Give Them 'Libery'

Students 'Sit-In' On Board Meeting

Armed with misspelled placards and a handful of yellow armbands, a couple of hundred students who said they were concerned with women's hours and open visitation, marched peacefully across campus Tuesday afternoon and staged a sit-in, stand-in, or a something-in on the main floor of the Administration Building.

Eastern's Board of Regents were to have acted on the two issues, among other things. Proposals submitted by Student Association President Chuck Kelhoffer and Student Regent Guy Hatfield, calling for abolishment of women's hours and establishment of some sort of dormitory intervisitation rules.

The "other things" on the Regents' agenda were apparently relatively unimportant to the assemblage, because by the time the Board took a short recess at 4:00 p.m., there were less than 100 "protestors" left in the corridors.

A trivial matter of the University's $17 million-plus budget somehow managed to take precedence over the students' demands, as did a couple of allotments from a state appropriations committee and the Kentucky General Assembly.

By the end of the siege, however, the floor was almost as clean as the students had found it, thanks again to the yellow armband patrol.

A quick look around the building caused concern for the EKU women—not over whether or not they should be permitted to stay out all night, but whether or not a couple of them had been to grammar school. After staying out all night, maybe it is tough to spell words like "liberty" (libery) and "discriminate" (discrimate) both of which contain more than one syllable.

Not satisfied with the action taken by the Regents, many of the protestors ambled toward the ravine to "camp out" for the night.

About 50 persons braved the sub-freezing weather to boycott the warmth of a dormitory room.

Paul Lanter, a sophomore from Williamsburg, and spokesman for Eastern's Civil Liberties Association, said yesterday that a suit would definitely be filed by the Kentucky Civil Liberties Union against EKU and the Board of Regents on the grounds of sex discrimination.

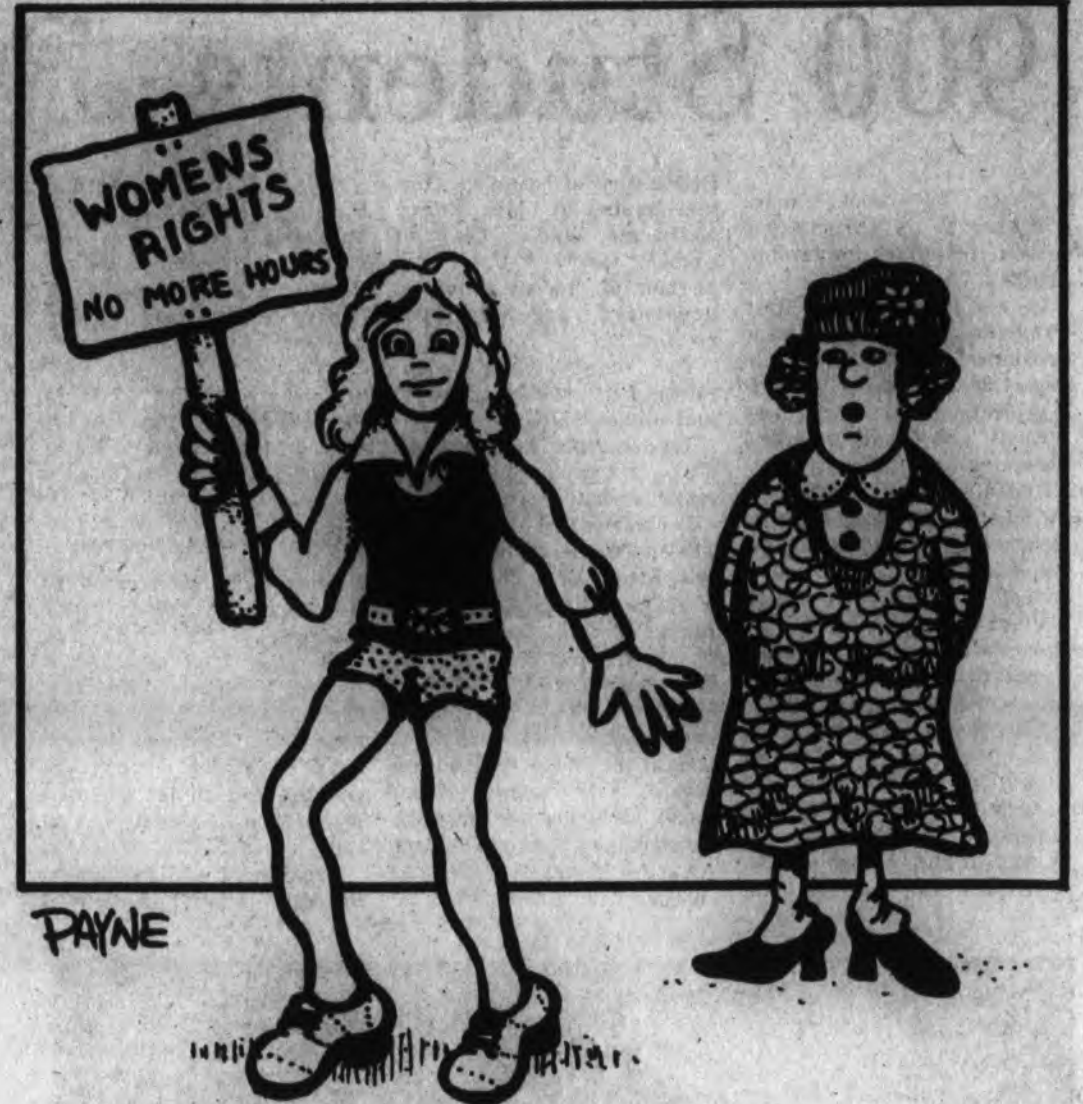

Lanter said that 13 similar cases had been brought by the CLU and taken to the Supreme Court. He added that the Union had never lost one of these cases.

Eastern President Dr. Robert R. Martin said he knew of no cases ever being won on those grounds. He also said that if a suit were filed, the University is prepared to defend itself.

Lanter also told the Progress in an interview last week that according to his organization's constitution, the CLA's purpose is "to maintain throughout the Eastern Kentucky University campus the rights of free speech, free press, assemblage, and other civil rights as outlined by the American Civil Liberties Union and to take all legitimate actions in the furtherance of such purposes."

According to the constitution, then, the demonstration was all perfectly "legal." And the only thing worse than a legal demonstration is an unsuccessful legal demonstration.

Pardon me, But Aren't You Out A Little Late Young Lady???

Write On!

Letters for publication should be typewritten, double spaced, and not more than 250 words long. All letters must be signed and no names will be withheld from print. The editor reserves the right to edit all letters providing the meaning will not be altered. Letters which may subject the Progress and/or the writer to libel will be returned for rewriting or withdrawal.

Progress Mistake

Dear Editor,
I must congratulate The Progress in reaching an all time low in journalistic excellence in the last edition. The first example of slipshod practices was in an omission in the special ad that was printed for Pizza Hut. This mistake cost the students who tried to use the coupons and the Pizza Hut management considerable inconvenience. Yet, this can easily be forgiven; mistakes do happen.
There were, however, other examples of poor technique which I feel cannot be forgiven. I am referring to several photos which appeared in the paper. One was the 7" X 9" aerial photo of the campus appearing on the front page. It was totally irrelevant, and a similar one has appeared in countless past issues. Why not show an aerial photo of the inside of a classroom? At least it would be something different for a change. Another blatant example of poor judgement was the entire page of photos on page nine. Of all things, why another aerial photograph of campus? The other photos were something different, but they could've been compressed in half the space or less.

