Faculty Will Vote On Greeks Issue

By BRENDA PHILPOT
Progress News Editor

Members of the faculty will vote on the issue of the installment of fraternities and sororities at Eastern at their faculty dinner Monday night.

A report has been submitted to all faculty members by the faculty fraternity-sorority committee. It contains committee findings and conclusions with a recommendation that faculty vote "yes" favoring such social organizations on campus.

Contained also in the report is an outlined suggestion for the rules and regulations governing such organizations if they are installed.

According to the report, the first chapters would be local with nationals petitioned later on. To begin a fraternity or sorority, a petition would have to be submitted by a group of no less than six persons representing a membership of at least 20 people or a maximum of 30 to the present Faculty Committee on Student Organizations and Activities. If the petition meets certain requirements, it would be approved by the committee.

Four Per Year

The Faculty Fraternity-Sorority Committee is recommending that if the faculty approves the establishment of the organizations, that no more than two local fraternities and two local fraternities be permitted to organize each school year. They also recommended that a local fraternity or sorority be allowed to rush and pledge a total membership of no more than 45 total members, actives and pledges, after the organization has been in operation for one semester or more.

No student on social probation or achieving below a 2.0 standing would be allowed to pledge. Pledges would have to be full-time students with at least one semester completed at Eastern.

Places for meetings, chapter rooms, and social occasions for the organizations, if they are installed, would be designated by the school, according to the rules and regulations outlined by the committee report.

$25 Initiation Fees

The committee has suggested that local organizations be limited to a maximum of a $25 initiation fee and dues not in excess of $5 per month. Certain regulations were also stated under which the organizations could be dissolved, such as declining to a point below normal function or a serious violation of university regulations.

The recommended policies relating to the control of social fraternities and sororities stated that for national organizations to be petitioned, an invitation would be given by the university and the national would be installed by the university administration. The university would have complete control of "rushing" and would indicate the time periods for it.

The university would also assume supervisory responsibility for enforcing rules relative to scholarship and conduct.

No Discrimination

The committee also stated that no charter would be approved if it contained any clause requiring discrimination on the basis of race, creed, national origin, or color.

The committee report to the faculty also stated that the organizations would be expected to keep monthly financial records in accordance with regulations applicable to all other student organizations on campus.

The ownership of real or chattel property would have to be approved by the Dean of Students' Office.

The responsibility of the organizations, the report stated, shall be to build a feeling of responsibility of compliance with university policies and regulations concerning these organizations and individual student behavior.

The report further stated that in order to implement organizations, the university should move in the direction of additional staff members. At the present time, on neither the staff of the Dean of Women nor the Dean of Men is there a person available who could give time to active supervision, according to the committee report. It was suggested that added staff members be placed on both the staffs of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women. These new staff members would spend approximately one-third of their time handling fraternity and sorority matters.

New Student Council Officers

Selective Service Tests Set For Qualified Males

The Selective Service College Qualification Tests will be given on campus May 14, May 21, and June 3, to all male students who qualify. The deadline is April 23 for submitting applications to take the test.

To be eligible to take the test an applicant must be a Selective Service registrant who intends to request occupational deferment as a college student and must not have previously taken the test.

Students qualifying for the test should contact the local board where they may obtain an Application Card (SSS Form No. 106), Ticket of Admission (SSS Form No. 107), and a mailing envelope.

For undergraduates a score of 70 or more is needed to qualify for a 2-S (deferred) classification on the basis of the test. For graduate students, a score of at least 80 is required.

The criteria used by draft boards to select those with draft deferments are based on the student's scholastic standing among the full-time male students in his class or his score on the test.

A registrant who has completed his first year of studies within the upper half of the full-time male students in his class or has a test score of 70, and has been accepted for admission in the second year class is eligible for deferment.

A registrant who has completed his second year within the upper two-thirds of the full-time male students in his class or has a test score of 70, and has been accepted for admission in the third year class is eligible for deferment.

A registrant who has completed his third year within the upper three-fourths of the full-time male students in his class or has a test score of 70, and has been accepted for admission in the fourth year class is eligible for deferment.

A registrant who has completed his fourth year within the upper three-fourths of the full-time male students in his class or has a test score of 70, and has been accepted for admission in the fifth year of undergraduate study, if he is pursuing a course which requires more than four years of undergraduate study, is eligible for deferment.

Graduate Students
A registrant who has been accepted for admission for a degree to a graduate or professional school commencing after the date he completed requirements for and if such a class has commenced, (the school certifying he is pursuing full-time course of instruction leading to his degree), and in his last full-time academic year had a scholastic standing on that year's work within the upper one-quarter of the full time male students in his class, or has a test score of 80, is eligible for deferment.

Mickey Andrews Named Backfield Coach

Mickey Andrews, three-letter man under Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama, has been named offensive backfield coach, announced head coach Roy Kidd this week.

He fills a gap in the staff left by Tom Harper, defensive secondary coach, who has gone to Oklahoma State. Bobby Harville, already a member of the coaching staff, will coach the defensive backs.

