Highest Point Standing

Honor Students Chosen For This Year

The MILESTONE was made available to the student body Monday and two of its colorful pages presented Eastern's four honor students for this year.

Each year one person is picked from each of the four colleges of the University as having attained the highest point standing for that college. These students are people who have strived extra hard in all their studies, not just their major, and have proven to be very capable students worthy of honorable mention.

The students this year are Judy Caswell, representing the College of Business, Kathryn Colebrook from the College of Arts and Sciences, Frankie Sachleben, representing the College of Education and Dorothy Walker from the College of Technology.

Miss Caswell is studying to be a hospital administrator and is majoring in business education. She is a Senior from Carlisle, Kentucky and is a member of the Collegiate Pen-tacle, Pi Omega Pi, Kappa Delta Pi, S.N.E.A. and the Wesley Foundation. She currently holds a point standing of 3.70.

Miss Colebrook is a Senior political science major from Cincinnati, Ohio. She is a member of Pi Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Sigma, Pi Tau Chi, the Collegiate Pentacle and the Polity Society. She is studying to be a city planner and has a cumulative point standing of 3.65.

Miss Sachleben is a senior education major from Bedford, Kentucky. She is planning to be an elementary teacher. During her college career she has become a member of Kappa Delta Pi, Collegiate Pentacle and the Association for Childhood. Her point standing at the present is a 3.34.

The fourth of the honor students is Miss Walker, a home economics major from Junction City, Kentucky. She is preparing to be a teacher and is a member of the Collegiate Pentacle, the Home Economics Association, the Newman Club and Kappa Delta Pi. Her current point standing is a 3.23.

Eastern Chooses Guy Strong New Head Basketball Coach

A ten-day search for a man who will restore Eastern to the top in collegiate basketball was ended last Saturday when Guy Rowland Strong was named the head basketball coach by President Martin.

Strong, one of the most successful college basketball coaches in the country, succeeds Jim Beachhold who resigned May 3 to devote full-time to teaching. Strong's appointment becomes effective June 1.

"We have great basketball tradition at Eastern," Dr. Martin said, "and Guy Strong is part of that tradition. I'm sure, because of his success and experience in basketball, that he can develop a fine team at Eastern."

Martin said Strong was selected from a list of 30 applicants. Strong, an Eastern graduate, returns to his Alma Mater after four highly successful years as head coach at Kentucky Wesleyan College. It was during his tenure at Wesleyan that Strong moved into the national spotlight.

In 1966 he guided the Panthers to the National Collegiate Athletic Association college division championship. The title, coupled with an impressive 24 - 6 season record, earned Strong college honors in the nation.

It also provided a 45-day tour of West Africa for the Wesleyan team, sponsored by the State Department.

This past season, Wesleyan compiled a record of 26 - 4 under Strong. The Panthers were ranked second in the nation among college division teams in virtually all major polls.

The final Carr Sports Ratings found Kentucky Wesleyan 23rd in the entire nation, including major college teams.

The Panthers went all the way to the semifinals of the national tournament this year, losing out to eventual champion Winston-Salem and then coasting to victory in the consolation game.

The 38-year-old native of Irvine, Ky., leaves Wesleyan with a four-year record of 78 victories and 30 defeats, for a percentage of .717.

Strong's connection with winning basketball dates back to his high school playing days when he helped guide Irvine to the Kentucky High School Tournament in 1948.

In 1951, he was a member of the University of Kentucky team that captured the Southeastern Conference title and went on to win the NCAA championship.

Followship a two-year stint in the service, he came to Eastern under Coach Paul McBrayer. As a starting guard, he was one of the key performers in Eastern's Ohio Valley Conference championship in 1955.

After his graduation, Strong took over head coaching duties at Richmond's Madison High School for one year, before going to Louisville Male. His best club at Male finished with an 18 - 3 record.

In 1962, he went to Virginia Tech as assistant coach and tutored the Tech freshmen to an 11 - 1 mark.

Strong then took over head coaching duties at Wesleyan and posted a 16-8 record in his first year. The following season the Panthers slumped to a 10-12 mark but rebounded to win the national title one year later. He has done graduate work during the off-season and received his MA from Eastern last summer.

Married to his high school sweetheart, the former Alen Noland, the Strong's have two daughters, Mina, 15, and Nancy, 8.

English Dept. Schedules Conference For Writers

Eastern's annual Creative Writing Conference will be held from July 17 through the 21. The Conference will be directed by Dr. Byno R. Rhodes of Eastern's English department. It will include a series of lectures and informal discussions led by the guest authors, Paul Engle, Emil Roy, and Ealier Tevis.

Mr. Engle, a faculty member of the University of Iowa, has published nine volumes of poetry, a novel, an opera, prose narratives, textbooks, and has appeared in such periodicals as "The Kenyon Review," "Harper's," and the "Atlantic Monthly."

