Dianne Hendricks Captures Miss Cheerleader USA Title, Grant, Television Appearance

By GAY DANFORD
Dianne Hendricks was welcomed home by students and Richmond residents Tuesday after her exciting week-end and victory in the Miss Cheerleader U. S. A. contest in Cypress Gardens, Florida.

During a downtown parade the petite coed rode in the lead convertible which bore large signs of congratulations. Other dignitaries in the parade were President and Mrs. Martin, Miss Dorothy Kirkpatrick, sponsor of the cheerleading squad, other members of the squad, and members of Eastern's Pershing Rifles drill team.

Dianne won the national honor in a three-day competition which included five finalists representing schools across the United States.

Cheering All the Way
Cheering her way to victory before a crowd of high school cheerleaders and tourists, the hazel-eyed brunette lead three cheers. "We were judged on how well the crowd responded to our cheers," 21-year-old Dianne commented. "Every girl had completely different techniques." "I am only sorry it had to be so contest," she added. "All of the girls had such remarkable presentations."

In winning the national contest, Dianne received a $200 scholarship presented jointly by the National Cheerleaders Association and by Cypress Gardens, a trip to New York City where she will appear on the television program "To Tell the Truth," a pair of water skis, and a huge trophy.

More Appearances
Several other television and radio stations have been scheduled for the busy Dianne. Included will be the Nick Clooney Show next Saturday.

Dianne received a grand farewell and best wishes from a crowd of friends and relatives assembled at Statford Field by her mother, Mrs. Evan Hendricks on Friday. She was given a cheerleader charm for good luck.

The week-end proved not only a busy, but an entertaining one for the tanned coed. Time was allotted for an informal dance, water skiing, and the filming of the contestants cheering on the beach. Also, a press conference for an Atlanta television program and one in Louisville for the Courier-Journal were part of her week end victory.

"All of the girls received such a warm welcome in Florida," Dianne remarked. "Everyone was friendly and very informal toward us." Each girl received an Easter basket on Sunday morning.

Other contestants were: Carol Lowery, Tennessee Tech; Paula Finley, University of Georgia; Cindy Whitfield, Indiana University; and Julie Benveniste, U. C. L. A.

Dianne, as Miss Eastern, will be representing Eastern in the Mountain Laurel Contest to be held in Pineville in May.

1,500 Expected For Senior Day

Approximately 1,500 high school seniors are expected to attend the annual High School Senior Day here today.

The day-long program includes morning registration and assembly in Alumni Coliseum, the Dean's Review of ROTC cadets, swimming and diving exhibitions, and a tour of the campus facilities.

Following a luncheon in the cafeteria of the Keen Johnson Student Union Building, Eastern students served as guides in directing tours through the various academic departments of the college.

Registration was scheduled for 9-10 a.m. for the prospective Eastern students. The 10 o'clock assembly program included a concert by the ROTC band, welcoming address by John L. Vickers, executive assistant to the president and coordinator of the program, and Student Council President Vic Hellard, and a "Play-O-Rama," sponsored by the Physical Education and Athletic Department.

The Dean's Review featured the presentation of awards to members of the ROTC cadet brigade for excellence in scholarship and leadership.

Campus tours included Todd and McGregor Halls, and several academic buildings.

Seniors from these high schools are expected to attend: Breathitt County, Brodhead, Buckhorn, Burnside, Durrett, Estill County, George Rogers Clark, Harlan, Hazel Green, Hustonville, Irvine, Jenkins, Lee County, Letcher, Lily, Madison High, Madison Central, M. C. Napier, and McCreary County.

Miss Dianne Hendricks, recently-crowned Miss Cheerleader USA and Lee Majors (Harvey Yearly), Eastern graduate turned television star, will be presented to the seniors during their Coliseum assembly.

parade given in her honor Tuesday morning. Miss Hendricks is a junior physical education major from Louisville.

Mike Coffey Wins Weaver Oratorical

Blasts Prejudice, Hate In Prize-Winning Speech

Michael Coffey, a junior political science major from Birmingham, Ala., wins this year's Weaver Oratorical Contest, which was staged Wednesday during the assembly hour in Brock Auditorium.

The winning speech was entitled "That We Might See," "Question so we might see," he says in his attack on prejudice. He points out that we refer to prejudice as an "unreasoned feeling or aversion against either a person, group or object, and that many of our thoughts are based upon silent assumption." Here is the nature of prejudice, a judging beforehand.

He goes on to say that "in the give and take of human affairs, false knowledge about people, is the companion piece to prejudice against them. If we reflect on assumption, we are very much like those map makers of old, who would write 'here are dragons' in areas yet unexplored.

In his summation, "let's quit playing up prejudice. If we are to be strong open minded people part of a great society, we must cultivate a humility of spirit, and above all a consideration towards others, and their views. We can do this if we would but remember five things: strive not to condemn others without trying to understand them; respond to changes and handicaps, and accept gracefully that which you can't make better; listen inquiringly to the view points different from your own, and after doing; make up your own mind on basic issues, and pay decent respect to the convictions, customs, and opinions of mankind.

Ford Discusses Moral Laxity
Other finalists were Sammy Ford, a freshman business major from Mt. Sterling whose speech was "Is This The Great Society?"

which attacked the moral laxity and degradation of our society, and how integrity is a forgotten word. Thomas L. Mason, a senior business major from Stearns whose speech was entitled "Two For The Price of One," which explored the lost integrity of the American people. He said that "we should re-evaluate our own integrity and our own rules of honesty. It is up to each one of you to provide examples to those that believe these things not wrong.

