Fickle Colonels Battle Eagles For OVC Crown

(Editors' Note: This story pays tribute to five senior basketball players who will play their last home game against Morehead Saturday night.)

Saturday night's game with Morehead is being billed as a classic. The Ohio Valley Conference title is riding on the outcome of this important clash and what a fitting climax it will be for five Eastern seniors, George Bryant, Daryl Dunagan, Billy Burton, Charlie Brunker and Chuck Worthington, who will play their last game before an Alumni Coliseum crowd.

Have To Win

What must Eastern do Saturday night? Well it's very simple, they have to win and should they defeat the Eagles the conference race will be thrown into at least a two-way tie and possibly three teams could be deadlocked if Western tops Middle Tennessee in Bowling Green.

Before the season began the experts were picking Eastern to capture the OVC title in '72 largely due to the fact that Eastern returned more experience than the other schools and the Colonels' great finish last year. But Eastern head coach Guy Strong was a bit leary before the beginning of the season as he indicated several times that the conference was more balanced than in any year since he has been the Colonels' coach.

In the beginning of the conference schedule in January Coach Strong said he thought the conference champion could have as many as four losses.

Many thought that was too much, but now look at the picture. Five losses will be good enough to take all the marbles and a trip to the NCAA Mideast first-round playoffs March 11 in Knoxville, Tenn.

Would Force Playoff

A win by Eastern and a victory by Western would force a conference playoff to be held in Frankfort's new Convention Center next Tuesday and Wednesday. Morehead and Western are paired while EKU drew a bye.

If experience ever should pay off then this is the point in the season when EKU fans will find out. Morehead's sophomore laden squad has had a surprising season (they were picked to finish in the middle of the race).

Now, they too will find out just how much they have. Coach Bill Harrell has started four sophomores and a junior college transfer all season and so far it's paid off in grand fashion.

For Eastern, Strong will probably start his usual lineup which places three seniors among the five—Bryant, Burton and Dunagan.

Bryant Tabbed Candidate

Bryant, 6-0, 180, has had a fabulous career at Eastern and a conference title would be a storybook ending for the 'King'. Bryant has been tabbed as a leading candidate for the Bros with his patented high-arching 25 foot jumper. Last season he led Eastern in scoring with a 24.7 ppg average and this mark was second in the OVC to Western's All-American Jim McDaniels. Currently he is hovering around the 21 point mark, a slight drop from last year but EKU has been a more balanced scoring machine this season.

The sparkplug of Eastern's attack is Burton, a 6-3, 185 pound guard. Coliseum fans will get their last look at the hustling ball-of-fire diving and sliding across the floor for loose balls.

He and Bryant make up one of the finest guard combinations in the South.

Dunagan, who is 6-5 but plays like he is 6-8 because of his long arms, is another player who lacks nothing in desire. He broke into Eastern's starting lineup midway of last season and since then has shown improvement with each game. Dunagan was an important factor in last Monday night's must win over Tennessee Tech. Brunker was in the background much of his career until Bryant became ill in January. He was put into the lineup and the results were—Eastern had another very capable guard that Coach Strong could go to.

One of the easiest going fellows you will ever meet is Worthington who played only last year for Eastern after he transferred here from New Jersey. He too has come off the bench during the season to give that needed relief for one of the starters. It was the 6-5 jumping-jack that clinched Eastern's double-overtime win at Middle Tennessee as he stepped to the line and sunk the free throw that put Eastern ahead by three points in the closing seconds.

Saturday night will be one which these five seniors will probably never forget and hopefully one which Eastern fans will be talking about when they remember the 71-72 season.

Eastern has not won an OVC championship in basketball since 1965 and now the time is here that will decide if 1972 is indeed the year the Colonels will take the title.

University Officials Challenge City's New Garbage Proposal

BY FAWN CONLEY
Staff Writer

Eastern filed a petition in the Madison County Circuit Court last Monday seeking a restraining order against the City of Richmond, Mayor Wallace Maffett, City Commissioners Edward Murphy, Virgil McWhorter, R.J. Nelson, and James C. Todd, and W.R. Rowe, with whom the city has entered an agreement to dispose of city garbage on his property.

The exclusion came about when the Commission majority voted to discontinue use of the Hugh Lovette landfill on Box Angle Road.

According to Mayor Maffett, the cost for use of the Lovette landfill was approximately $1,000 per month, $600 for heavy equipment operators' salaries, $100 for rent of the land, $100 for the land and approximately $200 supervision of the land and approximately $200 for depreciation of equipment, gas, oil and maintenance.

Use of the Rowe landfill will cost $1,666.67 per month, which includes rental of the land, and upkeep and supervision of the land and equipment.

The City will continue to pay the Lovette rental fee until December, 1972.

According to the Lexington Herald, "Eastern complained that the resolution was 'discriminatory, unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious,' and would deprive the plaintiff from use of the sanitary landfill and disposal facility operated and maintained by the city."

Eastern's petition asked that the court issue a restraining order to keep the defendants from closing the landfill and that the city be required to accept the refuse and garbage from the University.

The petition also asked that the court settle what amount of money Eastern would be required to pay for past and future services and that Eastern refuse would be accepted and processed without cost should the city remove the garbage tax from other residents.

Two Students Injured Monday

Two Eastern Kentucky University students were injured, one seriously, when the auto in which they were riding plunged over an embankment on Curtis Pike Monday afternoon.

One passenger in the car, Bernard McGlone, Harrodsburg, was listed in critical condition at Chandler Medical Center, Lexington, where he was taken after treatment at Pattie A. Clay Hospital. According to a hospital spokesman, McGlone sustained a severe head injury.

The driver, Steve Jackson, 20, Harrodsburg, was treated at Pattie A. Clay Hospital for abrasions and released.

Two other passengers, Robert Bruce Sims, 20, also of Harrodsburg, and James Allen Dean, 21, Salvisa, escaped injury, police said.

The driver told officers that another vehicle had forced him from the road by driving toward him on the wrong side of the center line.

Investigating officers stated the driver was intoxicated and speeding at the time of the accident.

No citations were issued, according to police reports.

EKU Athletic Committee Stresses Good Conduct

The Athletic Committee has adopted a resolution, supported by EKU president Robert R. Martin, encouraging Ohio Valley Conference officials, officials of member institutions, coaches, players and fans to focus their attention on the problems of crowd control and general conduct surrounding team competition. The statement was issued in an effort to arouse the concern of those interested in Conference standards and the development of high level relationships among institutions through competitive athletics.

and the officials of its member institutions be made aware of the concern of the Athletic Committee of this institution for the conditions set forth herein:

- (1) That the Commissioner and member institutions should immediately study the matter thoroughly and should adopt and/or enforce necessary rules and regulations for the proper conduct of its competitive programs to insure a respectable, high level standard for the OVC and that all officials involved should take the necessary actions to implement such regulations and standards;
- (2) That the President of the University consider this viewpoint of the Athletic Committee in relation to Eastern Kentucky University and take such steps as he deems appropriate to encourage Conference officials and other member institutions to take actions necessary to insure high Conference standards.

Accordingly, the EKU Athletic Committee recommends:

- (1) That the Athletic Director continuously review all aspects of the intercollegiate athletic program and promote standards in keeping with the highest ideals of competitive athletics at the University and wherever the institution is represented by this program;
- (2) That the Commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference

Dr. Martin has forwarded a copy of the resolution to Art Guepe, commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference.

For The Senate

Irregularities Mean Another Election

BY JIM HOUSE
News Editor

Because of alleged irregularities at the polls, a student Senate referendum on open dormitory visitation and voting to fill a vacant seat for Senator-At-Large were declared void by Eastern's Student Court.

Both will re-appear on the ballot March 8. Barry Meyers, a candidate for Senator, contested the outcome of the election, the results of which have been kept secret. On Wednesday's ballot, there will be two seats open for the Senate.

Petitions for candidacy are available in the Student Association office in the Powell Building.

There are three items in the referendum for students to consider, the choices going something like:

1. I am in favor of 14-hour open dormitory visitation.
2. I am in favor of dorm inter-visitations in certain dormitories at regular pre-determined times.

I am in favor of the present university policy concerning dormitory visitation.

The referendum, approved unanimously by the Student Senate, was introduced to the body by Steve Slade, sophomore representative in the Senate.

Slade is also a member of the Student Rights and Responsibilities Committee, which has been given authority to be the voice of the student body on the visitation question by the Student Senate.

Slade told the Progress that hearings will be held after the results of the referendum have been determined in order to discuss the way in which it will be presented to the administration.

Slade said that the purpose of the referendum was to poll students for their feelings on the question in general and to furnish the Student Senate with an estimation of just how much support it will have on the referendum.

As Outstanding Young Man Kentucky Jaycees Honor Connelly

Tom Connelly, Jr., coordinator of Allied Health Programs at Eastern, has been named by the Kentucky Jaycees as one of "Five Outstanding Young Men in Kentucky" and was honored this past weekend at the annual Winter Board Meeting of the Kentucky Jaycees in Newport.

Connelly came to Kentucky immediately after receiving his master's in hospital administration from Duke University. Earlier he received his undergraduate degree from Hampden-Sidney College in Virginia.

Became Youngest To Serve

He was the youngest assistant hospital association executive officer in the country. He moved to Richmond and Eastern Kentucky University in 1970 and at 27 became the youngest person to serve in his capacity in a major university in Kentucky. As Coordinator of Allied Health programs, Connelly is responsible to the Vice President for Academic Affairs for the coordination of 17 educational programs in the Allied Health professions on campus which enrolled nearly 700 students in 1971. In addition he is administrator of a $29,000 federal grant which he secured for the university as well as being responsible for the development and implementation of new programs in Allied Health on campus. He serves the entire university as a general consultant for all matters pertaining to Allied Health programming. He is also the youngest chairman of a university committee (Allied Health Committee), which reviews all programs and courses in Allied Health and makes recommendations regarding their implementation.

Since 1969 he has given professional papers at two national conventions and several state conventions and regional meetings. He has had one monograph and four articles, published in national journals, and one research study distributed nationally by the national Health Council of New York. In addition to his regular work duties, Connelly is continuing his teaching career at Eastern Kentucky University as an assistant professor in the Department of School and Public Health.

Connelly and his wife, Mary Lou, have two children, a son and daughter, and reside on Barnes Mill Road in Richmond. His name was submitted to the state Jaycee organization by the Richmond Jaycees.

Attend OYM Banquet

Attending the OYM Banquet held at Glen Schmidt's in Newport were Richmond Jaycee President Dick Schweitzer and wife, Pat. External Vice President Gary Risk and wife, Lana. Internal Vice President Frank Shoofer, State Director Chan Leucht, Miles

and Peggy Pope, Clyde and Mary Hill, Delbert and Bana Ousley, Monty Joe and Belinda Lovell, Ewell and Cecelia Cobb, and Dan Wilson.

Four Men Recognized

Four other young men were recognized for their efforts in their respective communities for professional and civic involvement: Dan Isel of the ABA Kentucky Colonels; Lenny Lyles, Louisville tobacco executive and former professional football player; Lee Majors, TV star appearing in the "Owen Marshall" series; and Dr. Harvey Sloane, Louisville Physician.

The Richmond Jaycees were recognized as the number five chapter in Kentucky among 130 chapters and as the number one chapter in region five in competition with 21 other chapters. Joining the Jaycee contingent for the Sunday morning session were David Greene, Jerry Greene, Fred Giles, and Jimmy C. Rogers.

For Real Justice

Students Need Order In Their Court

The blindfolded "Statue of Justice" must have been created by an artist who witnessed procedures similar to those of Eastern's Student Court last Wednesday night. Antics such as those contributed to the court by the justices and participating students would have embarrassed any member of "The Bar" or any Eastern student.