Andrews, currently backfield coach at Birmingham, Ala., E. B. Erwin High School on the staff of Charles Hearn, played for Alabama during the 1962, '63, and '64 seasons. His senior year he was a second-team NEA All-America selection.

Alabama played in three bowl games and were declared national champions once, in '64, during Andrews' playing career. As a member of the Crimson Tide he saw action on all three—offense, defense and two-way—of Bryant's platoons.

A native of Ozark, Ala., where he gained All-Conference, All-State, and honorable mention All-South recognition in high school, he earned a total of 18 prep letters in four sports. At Alabama he was also an All-Southeastern Conference baseball player.

Kidd said, "We are happy to have Mickey with us, he brings a winning tradition with him, and that's what we are trying to build. He came to us highly recommended by Coach Bryant."

Impressed with Eastern's growing campus, Andrews said he was looking forward to working on Kidd's staff with coaches that "are dedicated and interested in winning."

The rest of Kidd's staff is composed of Harville, offensive line coach Carl Oakley, and defensive line coach Bill Shannon.

Andrews is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Andrews, and is married to the former Diane Cooke of Ozark, Ala. They are expecting their first child next month.

Student Council Officers Voice Big Plans At Inaugural Banquet

The newly elected Student Council officers were inaugurated at the annual Student Council Inaugural Banquet Tuesday night.

Final Organ

Recital Sunday

The final program in this year's organ recital series will be given Sunday in Hiram Brock Auditorium. Faculty member Nancy Davis Lancaster will present the climax to the group of organ recitals, one of which has featured three of the country's foremost organists.

Audiences from the campus, Richmond, and the entire state have witnessed the inception of the new organ in Eastern Kentucky.

Mrs. Lancaster has announced a varied recital with music chosen from the Baroque, Romantic and Contemporary periods in music history. The following pieces will be played:
Suite du Deuxieme Ton by Louis N. Clearmbault, Flute Solo by Thomas Arne, Aria Pastorella by Valentin Rathgeber, Prelude and Fugue in B minor by J.S. Bach, Prelude and Fugue in G minor by Marcel Dupre, Chorale Prelude "O Welt, Ich muss dich lassen" by Johannes Brahms, and Homage a Frescobaldi by Jean Langlais.

There is no admission charge, and students, faculty and anyone interested in organ music is invited to attend.

Milestone Refunds Due Couples

Married persons who have both paid $7.50 to the Milestone may obtain a refund of $3.75 by coming to Roark 8 between 3 and 5 p.m. Monday, April 18.

Any person who has not previously picked up his wallet photos should do so at this time.

Admissions Forms Due

All forms indicating plans for summer school and entrance into school next fall should be filled out and placed in the box at the Registrar office before spring vacation.

Seven Campus Crosswalks Painted By Circle K Club

The Circle K Club, an international organization for college males, last Saturday painted seven crosswalks on streets throughout the campus as a public service.

The seven crosswalks are between Cammack and Miller, Cammack and University Drive, Burnam and Sullivan, Burnam and ravine, Sullivan and ravine, the entrance to University Drive and the exit from University Drive.

The international organization as a service organization on campus, annually publishes the campus call card and works for the school. This year it donated money toward the Little Theatre proposed trip to France.

The officers of Circle K are Bill Clemments, president; Terry Spence and Terry Minke, vice presidents; Mike Fuson, secretary; Joe Bays, treasurer; and Joe Brown, student council representative. Phil Bills, junior from Ohio, is the secretary of the Kentucky-Tennessee District of the Circle K.

The sponsors of Circle K are Mr. Ronald Pierce and Mr. Robert Hays.

Service Set Sunrise

The Twenty-fifth Annual Easter Sunrise Service, sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA, will be presented April 10, 7 a.m. in the Van Furssem Pavillion. The community is cordially invited to attend. In the event of rain, the service will be held in Brock Auditorium.

The officers who were inaugurated were Bill McConnell, president; Jerry Stewart, vice president; Pat Taubee, secretary; and Bob Hughes, treasurer. All are members of the KEG party (Keep Eastern Growing).

In his acceptance speech, President McConnell announced that he and his colleagues have "big plans for their term of office."

"The Student Council this year plans to help the students meet the new needs of a new society and make him feel needed," McConnell stated. "We feel that this can be done through reorganization of the representatives of the Council."

McConnell further stated that he and his fellow officers feel that Council representatives should be selected on a dormitory basis.

He also threw his full support on the Student Code. "Completion of the Code would be a great step by the students in making Eastern more than a university in name only," he said.

McConnell closed his address with lines from Robert Frost's poem, "Stopping by the Woods on a Snowy Evening." The lines were "but I have promises to keep, and miles to go before I sleep."

Also on hand for the inaugural was President Martin who personally congratulated the new officers.

Hugh Burkett, out-going Student Council president, also addressed the audience. His speech was "In Retrospect." Other out-going officers present were: Micky Tatum, vice president; Sylvia Ramsey, secretary; and Ron Baker, treasurer.

The invocation was given by Peggy Carter and Mike Coffey was master of ceremonies.