Gordon Camuel, a junior history major from Lexington, whose speech was "Shall Not Be Infringed" which discusses a bill introduced to Congress by Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut.

out to outlaw interstate sales of weapons to individuals, prohibit sales by federal licensees all weapons to anyone under 18 year of age, and curb imports of foreign-made weapons by limiting them to antiques and sporting weapons. This proposed bill, he says, "will not infringe on the rights of people to own guns."

Mrs. Alexander Presides

The program was presided over by Mrs. Aimee Alexander, chairman of the contest, who gave a brief and colorful description of Mr. Weaver, noted for wearing a red tie, followed by the devotion lead by Mary Jo Rudd, who won the Keene Women's Oratorical contest. Bill Peyton, last year's Weaver winner introduced the speakers.

The contest is held each year to perpetuate the memory of Charles Weaver, a former member of the Board of Regents and a benefactor of the College. It was Weaver's feeling that men should be well trained in oratory. He established a cash fund for the annual contest.

Judges for the contest were Dr. Clyde Orr, dean of the graduate school, Mr. Ken Gravett, Drama Director, Berea College, and Mrs. Nancy Falles, active club woman of Richmond.

Contestants were judged on the appropriateness of subject matter, originality, development and presentation of thought, and effectiveness of voice and diction of delivery.

Receiving the Charles F. Weaver Award as the most outstanding senior woman in home economics was Mrs. Mary Adams, Carr Creek. In addition to the belief that men should excel in public speaking, Weaver also felt that woman should have excellence in home economics, thus establishing this award for women.

'Dropouts A College Problem, Too'-Ambrose

The school dropout problem does not end with the secondary school but is just as intense in colleges. And high school graduate counselors are charged with a major role in lowering the college dropout rate.

In an article appearing in the "Journal of the International Association of Pupil Personnel Workers," Dr. Charles Ambrose, dean of admissions at Eastern, says that "more and more time is being spent at the college admissions and guidance levels with the under-achiever and potential dropout."

This, he says, is because of the self-concept of the college student when he enters college.

Indecision Fatal

In a study made at Eastern, Dr. Ambrose points out that among the undecided groups (those who have not made up their minds as to a college major or a chosen profession) in the freshman counseling program, there is a loss factor of 77 per cent.

In the undecided groups, the loss factor is less than 40 per cent. He qualifies the evidence by adding that "a well-motivated (undecided) student with a good self-concept of his strengths and weaknesses will tend to remain (Continued On Page 3)

Billboard Hails Eastern 'Showcase For Talent'

By JOY GRAHAM
With the coming of the Dick Clark Caravan of Stars on May 4, Billboard magazine, Music on Campus, The College Market for Records and Talent, of March 27, carries a timely article saluting Eastern as a "talent showcase."

Citing the increased enrollment of more than 1,000 from 1962 to this fall semester as one reason, the article by Winston F. Jones says Eastern "is a promising showcase for recording talent."

Draws from Other Schools
Another explanation offered for Eastern's coming of age as a stage for popular entertainers is her location within short driving distances of the University of Kentucky and Berea College, permitting students from those schools to attend.

The three shows featuring national talent of which the feature speaks are the Peter, Paul & Mary program sponsored by the Young Democrats, the concert by the Rofort Singers sponsored by the Young Republicans, both last October, and the appearance of Ralph Marterie and his orchestra at the Anniversary Ball in November.

The magazine is a special reference edition presenting information of interest in the entertainment world on leading colleges and universities throughout the US, compiled after a survey by the Billboard Publishing Company. Last year the first such publication by the company was the winner of the "Jesse H. Neal Editorial Achievement Award" for the Best Single Issue published by American business papers during 1964.

More Coming
Continuing in the reputation advertised by Billboard, Dick Clark, leading television disc jockey, will present his Caravan of Stars Tuesday May 4, in Alumni Coliseum at 8 p.m. He will be accompanied by eleven such groups as Little the Imperials, Bobby Vee, Freddy Cannon, The Hondells, Jewell Akens, Round Robin, Myron Lee, George McCannan, III, The Dixie Cups, Herman and the Hermits, The Ikettes, Bobby Freeman, and The Detergents.

Slated In Big Role For Four Star

TV Career Rosy For Eastern's Lee Majors

Lee Majors, a 1963 Eastern graduate and former Maroon football star, is optimistic about his future as a television and movie star.

During a visit to the campus of his alma mater this week, Majors — whose real name is Harvey Yearly, of Middleboro — said that shooting will begin in mid-May on "The Big Valley," a new hour-long action-drama color TV series for ABC.

Majors will co-star in the new Western series, which has been compared to "Bonanza" and is scheduled for Wednesday nights, along with Barbara Stanwyck, Richard Long and Peter Breck. Others in the cast are Linda Evans and Charles Briles.

Majors, who studied under Joe Johnson at Eastern and Eben Henson of the Pioneer Playhouse in Danville before going to Hollywood, has a demanding role in the series. ABC's executives have expressed confidence in him. "Beyond his good looks, Lee projects an exciting intensity. Clearly, he's a natural."

On "Gunsmoke" and Hitchcock Majors has appeared on "Gunsmoke," and had a lead role in Alfred Hitchcock's hour-long television show, entitled "The Monkey Paw," which played this week.

