Eastern Kentucky University and tradition; two words which provoke a mutual definition.

In the heart of the Bluegrass lying on 350-acres is this institution of higher learning. Richmond is where this University was built, establishing 112 years of higher education in Kentucky. This, a University which is steeped in the rich traditions of years since past.

These traditions began in 1874 with the founding of Central University and would continue with the gaining of University status in 1966. Over the last century the quality of seven administrations has laid a strong foundation while setting forth with a common goal. Their goal was to educate, with a commitment to excellence. Even today, Eastern's traditions still speak well of its founding fathers.

56 1955

From the Wallace classrooms, to the Powell Grill, to the ravine, the University is home to over 12,000 students. These students represent the majority of the United States and many other nationalities. Yet, with varied backgrounds the students share a sincere sense of pride in their University.

The care of their academic pursuits traditionally holds a special pride, however, there is a traditional sense of pride which extends far beyond the classroom. Students sincerely care about their home, whether they are fighting for extended open-house hours, improved parking or co-ed housing. This is a strong traditional element which holds true today as students continue to proudly seek improvement in their home.

It is not in the ravine, in the Crabbe Library or in the University Building. Yet, exactly where can this tradition be found on campus?

Tradition is the Hanging of the Greens, summer commencement in the ravine, and Homecoming parades down Lancaster Avenue. These are a few bits of a rich heritage long since engrained in Eastern. Therefore, it is these continuing traditions which shape the lives of students. Events such as these shape the students lives in a richness much like the classics of yesterday shaped the lives of students since past.

Exactly who is responsible for holding these traditions true? The student is who will continually hold these traditions to heart. Without people annually pursuing these traditions they cannot live on. The enduring efforts and hard work of such people who take their heritage sincerely keep the pride and traditions alive in the veins of this institution.

Most importantly, it is not the traditions that live on themselves, but the students, who constantly bring these traditions to life year after year.

The Milestone, an established publication of sixty-four years, is a unique part of the heritage and traditions here at the University. Within these pages lie a year in history. This volume contains the events which shaped our lives and shaped the University as an establishment. The traditions preserved from yesteryear and the traditions hopeful of tomorrow are present. It shall be these elements which will continually make Eastern Kentucky University a classical institution of excellence.

A CHORUS LINE

The one singular sensation of a smash hit was the Kentucky premiere of A Chorus Line. The second production of the fall semester by the University's Theatre Department.

The rave reviews spoke for themselves. Gifford Theatre was seated with sold out crowds for all performances Nov. 12-15.

The 1975 Pulitzer Prize winning musical is the longest running show in Broadway history. The action centers on an audition for a proposed new Broadway show. Seventeen dancers are put "on the line". The choreographer questions each dancer about his/her personal life. Thus, each reveals his/her inner most thoughts. One tells of an alcoholic father. Yet another about sexual experiences and religious beliefs. The story goes further and examines the problem of a dancer who is injured and can no longer perform.

The real world mixes with a world of dreams which result in a show full of non-stop dancing and singing with high energy and rhythmic pace.

Many skeptics came from all over the state and were pleasantly surprised to find such immense talent and quality performances at the University.

Homer Tracy envisioned this dream; choreographed and directed. Nancy Ward acted as vocal coach.

Lu Ann Hampton Lavery Oberlander

"Well I thought I would just die ... " exclaims a riled Lu Ann Hampton to a green-haired Billy Bob Whortman.

She was a seventeen year old naive energetic bundle of vigor and cheerleader for Bradleyville High. He was a rather shy and awkward country boy and star of the basketball team. Yet best of all, he was the star of her heart.

Bradleyville was a little spot in the road in West Texas; more like a dried up mud hole. This the setting for the University's first theatrical production of the season. Opening October 1 in Gifford Theatre under the direction of new faculty Jim Moreton, LuAnn Hampton Lavery Oberlander was greeted with much success. The play is from Preston Jones' "Texas Trilogy."

The story of this dismal dried-up Texas town is told through the young idealistic eyes of a shrewdly funny Lu Ann.

Over the thirty year span of the play one sees Lu Ann in many stages of her life from high school to middle age. Accurately portrayed by Senior Sally Wilfert, she took her character graciously through the years as the audience watched her mature and age with every act.

In the first act the audience saw

Opposite Right: A sassy Charmaine Lavery annoys her Uncle Skip. Opposite Bottom: An aged Lu Ann visits with Billy Bob, her high school sweetheart.

Lu Ann ready to graduate from high school. The year is 1953. She is full of life and aching to conquer the world. Senior Dwight Craft played Billy Bob Whortman. His innocence was refreshing.

The second act took the audience out of Lu Ann's home into 1963 and Red's Bar in Bradleyville. Lu Ann is a beauty technician with a young daughter. She was separated from her first husband Dale Lavery. Junior, Jeff Coatney gave his character, Red, a pure down-home country appeal. Senior Nick DeSantis' character, Corky Oberlander would soon become Lu Ann's second husband. DeSantis' portrayal was harsh and rough; appropriately so and quite entertaining.

Act three was placed back in the Hampton home in 1973. Lu Ann is widowed and left with her invalid mother, young daughter and crazed brother to care for. Senior Christie Tate gave Charmaine, Lu Ann's obnoxious teenage daughter a hysterically funny appeal. University faculty Jeffrey Dills' portrayal of Skip Hampton, Lu Ann's older pathetic brother was sorrowful and yet humorous.

Lu Ann is content with her rather average and dismal life. However, she has found an inner peace in her simple existence. Her human will has made her a hero in all of life's adverse fate. Lu Ann has become a hero of life, simply because she has survived in that dried-up mud hole.

Our American Heritage

The traditional pre-game Homecoming parade was yet another success although rain dampened the morning. Students, faculty, alumni, and friends lined the route donning plastic coats and umbrellas to watch the unique display of spirit.

All of the floats were soggy but spirits were enthusiastic. Many floats featured moving characters. The groups worked hard to come up with ideas to express their Colonel pride; all did a great job conveying the theme, Our American Heritage.

The winners of the float competition were the Agriculture Club for originality, and Lambda Chi Alpha for beauty.

Regardless of the weather, 16,300 Colonel football fans turned out in full force to support their team on Homecoming. They were treated to a fantastic football game in return.

The fans released the traditional first score balloons filling the sky over Hanger Field with maroon as Dale Dawson posted three points with a twenty-five yard field goal. Youngstown State answered with two first quarter touchdowns. Through sprinkling rain the quarter closed with the University team trailing 14-3.

The second quarter brightened with a Rocky Hendricks interception, setting up a Bohler touchdown. The Colonels began to mount a comeback by closing the gap to 14-10.

A James Crawford touchdown put the Colonels on top in the second quarter. The scoring run set a record for Crawford. This play gave him the title of the seventh player in University history to compile a 2000 rushing yard career.

The Colonels extended their lead to 24-14 on Mike Cadore's touchdown and Dawson's conversion. The Penguins went to the locker room to regroup for the second half trailing 24-14.

A Youngstown Penguin picked off a Colonel pass midway through the third quarter with a comfortable lead of 31-17, and two consecutive quarterback sacks to propel them into the closing period.

The third quarter momentum carried the Colonels through another scoring drive, chilling the Penguins' hopes of a comeback and posting a final score of 38-17.

Then the announcement came, the second runner-up was Phi Sigma's Jennifer Price, a biology major from Crestview Hills. Alice York, a physical education major from Albany sponsored by Gamma Beta Phi, was chosen first runner-up.

Lisa Tabb, Queen, is involved in many University organizations including Chi Omega, American Marketing Association, and the University Pals. The marketing and advertising major from Cecilia was sponsored by Dupree Hall.

Tabb said "I am very honored and extremely happy to be able to represent the University."

Groovy Tuesdays with Kelli Gast

J., Kelli Gast, selects the music for another "Groovy Tuesday." Below: Groovy Tuesdays attracts a unique crowd to J. Sutter's Mill.

"When I'm a walking I strut my stuff, and I'm so strung out" . . . boasts the Femmes as people jerk to the new wave sounds.

This is not the scene on a normal night at J. Sutter's Mill. Tuesday nights is not a normal night. Tuesday night from 8 to 12, is the night for — Groovy Tuesdays and J. Sutter's is the place.

"Groovy Tuesdays", an event started by J. Sutter's and University student Kelli Gast, focuses on what is known as "progressive" rock. Gast, who is a disc jockey on WKQQ-98 and WCMQ-102, is also the jockey for Groovy Tuesdays. Playing such bands as DEVO, B52's, INXS, the Who, and the Violent Femmes, she draws a large crowd to the downtown night-club. Kelli said that the idea came to her while working as a D.J. She received several calls requesting new wave music. The name, she said, came from a song by the Smither-eens entitled "Groovy Tuesday."

Groovy Tuesdays has been an extremely popular event, for J. Sutter's Mill, attracting not only University students and people from Richmond; but people from such places as Lexington and Frankfort. The reason for such wide interest is attributed partly to the fact that there is no other place in this area that offers four straight hours of dancing and listening to new wave music. University student Nikki VanHoose says, "I love it! It's radical."

Kelli only has one year of school left, but she says she would like to see Groovy Tuesdays go on even after she is gone. Although the duration of Groovy Tuesdays well into the future is uncertain as of now, one thing is for certain; Groovy Tuesdays provides a radical escape from the pressures of life in an upbeat, new-wave environment.

The Fabulous Thunderbirds, a four man band from Texas, entertained a crowd of 900 in the Hiriarm Brock Auditorium Saturday, September 13, 1986. The band consists of bassist Preston Hubbard, guitarist Jimmy Vaughn, vocalist Kim Wilson, who also plays harmonica for the group. The Thunderbirds opened Bob Seger's September 16 concert at Rupp Arena. The concert was sponsored by the University's Center Board.

MONSTER BASH

"It is amazing the lengths people go to come up with original costumes," remarked Mary Helen Ellis, president of R.H.A. October 29th was the evening of another successful Residence Hall Association sponsored Monster Bash.

The event was held this year on the Wednesday prior to Halloween, kicking off a three day fright night celebration around the University community. The R.H.A. felt this added to the success of the dance so the students could wear their costumes to the bash, downtown on Thursday, and to other festivities on Friday night.

According to Ellis the Monster Bash "is both a service and recreational project, with over $100 going to The United Way." The money was raised by a 50¢ admission charge to those not in costume.