Theatre Festival Entries Present Original Plays

Eastern's entries in the World University Theatre Festival are presenting the two original plays by John Weiden and Joe Johnson, "Send For John or Will the Bell Toll at Midnight?" a musical melodrama, and "The Victory," based on a theme assigned by the Festival Committee, Monday through tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Pearl Buchanan Theatre.

Scenery, properties, etc., are planned for the stage of the Grand Theatre in Nancy, France, where the plays will be performed. However, the group adapted the technical aspects of the shows for production here.

"The Grand Theatre is one of the largest and finest in Europe, and changing things for the stage of the Pearl Buchanan Theatre posed some problems—particularly in stage width," said Mr. Johnson, Director of the group. "But, essentially, the Eastern audience will see the same show in every respect that we will be presenting in France."

Eastern is the only entrant from the United States, and the Eastern troupe will be competing against outstanding university theatre troupes from twenty other nations. Since each troupe presents two plays, the group will be privileged to see a great deal of good theatre during their stay in France. In addition to the plays, the Festival Committee arranged other activities for all of the participants.

These include a press conference, formal dances, informal dances and entertainments after each night's Festival shows, a reception given by the Mayor of Nancy, a reception given by the President of the University of Nancy, a reception given by the Festival Director, work seminars, special indoor and outdoor theatrical presentations, and a reception for the American group by the United States Ambassador to France.

Final plans as to the time of the troupe's leaving and itinerary have not been completely decided.

Lt. John Hanlon Awarded Decoration For Heroism

John B. Hanlon, army first lieutenant and a 1964 Eastern graduate, received the Silver Star for gallantry in action in Viet Nam Tuesday in ceremonies at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Cincinnati, where the wounded officer is a patient.

The medal was presented at 11:30 a.m. by Colonel Myron A. Funk, commanding officer of the 1st Air Cavalry Division.

A Hero's Congratulation

Lt. Hanlon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Hanlon, of Ghent, was cited for directing his platoon, while he was badly wounded in the side and back, holding a landing zone for additional troops to land, and "saving his platoon from annihilation."

Representing Eastern at the ceremonies were President Martin and Professor of Military Science, Colonel Everett N. Smith. Also witnessing the presentation were Mayor Walton H. Bachtrack of Cincinnati and Lt. Hanlon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Courtland Hanlon of Ghent.

Lt. Hanlon was cited for his action against the Viet Cong Nov. 3 and Nov. 4, 1965, while serving with the 8th Cavalry of the 1st Air Cavalry Division.

The citation reads, in part: First Lt. Hanlon distinguished himself by valorous action while serving as a platoon leader during a night helicopter assault in the Republic of Viet Nam.

"As they approached the landing zone, a strong hostile force opened fire on the helicopters. After landing and dismounting, Lt. Hanlon led his troops through a barrage of Viet Cong small arms and mortar fire. As they fought their way across open ground to positions only 30 meters from the entrenched Viet Cong forces, he was wounded in the side and back by automatic rifle fire.

"Although he was partially paralyzed, Lt. Hanlon, with complete disregard for his own personal safety, remained in the forward positions and retained effective control of his platoon. Despite his painful condition, throughout the numerous Viet Cong assaults, he continued to direct the fire and deployment of the platoon.

"Because of his courage, devotion to duty, and outstanding leadership, he saved his platoon from annihilation and the landing zone was held enabling additional troops to land.

"The heroic actions of First Lt. Hanlon were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army."

Drama Analyzed

Plays Show Flexibility Of Little Theatre

By ROBERT KING

Department of Speech and Drama

On Monday evening, Eastern Little Theatre began presenting two original one-act plays they are preparing to enter in the World University Theatre Festival at Nancy, France, in April. The two plays complement each other and demonstrate the flexibility of the group. The first, a musical melodrama, is a light, bright, delightful spoof; the second, a twenty-minute drama, is poignant and powerful. Both plays were written by Mr. John Weldon and Mr. Joe Johnson of the Department of Speech and Drama.

The melodrama follows the traditional formula, incorporates the conventional themes (sins repented, virtue triumphant, and villainy punished), and includes the stereotyped characters one has come to expect in all such period piece morality plays. SEND FOR JOHN dusts off all the old cliché's to furnish the audience an uproarious hour, and those antique lines and gestures brought hisses, belly laughs, boos, and applause from the appreciative spectators opening night.

Suzanne Ankrum stole the show as Mary Trueheart. Playing consistently in an appropriately exaggerated style, she sustained the perfect two-dimensional picture of innocence, fidelity, and optimism. Her gestures were fitting and well-timed her perfectly ridiculous lines were perfectly, ridiculously delivered; she twisted her pert face into exquisite contortions; and she even made her tippytoe exits a romp of delight. She looked, she sounded, she acted the melodramatic heroine from the opening swish of the broom to the final off-key chorus of the theme song "Someone Somewhere to Care."