The "Big Valley" series, a Levy-Gardner-Laven production, has become the first of the 1965-66 season's new series to be sold in Great Britain, according to Four Star TV International.

Majors said the series has been sold in six European countries and Australia.

Majors, 24, who worked as a recreation director in North Hollywood while waiting for a break, has been called "one of Hollywood's hottest new discoveries" by Harrison Carroll of the Los Angeles Examiner.

No Employment Problem

Shella Graham had this to say about the new star: "A new young leading man, Lee made a pilot for the new Barbara Stanwyck TV series, 'Big Valley.' Chuck Connors saw it and borrowed him for the new 'Branded' series. Hitchcock saw it and came up with a better part for Lee, so Chuck got someone else and let him do the Hitchcock."

Daniel K. Sobol of ABC, said of Majors, "before you know it you are going to be a big star—keep working at it, you can't miss." Stan Kamen, of the William Morris Agency, promoters of the series, wrote to Majors: "... you are great in the show and have a tremendous future."

Kamen, whose agency represented Steve McQueen and other stars, said that the reaction for Majors was the same as that for McQueen. "We are sure your career will take off in the same direction," he added.

Visited Parents
On his return last week to Middleboro, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Yearly reside, Lee was named national publicity director for the Middleboro Chamber of Commerce.

While in Richmond, Majors was the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Fred Darling, 108 Barnes Mill Road.

As he toured the Eastern campus, he said that he was impressed. "This place gets bigger and prettier every time I see it. It makes me even prouder to be a graduate of Eastern."

PR's Cop 2nd In Nat'l Meet

Eastern's Pershing Rifle team finished second in the nation last week-end at the John J. Pershing National Drill Meet in Chicago.

Participating in the Pershing Rifle equivalent of the NCAA championships, Company R-1 narrowly missed the national crown, finishing only a few percentage points behind champion Pennsylvania Military Academy.

The National Drill Meet culminated a successful season for the PR drill units. The exhibition and straight drill teams never failed to place this year, winning 11 trophies in competition.

Other than the drill team's second-place finish, the exhibition squad drew national recognition for having the most complex routine in the meet.

Last fall Eastern's Company R-1 received the John Archer Award, distinguishing it as the best company in its battalion. The PR's are also 1964 regimental champions.

Three Asst. Profs Head Organizations

Three of Eastern's assistant professors were elected officers during the Kentucky Education Association held in Louisville last week.

They were: Mrs. Harold Oldham, assistant professor of English; Mrs. Richard Lee Gentry, assistant professor of health and physical education; and Mr. Joe M. Johnson, assistant professor of speech and drama.

Council of Teachers
Mrs. Oldham was elected president of the Kentucky Council of Teachers of English. She previously served the council as first vice president and membership chairman, as district leader, and as a delegate to the national convention.

Mr. Gentry, a co-ordinator of student teaching in physical education, was named president-elect of the Kentucky Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Mr. Johnson, received his undergraduate and master's degree from the University of Georgia and has additional graduate work at Emory University.

and Recreation.

Speech Association
Mr. Johnson was elected a vice-president of the Kentucky Speech Association. He is a member of the American National Theatre and Academy, the American Educational Theatre Association, the Speech Association of America, the Southern Speech Association, the South Eastern Theatre Conference, and the Kentucky Council of Performing Arts.

Mr. Johnson, received his undergraduate and master's degree from the University of Georgia and has additional graduate work at Emory University.

'Showcase' Presents

'Thurber Carnival'
This month's Showcase will feature "A Thurber Carnival" next Thursday at 4 in the Pearl Buchanan Theatre.

The students of the 451 class, Dramatic Reading, will present the program, a collection of the writings of the late James Thurber.

Mr. Thurber satirizes almost every phase of Americana, from "togetherness of the typical family" to "stereotyped party conversation." Mr. Thurber made famous the character of "Walter Mitty," the prosaic husband who daydreamed impossible situations with himself always as the central character.

A THURBER CARNIVAL introduces a new art form to Eastern's campus, the Reader's Theatre. This technique of presenting prose or poetry is characterized by using the voice and bodily action mainly in order to get the material across to the audience. Scripts are used by the readers, and the only technical addition will be spotlighting and blackouts. The readers face the audience at all times and use no stage movements. Costuming and properties are kept to a minimum.

Members of the cast of A THURBER CARNIVAL include: Hallie Burke, John Currans, Charlotte Mason, Bill Peyton, Patsy Satterly, Pat Schechter, Betsy Schwerfeger, and Jim Whaley. This student presentation is free of charge and students and faculty are all invited to attend.

Senior Banquet Slated For May 8

Tickets for the annual senior class banquet on May 8 will be sold again next week in the grill of the student union building between the hours of 10 and 6. Tickets for seniors will be $2, non-seniors $4.

Reprint Stirs Comments

THE ARTICLE REPRINTED last week from CHRISTIAN ECONOMICS has created a whirlwind of campus reaction coming primarily from faculty members.

The critical comments of faculty members (see letter's column) are completely justified. This is not to say that the Progress was not right in printing this article of controversial content. In fact, the response in the form of letters presenting both sides the issue made the reprint worthwhile.

Such a reprint does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the editors of the Eastern Progress. In this case, unfortunately, an editor's note citing the source of the material and indicating that the views contained therein were not necessarily those of the paper had to be pulled due to space problems.

