telephones. . . telegraphs. . . motion pictures. . . college professors. . . growing student enrollments. . . bigger, better everything at all levels. There is still much more.

However, it should be interesting to see if the strikes in Algeria serve any real constructive purposes and if the Progress can manage to keep its copy coming at a steady pace. An ode to the public. . . an ode to those who get vital information from the newspaper (even this one). . . and an ode to salutes and the Kentucky Legislature.

A Bird And A Beast

The following is an essay by a ten year old child who was asked to write on a bird and a beast. It is courtesy of the New York Times, Friday, March 31, '58.

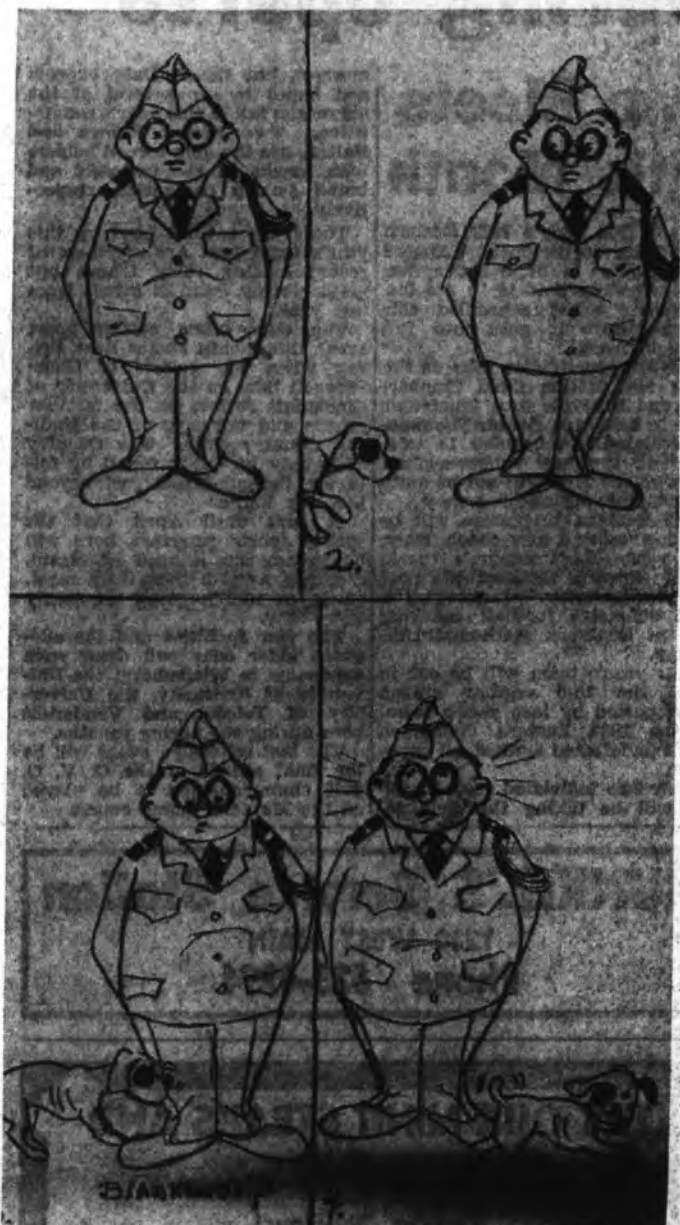

"The bird I am going to write about is the owl. The owl cannot see at all by day and at night is as blind as a bat."

I do not know much about the owl, so I will go on to the beast which I am going to choose. It is the cow. The cow is a mammal. It has six sides—right, left, an upper and lower. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this it cleans the flies away so that they do not fall into the milk.

The head is for the purpose of growing horns and so that the mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with, and the mouth is to moo with. Under the cow hangs the milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, the milk comes and there is never an end to the supply. How the cow does it, I have not yet realized but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell; one can smell it far away. This is the reason for the fresh air in the country.

The man cow is called an ox. It is not a mammal. The cow does not eat much, but what it eats it eats twice, so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos, and when it says nothing it is because its inside is all full up with grass.

Cadet Of Week

JAMES R. CORNETT

Cadet Sergeant First Class James R. Cornett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cornett of Paint Lick, is this week's outstanding ROTC Cadet. Jim graduated from Madison Central High in 1960 and is a sophomore commerce major here at Eastern.