Mr. Roy is an Associate Professor at the Northern Illinois University. In 1964-65 he was a Fulbright Professor at the University of Kiel, Germany. His articles on drama have been published in Drama Critique, Modern Drama, and Drama Survey. He has edited several texts on drama. His book Christopher Fry, is now being made ready for fall publication.

Mr. Tevis has been a writer-teacher since 1949. He is currently lecturer in English at Ohio University. His short stories have appeared in Esquire, Cosmopolitan, Playboy, The Saturday Evening Post, and The Magazine of Fantasy and Science Fiction. His first novel, The Hustler, was released as a motion picture in 1961. His second, The Man Who Fell To Earth, will be produced as a motion picture soon.

Those participating in the Conference as a member of English 502 will receive three hours credit. Those students enrolled only in 503 will receive one hour credit. Anyone participating as an auditor will receive no credit but by paying the fee, an auditor is entitled to manuscript criticism and to attend all sessions.

Those interested in attending the Creative Writing Conference should see Dr. Byno R. Rhodes for approval.

Highest Honor For A Senior

Hall Of Fame Honors William Raker

The 1967 Hall of Fame award was announced last Friday. Bill Raker a senior from Carrollton is the recipient of this award.

This award is the highest distinction a senior can receive. It is based on scholarship, leadership and overall contribution to campus life.

Senior honor societies and the Student Council make nominations for this award. A secret faculty committee makes the final choice.

When the long-kept secret was finally revealed to Raker, last Friday, by Ann Scott, 1966-67 Editor of the "Milestone" along with Dean of Public Affairs, Don Feltner, his response was a visual one of appreciation. Raker told the joint staffs of the Progress and the Milestone at a Banquet in their honor Tuesday night about how he felt upon receiving the yearbook and finding his picture on pages 218-19 as Hall of Fame Winner.

Raker stated, "Knowing the award is the highest distinction a senior can receive...I cried."

In Raker's own words, he came to Eastern in the Fall of 1963 as, "a shy, retiring, blushing, green freshman." Here he majored in Mathematics and minored in English, which he maintained through his four years of college with a 3.88 standing.

As the valedictorian of Carroll County High School in 1963 his high standing enabled Raker to become the first recipient of the Alumni Scholarship, which has taken him through four years of college.

"One of the reasons I came to Eastern was its general atmosphere," replied Raker. "The administrators, the faculty, and the student body has helped me to grow with Eastern." And that can be seen by looking at the record of achievements and activities he has compiled since first coming to Eastern.

In 1963 Raker was vice-president of KIE, Kappa Iota

Epilson, a sophomore mens' honorary, and in the school year of 1964-65 he was president of this honorary fraternity.

He has served four years on the Student Court and was chairman of the Student Code Committee in 1965-66. Also Raker has served as a Student Council member three years.

Adding to the list of his achievements, he is a member for the National Professional Educators Honorary, Kappa Delta Pi. In 1965-66 he was vice-president of Christian Student Fellowship. Shyly, he admits to being on the Dean's List every semester he has been at Eastern.

In 1966 Raker was one of two juniors to be named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Also in the same year, Raker was appointed as Feature Editor of the Eastern Progress. He also participates in the Polymathologists Club, which is made up of math majors and minors and may interested students.

Carrying Home The Honors

"What can I say?" is all the response Bill Raker could muster when he was presented with the 1967 Hall of Fame trophy Tuesday night at the annual PROGRESS-MILESTONE banquet. Raker, the retiring editor of the PROGRESS, was named to the Hall of Fame as recognition of his academic achievement, leadership qualities, and over-all contributions to the campus. The Hall of Fame award is the highest distinction a graduating senior can receive.

Board Of Student Publications Appoints New Editors To Head The '67-'68 Progress And Milestone Staffs

BY NANCY KAY PRINZEL
MANAGING EDITOR

At the recent bi-annual Board of Student Publications meeting, six editors for next year's Milestone and Progress staff were appointed.

The Progress staff received two editorial appointments for the upcoming year. Fred Douglas Mullins will be the new editor-in-chief, and Craig Lyle Ammerman will take over the position of managing editor. There will probably be additional appointments added in the fall semester.

Receiving editorial appointments on the Milestone staff were Marsha Scott and Richard Eads as co-editors; Wilma Asbury, assistant editor; and Joyce Harville, managing editor. These appointees will presently begin planning for the 67-68 Milestone.

Fred Douglas Mullins, a junior English major, came to Eastern from Burgin, Ky. last year. Mullins previously acquired 12 hours of journalism at the University of Kentucky, before his attendance at Eastern. He has been on the Progress staff since this past January. Mullins expressed his appreciation and said, "I am honored to have been chosen as editor of the Eastern Progress for next year and I will do my best to uphold the traditional quality of this newspaper." He also expressed his plans for next year as being, "to have a larger Progress staff by promoting an appeal for more writers from the student body."