Student Court was established by President Martin for trying university traffic violations and reviewing the student constitution and actions of Student Senate and Student Association President. Trial by peers is certainly a noble idea, however, when Student Court convened last Wednesday all nobility was obscured by spectators' guffaws and chit-chat among some of the justices.

The case at trial last week involved charges from Barry Meyers concerning the irregularities in the February election of Senator-at-Large. Meyers and Steve Rowland, both candidates in the election, presented their cases to a somewhat confused "bench". As a rule students are to be represented by themselves or other students. In such a case the students wouldn't be expected to be completely familiarized with courtroom procedures. However, the justices should follow some type of guide to insure order. If the Student Court justices do follow a guide, it is a mystery to everyone. At one point, when an objection to a question arose, the chief justice was uncertain as to who was in the wrong. At another juncture the "Chief" was unable to say who was the plaintiff.

As in all courts, there must prevail some sort of decorum from all justices, defendants, plaintiffs and spectators. Eastern's student court must be an exception to the rule. Justices carried on conversations during the trial, participating students (defendant and plaintiff) quipped remarks under their breaths and spectators conversed and laughed. With eleven justices on the court it would seem feasible to appoint someone as a bailiff to keep the chaos down to a dull roar. Even the Chief Justice could exercise some power in excusing from the courtroom those persons found in contempt of court.

Student Justices are chosen by the Student Association and its President. There must be one student from each class and he must have a 2.25 average. It might be wise for the Student Association to look into the actions of the court. Obviously a 2.25 GPA isn't as essential to being an "honorable" judge as is responsibility and maturity.

The only way a justice is dismissed from the "bench" is by impeachment. Impeachment isn't the answer, but education is. The Student Association should take it upon itself to set standards on how the Student Court is to function. Obviously the student justices are not expected to be "James Earl Warrens" or "Hugo Blackes", but as officials of a court they need to set a precedent of order which future courts can follow.

Before this can be done the Student Association and its president must not only become aware of this problem but become active in rectifying it. If not the student court will continue to be a sham and only a token of student power.

Problems Corrected

Dear Editor:

In an effort to improve conditions in the dormitories, the Student Senate has established a committee to study and report on dorm problems. In order to do this properly, we need the help of the students.

Assume that the University is your landlord, and you are their tenant, the list the things that are wrong with your dorm or dorm room and take the list to the Student Association Office.

Your problems could possibly include such things as irregular heating, excessive dust, rodents, no fire alarms, poor elevator service, and unnecessary harassment by dorm authorities. There is no point in complaining about a problem unless you do something about it, therefore, complain to your landlord through this committee and there is a good chance that something will be done to help solve our dormitory problems.

Find Answer In Gibran

Youth is a time for searching, searching for the answers that only age and eternity can answer.

The deaths of Ellen Collins, Marie Covington, and Barbara Nickell have left all of us with a new respect for life and the usual unanswered question—Why?

The girls in Keith Hall who were close friends to the three have ended their search with the following passage from Kahlil Gibran. Said one, "It's as close to an answer as we'll ever get."

Trust the dreams, for in them is hidden the gate to eternity.

Your fear of death is but the trembling of the shepherd when he stands before the king whose hand is to be laid upon him in honour.

Is the shepherd not joyful beneath his trembling, that he shall wear the mark of the king?

Yet is he not more mindful of his trembling?

"For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun?"

And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?

(The final stanzas are italicized at the request of the girls who submitted the poem.)

"You would know the secret of death. But how shall you find it unless you seek it in the heart of life?"

The owl whose night-bound eyes are blind unto the day cannot unveil the mystery of light.

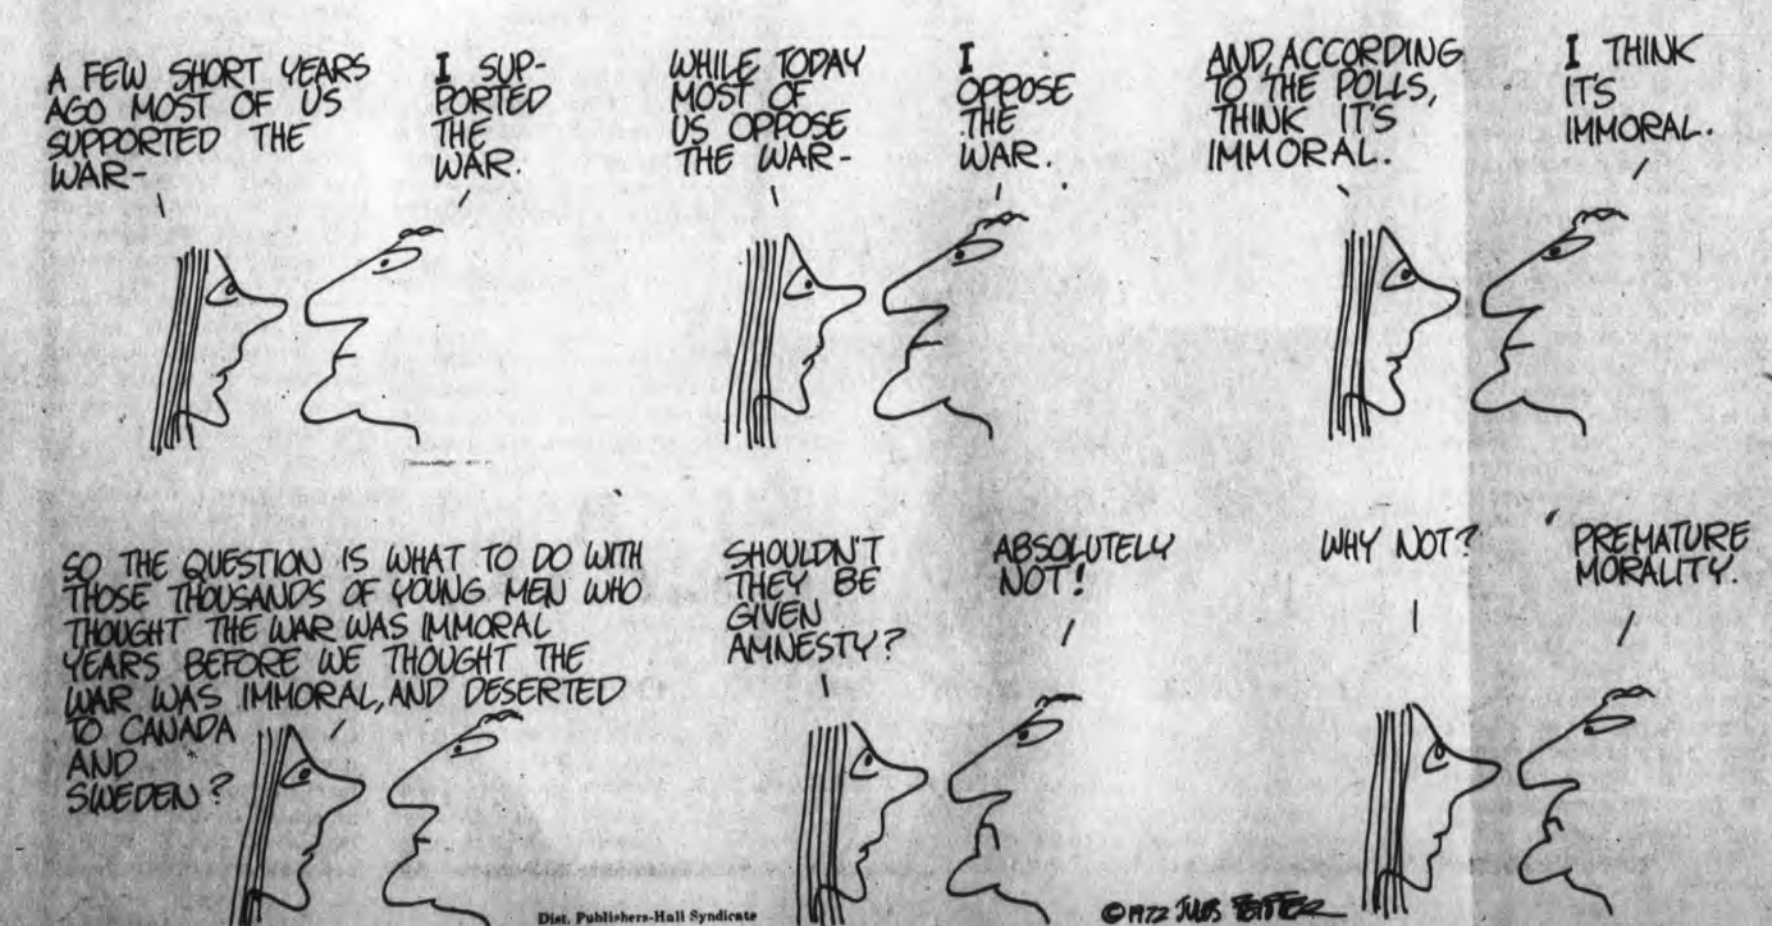

If you would indeed behold the spirit of death, open your heart wide unto the body of life.

For life and death are one, even as the river and the sea are one.

"In the depth of your hopes and desires lies your silent knowledge of the beyond;

And like seeds dreaming beneath the snow your heart dreams of spring.

 * The Arts *
 *****

A first-hand report on conditions in China today, prepared by Chinese-speaking American scholars, will be published by Bantam Books, March 1, in an Original illustrated paperback edition.

Entitled, China! Inside the People's Republic, the book was written by the 15 members of the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars who toured mainland China for one month last July with freedom to photograph and interview as they pleased. It is based on their observations and discussions with workers, teachers, Premier Chou En-lai.

The CCAS group toured six provinces and a cross-section of cities, including Peking, Shanghai, Canton, Yenan, Soochow, Nanking, Sian, Taichai and Taiuan. What they heard and saw is disclosed in chapters on China's cities, communes, education, medicine, arts, women, foreign policy and the Cultural Revolution. The new book features 32 pages of photographs and a transcript of the scholars' three and one-half hour interview with Premier Chou En-lai.

The group was in Peking when President Nixon's visit was announced and were able to solicit opinion from the Chinese man-in-the-street. The most frequent response they heard was that Nixon's visit was prompted by the "crumbling war effort" in Southeast Asia. Others thought "Nixon is trying to distract the American public from their real problems by going to China."

The scholars also write the following about conditions Inside The People's Republic:

MEDICINE

Active venereal disease has been eradicated from most areas, an amazing accomplishment which has been corroborated by many Western doctors, the scholars report. This was done through a massive campaign involving paramedical workers as well as unskilled workers. Teams of young men and women went into remote villages putting on plays, reading stories, giving demonstrations and tests and setting up treatment days.

FACTORIES

The most noticeable physical characteristics of Chinese factories were the clusters of trees, gardens and vegetable plots on the grounds. Workshops were "relatively neat and comfortable with plenty of space between the machines and no evidence of crowding," they write. Most factories contain large dormitories, usually for the unmarried workers, but they sometimes include living quarters for married couples and families.

Conditions in the factories have been vastly improved since Liberation, and work is no longer unnecessarily dangerous or unbearable. "Gone, too, are the shantytowns, gambling halls, pawnshops and opium dens that characterized the workers' district before 1949, and are still problems today in Hong Kong," the group writes.

EDUCATION

Liberation turned the old Chinese educational system on its head. In 1949, about 80 percent of the Chinese people were illiterate, and these were the poor. Today, only those people too old to learn cannot read Chinese newspapers, according to the scholars. Intellectuals are taught to be completely unlike the scholars of the past (who didn't work with their hands). Practical skills that will help China develop economically and socially are taught. Today's educated man or woman works in factories or on farms.

CULTURE

The most surprising aspect of the Chinese culture movement now is the clear de-emphasis and questioning of all the literary arts, according to the CCAS scholars. Short stories, poetry and other kinds of creative writing have decreased markedly, and the writing of novels has almost stopped since the Cultural Revolution. The new emphasis is on the visual arts.

