THE EASTERN EXPERIENCE

The Eastern Kentucky University experience . . . valuable time spent in class, with friends, studying in the Ravine. As we come to the end of another year, we realize the Eastern experience is made up of many small experiences which, together, form lasting memories.

As freshmen, we took our first giant steps toward independence. No longer were our parents around to make sure we studied, ate right or came in on time. That was the good part.

Our real test came, however, when we faced those major decisions without the helpful guidance we had grown so accustomed to in high school.

Our growth continued through the upper-class years with a series of ups, downs, and in-betweens. We aced classes, failed tests, made new friends, lost old ones. Through our victories and defeats, we grew stronger emotionally and intellectually as we prepared ourselves for life's challenges.

At the finish line, we donned our caps and gowns and proudly stood on the threshold, ready to join the more than 60,000 others who made the journey before us. It was at this moment that the picture became clear.

During the past few years, the Eastern Experience has given us the confidence, intellect, and ambition to go anywhere and do anything we set our minds to.

STUDENT LIFE

Back To School

By: Missy Farmer

Every student dreads it. Every student hates it. It's not finals; it's moving in. Students carrying, boxes, crates, suitcases, garbage bags and small appliances are a common scene at the beginning of every new school year.

Many students have a long drive to the campus. Tired and hungry and anxious to see their friends, students must overcome other hassles when they reach campus. The first and foremost among these are finding a parking place in a properly designated area. Students spend hours looking, finally give up and park wherever they can find a space, risking a citation. Checking into the dorm also can be a major problem, with long lines just to fill out a registration card and receive a dorm key.

Lugging, tugging, and wrestling with belongings follows, and students again face long lines, waiting for the infamous elevators. It is at this point that many students feel like giving up and going home.

At registration the lines continue. Many students, realizing they really don't want to take Nuclear Science 605, have to drop/add. The waiting continues to validate and pick up ID's, buy books, and to check on financial aid. And classes start tomorrow.

Students learn to carry as much as possible.

RICHMOND MALL

by Missy Farmer

EKU students and local residents were invited to "Come Be Dazzled" in early September with the opening of the new Richmond Mall on the Eastern By-Pass. Those who participated were not disappointed.

The 37-store, 34,000-square-foot mall not only provides a convenient place for students to shop, it also offers a variety of employment opportunities.

"It's really a nice mall," said Renae Stickley, a freshman from Arcanum, Ohio, "and I like shopping here."

A 10-day grand opening featured live musical entertainment, exhibits, fashion shows, and other special activities.

A Lion In Winter

The Lion in Winter, a play, is based on actual historical occurrences dealing with the political maneuverings between King Phillip of France and King Henry II of England.

The play takes place during Christmas, in the year 1183, at Henry's castle in Chinon, France.

During this fictitious Christmas Court, Henry is contemplating which of his three sons will be his heir. He is also planning to leave his wife, Queen Eleanor, for the young Princess of France and her dowry.

Although the facts are consistent with history, Goldman admits that "the character and passions of the people in the play are fictitious."

The play also suggests that history is a game in which the outcome is accidental due to the uncontrollable collision of motives.

In a soliloquy, King Henry threatens Queen Eleanor.

Queen Eleanor consoles Alais when she is rejected by King Henry.

A Taste Of First Street

Because many University students leave on Fridays to head home for the weekend, Thursday nights have become the night to party.

Including the recently opened

Tazwells, there are 10 establishments in the downtown area that cater to the different interests of the students. Whether it's live bands, old time rock-and-roll, top 40 dance music, or just a place to hang out, students can find about any type of entertainment that suits their taste.

Other attractions include dance floors, pool tables, wide screen televisions, and live comedy.

After a long week of classes, downtown Richmond provides a welcome relief for many stressed out students.

EKU Experiences Jackie's Dream

by Missy Farmer

On July 22, Jackie Humphrey captured the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials' 100-meter hurdles with a time of 12.88 seconds to become the first U.S. Olympian in the University's history.

In the first round of the Olympic 100-meter hurdles she finished fourth in 13.24 seconds and advanced to the second round later in the day. In the second round, she ran a 13.25 to finish sixth and qualified for the semi-finals. In both races she started well, but hit the first hurdle. Humphrey hoped to do better in the semi-finals and qualify for the final, but again she hit the first hurdle and finished seventh with a time of 13.59 seconds.

Humphrey is a firm believer in positive thinking. "I have a poster on my wall that says "I believe in myself." I also have a button I wear all the time. It's a pin with a Martin Luther King quote that says "I have a dream." "They inspire me," she said.

Though Humphrey didn't capture a medal she is not discouraged. "The entire experience was just tremendous and it has made me more determined to train hard and be back in the Olympics in 1992," Humphrey said.

EKU NEWS

How Students Get It

by Julie Clark

For many students, getting local, state, and national news is as easy as turning on their radio or TV. But when it comes to campus news only a few organizations deliver news that is designed specifically for EKU students.

Many students look forward to Thursdays to receive their weekly copy of the Eastern Progress. The Progress deals primarily with campus news and some local news.

WDMC radio is the University's "Campus Connection." WDMC informs its listeners of campus happenings and also provides a variety of formats. Steve Mead, a broadcast major, and DJ for WDMC, described his job as "thrills, frills of great fun."

For Your Information (FYI) is a weekly publication produced by the Division of Public Information. Kristi Jenkins, editor said, "In just one quick little newsletter you can find out what is going on for the entire week."

The Eastern Progress, WDMC, and the FYI are each entirely staffed by students and one faculty adviser. They provide an excellent opportunity for students to gain hands-on experience. Amy Caudill, editor of the Eastern Progress said, "I have learned more working here than in any of my classes."

Many Eastern student's are also active at the WEKU radio and television stations.

Parade Begins Festivities.

"Movie Madness" was the theme for this year's homecoming parade, and all events took a title centering on the theme.

Road Runner was the name given to the annual 5k run which led the parade Saturday morning before the homecoming game. William Sampson won first place with a time of 15:44.90.

The parade included floats made by various university organizations. Construction on the floats began Sunday, Oct. 9 at the Old Tobacco Warehouse.

The Enterprise: Voice to Victory by Theta Chi and Pi Beta Phi won first place for originality for the second consecutive year. Nightmare At EKU by Lambda Chi and Chi Omega won first place for beauty.

Colonels Defeat Golden Eagles 14-7

By Beth Minks

More than 18,000 fans watched and cheered as the Colonels won their 5th consecutive Homecoming game, defeating the Tennessee Tech. Golden Eagles 14-17.

The Colonels got off to a quick start by scoring within the first minute and a half of the game.

Quarterback Lorenzo Fields led his team 61 yards with Elroy Harris making the last one-yard run for the first touchdown.

Harris's 40th touchdown set a new Ohio Valley Conference record for career touchdowns.

Two plays later the Colonels lost their quarterback and their passing game when Fields was sacked by a Tennessee Tech linebacker. This sack further injured his leg which had been giving him problems all season. Jeff Gillium replaced Fields.

Although the Colonels continued to gain yards on the ground, fumbles and unsuccessful field goal attempts ended the first half.

An interception by Colonel defensive end Tim Tomaszewski sent Tennessee Tech's backup quarterback to the sidelines and brought starting quarterback Thomas DeBow back into the game. DeBow led the Eagles to their first and only touchdown on a seven-play drive.

After an unsuccessful field goal attempt, the fourth quarter came to an end with the Colonels emerging victorious.

In its 10th year, the Bash was sponsored by the RHA Association. The event raised $100 to help support the United-Way and also helped students relieve mid-term pressures. Three hundred university students participated in the event.