Craig Ammerman, who plans to make a future in the field of public relations, was selected to become the new managing editor of the Eastern Progress. Ammerman has had much experience with the Progress even though he is presently a freshman at Eastern. He has been the summer sports editor, advertising editor in the fall term, and is at present the sports editor. Ammerman also works as a student assistant in the news bureau of the Public Affairs Office. He stated that he felt "highly honored to receive this position and I hope that I am able to do the type of work that this position demands." Ammerman is from Richmond and he has been a reporter for the Richmond Daily Register in the past.

Marsha Scott, chosen for the new position as co-editor of the Milestone, has been a member of the staff for the past three years. Miss Scott now holds the position of associate editor. She has worked diligently in the past to help our yearbook be what it is. Miss Scott is a junior political science major and came to Eastern from Hodgenville, Ky. Miss Scott and Richard Eads, the other co-editor, have attended national conventions partially sponsored by the Foote and Daves printers at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania and at Atlanta, Georgia.

Richard Eads, a junior from Paris, Ky., has also worked hard to earn his position

Dr. Martin Discusses Tour Of European Countries

BY MIKE FINNERAN
STAFF WRITER

President Martin returned from his recent tour behind the Iron Curtain with many interesting experiences to relate. The purpose of the trip taken by the American Association of College Teachers was to study the education system in Yugoslavia. All expenses were paid by the Yugoslavian government.

Speaking to the Garrard County Teachers Association, Dr. Martin reviewed the five week trip which took the delegation through London, Belgrade, Sarajevo, Rome and Paris. The group spent Easter Sunday in legendary Ireland. From there they went to London where they visited historic Westminster Abbey and Buckingham Palace. After leaving London, it was on the Belgrade, "the breadbasket of Yugoslavia."

The President described Belgrade as "the most drab city I've ever seen. None of the glitter of neon signs so prominent in American cities was present here because behind the Iron Curtain there is no advertising." However, he did say that attempts to beautify the city were apparent everywhere he went.

The educational system in Yugoslavia is somewhat different from our own. Illiteracy is prominent throughout the country, but officials are convinced of the value of education. It is compulsory to attend at least eight years of formal educational training.

High school and elementary classes are held in the same building. The elementary school day runs from 7 a.m. to noon, and the high school day extends from noon to 5 p.m.

In Belgrade, there are Pedagogical Institutions which train 16 and 17 year olds for teaching positions on the high school level. The average salary of the high school teacher would equal between $250.00 and $300.00 a year in American currency.

Universities can be found in all of the major cities of Yugoslavia. The enrollment ranges as high as 35,000 in some. The most eminent of the institutions of higher learning in Yugoslavia is the University of Belgrade.

Leaving Yugoslavia, the contingent swung north to Sarajevo and then south to Rome. There they observed the vestiges of the old Roman empire as it stood during biblical times. Some of

New Editors Assume Their Duties

The new editors for next year's Progress and Milestone staffs were appointed this past week. It will be their responsibility to see that next year's publications become two of the best ever. These editors from right to left are as follows: Fred Mullins, Progress editor-in-chief; Marsha Scott and Richard Eads, Milestone co-editor; Wilma Asbury, Milestone assistant editor; Craig Ammerman, Progress managing editor; and Joyce Harville, Milestone managing editor.

Let's Give Him Our Support

Welcome Aboard, Coach Strong

JUST NINE DAYS after Jim Baechtold announced his resignation as Eastern's head basketball coach, another press conference was called during which President Martin took pleasure in making public the name of the man who is to replace Coach Baechtold.

Last Saturday morning, Guy Rowan Strong came back to his Alma Mater to take over the coaching of the Colonels.

One of Eastern's own sons had come home, bringing with him the reputation of a noted basketball coach who is nationally recognized for his expert and professional coaching skills and for his ability to produce a winning team.

Much to the delight of many people, Coach Strong has elected to join the athletic staff here at Eastern. It was an extremely wise decision that prompted the asking of Coach Strong to assume the responsibility of training and coaching the Maroons. Reciprocally, it was a prudent Guy Strong who graciously accepted the invitation to "come home and coach."

Coach Strong has the capabilities of building the Colonels into, the strongest team in the OVC. He possesses the know-how and the enthusiasm necessary to coach a winning team, and he now has the athletes that can form just such a team. What he needs now more than anything else is the all-out loyal support of the institution and the student body.

Let's all extend Guy Strong a sincere and hearty "welcome home." Let's all get behind him and the Colonels and boost them into next year's OVC championship for all we're worth.

Welcome aboard, Guy Strong; and three cheers from "Big E."

Service With A Smile?

Merchants Need New Attitude

THIS SCHOOL year is drawing to a close and as one looks back on this past year he can see Eastern has stepped one step closer to being a mature university. Unfortunately, the town of Richmond does not realize the growing importance and quality of this institution on the hill above their town. Maybe the Richmond natives know that the University exists but even if they do, the majority of them seem to care little else about it.

The subject of Richmond merchants' seemingly lack of appreciation for Eastern's student body and its purchasing power has been brought to light many times. It has been mentioned by individuals and this is not the first mention of it in this publication or will it be the last until the situation is corrected. Many, not all, but many of the Richmond merchants have displayed an attitude toward Eastern students which con-notes nothing but irritability and a total lack of any kind of hospitality toward the Eastern students who trade with them.