Many of the techniques from the West are in wide use. Oil painting is becoming increasingly popular, Western musical instruments are available everywhere, and model musical works are scored for both Chinese and Western instruments.

WOMEN

One of the greatest miracles of the Chinese revolution may be the changes in the lives of their women. In 1950, with the new marriages, forbade the maltreatment of children and infanticide, permitted divorce for women and gave women property rights.

The Chinese press constantly deplors women "who stay at home all day long and gossip and think of nothing but their families and household chores," they note. The national policy is that women should work at productive labor for pay outside the homes, just as men do, and they should receive equal pay for equal work. In factory work and medical work, "We found much more equality between men and women than is found in similar institutions in the United States."

The Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars is a broad-based antiwar group founded in 1968 by students, historians, political scientists and sociologists. The 15 members who toured mainland China are young, (almost all in their twenties) and are students or teachers. Some of them have lived or worked in Hong Kong, most have returned to colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Jazzin' It Up

A drummer with the Preservation Hall Jazz Band backed up the famous group as they entertained an EKU audience in Brock. A near capacity crowd heard the famous New Orleans oldsters do their thing which included "Ice Cream", "Just A Closer Walk With Thee", and a parade around the aisles of the auditorium with enthusiastic students to "When The Saints Go Marchin' In." Featured with the group were Dee Dee and Billie Pierce, two of the most respected names in jazz.

Graduation Contracts

Record Degree Requirements

"There seems to have developed quite a bit of misunderstanding concerning the so-called curriculum contracts," said Dr. Thomas Stovall, Vice-President for Academic Affairs. They are officially referred to as "planned curriculum."

These curriculum plans are designed to help the student keep track of degree requirements, courses they have completed and how their courses relate to the requirements. They are not actually contracts but are progress sheets showing each student how he stands in relation to graduation requirements.

Students applying for graduation must see the Dean of the college from which they wish to graduate. This is required in order to check out their graduation contracts to see if the student is eligible to graduate.

The requirements for each degree are listed in the catalogue which is given to the student when he enters the University. This catalogue is the final authority in case there is a conflict as to what is required for graduation.

The deadline for application for graduation in May is before the end of the preceding October. The deadline for application for graduation in December is before the end of the preceding April.

The reason for these deadlines is so the Deans of each college can check the student's records to see if he or she lacks a requirement needed to graduate. If so, then the student can complete that course in the semester before he graduates.

Surveys across the nation show that only a very small percentage of students graduate in eight semesters. This is due to the fact that more students are inclined to transfer, take reduced course loads, change majors, or fail to decide on a major until late in their college career.

Health Fair Schedule

BY JILL BARTHEN
Staff Writer

"We have so many allied health programs on this campus that not everybody knows we have them," said Tom Connelly, Coordinator of the Allied Health Programs here at Eastern.

In an effort to present possible employment in the allied health fields and to provide an educational experience in talking to employers, Eastern Kentucky University will host the Second Annual Health Occupations Job Fair. It will be held Friday, March 3, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Kennamer Room of the Powell University Center.

According to Connelly, this type program is a first in the health field. Last year was the first effort in this direction and the results were very positive, showing expectations for an even bigger turnout of students this year.

John Vickers, Director of Placement, and a team of students have also been working to promote the Job Fair.

"We have a more diverse group of institutions coming this year—most major hospitals of Kentucky have accepted invitations," said the coordinator. Twenty-one institutions were represented last year as compared to twenty-five expected this year.

The "come as you are" program was purposely left open because of class schedules. "We'd like to emphasize that students on all class levels and not just graduates are to come," said

Connelly. Everyone gets an opportunity to view the job market situation as it stands.

Any of the allied health students are expected to take part. This wide range includes students in nursing, medical record technicians, food service technologists, dietician, therapeutic recreation specialists, accountants, business administrators, corrective therapists, social workers, environmental sanitations, community health educators, school health educators, speech pathologists, and audiologists.

Individual lists of the institutions, designating the positions for interviewing by employers, will be available through department chairman and also posted in the Kennamer Room all day Friday. No appointments will be made; the students come anytime and find the employer who is interested in his skill.

Criteria used by the Board in making their selections include tumbling and gymnastic techniques, original cheers, precision, voice projection, grooming, personality and smile.

"The fact that a cheerleader's smile is recognized by the Foundation as an integral key to his or her effectiveness has moved Ultra Brite to underwrite these national awards and to augment them with this program of scholarships and team expenses," Mr. Neil stated.

"In addition," he said, "Ultra Brite plans to unveil a new scholarship plan for high schools and a program to include the nation's thousands of drill team members at the March 24 Ultra Brite cheerleading Awards Ceremonies in Universal City."

EKU Coed Was Assaulted Tuesday

A 19-year-old white Eastern Kentucky University coed was criminally assaulted Tuesday night, according to Madison County Deputy Sheriff Harry Curry.

The officer said the girl, a resident of Louisville, was attacked by an unidentified male about 11:11:30 p.m. on Curtis Pike.

The girl related that she and two other coeds had accepted a ride from downtown Richmond back to the campus with the man, a Negro, Curry said. The two other girls left the auto at Sidney Clay Hall. The victim remained in the auto and was to be let out at her dormitory, Burnam Hall. Instead, the girl said, the man drove down Barnes Mill Road to Curtis Pike where he sexually attacked her. After the assault, the girl was driven back to town and she left the auto at Collins Street, the deputy added.

The suspect was described to the deputy as 20-22 years old, medium to heavy build and with "a lot of hair combed straight out in a near-Afro hair style." He was reportedly driving a red and cream colored Rambler auto.

The girl was taken by her parents to Chandler Medical Center, Lexington, for further treatment.

It's All On The Line

Well, after 13 games of OVC play, the Colonels' title fortunes all boil down to this Saturday night's big one—the biggest of the big ones, as the sophomore studded and league leading Morehead Eagles will knock heads with the Colonels in an already sold-out Alumni Coliseum.

Eastern has to win. If they don't it's all over, and this just might be enough incentive right there for them to come through in this "must" game. But there's other things they've got going for them—such as the memory of that controversial walking call which cost them the one point loss to Morehead earlier this year and the other narrow defeats which have kept them from taking command of the tangled conference race.

Only three things can happen in the race now. If Eastern beats Morehead, and Western beats Middle Tennessee, there's a three way tie for first and there'll be a playoff in Frankfort. If the Colonels win and Western loses, Eastern and Morehead will share the title and there'll be another game between the two, but the Hilltoppers probably won't lose since they're playing at home. The third—and worst—possibility is that if Morehead wins Saturday, they're the champs—and nobody else.

The Colonels looked extremely sharp Monday night in disposing of Tennessee Tech surprisingly easily, and they've shown throughout the year that when they get on a hot streak they're practically unstoppable, especially in front of the home fans. The crowd, the chance for revenge, the knowledge that there's no tomorrow—it could cause another one of those "unstoppable" performances.

At least this corner hopes—and predicts—that it will. Morehead's almost unreal 74 point outburst in the second half against East Tennessee is proof that the Eagles are plenty tough, but it's doubtful that they'll be as loose as they were last Monday.

So, we'll make two forecasts—one, the OVC race will end up in a three way tie; two, it ought to be one heck of a game Saturday night.

Eastern Victory Will Cause Playoff

Colonels, Morehead Collide In OVC Showdown

BY JOHN NELSON
Staff Writer

The Colonels, now 8-5 in the league, tied with Western for second and a game behind Morehead now find themselves in another of the common OVC predicaments as the title could go any of three ways.

Perhaps the most important game of the season will take place Saturday in Alumni Coliseum at 8 p.m., when Eastern will host the first place Morehead Eagles.

Also finding themselves a part of a possible three way tie is Western, which defeated Austin Peay Monday night 83-74. Should the Colonels defeat Morehead, who won an earlier match this season in Morehead 94-93, and should Western win against Middle Tennessee Saturday, the Hilltoppers will have a shot for a second consecutive OVC title.

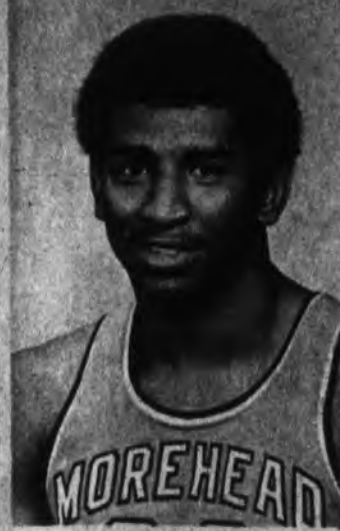

But the Eagles come first and will be searching for a long awaited championship. They have shared the regular season title on four occasions, the last in 1969, and they won a playoff in 1961 over Eastern and Western. Morehead is a running team, which gives the ball to whoever is open, and the man who runs this mad offense is Bill Dotson, a 6-4 sophomore from London, Kentucky. He scored 23 points against East Tennessee Monday night. Dotson does not only excel in offense, but his teammates have nicknamed him "Mr. Defense" because he loves to play a scrappy, pressure defense.

Coulter Leads Scoring

Leonard Coulter, a well respected, 6-5 sophomore forward from Danville who has performed superbly for the Eagles this season will definitely be ready. He proved it Monday night when he scored 40 big points and pulled down 16 rebounds. Coulter who leads the Eagles in scoring with a 23 point average, is expected to have a great future with the Eagles.

Another of the Eagles' promising sophomores is 6-2 guard Howard Wallen from

LEONARD COULTER

Known for his exceptional ball handling as a forward is 6-5 sophomore Eugene Lyons

from Pikeville, Kentucky. Against East Tennessee he had 16 points and 13 rebounds. He, Coulter, and center Ron Nicholson combine for a deadly front line.

Nicholson is a transfer from Seminole Junior College in Florida. He is a good leaper with speed and quickness. He also has good scoring ability and can play defense. Standing 6-8 Nicholson grabbed 13 rebounds Monday night and contributed 12 points.

The key to the big win over East Tennessee came in George (Bubba) Abell, a reserve guard who came in for 11 1/2 minutes and added 18 points and gave a spectacular defensive show. Bubba is a 6-2 Junior guard from Lebanon, Kentucky. He says his contribution is to "go as hard and long as I can."

The Eagles displayed their uttermost capabilities Monday night by shooting an outstanding 50 of 92, 53.4 percent, and scoring 124 points, 74 of which came in the second half when they shot 61.5 percent. Another factor of Morehead's defensive success is their press, which has paid off well all year.

The Eastern 71-72 basketball regular season finale will take place Monday, March 6 in Blacksburg, Va. —against Virginia Tech. This game will be an important one for Virginia Tech as it might give them a chance for an NIT bid.

They have four returning starters from last year, including Allen Bristow who is ranked nineteenth in the nation with a 24.7 average.

Coach Don DeVos is in his first year at Tech and is posting a 15-9 record.

ference by way of an 89-86 overtime loss to East Tennessee Saturday night in Johnson City, regrouped Monday night for a 95-78 romp over Tennessee Tech.

Morehead's hot-shooting sophomores still lead the league by a full game by virtue of a 124-99 shellacking of East Tennessee. Western Kentucky is tied with Eastern for the second spot.

So Morehead comes to town Saturday night for an affair that may shake the sturdy beams of the nation's largest laminated wooden roof, while Western entertains Middle in the friendly confines of Bowling

Green's Diddle Arena. If Eastern beats the Eagles, and the Toppers stop Austin Peay, a playoff would be necessary to decide the conference crown.

Colonels Flat Saturday

The Colonels were worse than flat Saturday night, but gave the capacity crowd some anxious moments as George Bryant and substitute Robert Brooks kept Eastern in the game throughout the entire 45 minutes.

Bryant hit from every angle but upside-down with Bucaneer defenders hanging all over him, finishing with 34 points for his night's work.