The Residence Hall Association combined with Center Board to sponsor the music and lights. Pizza and food prizes were awarded. The costume originality prize went to a wooden replica of a Trojan Horse.

The Monster Bash is an eight year R.H.A. tradition at the University.

The Division of Radio And Television Producing Experience

University students often utilize campus television as part of classes, extra-credit options, or for educational entertainment without realizing what a major service they are receiving.

The University's Division of Radio and Television is a service department of the University.

The first part of the division handles radio stations WEKU, serving the Richmond/Lexington area and WEKU, serving the Hazard area. According to Dr. Frederick Kolloff, director of the division, the stations have limited air time but are "moving toward twenty-four hour programming."

WEKU features a professional news director and staff reporters but Kolloff stresses that the program "could not run without students."

The Television Division is not a broadcasting station but rather a production center. They provide programming for cable channel six.

The television department mainly produces informational shows. "Encounters", a show dealing with Madison county issues, and "Sportlite", a talk show featuring Colonel coaches, is produced at the University's facilities. All University home football and a few basketball games are filmed by University personnel and played on tape delay by channel 56 WDKY in Lexington.

The students involved with campus radio and television find the hands-on experience of production work very gratifying, and helpful in their futures," said television producer Dr. Larry Bobbert.

The department has produced some of the foremost television news personalities in the state. "Becky Dan, from a large Cincinnati station, began shooting slides on a voluntary basis with us," Bobbert noted. Mindy Shannon of Channel 18 WLEX in Lexington also worked with campus television.

The Division of Radio and Television provides the University as well as their students with an excellent operation. "When our students leave here — they leave a professional," Bobbert concluded.

The Trendsetters

If 'everything old is new again' that could explain the 50's fashion mode that University students are caught in.

There will always be fashion constants like preppies in the fashion staple khaki, and spiked-haired leather clad punk rockers. Trendsetters have a fashion concept all their own and are just as constant.

The trendies reflect the 50's look with classically designed Coca-Cola clothes for both guys and girls.

Sun-bleached jeans matched up with heavy jewelry and rhinestones made fashion headlines for University girls. They also favored glitzy gold and silver lamé shoes and bags.

The guys took a more understated approach to fashion with heavy ski sweaters layered over turtle-necks. This season they even had to share their high tops with the girls as Reeboks gained popularity.

Whether you like prep, punk, or pop there is something here for everyone.

Housing in Martin Hall

The University, being a very traditional and conservative school, is one of the last Universities to offer co-ed living. However this year co-ed living came to Martin Hall under the direction of Hall Directors Nancy Ward and Brad Burch. Martin was made co-ed several years ago due to an overflow of women, but this is the first year any residence hall has been officially co-ed. Co-ed living has been approached hesitantly, but the students opinions are now being heard. Ward says "any future changes will be what the students want." A co-ed living committee is surveying Martin residents in order to give the students a chance to voice their opinions.

Co-ed living has presented no problems thus far. The students seem to adapt well and are pleased with the change. Resident Mike King, a sophomore, says, "We have more social freedom and more opportunities to meet girls." He also adds that since you have to be an upperclassman with a 2.0 G.P.A. to live in Martin, the halls are quieter and it is easier to study. Junior SA, Libby Sheilds, loves the lobby and she adds, "You see a lot more girl-guy friendships in Martin." Even Nancy Ward agrees, "I find no problems with co-ed living. The students are easy to work with and maintain self-discipline."

Although Martin's residents are happy with co-ed living, they would like to see a few changes. Senior RA, Dave Passmore feels that open house hours should be changed to a twenty-four hour basis. Other residents agree, Todd Abraham, a sophomore, adds, "I would like to see Martin become co-ed on a floor-by-floor basis rather than wing-by-wing." At present, all hall meetings are co-ed and the male RAs work with the female RAs in planning hall activities. Ward says that this is working well.

"Hopefully Martin Hall will adapt and progress easily in the future, for is residents, in a co-ed living arrangement," said Ward.

Celebrating 200 Years

Madison County. Nearly everyone has heard of it, but how many people actually know the history behind its existence? 1986 marked the County's 200th year, so the residents of Madison County put on a bicentennial celebration that will likely be forever embedded in the minds of all who witnessed this event. The festivities began in early 1986 and concluded in January of 1987. Among the events held were parades, a reenactment of the battle of Richmond, a celebration of Faith choral concert and a burial of a time capsule. University students played a tremendous role in the events by both participation and attendance.

The history surrounding the celebration is complex and in depth but a basic description of key past events in both the University and Madison County can be examined.

The county itself began as a result of Lincoln County, Virginia in 1785, with its government established a year later. Richmond, however, wasn't founded until 1798. With the city of Richmond and Madison County growing as a whole, it was only a matter of time before the University was established. In 1873 Central University was chartered. It would vanish in 1901 with a consolidation of Centre College. In 1906, Kentucky Governor J.C.W. Beckham signed into law H.B. 112, the Normal School Bill. This bill marked the beginning of a new University.

On May 9, 1906, the board of Regents selected Ruric Nevel Roark as the University's first president. The Model Training School first opened its doors in Sept. of 1906, just prior to the first student enrollment. That first class had more female than male students, a tradition that has remained virtually unchanged. The school underwent many changes in the early 1920's, with the construction of four new buildings and a 150 acre Stateland farm at a total overall cost of $250,000. Although many changes occurred in the University, the most dramatic change in the schools history occurred in 1922. At that time the University began its first four-year program. This change provided new jobs for teachers due to the fact that a more in depth curriculum and a larger faculty were called for. Even though this was an asset to the University, it did not change many of the problems still plaguing the institution. Among these were the inadequacy of dormitory space. This problem was handled with the only feasible answer, Coates requested the people of Richmond to open their homes to students. They quickly complied. As Richmond pulled the University up from a fall, Eastern would return the favor in 1926, when it was estimated that the University generated more than $500,000 yearly to the local economy. The years of fiscal conservatism ended when Dr. Robert Martin became president, in 1960. With a firm Eastern educational background, he led his alma mater into a period of unparalleled growth. Martin focused his attention on the main problem at the University; a lack of dormitory space. This time a permanent answer was discovered, with the building of 12 new dorms plus several other buildings. Although the construction of the buildings was a necessity, Martin was often quoted as saying "Bricks and mortar don't make an institution great." Once the building problem diminished, Martin's priorities turned to academic development. Statistically, the Martin years were an overwhelming success.

As in the past, the University continued to play a prominent role in the economic and cultural life of Madison County. The University remained the County's largest single employer, with an estimated $20 million a year going into the local economy. Dr. Funderburk, current president, pledged in an inaugural address to maintain the Universities historic commitment to excellence. With leadership, careful planning and judicious use of financial resources this will ensure that the educational enterprise that originated some 80 years past, will continue to grow and satisfy the needs of all Kentuckians.

In reference to the growth of the University and Madison County, Charles Hay, Archival Director on campus, was quoted as saying, "The growth of Eastern has interacted with that of Madison County in a multitude of areas including: economics, cultural, social, and political. They interact eminently to form a perfect community." Madison County in parallel with the University has continued to fulfill the requirements of teacher/student education and a commitment to excellence.

Rivaling History

The University's Department of Speech and Theatre produced The Rivals, by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. The third in their season came in late February.

Under the direction of Jim Moreton, the English 18th century romantic comedy was transported into the future for the setting. Moreton chose the mid 18th century in America (Charleston, SC) to set the action. "It translated very well into the Civil War period," Moreton said. The change was an effort by Moreton to keep the audience member more interested. The Southern grandeur was an element which many patrons could relate to.

The impressive costuming lent itself well to the Scarlett O'Hara era. The set also held a believable Southern flavor and was quite versatile for the numerous scene changes.

According to costumer, Jeffrey Dill, the work involved in a period show can become so much more intricate than working on a modern piece. "Every detail must be analyzed to fit the era in which the show is set," said Dill.

The Rivals is a situation of romantic entanglements involving twelve cast members. "This is very much a comedy of works rather than a comedy of scenes," said Moreton.

The show was met with a great response from the University. The elements all had been captured together on stage to give the Southern style of yesteryear the grandeur it deserved.

The Keen Johnson Ballroom was the sight of a March 3 Center Board lecture given by James Watt. Watt served in various government positions over the past sixteen years and was the Secretary of the Interior in the Reagan Administration.

Watt was received with mixed reaction from the University crowd. He took a moment to recognize the reaction by admitting "if I believed what I read, I'd hate me too."

Watt opened his speech by telling the audience he wanted to challenge their thinking and encourage them to take a stand and make a change. He stated that our country needs dramatic change. He said he wanted the young people to "confront, convince, and convert the establishments of America."

America's division into three groups; those committed to individualism, those who are committed to powerful institutions, and those who choose from both is to blame for weak government according to Watt. He said "most politicians play the middle of the road, choosing from both sides, allowing our country to drift."

Mr. Watt blamed special interest pressure groups for many modern government problems. Paid professional staffers of these groups have departed from the interest of their founders.

Watt also voiced his opinion on our social policies. Watt said that "the welfare program in the past twenty-five years has caused more harm to black families than one hundred years of slavery. He feels that our government aid guidelines force men out of the home so children qualify for more creating "generations of poverty and welfare."

Watt appealed to his young adult audience by discussing future employment and social security programs. According to Watt "Social Security will not benefit one of today's college students." To add to this dim outlook "we are losing jobs to foreign countries by the thousands."

He pleaded with students to take the incentive to change the country's course, "it takes courage to face facts, bring about change and better America."

Schlafly vs Weddington

UNIVERSITY • CENTERBOARD

A debate is ideally a confrontation between opposites. The cool crisp autumn evening created the perfect counterpart to the temper warmed atmosphere of Brock Auditorium.

The evening was October 8, 1984. The University Centerboard sponsored a debate between Sarah Weddington and Phyllis Schlafly. Weddington was the victorious side in the Supreme Court case concerning abortion. Her opponent was recognized as one of the most vocal opponents of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The room only crowd began to fill until Dr. Grise gave an introduction and welcomed everyone to the University.

Weddington opened with praise for the Equal Rights Amendment. Schlafly disagreed, stating that the Equal Rights Amendment was unconstitutional. Weddington enthusiastically responded to the beneficiaries of this great Constitution." Schlafly also took her stand on the need for distinction between men and women. Mrs. Weddington discussed issues concerning women in the near future, including comparable worth, abortion and ERA. "Change is always certain," she guaranteed confidently.