Eastern likes to speak proudly of its progress toward being a finer institution of higher learning. It has grown physically as more and more young people seek to gain a college education. This has not been the case with too many Richmond merchants. They have not improved their attitude toward Eastern's students, even though their trade increases steadily with every semester's increase in enrollment.

Next fall Eastern's dorms will again be full of students who will be needing the services of the town merchants. It is sincerely hoped that those Richmond merchants who have up to now displayed such lax and indifferent attitudes toward their student customers will turn over a new leaf for the 67-68 school year. They should be proud of Eastern and acknowledge this through their reception of the students.

Our Nauseating TV Commericals

Remember when TV commercials were presented in such a way as to make you want to run right out and buy the product being advertised? Alas those days are gone forever. Nowadays TV commercials stimulate you to run right out, not to buy the product, but just to get out of the room.

Remember when toothpaste was called exactly that instead of a decay preventive dentrifice? Somehow products seemed more trustworthy in those days.

Most modern TV commercials are enough to make anybody lose faith in a product. The average product now must be hospital tested, proven in laboratory tests, guaranteed by doctors three to one, have a secret ingredient, be tested against a leading brand X and guarantee you success in your love life before it is even considered fit for TV commercials.

Let's bring back the old-fashioned ones. They were the commercials that didn't make you guess what the product was going to be until the very end. Now when a commercial shows a man driving his car, smoking a cigarette, his seat belt fastened and his wife in the seat beside him, you wait till the commercial is half over before finding out that it is not the car, the cigarette, the seat belts, or the clothing they are wearing that is being advertised. So half way through the commercial the secret is out and you realize that the eye shadow on the wife is the object under consideration at the moment.

The product in which TV commercials seem to have gone to the limit of human patience is cigarettes, otherwise known as cancer sticks. Now just how much cigarette smoking affects health is debatable, but in the writer's case there seems to be a close connection between nausea and the cigarette commercial.

Just consider for a moment today's average cigarette commercial. The filters on the cigarette probable cost more than the rest of the package including the tobacco. The smoker today can buy cigarettes with filters that spin, strain, sift, whirl and do just about any gyration feasible of cigarette smoke. These varied gymnastics are backed up by novelties such as charcoal, menthol, cellulose, recessed tips and many more which are claimed to make you smoke more and cough less.

Yes, the tobacco industry has provided many a thought provoking commercial. The thoughts can't be mentioned here, but rest assured that they were uttered and mumbled in direct response to the cleverness of the modern advertiser.

There is method in the madness of the modern TV commercials though, and they are quite effective as nauseating as they may be. When you watch TV and see green giants, white tornados, dish washing detergents that fly you around the kitchen and beautiful women that come out of tubes of hair dressing, the sights are so traumatic that you sub-consciously remember the product. This is indeed the object of the commercial, is it not?

A Precious Book

'Milestone' Staff Due Congratulations

THEY'VE DONE IT again! This year's MILESTONE staff has produced another "Triple Crown" winner, in our estimation.

Monday morning, as dreary and wet and miserable as it was, didn't keep thousands of students from flocking to the coliseum to get their copies of the book that they have been eagerly anticipating all year long.

Speculation ran high the last few days before it got here about what it would look like and what would be in it. And the smiles that spread across the faces of the students as they marvelled at the captivating cover and then turned to the breathtaking color photos inside showed unmistakably how pleased every one was with the 1967 edition of the world's most honored yearbook.

This year's MILESTONE was received with a great deal of favoritism by every one, which gives reason for the staff to be proud of their long hours of toil.

The MILESTONE is a precious book, one that every student will cherish for as long as his memory will recall his days at Eastern. The yearbook has a special significance for the whole community, for it is the pictorial record of us, the students, and of Eastern, our school.

The editors and their staff deserve no less than the highest expressions of commendation and congratulations as tokens of the praise they have definitely earned for a difficult but important job that was very well done.

The Voyageur

*The ship lay at anchor in the night and sea.
She slipped her cabin.
Captured the ebbing tide
And defying the wind
Ran before it
Like a woman in a field of flowers
Suddenly caught up in the warmth of spring.
Aimlessly, in search of a peaceful harbor
She sails in an ocean of time.*

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

APOLOGY FOR AN ERROR

Dear Editor:
I would like to bring it to the attention of our campus that a gross error and misdeed has been committed. The letter which appeared in the Progress last week concerning the raising and lowering of the SUB flag by the P.R.'s was in error. Due to my lack of knowledge of the Army Flag code, I gave blame to the Pershing Rifles for being unpatriotic and I sincerely apologize. It seems that it is alright to raise the flags simultaneously, as long as the American flag touches the top first.