The "triteness" award has to go to the 6" X 7 1/2" photo of President Martin's birdhouse on page ten, though. Who cares if it has just been revamped and will reside in "Dr. Martin's flower garden?" You may win a spot in some bird's heart, but birds don't read newspapers.

I feel that these photos reflect poor judgement on the editor's parts as to what is news. There are many more newsworthy events about which to report on this campus. I suggest that you dig a little deeper than the bird guano in the future.

Vote Saturday

Dear Editor:
This Saturday, at the various County Courthouses at 2:00 p.m. the Democratic Party will elect delegates to the State Convention on June 2 and 3. For all practical purposes, this is the day that Kentucky's 47 delegates to the Miami Convention will be selected. If you are a registered Democrat, PLEASE go home this weekend and participate.
We need you on Saturday, at 2:00, at the Courthouse where you're registered.
This is our last chance to change directions for four years. If you think we ought to change, please get out and help for just one hour this weekend. Your vote counts more this time than at any other time.

Sincerely,
John Lackey, Fifth District
Coordination for McGovern

Money Appreciated

Dear Editor:
Many campus organizations take it upon themselves to perform community service projects as part of campus-community involvement. The Association of Law Enforcement undertook such a project, but one that affects more than just the local community. Our organization was privileged to conduct the campus drive for the American Cancer Society. The American Cancer Society is continually searching for the causes and cures of cancer. This vital research is dependent upon the dollars provided by the millions of conscientious Americans across the country. Members of the university community demonstrated their support for this vital effort by contributing $688.06 to the cancer fund. This sum may appear small, but is when this amount is added to similar contributions from collecting agencies across the country that the full benefits will be realized.

It would be impossible to recognize the many individuals and groups who made this drive such a success. An effort such as this is not the result of the work of one or two persons, but is the final product of the concerted effort of many responsible individuals.

On behalf of the Association of Law Enforcement, as well as the American Cancer Society, we would like to express our appreciation to those persons who found it within their means to donate to this cause.

Sincerely,
Donald R. Filer, President
Association of Law Enforcement
Steven E. Morrow, Chairman
Campus Cancer Drive

Morals Need Examination

Dear Editor,
In your issue of April 20th there was a well written article on the "Operation Venus" program which was initiated in Fayette County to combat the venereal disease problem. There is little doubt in my mind that the program serves to reduce the danger of VD. However, what troubles me is that the program fails to get at the heart of the problem. What I am referring to is the level of morality which exists in our country today. The value of marriage and family which are basic to our way of life continue to be at an all time low. If the morals of our country were upgraded, and if so many of our elders would stop living under a "double standard," then the problem of VD would cease to exist.

Ed Norton

The demonstration, itself, was quite well planned, and everything went smoothly—for about half an hour. One by one, the sitters' complacency was replaced by restlessness, and the group got progressively noisier as the afternoon wore on. By three o'clock, the hall looked like an intermission at the campus flick.

There was some friendly horseplay to relieve tensions, and there were several rap sessions in which the topic was not the liberation of the oppressed female on campus.

Aluminum soft drink cans pinged periodically and the floor soon was decorated in Early R.J. Reynolds. The students with the yellow armbands monitored the area in between short pep talks aimed at keeping the group around.

Letter Merits Immediate Answer

Once in a while a letter is submitted for consideration which requires an immediate answer. For this reason we feel compelled to answer the criticism offered by David Sierveid.

The picture page, April 20th issue served a dual purpose in that it offered the reader both an attractive and newsworthy pictures. Due to this exceptionally strong picture the appeal of the page was greatly enhanced:

'Peanuts' Comes To Life In Drama Production

By Pat Dotson

Lucy, Linus, Snoopy, and the entire "Peanuts" gang came to life last week, as the ECU Drama Dept. presented its final production of the year "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the popular Charles Shultz comic Strip.

As a popular show for many years off-Broadway, this is now the stage's second-longest running show—topped only by the "Fantasticks," which has now run for several years.

The audience was lively, but small, as many parents brought their children to see this family-type production. This was perhaps a fitting farewell to director Dr. Haller T. Laughlin who is leaving Eastern, having enjoyed several previous box office successes.

"You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" is a series of short sketches, interspersed with several song and dance routines, similar to the "Laugh-In" style of production. In doing this, the show kept the pace moving, but prevented any real depth of characterization, or audience association from evolving.

The show was a typical Laughlin production; well-polished, well-acted and with a cast obviously enjoying their roles.

The plot centers around average moments in the lives of Charlie Brown, and his "All-American" friends. But it was here that many of the actors had difficulty, it seemed in convincing us that they were indeed Children. Often, more effort appeared to go into the acting like children, rather than the being of children.

Merle Middleton, as Charlie Brown, was a welcome exception. His poignant facial expressions and unmistakable "stage presence" caught up the audience in Charlie Brown's unique world.

Toni Trimble, as Lucy, was exciting and vibrant. She is gifted with a fine strong voice, but why, Miss Trimble, must you yell so continuously that you lose your effect? Lucy is a loudmouth, and she would yell at times, but she should have our empathy.

Fortunately we did not always feel this communion with the character. Because of her natural vitality and energy, Miss Trimble often dominated her peers in many scenes, and too-often carried the show.

Bobby Butler was Snoopy. Though not possessed with a strong voice, he did a very creditable job in a challenging role. He was appropriately funny, and his "bark" was quite humorous. Butler also managed his songs well through much energy and characterization.

Danny Browning, as Linus, came through with his finest performance to date. He has a fine voice, but why does it sound so much like Dean Martin in the song "My Blanket and Me?"

H.R. Giles, as Schroeder, in his first major acting role, was a creditable asset to the play. He had perhaps the best male singing voice on stage, and although his characterization was sometimes inconsistent, he performed well.

In minor roles, Cathy Hornsby as Sally, and Bob Gray as Pigpen were most convincing as children. Believable in character, and tremendously funny throughout, they—most of all—won their audience.

Lisa Baldwin, as the Little Red-Headed girl, was cute, but perhaps more could have been done to enhance the facial expressions of such a vivid character.

If indeed any bit of slight miscasting did occur, it was because Kathy Paris—physically at least—was not Frieda.

Mary Kay Portune, Carol Cole, Rick Diehl, Mike Woods, Gary Lawrence, and Vicki Wolfe provided an adequate supporting cast. The songs were pleasant, but few were really "memorable" or "outstanding."

Costumes, under the direction of Professor Joan Richman, were as usual, exceptional. Professor Robinson's set was both functional, and attractive. It consisted of a series of geometric blocks in various colors, which the cast moved about. "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," up in lights about the stage, pointedly reminds us of the same effect used in a previous production.

An enjoyable evening for the family, and a successful final production for the Drama Dept.; this was "Charlie Brown." This too, was the final curtain for many ECU seniors who have provided us with many pleasant memories in their four years.

And to you, Dr. Laughlin, a fitting farewell. We have enjoyed and appreciated your work at Eastern. This production was no exception. Thank you. Performances continue through Saturday evening.

Second Time Around

Yesterday, Dr. Robert R. Martin was the first recipient of the University Ensemble's Second Album, entitled "In The Beginning." Phillip Lowery; Ruble Caldwell, newly elected president of the Ensemble; and Phillip Brown, outgoing president, are pictured making the presentation.

Transcendental Meditation

Concept Grows On Campus

BY PAULA GOODIN
Feature Editor

"To Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, who seeks to uplift the human spirit and combat despair in our troubled world," reads the inscription on the Man of Hope Award for 1970.