Equally regretably, a letter from an Eastern alumnus in Danville, that called the NEWSWEEK article that appeared in issues 23 and 24 of the Progress communist inspired had to be omitted from publication for the same reason. This letter made favorable comment to the article reprinted last week and enclosed a copy, although the editors of the Progress already had a copy in their possession.

This same article was reprinted in the Murray State College student newspaper, but we do not know the reaction on that campus.

However, we do know, and welcome the result of the reprint on this campus. Not that we take either side of the issue, but letters showing opinions were one thing we hoped would result.

The primary purpose of reprints on an editorial page is to stir comment, and this particular one has brought a flood of letters. The only thing we are sorry about is that the letters came almost exclusively from faculty members, indicating a lack of student opinion.

We welcome any further comment on the issue.

Iron It!

Need Your Hair Straight

(ACP)—Many coeds now spend Saturday afternoon at the ironing board. Ironing clothes? Perhaps, but more often ironing hair, says the BALL STATE NEWS, Ball State of Muncie, Ind.

Swinging, straight, simple hair — if you haven't got it, get it. That's the attitude of many college women these days, and ironing their hair is one way they've found to get it.

Susie Campetti, Fort Wayne sophomore, decided to iron her hair "to go beat for finals. It's easy," she says. "Just take a hot iron, unplug it, lay your hair on the ironing board and have someone iron it." But she warns that it should be ironed down rather than back and forth, and that it shouldn't be done too often because it can damage the hair.

Coeds with "too curly" hair have found another way to get that swinging, straight simple hair — they set it by wrapping it around beer cans, preferably empty. Cathy Stalker, Anderson freshman, says that six beer cans can do what 30 rollers used to. She considers them the best answer yet to really straighten hair, but the hair must be wet to use them effectively.

She admits that beer cans do have disadvantages. "I can't sleep on them and I don't dare go out in public. I get awfully funny looks when people see me."

Letters

To The Editor Of The Progress

Point On DuBois

Your editorial of April 16, reprinted from "Christian Economics" and headlined, "Writer Paints DuBois Clubs 'Pink,'" mentions "the late nonagenarian Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, one of the founders of the NAACP in 1909, recipient of the Soviet Union's Lenin Peace Prize in 1959."

All of this tends to be a bit misleading in that it implies, by omission of further facts, the possibility of some relationship between Communism and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The latter, of course, was founded 10 years before the Communist Party was organized.

Dr. DuBois (not-spelled "Du Bois," as in your reprint) was never a member of the Communist Party during his service to the NAACP. At the age of 79, he left the Association in 1948 because of disagreement on basic policies and later, shortly before his death, became a Communist.

Mrs. Dorothy Janz

Should Be Cited

Last Friday, the editorial page of the Progress contained a reprint of an article on the civil rights movement which had previously appeared in "Christian Economics." I think it is a good idea for the students to be subjected to different viewpoints through such a policy. Furthermore, it should be the sole prerogative of the student editor to select the articles to be reprinted.

But to reprint an article from an extremist paper, be it the "Daily Worker" or "Christian Economics" without an editorial comment as to the political ideology of the writer, is a distortion of freedom of the press, especially in a society which tends to accept, unchallenged, the printed word. "Christian Economics," a newspaper with a viewpoint comparable to the Birch Society, has a right to be heard. But your readers should also be advised of the nature of the publications whose articles you reprint so they can evaluate such articles.

Eastern's Too Smart

The college organizations that have been responsible for many recent rallies protesting the U.S. policy in Viet Nam are now represented on the campus of Eastern.

A few days ago a friend of mine was given a publication called the "Free Student." He read the paper and passed it on to me to see what I thought about it. I neglect to write out my opinion of the publication because the Progress is a good clean campus newspaper and should remain so.

The "Free Student" is associated with the May 2nd Movement and Students for a Democratic Society. The beliefs of these organizations are stated in several articles in the "Free Student." The paper states that it is not communist, although it recognizes the Viet Cong patriots and accuses the United States of murderous aggression against North Viet Nam. The paper cries for peace but it seems that its conception of peace is a U.S. surrender to communism.

On the back page of the paper is a list of names of draft age men who say they refuse to fight in Viet Nam. The girl that gave the publication to my friend tried to solicit his signature for the list. The representatives of the previously mentioned organizations are going to become more and more disappointed as they approach the students of this institution.

The students that I have met since I came to Eastern are very patriotic and would be very reluctant to oppose any US policy that is designed to eradicate communism. The students of Eastern are firm believers of Kentucky's motto "United We Stand, Divided We Fall." Any organization that supports communism or opposes the US policy and actions against communism is going to have a hard row to hoe on the Eastern campus. I know this because I recently asked over two hundred male students if they supported the US policy in Viet Nam.

The answer was almost unanimously YES. However many inches my chest had lost prior to this because of one easy life of the college student was more than compensated for when I heard the students answer that "yes." I know the MSM and the SDS do not have a chance here at Eastern. It's too bad other schools could not be as smart.

What's A Showcase?

By KEN KEITH

"Hey, where were you yesterday afternoon? I thought we were going to shoot a few games of pool?"

"Yes, well, I went to a Showcase instead."

"You went to a what?"

"To a Showcase."

"What's a Showcase?"

"Oh, it's a little bit of everything. Yesterday it was poetry readings."

"Poetry? You passed up pool for poetry? Boy, I get enough poetry in class. You English majors are nuts!"

"What do you mean, 'English majors'? Showcase isn't just for English majors. It's for all students. And, anyway, this poetry was read by members of a speech class."