Brooks came off the bench to score 14 points, his highest total as a varsity Colonel, and hauled down seven crucial rebounds. One of Brooks' field goals, an unbelievable diving tip-in between two astonished Bucs, gave the visitors a 79-78 lead with 2:30 to go in regulation.

Brooks then sent the game into overtime by hitting a free throw at 1:27, before East Tennessee was forced to turn the ball over.

EASTERN GUARD George Bryant (44) and Tennessee Tech's Al Lewis struggle for a rebound in the Colonels' 95-78 victory over the Golden Eagles last Monday in Alumni Coliseum. Eastern hosts Morehead's league leading Eagles in a crucial showdown here on Saturday night, and if the Colonels win they will go into a playoff for the title in Frankfort next week.

EKU'S Froman Finishes Second

Bill Froman, EKU's 118 pounder, finished second in the NCAA Eastern Regional Wrestling Tournament this past weekend in Cincinnati. Froman lost a 8-2 decision to top seeded

Joe Sade of Eastern Michigan in the finals. The EKU grappler's second place finish qualifies him to compete at the University of Maryland on March 9, 10 and 11th for NCAA championship at 118 pounds, in the country.

OVC Playoff Schedule Announced

OVC commissioner Art Guepe has announced the following playoff game schedule in case of a tie in the OVC basketball race. All games will be played in the new 7,000 seat Frankfort Sportscenter in Frankfort, Ky.

If a three way tie between Morehead, Western, and Eastern results, Morehead will play Western at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 7 and the winner will take on Eastern Wednesday, March 8, at 7:30. A drawing of the teams last Tuesday resulted in Eastern drawing a bye. If Morehead and Eastern tie for the title, they will meet at 7:30 on Wednesday, March 8.

Tennis Team Opening Friday

Eastern Kentucky University's tennis team gets a jump on the other spring sports squads Friday when it hosts Cumberland College in a 3 p.m. contest.

Stephenson and Dan Susong lead the returnees. Sophomores Jim Greenup and Paul Ballard should have better seasons in 1972 after a year's experience under their belts.

Bruce Sims and Bryan Talbot, both freshmen from Bermuda, should go a long way toward deciding what kind of season the EKU netters will have.

Stephenson had the highest winning percentage last spring of any EKU player, while Ballard won the fall tournament.

The Cumberland College match Friday will be held on the Martin Hall courts at 3 p.m.

Mile Relay Team Sets School Indoor Record

Eastern's mile relay team set a new indoor school record of 3:18.5 last Saturday afternoon as they placed third in the Ohio State Invitational meet at Columbus. Two mile relay heats were run in the meet, and Eastern placed first in their heat over Baldwin Wallace and Western Kentucky. However, their time was third behind Illinois, the winner of the other heat, and Murray, which finished second to Illinois with a 3:17.4.

Eastern's Keith Bertrand ran the first leg of the relay in a time of 50.4 and, according to Eastern coach E.G. Plummer, "got us a lead that we were able to maintain throughout the race." Tom Cahill ran the second leg in his best time of the current year, 50.8, and he was followed by Tyrone Harbut's third leg of 49.1. Mervyn Lewis then ran the anchor lap with a time of 48.2, "an extremely good time" according to

Plummer. Lewis won the 600 yard run in the invitational, holding off a late challenge by Middle Tennessee's Homer Huffman at the wire to take first in a time of 1:11.1. "Mervyn's time was a tenth of a second short of the NCAA qualifying time of 1:11 flat," said Plummer. "But we've sent in a petition for him to be able to compete in the NCAA because he ran a good enough time earlier in the year on a banked track."

This Friday the team will go to Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, Michigan, and coach Plummer said that, "we are confident that our mile relay team can run under 3:17 and qualify for the NCAA meet next week. We'll be running on a 220 yard tartan track, and we'll be up against some good competition in Tennessee and Eastern Michigan, so we should be able to run a real good race there."

Frosh Clip Somerset

A 35 point performance from 6-4 forward Jim Ratliff of Middletown, Ohio, sparked the Eastern frosh basketball squad to an 85-78 victory over Somerset Community College last Monday night at Alumni Coliseum.

Ratliff pumped in 16 of 23 field goal attempts and gathered 10 rebounds in the game as the frosh improved their season record to 11-7.

Also in double figures for Eastern were Ron Smith with 14, Chester Smith with 11, and Howard Blakey and Larry Kalker, who scored 10 points apiece. Chester Smith pulled down 16 rebounds.

Somerset outshot the Colonels 47.1 per cent to 44.6, but Eastern was far more accurate at the foul line, canning 11 of 13 attempts to Somerset's 12 of 20. Eastern had four more field goals and had a 39-36 edge in rebounding.

The frosh squad closes its season this Saturday night when they take on Prestonsburg Community College in the 5:45 preliminary game in Alumni Coliseum.

Women Gymnasts Whip Louisville, Georgetown

Last Friday the Women's Gymnastics Team won their second meet of the season against the University of Louisville and Georgetown College. The final score was EKU 60.4, U of L 38.1, and Georgetown 27.5.

Patty Murrell placed first in all around competition (23.9) taking first place in three out of four events.

Eastern took three places in each event. The breakdown of places was: Side Horse Vaulting

First-Patty Murrell, second-Elaine Smith, and fourth place-Cheryl Strange.

Uneven Parallel Bars First-place -Patty Floyd, tied for third Patty Murrell and Carol Bowman of Georgetown, Sixth-Barb Kok.

Balance Beam First-Patty Murrell, second-Elaine Smith, fifth-Patty Floyd.

Set Nine Records

Eels Capture 10th Straight KISC

Eastern's Eels captured their 10th consecutive Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championship last weekend in the University of Kentucky pool.

Coach Donald Combs' Eels were able to pick up 722 points as compared to runnerup UK's 611½. Western Kentucky finished third with 233½ points, followed by Louisville's 107 and Morehead at 90.

In the process, the Eels set nine KISC records and broke six team marks. Four Eels also qualified for the NCAA Championships to be held in West Point, N.Y., March 23-25. Divers Greg Hook, Gordon Spencer and Ken Walters and freshman breaststroker Tom Javins earned this honor.

Eastern took first and second in seven events and first in 14 of 18 events. The Eels' divers also contributed to the win by going 1-2-3-4 on the one-meter board and 1-2-3-5 on the three-meter board.

Walters Wins One-Meter

Walters won the one-meter board, followed by Hook, Spencer, and Bob Sandford. EKU's Spencer took the three-meter board, while Walters placed second. Hook finished third and Sandford fifth on the three-meter board.

The Eastern swimmers also won two of three relays and placed second in the other. The 400-yard medley relay team of Wes Arnold, John Davenport, Don Crawford and Kevin Miles placed first in a time of 3:41.0.

EKU's 800-yard freestyle relay squad of Bill Stapleton, Wilson Myers, Rick Murphy and Miles took this event in a time of 7:15.9.

Paddleball Entries

Close Tomorrow

Intramural paddleball doubles entries close tomorrow at 4 p.m. Entries should be submitted to Begley 213.

Arnold led EKU swimmers with three firsts and two seconds for a total of 66 points. The freshman from Kingsport, Tenn., took first in the 200-yard backstroke (2:01.8) and the 100-yard backstroke (:56.5).

Javins, a freshman from Charleston, W. Va., accumulated 61½ for the Eels by winning the 100-yard breaststroke (1:01.2) and the 200-yard individual medley (2:02.4).

Other first place finishers for Eastern included Murphy in the 1650-yard freestyle (17:24) and the 200-yard butterfly (2:00.0); Miles in the 100-yard free-style (49.1) and the 200-yard freestyle (1:47.0) Murphy and Miles are both sophomores from Indianapolis, Ind.

Myers took first place for Eastern with a 4:57.5 time in the 500-yard freestyle. J.B. Hughes added a first place finish in the 50-yard free (:22.0). "I was really proud of the way our men shook off some of their injuries and went on and won this championship. We received a tremendous effort from everyone, especially some of our younger ones," Combs said. This marked the eleventh time in the past 14 years that Combs' Eels have captured the KISC. Eastern ended dual meet season's play with an 8-2 record.

Colonels Crush Tech, Lose To Bucs

(Continued From Page Six) shot, calling time out with 22 seconds to go. Bryant was "to take the shot, but Henry White, the same Henry White who beat the Colonels on a last second shot the first time the two met this year, blocked Bryant's attempt, and the five-minute overtime became necessary. Bryant connected on a three-point play to open the extra period and it looked as if the Colonels, probably the world's foremost exponents of the come-from-behind-victory, were at it again.

Nothing Doing. Eastern, playing with only two regulars could manage only three free throws during the rest of the game, one by Brooks, and two by Wade Upchurch, who came in to shoot for Charlie Mitchell after he was kicked by a stray Bucaneer leg with 3:41 remaining. Monday night was a complete turn-around, however. The Colonels could do nothing wrong; and had it not been for a poor first-half shooting performance by Bryant and Mitchell, it would have been over a lot earlier.

Five Straight Baskets

The pair overcame the problem in the second stanza, however, and at one stretch hit five straight baskets apiece, Bryant from somewhere downtown and Mitchell on (twelve-to fifteen-foot fall-away jumpers.

Everybody got into the act as Bryant led four double-figure scorers for Eastern. He finished with 21 points, while Mitchell and Big Dan Argabright had 19 apiece. Daryl Dunagan kept his grip on the OVC field goal percentage lead, by flipping in six out of 7 from the field.

He was identical at the line, finishing with 18 points on the night. Billy Burton, the Colonels' super-floor leader, collected eight points, while handing out a phenomenal 12 assists.

Rich Stone and Wayne Pack collected all but 16 of Tech's points with 28 and 27, respectively. Stone led all rebounders with 13, but was no match for Eastern's front line of Mitchell, (11) Argabright, (9) and Dunagan (8). Brooks probably leads the nation in rebounds per minute, as he pulled down four misses in his short stint.

Eastern needed something to pull them together for the one that really counted, and everyone in the Colonel camp feels like this was it.

Incidentally, EKU Officials announced Monday night that Saturday's showdown was already a complete sellout with as many extra reserved seats as possible having already been added.

Student Teachers Respond With Enthusiasm

BY PAULA GOODIN
Feature Editor

That long-awaited time has finally arrived for 473 Eastern students. After three and one-half years of learning how to teach, they are now learning to apply these principles as student teachers.

Michael Parks, Richmond, who is student teaching art at Model, is quite enthusiastic. In making a transition from student to teacher, he believes that student teaching "definitely will help. I already feel much more confident; I don't feel like a student anymore," he said.

Three days of observation before actually beginning to teach helps orient the student to a teaching atmosphere according to Parks. By the time they assume a position of authority before the students, both students and student teacher have become somewhat accustomed to one another.

Parks said that he had worried about whether he would have discipline problems, but he has experienced none. "The students seem to accept me as a teacher. They come to us (there is another student teacher in the classroom with Parks) for advise, and that shows confidence," he said.

Parks asked to be assigned to Model mainly because of the convenience. He said that you have quite a bit of freedom in your student teaching there, and that the students are generally easier to teach because they usually come from a better educational background.

Robyn Oatley, from Covington, is student teaching music this semester. She also asked to be placed at Model because of its convenience, but she has misgivings about having her first teaching experience at Model. "You get experience, but it's not too realistic because they have everything you need," she said.

Elementary student teachers face the same problem of a transition from student to teacher. With her first graders at Model Alison Masters of Brookville, Indiana, has found discipline to be her biggest problem. But she said that she has not yet been faced with anything too difficult to handle.

"I've picked up so many pointers from Mrs. Daniel, (her teacher) especially on classroom management, that I didn't get in my courses," reflects Miss Masters' enthusiasm. She was pleased also with the freedom allowed by her teacher. "She lets me try anything I want to," she said. Being married and the mother of two preschoolers is not a handicap for Carolyn Leary, in fact she finds it helpful. "You know what to expect from children. I'm doing a kindergarten practicum, and I have a kindergartener. I can try out things on him like reading him stories that I plan to read my class and see how he reacts," she said.