During the next session Schlafly and Weddington disagreed on the connection of women's issues and the rise of pornography, as well as equal pay for equal work being a free enterprise issue, not a women's issue. Schlafly concluded by stating that "every change is not progress. Women have the right to choose careers, to choose friends, and to succeed or to fail." She expressed that American women enjoy so many more opportunities than women from around the world that we should be content.

Mrs. Weddington discussed the recent changes in pregnancy laws in the work force; noting that they still need improvement. She addressed Schlafly's statement to "keep our daughters at home" with her position on women in the military. Weddington said that women involved in medical fields should be included in the military because of their talent. She closed with a reminder that our country was founded and built on change.

Dr. Grise opened the floor to questions from an inquisitive audience. The abortion issue was a popular topic as well as women's rights in communist countries, a possible ERA / divorce rate connection and Geraldine Ferraro's effect on the Mondale presidential campaign of 1984.

After the lights came up and the speakers had shaken hands, the silence broke. The audience filed out questioning and stating their opinions. It was truly an evening of contrast.

Below: Smiles and futures are bright for graduates.

GRADUATION

To many University students, graduation means saying goodbye to old friends, dorms, books and the Big "E", and hello to the real world. The 1986 spring and summer commencements truly marked a milestone in the lives of the University graduates. The University's long standing traditional values were evident at the summer ceremony, held in the Van Peursem Amphitheatre at the center of campus. Hanger Field was the sight for the 79th spring com-mentement.

Nearly 1300 degrees were awarded to the graduates on May 17. The 476 degrees awarded on August 7, made a total of over 58,000 degrees awarded in the University's history.

University president, Dr. Hanly Funderburk presided over the spring and summer graduation ceremonies. Dr. Funderburk challenged University graduates to be contributing, productive leaders in our society. He added that college graduates carry the extra burden of proving their leadership in today's world. Dr. Funderburk explained that, "to be one in a million has always been a high compliment." Noting the recent population increase Dr. Funderburk continued, "how much better it is to have an opportunity to be one in five billion!"

PARKING

Space . . . we all need a space . . . a parking space that is. Too familiar to students is the ongoing problem of desperately trying to find a parking space. A parking spot seems to be one of the most sought after possessions on campus.

According to Public Safety, there are 3,149 commuter autos and 3,929 residence hall autos registered with their office. Some 7,087 students compete daily with faculty and staff for only 7,000 available parking spaces. Most lots are sectioned off as to only allow certain permits to use the lot.

Students offered many suggestions to remedy the parking plague. When asked about parking on campus Rod Amburgy replied, "I'd like to." The sophomore suggested banning freshmen from driving to cut down on some of the cars. "I bet he would not have said that last year," Kim Hayes, a junior, suggested building a parking garage. "I think a multilevel parking facility is a good idea." Martha Bach said she finds herself "walking more when I have a good parking place."

The University's Student Senate has been working on this problem, included in their efforts is a several month long survey of parking conditions. The proposed plans include the relocating of many existing parking spaces, but nothing has been finalized.

I guess this means students in search of their space will have to keep driving until they find one.

Dollars for sense . . . The major expense

Everyone knows this situation only too well. The time comes at the beginning of every semester to buy textbooks and supplies. An average estimate of the dollars students spend for books is $150-250 per student. With some 12,700 on campus this year, the bookstores take in approximately 2.5 million. That is a lot of dollars for a lot of sense.

Traffic Totals

During the last school year the Department of Public Safety issued 27,440 parking tickets, totaling over $133,000. Of this amount only $78,000 was collected. Statistics show that 150-160 citations are written per hour. Problems arise when citations are not paid. These students cannot register their car if fines are unpaid.

My Old Kentucky Home

Many students have come to think of Kentucky as their home, but actually they have been drawn to the University from a home far away. Out-of-state students comprise an important minority on the University's campus. There are 689 Buckeyes, while Florida contributes 61, and Pennsylvania adds 54, plus 81 undergrads call Indiana home. Bluegrass horse-racing and ALE81 take awhile to get used to, however, the immigrants hold them as dear as any Kentuckian by the time they leave their new Kentucky home.

Degree of Alumni

The University has awarded a total of 51,269 degrees in its history, with 75% of those coming since 1966. Out of the 40,414 alumni with known addresses 27,843 still live in Kentucky and 70% of these within 30 miles of Interstate 75. The University's Alumni Association has 6,500 active members.

Alpha, Beta, Gamma, Delta
 Do these words sound familiar? Different combinations of these letters of the Greek Alphabet make up different social sororities and fraternities and various honoraries on campus. Activities with friends, formals and service projects are a few of the many activities Greeks take part in. With 12 sororities and 15 fraternities on campus, over 13% of the student population is Greek.

Briefly Speaking

The Eastern Progress

Progress by the 1,000's.

Every Thursday, 10,000 copies of The Eastern Progress, the University newspaper are distributed to various places on campus. Major campus news and articles are reported weekly by students for students.

Hot off the press

In December of 1986 PLAYBOY magazine published a list of the nations top 40 party schools. The list was based on a random phone poll. The University ended up ranking in the top 30. This was not the first time EKV had made the list, however, no other state school had been ranked this year.

It is not very often that an eight time world champion that is still active in his sport visits a college campus to help a team raise money for their scholarship fund. However, Greg Louganis did just that on the evening of November 8, 1986. Louganis, along with members of the University's diving team, put on a one hour exhibition in the Donald Combs Natorium.

The University's Board of Regents voted to discontinue funding for swimming scholarships after the 1986-87 academic year. This action was met with an outpouring of support in the defense of the team by University persons as well as members of the community. This move forced the establishment of EKV Swimming Scholarship Fund, to replace the $43,888 cut in funding.

Swimming Coach Dan Lichty along with the Eel's Alumni Association were responsible for bringing the most heralded diver in U.S. history to the University to kick-off the fund raising drive.

Louganis has been a member of the United States National Diving Team since 1976; the same year he won his first Olympic medal; a silver in platform diving.

A reception for Louganis was held before the exhibition. Members of the University's art faculty all donated a piece of their work to be auctioned off at the reception. All the profits made by the sale went to the scholarship fund along with the revenue from the $10 exhibition tickets.

Louganis stressed the importance of collegiate diving stating that it "is very important to maintain our collegiate level programs because mediocre divers can become excellent divers in college." Diving "is not a sport everyone can do, but everyone can appreciate."

Coach Dan Lichty called the event "a smashing success that provided great unity for the program." The exhibition along with the art auction and reception brought in approximately $15,000 for the program. Lichty said he felt "the most important aspect of the event was the national and community recognition and publicity" generated by such a celebrity.

FOOTBALL

The 1986 football season and Head Coach Roy Kidd saw the return of two 1,000 yard rushers — that is, until Elroy Harris was found academically ineligible to play. Without one of their star players, all the Colonels could do was wait and see what the new season would bring.

The Colonels opened the season with games against two Southern Conference teams. The first game was at home against UT-Chattanooga, which Eastern won handily, 23-3. The following weekend Roy Kidd packed up the team and headed to Huntington, W.Va. to play the Marshall Thundering Herd. Although Marshall was not reputed as being a good team, the best EKV could do was pull a tie.

The Colonels came home to face Middle Tennessee, who were the undefeated, OVC champs last year. The victory belonged to Eastern. The next two games were against Eastern's biggest rivals. On October 10, the Colonels traveled to Bowling Green where they were defeated by the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers. The following weekend EKV did not fair very well either. They went into Murray, Kentucky, where they were defeated by Murray State.

The record was now 2 wins, 2 losses, and 1 tie. People were beginning to wonder if Eastern had much to offer this year. For the next six games, Eastern answered the question — yes, they did indeed have something to offer.

On October 18, quarterback Mike Whitaker got things together, and Eastern went on to defeat Central Florida. The next weekend was Homecoming, and the Colonels pulled off a 38-17 victory over Youngstown State. The next week the Colonels won a road game over Austin Peay. EKV then came home to take on Tennessee Tech, where they won, 42-14.

The first big game of the season came when EKV traveled up to Akron, Ohio to take on Gerry Faust, former Notre Dame head coach, and his Akron team. Freshman Randy Bohler was put into the lineup for the first time, and he played a key part in the Colonels' win over Akron.

On November 22, Eastern came home where they had to defeat

Morehead State to share the OVC title with Murray State. The Colonels saw what had to be done, and went straight to work, defeating the Eagles, 23-6.

Then came playoffs. Murray State got an automatic bid because they had beaten Eastern earlier in the season. The Colonels were given an at large bid, and they were forced to play their games on the road. First they traveled to take on Furman on November 29. Eastern won, 23-19. The second playoff game put Eastern Illinois, who had beaten Murray State in their playoff game, against EKV. It was a close game, and both teams played hard. When the smoke cleared, however, the Colonels found that they had won, and they were heading for the semi-finals. The third playoff game saw Eastern take on Arkansas State. The season ended for the Colonels on December 13, when they went down to Arkansas State, 10-24.

Coach Roy Kidd said of his 1986 Colonels, "I believe we met or exceeded the expectations we had for this team, especially after losing one of our 1,000 yard rushers, Elroy Harris before the season began due to academic difficulties. We had a great effort out of each team member, but especially our fifteen seniors. I was really disappointed for them that they did not get to play in the National Championship game."

We were all disappointed, but our Colonels had an exceptional season and should be extremely proud of themselves. We are definitely proud of them.

"I really felt this year's teams in the OVC were better from top to bottom than any of the twenty years I have been in Richmond and around the Eastern program," said University Colonels Coach Max Good. Good is in his sixth season as mentor of the Colonels. Before the Colonels began a tough conference schedule they enjoyed a historic upset.

Top ten ranked archrival Western Kentucky came to Alumni Coliseum to be handed a 68-66 upset. "Western was ahead of the number one team in the nation, UNLV, by 21 points before losing the game," Good reminded Colonel fans of how tough Western was. Good said "It was a huge win and an outstanding effort but our conference games were every bit as tough and more important in the long run."

Not only was the OVC well rounded but the Colonels were evenly talented with four returning starters and seven returning lettermen.

The Colonels were paced by the guard duo of Antonio Parris and Jeff McGill. As of mid-February McGill was ranked number twelve in the nation in three-point field goal shooting percentage. Parris contributed to the team effort while compiling some impressive personal records. Parris moved into third place on the University's all-time scoring list. Parris is just 58 short of the record set in the mid-seventies. As of this writing he had scored an impressive 1,535 career points.