Since Jim has been in the Military Science program he has shown great interest and enthusiasm for it. He has maintained an "A" average in the basic course while being active in Pershing Rifles and the Varsity Rifle Team. Last year as a freshman Jim led the team by being high point man for the school year. He was a member of the winning Regimental team and on the same team which placed second in the nation. This year he is continuing his fine shooting and has fired the top score for a postal match by posting a 388 out of a possible 400.

Jim, who plans on making the Army his career after graduation, is also a member of the AUSA and the Young Democrats Club. His hobbies include coin collecting, fishing, and hunting. Last week he joined the other MS 202 Cadets as they took their R.O. Exams, which will in a large way determine whether or not they will make the advanced program. The Brigade Staff has its fingers crossed, hoping Jim was as successful on the test as he is on the rifle range.

Sound Off

Thought for the week:

The trouble is we spend too much time thinking about what is going to happen and too little time making things happen.

Quote worth repeating:

"The American soldier demonstrated that, properly equipped, trained and led, he has no superior among all the armies of the world."

General Lucian K. Truscott

General Andrew Lolli, CG XX United States Army Corps, paid a visit to the ROTC unit on March 15. General Lolli received an Honor Guard composed of the cadets and was very impressed with what he saw. General Lolli is a native of Illinois, and he holds a B.A. degree in political science from Dickinson College.

Prior to his assignment as CG XX United States Army Corps, he was the Assistant Chief of Staff, Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Brigade News:

Last Thursday the unit began another class in a series of classes designed to prepare them for summer camp. This class consisted of an hour of drill to fit the cadets for the leadership position they will have at Fort Bragg this summer. At the sessions each junior has charge for five minutes. This practice is to help him develop his command, voice and bearing while leading others. Seniors act as supervisors and help when necessary.

Just 21 points—

This year Eastern lost twice on the range to Murray, by a total of only 21 points. The first loss here was by a mere 6 points, and 15 points at Murray.

In last week's 1404 to 1389 loss, Eastern was led by the following cadets:

Nell Ray	281
Bobby Cornett	281
David Spratt	278
Bill Lovell	277
Don Estes	272

Today and tomorrow our team will be in Cincinnati for fire against the University of Cincinnati and Xavier University.

Today the inter-company drill competition began in each Battalion. One representative from each Battalion will be selected to drill against each other next Friday at Corps Period. Also Companies selected their best platoons, and platoons their best squads. A detailed sequence will be followed during actual competition next week.

Awards will be given to the Company, platoon, and squad that won on April 20.

Dean's List—

Five senior cadets are on the first semester Dean's List. To be on this list, each of the following men earned forty or more quality points during the semester. These cadets were: Alan Brandt Coleman, Cleveland; Joe Taylor Barnett, Hazard; Charles Landon Snowden, Beattyville; James Lee Farris, Lawrenceburg; and Ronald Wallace, Ft. Thomas.

Next week a story of the life of Pershing Rifles here at Eastern will begin in the Progress.

Attention: Next Friday those MS 202 students who are to be applicants for the Advanced Course will go to Fort Knox to have physical examinations. Results will play an important part in possible advanced selection for next fall.

General Lolli Approves Campus ROTC Program

Major Andrew R. Lolli was reported to be favorably impressed with Eastern's campus when he visited here March 15. He was here to become acquainted with college officials and to appraise the ROTC program.

He commented that he plays to win, and only winners can hold down a position on his team. Prior to his departure, he said that "It appears that Eastern's ROTC unit seeks not just a starting assignment but shows the desire to play every minute of the game—on the winner's team."

General Lolli recently assumed command of XX United States Army Corps. With Headquarters at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, General Lolli is thus responsible for all United States Army Reserve units located in Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia.

He was very complimentary of the campus attitudes. He said that with the kind of atmosphere at Eastern, aided by the spirit of enthusiasm and progressiveness on the part of the college officials, cadets, students, and the ROTC instructor staff, Eastern's ROTC program is "on its way to win."

Upon his arrival he was greeted with an Honor Guard ceremony, witnessing the "One Army" in being—that is the ROTC Cadet Corps, units of the Kentucky National Guard, and active Army personnel working harmoniously together as one unit. Such ceremonies are usually reserved for performance by highly trained, elite, regular soldiers.

In expressing appreciation for this Honor Guard, General Lolli commended the Cadets for their soldierly appearance and precision, the Color Guard for its "sharpness," the Band for its fine music, and the National Guard Artillery Battery for its alertness, professional competence, and condition of weapons. In addition, he thought all cadets he observed and talked with on campus were very courteous and confident, and presented a fine military appearance.