She said that student teaching definitely helps a student become a teacher. According to her it is a different kind of learning—finding out whether students have learned anything in their other courses and putting it to use. She said that students need to know just about everything they are taught in their courses.

She has had very few discipline problems. "It's a matter of getting to understand and know the children. When you understand them you know how to deal with them. You may have to experiment, but once you get to know a child, you don't really have a discipline problem," she said.

Dr. David Rush, Director of Professional Lab Experiences, said that this semester's group of student teachers is one of the largest enrollments Eastern students need to know just

BY JACK FROST
Managing Editor

(Editors' Note: This story pays tribute to five senior basketball players who will play their last home game against Morehead Saturday night.)

Saturday night's game with Morehead is being billed as a classic. The Ohio Valley Conference title is riding on the outcome of this important clash and what a fitting climax it will be for five Eastern seniors, George Bryant, Daryl Dunagan, Billy Burton, Charlie Brunker and Chuck Worthington, who will play their last game before an Alumni Coliseum crowd.

Have To Win

What must Eastern do Saturday night? Well it's very simple, they have to win and should they defeat the Eagles the conference race will be thrown into at least a two-way tie and possibly three teams could be deadlocked if Western tops Middle Tennessee in Bowling Green.

Before the season began the experts were picking Eastern to capture the OVC title in '72 largely due to the fact that Eastern returned more experience than the other schools and the Colonels' great finish last year. But Eastern head coach Guy Strong was a bit leary before the beginning of the season as he indicated several times that the conference was more balanced than in any year since he has been the Colonels' coach.

In the beginning of the conference schedule in January Coach Strong said he thought the conference champion could have as many as four losses.

Many thought that was too much, but now look at the picture. Five losses will be good enough to take all the marbles and a trip to the NCAA Mideast first-round playoffs March 11 in Knoxville, Tenn.

Would Force Playoff

A win by Eastern and a victory by Western would force a conference playoff to be held in Frankfort's new Convention Center next Tuesday and Wednesday. Morehead and Western are paired while EKU drew a bye.

If experience ever should pay off then this is the point in the season when EKU fans will find out. Morehead's sophomore laden squad has had a surprising season (they were picked to finish in the middle of the race).

Now, they too will find out just how much they have. Coach Bill Harrell has started four sophomores and a junior college transfer all season and so far it's paid off in grand fashion. For Eastern, Strong will probably start his usual lineup which places three seniors among the five—Bryant, Burton and Dunagan.

Bryant Tabbed Candidate

Bryant, 6-0, 180, has had a fabulous career at Eastern and a conference title would be a storybook ending for the 'King'. Bryant has been tabbed as a leading candidate for the Bros with his patented high-arching 25 foot jumper. Last season he led Eastern in scoring with a 24.7 ppg average and this mark was second in the OVC to Western's All-American Jim McDaniels. Currently he is hovering around the 21 point mark, a slight drop from last year but EKU has been a more balanced scoring machine this season.

The sparkplug of Eastern's attack is Burton, a 6-3, 185 pound guard. Coliseum fans will get their last look at the hustling ball-of-fire diving and sliding across the floor for loose balls.

He and Bryant make up one of the finest guard combinations in the South.

Dunagan, who is 6-5 but plays like he is 6-8 because of his long arms, is another player who lacks nothing in desire. He broke into Eastern's starting lineup midway of last season and since then has shown improvement with each game. Dunagan was an important factor in last Monday night's must win over Tennessee Tech.

Brunker was in the background much of his career until Bryant became ill in January. He was put into the lineup and the results were—Eastern had another very capable guard that Coach Strong could go to.

One of the easiest going fellows you will ever meet is Worthington who played only last year for Eastern after he transferred here from New Jersey. He too has come off the bench during the season to give that needed relief for one of the starters. It was the 6-5 jumping-jack that clinched Eastern's double-overtime win at Middle Tennessee as he stepped to the line and sunk the free throw that put Eastern ahead by three points in the closing seconds.

Saturday night will be one which these five seniors will probably never forget and hopefully one which Eastern fans will be talking about when they remember the 71-72 season.

Eastern has not won an OVC championship in basketball since 1965 and now the time is here that will decide if 1972 is indeed the year the Colonels will take the title.

EKU Athletic Committee Stresses Good Conduct

The Athletic Committee has adopted a resolution, supported by EKU president Robert R. Martin, encouraging Ohio Valley Conference officials, officials of member institutions, coaches, players and fans to focus their attention on the problems of crowd control and general conduct surrounding team competition. The statement was issued in an effort to arouse the concern of those interested in Conference standards and the development of high level relationships among institutions through competitive athletics.

and the officials of its member institutions be made aware of the concern of the Athletic Committee of this institution for the conditions set forth herein:

(3) That the Commissioner and member institutions should immediately study the matter thoroughly and should adopt and/or enforce necessary rules and regulations for the proper conduct of its competitive programs to insure a respectable, high level standard for the OVC and that all officials involved should take the necessary actions to implement such regulations and standards;

(4) That the President of the University consider this viewpoint of the Athletic Committee in relation to Eastern Kentucky University and take such steps as he deems appropriate to encourage Conference officials and other member institutions to take actions necessary to insure high Conference standards.

Dr. Martin has forwarded a copy of the resolution to Art Guepe, commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference.

Accordingly, the EKU Athletic Committee recommends:

(1) That the Athletic Director continuously review all aspects of the intercollegiate athletic program and promote standards in keeping with the highest ideals of competitive athletics at the University and wherever the institution is represented by this program;

(2) That the Commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference

For The Senate

Irregularities Mean Another Election

BY JIM HOUSE
News Editor

Because of alleged irregularities at the polls, a student Senate referendum on open dormitory intervisitation and voting to fill a vacant seat for Senator-At-Large were declared void by Eastern's Student Court.

Both will re-appear on the ballot March 8. Barry Meyers, a candidate for Senator, contested the outcome of the election, the results of which have been kept secret. On Wednesday's ballot, there will be two seats open for the Senate.

Petitions for candidacy are available in the Student Association office in the Powell Building.

There are three items in the referendum for students to consider, the choices going something like:

- 1. I am in favor of 14-hour open dormitory intervisitation.
- 2. I am in favor of dorm intervisitation in certain dormitories at regular pre-determined times.

3. I am in favor of the present university policy concerning dormitory intervisitation.

The referendum, approved unanimously by the Student Senate, was introduced to the body by Steve Slade, sophomore representative in the Senate.

Slade is also a member of the Student Rights and Responsibilities Committee, which has been given authority to be the voice of the student body on the visitation question by the Student Senate.

Slade told the Progress that hearings will be held after the results of the referendum have been determined in order to discuss the way in which it will be presented to the administration.

Slade said that the purpose of the referendum was to poll students for their feelings on the question in general and to furnish the Student Senate with an estimation of just how much support it will have on the referendum.

University Officials Challenge City's New Garbage Proposal

BY FAWN CONLEY
Staff Writer

Eastern filed a petition in the Madison County Circuit Court last Monday seeking a restraining order against the City of Richmond, Mayor Wallace Maffett, City Commissioners Edward Murphy, Virgil McWhorter, R.J. Nelson, and James C. Todd, and W.R. Rowe, with whom the city has entered an agreement to dispose of city garbage on his property.

The exclusion came about when the Commission majority voted to discontinue use of the Hugh Lovette landfill on Box Angle Road.

According to Mayor Maffett, the cost for use of the Lovette landfill was approximately $1,000 per month, $600 for heavy equipment operators' salaries, $100 for rent of the land, $100 for the land and approximately $200 supervision of the land and approximately $200 for depreciation of equipment, gas, oil and maintenance.

Use of the Rowe landfill will cost $1,666.67 per month, which includes rental of the land, and upkeep and supervision of the land and equipment.

The City will continue to pay the Lovette rental fee until December, 1972.

According to the Lexington Herald, "Eastern complained that the resolution was 'discriminatory, unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious,' and would deprive the plaintiff from use of the sanitary landfill and disposal facility operated and maintained by the city."

Eastern's petition asked that the court issue a restraining order to keep the defendants from closing the landfill and that the city be required to accept the refuse and garbage from the University.

The petition also asked that the court settle what amount of money Eastern would be required to pay for past and future services and that Eastern refuse would be accepted and processed without cost should the city remove the garbage tax from other residents.

Two Students Injured Monday

Two Eastern Kentucky University students were injured, one seriously, when the auto in which they were riding plunged over an embankment on Curtis Pike Monday afternoon.

One passenger in the car, Bernard McGlone, Harrodsburg, was listed in critical condition at Chandler Medical Center, Lexington, where he was taken after treatment at Pattie A. Clay Hospital. According to a hospital spokesman, McGlone sustained a severe head injury.

The driver, Steve Jackson, 20, Harrodsburg, was treated at Pattie A. Clay Hospital for abrasions and released.

Two other passengers, Robert Bruce Sims, 20, also of Harrodsburg, and James Allen Dean, 21, Salvisa, escaped injury, police said.

The driver told officers that another vehicle had forced him from the road by driving toward him on the wrong side of the center line.

Investigating officers stated the driver was intoxicated and speeding at the time of the accident.

No citations were issued, according to police reports.

As Outstanding Young Man Kentucky Jaycees Honor Connelly

Tom Connelly, Jr., coordinator of Allied Health Programs at Eastern, has been named by the Kentucky Jaycees as one of "Five Outstanding Young Men in Kentucky" and was honored this past weekend at the annual Winter Board Meeting of the Kentucky Jaycees in Newport.

Connelly came to Kentucky immediately after receiving his master's in hospital administration from Duke University. Earlier he received his undergraduate degree from Hampden-Sidney College in Virginia.

Became Youngest To Serve

He was the youngest assistant hospital association executive officer in the country. He moved to Richmond and Eastern Kentucky University in 1970 and at 27 became the youngest person to serve in his capacity in a major university in Kentucky. As Coordinator of Allied Health programs, Connelly is responsible to the Vice President for Academic Affairs for the coordination of 17 educational programs in the Allied Health professions on campus which enrolled nearly 700 students in 1971. In addition he is administrator of a $29,000 federal grant which he secured for the university as well as being responsible for the development and implementation of new programs in Allied Health on campus. He serves the entire university as a general consultant for all matters pertaining to Allied Health programming. He is also the youngest chairman of a university committee (Allied Health Committee), which reviews all programs and courses in Allied Health and makes recommendations regarding their implementation.

Since 1969 he has given professional papers at two national conventions and several state conventions and regional meetings. He has had one monograph and four articles, published in national journals, and one research study distributed nationally by the national Health Council of New York. In addition to his regular work duties, Connelly is continuing his teaching career at Eastern Kentucky University as an assistant professor in the Department of School and Public Health.

Connelly and his wife, Mary Lou, have two children, a son and daughter, and reside on Barnes Mill Road in Richmond. His name was submitted to the state Jaycee organization by the Richmond Jaycees.

Attend OYM Banquet

Attending the OYM Banquet held at Glen Schmidt's in Newport were Richmond Jaycee President Dick Schweitzer and wife, Pat. External Vice President Gary Risk and wife, Lana. Internal Vice President Frank Shoofer, State Director Chan Leucht, Miles

Four Men Recognized

Four other young men were recognized for their efforts in their respective communities for professional and civic involvement: Dan Isel of the ABA Kentucky Colonels; Lenny Lyles, Louisville tobacco executive and former professional football player; Lee Majors, TV star appearing in the "Owen Marshall" series; and Dr. Harvey Sloane, Louisville Physician.

The Richmond Jaycees were recognized as the number five chapter in Kentucky among 130 chapters and as the number one chapter in region five in competition with 21 other chapters. Joining the Jaycee contingent for the Sunday morning session were David Greene, Jerry Greene, Fred Giles, and Jimmy C. Rogers.