HUMMEL PLANETARIUM

By Beth Minks

EKU's Hummel Planetarium is finally available for use after a nine year wait. An out-of-court settlement by the University against Spritz, Inc. forced correction of faulty equipment that brought state-of-the-art technology to EKU's space theatre.

The planetarium is one of the largest in the United States. The space Voyagers system's star ball can project scenes up to 100 times the earth's distance from the sun onto a huge dome which has a diameter of 20.6 meters.

The multi-media center, with its sophisticated hardware and innovative computer software programs, provides for the creation of various space scenes which may be viewed from different perspectives.

According to Jack Fletcher, planetarium director, the facility is used for instruction, public showings, plays, and other events.

Hummel Planetarium is named for Arnin D. Hummel, a former faculty member and physicist.

GHOSTLY EXPERIENCES

By Beth Minks

Who says there's no such thing as a ghost?

By day, Pearl Buchanan Theatre is a classroom and rehearsal stage. By night, the dark and lonely stage becomes home to the ghost of the Blue Lady.

According to the Division of Public Information, there are two versions of the ghost's origin.

Years ago a University student was cast as the lead in Hedda Gabler. In this Henrik Ibsen play the female lead commits suicide.

One version suggests that the woman became so obsessed with suicide after the numerous rehearsals that she hanged herself in the Keen Johnson bell tower. She was wearing the same blue dress she would have worn during performances.

The other version says the woman never made it to the opening performance because she was struck and killed by a car on her way to the theatre. Again, she was wearing the blue dress at the time of her death.

The fall of the year is when the Blue Lady is seen most often, said Roma Pedneau, an ECU alumna.

"In the fall of 1975 I was walking in front of the Powell Building with a group of friends. We noticed there was a blue light hovering around the bell tower. I was fascinated," she said, "with the fact that someone could be so enthralled about the theatre life that her ghost would come back."

The Blue Lady is not a wicked or hostile ghost. According to a 1974 Eastern Progress story, the Blue Lady has been quite helpful on occasion.

Several years ago a theatre student was looking through a pile of wood in the prop room of Pearl Buchanan Theatre. She tossed several pieces of the wood behind her while searching for a particular piece. Once she found it, she turned and the wood had been stacked neatly into a pile.

On another occasion the theatre had flooded during a University vacation. When the students returned to campus the mess had been cleaned up. However, none of the custodians admitted to having cleaned the theatre during the vacation.

Whether she is a good ghost or a bad one, many people are still frightened by her.

Mike Nelson, student photographer for the Division of Public Information, was in Pearl Buchanan Theatre putting away the cameras and other equipment he had used to take pictures with earlier that fall evening.

"I didn't see the Blue Lady's ghost that night, but I didn't exactly feel like I was alone either," said Nelson. "That was the fastest I'd ever packed the photo equipment. I wanted to get out of there," he said, "and fast."

For centuries thespians have been fond of saying "the show must go on."

And so it does for the ghost of the Blue Lady. The next time you're walking near Pearl Buchanan Theatre on a dark fall night you may be the next witness of the Blue Lady's ghost.

Arlington

by Missy Farmer

Arlington, a furnished three-story Georgian-style mansion, and the 15 acres of land surrounding it, was a gift to the University from W. Arnold Hanger, in memory of his parents, Col. and Mrs. Nancy B. Hanger. The Eastern Kentucky University Foundation purchased the remaining 166 acres of land on the estate.

The Arlington Mansion, located one-half mile west of the University, was built in 1814 by Captain William Arnold, Hanger's grandfather. The mansion has been improved and remodeled over the years.

Arlington offers a swimming pool with regulation lanes for competitive swimming and a separate deep-water pool for springboard diving. For children, there is a wading pool and a playground adjoining the pool area. Six lighted tennis courts and an 18-hole golf course are located on the grounds

Arlington is the site for many social activities. The mansion contains a fine dining room, game room, and areas for private dining. A barn on the property has been completely renovated by the University's Department of Industrial Education and Technology. The "Mulebarn" contains a 16 foot fireplace, a stage area for bands, and a large dance floor.

Arlington serves the academic functions of the University by providing conference facilities, while the estate is used for agricultural, geological, and biological sciences and the recreation program.

All full-time members of the faculty and contracted staff of the University are eligible for membership at Arlington. Alumni who maintain active status in the Alumni Association and have a degree from the University are eligible for membership as are all major benefactors of the University.

Ma Kelly's, A Different Atmosphere

By Julie Clark

College students have traditionally been known to eat massive amounts of junk food. Don't fret, Mom. University students have an alternative—Ma Kelly's Restaurant and genuine home-cooked meals.

Ma Kelly's is set up in a buffet style so the customers can serve themselves, and there are no set prices. Customers are charged according to the amount of food they eat. After the meal, the customer may even leave his mark.

During the past nine years, the walls, the ceiling, and even the cash register have been covered with graffiti.

Many students are regulars at Ma Kelly's. "I go to Ma Kelly's at least once a week because the food is good and the prices are reasonable," said ECU student Dave Gay.

One of the busiest times of the year for owner, Ann Kelly, is Homecoming. The restaurant celebrated its 21st anniversary this year and many alumni still return.

Kelly feels her restaurant is different. "We let them (customers) write on the walls and get their own food. They can holler, or scream, or do whatever they want to around here," she said.

Located on Third Street in Richmond, Ma Kelley's, continues to be a special for Eastern students.

THE CORNER

When school is in session, more students can be found on "The Corner" at mid-day than at any other single location on campus.

The Corner's popularity has probably stemmed from its central location. It is in the heart of the campus in between the bookstore and the Powell Building.

T-SHIRTS

The 1970's brought a personal form of communication that quickly became a part of many college students' wardrobes ... and for good reason. The advantages of T-shirts outweigh the few disadvantages:

- ° They go well with jeans and shorts and often are used for sleepwear.
- ° Economical.
- ° They allow a person to display their personality. Some people even design their own shirts.
- ° An effective means of advertisement.
- ° They come in all colors, styles, and sizes.
- ° Great comfort.
- ° Best of all they never go out of style.

The only disadvantage is that sometimes people often mistake their friends' shirts for their own.

Save Our Students

by Beth Minks

"Look at that car, mommy," said the pre-schooler as she and her mother walked by the junked car parked in front of the Powell Building. "It's all crushed up," she said.

That junk car played an important role in AIDS Awareness Day.

AIDS (acquired immune deficiency syndrome) is a mysterious virus which breaks down the body's immune system. It is found most frequently in homosexuals, hemophiliacs and intravenous drug abusers. The origin of AIDS is said to be from a newly developed variant of a virus that infects a large number of monkey species. There is still no known cure for AIDS since it was first recognized in 1981.

AIDS Awareness Day began with the fall semester when an advanced public relations class surveyed the university students on what they would like more information.

The survey indicated that AIDS was a major concern. With one in every 300 college students infected with the virus, EKV students wanted to know more. They wanted to know what precautions they should take, where they can receive help, and who they can question about the virus.

With these leads the PUB 490 class members began their campaign. In search of answers, the students gathered information about the virus, contacted professionals and eventually organized what became the University's first AIDS Awareness Day.

"AIDS Awareness Day at Eastern is to create a greater awareness among students and those in the campus community about the increasing prevalence of the AIDS virus among college students," said Linda Henson, faculty adviser for the event.

On Dec. 7 students found not only guest speakers, videos and informative literature, but also a junk car. Students and faculty got their chance to strike out against AIDs. Fifty cents brought three swings of the sledge hammer crashing into the junk car. Overall $18 was raised and donated to AmFAR.

Various pamphlets on AIDs are helpful in clearing up misconceptions on the virus.

Phi Kappa Phi, the University's national scholastic honor society, inducted 17 new members.

Admission to Phi Kappa Phi is open to all students in all disciplines. To be a prospective member students must maintain at least a 3.7 GPA for six semesters.