The Maharishi received the award for his efforts to help man through Transcendental Meditation.

Rick Hill, Kentucky's coordinator for Student's International Meditation Society (SIMS), said that Meditation has "been a breakthrough in physiology equivalent to Einstein's theory of relativity. It is the ability of virtually anyone to induce in his body a deep state of rest. This roots away the deep-rooted stresses that everybody has."

Hill conducted an introductory lecture on Meditation last night in Combs Building. The lecture included a short film featuring the Maharishi and others discussing Meditation. It also included several slides on the scientific effects of Transcendental Meditation.

A later lecture scheduled for May 2 will go into more detail about Meditation and is required if a person plans to take the course. The course will be taught from May 6 through May 9.

Hill said that one requirement of the course is that an individual "be free of the influence of so-called recreational chemicals including marijuana and other mind altering drugs for at least 15 days prior to the first day of the course."

"While Transcendental Meditation is a very simple, natural, spontaneous process like waking, dreaming, or deep sleep, it is built upon a thorough understanding of all disciplines, and currently a university of international scope has been designed to grant doctorate, masters, and bachelor degrees in the Science of Creative Intelligence," said Hill.

The curriculum will relate each discipline to some stable field and includes numerous courses such as psychology of the integrated individual, genetics, education, the source of thought, and the source of literature.

Hill, a 1967 Centre College graduate, said that the traditional approach to education has created "fragmented knowledge and a lack of fulfillment. So the purpose of SCI is to provide a thorough understanding of the arts and humanities in terms of how they are all expressions of that basic field of Creative intelligence, and to produce a fulfilled, functioning citizen for the society."

Right now a program known as the World Plan is being perfected by which the world can quickly be taught Transcendental Meditation. 350 centers are planned to produce teachers of Meditation in six month courses that will be taught on weekends and in the evenings so students and working people can take advantage of it. The centers are to be set up per every population of 10 million people by June 15.

Hill said that they approximate that 1000 people will enroll in each center. If so they will have 350,000 qualified teachers by the end of this year when they plan to set up more centers—one per every one million population in the world. By the end of 1973 they expect to have almost four million teachers—quite an increase over 2,000 teachers presently in the world.

In Kentucky Transcendental Meditation is currently taught in cooperation with drug education programs, the army posts, department of mental health, and comprehensive care centers.

Anyone who would like more information on Meditation can write or call: Rick Hill, SIMS, 320 Linden Walk, Lexington.

News Briefs:

White Elephant Sale Set April 29

The Student Council For Exceptional Children will sponsor a White Elephant sale April 29, 1972 beginning at 9:00. The sale will be held on Main Street between Higgins Furniture Store and the Pet Shop in a vacant store. Members are going to collect, clean, price, and sell the merchandise. They would appreciate your support in providing any unneeded articles lying around your house. There will be three drop-off stations—the Kroger Store on Main Street, the A&P in the University Shopping Center, and the Student Association office in the Powell Student Center. You can deposit your items during store hours on Tuesday, April 25 through Friday, April 28. If you find it impossible to bring your items to any of these places, call 625-2566 and we will pick up anything you have.

Aurora
The Aurora, Eastern's literary publication, is now on sale. Aurora consists of Articles, Powems and Stories written by EKU students. The staff, Estill Pollock, Betty Jo McKinney, Mattie Adams and Brenda Wheeler, say that copies can be bought in Room 133, Wallace; from members of Sigma Tau Delta, and in the University Center. The price is $1.

Nurses League
Tom F. Connelly, coordinator of allied health at Eastern, has been chosen president-elect of the Kentucky League for Nursing. He will assume the office of president in 1973. The League is an organization of nurses, other health professionals, and lay people interested in health-care and nursing education.

Dr. James DeBurger, associate professor of Sociology at University of Louisville spoke to the Alpha Kappa Delta group last night. He spoke on "Social Gerontology—Some general comments and implications for the family". This meeting was attended by students, faculty and public. The Alpha Kappa Delta is the Sociological Honor Society and the local chapter known as 'Gamma of Kentucky' is organized in Eastern Kentucky University campus since last fall.

City Library
The City Library request that all EKU students who have checked books out to return them by May 12th.

Journalism
Delta Iota Alpha Phi Gamma's Eastern Kentucky University chapter has announced the election of officers for next academic year:

President, Sue Mantell, New Carlisle, Ohio; vice president, Linda Mittel, Louisville; secretary, Betsy Hill, Corbin; treasurer, Jim Ross, Richmond; halliff, Marianne Rose, Lexington, and student council representative, Kathy Covelle, New Lexington, Ohio. Alpha Phi Gamma is an honorary journalism society.

Chemistry Department Meets Student Needs

Students planning to enter professions requiring a chemistry background but not planning to be research chemists are finding that the Eastern department of chemistry can meet their needs. One program leading to an A.B. degree at Eastern is designed for students who do not plan to enter research but might enter careers in environmental improvement, law enforcement and criminology, chemical patent law, business (including management in the chemical industry), and other such professions. The basic chemistry degree at Eastern is the bachelor of scientist for students planning a career as professional chemists. A large percentage of those receiving this degree seek additional training in a research-oriented program leading to the master of science degree.

Dr. Harry M. Smiley, department chairman, said, "The EKU department is proud that its majors receiving the B.S. degree are accredited by the American Chemical Society. This usually means a higher starting salary and better job opportunities." The accreditation was received last year.

The research graduate students are engaged in a wide spectrum of activities in such specialties as inorganic, analytical, organic, medicinal and physical chemistry. Research topics include the determination of stabilities of certain complexes and the synthesis of a variety of diverse chemicals including inorganic molecules, and new chemical intermediates. These programs have such an appeal that most undergraduates choose elective credits in this research.

The EKU chemistry department has most of the modern instrumentation required by chemical investigation today, according to Dr. Smiley. He has informed smaller colleges in this area that do not have many of these instruments that Eastern will cooperate in introducing instrumentation to their students.

The department will spend a significant amount of a $52,000 federal grant to ensure that its introductory courses adequately prepare the student for advanced work. Dr. Smiley said. Innovations in first-year chemistry instruction, such as mini-computers, will be introduced into Eastern's program in trial classes, "so that this up-to-date department will stay up-to-date." Smiley said.

Martin, however pointed out that the cost of supervising all the dorms would be too great unless all women would be willing to pay the extra fee. Martin also stated reluctance to the open visitation. He stated that such a policy would interfere with the privacy of roommates. He said, "These are bedrooms and why is it that visitation is something you want to do in a bedroom?"

Paul Lanter, sophomore from Williams town student representative from Civil Liberties Union said, at a sleep-in in the ravine that a suit was being filed by the civil Liberties Union for sex discrimination. He also stated that the sleep-in was not supported by the Student Association or any of the officers. He said, "This is strictly an impromptu event." He added "I told the students that we were advised to have no organized meeting in the ravine, but when I came out of the Powell Building there were about 75 students marching around gathering others to come over here."

During the sleep-in several security officers and a few state police patrolled the ravine. Students were also told that they were committing civil disobedience.

Eastern Professor Remembers First 'WAC's'

BY JIM HOUSE
News Editor

"It was a beautiful place—red brick buildings, lots of elm trees—just beautiful!"

A freshman describing first impressions of his college campus? Maybe a trip through a small New England town? No, ma'am. This is beautiful Fort Des Moines, Iowa.

