

That Moment

Bradley Johnson

There is just something about it...
Something you'll chase for the rest of your life
That feeling of being, at once, helpless and totally in control
The badoom, badoom, badoom of an M2
Feeling the recoil as you press the trigger
The snaps and whistles of gunfire passing by
The feeling that in that single moment, you are God on Earth
And that the weight of the world is on you
It's an interesting dichotomy, kill or don't Make the choice not to and you may be on the wrong end of a bullet
It's the instant that you make a decision
It will haunt you, It will chase you
There is just something about it
In that one single moment that you make a decision...
Someone will die.
You?
Them?