Skip Drum

IN RESPONSE TO FLAG ISSUE

Dear Editor:
This is in response and answer to the letter of Skip Drum, May 11, 1967.
Mr. Drum seems to think that the American Flag in front of the S.U.B. is not getting the respect, honor, and care that it, as the Nation's banner, requires. Mr. Drum used several paragraphs to say this and to belittle the P.R.'s in their drill and their care of the American Flag. But it boiled down, after all of this, to one stated gripe — the American Flag was being taken down simultaneously with the Commonwealth and Eastern Flags.

Had Mr. Drum taken time to consult the Flag Code as passed by the Congress of the United States he would have seen that it is indeed proper to hoist and to strike the colors simultaneously so long as the American Flag is the first to reach the peak and the last to be taken from the pole.

The P.R.'s carry their care and respect for the flags to the ultimate. Each day Monday through Thursday seven uniformed P.R.'s and Friday through Sunday five P.R.'s in Blazers hoist and strike the colors. The American Flag is the first to be briskly hoisted, and the last to be ceremoniously struck. In the march to and from the Lancaster House the American Flag is given the position of honor to the front and right in the detail and when it is being hoisted or struck it is rendered the military or the civilian salute as prescribed by the Flag Code.

The Pershing Rifles are proud and honored to do flag duty and they find it hard to understand the harassment that they undergo from students during their march to and from the flag ceremony. It is not easy to understand the catcalls, the hup, two three four, the gung-hos, the four lettered words, and the disrespect shown by many Eastern students on the march to, from, and during the flag raising.

I would ask Mr. Drum, during the flag raising or striking ceremonies, why he continued to sit in the Plaza, why he was not at attention, why his hand was not over his heart? And I would remind him that Patriotism is Action — and not wishful thinking or words!

Frat Men Protest Discrimination

(ACP)—Nine members of Sigma Chi fraternity at Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., have dropped their fraternity membership in protest of discriminatory practices in the national organization, the Pioneer reports.

Baker Stocking, who was recently named a Rhodes Scholar, announced his disaffiliation with the chapter after it rejected his motion to suspend local membership in the national organization until it eliminates racial discrimination.

(The issue of discrimination at the national level has created controversy in many local chapters in the past year. The University of Minnesota chapter, for example, has been suspended from the campus until it can prove it is free to choose members without interference from the national organization.)

Stocking, in a statement read to chapter members, said that "the structure of Sigma Chi still allows discriminatory membership practices, where the members of a chapter are not able to initiate men of their own choice because of the racial prejudice of members elsewhere."

"Reportedly, in the past a few chapters have been able to initiate several Orientals into the Fraternity by tiptoeing around and establishing advance contacts with the national organization to keep the news out of the wrong hands . . . (However) no precedent is ever set under such a system."

He recommended "major revision" of the fraternity constitution to eliminate discriminatory practices involving membership.

He dropped out of the fraternity, he said, because he felt applying external pressure would be more successful than working through internal channels.

An important factor in his decision, Stocking said, was a 1965 case of discrimination at Whitman involving a second-generation Japanese-American, Reid Yamamoto. Yamamoto was pledged by the Whitman chapter, but his formal pledge form was rejected by a Spokane attorney.

"Although my fraternity brothers and I actively fought it, as members of Sigma Chi we were contributing factors in that discrimination," Stocking said. "My conscience tells me that the only way I can ever truly assure Reid Yamamoto of his personal acceptability to me is to step out of Sigma Chi."

A Drain On Brain-Power

'Brains' Seek The Market

By RALPH MCGILL

Professor Richard M. Titmuss, of the London School of Economics, has been the loudest and most persistent scold on the subject of the "brain drain" to the United States. Professor Titmuss, however, prefers the more lofty phrase, "import of human capital." His statistic is that since 1949 "about 100,000 doctors, scientists and engineers have been 'absorbed' by the United States." In a manner befitting a professor of economics, Professor Titmuss estimates this human capital to be the equivalent of all that America has spent on foreign aid in the period since 1949. The professor's statistics are disputed, but he likes them.

Refuting him is the just released two-year study by the Inter-Agency Council on International Education and Cultural Affairs. The findings are that the "brain drain" has been exaggerated by other countries and that no steps should be taken to curb the migration of scientists and engineers to the United States.

There is a comparatively large immigration of skilled and "technical persons." More than 70 per cent of these come from "developed countries." In the last fiscal year 40 per cent come from Europe, 29 per cent from North America, 20 per cent from Asia, 8.4 per cent from South America, 1.6 per cent from Africa, and 1.1 per cent from Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific Islands.

Men Should Seek Best Opportunities

Government sponsored student-teacher exchanges are not a problem. Less than 1 per cent of these seek waivers to remain in this country. Most countries make return a requirement of participation in exchange programs.

Professor Titmuss, an economist, seems vulnerable and contradictory. "The market" attracts money and brains. In a free society man is free to come and go. He is, if trained, free to seek out the best opportunity for his skills or his brain.

It is not possible, in a free society, for a nation to bar a person because he is trained technically or is a doctor or scientist. Having a brain does not stamp his as morally or criminally undesirable.