In a letter to Colonel Joe M. Sanders, Eastern's Professor of Military Science, following his visit, General Lolli said: "It was a real pleasure to visit with you and your fine staff last Thursday, and I appreciate the work all of you did to make my visit so enjoyable."

The spirit and enthusiasm that I observed at Eastern Kentucky assures me that the ROTC program there is going to be a success. Continue the good work."

The worst avalanche disaster recorded was in 1916 in the Alps, where a series of snowslides killed 10,000 people.

Each American used on the average of 441 pounds of paper or paper products in 1961.

Netherlands New Guinea was discovered in 1511 by Portuguese sailors.

Jerry Racke Fires Rifle Match High

JERRY RACKE

Freshman Cadet Jerry Racke set a new high score while firing a Postal Match for the Varsity ROTC Rifle Team this past Monday afternoon at Jourve Range. Jerry, who graduated from Campbell County High School, fired a 293 out of a possible 300 in the match against the University of Alaska.

Breaking down his score into positions, he turned in a 99 prone, 97 kneeling, and a 97 standing, which is a school record also. Team coach Sergeant Willis Brickley said, "This was one of the best examples of marksmanship I have ever had the pleasure to witness."

Jerry will be awarded the "Expert" insignia by the Military Science Department in special ceremonies this spring. Earlier this year, the now old record was a 291 which was fired by sophomore Cadet Wade E. Evans.

The visitor was given a 13-gun salute on his arrival by the 3rd Howitzer Battalion. He then reviewed the Honor Guard of ROTC personnel. A luncheon with members of the military science department and of the administrative staff was held for General Lolli Thursday at noon in Walnut Hall of the Student Union Building.

How would you forecast your next few years?

Today, the young man planning his life realizes as never before that in today's world his own future is tied inevitably to America's future. How can he serve both?

Many college graduates, both men and women, are finding a rewarding answer on the Aerospace Team — as officers in the U.S. Air Force. Here is a career that is compelling in its challenge and opportunity. And it is a way of life that holds the unsurpassed satisfactions that come with service to country.

As a college student, how can you become an Air Force Officer?

If you have not completed Air Force ROTC, Officer Training School provides an opportunity to qualify for a variety of vitally needed jobs in the Aerospace Age. A graduate of this three-month course earns a commission as a second lieutenant. Also open to college men is the Navigator Training program.

For full information — including the chance to obtain graduate degrees at Air Force expense — see the Air Force Selection Team when it visits your college. Or write: Officer Career Information, Dept. SC23, Box 805, New York 1, N. Y.

STUDENT BODY SHOULD SUPPORT SPRING TEAMS

There has been, and probably will continue to be, the idea in certain parts of the country that spring sports were minor sports. We maintain that they are not minor sports, but on the contrary are sports on the rise on the collegiate level.

What this all boils down to is simply that students should support the spring offerings of Eastern's Athletic Department and keep them on the rise at Eastern.

Who can say that baseball is a minor sport? Called the "national pastime," baseball has added more to a summer Sunday afternoon than the advent of pink lemonade. Surely if it is a fine enough game to be the pastime of the country it will receive the proper boosting from the student body of Eastern.

Track is perhaps the most rapidly rising of all spring sports. It is increasing in popularity all across the nation as can easily be seen by comparing a newspaper of today to one of several years ago.

Track probably originated with the Olympic games and has gained worldwide acclaim ever since. Perhaps it is the individual competition that has sped its growth in recent years. The mark of increased interest in the sport here at Eastern may be evidenced by the construction of the new track, one of two in the world.

Golf will probably be the least familiar of the spring sports to the average student, but just because it is something he isn't acquainted with should spur his interest in it, nor his support of Eastern's Golfers.

There is evidently no lack in tennis enthusiasm here, a conjecture made after observing students on the new tennis courts every time the weather permits, let's hope this interest follows the college team.

Eastern's new tennis courts have been called, "the finest in the state," and make possible the fielding of the first tennis team here in three years. After so long an absence from the campus the student body should be glad enough to see it return to support it.

GOOD PIGSKIN PREVIEW AVAILABLE

When the Maroon gridders split up into the Maroon and White teams and clash in Hanger Stadium Thursday night we'll have a good chance to see what the future holds in store for the football fortunes here.