AN ALTERNATIVE

by Missy Farmer

Many students would rather live off-campus than live in a residence hall, however, along with new found freedom comes many responsibilities. Many students feel that it is worth the trouble.

"You can have pets, your own room, and you can have more fun," said Phyllis Combs.

A university regulation does not allow pets in residence halls; off-campus living allows this luxury. Joe Brosky, Wayne Davidson, and Eric Johnson have seven aquariums in their house.

"They provide a calming effect. We can watch the fish for hours," Johnson said.

Some students live off-campus for privacy and to have their own parking convenience.

"I was in the army with 30 other men, and I didn't think I could handle the dorm scene. I enjoy living in my own apartment with only one roommate," said freshman Chris Green. Joc Blandford added, "I know that anytime, day or night, I'll have a parking place."

Although living off-campus sounds great one must look at the down side, the responsibility of paying bills, a regular job, and transportation to and from campus.

"You're cheating. You've got an ace up your sleeve."

This phrase may be heard as you walk down a dormitory hallway on a cold winter night.

Board and card games are popular alternatives during snowy nights when going downtown is next to impossible. "We always play Gin Rummy to relieve our tension. It allows us to call each other names without making anyone mad," said freshman Patti Abell.

Board games have come a long way. Monopoly has been taken over by Pictionary, Scruples and Trivial Pursuit.

Besides games, many students rent VCRs and movies to pass the time. "Renting movies is an inexpensive form of entertainment, especially when a group pitches in to pay for it," Lara Brown said.

Movies today range from action and adventure to raunch and romance, so there is always something for everyone.

Some students stick to the old faithful-TV. "I pray for something good on the boob-tube, fix hot-chocolate and snuggle in my warmest blanket," said Ruth Boling. TV is still the cheapest and cleanest entertainment on campus.

However many types of entertainment available to students the favorite is probably sleep. "Whenever I'm through with my homework and there is nothing else to do I usually catch up on my sleep," said Julie Green.

Twins

When the word "twins" is heard, one may assume it refers to two people who are identical in looks and personality. Their looks may be the same but their personalities are often different.

Being mistaken for your twin can be very frustrating at times, but it can also be exciting.

Five sets of twins share a memorable experience they had.

Jerry and Gary Pierce's friends often do not realize there are two of them.

Gary was rushing a fraternity, and after an activity everyone went to a friend's house. Gary stepped out of the room for a minute just as Jerry walked in. One of Gary's fraternity brothers mistook Jerry for Gary and jokingly hit him in the back of his head. Jerry didn't take it as a joke and was immediately offended. Luckily, Gary came back into the room and straightened everything out.

Shanua and Sherri White had fun switching dates. Sherri accidentally scheduled two dates for the same night. After careful consideration, Shanua decided to take Sherri's place on one date. Fortunately, the man couldn't tell the twins apart. All wasn't lost. All four had a great time and Sherrie was able to continue seeing both men.

Double Dilemma

One day a guy came up to Kim Freeze and began a conversation. Kim wasn't sure she knew him, but continued the conversation anyway. She soon realized that the guy thought he was talking to her twin sister, Kelly. Figuring it would do no harm, she pretended to be Kelly throughout the conversation and the guy never knew the difference.

Melanie and Sidney Roberts call each other "sis" because when they were little, they attended a Catholic school where the nuns were called "sister". This was confusing for the twins because they would answer to "sister". Their solution was to call each other "sis". This in turn caused confusion for others because the easiest way they can be told apart is by their name.

Joe and John Conrad kept friends mystified for several weeks. The Conrads were pledging a fraternity, but some of the activities didn't realize there were two of them. They saw the twins several times a day, not realizing they were twins, and thought the new pledge had kept changing his clothes. This bewildered the active until a big fraternity function Joe and John came together.

The Right Combination

By Missy Farmer

Twenty-five cents.

That's what it takes to mail an average size envelope to anywhere across the continental U.S., and more importantly, to make a student's day.

Eastern is known as a suitcase college. Therefore, many students receive few letters from home because they see friends and relatives most every weekend. Still, they endlessly check their boxes. Why? For junk-mail, of course.

Many credit card agencies and on-campus organizations use the mail system to solicit business or membership.

Students always check their mailboxes. Although there many never be a check from a great aunt or a love letter from a boyfriend or girlfriend, there will always be the FYI.

A message is posted for potential mail thieves.

Students can look forward to receiving at least one piece of mail —FYI.

CAMPUS

By Tammy Howard

University students and faculty didn't have to travel off campus this year to get their fair share of exercise and relaxation.

Located in the center of the University's campus, the Powell Building offers bowling, billiards, video games, and board games as well as a relaxing atmosphere where you can get away from it all.

Powell bowling lanes manager Ron Williams, said "most University students find time to enter his establishment sometime during the year."

For those students more interested in outdoor sports, both Alumni Coliseum and the Weaver Building have swimming pools open year-round. Pool supervisor Dan Lichty said any campus organization, student, faculty member, and their families can use the pools. "On a typical night during the school year we have around 65 to 100 people," he said.

About 15 tennis courts decorate the University's grounds and the Greg Adams Building offers students four indoor courts. "During the year our courts are filled with physical education classes, tennis teams, and students," said Ann Greenwell, Adam's courts supervisor.

Students can also take advantage of the University's Samuels track, Begley weight rooms, and Begley racquetball courts to help in their quest for healthful fun.

Officials at almost all of the campus sports centers agree the high student interest level is due to a health-conscious society.

Timing and form are the essentials of bowling.

FASHION

Old Or New, It's Up To You

By Beth Minks

If there is any single way to prove that history repeats itself, it is through fashion.

Once again we are seeing the same clothes and hairstyles that were popular during previous generations. Crew cuts, bobs, and plaid pants are styles that many college students' parents wore during their college years. Even more amazing is the popularity lace-up boot that were popular for women during the early 1900's.

New on the fashion scene are moon watches, acid washed jeans, and distressed leather bomber jackets.

One advantage of today's fashions is versatility. From sweats and T-shirts to designer suits, almost anything goes.

Model Laboratory School

A School Within A School

Student teaching is the closest thing to "real teaching" a college student will experience said Dr. Stephen A. Henderson director of Model Laboratory school.

The laboratory school at the University has been a part of the teacher education program on the campus since the modern inception of Eastern.

As the only public laboratory school in the Commonwealth it serves the College of Education teacher education program by providing opportunities for pre-service teachers to observe, participate, and learn about teaching before facing the rigors of teaching.

Five other colleges also use the laboratory for field experiences.

The Division of Public Safety is one of the finer services offered to the students.

It provides the same assistance as any police department and provides experience in law enforcement especially helpful to police administration majors.

A shuttle bus provides safe rides for females. It has been running from 6:00 p.m. to 2:00 a.m. on weeknights for 11 years. "The bus has provided a very effective safety mechanism," said Wynn Walker, assistant director.

A somewhat newer addition is the escort service, an alternative when the shuttle service isn't available.

Cadets and officers employed by Public Safety gain valuable practical experience working on a college campus. "The cadets are faced with some of the problems and frustrations that are common to police work," said Walker.

The Division of Public Safety is an independent organization, fully equipped to handle all their own cases.

Students Volunteer For Phonathon

More than 400 students volunteered to raise $75,548 for scholarships and other University programs during Eastern's fourth annual phonathon.

The volunteers asked 13,000 Eastern graduates to make a financial contribution to the University's Alumni Annual Fund during the five-week event.

"The phonathon has provided significant levels of support for our alumni programs and given our students a better understanding of the importance of private support for a public-assisted university like Eastern," said Lana Carnes.

Last year's phonathon raised $51,585 in pledges, exceeding the $50,000 goal.