That's hardly the kind of comment you'd hear from a raw army recruit even in today's "New Army." But if the recruit is a female, perhaps it's typical. Janet Oldham, an Assistant Professor of English at Eastern, remembers the old army and what it was like to be one of the first women to wear Uncle Sam's uniform.

"In 1942 the army was short of manpower, so they started looking for womanpower," Mrs. Oldham said. "And this was during a real war—declared by Congress."

Congress Passed Act
Congress passed an act in May of that year, establishing a Women's Auxiliary Army Corps (WAAC) and asked for 400 women.

"The army became deluged with applications," according to Mrs. Oldham, who said she was tired of "knittin' for Britain." From the thousands of applications, the army chose 440 women for the initial program, training the girls in Mess Management (what else?) and Map Reading, among other things.

"We began with office jobs, but soon we were driving trucks and doing technical work," Mrs. Oldham said. "I even had to instruct some of the girls on how to grease a truck in the motor pool."

At Fort Des Moines, the first WAAC was trained exclusively by male officers in nearly the same way as a regular recruit, right down to the physical training. The training period lasted six weeks, after which most of the women were commissioned.

Mrs. Oldham became a cadre for the second group of women to hit Des Moines and later became a company commander.

"We got the same pay as male officers," Mrs. Oldham said. "And they even had to salute us."

The girls were housed in a downtown hotel and Mrs. Oldham remembers close order drill (very close, in fact) in the hotel corridors.

She was sent to Richmond the following year as a special services officer for a group of recruits housed in Eastern's Sullivan Hall. So the women in this fall's ROTC program will not be the first on campus. "My job was to see that the enlisted women got their mail and to find them entertainment in Richmond," she sighed.

Mrs. Oldham remembers a total of about three men on the whole campus, so her job wasn't made any easier. "We went to parties and dances at Avon, (Lexington's branch of the Blue Grass Army Depot) and at Richmond's ordinance."

She approached the president of the Madison Country Club about the possibility of the girls being allowed to play golf there. They were denied, but were allowed the use of the club's brick fireplace for picnics and outings.

Allowed To Play

Mrs. Oldham, using her privileges as an officer, was allowed to play, however.

The following year, the army, realizing that these girls were doing all right, changed the name to Women's Army Corps, and because the army does things that way, the women had to reenlist in order to become a Wac.

EKU Tops Voting Turnout

Last week, Eastern made state-wide headlines concerning Student Government elections. More students voted at EKU than at any other state school, including UK. More than 58 percent on-campus students voted.

The entire N.O.W. party was elected. Following are the senators-at-large for next year: Joyce Albro, junior psychology major, 1641 votes; David Cecil, freshman law enforcement major, 1343 votes; Hubert Hagan, sophomore social work major, 1396 votes; Larry Hill, sophomore social work major, 1538 votes; Paul Lanter, sophomore political science major, 1405 votes. Julie Lippy, junior psychology major, 1362 votes; Rosetta Lucas, junior law enforcement major, 1438 votes; Sally Reed, freshman elementary education major, 1393 votes and Steve Rowland, sophomore political science major, 1522 votes.

Women living under the self-regulated hours system pay an additional $15 per semester to finance the additional staffing necessary. No hours system is in use for men's residence halls, but if additional staff members were added for security proposes an additional fee, equal to that charged women, would be necessitated.

The Board asked that a study of the self-regulated hours and open visitation be made by the University administration and that a report be submitted at a future meeting of the Board.

KIPA Meets At Centre

The Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association held its annual spring meeting last weekend in Danville on the Centre College campus. Highlighting the two-day affair were speakers Lieutenant Governor Julian Carroll at Friday's luncheon and Walter "Dee" Huddleston, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator at a Saturday panel discussion.

Also included in the conference was election of officers for the 1972-73 school year. Two Eastern students, Jack Frost, a senior from Richmond, and Delma Francis, a freshman from Lancaster, were elected to serve as second vice president and representative-at-large.

The other officers of KIPA which were elected are Walter Warden, Berea College, president; Tom Chady, Murray, first vice president; Chela Richardson, Northern Kentucky University, recording secretary; and Harry Walker, Asbury, representative-at-large.

Robert Adams, advisor for Western's College Heights Herald, was re-elected executive secretary of the conference. Over 60 delegates from twelve state colleges and universities attended KIPA.

Retirees Remembered

As this school year comes to an end we want to recognize three long time members of Eastern's athletic staff who will be retiring at the end of this year, Coach Glenn Presnell, Coach Charles (Turkey) Hughes, and Miss Gertrude Hood. All of them have made invaluable contributions to Eastern's athletic program over the past years.

Coach Presnell, who is still coaching the golf team this year, came to ECU in 1947 and was head football coach of the Colonels for ten years. During his years as football coach he won one OVC championship and shared another, and upon stepping down as football coach he began seven years of service as athletic director, a post he kept until stepping down this year. An athletic building expected to be finished in the near future will be named after him.

Coach Hughes is recognized as the dean of OVC coaches, as he has been here since 1929. He is probably best known for his long service as Eastern's head baseball coach, a position he held until last year. His Colonel baseball clubs won ten OVC championships and the Colonels' home diamond, Turkey Hughes Field, is named after him.

Coach Hughes has also coached football and basketball and served as ECU athletic director, and he also helped form the Ohio Valley Conference and served as its first president.

Miss Hood, who's currently an associate professor of health, has been at ECU since 1928, and in her 44 years here she has taught in almost all fields of health and physical education for women. Hood Field, a women's intramural field, has been named after her.

The sports staff of the Progress would like to thank them for all they've done for the Eastern athletic program.

Bomb Louisville 10-0

Colonels Sweep Wesleyan, Increase Win Streak

The ECU baseball Colonels improved their season record to an excellent 24-8 last Monday afternoon as they swept a doubleheader from Kentucky Wesleyan 1-0 and 7-3 at Owensboro.

Billy Wells, Eastern's senior righthander, fired a four hit shutout in the first game, striking out one and walking only two. The victory raised Wells' record to a sparkling 7-1 and lowered his team leading ERA to 1.35.

Eastern managed only three hits in the opener, but they put two of them together in the second inning to produce the game's only run when right-fielder Larry Kaelin slammed a double and came home on center fielder Dave Theiler's single.

Ashby, Blewitt Lead Attack

Senior first baseman Buzz Ashby and senior third baseman Ken Blewitt led the ECU attack in the second game with two hits and two RBIs each as the Colonels put the game on ice early with a six run assault in the third inning. Sophomore lefty Ray Neumeister went all the way on the mound for Eastern, scattering eight hits, walking three, and striking out one to pick up his sixth victory of the year against two defeats.

Last Thursday, early three run homers by catcher Roger Roberts and shortstop John Ferrell powered the Colonels to a 10-0 destruction of the University of Louisville in a single game at Turkey Hughes Field. The early blasts gave the Colonels an insurmountable 7-0 lead after three innings and enabled Neumeister to coast to the victory. A brilliant throw from left field by Rick Wirtz in the ninth inning killed a bases loaded, no out threat by U of L and preserved Neumeister's shutout.

Win Streak Now Five

The three wins last week increased the Colonels' recent winning streak to five, and they've now won 16 out of their last 19 games. Third baseman Blewitt currently heads the Colonel batsmen with his .324 average and 13 RBIs, and other top hitters have been Ashby (.320 average, two homers, 15 RBIs), Kaelin (.315 average, a team leading six homers and 22 RBIs), Theiler (.311 average, tied with Kaelin for home run lead with six, 21 RBIs), Roberts (.255 average, three homers and a team leading 28 RBIs) and leftfielder Ray Spenilla (.297 average).