The Colonels rewrote some of the programs records during a win over Wilmington. They scored 123 points to surpass the old mark of 122. The Colonels also picked up a record breaking sixteen dunks. Junior center Tyrone Howard slammed 10 of the sixteen.

The Colonels faced Morehead State this season for the 117th time. Eastern held a 69-47 advantage over the rivals in the race. Both teams were in the top four of the OVC race.

The Colonels managed to stay in the thick of the tight OVC race through the mid-season point.

The Lady Colonels experienced a season of many ups and downs. The ladies lacked consistency — but when things went well they went very well.

The Lady Colonels set an NCAA free throw attempt record against Pittsburgh. Conversions of some of the record 58 free throws helped the girls post a 100 plus score for only the second time in University history.

Junior, Carla Coffey was a standout for the Lady Colonels. According to Coach George Cox "Carla played very determined and developed into a real leader on the floor." Carla's consistency was complemented by scoring performances by fellow Junior Tracy Korbutt and the lone Senior point guard Lois Buntyn. "She gave our team good direction on the floor as well as good scoring from the three-point range." said Cox.

FIELD HOCKEY

This season was a very good one for the University field hockey team. Truly it was one of the strongest teams in past history. The team, consisting basically of freshmen and sophomores, was an extremely young team. They started the season by beating a long time rival, William and Mary, away, and Miami of Ohio and Southern Illinois for the first time. The team ended the season with a 12-5-2 record.

Coach Lynne Harvel said the team played with a very positive attitude. Harvel said that throughout the season everyone played with determination and better than expected.

All of the team made a winning season possible, but some players contributed heavily. The team was led by the senior tri-captains Robin Blair, Maria Vertone, and Carol VanWinkle. Robin had great stability that added to the team's season. Maria Vertone, Carol VanWinkle, and sophomore Pam Haley were selected for the Midwest Independent All Tournament team. Another strong player was Sophomore Jill Pierce, who according to Coach Harvell, was one of the strongest players she had ever coached.

The team experienced several inspirations throughout the season. One was beating William and Mary, but the most important one was beating Louisville, eight to zero, at Louisville.

Coach Carvell expressed that she was very pleased with the team this year stating that the team played "very controlled games." Harvell also said that the season was one of consistence. Although she has resigned, Harvell said that she felt very good that her last season was a winning one. She also felt that next year's team would be stronger, and the University could look forward to yet another great season.

The University volleyball team closed the 1986 season at the number eight position in the South region.

Though the team did not get a bid to the NCAA playoffs, the Colonels finished the season as one of the top 32 teams in the nation with an overall record of 27-13.

Coach Geri Polvino disappointedly noted the tough non-conference competition the Colonels endured. She said, "We purposely lined up a strong schedule knowing it would be a make or break situation for the team."

Senior standout Angela Boykins was named to the University Thanksgiving Classic All Tournament Team along with being an All-American candidate. After coming off a sidelining knee injury early in the season, she had a terrific year.

Boykins along with Senior team mate Cathy Brett and Cindy Thomsen were named to the All-OVC squad as the Colonels rolled to their third consecutive OVC title. Boykins, Brett and Junior Deb Winkler were named to the OVC All-Tournament Team by turning in strong performances on route to extending the University's undefeated OVC match streak to forty-seven.

Lack of depth was a major concern for Coach Rick Erdmann and his Men's Cross Country team for this season.

The team was stocked with good runners but many were not experienced with cross country. Four of last years top runners returned to give the team some much needed depth. Orssie Bumpus, Steve Duffy, Darrin Kinder and Jim Vandenberg were all very successful last season and had high expectations for this year.

The team ended a tough season with a third place finish in the OVC. Orssie Bumpus and Tim Moore, who finished fourth and eighth respectively, competed in the NCAA District III Championships.

The University's Women's Cross Country team had to overcome a strenuous schedule early in the season to capture its fifth consecutive OVC Title.

Allison Kotouch, OVC 1985 Individual Champion and Track All-American, Pam Raglin, joined 1984 OVC Individual Champion, Chris Snow, to build a solid team.

Add to the list, two of the top six cross country runners in Virginia, Lisa Malloy, and Tama Clare. Miane State Champion, Joanna Green, joined these talented returning runners that provided the talent needed to win the conference championship.

Cross Country Coach, Rick Erdmann felt that the OVC was very well balanced with "Akron, Murray State and Austin Peay being our main concerns." After the ladies captured the title Erdmann said, "We ran extremely well as a team. I think that was the key to our success."

MEN'S SWIMMING

The year of 1986 contributed to a major setback for the University Eels swim team. After 51 dedicated years the Eels experienced a dramatic decision by the University administration to drop the swimming program. Although this mishap has put much pressure on the team and coaching staff, it has given the team a positive attitude about their sport. The team is undoubtedly one of the hardest working organizations on campus. They not only swim, but they also raise their own scholarship money for their swimmers.

The team consisted of many talented swimmers, whose momentum has helped maintain the inspiration of the team.

Mike Kirsch finished the 1985 season with a first place finish in the 100 breast stroke and second place in the 200 breast stroke. He also holds the school record in the 100 and 200 breast stroke. Dave Mercer is the school record holder for the 500 yard butterfly and the 50 yard freestyle. Bill Reddick, captain of the team for the second consecutive years, is a strong leader. He has been the recipient of the John Buckner Memorial Award for his 110 percent effort for three consecutive years. These Eels are followed by Juniors Robert Gibbs and Ted Hassen.

The Eels are losing many of the team leaders this year. Coach Lichthey said that the key to success in the future was to insure good recruiting. He also expressed that he felt confident with the current team and felt they would have a successful season.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

The 1986-87 Eastern Kentucky University women's swim team was a dedicated and talented team, in, as well as out of the water. The Eels suffered dramatically from the administration's decision to drop the program last year. This was met with a mass of fund raising efforts by the team.

The team was relatively young yet very talented. The Eels were led by Seniors Jill Decker and Michelle Spears. Decker, who has been swimming for the team for only a year, has received the John Buckner Award for 110 percent last season and holds records in the various freestyle competitions.

Spears, who is captain of the team, was a SEC finalist and a NCAA qualifier in the 50 yard freestyle. Ginny Ferguson was voted most valuable sophomore swimmer. She also holds various school records.

Freshman, Susan Torbett, was captain of Model High School's swim team for three years. She was also state finalist for four years.

Coach Lichty said that this year's team was extremely strong. He also said that the Eels would be losing the team nucleus and that good recruiting would have a great bearing on the team's future.

MEN'S TENNIS

Coach Tom Higgins and his men's tennis team began their season with an optimistic outlook. The high expectations were largely due to the fact that only one of the ten Colonels was a freshman. Experience was definitely in their court.

Carrying a freshman was hardly a hinderance, with Andrew DiNola; graduate of the renowned Nick Bolletteri Tennis Academy. He played in the number one position for the University netters. Andrew finished the season as the first position runner-up in the OVC. He enjoyed this success even though Higgins notes that "it is very unusual for a freshman to earn the number one spot."

Junior Chris Brown returned to the team to try to improve his 1985 record. The Grosse Point, Michigan native finished runner-up in the fifth position in the conference.

The Colonels were also armed with returning doubles talent. Scott Patrick, sophomore from Nashville, and Senior, Chris Smith, from Frankfort, which made a terrific team. The duo finished as the OVC runner-up in the second doubles position.

"The future looks good" says Coach Higgins. "We are losing only one player from this team." However the loss is a big one. With graduation comes the departure of two time captain Chris Smith. Chris was selected as an Academic All-American. While earning his Philosophy and Finance degree Smith maintained a 3.958 GPA overall.

The team finished third in the Greg Adams Invitational hosted by the University, and compiled a 13-11 win-loss record over all.

The women's tennis team posted an overall record of 10-14 for the 1986 season. The team, equipped with only one senior, placed fifth in the OVC tournament.

Coach Sandra Martin said she "felt good" about the team's showing considering "the lack of collegiate experience", which she said was very important in pressure type situations.

Pam Wise finished second in the #2 singles position at the OVC Tournament, while Dee Cannon finished fourth in the #4 singles position. Also posting wins in the OVC Tournament were Sabrina Miles fourth place in the #5 slot and third place winner was Traci Parrella in the #6 position. The #3 doubles team of Laura Hesselbrock and Beckie Mark placed second in the tournament.

Coach Martin reflected on the 1986 season by noting the "all around depth and strength through all six positions." She felt the young team played "up to potential" with all members contributing equally.

Martin and the team are looking to the future optimistically. She said she was "extremely pleased" to have returning players with experience to depend on. The Colonels will host the OVC Championship next year and Martin hopes the team will come away with some top finishes.

The 1985-86 golf season brought with it much experience and gained very demanding results for the Colonels Golf team. "I was very pleased with the results of the team," said Coach Lou Smithers.

Out of the ten tournaments, the Colonels placed third at Murray State, thirteenth at Augusta College, fourth at the Kentucky Inter-Collegiate and third in the Colonel Classic. After playing exceptionally well in other tournaments the Colonels ended the season with a record of 92-64-3. They won the O.V.C. Championship: defending their title for the past four years.

The Colonels, as a team, played very well but one player, Bruce Oldendick, stood out. Bruce, a senior, was selected for a second year straight as the player of the year for the O.V.C. He also won the conference's Individual Championship.

Coach Smithers, who has been chosen as coach of the year on three occasions, seemed pleased with the team. He went on to say that of all the tournaments they played in this year, they would be required to do much more work. This is due to the fact that the teams they were playing were ranked higher. He stated that in the years to come it will be a building process. Yet, a process resulting in one of the strongest teams that the University has ever witnessed.

The 1986 Colonel baseball season was one that will be long remembered not only by the coaches, but the players as being one of the most proficient seasons in University history. The season began with many outstanding victories. According to Coach Ward and the players, the most outstanding games were those against Akron with a score of 6-1 for each game. Both games were pitched by Senior, Jeff Cruse. By winning the OVC tournament, the University earned the right to participate in the NCAA regionals for the third consecutive season.

The 1986 OVC baseball crown was the Colonels eleventh league baseball title. They became the first school in OVC history to win three straight baseball conference titles. "We plan to do it again," said Junior, Robert Moore.

Players named all-OVC were Cruse, Moore, and Seniors Tim

Redmon, Brad Brian and Clay Elswick. Elswick went on to capture such titles as; E.K.U. Male Athlete of the Year, Academic All-American and NCAA Division 1 All-American team. He also set school records in batting average, home runs, R.B.I.'s, co-captain and ranked among national leaders in NCAA statistics.