Al Allison utilized his talents well to create the sly, sinister Simon Dark, the villain. Leering, sneering, pointing, and posturing, he stalked his cape-draped way through the show to his final inevitable downfall. Al's two songs were both well-done — light enough to be fun and dark enough to be Simon. Frank Simons, as Silas Hope, showed great growth since his first performance at Eastern in "Look Homeward, Angel" last term.

He was believable as the old man, although he occasionally fell from the high style in which the play was pitched. Fonda McAlister made a small part big by her singing of two show-stopping songs of contrasting mood: "Someone Somewhere to Care," a lovely, simple ballad, and "The Right Way to Go," a rousing blues number. Lily LaRue, as portrayed by Candy Fawcett, stole my heart and established Candy as the number one character actress at Eastern in my book.

John Currans had little to do as one of the comic villains, but he did it well; he stayed in character, fit into the total scene, and puckered up and cried magnificently. David Bond was adequate as Horace Halfwit, but mugged too much to suit me during the balled number; his upstaging of Fonda detracted from the song. Betty Pennycuff did not warm up to her part of Aunt Maude until half way through the performance; the last scene she played in the grand style which the entire play called for.

The part of the Ranger offered little challenge or opportunity for Ron Statzer to display his recognized ability, and the part of the hero was portrayed with occasional flashes of comic style by Gordon Jennings.

Technically, the production went well. Granted, it was not yet up to tempo, but the group has two more weeks to pick up the pace before they enter the festival. Betty Pennycuff should be commended for her costumes for the show. Although the costume for Gordon Jennings did nothing to put him into the character or the period, the rest of the costumes (especially those for the girls at the dance hall which were stunning) were appropriate.

Mrs. Blanche SeEVERS, who stepped in as accompanist at the last minute, helped set the tempo and mood with her incidental music and accompaniment for the songs of the play.

In sum, then, SEND FOR JOHN was enjoyable, wholesome entertainment, and that is welcome fare at the theatre anytime.

The festival committee assigned to each participating group the following theme: "A young man is arrested for taking part in demonstrations that are contrary to the established policies of his country. After a brief investigation, it develops that he is the son of the highest official of the country." From that theme, Messrs. Weldon and Johnson have constructed THE VICTORY, a tight, moving play, which shifts from a speech by the father-dictator to flashbacks that tell the story. The contrast between the public words of the demagogue and his private deeds form the warp and woof of the ironic drama.

Ron Statzer, who played the general, and Al Allison, who played the son, carried in large part the action of the play. Al turned in another consistent, believable performance, and Ron portrayed the difficult role of the father well. In places, Ron lacked enough force to top the intensity of Al's portrayal, but he did capture the coldness, ruthlessness, and hypocrisy of the character. Frank Simons was the best of the general's lackeys, all three of whom suffered from youthfulness for their parts.

The set was stark, impressive, and appropriate and focused attention on the action. The giant posters, the film clip, and the taped voice for the general's thoughts displayed the director's usual creativity in staging.

Eastern can be justifiably proud of its acceptance as the United States entry at the international festival, and the Little Theatre can be justifiably proud of its two entries in the competition.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

CANDIDATE VOICES THANKS, CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank publicly those students who supported me for the office of Treasurer, and the party of which I was a member, the B.E.S.T. Party, in the past Student Council Election. My special thanks go to those who actively participated in the campaign by making posters, wearing B.E.S.T. stickers, and talking to their friends on behalf of our party. To these loyal workers I am truly grateful. Also, I would like to congratulate the members of K.E.G. Party on their victory and wish them success while they hold office.

Ken Spurlock

ENLIGHTENS EDITOR, CAMPUS

Dear Editor:

While reading last week's Progress, I could not help noticing the article concerning the recent Student Council election. One particular paragraph in your editorial produced a mixed reaction of astonishment and anger. This paragraph congratulated the candidates for the "cleanest election held on this campus in years." Maybe you were ignorant of the type of campaign that took place, but such is understandable. Please allow me to present some information which will not only prove your statement false, but will also enlighten the rest of the student body to the shady dealings and dirty politics in regard to the campaign.

Unless I am mistaken, all the candidates were entitled to equal radio time for promoting their platforms. Through the actions of a certain individual directly connected with the K.E.G. party, the political speech of one of the opposing parties was withdrawn from the air; thereby, violating this rule of equal radio representation for all parties. There are other issues involved, but this one, I feel, is the most important and can be verified with substantial proof.

I feel it my duty to inform the student body how "clean" this election really was. It is your duty, as a student of Eastern and editor of our school newspaper, to expose the true facts to your readers.

Frank A. Murphy

'MID-TERM: A PERIOD OF DESPONDENCY!'

Informed Students?

Founders Day Not A U. K. Mock

IT IS A SAD FACT indeed that the student body at our state university is not a better informed student body. It is more sad that certain members of the student body do not have the initiative to check their "facts" before they present them to the public as fact.

We refer to an editorial which appeared in "The Kentucky Kerney" Thursday, March 24 under the heading of "Universityism."

"After the state legislature's proclamation making it a university as of this summer, Eastern Kentucky State College lost no time in mimicking the tradition of the state's heretofore single university.