"Poetry is still poetry, no matter who reads it."

"That's easy for you to say, since you didn't see the Showcase. But, take my word for it, poetry is different when students read it."

"Poetry is—"

"—Okay, okay, I know. 'Poetry is still poetry.' But Showcase doesn't have only poetry readings. The 29th of this month, they're going to do a Reader's Theatre adaption, of 'A Thurber Carnival'."

"Who's 'they'? The Little Theatre group?"

"Now, Showcase is done by students in the speech department. Ms. [name] directs them."

"I thought you said it was Reader's Theatre?"

"I did. But Reader's Theatre isn't a play."

"What's the difference?"

"Well, Reader's Theatre is a sort of a theatre of the mind. The audience has to imagine a lot more. There aren't any sets, and, most of the time, lighting costumes aren't used either. See, a group of people simply get on a stage and read. From what is being read, the members of the audience draw their own pictures — mental pictures. I hear it's a real challenge for the reader, and very entertaining for the audience. I'm anxious to see "A THURBER CARNIVAL."

"What's it about?"

"A lot of things. It's a compilation of writings by James Thurber."

"Isn't he the guy who wrote about old Walter Mitty?"

"He's the guy."

"I bet you thought I didn't know nothing."

"No comment."

"Uh, say, do you think I could understand a Reader's Theatre?"

"What's to understand?"

"Well, all that imagining and everything."

"You make it sound like hard work! Look, if you listen to what's being read, you can't help but see things in your mind. Besides, the readers don't just stand still. They move around to make it easier for the audience to get into the spirit of the thing."

"When's this next Showcase going to be?"

"The 29th of this month, at four o'clock, in the Little Theatre."

"Say, maybe I'll go with you!"

"Go with me? Who asked you?"

'The Second Look'

Burma's Own Brand Of Revolution

(Editor's Note: The following article is one of a series published by the Commission of World Mission, National Student Christian Federation with the purpose of analyzing world issues of interest to students.)

With South East Asia in turmoil American students are apt to ask, What about Burma?

Some observers have seen in the policies of Burma an anti-American and even Marxist intent. It should be born in mind, however, that those acts of government which have seemed anti-American usually have been equally anti-Russian and anti-Chinese. For instance, the curtailment of aid programs, the nationalization of foreign business interests and the closing of foreign information libraries has affected Communist as well as democratic countries.

Of still greater significance is the fact that Burma and the United States continue to maintain good diplomatic relations in spite of their differences and there are reasons to hope that these ties will be further strengthened if Burma can be fully convinced that aid and trade will not be used as a wedge for interference in her domestic affairs.

To understand what is happening in Burma today calls for some perspective. One must go back at least to January 4th, 1948, when Burma was granted her independence by the British. It seems, in looking back, that independence became a kind of signal for internal fragmentation.

During much of this period there were as many as seven different kinds of rebel groups fighting against the central government, and on several occasions many were predicting the imminent fall of the capital city, Rangoon. Burma's number-one problem during the past fifteen years has been lack of internal stability.

The former Prime Minister U Nu, tried gallantly to hold the country together and hammer out of the many diverse, political, religious and ethnic groups a sense of nationhood, but he never really succeeded. In the early months of 1962 one of these ethnic groups, the Shans, who live in the northeast section of Burma, threatened to secede from the Union. U Nu had already made many concessions to the Shans as well as to other groups, some of which had strong leftist leanings.

Then, in the pre-dawn darkness of March 2nd, 1962, the head of the Armed Forces, General Ne Win, led an almost bloodless coup d'etat, taking into custody virtually all of the top government officials.

The General is an affable man, fifty-two years of age, who explains that he and his men rescued the country from the kind of fragmentation that faced the United States in the days of Abraham Lincoln and that if the Shans had seceded from the Union it would have led to complete collapse of the nation. He points further to U Nu's weakness in the face of this threat and insists that parliamentary democracy failed to unify and develop the country.

Of course, the real test now is whether the Ne Win government will be able to succeed where U Nu failed. Winning the support of Burma's ethnic minorities is not likely to be easy. They are strongly independent and tend to feel that their interests are less than safe in the hands of the ruling Burman majority.

American friends of Burma cannot help but hope that conditions will soon be such that the Ne Win government will be able to introduce a greater degree of democracy, but it must be remembered that democracy will have to grow in Burmese soil: it cannot be imposed from the outside. It is also well, in the interest of accuracy, to avoid the American pastime of applying the Communist label to all totalitarian forms of government which happen to differ sharply from our own.

It would seem that present developments in Burma are best understood, not in terms of a drift toward Communism, though no one would rule out such a possibility, but in terms of impatience with parliamentary democracy in the race to achieve internal stability and economic development quickly. Coupled with this is the strong desire to avoid domination by any outside influence whether it be from the East or the West.

In the days ahead the Ne Win government is likely to have every opportunity to experiment with its own kind of revolution. Though university students and Buddhist monks have been slow to get in step and insurgent groups like the Kachin Independence Army continue to occupy large sections of the countryside, there is no evidence of any concentration of leadership that offers a serious challenge to the ruling Revolutionary Council.

In the meantime Americans do well to avoid any "meddling" in the internal affairs of Burma, at the same time seeking to strengthen the ties of mutual friendship and assistance wherever possible. After all, it is quite possible that at this stage of Burma's development there may be no real live option to military rule. It is also likely that a fierce nationalism may be the only effective counter force to Chinese expansionism.