Members of EKV's student organizations placed calls to alumni on Sunday through Thursday nights. Members of EKV's Student Alumni Association provided additional support for the event, which is coordinated each year by EKV's divisions of Development and Alumni Affairs.

Carnes said the annual project receives considerable support from the local business community in the form of food and prizes for student volunteers.

Dear Santa,

The entire Christmas season for me was not filled with visions of sugarplums, but late night cram feasts.

T'was the season for finals.

While other students were decking the halls I was seriously considering decking my professors. Where was their Christmas spirit? Were comprehensive finals really necessary?

Besides finals, I also had to worry about Christmas shopping. How could I possibly finish my shopping for friends and family while running all over town trying to find masterplots for stories I never read.

I was beginning to feel more like Scrooge every minute. I hated to part with my hard-earned money. But I knew my younger brother and sisters would expect presents from "college", so I went to the bookstore and bought three EKV pencils. Believe it or not, it worked.

I really don't hate Christmas. I love the tradition and the story behind it. I just don't like finals and spending my money. I really do enjoy getting presents; I just hate the hassle of returning them for cash.

The International Touch

By Missy Farmer and Beth Minks

Students from more than 30 foreign countries attend Eastern.

"Why do they come? Eastern has a good program for internationals and provides more help than the big universities," said freshman Sunny Kadri from Bangladesh.

For many the chance to return to their native country to visit with family comes only once a year. Some students will not have a chance to visit family during their four years at ECU.

Coming to a new country can be a lonely and frightening experience.

Dr. Joe Flory and the International Friends program offer these students an opportunity to meet new people and enjoy many social activities.

EKU's International Film Series offers free films that focus on specific countries from Africa to Russia.

International students have a chance to meet new people and to see old friends at cross cultural mixers. These events are held monthly for international students and the general public. All Eastern students are invited to the mixers.

EKU's annual Cultural Festival focuses on cultures from around the world and provide better understanding of a specific country's history, traditions, and customs, and role in the international community.

The International Program provides a unique service to international students and the campus community by bringing a little of the world to Eastern.

Students Lean Toward Healthier Diet

By Beth Minks

Burgers and fries have been lifetime favorites for many students. Now, however, the trend is leaning toward a healthier diet and lifestyle.

“Overall, awareness of nutrition is much better than it once was because of publicity,” said

Sara Sutton, an assistant professor of home economics. Students can hardly open a newspaper without seeing information on nutrition.

Even fast food restaurants are making changes in their menus to accommodate those who prefer salads, baked potatoes, and grilled chicken rather than fried foods.

Although many students are eating healthier, there are still times when they resort to junk food. The college student's lifestyle is a fast-paced one. As a result, it's often easier to grab a soft drink and a snack than to take time for a meal.

Budget is another consideration. Buying fresh produce and products with special dietary ingredients can become quite costly. Junk foods also come in handy when students are burning the mid-night oil.

The toughest part of all is having will-power. After all, who can refuse when their roommate says, “Let's order a big goeey pizza?”

Students have been leaning towards salads as a substitute for the traditional junk food.

Students tend to grab a snack rather than prepare a meal. No one can resist pizza.

Tight budgets can keep students from buying the fresh produce and other nutritional foods.

Weaver Houses WELLNESS CENTER

Blood screening, fitness and lifestyle assessments, and exercise programs are now being offered to the University's faculty and staff through the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics' new Wellness Program.

The wellness program developed from the need to provide experience for students entering the health and recreation industry, said Dr. Wayne Jennings, chair of HPER&A's wellness committee.

Rob Bowers, a graduate student in health education, is one of several students gaining experience at the Wellness center.

"I was a PE major," he said, "and I would like to eventually coach track at the college level."

"This job, like coaching, involves helping people train themselves in productive ways," he said. "I'm looking forward to the experience."

Another Wellness Center student is Holly Heitzman, a senior athletic training and adult fitness major from Cincinnati.

"This relates directly to what I study in my major," she said. She said she was interested in pursuing a career in sports medicine once she graduates.

Jennings said with the expressed interest of many faculty to participate in the programs, improved wellness should eventually help slow the increasing costs of health insurance at the university.

Health education students will be providing educational activities such as "I Quit," a smoking cessation program, and stress management instruction. The center will also offer a variety of physical activities including jogging, walking, aerobic dancing, swimming, racquetball, weight training, and exercise machines.

There comes a time in most every student's college career when they have to say "to heck with the books tonight." Sometimes it's to avoid burnout. Sometimes it's just to take a break. Other times ... well who knows?

Over 3,000 Receive Degrees

By Missy Farmer

According to Webster's Dictionary, to graduate means to hold an academic degree or diploma, but for students who graduated in the Spring, Summer and December of 1988, graduation meant much more.

Students look forward to being really on their own; no more classes, finals, or long lines. Although most were glad to leave the academics behind they looked toward the future with anxiety.

Many students wished for this day for at least four years, once it had arrived there was an air of sadness surrounding the festivities. Among the hugs and congratulations there was also a feeling of relief. They had survived EKU.

The games brought more than 2,500 children and adults who suffer mental retardation to Richmond for Olympic-style competition. More than 600 coaches, 300 families and 1,500 volunteers also participated in the state-wide summer games.

EKU will also host the 1989 summer games. "We are pleased to host the two state-wide summer games," said President Hanly Funderburk. "Eastern has long recognized the outstanding contributions Kentucky Special Olympics have made to the physical, social, and psychological development of individuals with mental retardation."

Kentucky Special Olympics is a program of physical fitness, sports training, recreation, and athletic competition for children and adults who are mentally handicapped.

ACADEMICS

President Hanly Funderburk

Eastern Kentucky University, under the leadership of the institution's eighth president, Dr. Hanly Funderburk, reached out to its service region this year with unprecedented levels of programs and services.

Dr. Funderburk led the effort to take educational and public service programs to central and southeastern Kentucky. University faculty and staff taught increased numbers of off-campus classes, conducted more research projects and provided numerous services to the people in Kentucky's 5th and 6th congressional districts, which are historically among the poorest and least educated in the nation.

"Eastern's doors have been open to thousands of Kentuckians for many years," he said, "but the time has come for us to take our programs and services to the people who need them. It is to this end that we have recommitted ourselves and our resources."

On campus, Dr. Funderburk oversaw enhancement of EKU's academic scholarship program and pointed with pride as the University enrolled the first class in a new academic honors program. Enrollments increased for a 13th consecutive term, and projections point to a near all-time record enrollment for the 1989 fall semester.

The president continued to push for salary improvements for the University's faculty and staff, and significant progress was made in this "very important priority." In fact, among Kentucky's regional universities, EKU advanced from third to first place in terms of faculty and staff compensation.

The president was pleased with "significant progress" made in recognizing and rewarding outstanding teaching, which he termed "what we do best at Eastern." Six faculty members were honored with EKU Foundation Professorships, and two members of the faculty were recognized with the first EKU National Alumni Association Awards for Teaching Excellence.

Dr. Funderburk with wife Helen.

Dr. Funderburk also focused his efforts to improve communications with the University's constituency groups — students, faculty and staff, parents, alumni, and other friends — and to involve those groups with the University.

BOARD OF REGENTS

Eastern's ten-member board or Regents — the University's official policy-making and statutory governing body — had a busy 1988-89 academic year.

In July, President Hanly Funderburk reported to the regents that EKV had received $3.4 million from external funding agencies to conduct more than 100 research and public service projects during the preceding fiscal year. He also noted that a record $1,242,245 in private gifts were given by 8,830 donors during 1987-88.

In the fall, the board revised the Model Laboratory School admission policy to bring current policy more in line with current needs. The laboratory school provides support of teacher preparation and programs for in-service teachers and school systems. About 800 students are enrolled in classes from nursery school through high school.