This year's battle should overshadow any in recent years. Coach Glenn Presnell has said that the morale this year has been higher than he can remember it ever being. If the morale that he and the other coaches have been so well pleased with is any indication we should have quite a football treat to watch.

NOTE TO BASKETBALL FANS:

Don't be too surprised if some teams appear on next year's schedule that haven't been carded for a while. Also in next week's Progress the All-OVC basketball team.

Tribute Paid To McBrayer

Baechtold Given Vote Confidence

The Eastern board of regents, at the Wednesday meeting during Founder's Day festivities, officially paid tribute to former basketball coach, Paul S. McBrayer and expressed "utmost confidence" in his successor, James E. Baechtold.

Resolutions adopted by the board said that McBrayer, who resigned Jan. 29, has been a "respected and admired asset to the game of basketball in general and to the college specifically" and that he was "largely responsible for the college's growth from a small college status to a major college position among basketball powers of the nation."

McBrayer, the resolutions continued, "dedicated himself to his players, keeping close watch over them even after they have graduated." The board pointed out that McBrayer had gained fame for himself and the college, citing his being named to the Naismith Memorial Hall of Fame.

"Utmost confidence" in Baechtold was voiced by the board, whose members said they believed that he would "continue the tradition of outstanding basketball teams and exhibiting unsurpassed sportsmanship, the qualities that have been a fine and honorable tradition at Eastern over the years."

Baechtold, who took over as acting coach after McBrayer's resignation, was appointed head coach on March 7 by President R. Martin.

Under Baechtold, the Maroons won six of nine games and ended in a tie for runner-up honors in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Intrasquad Tilt Thursday

The annual Maroon and White spring football game will be played Thursday night at 7:30. It was announced Tuesday by head football coach Glenn Presnell.

The event is sponsored yearly by the "E" Club, campus lettermen's organization, and tickets for the fracas will be sold by "E" Club members. Student admission will be fifty cents and adult tickets one dollar.

Coach Presnell stated the squad division for the encounter hasn't been made as yet since he was waiting to see how injuries are going to heal.

He said that he was glad to see the weather clear up as much as it had because they had gotten in several good days of practice in the last two weeks.

He remarked, "We had an awfully good scrimmage Saturday that we learned a lot from." Presnell added that the morale and pep that had been prevailing earlier had not subsided.

The Maroon and White game will mark the official end of the spring football practice here at Eastern, one of the more promising of recent years.

Diddle Named O.V.C. Coach Of The Year

Western Kentucky's Ed Diddle (who else?) is the Ohio Valley Conference's basketball "coach of the year."

Diddle was an overwhelming choice in balloting by his coaching rivals in the conference after Western Kentucky had won the right to represent the OVC in NCAA Tournament play.

The No. 2 pick in pre-season polls, Western won 11 of 12 loop games in 1961-62 to capture the OVC title by four games. The 11-1 finish was the best by any OVC club since 1962, when Diddle's Hilltoppers posted an identical mark.

Under Diddle, in the OVC's 14-year history, Western has won seven regular season crowns outright and tied for the title on three other occasions. Too, the Toppers won the tourney four years before it was abandoned after the 1965 season.

The winningest coach in college basketball history, Diddle has spent 40 years at Western's helm. His composite won-lost career record entering March 12, NCAA action was 745 wins against 268 losses for a percentage of .743. Only twice in 40 years has he experienced a losing season—back

In 1929 and 1930.

The only coach ever to win more than 700 games at the same college, Diddle saw his team play its 1000th game this season, thereby establishing another milestone. Western paid tribute to him recently by announcing that its $2.5 million arena now under construction will be named the E. A. Diddle Arena. Plans call for its completion in the fall of 1963, with an eventual seating capacity of 13,000.

Compulsory retirement (at age 70) will catch up with Diddle in three years. He shook off the effects of an early-season operation to steer the 1962 Hilltoppers to road wins at Morehead, Eastern, Murray, East Tennessee and Middle Tennessee, bowing only at Tennessee Tech. Western has won its last 27 games at Bowling Green, Ky.

Diddle was assisted for the 23rd year by Ted Hornback, an all-time Western great under the famed towel-waving coach. Also mentioned in the balloting were Diddle's son, Ed, Jr., who pilots Middle Tennessee, and a former Diddle star, John Oldham of Tennessee Tech.