For Real Justice

Students Need Order In Their Court

The blindfolded "Statue of Justice" must have been created by an artist who witnessed procedures similar to those of Eastern's Student Court last Wednesday night. Antics such as those contributed to the court by the justices and participating students would have embarrassed any member of "The Bar" or any Eastern student.

Student Court was established by President Martin for trying university traffic violations and reviewing the student constitution and actions of Student Senate and Student Association President. Trial by peers is certainly a noble idea, however, when Student Court convened last Wednesday all nobility was obscured by spectators' guffaws and chit-chat among some of the justices.

The case at trial last week involved charges from Barry Meyers concerning the irregularities in the February election of Senator-at-Large. Meyers and Steve Rowland, both candidates in the election, presented their cases to a somewhat confused "bench". As a rule students are to be represented by themselves or other students. In such a case the students wouldn't be expected to be completely familiarized with courtroom procedures. However, the justices should follow some type of guide to insure order. If the Student Court justices do follow a guide, it is a mystery to everyone. At one point, when an objection to a question arose, the chief justice was uncertain as to who was in the wrong. At another juncture the "Chief" was unable to say who was the plaintiff.

As in all courts, there must prevail some sort of decorum from All justices, defendants, plaintiffs and spectators. Eastern's student court must be an exception to the rule. Justices carried on conversations during the trial, participating students (defendant and plaintiff) quipped remarks under their breaths and spectators conversed and laughed. With eleven justices on the court it would seem feasible to appoint someone as a bailiff to keep the chaos down to a dull roar. Even the Chief Justice could exercise some power in excusing from the courtroom those persons found in contempt of court.

Student Justices are chosen by the Student Association and its President. There must be one student from each class and he must have a 2.25 average. It might be wise for the Student Association to look into the actions of the court. Obviously a 2.25 GPA isn't as essential to being an "honorable" judge as is responsibility and maturity.

The only way a justice is dismissed from the "bench" is by impeachment. Impeachment isn't the answer, but education is. The Student Association should take it upon itself to set standards on how the Student Court is to function. Obviously the student justices are not expected to be "James Earl Warrens" or "Hugo Blackes", but as officials of a court they need to set a precedent of order which future courts can follow.

Before this can be done the Student Association and its president must not only become aware of this problem but become active in rectifying it. If not the student court will continue to be a sham and only a token of student power.

On President's Trip

Bantam Publishes Extra Edition

The first book on President Nixon's trip to China will undoubtedly be the 160-page, $1.50, illustrated paperback which Bantam Books has scheduled as its 40th Bantam Extra, for release within eight days after the president returns.

The book, entitled The President's Trip To China, will contain over 96 pages of on-the-spot photographs from the trip, most in full color, and 64 pages of text by members of the American press corps who are traveling with the Presidential party.

YES DOCTOR, IT APPEARS TO BE ANOTHER CASE OF SPRING BREAK FEVER.

Write On!

Letters for publication should be typewritten, double spaced, and not more than 250 words long. All letters must be signed and no names will be withheld from print. The editor reserves the right to edit all letters providing the meaning will not be altered. Letters which may subject the Progress and/or the writer to libel will be returned for rewriting or withdrawal.

Problems Corrected

Dear Editor:

In an effort to improve conditions in the dormitories, the Student Senate has established a committee to study and report on dorm problems. In order to do this properly, we need the help of the students.

Assume that the University is your landlord, and you are their tenant, the list the things that are wrong with your dorm or dorm room and take the list to the Student Association Office.

Your problems could possibly include such things as irregular heating, excessive dust, rodents, no fire alarms, poor elevator service, and unnecessary harassment by dorm authorities. There is no point in complaining about a problem unless you do something about it, therefore, complain to your landlord through this committee and there is a good chance that something will be done to help solve our dormitory problems.

Chairman Dorm Services and Conditions Committee

Friends Of Auto Victims

Find Answer In Gibran

Youth is a time for searching, searching for the answers that only age and eternity can answer.

The deaths of Ellen Collins, Marie Covington, and Barbara Nickell have left all of us with a new respect for life and the usual unanswered question—Why?

Trust the dreams, for in them is hidden the gate to eternity.

Your fear of death is but the trembling of the shepherd when he stands before the king whose hand is to be laid upon him in honour.

Is the shepherd not joyful beneath his trembling, that he shall wear the mark of the king?

Yet is he not more mindful of his trembling?

"For what is it to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun?"

And what is it to cease breathing, but to free the breath from its restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek God unencumbered?

(The final stanzas are italicized at the request of the girls who submitted the poem.)

"You would know the secret of death. But how shall you find it unless you seek it in the heart of life?"

The owl whose night-bound eyes are blind unto the day cannot unveil the mystery of light.

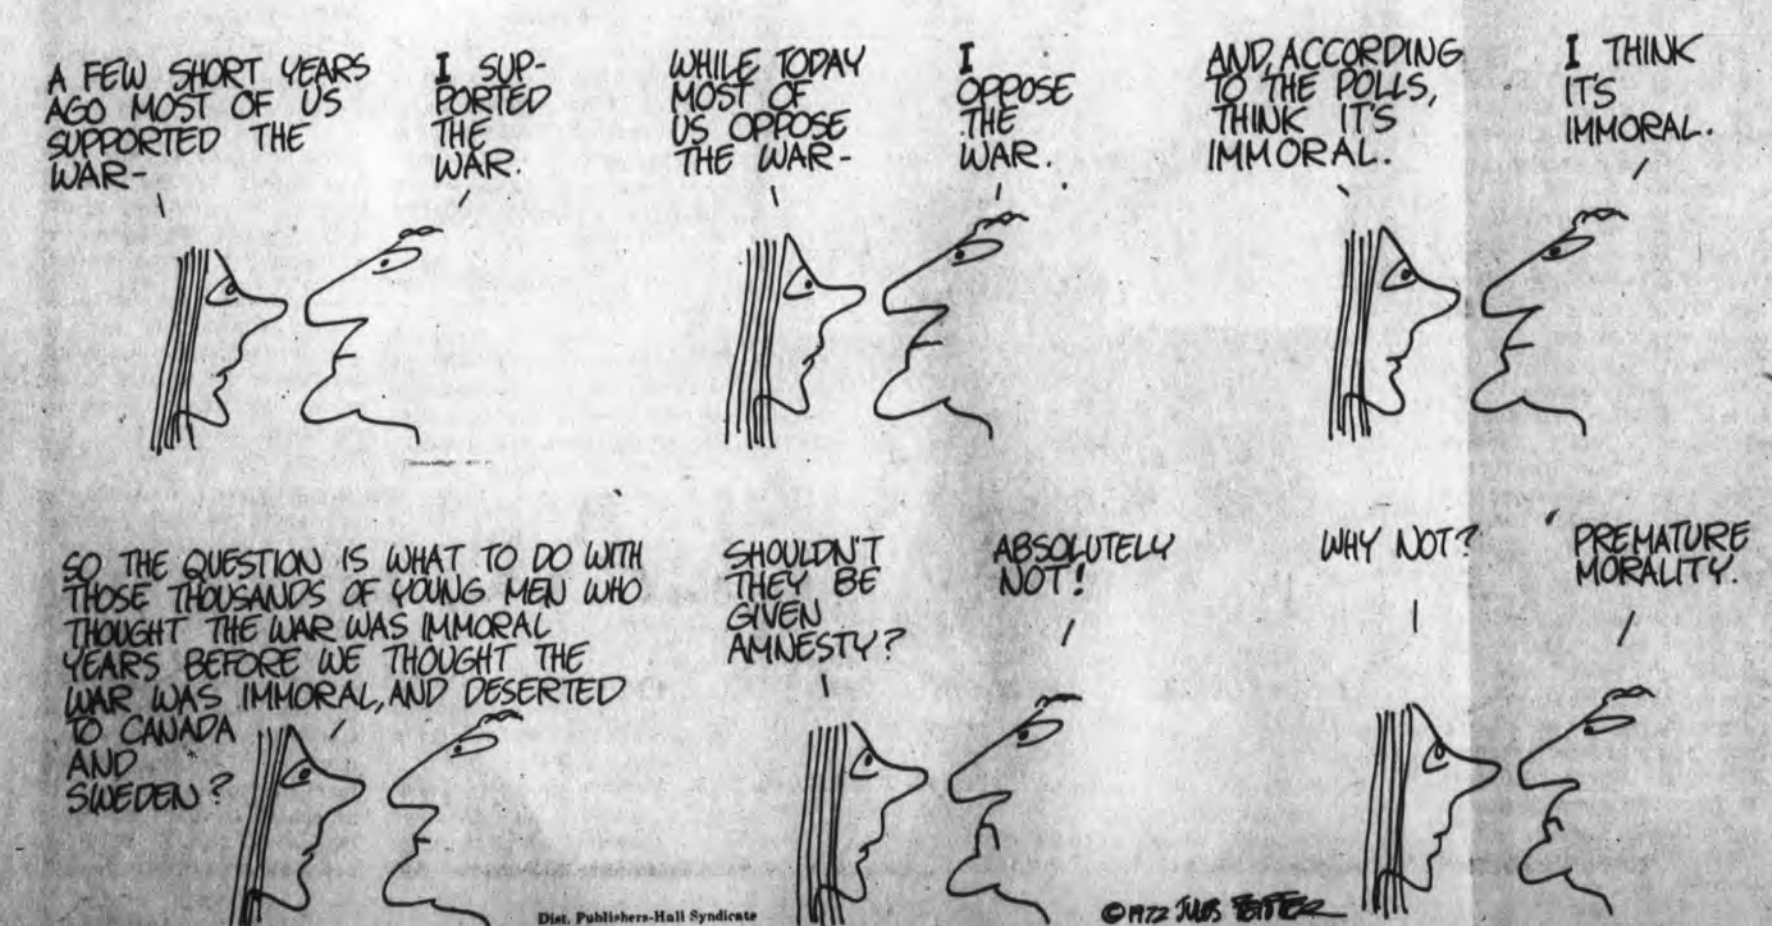

If you would indeed behold the spirit of death, open your heart wide unto the body of life.

For life and death are one, even as the river and the sea are one.

"In the depth of your hopes and desires lies your silent knowledge of the beyond;

And like seeds dreaming beneath the snow your heart dreams of spring.

A first-hand report on conditions in China today, prepared by Chinese-speaking American scholars, will be published by Bantam Books, March 1, in an Original illustrated paperback edition.

Entitled, China! Inside the People's Republic, the book was written by the 15 members of the Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars who toured mainland China for one month last July with freedom to photograph and interview as they pleased. It is based on their observations and discussions with workers, teachers, Premier Chou En-lai.

The CCAS group toured six provinces and a cross-section of cities, including Peking, Shanghai, Canton, Yenan, Soochow, Nanking, Sian, Taichai and Taiuan. What they heard and saw is disclosed in chapters on China's cities, communes, education, medicine, arts, women, foreign policy and the Cultural Revolution. The new book features 32 pages of photographs and a transcript of the scholars' three and one-half hour interview with Premier Chou En-lai.

The group was in Peking when President Nixon's visit was announced and were able to solicit opinion from the Chinese man-in-the-street. The most frequent response they heard was that Nixon's visit was prompted by the "crumbling war effort" in Southeast Asia. Others thought "Nixon is trying to distract the American public from their real problems by going to China."

The scholars also write the following about conditions Inside The People's Republic:

MEDICINE

Active venereal disease has been eradicated from most areas, an amazing accomplishment which has been corroborated by many Western doctors, the scholars report. This was done through a massive campaign involving paramedical workers as well as unskilled workers. Teams of young men and women went into remote villages putting on plays, reading stories, giving demonstrations and tests and setting up treatment days.