The Richmond school celebrated a lavish Founders' Day, a la UK in 1965. The details of the two celebrations were strikingly similar, down to the granting of the honorary degree to Kentucky Gov. Edward T. Breathitt.

So, in terms of friendly rivalry, though UK is no longer the state's only university, it is definitely the pacesetter in university tradition."

So that the students at the "pacesetter in university tradition" will not make such a needless blunder again, we will present them with the facts.

Agreed, UK conducted a lavish and quite impressive Founders' Day in 1965. The Founders Day program at Eastern has been just as lavish and impressive as well as a regularly scheduled day of commemoration for the past five years. It might be possible that Eastern is the pacesetter, at least in Founders Day celebrations.

The Founders' Day ceremonies at Eastern have maintained a rather traditional format at all of these programs. This format includes an academic procession, recognition of individuals, and key address. The ceremony held this year traditionally followed the chosen format with slight variations. These included conferring of an honorary degree. But, this is really not so much out of character for the program.

It was significant and understandable that this degree was granted. It may also be closely paralleled to the honoring of individuals in the form of Founders Day Merit Awards in past services. This is the only similarity that can be made with that of the services held at UK last year.

None of the Founders Day programs were arranged by coincidence, but rather, after much thought and consideration, and definitely not with the arrangement used by the University in mind.

Teach, Teach, Teach...

Student Teachers Employ Techniques Learned In Methods

Today marks the end of the first two weeks of the twelve-week period of supervised teaching for 262 student teachers from Eastern. These students, 96 of whom are performing student teaching at the elementary level and 166 in the secondary area, have gone from Eastern's campus into classrooms where they will put into use the professional training they have been acquiring for the past three and one-half years.

These students completed six weeks of preparation this semester before entering the classroom two weeks ago by observing and studying methods of professional teachers at the college. The methods classes, as they are called, are designed to orientate the future teachers to various classroom situations and to prepare them to conduct classes in the particular fields in which they will be instructing.

Methods classes were held in the following areas of study: art, biology, English, elementary education, French, Spanish, mathematics, music, physical education, science, social studies, and industrial arts.

What actually goes on in these classes that prepares students for teaching is a topic of major interest to many Eastern students, since most of them are pursuing lines of study that will lead to teaching careers. Information was not available on all of the areas covered in the classes, but the fields of social science, English, industrial arts, French and Spanish, physical education and music were covered and are presented here as an example of the type of unequalled teacher preparation exercises given to Eastern's students.

Creative Ways to Teach English
The principal objective of the English teaching methods class was to prepare students to creatively teach high school English. The students in this class, under the direction of methods teacher of Mrs. Geneva Owens, concentrated their study in this area with the thought of all levels of secondary education being considered.

The first part of the time spent in this class was devoted to lecture and discussing of Don Wolfe's text "Creative Ways to Teach English." This text is a compilation of all levels of teaching English sighting numerous different and often entertaining approaches of teaching not only grammar but literature as well.

Considerations which also entered into the first lectures of the course included the fast advancing phase in English of teaching reading. The methods students conducted individual discussions of varied approaches the high school English teacher can take in helping his students to become more effective readers.

Other activities included in the methods class were: the making of posters which illustrated various grammar and written composition rules; the assembly of a professional file containing various aids for English teachers which could be used at any time during the English teachers' career; the preparation of the unit of study for which the student teacher would be responsible at his assigned school; and bulletin board designs not only illustrating his unit of study, but decorative and meaningful ones which were placed on the English department board.

The period spent in the Methods class ended with each student selecting and presenting a lecture to the whole class in which he was responsible to utilize some of the creative approaches he studied earlier in the semester.

I.A. Method Class Has 16
The industrial arts methods class was instructed by Mr. Ralph W. Whalin, Head of the Industrial Arts Department. He states, "The basic purpose of the methods course is to inform the prospective teachers of the teaching aspects peculiar to their particular field."

The I.A. methods class was divided into eleven units, or areas of coverage.

The first unit, "You and the Teaching Profession," was concerned with position securing, interviews, professional associations, and teacher competencies and responsibilities.

The second unit dealt with the philosophy of industrial arts with an interpretation of its meaning and function. The third unit involved the various methods of teaching appropriate to teaching technical subjects.

Next came study of appraisal of pupil progress and evaluation of achievement. The fifth unit concerned planning and organizing laboratory facilities.

The sixth unit of the course dealt with developing an appreciation for modern American industry. This was instructed through the use of field trips, films, and the study of literature as related to industry.

In the seventh unit the students concentrated on teaching skill development in problem solving and design. Next they studied the development of consumer confidence with the purpose of teaching students to become more intelligent consumers.

Developing safety consciousness in the laboratories was concentrated in the ninth unit. The tenth was concerned with the promotion of leisure time and avocational interests.

The last unit involved the selection and use of resource materials and textbooks with some study of the materials distributed free of charge by some industries.

Among other projects, the class visited the industrial arts laboratory at Model Laboratory School and one in a local public school.