Fellow teammates felt that the loss of Elswick and the other Seniors was a tremendous loss. However, Coach Ward and Senior "team motivator", Joe Demus both felt that each player will overcome the adversity and will be just as good and as confident as in seasons past.

Colonel coach of seven years, Ward said, "like any season, we've had high points and disappointments, but I was real proud and pleased with the performance of all my players."

MEN'S TRACK

The 1985-'86 season for the men's track team was an outstanding achievement. Although the team consisted mostly of freshmen and underclassmen, the results were extremely pleasing.

After attending only two scoring meets last year, the team placed second in the OVC meet indoors, and third in the OVC outdoors. They also scored 3.08 in the four hundred meter relay.

Many outstanding players resulted in the stability of the team. But one special player, Senior Jeff Goodwin was definitely the most outstanding. Goodwin was a triple jumper and an eight hundred meter runner. He has won a number of invitational meets and placed high at the Kentucky Relays. There were, however, some major setbacks involved with last years events. The team lacked having anyone in throwing events. The team also lacked depth.

Coach Rick Erdman seemed very pleased with the performance of last years team. "The young team should have some excellent relays in next years competitions," said Erdmann.

WOMEN'S TRACK

Lambert

In the 1985-'86 women's track season; women dominated the OVC Conference. The team consisted of many outstanding young athletes who were determined to have a successful season.

The nucleus of the team, with senior Janese Gibson, was a primary source of power. Senior, Rose Gilmore, was a NCAA Division I Champion. Other outstanding players performed well also. Junior, Pam Ragland, Sophomores, Jackie Humphrey and Angie Barker were the primary source that aided the team in many of their winning accomplishments. All of the women were All American NCAA Division I Athletes at the University. The Colonels dominated both indoor and outdoor events and were victorious in all of the meets in which they competed.

The women defended the OVC Championship for the fourth time which proved advantageous in winning the NCAA title and also the Indianapolis. The team ranked thirty fourth in the nation.

There is no doubt that this team was one of the best track teams the University had ever seen.

Head Coach, Rick Erdman was extremely pleased with the outstanding performances of the team. "The team should rank extremely well in the years to come," Erdman said.

FUNDERBURK'S

Quality Pursuit

Woodson

Entering office in 1985, Hanly Funderburk became the University's eighth president. His continual commitment to enhancing the academic community is an on-going pursuit today, just as it was in 1985.

The academic year brought to full circle certain goals pursued by Funderburk in improving the University.

A 9 million dollar issue of revenue bonds was made for University renovation. Proceeds of the sale will be used to renovate University buildings. This announcement was made by the University's Board of Regents in October.

The University's Foundation Board, which was founded in 1963, was expanded by Funderburk with the appointment of fourteen business and professional leaders. These persons would make up the Board of Directors.

"The University Foundation has served the University well over the years, as many developments and programmatic improvements have been made possible by its existence," Dr. Funderburk said.

The continual financial support is needed to keep the University good in the market place. Also, he sees the legislative networks as important. "The Kentucky Advocates for Higher Education, I believe, will be a force to be reckoned with in the future," said Funderburk.

When asked how he viewed the student body as a whole, Funderburk responded; "I do see the number of serious minded students increasing. This is the student who wants a good education with a good living. This increase is important. The university is a healthy surrounding for students."

"Social life is good, yet what concerns me is a lack of participation by students. Athletic events, for example, have poor attendance, and we have a fine quality of play, it is hard to understand," Funderburk said.

He sees the students which get involved are usually the students which stay involved in University life and continue out beyond the academic community.

The main concern of the Funderburk administration is the continued improvement on the quality of education at the University. This is a job he feels is never complete.

BOARD OF REGENTS

Woodson

The University's Board of Regents had a busy year as they placed into action numerous projects for University improvement.

In August, the Regents approved 150,000 dollars in renovation projects for the residence halls and University Inn. The Inn is used by the College of Law Enforcement.

The Board voted in October to issue 9.9 million dollars in revenue bonds for use in campus building renovations. This included a residence hall as well as classroom buildings and the upgrading of the University's communications network.

In January, the members dealt with reaffirmed accreditation. Also, changes in certain academic programs were made in suspending certain degree options.

This year the student regent was Student Association member, Steve Schillfarth. He functioned as a representative between the Board and the student body.

The University Board of Regents is the official policy making and statutory governing body of the University.

Administrative Vice Presidents

The offices of the Vice Presidents bind the University together as a whole. These five offices vary from administrative to student affairs.

The Office of Academic Affairs and Research is headed by Dr. John Rowlett. Every aspect of a student's academic history is handled through this office. For example, registration, graduation, and class scheduling are channeled through this office.

The Office of Administrative Affairs is overseen by Dr. Joseph Schwendeman. He sees that special programs, radio and television and physical plant areas are functioning.

C.E. Baldwin is Vice President for the Office of Business Affairs. The financial aspects of the University structure is controlled by Baldwin's office.

The Vice President for the Office of University Relations and Development is Donald Feltner. He directs the offices of Alumni Affairs, Public Information and the Division of Development. These offices support and promote the University's public image.

Dr. Thomas Myers of the Office of Student Affairs oversees areas such as student health, residence hall programs and student activities.

As a combined force these offices structure the University's operation.

Traditional Chapter in Kentucky History Closes

The end of 1986 brought to close an important chapter of tradition in the Kentucky state senate.

Kentucky's foremost advocate of higher education stepped down from the state senate. The University's own Robert R. Martin, President Emeritus, ended a ten year stay as the 22nd district Senator.

Prior to his senate terms, Dr. Martin was the University's president for 16 years. When he took office in 1960, the University's enrollment was 2,967 and the campus had a plant value of seven million dollars. Under his leadership the University experienced rapid growth and expansion. By his retirement in 1976 the enrollment had swollen to 14,000 strong and the campus plant value had risen to a 120 million dollar operation.

The University reached one of its most important landmarks during his presidency; the gaining of University status on February 25, 1966. Dr. Martin was present as Governor Edward T. Breathitt signed the bill into law. Martin reflects on his University years proudly and says he "wishes continued success to the University."

Dr. Martin's senate duties have been concentrated mainly on higher education. He has served on the Committee for Higher Education as well as the Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

Martin says that congressionally "education is on the upswing in 1987." This is due to the location of "additional revenue resources." Dr. Martin says this pro-education trend is what the public wants.

"They have demanded better education in public schools from the elementary level to state supported colleges and universities."

Dr. and Mrs. Martin are very enthusiastic Colonel supporters. They can be seen at many University functions covering the realm from academics to athletics. They make their home in Richmond, near the campus that reflects his influence. Martin says he is glad to have time "to sit back and enjoy everything the University has to offer the community."

"It is time for a younger man to have his turn," Dr. Martin said in justifying his decision to leave both the University and the state senate.

Lambert

In December of 1984 an era in University history came to a close as President J. C. Powell retired from office. Powell had served as the University's seventh president since 1976. However, Powell had spent the past 24 years at Eastern.

Powell's continual quest for improving University programs was always evident. He called this "improving the quality of our offerings."

Back in the early 1980's, drastic budget cuts forced Powell to put forth great efforts to secure proper funding and adjust the University budget to fit such cuts.

Powell also saw an important event in the development of the University. In 1982 the installation of a computer system was used for registration purposes. Powell saw the importance of the computer on the collegiate level.

He was a man who invisioned education as an important tool for the increasing of the quality of life. During his presidential term, Powell awarded one-third of the graduate degrees at the University.

Serving in his fourteenth year as dean to the College of Allied Health and Nursing, David Gale finds his priority in quality.

High quality programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels concerns Gale. Also, the need for providing mobility in the health care field. Career counseling is needed and necessary to attract students to the college.

Julie Baldwin was this years Outstanding Student from the College of Allied Health and Nursing. She maintained a 3.3 GPA while being involved in Chi Omega and Panhellenic Council. She also was involved with the University Phonathon, Roadblocks for local citizens, and the "Chi Olympics".

Baldwin has been a member of Sigma Theta Tau, Order of Omega, Mortar Board and was included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Mortar Board named Baldwin Co-Chairman of M.B. Week. She was also the President of the Order of Omega and the Programming Chair of the Southeastern Panhellenic Conference.

Dean

College of Health, Physical Education Recreation and Athletics

Sandra Hafling, a Recreation major was the Outstanding Student from the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics.

Hafling was on the University's Dean's List as well as the National Dean's List. Her 3.7 GPA also helped her to be recognized by Mortar Board's Distinguished Honorary Society.

Hafling's campus activities included President of Girl Scouts, Treasurer of the Recreation Club, and Gamma Beta Phi. She was also active in the community through the Wilderness Girl Scout Council.

The College of Health Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics has Russell Boque in the office of the Dean. Boque feels his strong faculty makes for solid graduating students.

The University friendliness and communication between the faculty make Eastern appealing to Boque.

College of Law Enforcement

Amy Decamp
Outstanding Student
Truett Ricks
Dean

Dean Truett Ricks of the College of Law Enforcement is in his fourth year in the office of the Dean.

He feels the quality programs offered are tailored to meet the needs of the students and thus a successful program has resulted.

Recruiting is necessary for the college. Ricks would like the surrounding states to become a greater source of incoming students.

The college's reputation can be credited to the fine faculty facilities that are offered.

A Police Administration major with a 3.7 GPA was named as the College of Law Enforcements Outstanding Student. Amy R. Decamp has been active at the University while maintaining a high G.P.A.

She was involved in canned food drives, nursing home visits, American Red Cross Blood Drives, and collecting donations for the American Cancer Society.

Decamp was a member of the Marching Maroons. She was the vice-president and student adviser for Alph Phi Sigma while being involved in the Student Alumni Association, Mortar Board and the Mentor Program.

Ronald Crafton
Outstanding Student
Donald Batch
Dean

College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences

Ronald Lee Crafton was chosen the Outstanding Student from the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences. The pre-med major has maintained a 3.92 GPA, and has been included on the Dean's List six consecutive semesters. Crafton was also presented the Dean's Pin and the Orson L. Arvin Award.

Crafton was awarded the Presidential Scholarship. He managed to achieve academic success while volunteering at Humana Hospital, instructing CPR, and working as an EMT for Bullitt County E.M.S.

While at the University, Crafton has been active in the Caduceus Club.