Two new four-year degree programs in aviation education were approved in January to help meet the national shortage of aviation professionals. The bachelor's degree programs are designed to prepare graduates for careers as professional pilots, aviation administrators, and in other related areas of aeronautics.

The programs are among only six new programs created in the past 10 years. The University has suspended 43 degree programs during the same time period, usually because of low enrollment.

Two new regents, James T. Gilbert of Berea and Joseph E. Lambert of Mt. Vernon, joined the EKV board this year.

VICE PRESIDENTS

Eastern's five vice presidents work together to unify the University and to ensure that policies are implemented.

Dr. John Rowlett, vice president for academic affairs and research, serves as dean of the faculties and chief academic officer. Dr. Thomas Myers, vice president for student affairs, is responsible for student life, welfare, and student issues.

Earl Baldwin, vice president for business affairs and chief financial officer for the University, is also responsible for personnel accounting and purchasing.

Donald R. Feltner, vice president for university relations and development, is the chief of advancement officer. He is responsible for public information, alumni affairs and development.

Dr. Joseph Schwendeman, vice president for administrative affairs, his responsibilities included the physical plant, the computer center, Special Programs, and Hummel Planetarium.

The University's College of Allied Health and Nursing is the leading producer of health care professionals at the undergraduate level in Kentucky.

During the past 30 years, nearly 4,000 nursing and allied health care professionals have completed academic and clinical preparation at EKV. About three-fourths of them are graduate registered nurses who have completed either two-year or four-year programs of study. The others have entered the work force as professionals in medical record science, occupational therapy, medical technology, medical assisting technology, emergency medical care, and environmental health science.

The faculty strives to provide quality classroom, clinical, and laboratory instruction using innovative teaching strategies. The college's low student-teacher ratio is to insure individualized instruction, close supervision of students participating in field experiences and internships at more than 130 health care agencies, and intensive student-faculty interaction.

Students who receive postsecondary education from the University's College of Applied Arts and Technology understand the special relationship that must exist between high technology and the society which it serves.

Many of these first-generation college students leave the Richmond campus with a degree and a commitment to use their new-found knowledge to help make the world a better place in which to live and work.

Eastern's College of Applied Arts and Technology is organized into five departments: industrial education and technology, agriculture, home economics, mass communications and military science. All emphasize utilization of technology and hands-on, career-oriented instruction.

Applied arts and technology graduates are successful as both managers and technicians. The broad-based academic program successfully combines classroom lecture with laboratory work and also provides a strong background in business, liberal arts, and human relations courses.

The solid reputation of the academic programs, faculty involvement with business and industry, and outstanding performance of graduates have led in recent years to an increased level of understanding and commitment to the programs of the college.

The University continues to be Kentucky's largest producer of public school teachers and administrators.

Through the College of Education, the university has responded to state and national calls for reform in teacher education through specific activities designed to make qualitative improvements in academic programs and to prepare for projected teacher shortages of the 1990's.

Convinced that higher standards attract better students, the university has raised its entry-level standards several times in recent years for those declaring an interest in teacher education. The College of Education was one of the first to initiate a comprehensive system of initial competency testing in important basic skills.

Recent studies focusing on teacher education point to the crucial need for early and extensive involvement with children and youth. The university teacher education program incorporates a pre-student teaching requirement of 150 contact hours with young people in a variety of educational settings; at least half of those hours are direct contact hours.

The university operates Kentucky's only laboratory school for the purpose of providing such opportunities for its students. Model Laboratory School provides instructional programs for pre-school, elementary and secondary school children and serves as a unique learning environment for the university teacher education students. This partnership with the public schools not only provides valuable and much-needed assistance but also improves pre-service programs for future teachers.

A Year To Celebrate

Coach Roy Kidd's football team saw its 1988 season end one game short of the national championship contest as the homestanding Georgia Southern Eagles held off a late Colonel charge in the semifinal round game, 21-17.

Despite losing 22 lettermen, 11 starters and eight All-Ohio Valley Conference players, Kidd, his staff and his players put together a fabulous 11-3 record and a perfect 6-0 OVC-winning season.

"Nobody ever dreamed that this team would go this far and have this kind of season. But they were a special bunch of young men. They played hard every game and had a lot of determination. For that reason, the loss was tough on a lot of people," said Kidd.

EKU had nine all-conference players and two All-Americans this past season. All-OVC players included tailback Elroy Harris, wide receiver Mike Cadore, tight end Oscar Angulo, center Mike Delvisco, fullback Tim Lester, guard Mike Kelly, end Jessie Small, linebacker Chris Coffey and safety Kelly Cutright.

Gaining All-American status was Harris, named to the Kodak and Walter Camp Football Foundation teams, and Small who was a Kodak All-American. Sophomore defensive back Mark Canady of Barbourville was named to the GTE-CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America) District IV Academic All-American team.

Harris, from Maitland, Fla., the OVC's Player of the Year, led all I-AA rushers in rushing yards per game (154.3) and scoring (12.8) in regular season contests. He set 14 school or OVC records this year as he came up just two yards shy of 2,000 yards rushing 1,998 yards in 371 carries and 27 TD's scored. He rushed for 100 or more yards in every game this season except the first Western Kentucky game when he sat out the fourth quarter with a shoulder bruise. He has now accomplished this feat in 28 of his last 31 collegiate games.

Lester, of Miami, Fla., was also a 1,000-yard rusher as he picked up 1,239 yards in 216 carries and scored seven TD's. ECU quarterback Lorenzo Fields of Wildwood, Fla., set an ECU single season record for best passing percentage as he hit 62.7 of his passes (101-161 for 1,463 yards and 10 touchdowns) in 1988. Fields also rushed for 418 yards and four other scores.

Although ECU led the nation in rushing yardage per game (303.0), ECU's receivers also had outstanding seasons. Junior flanker Randy Bohler of Miami, Fla., led the way with 34 catches for 588 yards and three TD's, followed by Cadore of Titusville, Fla., (26-370-3) and Angulo of Miami, Fla., (18-283-4). Cadore also added 269 yards rushing and scored five TD's on reverses.

Coffey, a sophomore from Knoxville, Tenn., led the way on defense with 85 tackles and 81 assists. He paced the OVC in this category during the regular season. Small led the conference in tackles for losses with 19 for a negative 85 yards, including 13 quarterback sacks. Cutright, a senior from Ashland and one of the team's leaders on defense, was ECU's second-leading tackler with 74 tackles and 46 assists.

ECU finished seventh in the final I-AA poll and set 34 school and OVC records in team or individual categories during the 1988 season.

Team Pars The Season

"The season started fairly well, then improved as we entered the J. Owens Tournament," said Coach Lew Smither. "We went to the Kepler and Akron Tournaments and played poorly but we pulled through to finish our season on a good note."

During the season, the golf team attained a ranking of sixth in the district which includes 60 to 65 schools.

The most valuable player was not chosen. However Smither felt if one were picked it would have been senior, Fred Mattingly "because of his consistency of play and scoring."

Going For The 'Winning Colors'

The University's volleyball team faced a demanding 34-match schedule this season. This, however, did not discourage a team that had hopes of winning the post season tournament and beating the regionally ranked teams.

The team started it's season with losses to some tough teams.

"We played the top ranking teams in September. It was a tough month," said assistant coach Stu Sherman. "We showed real competitiveness against the teams, but still lost."

However, this didn't break the Colonel's spirit. "The girls are fighters," Sherman said. "They jumped in and did what had to be done to have a chance to win the post season tournament."

After long hard practices the Colonels entered the OVC championship with high hopes of beating archrival Morehead State. Injuries to key starters forced head coach Geri Polvino to rely on less-experienced players. Despite all odds the Colonels gained revenge over the Lady Eagles, 15-11, 5-15, 15-7, 15-8.