The class consisted of 16 seniors. One of them, Albert Spencer from Beautyville, recently received the acclaimed Banforth Fellowship and the N.D.E.A. fellowship.

Social Science Majors Trained
Senior social science majors were trained in lecturing, conducting discussions, making lesson plans and the value of visual aids.

The purpose of the class was to introduce students to good teaching methods and the use of visual aids and material.

Students taught the class during five weeks of the class in order to get training in teaching before the actual student-teaching assignment.

The class was set up as a typical high school class. The student teacher was graded, as well as the "high-school" students. Each student was given a minimum of six teaching assignments.

During the teaching period, students were encouraged to use different methods and various visual aids. The student-teachers learned how to handle controversial issues, build interest on the part of the pupils, and the proper attitude and relationship to maintain between teacher and pupil.

The methods class gave students suggestions on how to keep up with new developments in the social science areas, books and sources of quick teaching reference.

Grading of the actual teaching part of the class was based on delivery, knowledge, manners and self-reliance.

The class was under the direction of Dr. Quentin Keen and Dr. Donald Lord. They divided the class into two sections which alternated between the two so as to enable students to prepare better for the different viewpoints of individual teachers.

Actual student teaching follows the method class. The student-teaching lasts for twelve weeks. The student-teacher must be observed at least three times in one teaching situation. Conferences between student-teacher, regular classroom teacher, and the observing teacher are planned and designed to help to strengthen the teaching procedure.

Math 467, the mathematics method course, was conducted by Robert W. Jobs. He used a combination of lecture and student participation and instruction in his course. The opinions and ideas of the students are regarded by him as more important than his own.

During a period of six weeks, each student was divided into three different sections. The math faculty observed the student instruction and completed an evaluation of it.

The students also wrote papers, graded tests, and solved discipline problems. In the methods class, 60 per cent of the time was devoted to discussing and 40 per cent was devoted to actual math instruction. Each student was required to make-up a lesson-plan for one day, and a unit for an entire subject.

Physical education students, as well as other education students, are required to take a class in teaching methods prior to their student teaching. The purpose of the course was to familiarize the prospective teachers with a true classroom situation. The Physical Education "methods" class, of which Mr. Richard L. Gentry was instructor, was of an informal nature.

Each student gave a report before the class as if he were teaching the subject. These reports were especially beneficial to those students who had little or no previous experience of this type.

The physical education majors also learned to figure grading systems, to prepare lesson plans, and to plan a curriculum for an entire school year.

The highpoints of the course were visits to actual classes. The observation made in these classes led to discussions on the different teaching methods.

Most of the students participating in the methods class felt it helped them as individuals and the class as a whole. Justice Huffman, student teacher at Kit Carson Elementary, summed up, "We learned that being a teacher means more than just teaching. It also involves work, knowledge, attitude, and skills."

French Majors Learn Methods
This semester's foreign language methods class consisted of three students, all French majors.

Unlike many other methods courses, this one was not divided up strictly into units. The method in this course is called the oral-aural method, which emphasizes speaking skills more than the grammar or reading skills.

Prospective student teachers learned to use laboratory aids, such as tape recordings, and records, and how to operate the laboratory. They studied texts of all types of methods, both old and new, and evaluate each of them.

The student teachers learned how to conduct a French class, how to help the student, and when to introduce outside, enriching material.

Miss Mary Katherine Ingels, professor in charge of the student teachers, stated, "We found from the authorities that any method is valid so long as it produces."

Mrs. Richards Speaks to YWCA

The Young Women's Christian Association will have Mrs. Mary F. Richards, associate professor of geography, as a speaker April 6. She has served as a YWCA advisor for more than twenty years.

Mrs. James D. Wyker, representative to the National Council of Churches, was the fall semester guest speaker.

The YWCA's activities this year have been the Hanging of the Greens, Easter Sunrise Service, a Valentine party at the Telford Community Center, and weekly visits there.

The YWCA officers are June Moore, president; Anita Kay Wilson, vice president; Lovell Meek, secretary; Priscilla Dahon, treasurer; Jennifer Collingham, student council representative; and Carol Rauhen, reporter.

Episcopal Club Presents Drama

The chancel drama, "On the Eve of Holy Week," by Harold Bassage, will be presented in place of Morning Prayer at Christ Episcopal Church Sunday at 10:30 a.m. The Episcopal Canterbury Club is in charge of the drama. Everyone is welcome at the pre-Easter service.

The drama consists of a prologue, five scenes and an epilogue and is set in Jerusalem, shortly after the crucifixion of Christ. Soloist is Mrs. Alton Parker, and accompanist is Mrs. S.J. McCaughey.

Student Centerbury Club members with parts in the drama are Kathy Colebrook, Paul Vincent, Don Erisma, Susan Morris, Lari Spooner, Fanny Morris, Kim Dokes and Janet Smith.

BBS Has Discussion

The topic for discussion at the next meeting of the Behavioral Science Symposium which will be held on Monday at 7 p.m. in Roark 6 will be "University Status—University Rights or the Role of the Student in the University." This is a very timely topic and everyone is welcome to come and participate.