Donald Batch, Dean of the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences is also in his eighth year in the Dean's chair. However, he has been with the University since 1965.

He believes a strong faculty, strong students, and strong programs best sum up the finer qualities of the college.

Additional financial support for the college is a goal for Batch to pursue further.

College of Social and Behavioral Sciences

Deborah Scheer
Outstanding Student
Vance Wisenbaker
Dean

Dr. Vance Wisenbaker was named to the deans chair to the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences in November of 1986. Wisenbaker had been with the University since 1966, serving as professor and chair for the Department of Anthropology, Sociology, and Social Work.

A native of Tallahassee, Fla., Wisenbaker received his bachelor's and master's degrees in sociology at Florida State University. He received his Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Georgia.

Deborah Ann Scheer, a psychology major with a 3.91 GPA, was selected by the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences as their Outstanding Student.

Scheer was involved in the Intersity Christian Fellowship, Milestone Sports Staff, Mortar Board, Sullivan Hall Council, American Psychological Association, Southeastern Psychological Association, Psi Chi and Gamma Beta Phi.

Through Kappa Delta Tau Scheer worked with retarded, emotionally disturbed children and also abused children and adults. She also tutored dyslexias and was a group leader for Day Care Programs while helping to organize a neighborhood library.

The Milestone's
1987
Hall of Fame
Recipient

Chris Smith

The 1987 Milestone Hall of Fame recipient is Chris J. R. Smith from the College of Business.

The Corporate Finance and Financial Institutions major survived the many trials and tribulations of being a student and athlete on the University's tennis team with outstanding results. Smith attributed his success to good time management. He managed to keep a 3.9 G.P.A. by working extremely hard. "I took the hours of the day and divided them to study as well as working to be my best on the tennis team," Smith said.

Chris was drawn to the University much the same as many students are to "the campus beautiful." Originally from England, Smith came to the U.S. to further his education. "In England you cannot combine academic and athletic scholarships," says Smith. He was drawn to Kentucky through family in the state.

"It was not a complete culture shock for me as I lived in Texas briefly as a child. That is where I first began to play tennis," said Smith.

Smith was chosen as the Milestone Hall of Fame recipient by President Funderburk. Nominees were elected from each of the University's nine colleges.

We the staff of the Milestone sincerely congratulate Smith on such an outstanding achievement.

Smith's honor is unique because he was able to combine superior academic, athletic, and social aspects of collegiate life; excelling in all areas.

C COLLEGE S COMBINE

Quality with Tradition

The strength of a university lies within the individual colleges that comprise it. The University's nine colleges have continued to maintain the strong traditions of the University while also changing to suit the University's growing needs. These efforts have given the University the necessary strength for it to be a successful and reputable college.

The College of Allied Health and Nursing offers certificate, associate degree and baccalaureate degree programs in various areas which are concerned with the maintenance and promotion of health. The areas covered include: Nursing (2 and 4 year programs), Emergency Medical Care, Environmental Health Science, Medical Record Science, Medical Assisting Technology, (2 and 4 year programs), and Occupational Therapy.

The College of Applied Arts and Technology offers associate, baccalaureate and master's degrees in the following departments: Agriculture, Home Economics, Industrial Education and Technology, and Mass Communications. It includes the Department of Military Science which offers a four-year Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) program. The college also offers Aviation courses in instrument and commercial flight.

The College of Arts and Humanities strives to provide for all students the artistic and humanistic elements of a liberal education. The college offers the following degrees: Bachelor of Arts to students who major in Art, English, French, German, music, philosophy, religion, Spanish, speech and theatre arts; Bachelor of Fine Arts to students in art and performing arts; Bachelor of Music; Bachelor of Music Education; and Bachelor of Individualized Studies.

The College of Business attempts to provide students with an understanding of the citizen's role in a rapidly changing technological society by providing professional education for careers in business. The Bachelor of Business Administration degree is offered in the following areas: accounting, computer information systems, economics, finance, general business, health care administration, insurance, management, marketing, office administration, real estate and transportation and physical distribution.

The College of Education is dedicated to the preparation of teachers to function effectively in a culturally diverse society in order to meet the needs of all students. Teacher education is viewed as an all-university function, but the programs of elementary education, library science, rehabilitation counseling, special education and communication disorders are located in the College of Education. Secondary teaching programs are located in their respective colleges.

The purpose of the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics is to prepare professionals to serve the public in areas which society value: leisure, recreational alternatives, fitness and healthful living. The college provides opportunities for enjoyment of leisure and helps develop skills and habits necessary for full participation in healthful living. Bachelor degrees are offered in Health Education, Physical Education and Recreation and Park Administration.

The College of Law Enforcement is comprised of the Departments of Correctional Services, Police Administration and Loss Prevention and Safety. The purposes of the college include: preparation of teachers, conducting research in law enforcement, driver and traffic safety and fire safety. Bachelor degrees are offered in these areas: Police Administration, Corrections and Administration of Justice, Forensic Science, Fire and Safety Engineering Technology and Security and Loss Prevention.

The College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences offers the following degrees: Associate of Science for students in chemical technology, geological engineering technology and the science for engineering; Bachelor of Arts for students in chemistry and geology; Bachelor of Science for students in biology, chemistry, computer science, earth science, environmental resource, fisheries management, geology, mathematics, microbiology, physics, statistics, and wildlife management; and the Bachelor of Individualized studies.

The College of Social and Behavioral Sciences is concerned with mankind's social, political, economic and psychological development. The courses in the college focus on various peoples of the world and their histories, cultures, physical environments and problems. The College consists of the Departments of Geography and Planning, Governments, History, Psychology, Social Science and the Department of Anthropology, Sociology and Social Work.

The University's nine colleges have continued to grow and improve over the years, thus giving added strength to the University.

"I think people realize how important higher education is to the state," said Mary Shuntich.

More than 6,000 University Alumni were approached for financial support for their alma mater in February, during the second annual EKU Phonathon '87.

Members of University fraternities and sororities placed calls to alumni all over the state. These students were selected to assist in the effort because "there are lots of students involved, they are extremely dependable and organized and the project helps them in their service areas," according to Mary Ellen Shuntich, phonathon coordinator. Also involved were Student Association and RHA.

The effort enjoyed amazing success last year with the callers rais ing $22,215. Their goal this year was set at $30,000. The money raised goes to general funds. Shuntich said that "unless the alumnus specifies where they wish the money to go, it goes where ever it is needed. Some of the revenue goes to help support the twenty six alumni scholarships available at the University."

The participation and cooperation from both the campus and the community was outstanding. Shuntich attributed the success to "people who realize how important higher education is to the state and how necessary private support is to Kentucky's colleges and universities."

The Office of Student Activities

The Student Activities and Organizations office has a great deal of responsibility to the various clubs and organizations at the University. They help organize activities for the twenty-seven Greek organizations and the other one hundred and twenty-five clubs on campus. They aid in organizing Homecoming events, and the University film series.

Skip Daugherty oversees the office. All activity requests go in front of Daugherty for approval. The Student Activities office is willing to aid any organization they can.

Students who staff the Activities office are employed through the University's work study program. The students average approximately seven hours per week but they only work the amount of hours they qualify for. The office looks for competent students with a good personality who are willing to work with people.

The office is a center for much activity effecting hundreds of students. They range from Greeks to independents, who come in contact with the office on a daily basis.

Student Association

Maples

With the beginning of a new semester, the Student Association came under new leadership with the election of Steve Schilffarth as President, and Jim Aquaviva as Vice President. The two looked forward to an effective year after a year of internal organization under former President Ken Kearns. Schilffarth said their main goal was to let the student body know that there was a Student Association that is there to serve the students. They also hoped to make the students more aware of the things that the Student Association had accomplished.

Their goal was not to pass as much new legislation, but to follow up on past legislation, and to see that the University was held accountable. President Schilffarth said, "In order for the Student Government to be effective, the administration must be held accountable." They emphasized that the University is a service to the students and not the other way around. New programming that had not been used in the past was used to make the students aware of the Association. This included the establishment of the Watch-Dog Committee. The committee was set up so students could take complaints or concerns to any Watch-Dog member, not necessarily elected senators, and, if it was possible, the problem could be taken directly to an administrator who could elevate the problem. This eliminates unnecessary passing of legislation by the student government.

In addition, the Student Association again sponsored the Mentor Program. This is a program for freshman to help them adjust to college life. The Student Association also sponsored the PALS program, a program similar to the Big Brother/Big Sister program for the University's married couples. Other activities included the Fall Fest for area merchants, and a voter registration drive.

Schilffarth and Aquaviva were optimistic due to the number of young members who had fresh ideas, and plenty of energy. With this, the Association hoped to fight apathy on campus. "We want the students to have more say in University matters," said Schilffarth. as also a concern. They wanted the students aware of their accomplishments, and the possibility of a newsletter to all students is being dismissed.

Who's Who
 AMONG STUDENTS IN American Universities & Colleges

Out of approximately 500 nominations this year to Who's Who the University chose the top 66 students to be included in the publication. Students are nominated by faculty and staff. They must have a 2.7 grade-point average. They must also be active in two University organizations. Also, enrollment in the University for two years is required. Students are rated by their faculty on such levels as scholarship, leadership and University community service.

Within a three month period the nomination process takes place on campus. The Who's Who Committee is made up of deans and administrators. They are responsible for reviewing applicants and choosing the top 66.

Phi Kappa Phi, the national scholastic honor society at the University named 43 new students to its list of other outstanding achievers. To be inducted, students must maintain at least a 3.7 grade point average on a 4.0-scale for six semesters. Admission is open to all students in all disciplines, not only those in liberal arts but in technical fields as well.

"We believe that induction into Phi Kappa Phi is one of the highest academic honors at the University," said Dr. Kenneth Hansson, professor and dean of the College of Applied Arts and Technology and sponsor of the society.

"It is one of the highest honors a student can receive and it is a privilege to be chosen," said Guy Riehemann, new member.

"Fun, demanding and hot!", says Jon Thornsbury with a tone of excitement. Thornsbury is the University's Colonel, the first official mascot in campus history. His debut appearance was made at the first home football game. The Colonel was driven onto the field in a Rolls Royce.

The mascots job may look like an easy one; however the job is quite demanding. Jon attended mascot camp at Virginia Tech to help develop the Colonel's character. Thornsbury said it is difficult to show expression with a plastic face. Since the Colonel's facial expressions cannot change, he must express his feelings through body movement and exaggerated hand motions.