Wells tops the Colonel pitching staff in just about every department, including wins (seven), ERA (1.35), innings pitched (53-3), games (15), and strikeouts (41). He is also tied with reliever Ernie Pennington for the most saves with four.

EASTERN'S SENIOR CATCHER, ROGER ROBERTS, is rated as a top pro prospect by his coach, Jack Hissom. The Wilmington, Ohio, native is regarded as the top defensive catcher in the OVC and he also leads the Colonels in RBIs so far this season with 28. Roberts hit .296 last year and earned a spot on the All-OVC team.

Have Won 16 of Last 19

Defense And Speed Carry Baseballers

As far as Eastern baseball is concerned defense and speed seem to be the name of the game.

The ECU baseball team, under the direction of first-year coach Jack Hissom, has compiled a 24-8-3 record this season. (Included in the overall mark is a 7-0 fall record. These games were played at home and return contests have been played this spring.)

Since returning in mid-March from a southern road trip with a 1-5-2 record, Eastern has won 14 of its last 17 games with one tie. On that southern trip early last month, Eastern encountered Jacksonville University, one of the top teams in the nation. The Colonels lost the first game in 10 innings 5-4 and the second contest 11-3.

Eastern has been utilizing its speed and defense to the fullest since the first of April. For example, the ECU runners have stolen 60 bases this season in 75 attempts, an amazing theft percentage of .800.

24 Double Plays

In the field, the Colonels are also taking advantage of most every situation. The infield combination of Ken Blewitt (3B), John Ferrell (SS), Donnie Williams (2B) and Buzz Ashby (1B) has turned over 24 double plays this season. As a team, ECU has a fielding average of .967.

While sporting only a .241 team batting average, Eastern seems to get the big hit when it needs it. Blewitt leads the Colonels with a .324 average. Outfielders Larry Kaelin and Dave Theiler have supplied the needed power with six home runs each.

Roberts A Big Plus

One of the big pluses for Eastern this season has been the receiving of catcher Roger Roberts, a senior from Wilmington, Ohio. Hissom is very high on Roberts and rates him as one of the top pro prospects on the team.

"Roger is a strong, rangy, good defensive catcher with an excellent arm. And to top that, he has better than average speed. Why, for an example, Jacksonville, probably the toughest team on our schedule, is one of the top base-stealing teams in the nation. Yet, in our two games with them, Jacksonville didn't steal a base off Roger," Hissom said.

Pitching has been a pleasant surprise for Eastern this season, too. Billy Wells, a strong-armed righthander from Richmond, leads the pitching staff with a 7-1 record and four saves. His 1.35 E.R.A. is also tops on the team.

Other Top Hurlers

Other top ECU pitchers and their records and earned run averages are: Howie Roesch, 4-2, 2.61 E.R.A.; Ray Neumeister, 6-2, 2.58 E.R.A.; and Craig Schleigh, 3-1, 3.91 E.R.A.

Eastern has played a very tough, respectable schedule this season. Besides Jacksonville, the Colonels have encountered Cincinnati, Tennessee, Eastern Michigan, Louisville, plus Ohio Valley Conference schools Western Kentucky, Morehead State and East Tennessee. A four-game set with Ohio State was rained out and could not be rescheduled.

Even though there will not be an OVC champion in baseball this season, the Colonels have compiled a 2-1 record against conference competition.

Twin Bill Today

Eastern will host a doubleheader with Morehead today at 1:30 p.m.

Eastern Netters

Belt Morehead 8-1

Coach Jack Adams' Eastern tennis team easily defeated Morehead 8-1 Tuesday afternoon on the Alumni Coliseum courts.

ECU swept the singles' matches en route to its 11th win in 21 outings. Singles results were: Bruce Simms (E) def.

Gary Lawrence (M), 6-4, 6-1; Greg Stephenson (E), def. Tracy Crew (M), 7-5, 6-3; Pat Geron (E), def. Craig Orr (M), 6-2, 6-1; Paul Ballard (E) def. Bill Spell (M), 6-1, 6-3; Jim Greenup (E) def. Charlie Pierce (M), 6-3, 6-4; and John Young (E) def. Mike Purtz (M), 6-3, 6-1.

The Colonels' doubles team of Stephenson and Young was defeated by MSU's Orr and Spell, 6-4, 6-4. However, Eastern's other two doubles' squads were able to gain victories. ECU's Geron-Ballard defeated Lawrence-Crew of Morehead, 6-4, 6-4, while Simms-Al Ramirez (E) defeated Pierce-Purtz (M), 6-2, 6-3.

In other matches held last week, ECU downed Middle Tennessee 5-4 and Western Michigan, 6-3, while losing to Austin Peay, 9-0.

Eastern hosts Eastern Michigan this Sunday.

EASTERN GOLFER JACK BARBER lines up a putt on the first hole in EKU's match with Tennessee Tech last Saturday afternoon at the Arlington Golf Course. The EKU golfers won the match 383-390 to improve their season record in dual matches to 7-1.

In Come-From-Behind Victory

Track Squad Crushes Morehead, Tech

Running an inspired meet, the underdog Eastern track team raised its dual meet record to 4-0 last weekend in an Ohio Valley Conference triangular meet at Morehead.

Coach E.G. Plummer's EKU track team was able to accumulate 74 points, compared to Tennessee Tech's 55 and Morehead's 52.

"I would have to credit our tremendous team effort and attitude for our win last Saturday. They wanted this meet and there wasn't anything or anybody going to keep them from winning," Plummer said.

EKU opened the meet with a win in the 440 yd. relay, running its best time of the season (42.1) and getting close to the school record set last year at 41.8. Members of this relay squad were Bernie Hrubala, Gerry Scaringi, Tyrone Harbut, and Keith Bertrand.

John Johnson, a senior from Louisville, and Hrubala kept EKU close to the leader, Tennessee Tech, by placing second and third in the 120 yd. high hurdles and 100 yd. dash, respectively. Johnson took second in the high hurdles with a time of 15.1 and Hrubala's 10.1 in the 100 yd. dash was good enough for third place.

Three Of Top Four

Eastern took three of the top four places in the 220 and the 440 yd. dashes. Bertrand, a senior from Trinidad, won both dashes with times of 22.1 and 49.4.

Two other outstanding individual performances by EKU runners came in the three-mile run. Tom Findley, a sophomore from Columbus, Ohio, finished a close second to Morehead's Dan Price in a time of 14:27.8, a drop of some thirty seconds from last week's meet against Cumberland.

EKU's Dan Maloney also came on strong and finished third with a 14:47 time, his personal best.

After the three-mile run and with three events remaining, the score read: Tenn. Tech 53, Eastern 48, Morehead 42. The mile relay, pole vault and shot put had yet to be concluded.

Eastern proceeded to win all three events.

The EKU mile relay team of Bertrand, Harbut, Tom Cahill and Mervyn Lewis far outdistanced second place TTU with its 3:15.4 time. Tech finished at 3:26.1. EKU's Ron Seiter and Dan Watson placed 1-2 in the pole vault at 14'6". Seiter won the event because he missed at that height fewer times.

The come-from-behind win was finalized for Eastern when Art Taylor, a junior from Portsmouth, Va., heaved the shot, 47'6 3/4".

Taylor also picked up unexpected points for the Colonels when he placed third in the discus with a heave of 151 feet. Niels Fogt captured fourth in the discus for EKU with 150 feet.