The OVC Championship trophy went to Morehead because of regular season standings. However, the Colonels were named post season tournament champions.

Five Eastern players received recognition following the tournament. Selected on the All-tournament team were juniors Kathy Murray and Nancy Borkowski and sophomore Sue Antkowiak. Murray and Antkowiak were also named to the All-OVC team, and first-year starters Becky Klein and Jennifer James were selected for the OVC's All-freshman squad.

Team Faced Tough Schedule

By Rob Ellington

With the loss of seven players from last season's 18-11 squad, to say that the 1988-89 Colonels would be rebuilding would be an understatement.

Head Coach Max Good welcomed nine new faces to the Eastern basketball scene and a player who returned to the program after a two-year hiatus.

The Colonels lost Randolph Taylor, their most experienced inside player, to a pre-season knee injury, Vernon Evans to a knee problem from last season, Eric Sinclair to academic woes, and highly-prized recruit Derek Rueben to Proposition 48.

The Colonels lost 10 of their first 11 games, including games to arch-rival Western Kentucky, Pac-10 power Washington State, Mid-America Conference standout Ohio, and perennial national power Louisville.

"Our schedule is as tough as we figured it would be before the season began," said Good.

The only win during that stretch was a 95-85 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan at Alumni Coliseum.

Eastern opened league play by beating rival Morehead State, 62-59, in Morehead, which prompted Good to comment, "I am pleased for our players and coaches who have worked so hard to overcome all the problems we've faced this year. They have never hung their heads, moaned, groaned or complained."

The Colonels returned home and dropped back-to-back games to two of the OVC's elite, Austin Peay, 97-71, and Murray State, 63-40. Middle Tennessee handed the Colonels a 82-67 setback in a nationally-televised game on ESPN. The Colonels knocked off Tennessee State, 59-54, in Nashville ville before losing, 57-54, to Tennessee Tech.

Good was not all displeased with his squad's performance. "We've played a winning defense in a lot of our games this year only to come up on the short end of the score," he said.

Without Taylor, Eastern relied on the experienced play of Darrin O'Bryant and Jerry Goodin and center Nelson Davie. Good was forced to jumble his starting line-up with injuries and inexperience.

Five freshmen were part-time starters in the early season, including Kirk Greathouse, Mike Davis, a junior college transfer who started 11 games and scored 32 points in the season opening loss to UNC-Asheville, and freshmen replacement Larry Blakeney, who started to show his offensive prowess, at a forward position.

At press time, the team hoped to finish in the top four in the final OVC standings. This would lead to a home game in the first round of the OVC tournament.

Many observers agree that though this team has certainly traveled a rocky road, a return to the top of the OVC in the next few years is almost a certainty.

He has put together back-to-back seasons of 19 and 18 wins, respectively. These 37 wins represent the best consecutive season victory totals in the last 40 years of Eastern basketball.

Good received Coach of the Year honors and was selected as Central Kentucky Conference Coach of the Year.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

New Coach Turns Team Around

by Rob Ellington

The arrival of Larry Inman as the head coach of the University's Lady Colonel basketball team helped close a stormy chapter in the women's program.

Inman, who had a career record of 161-73 at OVC rival Middle Tennessee, brought an aggressive style of basketball to Eastern, on both ends of the court.

"This is the least talented team I've ever had, but it's the best in terms of heart and desire" said Inman before the season, "I can't deal with players who don't give their all."

The Lady Colonels opened their 88-89 campaign with a championship in the Lady Panther Invitational in Pittsburgh. Eastern stunned host Pittsburgh, 88-79, in the first round, and beat Eastern Michigan, 69-61, in the tourney championship.

Eastern defeated in-state foe Louisville, 68-55, in the home opener. Three straight losses to Marshall, Cincinnati, and Bowling Green State ended the 1988 game action at 3-3.

A 25-day break concluded with a Florida road trip, as the Lady Colonels split a pair of games, beating Rollins, 84-70, and losing a 102-98 shoot-out to Stetson. A 78-71 loss to Western Carolina then concluded the pre-conference season.

After losing a 75-69 battle to Morehead State in the OVC opener, Eastern stepped out of the OVC and into the SEC for a non-conference battle with the Kentucky Lady Cats. Kentucky won, 83-77, in overtime, despite 26 points and 18 rebounds from senior forward Latonya Fleming.

EKU beat Austin Peay, 68-66, and lost to Murray State, 66-63, before winning what some consider to be the biggest OVC win in Eastern women's basketball history.

Decided underdogs against homestanding Middle Tennessee, Eastern responded by drubbing the Lady Raiders 82-67, despite trailing at the half, 45-32.

"Somebody pinch me; I must be dreaming," Coach Inman said following the win, which happened on the same court where he built an OVC power during his 8-year tenure at MTSU.

Struggling to a 81-71 defeat of Tennessee State, the Lady Colonels met Tennessee Tech, the pre-season OVC favorite, losing, 90-66, to go to 7-9 on the season.

The team's improvement is obvious, and the Lady Colonels hope to win a birth in the OVC Tournament, where they have not been a mainstay in the past.

"Our players are finally beginning to click offensively," said Inman. "The cuts and screens are good, the passing is sharper, and the shot selection is much better."

Besides Fleming, the Lady Colonels were led offensively by center

Cheryl Palmer, Kelly Conan, Angie Cox, and Angie Bryant.

At 6'3", Sherrie Clark adds a dimension that Eastern's women's basketball program has lacked in the past: an intimidating big player. Kim Hatley, Aquanta Milligan, and veteran Tina Reece add quality depth.

If Inman can repeat his success in Richmond, the turmoil that has recently plagued the Eastern women's program will soon be forgotten.

Larry Inman began his first season as head coach of the Lady Colonels basketball team. He has never had a losing season at any level of coaching and has been voted the OVC Coach of the year four times. He also has been Nashville's Interscholastic League Coach of the Year four times.

MEN'S CROSS COUNTRY

Runners-up in OVC

The men's cross country team finished the season on a strong note. They fell short of a first place title in the OVC Tournament by only three points. Dave Hawes became the first freshman in the University's history to take an OVC title.

Although the men didn't compete as a team in the NCAA District III meet, they did have two runners compete individually. Dave Hawes finished 100th while teammate Kent Hattery placed 157th.

The Most Valuable Player award went to Michael Carter.

Despite being a young and somewhat inexperienced team, the Colonels saw a successful season come to a close with strong finishes in several large meets and finishing as OVC runners-up.

Wins Seventh OVC Title

The women's cross country team finished another excellent season taking their seventh consecutive OVC title. Lisa Mallory took the individual title in 17:59, a new record for the Murray State Course. All seven Eastern runners finished within the top 12 places.

Head coach Rick Erdmann was very pleased with the Women's tie for third place in the NCAA District III. He said he felt the Colonels proved themselves by running with the nation's best and having such a strong finish.

The team proved themselves off the track as well. Allison Kotch added another academic honor to her list of achievements by being named to the GTE-Cosida District 4 Academic All-American At-Large team.

Jackie Humphrey was named Most Valuable Player. She also competed in the 1988 Summer Olympics.

The team had an outstanding season that also shows great promise for next season.

Erdmann has been chosen OVC Coach of the Year on ten occasions. He has also been chosen as National Junior College Cross Country Coach of the Year.

Colonels Step Up To Bat

The University's baseball team started its 87-88 season with an 11-1 loss to Western Carolina. However, the team showed the talent it is famous for throughout the rest of the season by defeating some strong teams. Once again, superior leadership was provided by Coach Jim Ward.