It is true that there is more opportunity for the technically and scientifically trained in America. Long before other countries began extensive research and development, both the private and public sectors in the United States were pouring billions into "R and D" (Research and Development). There was a demand market for trained men. That such persons should seek of sell their services or do research under the most advanced conditions should occasion no surprise.

Canada annually attracts a considerable number of "brains." So does Russia. The Chinese have profited from nuclear physicists trained in this country. (This was a brain drain in reverse.) The Soviets (and the United States) were aided in early space and rocket work by German scientists. Japan, which ranks high as an "R and D" nation, also has an in-flow of brains.

The "brain drain" admittedly is a touchy, sensitive subject. The British have talked about it more than any other country of Europe. Time was when the needs of far-flung empire provided jobs and opportunity for teachers, scientists, doctors, engineers, and technicians. Asian and African countries—developing nations—still rely on expatriate skills. This need is being decreased by the programs of "Africanization" and by the growth of African universities. Even so, the need for expatriates will continue for some years to come.

Meanwhile, "brains" will continue to seek the best market. It is odd economist Titmuss should be in such a fever about it. (Distributed 1967, by The Hall Syndicate, Inc.) (All Rights Reserved)

Nebraska Free University Attracts Larger Enrollment Than Expected

(ACP)—The Nebraska Free University began class sessions last month with an enrollment of 631 students in 23 classes, the Daily Nebraskan reports.

The most popular course was "Human Reproduction," sponsored by Theta Nu medical honorary, with 77 students. "Psychical Research" attracted 74 and "Film Techniques," sponsored by the Nebraska Union Film Committee, has 56 students.

The enrollment exceeded all expectations of the founders, according to Gene Pokorny, member of the Coordinating Committee for a Free University. "When we began planning last October, 100 participants was our goal," he said.

Enrollment figures, he added "indicate university students feel the concept of the Free University is valid."

The committee which originated the Free University plans to develop another program this semester, Pokorny said. It has purchased a series of tapes featuring economist Robert Theobald concerning "Man's Role in Tomorrow's World."

"We would like to set up a series of 'one-shot' seminars, where groups would listen to the tapes and use them as a springboard for discussion," Pokorny said.

Strong Faced With Rebuilding

The frequently-discussed coaching situation was brought to a halt last Saturday when President Martin announced Eastern had attained the services of one of the country's highly respected basketball coaches.

Guy Strong, a winner in the true sense of the word, is faced with the task of restoring Eastern to the top of collegiate basketball. He follows in the footsteps of a fine gentlemen and fine basketball coach.

Guy Strong has won 87 of 118 collegiate basketball games in one year at Virginia Tech and four years at Kentucky Wesleyan. Strong played on the NCAA and SEC championship team in 1951 at the University of Kentucky. After a stint in the armed services, Strong came to Eastern and played on the 1954 Ohio Valley Championship Maroons.

The high-point of Strong's career came in 1966 when he coached Kentucky Wesleyan to the college-division NCAA championship. Strong was named the college-division "Coach of the Year."

Last week, this column expressed its support of Strong because I believed that he was the most qualified of the many fine applicants. We invited comment from our readers whether they agreed or disagreed.

This week's mail contained twelve letters. Some of the letters supported all three men mentioned in the column as a possible candidate. These letters are appreciated, but they will not be published because we feel that the time for controversy is over.

It is time to forget individual opinions and give Guy Strong and the EKV basketball team the type of support that will produce a winner and a championship—a national championship.

EKV SPRING SPORTS FACE IMPORTANT WEEK

The fine spring sports program at Eastern receives the ultimate test this week with the conference championships.

The Colonels' baseball team, with their fine double win over Tennessee Tech, clinched the Eastern Division of the conference and will meet Murray in a best-of-three series on the Eastern diamond tomorrow and Saturday.

The track, tennis and golf teams travel to Ft. Campbell for their championship play-offs. All season performances are tossed out the window in this demanding test of individual stamina.

With the dedication displayed thus far in the weather-hampened season, EKV's spring sports should make a fine representation this weekend.

SMITH'S DEATH BRINGS SORROW

The untimely death of Western Kentucky University basketball star Dwight Smith and his sister this weekend has brought much sorrow to the sport's world.

Smith was a fine athlete and had a promising career in professional basketball. It is not hard to recall the many times he displayed his prowess against the Colonels in tension-packed situations.

We send our deep condolences to Dwight Smith's family and his many friends and fans around the country.

Double Win Over Tech Clinches Division

Gill, Andrews, Marshall Pace Effort

BY KARL PARK

The Eastern Colonels used fine pitching and timely hitting to down the Tennessee Tech Golden Eagles in a double-header 4-1 and 3-1, capturing the Eastern Division of the Ohio Valley Conference.

Glenn Marshall picked up his fifth victory against one loss. He pitched seven innings allowing one run and four hits. Going into the last inning, Marshall had a two-hit shut-out, but Tech put together an infield single, a walk, and a two-out pinch hit by Dave Pratt for their only score of the game.