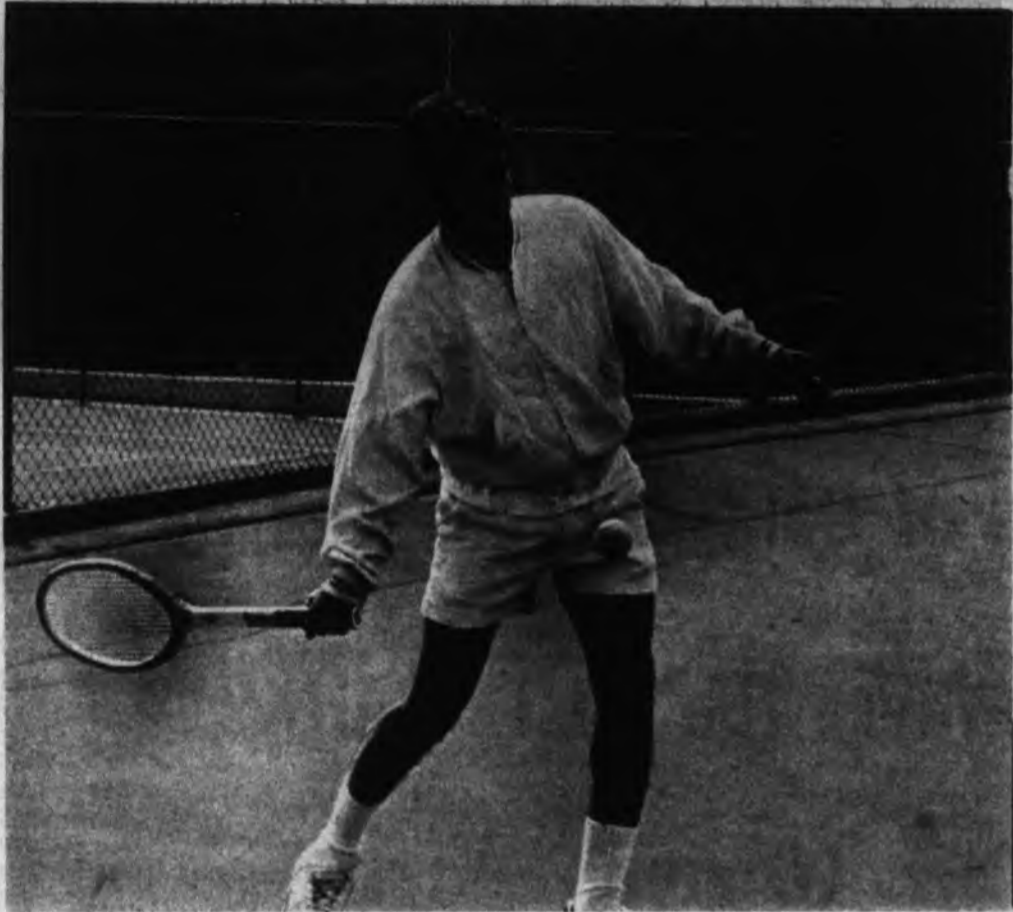

EKU picked up big points in the long jump and triple jump. John-Johnson, after finishing second in the half mile, finished third in the long jump (20'3") and third in the triple jump (39'9"). "H" Miller added valuable points by jumping 40'1" and finishing second in the triple jump.

Miller and Steve Seis came through with fine showings in the 440 yard intermediate hurdles, placing second and third, respectively, with personal best times of 55.8 and 55.9.

Plummer Lauds Desire

"I just can't say enough about the enthusiasm and desire shown by every squad member that led to our win over a very strong Tennessee Tech team," Plummer concluded.

EKU will compete in the Penn Relays this weekend in Philadelphia, Pa., where it will concentrate on the sprint medley and mile relay teams. Eastern returns home May 6 to host an OVC triangular meet with Murray State and Morehead State.

AL RAMIREZ, WHO COMPETES as the number six singles man on the EKU tennis team, combined with Bruce Simms for one of Eastern's doubles victories in their easy 8-1 win over Morehead here last Tuesday. Ramirez and Simms won their match over their Eagle opponents by scores of 6-2, 6-3. The Colonel netters will host Eastern Michigan in a match this Sunday afternoon.

Following Victory Over Tech

Golfers Host EKU Invitational Saturday

Eastern's golf team will host the first annual Eastern Kentucky Invitational Golf Tournament this weekend at the Arlington Golf Course.

Teams entered in the two-day, 36-hole tournament scheduled to start Friday at 1 p.m. include the University of Kentucky, Bellarmine, Tennessee Tech and Morehead.

Coach Glenn Presnell's golf team raised its dual meet record to 7-1 last Saturday when it defeated Tennessee Tech at the Arlington Golf Course, 382-390.

EKU senior Tim Brown of Louisville was medalist against Tennessee Tech with a 73. Roc Irely, an Eastern sophomore from Pittsburgh, Pa., followed closely with a 74.

Other Eastern scores were: Jim Moore, junior from Berea, 77; Tom Scott, junior from Richmond, Va., 78; and seniors Jack Barber and Billy Price, 80.

Holihan Named Most Valuable Swimmer

Eastern held its annual swimming banquet Thursday night with senior Ron Holihan receiving the Most Valuable Swimmer award.

Holihan, a resident of Camillus, N.Y., was a four-year letterman for head coach Donald Combs in the breaststroke. He was also cited for having qualified for the NCAA his freshman and sophomore year.

Fellow senior Ken Walters of Clearwater, Fla., was recipient of the Most Improved diver award while freshman backstroke artist Wes Arnold of Kingsport, Tenn., won the Most Improved Swimmer trophy.

Receiving the 110 per cent award was sophomore Bill Stapleton of Knoxville, Tenn. Five swimmers were cited for having attained a grade-point average of 3.1 or better for the preceding two semesters.

Receiving scholar citations from EKU President Robert R. Martin were seniors Ken Klein, Bob Sandford, Bob Webber, Charles Dorroh and Chris Webb.

The EKU Eels finished the 1971-72 season with an 8-2 record and a tenth consecutive Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming Championship.

Golf, Baseball

Banquet Scheduled

A banquet honoring Eastern's baseball and golf teams will be held this Tuesday night in the Powell Building cafeteria at 6:30 p.m.

EKU baseball coach Jack Hisson and Colonel golf coach Glenn Presnell will present the top athletes on each squad awards for outstanding play this past season.

The EKU golfers currently stand 7-1 against dual meet competition, while the Eastern baseball team is 24-8.

Dorm Fire Alarms Receive Inspection

Eastern President Robert R. Martin said yesterday that he was informed by an aide of Governor Wendell H. Ford that an EKU student had drafted a letter to the governor concerning the alleged inoperability of fire alarm systems on the Eastern campus.

The student, Paul Lanter, who is a spokesman for Eastern's Civil Liberties Union, apparently sent copies of the letter to the EKU maintenance department and to the Louisville Courier-Journal.

A state fire marshal's representative was to have inspected they systems in Todd and Dupree Halls last Saturday afternoon, and Martin issued a statement to Buildings and Grounds to the effect that all systems must be checked and put in working order by the time the inspector arrived.

At 11:00 a.m. all the systems had been put in good working order by E.W. Chapman, Director of Buildings and Grounds, and a staff of electricians. By 1:00 p.m., Chapman and Deputy Fire Marshal Faulkner found that nearly all of the systems had been tampered with since the initial inspection.

The results of the inspection revealed that in Todd Hall:

Floors 11, 10, 9, 8 vibrating mechanisms worked but plungers would not strike the bell.