CCUN Meets After Break

CCUN will meet again on Tuesday following spring vacation. New officers will be elected at the meeting. Signs with further details will be posted.

In Memoriam

Glenna Dale Estep, senior Biology major from Lexington, died following an operation for bleeding ulcers at the Battle A. Clay Hospital Saturday. Dr. Mahaffey said, "The operation was successful but death was due to Pulmonary Embolus (clot to lungs)." She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Estep, Rt. 4 Haley Road, Lexington. The funeral was Monday.

Johnny Marian Dick, second semester freshman, died of natural causes at his home Saturday morning at Russell Springs. He was a resident of Keith Hall. A graduate of Casey County High School '65. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Dick, Rt. 4 Box 234, Russell Springs. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at this time.

PROGRESS ON SPORTS

with Jim Wiehbreink

BUSY WEEK AHEAD OF ATHLETIC
The track team will compete in a meet tomorrow in Lexington against the University of Kentucky, Kentucky State and the University of Indiana. This will be a bigger test for the tracksters as they unofficially defeated IU in a dual meet held yesterday but the competition will be a lot harder and more of it.

No score was kept in the IU meet because Indiana team did not have a javelin entry nor a triple jump contestant. They did not want to forfeit the nine points that would have been awarded Eastern so Coach Smith decided not to count team points as the Big Ten does not require these events in track competition.

The baseball team, fresh from the UK victory, will play a five game schedule starting with Findlay tomorrow and followed by Berea and Dennison on Monday and Tuesday while they will travel to Kentucky on Wednesday and then host Transylvania on Thursday.

In the world of golf, the team will compete in four matches starting with Bellarmine tomorrow and then take on Marshall, Dennison, and Bowling Green University on Wednesday.

Dennison will invade the tennis courts this Tuesday in the lone tennis match of this week.

TENNIS CLINIC ON CAMPUS
A tennis clinic will be held tomorrow for all tennis instructors and anyone who is interested in tennis. The clinic will be held here and will be conducted by the State Tennis Association.

There will be a film at 10 a.m. followed by a lecture and lunch at noon. A demonstration is scheduled for 2 p.m. on Martin Hall's Court five. There will be no charge for the clinic with the exception of lunch.

SWIMMERS TAKE ALL-AMERICAN HONORS
The Eastern Bees placed three men on the all-American swimming team for 1966. Bill Walker, Johnny Warren, and Rick Hill were all awarded this distinguished honor while Fred Bartlett, and Charlie Tandy were nominated as honorable mention candidates, that is the top ten swimmers in the country.

Walker, a sophomore from Lexington, scored 25 points in four events in NCAA competition and finished sixth in the 200 yd. ind. medley. Warren, a Louisville senior, took second in the three meter diving competition. Bill, sophomore from Louisville, scored 12 points in NCAA competition and placed fifth in the 200 yd. individual medley.

Congratulations are in order for these five outstanding swimmers and to Coach Combs for the fine job that he has done throughout the season in winning his fourth straight KIS Championships and by coaching these men to their well deserved positions.

INTRAMURAL WRESTLING RESULTS
The football team dominated the intramural wrestling tournament which was held in the latter part of March. There were three teams entered in the match, the football team representatives, the Worms, and the Mets.

The football team scored a high of 65 points while the Mets were second with 43, followed by the Worms with 39 points. The following is a list of the weight classes and their winners:

- 123 lb. Tom Bell—Mets, Bob Beatty—Worms
- 130 lb. Ed Steele—Mets, George Wyatt—Worms
- 137 lb. Joe Perrone—Mets
- 145 lb. Jim Wright—Worms, Kelly Mirianda—football
- 167 lb. Buck Wright—football, Don Moore—football
- 177 lb. Skip Daugherty—football, Bob Flewa—football
- 191 lb. Ted Holcomb—football, Howie Morris—Mets

Maroons Down Kentucky Baseballers

The Eastern Maroons walloped the University of Kentucky 13-6 in their opening baseball game of the season played here Tuesday. Eastern outhit the Cats 17-10 including three home runs.

UK jumped on Eastern starting pitcher Dave Price for two runs in the first inning on Hank Degener's two-run homer, his second of the season. Eastern battled back with two runs in the second and third innings to make the score 4-2.

In the fourth inning, the Maroons blew the game wide open. A walk issued by Ed Stanko was followed by three singles and a two-run home run by Ron Chasteen to climax a five-run uprising. This put the game out of reach and Stanko out of the box.

Stanko was replaced by Farris, who retired the side. Eastern got to Farris for two runs in the fifth on a home run by catcher Jerry Gill to make the score 11-2.

Carr Put On Mound
Randy Cox took over for Farris in the fifth and retired the side. UK's Ron Taylor opened the sixth inning with a home run to cut the deficit to 11-3. Following Taylor's blast, Eastern's John Carr assumed the pitching duties and finished out the game.

The Wildcats closed the gap to 11-6 in the top of the eighth but the Maroon countered with two runs in their half of the inning.