Eastern managed four runs in the fifth on the strength of four hits. Lee Hucker led off with a single down the left field line, Rick Houseman drew a walk and catcher Jerry Gill lined a single to right. The big inning was kept alive by Ron Pinsenschaum's single and a perfect bunt by Lou Escobar loaded the bases. Tech got out of the inning on a strikeout and an inning-ending double play.

In the second game, sophomore Ron Andrews gained the victory. His record now stands at 5-1. He went the distance allowing only four hits and one unearned run.

Tech broke the scoring - ice in the third on an Eastern error, a single and a fielder's choice.

The Colonels scored all three of their runs in the fourth inning as Jerry Gill's triple and Ron Andrews single were the big hits.

The Colonels split a doubleheader with OVC foe East Tennessee here last Saturday as Eastern won the opener 7-5 and lost the second game 17-2. The Colonels scored three runs in the second and third and one in the sixth on nine hits. Marshall was the winner.

East Tennessee had five runs on six hits, as they had one run in the first and four in the third.

The Buccaneers bombed Eastern 17-2 in the second game with three runs in the first and second innings, four in the third and six in the seventh on the strength of 17 hits. Eastern had nine hits for a pair of runs.

Eastern's overall record now stands at 17-10, with a final OVC record of 7-4. The Colonels' entertain Western Division champ Murray this weekend for a southeasterly tomorrow and a single game Saturday. Game time tomorrow is 1 p.m., and the game Saturday is slated for 3 p.m.

A Little Money Goes A Long Way

With the conference play-offs being held on the Eastern diamond this weekend, it is a shame that the school does not offer a field fit for the occasion.

The field itself is kept in fine condition by Butch Coleman and members of the squad.

But there are a few additions that are needed to increase fan interest. One is a fence around the outfield. A ball can be hit 400 feet and still be caught robbing the batter of a hit he earned in a big way.

The most important, however, is the addition of a scoreboard. If a fan arrives late or if loses track of the game he is completely unaware of the inning or the score.

Another addition to the athletic facilities that would entice spectator support would be permanent stands stationed around the track.

Speaks Scrambles For Yardage

Eastern quarterback Tim Speaks (10) scrambles for extra yardage in last week's Maroon-White contest behind a fine block by Bill Brewer (75). Closing in on Speaks is all-conference defensive back Mike Smith (44) who appeared in the game as a special guest star. The Whites prevailed over their teammates by a 14-13 score in the closely-fought contest. (Photo by D. A. Rains)

Golfers Impressive In Final Play, Face Tough Conference Test Tomorrow

BY JIM MARTIN

Golf coach Glenn Presnell was quite pleased with his team's surprising recovery from their disappointing play in the Murray Invitational; the linksters swept two triangular meets, both against top-flight competition, to close out their card with a very respectable 13 wins, 6 losses, and two ties.

"We've been shooting real good golf in match play during this last part of the season, which was, by far, the roughest part of our schedule," Presnell stated. The Colonels have blazed through their last nine matches with a perfect record, all against some of the finest teams in this area.

Presnell was especially pleased with the linksters' performance last Friday at Coldstream Country Club in Cincinnati, Ohio. Eastern defeated highly-touted Ohio University by 14-10, and then swamped Xavier for the second time this year, 19 1/2 to 4 1/2.

With tongue (more or less) in cheek Presnell said, "Nobody really played too well up there, however, that's a real tough course a championship course. Luxon was medalist for the Colonels as he totaled a fine 78.

The Colonels clubhouse was jubilant once again as Saturday morning Presnell's charges captured another triangular meet -- this time at the expense of the University of Cincinnati and arch-rival Morehead.

It marked the second time this spring that the linksters have tamed the Bearcats. The win over Morehead avenged an earlier defeat. The Eagles fell by a close margin, however, 13 to 11. Cincinnati was completely overwhelmed, 17 1/2 to 6 1/2.

Morehead did manage to salvage medalist honors as Bruce Walters captured the honor with a two-under-par 70.

Jack Good was low for Eastern with a 72, followed by Luxon's 73.

Presnell was adamant when asked about the OVC tournament in Fort Campbell tomorrow and Saturday. "Middle Tennessee, who is perennial conference champ, is the favorite, of course, but I still have to rate it a toss-up," he stated. "There aren't too many weak squads in this conference, and anyone who goes down there and shoots bad golf is liable to end up in last place."

At any rate, the fight for second place should be a battle royal, according to Presnell. "After Middle Tennessee the conference is just about even," he commented. "If Middle does what everyone expects them to do, then the struggle for runner-up should be very interesting. We're looking to come out at least in second or third place."

The Colonels have at least five golfers in Luxon, Good, Jimmy Martin, Ron Roby and Paul Schultz who could be a threat for individual honors if they put two rounds together in the fashion they are capable of doing.

With a combination of good rounds from four of the five go'fers (only the top four scores count in team totals) the Colonels stand a definite threat for top honors.