7th floor was okay.
6th floor was okay after a bath towel was removed.

5th floor the bell had been removed and could not be found.

4th floor was okay.
3rd floor operated properly after stuffed toilet paper was removed.

2nd floor plunger had been removed.

1st floor was okay.
Dupree Hall:

11th floor was okay.

10th floor rang once and quit.

9th, 8th, 7th, 6th, 5th, 4th, 3rd floors were okay.

2nd floor not audible, mechanism vibrated but did not strike gong.

1st floor audible, but holding screw of bell in office had been removed.

Similar conditions existed in Commonwealth Hall two weeks prior to the inspection, and the systems were replaced at a cost of $31 each.

Martin said yesterday that a $100 reward would be offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone tampering with any fire alarm system or turning in a false alarm.

Martin also stated that a careful log would be kept when any such instances occurred.

rehearsal of one of the cuts from "In The Beginning," the Ensemble's new double-disc album, which was released this week.

For Next Year

Collegiate Pentacle Selects Members

Collegiate Pentacle, Eastern's honorary group for senior women has selected members for the following year.

Collegiate Pentacle is based on the ideals of scholarship, sincerity, sympathy, simplicity and service.

Members must have a 3.0 accumulative standing and be voted on by the present members of the organization.

Service projects for the group this year have included distributing discount cards during registration to welcome Eastern students to the community and a coke party for transfer students.

They have also sold Valentine's Day candy, tool kits.

The group has held a tea for residence personnel and prominent women on Eastern's campus and has worked extensively with the Telford Community Center, collecting some 800 volumes for the beginning of a library and conducting a clothing drive to replenish the clothing bank at the Center.

The new members were selected from all junior girls on campus having a 3.0 standing. These girls were invited to a mixer and those who did not attend were considered not interested. Fifty new members were selected from the group who did attend.

The 1972-73 Collegiate Pentacle members are:

Deborah Abbot, Yvonne Allen, Jayne Bangs, Jill Barthen, Connie Bauhan, Dorothy Bayer, Judy Bennett, Kathy Brothers, Nancy Burch, Janet Burks, Pam Caldwell,

Norma Clemmons, Sharon Crews, Sandra Croley, Darla Donley, Patricia Hicks, Patricia Floyd, Diana Hall, Priscilla Thompson, Gloria Van Bever, Gloria Votaw, Donna Waugh, Brenda Wood, and Mrs. Mabel Crisswell and Dr. Martha Mullins, Honoraries.

Releases Second Album

Ensemble Gains Recognition

BY JIM HOUSE
News Editor

It hasn't been too long since no one knew about Eastern's University Ensemble.

Now the 85-member group is releasing its second album. "In The Beginning," is now available to the public.

Their first offering, "We've Come This Far By Faith," sold more than 5,000 copies and from all indications, "In The Beginning" should do even better.

Reggie Walters, an EKU senior and director of the group, who composed and arranged 16 of the cuts on the new double album, spent two years coming up with most of the songs in the album.

The rest of the songs are a mixture of traditional gospel and spiritual numbers done with the Ensemble's unique blend of jazz and blues.

Walters said he and the entire Ensemble were pleased with the results of their work now being cut in Hollywood by Custom Fidelity Company.

"It's the first double-disc album of its kind in this part of the country as far as I know," said Walters.

The group also signed a contract with Custom Fidelity for their third album to be produced early next year.

"We've Come This Far By Faith" launched the Ensemble into professional music and into the world of concert tours on college campuses.

This year's tours will include stopovers in New York City and Washington and the new album will already have hit the market in the two cities.

According to Walters, "the Ensemble started the movement toward this kind of music on the college campus."

Since then, similar groups have sprung up at the University of Kentucky, the University of Louisville, Morehead, and Cincinnati.

Dennis Harris, a gifted pianist, has taken over most of the duties of accompanying the group since Walters has turned to the composing, arranging, and directing role.

Phillip Brown, a senior, is this year's Ensemble President, but will step aside after graduation in favor of Rubel Chadwell, a freshman.

Perhaps the best-received cut from the first album, "You Must Be Born Again, one of those unlikely combinations of gospel-spiritual-blues-jazz ("If you can believe that," says Walters) will reappear in "In The Beginning."

The big reason for a return engagement for the song is the way in which Eloise McKittrick who graduated last year, handles it. Miss McKittrick's voice is nothing short of beautiful and the Ensemble compliments her perfectly, making sure nothing upstages the lead singer.

In fact, nothing in "We've Come This Far..." is overdone an unexpected pleasure from a group with little previous professional experience.

It is little wonder that the group will sound just as professional in their second offering as their first, even with the loss of several members through graduation, because of the strict rules of auditioning and screening.

A good singing voice does not automatically entitle a newcomer to become a member of the Ensemble. There are auditions, with emphasis on voice range, and there are strict screenings, with the filling of particular vacancies kept in mind. Still, auditions are open to anyone on campus.

Senate Holds Last Regular Meeting

From a second Slade proposal, the Senate will send letters of appreciation to the vice-president of Student Affairs, the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men for their cooperation in the Dorm Services and Conditions Survey.

The Room Application and Contract Changes Report from the Student Rights and Responsibilities Committee, headed by Paul Lanter, was approved by the Senate.

Merle Middleton asked for and received $125 needed by the EKU Forensics Team to attend the National Forensics Tournament being held at Ohio Northern University May 5. Middleton stated that the team attempted to obtain the money through the Student Affairs Office but failed to do so.

All funds not used or needed by the Student Association will be used for a scholarship fund to be given to deserving students next fall.

The Senate endorses their actions in calling the strike Friday.

Among the proposals that failed were $450, in the amount of $10 each, to the members of the Symphony Orchestra for playing at graduation, that any document signed by student government be brought before the Senate before signature is obtained and that the ravine be declared a free speech and assembly area. A motion to send letters to several Ky. area newspapers stating present conditions at Eastern was tabled.