Eastern's offense display was led by Larry Williams and Rick Houseman with three hits apiece and Jerry Gill was credited with four RBI's. Ron Taylor led the Wildcats with three hits, two singles and the sixth home run.

Dave Price was given credit for the win while Stanko was tagged with the loss. Kentucky 200 001 030 6-10-0 Eastern .. 022 520 02x 13-17-0

Stanko, Farris (4), Cox (5), and Fritsch. Price, Carr (6), and Gill. W.—Price, L.—Stanko.

Home Runs: Eastern—Chasteen (4) one on; Gill (5) one on; Nyulassy (8); UK—Degener (1) one on; Taylor (6).

Senior Life-Saving Course Offered

A senior lifesaving course for any male college students desiring to complete the 18 hours of requirements as set up by the Red Cross. The organizational meeting will be held in the spectator area of the natatorium on Monday, April 18, 1966, at 3 p.m.

The class will meet for either one hour on Monday and Wednesday or for one hour on Tuesday and Thursday. No college credits will be given for completion of the course. The entry requirements for the course are: swim 400 yards (16 lengths of the pool), swim underwater, dive from the deck, and be at least an intermediate swimmer.

Two classes may be organized if there is sufficient interest. Any further questions should be directed to Coach Donald Combs.

Wilbert Davis Vaults 16'½" As Tracksters Show Strength

Eastern's Wilbert Davis became the highest Negro pole vaulter in the world yesterday as he vaulted 16' ½" on his first attempt at that height.

Davis performed feat in a dual meet with Indiana University. The previous world record was held by Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern and he vaulted 16' ¼". This record set a new school record by three feet four and one-half inches. It was also a new track record which was 14 feet even.

The record set by Davis was one of six new track records set yesterday. Jan Halth ran a 4:13.3 mile to establish a track record but Kent Andersonson holds the school record of 4:05.1. Anderson ran the 880 and set a track record with a time of 1:52.6. Grant Colehour ran the three mile marathon in a record time of 14:36.5 to establish a track and school mark.

The mile relay team erased another track record with a time of 3:18. This team was composed of Kent Andersonson, Andrew Cash, Earl Jordan and Ron Benson.

Bill Swanson won the 440 with a time of 48.7 but was followed closely by Ron Benson and Andy Cash, both had a time of 48.8

The Indiana 440 relay team established the final record with a time of 41.7 compared to old mark of 42.3. There was no score kept in

Bodkin MVP Adolph Rupp Lauds Seniors At Banquet

By TOM CARTER
"Anyone who thinks that it doesn't matter if you win or lose, it's how you play the game shouldn't have played it to start with," quipped Adolph Rupp Wednesday night at a banquet honoring Eastern's basketball team.

Introduced as "Mr. Basketball" by Eastern President Robert R. Martin, the head mentor of the University of Kentucky Wildcats said that the forementioned philosophy is fast fading from the American scene. "The sports program is about the only free enterprise we have left that hasn't been contaminated by Washington," he said.

Addressing Coach Jim Baechtold and his Eastern Maroons, Rupp said, "You've gotten something out of school that a lot of others didn't. You've met a challenge. Sports does this for you. You'll be better men because you've met the challenge of competition. You'll meet life's problems in the same way."

Eddie Bodkin won the Most Valuable Player Award for the third straight year. This was his third and final year in college basketball. He was also awarded the rebounding trophy for his efforts which meted 10.2 rebounds per game.

Rupp was not the only crowd pleaser at the dinner. President Martin said, prior to giving the rebounding honor, "In the last three years since Mrs. Eddie Bodkin has watched the basketball games here, the name of the game has changed. It's now — 'Rebound, Idiot!'" Mrs. Bodkin is a favorite with the team and the crowd because of her piercing screams and persistent harassing of the foes.

Jerry Bisbey, another Maroon senior, was awarded the defensive trophy while Doug Clemmons was given the 110 per cent award for effort.

Prior to the presentations, Baechtold praised his four seniors and regretted their graduation, but after introducing his freshman squad and commending sophomores and juniors, he said, "We may surprise somebody next year."

Company R Captures Honor Trophy In Meet

Company R, First Regiment, Second Battalion, National Honor Society of Pershing Rifles, under the leadership of Company Commander, H. Rick Tatum, captured the coveted "Honor Company Trophy" at the Second Battalion Drill Meet held at Dayton, Ohio.

Eastern's Pershing Rifles unit competed against such teams as University of Kentucky, University of Cincinnati, University of Dayton, Xavier University, Central State College, Pennsylvania Military College, John Carroll, and University of Detroit.

Eastern's famed "Suicide Squad," commanded by 1st Lt. George W. Quisenberry of Winchester, defeated the National Exhibition Squad Champions from Pennsylvania Military College. The sequence that Eastern's Pershing Rifle Squad used was the most difficult in the whole meet.

The Infantry Drill Regulation Platoon was commanded by 1st Lt. Terry N. Tallent from Covington, and defeated teams from Pennsylvania Military College, John Carroll, and others to place in competition. The IDR Squad was commanded by 1st Sgt.