Dropouts A College Problem

in school." He says that "the development of the proper self-concept on the part of the college student is really a reflection of the general public and the friends, relatives and parents of the young man or woman toward college attendance."

"His opinion of himself and his ability to correctly see himself in the status of a college student are major contributing factors toward his success or toward his failure."

Attitude Important
Dr. Ambrose states that the personal attitude with which a student enrolls in college is of great importance to the successful termination of his course. He explains that the self-concept of an achiever on leaving the high school level can be severely harmed as the student first enters college. This is because social and academic status is much more demanding for the individual in college than in the average high school.

He says that "too often college has become a social status technique rather than a place that assistance can be gained toward furthering one's future social and economic success. All of this is inherent within the self-concept he holds within himself relative to college work."

Dr. Ambrose, who has been a member of the Eastern faculty since 1961, holds the A.B. degree from Transylvania College and both the M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Kentucky.

BASEBALLERS AMONG COLLEGE-DIVISION LEADERS

Pitcher John Carr, catcher Doug McCord, and outfielder Ron Chasteen rank among the nation's college-division leaders in strikeouts, doubles and runs batted in, per game, respectively.

The statistics show that Carr is one of the top strikeout artists. He holds the number 3 spot in average strikeouts per game. Carr has hurled 15 innings and has struck out 24 enemy batters for a 14.4 average per game. The average is figured on a nine-innings per game basis.

McCord is number 15 on the doubles list with 3 doubles in 8 games for a .38 average per game. The divisions' doubles leader is averaging 1.5 per game.

Chasteen ranks 13th in average runs batted in with 10 rbi's in 10 games for a 1.0 average per game. The number one man is averaging 2.43 per game.

The statistics are on the games that run through April 10.

INDIVIDUAL SPORTS STRESSED IN INTRAMURALS

For the remainder of the spring term, individual sports will come to the foreground, but teams will still have varied activities.

Many different opportunities for everyone to get outside, exercise, and enjoy themselves, are being sponsored by the IM department this spring. Competitive activity is featured, but free play is also included. IM tennis courts are available across from Brockton along with Martin's courts when the tennis team is not practicing. The auxiliary gym is usually free after 4, along with the handball courts in Weaver. Swimming is also featured in the afternoons.

Tournaments and meets included on this spring's schedule are tennis, swimming, track, softball, and handball.

Nine Faces Twin-Bill

Saturday the diamond men will have a conference doubleheader with Tenn. Tech and on Thursday Cumberland will be here for a doubleheader.

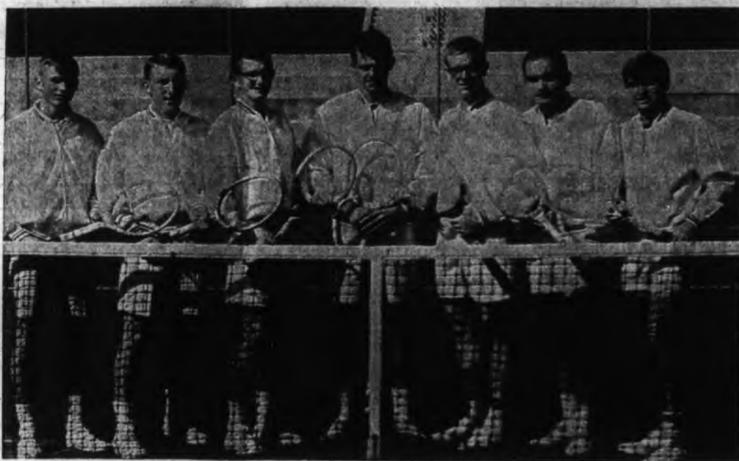

This week the track team will be engaged in two triangular meets. Tomorrow the thin-clads will travel to Morehead to compete with Marshall and Morehead.

On Wednesday the trackstars travel north to Cincinnati where they will run Hanover and University of Cincinnati.

The Golf Team will be competing with the University of Cincinnati today at Cincinnati and then tomorrow will host Morehead and Transylvania in a triangular match. April 29 marks the start of the Southern Intercollegiate Golf tournament which will be held at Athens, Ga. This tournament will start today and last until Saturday, May 1.

The tennis team will be faced with a busy schedule as they will play seven matches. They open today with Middle Tennessee at Murray. Then Saturday, April 24, they will play triangular meets with Murray and Western at Murray.

This Monday Ohio University will be here for a match and on Tuesday they will play Marshall. Wednesday the University of Louisville will invade our campus and the Thursday the racketeers will travel to Centre College for a match.

Netters At Murray

Coach Jack Adam's Maroon netters are participating in a four-team, round-robin meet at Murray against the Racers, Western and Middle Tennessee today and tomorrow. The racketeers currently stand

Offense Wins Wednesday

The offense downed the defense 21-12 Wednesday in the second full-speed scrimmage as coach Roy Kidd's football Maroons went through their second week of spring practice.

Kidd pitted his offensive teams against the defensive units in the full scale scrimmage.

The offensive unit compiled points by scoring either touchdowns or field goals while the defensive unit earned points by performance according to a scale set up by Kidd.

The scale allows 10 points for pass interceptions runs back for a touchdown, four points for pass interceptions, three for a fumble recovery two for a blocked punt or field goal attempt and for a safety, and one each for stopping an offensive drive or a blocked extra point.