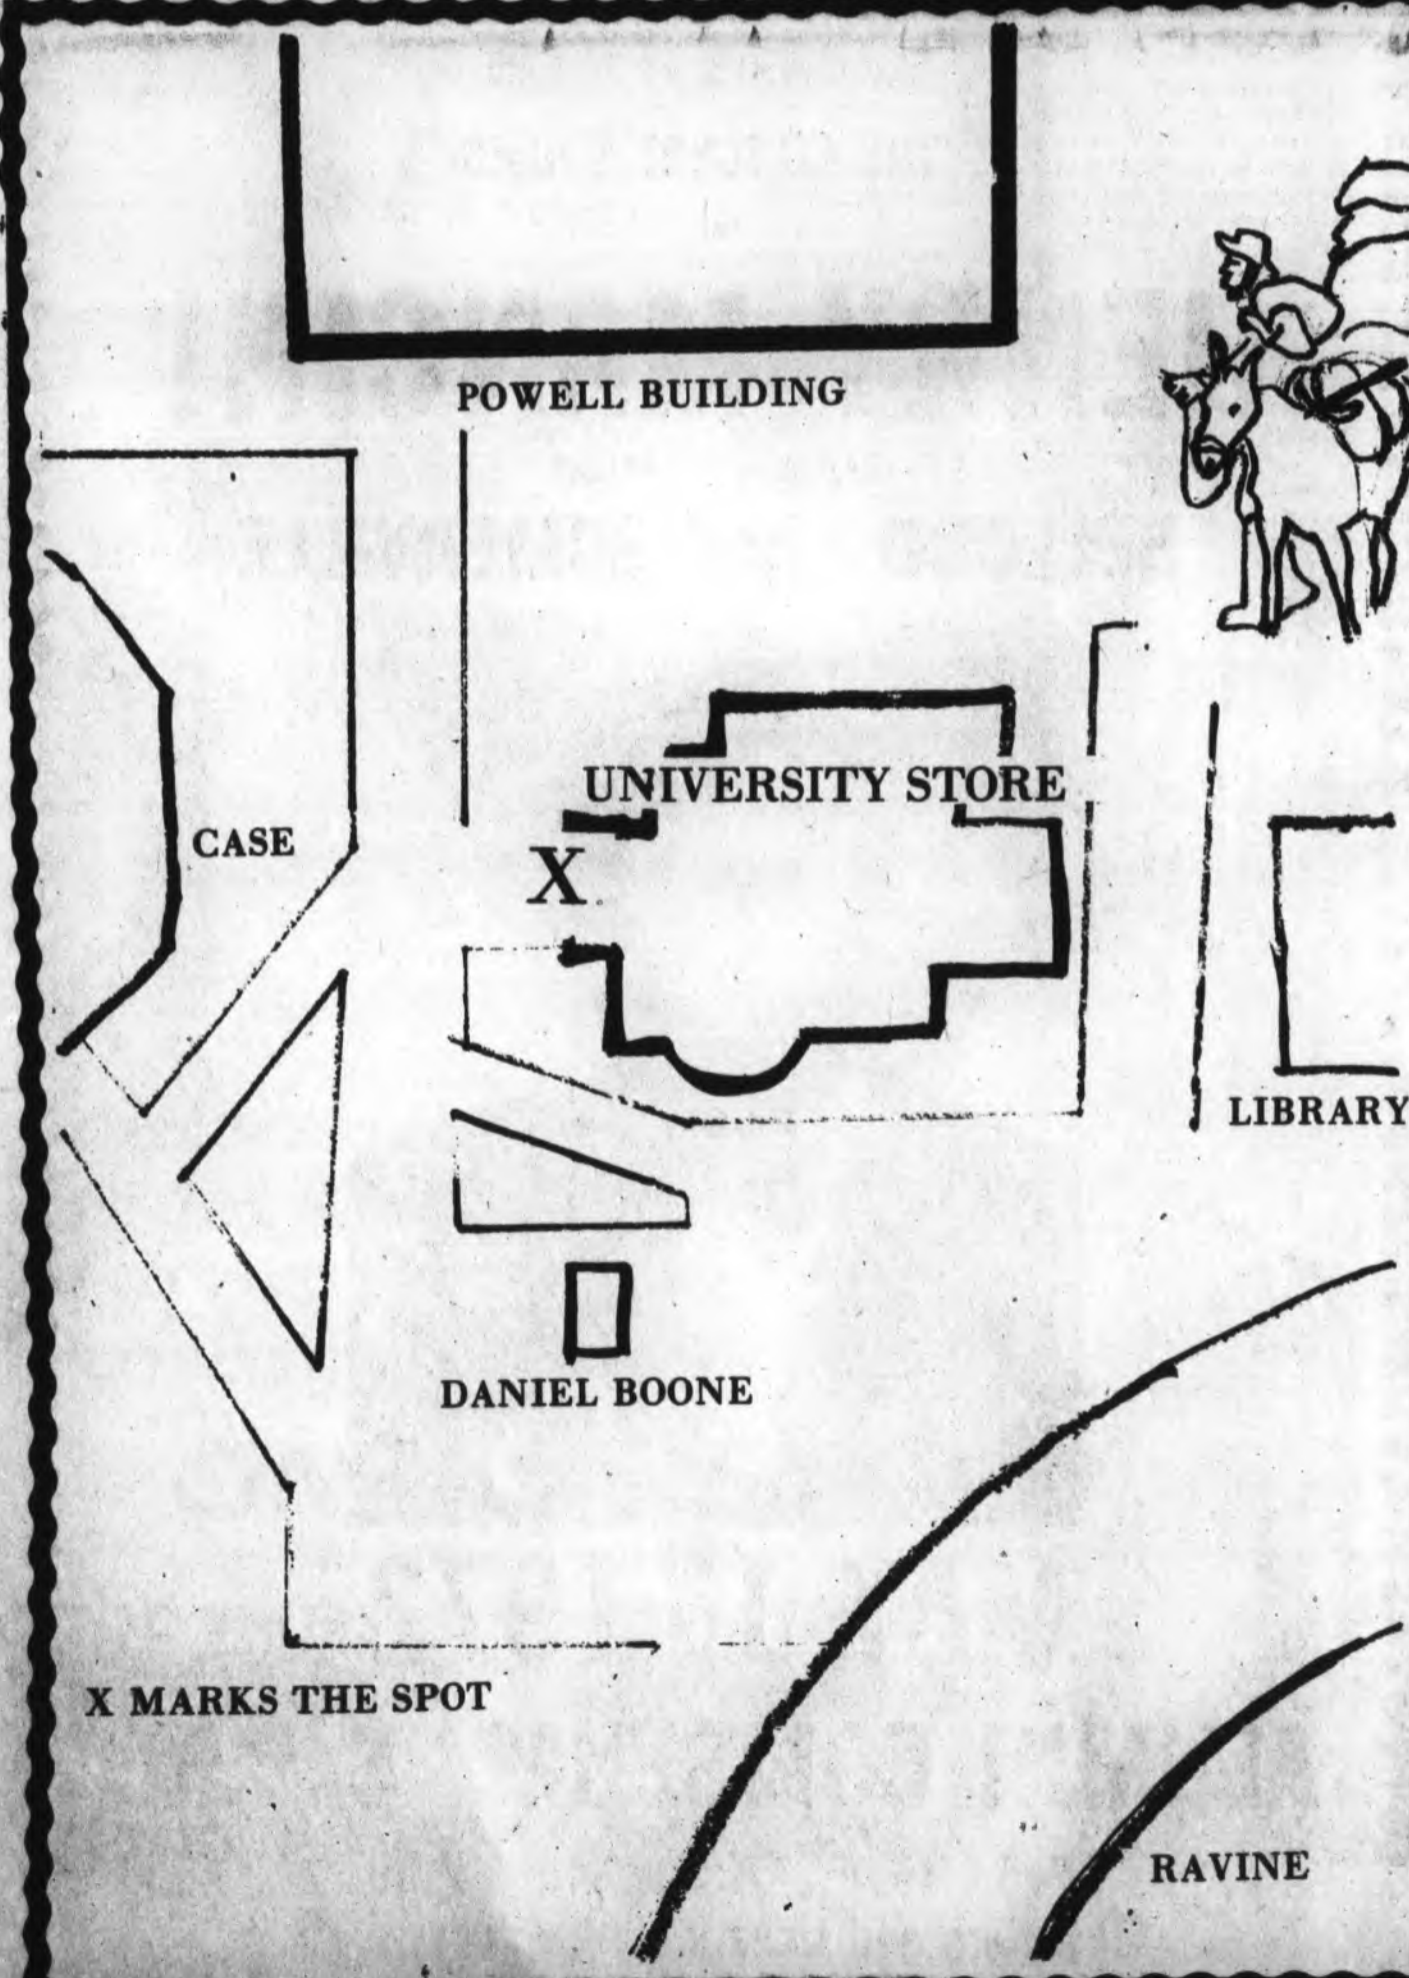

Any student having grievances over next fall's room assignment should go to Housing Wednesday, May 3. All problems will be worked out if possible.