Thinlies Open Spring Sports

Two Meets This Month

Coach Don Daly's 1962 Eastern track team do the opening honors tomorrow on a 57 event spring sport schedule that is to see but one other event scheduled this month before it gets into full swing in April.

The Maroon thinlies take on the track aggregation from Cumberland and Pikeville in a triangular meet to be run in Berea. The meet was originally scheduled to take place on the new rubber-asphalt track here, but it will not be quite finished for the opening meet.

The Eastern tracksters will be working under a new coach, Daly, this year. Last season's coach, Glenn Gossett, resigned his post here earlier when he accepted a head defensive football coaching post at Southern Methodist University.

This year's team will be out to equal the 13-0 regular season mark posted by last year's team, as the 1961 Eastern cindermen rolled undefeated against all opposition.

Only two individual record holders will be taking the field tomorrow, but Coach Daly expects and hopes to see several of the old marks fall in this year's competition. Two Ernies, Brown and Dalton, are the only record holders with marks in the two-mile and broad jump categories, respectively.

There are several boys on this year's team that are members of record holding relay teams, but neither relay team is intact from last year.

The only other spring sport event this month comes next Friday when the golfers of Glenn Presnell take on the University of Cincinnati duffers on the familiar greens and fairways of the Madison Country Club. The Country Club may be easily found by following Second Street just beyond the city limits.

It isn't until April that the spring sports program here will be getting up a head of steam. Starting April 3 there is a meet, game, or match going on nearly every day.

The new facilities and the adequate older ones will draw such opponents as Wittenburg, the University of Kentucky, the University of Toledo, and Vanderbilt here during the spring months.

The last scheduled event will be the final rounds of the O. V. C. golf championships to be played on the Maroons' home course.

Growth In ESC Enrollment

In Past Decade Up 322 Per Cent

From five graduates of the two-year Eastern Kentucky State Normal School in 1907 to 360 graduates in 1961, Eastern Kentucky State College, as the college has been known since 1948, continues to shatter enrollment records with each new year.

In fact, one only has to go back ten years to find an increase in enrollment of three hundred and twenty-two percent. Compared with the 1,290 students enrolled at Eastern the fall semester of 1951, the 4,155 enrollment of last fall shows exactly an increase of 322 per cent.

One looks back only nine years, of this same ten-year period, to note that the increase in graduating classes have nearly paralleled the enrollment increases. A total of 353 graduated from Eastern in the 1951-52 school year, whereas, in the 1960-61 school year, the number of graduates reached 865. These figures include both the spring and summer graduating classes.

The enrollment last fall was an increase of 20.3 over the previous all-time high at Eastern. This marked the tenth consecutive year that the enrollment figure has established a new record. About 1,000 students enrolled in the laboratory school on campus and in off-campus extension programs were not included in the figure.

The increase over a two-year period is over 40 per cent.

The total enrollment last year for the fall and spring semesters and summer term, including duplicates, was 9,059, including only those students taking on-campus instruction.

6,000 By 1970 Predicted

President Martin predicts that, by 1970, enrollment at Eastern will total 6,000. This prediction, in fact, was made the first week of his office of the presidency at Eastern in July, 1960.

A look back to the first graduating class of the two-year normal school shows that a total of 321 students were enrolled for the two semesters and summer school. There were five graduates.

The following year, 550 were enrolled for the two semesters and summer term. There were ten graduates that year. The following year, enrollment increased to 602 and the number of graduates totalled eleven, while the 1909-10 school year saw 618 students enrolling for the three sessions and the graduates reaching 50.

These figures were inclusive of duplicates and do not include the different students attending Eastern.

Thirteen graduated from the first four-year class in 1925. That same year, 166 students received diplomas from the two-year college. The enrollment, again, including duplicates, was 1,304.

By 1950, the enrollment had soared to 1,432 students and the number of graduates had jumped to 378. The Conflict, however, caused enrollments to decrease of students as people as well as their growth as students and prospective teachers.

(6) There apparently is a high staff morale and mutual trust between faculty and administration. The following charts indicate the tremendous strides that have been made in enlarging and raising the standards of the faculty to meet the demands of the growing college. From 19 members of the faculty in 1906, to 165 faculty members in the fall of 1961, and from one professor holding the doctorate degree in 1906, to 37 with the doctorate this year, it is evident that the growth has been in both size and quality.

The charts are broken down in ten-year periods, dating from 1906-07 to the present school year.