Touchdowns were scored for the offensive unit by quarter back Larry Marmie (60 yard run), halfback Fred Malins (40 yard run), offensive back, Lloyd Chatfield (17 yard run) and quarterback Jim Guice (8 yard run). Rog Bulter booted a 23-yard field goal and converted all four extra points.

Kidd said that both units needed more work. "The defense is slow developing," he said, "and the offense needs a lot of work on individual techniques of blocking and timing."

Netters Post 3-1 Worksheet

The tennis teams' record to date is 3-1 overall and 1-0 in conference play. The netters hold victories over the University of Kentucky, Tennessee Tech, and Bellarmine. The lone defeat was at the hands of UK in a return match.

Open Sept. 18 Pressnell Announces 9-Game Grid Card

Athletic Director Glenn Pressnell has announced a nine-game football schedule for Coach Roy Kidd's 1965 Eastern Kentucky Maroons.

The Maroons will play four of the tilts in Hanger Stadium against conference foes Austin Peay, Middle Tennessee, and Western. Marshall University, returning to the schedule after a three-season lapse, will be the other home foe.

Highlighting the home schedule will be the homecoming clash October 3 against Western's Hilltoppers and the fifth annual Ban & Doc attraction October 9 against Middle Tennessee. Last year some 4,300 high school musicians from 60 bands attended. Road foes will be against loop opponents Murray, East Tennessee, Tennessee Tech, and Morehead, and intersectional foe Findlay (Ohio) College.

The only absence from last year's schedule is Youngstown, which was replaced with Marshall. The Maroons split with the Penguins in 1963 and '64.

Baseballers Take 3 Of 4 With Cincy, Morehead

The Maroon baseballers took 3 out of 4 games this week, 2 from Morehead and a split with the University of Cincinnati, running their season's record to 7 wins and 8 losses. The sweep of the Morehead doubleheader gave the Maroons sole possession of first place in the Ohio Valley Conference baseball standings with a 3-1 conference slate.

Eastern 12-4, Cincinnati 11-10.

The diamondmen banged out 16 hits in the opener with Don Snopek, the last of 4 Maroon pitchers, picking up the win.

The Maroons cooled off in the second game, getting only 4 hits. The fielding was just as lackluster as the team committed 8 errors. Glenn Marshall took the loss, allowing 4 runs in 4 innings.

Spirit, Enthusiasm Dominate Football Drill's 2nd Week

Enthusiasm and spirit dominate the scene on Eastern practice football field where Coach Roy Kidd's Maroon griders have been working for two weeks.

Kidd, whose optimism depends upon "whether or not our clubs take pride," says that the Maroons could have a sound club this fall, and should definitely improve last year's 3-5-1 mark.

The young coach, entering his second year at the Eastern helm, says he still plans to use the flip-flop offense next year, but the offense will be more wide-open with an emphasis on passing from pro-type formations.

No Individuals
He didn't single out any griders for individual praise, saying that the coaching staff was stressing fundamentals and individual performances would come later. One game-type scrimmage per week is planned.

Plans for the annual Maroon-White intrasquad game are on a purely tentative basis. Kidd said that the game's status depends upon the team injury situation toward the end of spring training.

The coach said that the team's strongest point now is defense; the weaknesses, a lack of depth and experience at offensive positions.

The defensive unit lost only two regulars—Herbie Conley and Todd Reynolds—and has been strengthened by a flock of returning squadmen.

However, Kidd adds that the goal-line phase of defense is still not as good as he wants. "We are still not playing the type of goal-line defense we need to win."

Work on Air-Ways

The Maroons have also been working to correct one of last year's weakest links—pass defense. According to Kidd this problem has been solved and the Eastern air-ways should be stinger this fall.

Offense, the area worrying Kidd most, is a questionmark for two reasons; because of lack of experience at offensive center, and offensive tackle. The strongest offensive line position is the guard slot.

Yuk Lee Gets $3,000 Grant

Mr. Yuk Lee, an Eastern foreign student from Hong Kong, China, has been granted scholarship amounting up to $3000 a year by the University of Cincinnati. Lee plans to work toward a master's degree there.

Lee, a geography major, says his reason for going to UC to get his master's degree is that Eastern does not offer a graduate program in his field of study.

Lee has been in the United States for nineteen months now. Before coming here, he was graduated from Chung Chi College (Chinese University of Hong Kong) where he maintained a very high scholastic standing. For the time he has been at Eastern, his scholastic standing is 3.75, a fact which aided greatly toward obtaining the scholarship from U. C.

Lee will begin his studies at U. C. this fall. He will spend about fifteen hours weekly working with undergraduates in laboratories. In order to keep his scholarship, he must maintain a B average.

VOYAGE TO THE BOTTOM OF THE BARREL

As everyone knows, thirteen-twelfths of the earth's surface is water. Thus we can see how important it is to know and understand our oceans. Toward this end American colleges last year embarked on a program to increase enrollment in oceanography. I am pleased to report that results were nothing short of spectacular: In one single semester the number of students majoring in oceanography rose by 100%—from one student to two!

But more oceanographers are still needed, and so today this column, normally a vehicle for slapdash jocularity, will instead devote itself to a brief course in oceanography. In view of the solemnity of the subject matter, my sponsors, the Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blade Co., makers of Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades which give you more luxury shaves than Beep-Beep or any other brand you can name—if, by chance, you don't agree, the makers of Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blades will buy you a pack of whatever brand you think is better—my sponsors, I say, the Personna Stainless Steel Razor Blade Co. will today, because of the solemnity of this column, forego their usual commercial message.