FACTORIES

The most noticeable physical characteristics of Chinese factories were the clusters of trees, gardens and vegetable plots on the grounds. Workshops were "relatively neat and comfortable with plenty of space between the machines and no evidence of crowding," they write. Most factories contain large dormitories, usually for the unmarried workers, but they sometimes include living quarters for married couples and families.

Conditions in the factories have been vastly improved since Liberation, and work is no longer unnecessarily dangerous or unbearable. "Gone, too, are the shantytowns, gambling halls, pawnshops and opium dens that characterized the workers' district before 1949, and are still problems today in Hong Kong," the group writes.

EDUCATION

Liberation turned the old Chinese educational system on its head. In 1949, about 80 percent of the Chinese people were illiterate, and these were the poor. Today, only those people too old to learn cannot read Chinese newspapers, according to the scholars. Intellectuals are taught to be completely unlike the scholars of the past (who didn't work with their hands). Practical skills that will help China develop economically and socially are taught. Today's educated man or woman works in factories or on farms.

CULTURE

The most surprising aspect of the Chinese culture movement now is the clear de-emphasis and questioning of all the literary arts, according to the CCAS scholars. Short stories, poetry and other kinds of creative writing have decreased markedly, and the writing of novels has almost stopped since the Cultural Revolution. The new emphasis is on the visual arts.

Many of the techniques from the West are in wide use. Oil painting is becoming increasingly popular, Western musical instruments are available everywhere, and model musical works are scored for both Chinese and Western instruments.

WOMEN

One of the greatest miracles of the Chinese revolution may be the changes in the lives of their women. In 1950, with the new marriages, forbade the maltreatment of children and infanticide, permitted divorce for women and gave women property rights.

The Chinese press constantly deplors women "who stay at home all day long and gossip and think of nothing but their families and household chores," they note. The national policy is that women should work at productive labor for pay outside the homes, just as men do, and they should receive equal pay for equal work. In factory work and medical work, "We found much more equality between men and women than is found in similar institutions in the United States."

The Committee of Concerned Asian Scholars is a broad-based antiwar group founded in 1968 by students, historians, political scientists and sociologists. The 15 members who toured mainland China are young, (almost all in their twenties) and are students or teachers. Some of them have lived or worked in Hong Kong, most have returned to colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Jazzin' It Up

A drummer with the Preservation Hall Jazz Band backed up the famous group as they entertained an EKU audience in Brock. A near capacity crowd heard the famous New Orleans oldsters do their thing which included "Ice Cream", "Just A Closer Walk With Thee", and a parade around the aisles of the auditorium with enthusiastic students to "When The Saints Go Marchin' In." Featured with the group were Dee Dee and Billie Pierce, two of the most respected names in jazz.

Graduation Contracts

Record Degree Requirements

"There seems to have developed quite a bit of misunderstanding concerning the so-called curriculum contracts," said Dr. Thomas Stovall, Vice-President for Academic Affairs. They are officially referred to as "planned curriculum."

These curriculum plans are designed to help the student keep track of degree requirements, courses they have completed and how their courses relate to the requirements. They are not actually contracts but are progress sheets showing each student how he stands in relation to graduation requirements.

Students applying for graduation must see the Dean of the college from which they wish to graduate. This is required in order to check out their graduation contracts to see if the student is eligible to graduate.

The requirements for each degree are listed in the catalogue which is given to the student when he enters the University. This catalogue is the final authority in case there is a conflict as to what is required for graduation.

The deadline for application for graduation in May is before the end of the preceding October. The deadline for application for graduation in December is before the end of the preceding April.

The reason for these deadlines is so the Deans of each college can check the student's records to see if he or she lacks a requirement needed to graduate. If so, then the student can complete that course in the semester before he graduates.

Surveys across the nation show that only a very small percentage of students graduate in eight semesters. This is due to the fact that more students are inclined to transfer, take reduced course loads, change majors, or fail to decide on a major until late in their college career.

Health Fair Schedule

BY JILL BARTHEN
Staff Writer

"We have so many allied health programs on this campus that not everybody knows we have them," said Tom Connelly, Coordinator of the Allied Health Programs here at Eastern.

In an effort to present possible employment in the allied health fields and to provide an educational experience in talking to employers, Eastern Kentucky University will host the Second Annual Health Occupations Job Fair. It will be held Friday, March 3, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in the Kennamer Room of the Powell University Center.

According to Connelly, this type program is a first in the health field. Last year was the first effort in this direction and the results were very positive, showing expectations for an even bigger turnout of students this year.

John Vickers, Director of Placement, and a team of students have also been working to promote the Job Fair.

"We have a more diverse group of institutions coming this year—most major hospitals of Kentucky have accepted invitations," said the coordinator. Twenty-one institutions were represented last year as compared to twenty-five expected this year.

The "come as you are" program was purposely left open because of class schedules. "We'd like to emphasize that students on all class levels and not just graduates are to come," said

Connelly. Everyone gets an opportunity to view the job market situation as it stands.

Any of the allied health students are expected to take part. This wide range includes students in nursing, medical record technicians, food service technologists, dietician, therapeutic recreation specialists, accountants, business administrators, corrective therapists, social workers, environmental sanitations, community health educators, school health educators, speech pathologists, and audiologists.

Individual lists of the institutions, designating the positions for interviewing by employers, will be available through department chairman and also posted in the Kennamer Room all day Friday. No appointments will be made; the students come anytime and find the employer who is interested in his skill.

EKU Coed Was Assaulted Tuesday

A 19-year-old white Eastern Kentucky University coed was criminally assaulted Tuesday night, according to Madison County Deputy Sheriff Harry Curry.

The officer said the girl, a resident of Louisville, was attacked by an unidentified male about 11:11:30 p.m. on Curtis Pike.

The girl related that she and two other coeds had accepted a ride from downtown Richmond back to the campus with the man, a Negro, Curry said. The two other girls left the auto at Sidney Clay Hall. The victim remained in the auto and was to be let out at her dormitory, Burnam Hall. Instead, the girl said, the man drove down Barnes Mill Road to Curtis Pike where he sexually attacked her. After the assault, the girl was driven back to town and she left the auto at Collins Street, the deputy added.

The suspect was described to the deputy as 20-22 years old, medium to heavy build and with "a lot of hair combed straight out in a near-Afro hair style." He was reportedly driving a red and cream colored Rambler auto.

The girl was taken by her parents to Chandler Medical Center, Lexington, for further treatment.

It's All On The Line

Well, after 13 games of OVC play, the Colonels' title fortunes all boil down to this Saturday night's big one—the biggest of the big ones, as the sophomore studded and league leading Morehead Eagles will knock heads with the Colonels in an already sold-out Alumni Coliseum.

Eastern has to win. If they don't it's all over, and this just might be enough incentive right there for them to come through in this "must" game. But there's other things they've got going for them—such as the memory of that controversial walking call which cost them the one point loss to Morehead earlier this year and the other narrow defeats which have kept them from taking command of the tangled conference race.

Only three things can happen in the race now. If Eastern beats Morehead, and Western beats Middle Tennessee, there's a three way tie for first and there'll be a playoff in Frankfort. If the Colonels win and Western loses, Eastern and Morehead will share the title and there'll be another game between the two, but the Hilltoppers probably won't lose since they're playing at home. The third—and worst—possibility is that if Morehead wins Saturday, they're the champs—and nobody else.

The Colonels looked extremely sharp Monday night in disposing of Tennessee Tech surprisingly easily, and they've shown throughout the year that when they get on a hot streak they're practically unstoppable, especially in front of the home fans. The crowd, the chance for revenge, the knowledge that there's no tomorrow—it could cause another one of those "unstoppable" performances.

At least this corner hopes—and predicts—that it will. Morehead's almost unreal 74 point outburst in the second half against East Tennessee is proof that the Eagles are plenty tough, but it's doubtful that they'll be as loose as they were last Monday.

So, we'll make two forecasts—one, the OVC race will end up in a three way tie; two, it ought to be one heck of a game Saturday night.

Eastern Victory Will Cause Playoff

Colonels, Morehead Collide In OVC Showdown

BY JOHN NELSON
Staff Writer

The Colonels, now 8-5 in the league, tied with Western for second and a game behind Morehead now find themselves in another of the common OVC predicaments as the title could go any of three ways.

Perhaps the most important game of the season will take place Saturday in Alumni Coliseum at 8 p.m., when Eastern will host the first place Morehead Eagles.

Also finding themselves a part of a possible three way tie is Western, which defeated Austin Peay Monday night 83-74. Should the Colonels defeat Morehead, who won an earlier match this season in Morehead 94-93, and should Western win against Middle Tennessee Saturday, the Hilltoppers will have a shot for a second consecutive OVC title.

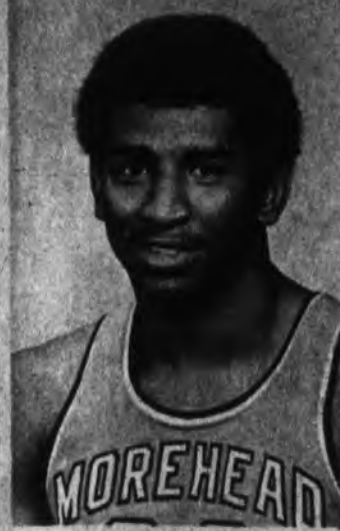

But the Eagles come first and will be searching for a long awaited championship. They have shared the regular season title on four occasions, the last in 1969, and they won a playoff in 1961 over Eastern and Western. Morehead is a running team, which gives the ball to whoever is open, and the man who runs this mad offense is Bill Dotson, a 6-4 sophomore from London, Kentucky. He scored 23 points against East Tennessee Monday night. Dotson does not only excel in offense, but his teammates have nicknamed him "Mr. Defense" because he loves to play a scrappy, pressure defense.

Coulter Leads Scoring

Leonard Coulter, a well respected, 6-5 sophomore forward from Danville who has performed superbly for the Eagles this season will definitely be ready. He proved it Monday night when he scored 40 big points and pulled down 16 rebounds. Coulter who leads the Eagles in scoring with a 23 point average, is expected to have a great future with the Eagles.

Another of the Eagles' promising sophomores is 6-2 guard Howard Wallen from

LEONARD COULTER

Known for his exceptional ball handling as a forward is 6-5 sophomore Eugene Lyons

from Pikeville, Kentucky. Against East Tennessee he had 16 points and 13 rebounds. He, Coulter, and center Ron Nicholson combine for a deadly front line.

Nicholson is a transfer from Seminole Junior College in Florida. He is a good leaper with speed and quickness. He also has good scoring ability and can play defense. Standing 6-8 Nicholson grabbed 13 rebounds Monday night and contributed 12 points.

The key to the big win over East Tennessee came in George (Bubba) Abell, a reserve guard who came in for 11 1/2 minutes and added 18 points and gave a spectacular defensive show. Bubba is a 6-2 Junior guard from Lebanon, Kentucky. He says his contribution is to "go as hard and long as I can."

The Eagles displayed their utmost capabilities Monday night by shooting an outstanding 50 of 92, 53.4 percent, and scoring 124 points, 74 of which came in the second half when they shot 61.5 percent. Another factor of Morehead's defensive success is their press, which has paid off well all year.

The Eastern 71-72 basketball regular season finale will take place Monday, March 6 in Blacksburg, Va. —against Virginia Tech. This game will be an important one for Virginia Tech as it might give them a chance for an NIT bid.

They have four returning starters from last year, including Allen Bristow who is ranked nineteenth in the nation with a 24.7 average.

Coach Don DeVos is in his first year at Tech and is posting a 15-9 record.

ference by way of an 89-86 overtime loss to East Tennessee Saturday night in Johnson City, regrouped Monday night for a 95-78 romp over Tennessee Tech.

Morehead's hot-shooting sophomores still lead the league by a full game by virtue of a 124-99 shellacking of East Tennessee. Western Kentucky is tied with Eastern for the second spot.