Seven Colonels were named All-OVC players, and rightfielder

Scott Privitera was selected as the 1988 Northern Division Player of the Year. Chosen as pitchers on the all-division team were Randy White and Rusty Clark. Others named were third baseman Ron Pezzoni, second baseman Frank Kremblas, shortstop Marc Seimer and left fielder Shea Wardell.

Eastern closed its season with a 34-22 overall record and as champions of Northern Division of the OVC.

The Colonel's have set their sights on recapturing the Ohio Valley Conference Championship which they won in 1984, 1985, and 1986. Coach Ward is optimistic due to the strength of his returning players.

Making the opponent bite the dust is a heels over head experience for Colonel catcher Steve Smith.

In 1981, under Coach Ward's direction, EKU led the nation in the greatest improvement in the number of wins (26) with 37 victories following an 11-20 record in 1980. ## Team In Top Half of OVC

The University's men's tennis team started the season with a loss to East Tennessee. However, with high spirits and a good attitude they bounced back to win the next several matches. The team played about average throughout the season without any major changes in their performances.

The Colonels placed fourth out of eight in the OVC. "I was disappointed because I had anticipated doing better than we did," said Coach Tom Higgins.

Kevin Lindley, 5th seed, was voted most valuable player. He was chosen because of his performance on the court and the best win-loss record (18-13 in singles and 18-14 in doubles).

The team finished the season with an overall record of 14-12.

Women's Tennis

Team Determined To Overcome All Obstacles

The team played strongly the entire year. There were a few downfalls due to injuries of the second and fourth seeds. That put our third and fifth seeds against the opposing team, said coach Sandy Martin.

Due to uncontrollable circumstances the women's tennis team had no coach during the OVC tournament. Martin was forced to sit out of the tournament because of a death in her family. Throughout the season Martin trained the team members to be both independent and to work together as a team. All the intense training paid off when the OVC tournament arrived. The women made decisions the coach would normally make, like what time to get up, where to go, and what time to be there. "The entire team did a fabulous job, and I'm very proud of them," said Martin. The team finished five points from the championship.

Pam Wise and Nikki Wagstaff were chosen as most valuable players. Wise was chosen most valuable player by her teammates and Wagstaff was chosen OVC player of the year. Wagstaff received this honor by defeating Murray's number one player in a challenging three-hour match. She had lost to the undefeated Murray player twice earlier in the season.

FIELD HOCKEY

A MATTER OF PRIDE

By Tammy Howard

Successful Eastern athletic teams have always been a matter of pride and for the womens field hockey, this year was no different.

The Colonels returned only three starters from last year's team that went 14-7, and with only one non-Division I opponent on the schedule, head coach Linda Sharpless predicted "the toughest schedule in ECU field hockey history."

And so it was.

The season began on a rocky road when the Colonels lost, 2-1, against Miami of Ohio and then were shut out, 3-0, by Central Michigan.

"We played better than Miami, especially in the second half, as we started playing well together and controlling the game," she said. "We went into the last period leading, 1-0. Then they scored and we lost our composure."

However, at Central Michigan, the story was a different one.

"We just didn't play well. They had very good stick work and moved better. They just played better," Sharpless said.

The path didn't get any clearer when the Colonels went to Virginia. There they won only one of three games.

The lone win was over Radford College with the 1-0 victory coming off senior attacker Tammy Vrooman's goal.

After the first five games the Colonels returned to Hood Field to defeat Appalachian State, Berea, and Bellarmine, 2-0, 12-0, and 5-0, respectively.

Another split on the road saw Eastern losing, 2-1, against Kent State before bouncing back to defeat Davis & Elkins, 1-0.

Eastern defeated Louisville, 4-1, but lost to 19th-ranked St. Louis University, 1-0.

The team followed with another 4-1 victory over Louisville and a, 2-2, tie with Ohio University.

The Colonels' competed in the Midwest Championships, but luck didn't go in Eastern's favor.

After falling to South Illinois, 4-0, ECU defeated the University of Louisville, 2-1, in a consolation game that went into overtime. The Colonels finished in fifth place in the tournament.

Seniors DeeDee Carley, Kelly Kierman and Tammy Vrooman were named to the All-Tournament team. Karen Tatum, a senior attacker, received Honorable Mention. Pam Haley was named an All-South Region Honorable Mention player by the College Field Hockey Association.

The women's field hockey team ended the 1988 season with a record of 8-8-2.

Linda Sharpless

Linda Sharpless begins her second season as women's field hockey coach. She began coaching field hockey at Willingboro, N.J.

In Sharpless' first year at the University, the Colonels responded with a 14-7 record — the most victories in a single season — and captured the prestigious Midwest Independents Field Hockey Championship for the first time.

Along with her coaching duties, Sharpless also serves as assistant director of intramural sports.

CHEERLEADERS

Providing School Spirit

The Universal Cheerleading Association presented the ECU cheerleading squad with awards for the outstanding squad, sideline cheer, and fight song.

According to captain Rob Hays, the awards were well-deserved. The squad spends at least six hours each week practicing and additional hours leading cheers during football and basketball games.

“Cheerleading is a sport and it demands great physical and mental strength,” said Hays. “You have to have strength, rhythm, and a good cardiovascular system. You can’t be shaky. You have to be confident and have good mental stability.”

The squad feels a strong sense of responsibility to the students. Not only do they have to be good athletes, said Hays, but they also want to be good role models and earn the students’ respect.

Their major goals are to increase student support at athletic events and to represent the students to the best of their ability.

Roy Kidd Celebrates 25th Year

By Bob Monroe

One day in the fall of 1963, assistant football coach Roy Kidd was called to the office of Eastern president Robert R. Martin. To save some money, the 31-year-old Kidd had recently applied for a dormitory room. He figured Martin's summons was in response to his request.

Instead, Martin asked Kidd to replace head football coach Glenn Presnell, who was going to take over as athletic director. Kidd immediately accepted the job and left Martin's office, never asking about the salary.

Although he was in his first year as assistant coach at Eastern, Kidd was hardly a stranger to coaching. For six years, he had been head coach at Richmond's Madison High School, compiling a 54-10-1 record along the way. That success prompted Morehead State to hire Kidd as an assistant in 1962. The following year, he became an assistant at Eastern.

Kidd was hardly a stranger to Eastern Kentucky State College, either. As a high schooler in his native Corbin, he declined a scholarship from University of Kentucky football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant. Instead, Kidd elected to come to Eastern, which, unlike Kentucky, allowed him to play baseball as well as football. In addition to lettering in baseball, Kidd earned all-Ohio Valley Conference honors in football as a quarterback. After completing his eligibility he became a student assistant with the team in 1954.

In his first year as head coach, Kidd led his team to a 3-5-1 mark, up from 2-8 the previous season. It is one of only two losing seasons the Colonels' coach has posted.

In 1988, Governor Wallace Wilkinson declared November 19 as Roy Kidd Day throughout the Commonwealth. The day coincided with the final regular season game of Kidd's 25th year as Eastern's coach. The Colonels easily defeated Morehead State to give Kidd his 197th coaching victory.

Included in those wins are two NCAA Division I-AA national championships (1979 and 1982), two national runners-up (1980 and 1981) and a Mid-east Regional championship (1967 Gantland Rice Bowl).

Of which team is Kidd the proudest? "It's hard to pinpoint any," the coach says. "As much as anything, I'm proud of seeing these kids come in here as teenagers, develop and mature into adults, adjust to college life and football, go out of here with a degree and make something of themselves.

"I'm just as proud of that as I am any conference or national championships," he says.

If there's one thing that can equal Kidd's regard for his players, it may be the players' regard for Kidd. Many former players still keep in touch with Kidd, recalling the coach's honesty and fairness.

"My philosophy on coaching is about the same as it is on life," Kidd states. "I try to treat people the way I'd like to be treated."