We begin our study of oceans with that ever-popular favorite, the Pacific. Largest of all oceans, the Pacific was discovered by Balboa, a Spanish explorer of great vision. To give you an idea of Balboa's vision, he first saw the Pacific while standing on a peak in Darien, which is in Connecticut.

The Pacific is not only the largest ocean, but the deepest. The Mindanao Trench, off the Philippine Islands, measures more than 5,000 fathoms in depth. (It should be pointed out here that ocean depths are measured in fathoms—lengths of six feet—after Sir Walter Fathom, a British nobleman of Elizabethan times who, upon his eighteenth birthday, was given a string six feet long. Many young men would have sunk in a funk if all they got for their birthday was a string six feet long, but not Sir Walter! String in hand, he scampered around the entire coast of England measuring seawater until he was arrested for loitering. Incidentally, a passion for measuring seems to have run in the family: Fathom's grandnephew, Sir John Furlong, spent all his waking hours measuring racetracks until Charles II had him beheaded in honor of the opening of the London School of Economics.)

But I digress. Let us, as the poet Macfieffeld says, go down to the sea again. (The sea, incidentally, has ever been a favorite subject for poets and composers. Who does not know and love the many robust sea chantees that have enriched our folk music—songs like "Sailing Through Kansas" and "I'll Swab Your Deck If You'll Swab Mine" and "The Artificial Respiration Polka.")

My own favorite sea chanty goes like this: (I'm sure you all know it. Why don't you sing along as you read?)

O, carry me to the deep blue sea,
 Where I can live with honor,
 And every place I'll shave my face
 With Stainless Steel Personna.

Sing hi, sing ho, sing mal-de-mer,
 Sing hey and nonny-nonny,
 Sing Jimmy crack corn and I don't care,
 Sing Stainless Steel Personna.

I'll harpoon whales and jib my sails,
 And read old Joseph Conrad,
 And take my shaves upon the waves,
 With Stainless Steel Personna.

Sing la, sing lo, sing o-lee-a-lay,
 Sing night and noon and morning,
 Sing salt and spray and curds and whey,
 Sing Stainless Steel Personna.

'Womanless Wedding' Here Monday Night

A "Womanless Wedding," featuring such stars as the dancing J-boys - John Vickers, John Rowlett and Jim Baechtold - and a host of other well-known performers, will be held Monday evening in Hiram Brock Auditorium.

Sponsored by the Richmond Rotary Club, the show gets under way at 8 o'clock.

All proceeds will go to the Eastern Scholarship Fund of the club.

Tickets will be on sale today and Monday in the Student Union Building. Priced at $1.00, they will also be available at the door.

The original three-act play, entitled "The Joys of Marriage," consists of skits, songs and a wedding ceremony. It was written by Mrs. Shirley Baechtold. Mrs. Nancy Palas is director of the performance and Dr. John Finlay is stage manager.

Included among the cast are several members of the college faculty and staff, including Mr. Vickers, Dr. Rowlett, Mr. Baechtold, Dr. Leighton Harrell, Dr. H. H. LaFuze, Col. Everett Smith and board member Dr. Russell I. Todd.

Here's A New Approach

Does a "Womanless Wedding" sound funny to you? Members of the local Rotary Club composing the chorus line in Monday's production are James Curry, Dr.

Richard Bernstrom, Col. Everett Smith, Morris Rozen, and James Dykes. The play is scheduled to take place in Hiram Brock Auditorium.

Parks anywhere

A Honda is a slim 24" at the widest point. This narrows down the hunt for a parking space considerably. You can slide into almost any shady spot. Like just outside of English Lit. Hondas fit into slim budgets too. Prices start about $215*. Gas goes farther, up to 200 mpg on some models. And cutting your wheels in half does just about the same thing for insurance costs. Or more.

This is the sporty Super 90 with its distinguished T-bone frame. Tops 60 mph. Just one of the 15 Honda models that make other campus transportation strictly for the birds.

See the Honda representative on your campus or write: American Honda Motor Co., Inc., Department CI, 100 West Alondra Boulevard, Gardena, California 90247.

A MESSAGE TO ROTC COLLEGE MEN

IF YOU'VE GOT WHAT IT TAKES TO BE AN ARMY OFFICER, STAY IN THE ROTC

Being an Army officer is a challenge. Officers must be leaders... able to take responsibility... get important jobs done.

It isn't easy to win a commission as an Army officer. But if you are taking the Basic Course in ROTC you're well on your way—provided you can measure up to the high standards required for admission to the Advanced Course.

As a student in one of the 247 colleges and universities offering senior ROTC training, you are in a privileged group. There's no better way for any college man to get the training and skills needed to be an Army officer than through the on-campus program created specifically for that purpose—ROTC. Here you learn to be a leader... to develop the qualities that add a vital plus to your academic training... qualities that will pay off for the rest of your life in whatever career you choose to follow.

There are other advantages too. Pay, at the rate of $40 per month during the Advanced Course plus allowances for summer training and travel. Fellowship and social activity. The chance to work with modern Army equipment, and perhaps to qualify for Army flight training if it is offered at your school. And then gold bars and a commission as an Army officer.

Why not talk to your Professor of Military Science now. Let him know you're interested in signing up for the Advanced Course. Then if you are offered an opportunity to join, don't pass it up. It's the program that's best for you... and best for your country.

If you're good enough to be an Army officer, don't settle for less.