So Morehead comes to town Saturday night for an affair that may shake the sturdy beams of the nation's largest laminated wooden roof, while Western entertains Middle in the friendly confines of Bowling

Green's Diddle Arena.

If Eastern beats the Eagles, and the Toppers stop Austin Peay, a playoff would be necessary to decide the conference crown.

Colonels Flat Saturday

The Colonels were worse than flat Saturday night, but gave the capacity crowd some anxious moments as George Bryant and substitute Robert Brooks kept Eastern in the game throughout the entire 45 minutes.

Bryant hit from every angle but upside-down with Bucaneer defenders hanging all over him, finishing with 34 points for his night's work.

Brooks came off the bench to score 14 points, his highest total as a varsity Colonel, and hauled down seven crucial rebounds. One of Brooks' field goals, an unbelievable diving tip-in between two astonished Bucs, gave the visitors a 79-78 lead with 2:30 to go in regulation.

Brooks then sent the game into overtime by hitting a free throw at 1:27, before East Tennessee was forced to turn the ball over.

Eastern held on for one final (Continued On Page Seven)

EKU'S Froman Finishes Second

Bill Froman, EKU's 118 pounder, finished second in the NCAA Eastern Regional Wrestling Tournament this past weekend in Cincinnati. Froman lost a 8-2 decision to top seeded championship at 118 pounds, in the country.

Joe Sade of Eastern Michigan in the finals. The EKU grappler's second place finish qualifies him to compete at the University of Maryland on March 9, 10 and 11th for NCAA

OVC Playoff Schedule Announced

OVC commissioner Art Guepe has announced the following playoff game schedule in case of a tie in the OVC basketball race. All games will be played in the new 7,000 seat Frankfort Sportscenter in Frankfort, Ky.

If a three way tie between Morehead, Western, and Eastern results, Morehead will play Western at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 7 and the winner will take on Eastern Wednesday, March 8, at 7:30. A drawing of the teams last Tuesday resulted in Eastern drawing a bye. If Morehead and Eastern tie for the title, they will meet at 7:30 on Wednesday, March 8.

Tennis Team Opening Friday

Eastern Kentucky University's tennis team gets a jump on the other spring sports squads Friday when it hosts Cumberland College in a 3 p.m. contest.

Stephenson and Dan Susong lead the returnees. Sophomores Jim Greenup and Paul Ballard should have better seasons in 1972 after a year's experience under their belts.

Bruce Sims and Bryan Talbot, both freshmen from Bermuda, should go a long way toward deciding what kind of season the EKU netters will have.

Stephenson had the highest winning percentage last spring of any EKU player, while Ballard won the fall tournament.

The Cumberland College match Friday will be held on the Martin Hall courts at 3 p.m.

Mile Relay Team Sets School Indoor Record

Eastern's mile relay team set a new indoor school record of 3:18.5 last Saturday afternoon as they placed third in the Ohio State Invitational meet at Columbus. Two mile relay heats were run in the meet, and Eastern placed first in their heat over Baldwin Wallace and Western Kentucky. However, their time was third behind Illinois, the winner of the other heat, and Murray, which finished second to Illinois with a 3:17.4.

Eastern's Keith Bertrand ran the first leg of the relay in a time of 50.4 and, according to Eastern coach E.G. Plummer, "got us a lead that we were able to maintain throughout the race." Tom Cahill ran the second leg in his best time of the current year, 50.8, and he was followed by Tyrone Harbut's third leg of 49.1. Mervyn Lewis then ran the anchor lap with a time of 48.2, "an extremely good time" according to

This Friday the team will go to Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, Michigan, and coach Plummer said that, "we are confident that our mile relay team can run under 3:17 and qualify for the NCAA meet next week. We'll be running on a 220 yard tartan track, and we'll be up against some good competition in Tennessee and Eastern Michigan, so we should be able to run a real good race there."

Frosh Clip Somerset

A 35 point performance from 6-4 forward Jim Ratliff of Middletown, Ohio, sparked the Eastern frosh basketball squad to an 85-78 victory over Somerset Community College last Monday night at Alumni Coliseum.

Ratliff pumped in 16 of 23 field goal attempts and gathered 10 rebounds in the game as the frosh improved their season record to 11-7.

Also in double figures for Eastern were Ron Smith with 14, Chester Smith with 11, and Howard Blakey and Larry Kalker, who scored 10 points apiece. Chester Smith pulled down 16 rebounds.

Somerset outshot the Colonels 47.1 per cent to 44.6, but Eastern was far more accurate at the foul line, canning 11 of 13 attempts to Somerset's 12 of 20. Eastern had four more field goals and had a 39-36 edge in rebounding.

The frosh squad closes its season this Saturday night when they take on Prestonsburg Community College in the 5:45 preliminary game in Alumni Coliseum.

Set Nine Records

Eels Capture 10th Straight KISC

Eastern's Eels captured their 10th consecutive Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming and Diving Championship last weekend in the University of Kentucky pool.

Coach Donald Combs' Eels were able to pick up 722 points as compared to runnerup UK's 611½. Western Kentucky finished third with 233½ points, followed by Louisville's 107 and Morehead at 90.

In the process, the Eels set nine KISC records and broke six team marks. Four Eels also qualified for the NCAA Championships to be held in West Point, N.Y., March 23-25. Divers Greg Hook, Gordon Spencer and Ken Walters and freshman breaststroker Tom Javins earned this honor.

Eastern took first and second in seven events and first in 14 of 18 events. The Eels' divers also contributed to the win by going 1-2-3-4 on the one-meter board and 1-2-3-5 on the three-meter board.

Walters Wins One-Meter

Walters won the one-meter board, followed by Hook, Spencer, and Bob Sandford. EKU's Spencer took the three-meter board, while Walters placed second. Hook finished third and Sandford fifth on the three-meter board.

The Eastern swimmers also won two of three relays and placed second in the other. The 400-yard medley relay team of Wes Arnold, John Davenport, Don Crawford and Kevin Miles placed first in a time of 3:41.0.

EKU's 800-yard freestyle relay squad of Bill Stapleton, Wilson Myers, Rick Murphy and Miles took this event in a time of 7:15.9.

Paddleball Entries

Close Tomorrow

Intramural paddleball doubles entries close tomorrow at 4 p.m. Entries should be submitted to Begley 213.

Arnold led EKU swimmers with three firsts and two seconds for a total of 66 points. The freshman from Kingsport, Tenn., took first in the 200-yard backstroke (2:01.8) and the 100-yard backstroke (:56.5).

Javins, a freshman from Charleston, W. Va., accumulated 61½ for the Eels by winning the 100-yard breaststroke (1:01.2) and the 200-yard individual medley (2:02.4).

Other first place finishers for Eastern included Murphy in the 1650-yard freestyle (17:24) and the 200-yard butterfly (2:00.0); Miles in the 100-yard free-style (49.1) and the 200-yard freestyle (1:47.0) Murphy and Miles are both sophomores from Indianapolis, Ind.

Myers took first place for Eastern with a 4:57.5 time in the 500-yard freestyle. J.B. Hughes added a first place finish in the 50-yard free (:22.0). "I was really proud of the way our men shook off some of their injuries and went on and won this championship. We received a tremendous effort from everyone, especially some of our younger ones," Combs said. This marked the eleventh time in the past 14 years that Combs' Eels have captured the KISC. Eastern ended dual meet season's play with an 8-2 record.

Women's Basketball Here

Colonels Crush Tech, Lose To Bucs

(Continued From Page Six) shot, calling time out with 22 seconds to go. Bryant was "to take the shot, but Henry White, the same Henry White who beat the Colonels on a last second shot the first time the two met this year, blocked Bryant's attempt, and the five-minute overtime became necessary.

Bryant connected on a three-point play to open the extra period and it looked as if the Colonels, probably the world's foremost exponents of the come-from-behind-victory, were at it again.

Nothing Doing. Eastern, playing with only two regulars could manage only three free throws during the rest of the game, one by Brooks, and two by Wade Upchurch, who came in to shoot for Charlie Mitchell after he was kicked by a stray Bucaneer leg with 3:41 remaining.

Monday night was a complete turn-around, however. The Colonels could do nothing wrong; and had it not been for a poor first-half shooting performance by Bryant and Mitchell, it would have been over a lot earlier.

Five Straight Baskets

The pair overcame the problem in the second stanza, however, and at one stretch hit five straight baskets apiece, Bryant from somewhere downtown and Mitchell on (twelve-to-fifteen-foot fall-away jumpers.

Everybody got into the act as Bryant led four double-figure scorers for Eastern. He finished with 21 points, while Mitchell and Big Dan Argabright had 19 apiece. Daryl Dunagan kept his grip on the OVC field goal percentage lead, by flipping in six out of 7 from the field.

He was identical at the line, finishing with 18 points on the night. Billy Burton, the Colonels' super-floor leader, collected eight points, while handing out a phenomenal 12 assists.

Rich Stone and Wayne Pack collected all but 16 of Tech's points with 28 and 27, respectively. Stone led all rebounders with 13, but was no match for Eastern's front line of Mitchell, (11) Argabright, (9) and Dunagan (8). Brooks probably leads the nation in rebounds per minute, as he pulled down four misses in his short stint.

Eastern needed something to pull them together for the one that really counted, and everyone in the Colonel camp feels like this was it.

Incidentally, EKU Officials announced Monday night that Saturday's showdown was already a complete sellout with as many extra reserved seats as possible having already been added.

Student Teachers Respond With Enthusiasm

BY PAULA GOODIN
Feature Editor

That long-awaited time has finally arrived for 473 Eastern students. After three and one-half years of learning how to teach, they are now learning to apply these principles as student teachers.

Michael Parks, Richmond, who is student teaching art at Model, is quite enthusiastic. In making a transition from student to teacher, he believes that student teaching "definitely will help. I already feel much more confident; I don't feel like a student anymore," he said.

Three days of observation before actually beginning to teach helps orient the student to a teaching atmosphere according to Parks. By the time they assume a position of authority before the students, both students and student teacher have become somewhat accustomed to one another.

Parks said that he had worried about whether he would have discipline problems, but he has experienced none. "The students seem to accept me as a teacher. They come to us (there is another student teacher in the classroom with Parks) for advise, and that shows confidence," he said.

Parks asked to be assigned to Model mainly because of the convenience. He said that you have quite a bit of freedom in your student teaching there, and that the students are generally easier to teach because they usually come from a better educational background.

Robyn Oatley, from Covington, is student teaching music this semester. She also asked to be placed at Model because of its convenience, but she has misgivings about having her first teaching experience at Model. "You get experience, but it's not too realistic because they have everything you need," she said.

Elementary student teachers face the same problem of a transition from student to teacher. With her first graders at Model Alison Masters of Brookville, Indiana, has found discipline to be her biggest problem. But she said that she has not yet been faced with anything too difficult to handle.

"I've picked up so many pointers from Mrs. Daniel, (her teacher) especially on classroom management, that I didn't get in my courses," reflects Miss Masters' enthusiasm. She was pleased also with the freedom allowed by her teacher. "She lets me try anything I want to," she said. Being married and the mother of two preschoolers is not a handicap for Carolyn Leary, in fact she finds it helpful. "You know what to expect from children. I'm doing a kindergarten practicum, and I have a kindergartener. I can try out things on him like reading him stories that I plan to read my class and see how he reacts," she said.

She said that student teaching definitely helps a student become a teacher. According to her it is a different kind of learning—finding out whether students have learned anything in their other courses and putting it to use. She said that students need to know just about everything they are taught in their courses.

She has had very few discipline problems. "It's a matter of getting to understand and know the children. When you understand them you know how to deal with them. You may have to experiment, but once you get to know a child, you don't really have a discipline problem," she said.

Dr. David Rush, Director of Professional Lab Experiences, said that this semester's group of student teachers is one of the largest enrollments Eastern students need to know just