Perhaps the best indication of the winning tradition Kidd has brought to the program is a sign on the press box overlooking Hanger Field: "a matter of pride." Nevertheless, the coach is not satisfied to simply rest on his laurels. After a quarter-century of coaching, the 56-year-old Kidd still looks eagerly to the future, rejecting any notion of retirement.

"I haven't even given it a thought," he proclaims. "As long as I enjoy coming to work, I'm going to keep at it. I still enjoy it."

"We had 400 of the best high school players come to play and march with us at the home football games," explained Whitlock, director for the University's marching band.

Indeed, marching at home football games was most of what the band spent 1988-1989 doing. Whitlock said this year the group also performed at two away games.

"We played at halftime of the Western Kentucky University-Eastern game, at Western. Then while we were down there we also performed an exhibition show in Glasgow," Whitlock said.

He added that the band also decided against the annual Highlights concert so it could have the high school day.

This year's band had around 100-200 members and was led by field commander John Francis, a senior.

MILESTONE Staff Capturing The Moments

Capturing the college experiences of Eastern's students in photographs and in print is the main purpose of EKU's yearbook, MILESTONE.

Although the memories may be fresh in students' minds now, in the years to come nothing will recapture those memories quite as vividly as their college yearbooks.

Putting the MILESTONE together is a time-consuming job. The 10-member staff spends most every weekday afternoon and occasional weekends drawing layouts, writing copy, or taking photographs.

Although the work requires a great amount of time and dedication, it also has its rewards. In addition to academic credit, there is also a sense of pride that goes along with the accomplishment of a 288-page publication, not to mention traveling and other bonuses that go with the job.

Christian Student Fellowship

By Amy Sammons

Christian Student Fellowship members meet in front of the Keen Johnson Building before weekly trips.

Christian Student Fellowship (CSF) is a non-denominational group whose main purpose is to "bring students closer to Christ," said President Danny McBride.

Each week CSF meets at a different home in the Madison County area. These meetings are for fellowship, prayer, and perhaps even a home-cooked meal. In addition to these weekly meetings, CSF also holds prayer sessions devotion sessions, Sunday school, and fellowship night. CSF members can also be found cheering for the colonels at every home football game.

CSF plans numerous activities throughout the year. These include: hayrides, retreats, Halloween and Christmas parties, Parent's Day, and the Alumnae Dinner.

CSF offers students a chance to become closer to Christ, to make new Christian friends, and to get away from the stress of everyday campus life.

Christian Student Fellowship originated in the 1960's under the name Outreach of Christian Churches in Madison County. The group is supported by donations from Christian Churches in Kentucky.

RESIDENCE HALL ASSOCIATION Striving To Enrich The Lives Of Students

By Karen Abernathy

As a governing body at Eastern, the Residence Hall Association (RHA) strives to enrich the lives of the 6,500 students who live on campus. RHA provides campus-wide activities, both social and educational. Besides programs, RHA serves as a channel to voice the problems and concerns of the students to the administration. Representatives from RHA serve on several universities committees, including Council of Affairs, PRIDE, and Housing Appeals. Changes affecting residence hall life are addressed through the RHA policy committee.

RHA offered a full schedule of programs this year. Residents enjoyed such traditional activities as the Monster Bash, the Bridal Show, the United Way Fund, and Safety Awareness programs. In addition to the traditional favorites, a Ritzy's 50's Week, Little Siblings Weekend, and others were added to the calendar of events.

Residence Hall Association continues to support the growth of coeducational living on Eastern's campus, as an option for students. A coeducational community can be an exciting and educational experience for all involved.

The channels of communication between residents and RHA were expanded with the establishment of (HAL) Hall Assistance Line. HAL provides a 24-hour contact for students to express concerns, ask questions or share ideas involving the residence hall environment.

Students involved in hall government benefit from training sessions and state, regional, and national residence hall leadership conferences. Knowledge gathered at these conferences is brought back and filtered to the residents through various programs.

"The residence hall is no longer a place to just sleep and study," said RHA president Karen Abernathy. "It is an environment full of living and learning. Residence hall life is the key to the total university experience."

COMMITTED TO EXCELLENCE AND LEADERSHIP

by: Amy Sammons and Missy Farmer

“Committed to Excellence” is a motto heard repeatedly in Eastern’s Army ROTC program. “The program’s main goal is to commission the future officer leadership of the United States Army,” said Major Ken Duncan. The ROTC program has the largest junior class in the state of Kentucky. Cadets participate in annual competitions with other schools, and recently won the 2nd ROTC Region Commanders’ Trophy for Training Excellence. The 2nd ROTC region is composed of schools in nine surrounding states.

Once a year Eastern hosts the Ranger Challenge Competition in which nine other schools participate.

Eastern tied for second at the last competition.

Lt. Col. David Reimold, professor of Military Science, said, "The University's ROTC program has an outstanding reputation widely known throughout the country."

Every spring ROTC holds an annual Military Ball in the Keen Johnson Building. The ball is conducted by the cadets. In November the Army ROTC Alumnae Appreciation Day was held. All high schools in Kentucky were invited to attend. In December the first Dining In Formal Military Ball was held.

The ROTC program participated in the Southern Legislative Conference in Lexington. They also support all home football and basketball games by serving as color guard. In September the annual awards day was held at the Mule Barn. The awards given at this event were the George C. Marshall Award given to Chris Blombach. This award is for the most outstanding senior ROTC cadet. Lance Smythe received the American Defense and Preparedness Association Award. This award is for exceptional interest and leadership pertaining to defense. The outstanding cadets in the Military Science classes were also selected at this event.

STUDENT SENATE

Bridging The Gap Between Students and Administration

By Sheryl Edelen

Student Senate is the legislative branch of the EKU Student Association.

This year Student Senate addressed the inadequate parking situation, resulting in over 300 new parking spaces added to the campus.

The Watchdog Hotline, a 24-hour phone number students may call to voice opinions, complaints, or suggestions pertaining to campus problems, was also installed.

"It was from that hotline," said SA President Hunter Bates, "that we received insistance for the renovation of the grill."

Also as a result of the Watchdog Hotline, arrangements are being made to recruit students to help paint the weightroom in the Begley Building and to obtain new equipment.

Student Senate distributes the annual student phone directory and participates in many campus activities. These include the annual Fall Festival and Spring Fling, Big Pals/Little Pals, and banner contests.

Plans are underway for an entire week of campus celebration during Spring 1989. This would include a carnival and a major concert.

"The Goal of the Student Senate is to help students adjust to academics and student life. It is also to involve the students and to help them get the most out of not only their education, but social opportunities as well," said Bates.

Dozens of extra-curricular activities are offered on campus, but many people agree that none are as beneficial or rewarding as the Greek experience.

Although each Greek organization functions separately, they are bonded together through the Panhellenic and the Inter-Fraternity Council to form the Greek system

The Greek system provides students with the opportunity to grow socially as well as intellectually. They promote leadership and responsibility. These experiences give the individual a chance to realize his or her full potential. Students who participate in the Greek system develop life long friendships and memories of their college activities that will benefit them and guide them through the rest of their lives

Closing

Although the lights have dimmed and the stage is dark, the players will long remember the events that fashioned the year.

Editor's Notes

Looking back, it seems as though the year has gone by like a flash. It was full of important and memorable events. Unfortunately, condensing all of them into 288 pages was next to impossible.

My staff and I spent hundreds of hours producing a book that we hope depicts the year as you saw it. I owe a world of thanks to these people. Through their dedication and determination, they proved that a small staff can be just as efficient as a large one.

I present to you, the students, the 1989 MILESTONE in hopes that it meets your expectations. I wish you all the best.

Sincerely,

Beth A. Minks