COLONEL

On the football field the job is very demanding because of the amount of area there is to cover. Basketball games are somewhat easier for the Colonel since he is confined to a smaller working area. Sometimes the Colonel goes into the stands to meet the fans. "Many people do not know how to react to the Colonel," Jon said, "but reacting to the crowd and with other mascots can be exciting and a lot of fun." Children as well as older sports fans love the character.

Thornsbury, a senior and occupational therapy major, said he has enjoyed introducing the Colonel character to the public and Eastern's campus. It has been a very time consuming effort, yet a challenge.

Thornsbury says his own personality is forgotten once he dons the suit, "because I am no longer Jon Thornsbury, I am the Colonel."

Few tangible items can compete with the now vivid memories of the Eastern experience. However, as time passes and those recollections become faded the Milestone becomes a source of the 'do you remember' moments from college.

As the Milestone maintains its position as a traditional element in University life, certain features are classical to the publication. This factor is what has distinguished this yearbook from other trendy publications across the country. Yet, the Editors' goals over the past three years has been to update the book, yet, keeping that element of tradition alive.

This year a traditional look at college life at the University was examined as well as a look at new 'traditions'. The flavor of the 1920's captured in the art deco style of the times was the basis for most of the graphic details in the book.

A new element aids this years staff with a more effective production process. A computer system was installed to submit copy to the printers in a more efficient manner.

The staff expanded their knowledge this year by attending the College Media Advisers and Associated Collegiate Press National Convention in Washington D.C. The convention proved to be valuable in adding to the quality of the book.

For all the photos and words in this book that spark a memory there were countless hours spent producing them, although suddenly they seem like only minutes, to those responsible for this, the 64 edition of the Milestone.

The University's Residence Hall Association was designed to make improvements in hall life and to represent the students who live on campus. These are two extremely large responsibilities. Out of the 12,000 University students 6,500, or approximately one half, live in residence halls; making the University having the largest hall system in the state.

Residence Hall Association has 45 members. This includes hall council presidents and representatives from all the halls. According to RHA President Mary Helen Ellis "there is one representative for every 300 students."

Every student who has a legal cooking appliance in their room this year had the Residence Hall Association to thank. They are also responsible for the first co-ed housing at the University. The Martin Hall program was researched extensively with the possibility of expanding co-ed housing in the future. Single men over 21 were permitted to live in Brockton for the first time this year because of the RHA's work.

The Association has been involved in trying to expand hall lobby study areas to 24 hours. This would be met upon approval of each individual hall council.

Students Have A Strong Voice in R.H.A.

The officers of the Residence Hall Association were elected differently this spring. For the first time a campus wide election was held to determine the president and vice-president. Ellis said the change was made to "make the students feel more active. The students have a very important voice in our association."

The University's Marching Maroons had a year of new beginnings as they kicked off the start of yet another semester.

Included in the fresh look for the Maroons was the University approval and purchase of new uniforms.

But the biggest change was in direction. Mark Whitlock of Iowa was named new director.

"Why should I go get a hot dog during halftime when I can watch the marching band," says the new director.

He is a man known for his hard work and dedication. "If I don't expect the best from the group, then I can't get it," says Whitlock.

Mark said he was not sure of what to expect before coming to the University. He had heard of the band members superior quality. Whitlock knew he would not be satisfied with 90 percent. He would demand 110 percent.

Mark Whitlock's main goal for this academic year was to make members proud of their accomplishments. He would also like to see an increase in enrollment. He hoped to promote school spirit as well as a team spirit. Whitlock was looking for anyone who would play an instrument, and who has the will to work and work hard.

Band member Chad Scott said "Obviously he knows exactly what he is doing and he will take the band far."

"It takes all kinds"; this was the chosen theme by the sisters of Kappa Delta Tau for the 1986 fall semester.

They began a very busy year with all types of rush activities. They hosted get acquainted parties and let the rushees sit in on committee meetings to get a feel for what the group is all about.

The KDTs are a service organization focusing on aiding the campus as well as the entire Richmond community. Their service activities include sponsoring a child from the Philippines through the United Christian Childrens Fund. The members also regularly visit area nursing homes and the Shriner's Hospital in Lexington. As a community function the KDTs have adopted a special needs Richmond family.

The organization's major University function is the Sunshine League. During finals week of each semester the members pass out candy to every student along with a pleasant good wish for a successful week of tests.

According to Lisa Cubbage, Kappa Kelta Tau's president, the members enjoy " a very strong sense of sisterhood." They are McGregor Hall's fifth floor family under the guidance of Dr. Nancy Peel.

Cubbage reports that the members "are treated to social functions in addition to the service work." The organization sponsors a dance each semester and a banquet for their parents. Also, an Alumni reception is part of Homecoming. The sisters also manage to get together for dinner once a week and go camping each semester.

When it comes to variety of activities the KDTs certainly "have all kinds."

The Progress has acquired a new look this semester, under the leadership of Editor, Terri Martin. The paper has been divided into two sections. The new section was named Campus Living. This section contains organizations, arts, entertainment and sports. Not only do they have new editors, they also have the use of color photos. Even though the Progress has instituted these changes it still remains a traditional part of campus life by keeping the same basic format. An added bonus to the paper this year is a new cartoon feature called "Crowes Feats" written by a graduate student, J.D. Crowe. Crowe lives in Fort Worth, Texas and has a syndicated cartoon that the Progress picks up.

Terri Martin, Editor, said "the goals of the Progress are to cover the stories and for all reporting to be objective and accurate," Martin also added, "I want to take a stand in the editorial section and just there. I want students to be able to express themselves and speak out in the paper."

Derenda Dennis, managing editor, talks of how both Terri and her work with each section editor to help them improve their pages. "I am really proud of this year's staff. We work as a team," Dennis said, "If someone is not finished with a story we all help. We really work hard to produce quality stories. We are extremely proud of the paper we produce."

A Dedicated Sport

"Cheerleading is a sport", says University cheerleader Angie Willis. "It takes hard work, dedication and lots of your time". Yet it is worth it. These sentiments are felt by the members of the University squad.

This year the University squad had a goal of going to the National Cheerleading Championship. This attempt was one worthy of praise. The video which was used to judge the group was entered and ranked seventh out of more than 200 schools in the nation. The regional competition only enters the top two placers in national competition. However, the squad did not go through the year without recognition. At cheerleading camp two first places and one second place trophy was awarded to the group for three different categories of competition.

Veteran cheerleader Alan Tatum, a senior, says he enjoys cheering, even though it takes much hard work and time. "Over the past few years I have met many new people and have done extensive traveling with the squad. It is fun to get to go places you have never been before. Spending much time together and being dedicated to the same cause really pulls the thirteen of us together."

The newest member of the team, Willis says she wishes more males would try out to be yell leaders.

Student Activities director Skip Daughtery is the advisor for the cheerleaders. The squad feels Skip has done much for the cheerleading program over the past 7 years.

The Baptist Student Union offers many things to students. Friendship, strength, guidance, and creative outlets can all be found within the organization.

Students of all beliefs are made to feel welcome. Students take part on a voluntary basis, not because of membership responsibilities. It should also be stressed, said member Jerry McKinney, that "this is not a church, we welcome everyone." The BSU is a place where people can come to have a good time. We offer a different atmosphere than downtown," said McKinney.

The BSU has classrooms, a library for studying, a kitchen and a game room for recreation.

Baptist Student Union President Laura Harris said the BSU "is a real busy place."

This is due to involvement with more than worship. They offer a choir, concerts, and childrens ministry. Harris said the activities "are open to all students."

When asked why she stayed Harris replied "the uniqueness of it all — we are like a family. Everyone is very united and supportive." McKinney added "our friendship is unparalleled."

WDMC 57 AM is the University's very own radio station. It is used to give students "Hands-on" experience in operating a radio station in the Mass Communication department.

WDMC operates on carrier current. Carrier current does not travel through the air-waves like most radio broadcasts, but through campus wires. The current travels from building to building and can be picked up on the AM dial on campus. Since WDMC uses carrier current it is not covered by the FCC, but they still follow FCC rules and regulations to give the students an idea of how a radio station actually operates.

Students take to the air

The radio station is completely staffed by students. They do have a general manager, Donna Williams, yet the students take care of everything from sales, production and management, to the D.J. duties of the station. There are approximately forty students on the staff. The staff is open to any one who would like to work on a radio station not necessarily broadcasting majors. All D.J.s must at least obtain a restricted radio license before they can go on the air. This is so that a student can get experience that they would get in the broadcasting world.

WDMC offers many different programs and services to the students on campus. The format is a variety, Top 40 hits, to album oriented rock to urban contemporary, the station also takes requests. They offer campus news, events, sports, class information. They also play at various dances and parties on campus.

WDMC is a great way for students to get hands-on experiences in operating a radio station, "This is a real radio station" said Music Director Tom Miller.

As the season for formal events and weddings grew closer the University students got to preview the seasons latest formal looks for men and women.

The formals were furnished by Richmond area bridal shops, and area businesses donated items for door prizes.

The proceeds from the show went toward the RHA's scholarship fund. RHA member, Patti Campbell, who organized the event said she felt the evening was "a huge success."

The tradition of service was once again seen as the University's Accounting Club offered their aid to area residents with the VITA program this past winter.

Sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service, the Voluntary Income Tax Assistance program is used to assist taxpayers in properly filling out their tax forms. The service has been available over the past ten years by the Club, under the direction of Advisor Kenneth Griffith.

"We have a large number of repeat business yearly, as well as new area residents who find out about the program," said Griffith. Approximately one hundred people will be assisted with their filing.

The Club uses the State Bank as the center for VITA. Every Monday evening from six to eight thirty they assist residents. This took place from February to March.

Usually upperclassmen, who are accounting majors staff the program. They find it gives them an added experience out of the classroom.

"It helps me with the communication skills which are needed in this area, as well as actual tax preparation while working with the public," says Donna Gondyur, a junior, from Louisville.

Paul Dean, a senior, from Perryville finds the service to be educational as well. "The hands on experience added with the ability to gain insight into the people is important. The experience, as compared to the classroom is far greater," Dean said.

The Accounting Club is offering the community a service along with combining an educational experience for students. Thus, keeping alive the spirit of tradition and service through the University.

University tradition rings true

Whether it be a wake up call on a clear morning, a signal of lunch time, or a warning of class time most University students can identify with the crisp ringing of the University bells.