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses. Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye. Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart, tingling Sprite—and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections.

Why has this come about? Perhaps because of what happens when you go through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite. It fizzes! Roars! Buzzes! Tingles! Bubbles! All of which makes for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement. Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few moments of delicious abandon. (Tasting the tingling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin. You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

SPRITE SO TART AND TINGLING. WE JUST COULDN'T KEEP IT QUIET.

Raker Receives Hall Of Fame Award

This year Raker has again distinguished himself as a member of Omicron Alpha Kappa, which is a junior-senior mens' honorary. A more familiar term to those who do not know Raker personally but read his editorials know him as Editor of the Eastern Progress 1966-67. Since Raker has deemed himself worthy as a writer, he was elected in 1966-67 as 1st vice-president of the KY. Inter-Collegiate Press Association.

"Working on the Eastern Progress has added to my life very much, Raker continued, "it has prevented me from becoming a narrow, shallow person. Also it has been a job...one that I've gotten a lot out of. Journalistic techniques, although I may never use them quite the same again, have added to the harmony of my life."

When other friends and people that have come in contact with Raker describe him, it is usually like, "A pretty nice thing about Bill is he is witty, jovial and a person that has 'a comeback' for everything." "However this makes him the well-balanced person that he is."

Reading good novels, magazines and of course, newspapers are among Raker's past-time favorites. He is a book collector and a coin and stamp collector. At present he has approximately 300 books in his own personal library. A special favorite of Raker's that he enjoys is creative writing in short story form. Traveling is something that Raker cannot get enough of. After graduation he plans on going to Montreal to visit Expo 67.

Raker speaks of his family life with his mother, Mrs. Rebecca Raker and his two brothers with a deep sincerity. His younger brother, Jim, is a sophomore at Carroll County and his other brother, Ed, will be perhaps starting another Raker tradition by attending Eastern this fall as a freshman.

About leaving Eastern, Raker commented, "It seems that Eastern has given me so much that I would hate to think that I haven't given anything in return for what it has given me." Raker's plans for the future consist of beginning his graduate assistantship at the University of Kentucky in Mathematics which begins September 1, 1967. While he is a graduate instructor in the Department of Mathematics he will be working toward a Master's Degree in Mathematics. Raker reported that for the remainder of his future plans that "they haven't yet been solidified."

Editorial Appoint.

(Continued From Page One) as co-editor of the 67-68 Milestone. He has learned a great deal this past year by being the managing editor. Eads has spent most of his spare time working on this yearbook, even though his major in pre-pharmacy keeps him quite busy. Fortunately, each of these co-editors have proven themselves to be well-qualified for the job.

Chosen to be the upcoming assistant editor of the 67-68 Milestone was Wilma Asbury. Miss Asbury is a junior; she came to Eastern from Monticello, Ky. She is majoring in home economics. Miss Asbury has been on the Milestone staff for the past two years. This year she was a co-editor of the student life section Miss Asbury and Miss Harville attended the last convention at Atlanta, Georgia.

Managing editor for the 67-68 Milestone will be Joyce Harville. She is a junior from Hamilton, Ohio and has worked on the Milestone staff for the past three years. During her past two years, Miss Harville has been the organization section editor. Next year she will take over all the responsibilities of the managing editor, and will spend much of her time coordinating with the other members of the staff.

The new Progress editors will officially take over after the last Progress has come out this semester. There is not really too much planning that can be done until the upcoming fall term. The Milestone editors are not so lucky, they must begin right now to plan many of the ideas to be brought out in the upcoming yearbook for next year. Planning is also in the process for setting up the combined workshop which takes place just before the beginning of the fall semester.

King To Attend Debate Selections

Dr. Robert G. King, Chairman of the Department of Drama and Speech at Eastern will attend meetings of the Committee for International Discussion and Debate in Chicago on May 19 and 20. This committee of the Speech Association of America, in cooperation with the English-speaking Union, is responsible for bringing foreign debate teams to the United States and for sending teams of American students to represent the United States abroad.

At the meeting in Chicago, the committee will make the final selection of a two-man team to tour Great Britain next fall. Applicants have already been screened by committee members, and the number has been narrowed to thirteen finalists.

The applicants will participate in British-style debates and mock press conferences. One of the most difficult assignments is an impromptu after-dinner speech. "We judges choose the topic, and the students must be funny," Dr. King said.

Pres. Martin's Tour

(Continued From Page One) the sights they visited were Jacob's Well, the palace of Diocletian, the forum, the old coliseum, and the Sixtine Chapel. Among a crowd of 20,000 in the basilica of St. Peter's Cathedral, the President viewed the religious ceremonies of Liberator's Day with Pope Paul VI presiding.

The final stop on the itinerary was gay Paris. Included in the brief stay there were visits to the Eiffel Tower and Napoleon's tomb.

President Martin returned to Richmond on the 30th of April. He was refreshed and glad to be back, but was not exactly bubbling over with enthusiasm over the multitude of paperwork which awaited his attention.