The 37-bell carillon located in the Memorial Bell Tower is one of only 50 cast bell carillons on University campuses. The bells were cast in Holland of a copper and tin alloy.

Ms. Marilyn Greenlee controls the bells from a keyboard located in the Powell Building. Greenlee plays special concerts that coincide with special University events but the familiar chiming on the quarter hour is taped selections. The University community hears My Old Kentucky Home twice daily as well as special selections for weekend listeners.

The Memorial Bell Tower was dedicated on January 9, 1972 in memory of all University students who lost their lives in war.

Just as My Old Kentucky Home and eager clock watching students have been a part of the campus for years the Bells have also become a proud and unique tradition of University life.

GREEKS

Benefit Through Involvement

Greek life can offer a wide spectrum of elements to students. Yet, through this college experience which many times is looked on as purely social, many pertinent realizations are gained through ones Greek involvement in the collegiate years. In her final semester, this senior looks fondly back at her Greek years.

172 Greeks

Looking back at the metamorphosis of my college years I often feel a sense of pride in my accomplishments. I walk across campus and many familiar faces seem to appear. Maybe from former classes or from other campus activities; yet, most of the recognized faces are those acquainted with my Greek involvement.

So many times, my shortcomings cause me to question my assuredness in my career choice and in my self-esteem. However, my feelings of confidence seem to be strengthened with my past experiences with Greek life. Everyone needs confidence in meeting new people and in making lasting impressions. Greek life has placed me in numerous situations where meeting new individuals was evident. Through social events and campus councils I have been forced to work with strangers who soon thereafter I found are some of my dearest friends.

Through this confidence, leadership has come to sight. I now feel comfortable and at least to lead organizations or other Greek members. I have witnessed young shy individuals who have transformed into responsible adults much like me. Hopefully, like myself, they too, will be a success in their life long endeavors because of the opportunities Greek life has offered.

Opposite Top: Approximately seventy young ladies accepted bids from the newest sorority on campus. "It's really great to be one of the original members of a campus organization," said Katherine Duncan, a freshman from Cincinnati. Approximately seventy excited young ladies became the first University members of Alpha Omicron Pi on January 23.

The organization hosted three days of rush activities concluding with the issuing of bids and a reception.

"We are looking for energetic girls who are interested in social as well as service activities," said Adviser Mary Ann Dewey. Dewey is an Indiana State University graduate who works in the Crabbe Library. She is one of eight area AOPi alumnae who helped bring the organization to the University.

The AOPis are required to fulfill the requirements of a colony before they can be a chapter. Dewey said it would take about 12 weeks to become official.

Debbie Brobst, a freshman from Columbus, Ohio said "It is a great experience everyone should be a part of." Many students were interested in being a part as over 100 young women interview for Alpha Omicron Pi. Extended were 70 bids, the limit set by the Panhellenic Council. According to Troy Johnson Greek Adviser, "It was very unusual for a group to accept that many members in the beginning. However, the group is well established to be only 20 years old," she added.

The University's colony become one of six throughout the U.S. and Canada. The Nashville based organization has 150 active chapters nationwide.

New Life for Holloway House

Above: Holloway House, built in 1849, will hopefully soon become the official Beta residence. Below: Fraternity brothers, Tom Lineback and Dennis Hensley are two of the 24 Betas living in Holloway House.

Photos by Sam Maples

Not many Greek organizations are called upon to live in homes. However, last spring Beta Theta Pi member Dewayne Bidy received a call from a local developer who was interested in having a home, which he owned, occupied by such an organization. After a few phone calls and a little work, approximately 24 Betas found themselves moving into one of Richmond's historic landmarks, this past fall.

The home, located on Hill Dale Avenue, was constructed in 1849 on 32 acres by a Colonel H. Holloway. A Union sympathizer, Holloway used the Georgian and Greek Revival mansion to harbor soldiers and families fleeing the state. It was also used as a hospital during the war.

Holloway House, as it became known, was lavishly constructed with huge corinthian columns and heavy cornice plaster moulding. The center hallway contains a beautifully constructed spiral stairway. Holloway's lavishness also extended to the installation of silver doorknobs throughout the house.

During the 1930s the home was used to house relief programs for Madison Countians. Then in the late 1960s and '70s, the house was used as the Telford Community Center. After this, it sat empty for 10 years and was vandalized. Then in the early 1980s it was sold and renovated. Through financial hardships the home was owned by various individuals.

The house has yet to be recognized by the University as the official fraternity house. At this time the fraternity is leasing the house with hopes for purchasing it in the near future.

This can only be accomplished after the authorization by the Beta Nationals, and the University.

The Beta Theta Pis are extremely proud of Holloway House. "It enables us to all be together, which strengthens the bonds of brotherhood," said President Dewayne Bidy.

Kappa Alpha

The Kappa Alpha fraternity was founded on EKV's campus on February 14, 1969. Their philanthropy is Muscular Dystrophy. In the past the KAs have helped to clean up campus, donated clothes and food to a family whose house burned. They took up contributions for the Fraternal Order of Police and they were the Grand Marshals of the holiday parade in December. They participate in all Greek events as well as intramural sports.

Nationally, they received the Most Improved Chapter Award, one of only seven given nation wide. On campus they were number one in grades among the fraternities. KA President Todd Murphey said, "KA believes in accepting people into the fraternity based on their own originality, rather than looking for one particular type of person who will fit into a particular mold."

Theta Chi

"We have moved through a transitional phase in the last five years, tripling in size and accomplishment," said Theta Chi President Richard Burke.

The organization's accomplishments are impressive. They received a national Silver Certificate and top honors for the chapter GPA.

Theta Chi has worked for the Easter Seals as well as local organizations such as the Richmond Headstart.

The sixteen-year old organization participated in the Fratman Classic, TKE basketball tournament and the Alumni Association Phonothon.

Theta Chi's adviser is Captain Guy Sanderson. Red and white are the group's colors.

The applause has ended. Captured among these pages are the events which fashioned the year. The traditions of eras passed plus the hopeful traditions of the future are all linked into this one book.

We look back at the past nine months and envision the year. It holds various fascinations for everyone, each unique, yet when combined they give us only a minute portion of history for Eastern Kentucky University.

These are the years filled with wonderful happenings and new discoveries. We probe our intellect and our personal character among these walls of higher learning we call Eastern. With this we grow wiser as the days pass.

The applause has ended, the house has emptied, the lights have dimmed, the costumes put away. The show is now over, as is the 64 edition of the MILESTONE.

EDITOR'S

My job is now complete. I have assigned the last story, mailed the last page, checked the last proof and nursed my last ulcer. I sit back now and ask myself if it was all really worth it? I look at the skills and knowledge I have gained with my work on the MILESTONE and they far outweigh any classroom experience. Also the numerous friendships I have developed and the many places I have traveled makes me realize how fortunate I am to be here in this chair.

Yet my survival was only made possible by the exceptional people surrounding me. Now is my chance to thank those for their support.

First, to Larry Bailey, you gave me the opportunity to sit in this chair and guide this book. You believed in my abilities and steered me when I needed you. You were always (well maybe not always) there with a quick joke or a pat on the back or just with a ear to listen. Your dedicated service to the MILESTONE over the last decade has been enormous and should be recognized as distinct. Thank you.

To Sam Maples, you will never know how much of a great resource you have been to me. Your photographic abilities are superb. It is you I have to thank for such excellent work. You functioned as Managing-Editor and Photo-Editor and a friend. I sincerely thank you for all you have given.

To Kristi Jenkins, who when you walked into my office last Fall I knew you would be an asset, yet I never dreamed how versatile and dedicated you would become. To you I owe my sincerest thanks for all your dedication and new ideas. Keep the spirit alive.

To Dean'a M. Cook, thank you for your never ending support. You would always lend an ear, no matter how far or how late. Your inspiration was a great influence as was your concern. Thanks for the confidence as well as an eternal friendship which I shall always cherish.

To Becky Alexander and Bill Stoess of Delmar Publishing I owe a gratitude of thanks. Also to Jim Hunter and Ralph Van Dyke I thank for their support. Your Southern hospitality is greatly remembered.

There is yet another who can not be overlooked. This is the photographer. He makes all this possible. To Paul Lambert, I extend my thanks for a lasting sense of quality. To Mr. Carr I owe my sincere thanks for always coming to my rescue. Also to Tom Penegor a special thanks goes out for your work.

I must extend my appreciation to Mary Doug, Jo Tipton, Ann Linkous and Ruby Harris. Thanks goes to you all for your detailed assistance you have given me and the book over the years.

Thanks to Debbie Swinford, Laura Strange, Marlene Daughtery, Mindy Ison, Sally Wilfert and Sherry King for their work. Also to Jeff Coatney I thank for displaying his talents once again in Student Life.

Most importantly I want to thank my parents, Don and Jeanette Hughes for being so supportive of my continual work and understanding why I could never make it home all those weekends. You are a unique pair. Thank you.

Lastly, I would like to thank some very dear people in my life. These people were so understanding of me and my work and I thank them all for their eternal support. Also with this thanks goes a special dedication. I would like to dedicate this MILESTONE to those people; my friends. To all the B.F.s; no matter now far the miles carry us from each other our hearts will always be dear.

I have given myself to this publication for the past three years; but my time has drawn near and I must close this volume of my life. I will place it on the shelf and continue on to the next. Yet, I feel a sense of comfort knowing whenever I wish I may return and take from the shelf this book and hold it near to my heart once again.

God Bless and Enjoy.

1987 MILESTONE

Volume 64 of the Eastern Kentucky University Milestone was printed by Delmar Publishing Company, Charlotte, North Carolina. All printing was done using offset lithography. The 280 page publication had a press run of 6,000.

The cover is a Satin Wine Lexatone material, with a custom design. The design is a hot foil stamp of gold using magnesium stamping dies. Board weight is of 160 point. End sheets are of Parch Sand with D-9 maroon.

The paper stock used is 80 pound Westvaco Sterling Gloss.

The body is 12 point Korinna with 2 point leading. All cutlines are 8 point Korinna with 1 point leading. Varying sizes and types of headlines were used throughout the book.

The activity photographs were taken by University students and employees. Cameras used for both four-color and black-and-white include Nikon (35mm) and Hasselblad (2¼ x 2¼). Lenses ranged in focal lengths of 35mm to 500mm.

Senior and underclass portraits were photographed by Yearbook Associates, Miller Falls, Massachusetts.

The 1987 Milestone was distributed to students with no fee.
