The Point of Sport

By Arnold Kaech
Director, Swiss School of Sport and Gymnastics, Macolin

EDITOR'S NOTE: The question asked in the title of this presentation is frequently put to those engaged in administering and directing athletic and sport programs. Thus, the author's comment is of particular interest to educators.

Why do we try, so often and so hard, to find a justification for sport?

Sport as a means for improving health? As if the agonized strain of the runner at the tape, the skier's mad rush past crags and trees, or the battered face of the boxer, had anything to do with health!

Sport as a means of forming character and will-power? As if character could not be trained better in the "ordinary course of life," or will-power tested more searchingly by something less absurd than setting up a record!

Sport as a means for bringing the nations closer together? As if the brotherhood of athletes were anything but a pure illusion, seen side by side with the howling jingoism of the on-lookers, and the jaundiced reports of journalists, for whom any winner is a national hero!

Why should we run after a justification for sport? Why insist on making it utilitarian, and give it an end outside itself? Because, doubtless, we live in a time that claims "that every undertaking must be useful, and every man must let himself be used ; and because we can neither imagine nor accept the idea of sport as self-sufficient, owning no particular aim, and finding its true sense and justification precisely in its detachment from material things.

We can be glad that sport is good for health; that sport can mould character; and that through sport, this or that individual has formed lasting bonds of friendship in defiance of frontiers and oceans. But if there were no more to it than joy in the rhythm of the runner's gait, the jumper's illusion of freedom from earthly ties, the helter-skelter down the ski-slopes, the sudden cool of a dive, or the passionate, total self-absorption in contest—if sport were nothing but aimless, useless play—we should still have no choice but to defend it.

While we are engaged in sport we move in the blessed realm of childhood; while we are engaged in sport the dreams of youth are still alive within us. We give freely of ourselves because we ask nothing in return; we are disinterested because we do not ask if our acts are useful. When we engage in sport we are at play; and it is only at play that man is truly man, so Schiller has told us.

To many this play seems an activity of the body merely. They see the body in movement, the vigour of a stroke; the swing of the gymnast's arms and legs, but they do not see what goes on inside. They do not see all—it is as if a man should look at a picture and see nothing but lines and colours, or at a statue, and think only of the material of which it is made, or read a score and never hear the music. The body, and the feats it performs, are ends to them; whereas in true sport the performance is not an end in itself—nor the body either—but the means of expression. Moving over the ground, thrusting through the wave, gliding over the snowy slopes, or wrestling with the rock-face—these are expressions of the joy of life itself, expressions of the well-being won from living close to nature. The body is but the means of expression, the instrument the soul required to enable it to measure the territory which has been granted to man, and occupy it to the limit.

Only thus can we explain why "they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize," only thus understand how records can go on forever being broken, at the cost of suffering, of sacrifice, and even of the total dedication of life itself, sport is the faithful image of the struggle of humanity towards perfection; in sport, soul and body together strive to accomplish the age-old aspiration of mankind—"faster, higher, harder."

There lies "the point" of sport, its whole importance, its true meaning. It needs no other justification.

The 1969 Cross Country

The DeSales High School and the Thomas Jefferson High School tied for first place in the State Class AAA Cross Country Meet, held at Bellarmine College, Louisville, on November 1. ### Minutes of Meeting K.H.S.A.A. Wrestling Committee Lexington, Kentucky, October 25, 1969

The K.H.S.A.A. Wrestling Committee, meeting in the Association office on October 25, 1969, was called to order at 9:30 A.M. by Chairman Orville Williams. The reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was waived since the minutes had appeared in the ATHLETE.

With respect to old business, the following points were made: (A) Riding time will remain as it has been, for the current season (Michigan riding time). (B) Weight certification may be made at any time, starting December 1. If a wrestler is not certified in December, he must certify at base weight for his first meet after January 1. Only after certification is he entitled to the normal weight allowance: 2 lbs. in January, 1 lb. in February, and one additional pound for each day after the first day of tournament participation. (C) Heavy-weight class will be unlimited. (D) The four Regions will remain the same with the exception of the addition of new teams. The Region Chairmen are: Fort Campbell-Marshall Patterson, Fort Campbell High School; West Jefferson County-Vince Semary, Male High School; East Jefferson County-Bob Weenolsen, Westport High School; Lexington Bryan Station-Brother Joseph, Newport Catholic High School and Jerry Abney, Campbell County High School. (E) Wrestler-backs are the option of the Region Chairman, but are required in the State Tournament.

Under new business, it was announced that the State Tournament will be at the Waggener High School. Three referees will be used. Coaches are asked to submit suggestions. The drawing will be the same as last year.

Tests to register referees for the 1969-70 season are available. Tests may be secured from Mr. Theo. Sanford by writing to the K.H.S.A.A. office.

Under the topic of rules and changes the following should be noted: (1) Weight classes have been changed. (2) Headgear is mandatory. (3) The out-of-bounds rule is simplified. (4) More stalling is to be called. (5) Release of disadvantaged wrestler by advantaged wrestler in order to give up one point and gain two points by repeated takedowns. The first time the advantaged wrestler will be warned for stalling. The next time he will cause a penalty point to be awarded. In conjunction with this the following quote should be noted from the OFFICIAL WRESTLING GUIDE on page 25: "The contestants in the advantage position on the mat shall make an honest attempt to wrestle aggressively, maintain control and attempt to secure a fall." Also note page 24, section 9 beginning: "It is the responsibility of contestants, officials and coaches to avoid the use of stalling tactics or allowing the use thereof . . . . ."

Three rules interpretation and clinics were scheduled for Lexington, Bowling Green, and Louisville. Mr. Williams would head these aided by Mr. Will Evans of K.S.B. and Mr. Weenolsen of Westport.

Qualifications for Region seeding will follow the seeding formula of 8-5-4-4-2. A contestant must have wrestled a minimum of 8 matches; 5 of these must be between different opponents; 4 of the 8 must be wrestled in his region; 4 of the 8 must be with different opponents in his certified weight class; and 2 of these 4 must be with opponents in his region and at his certified weight class. Certification forms will be mailed out by the State Office.

To obtain the film of last year's State Tournament, coaches are requested to write to the film library at the University of Kentucky.

The meeting adjourned at 11:30 A.M.

Robert Weenolsen, Recording Secretary

Lexington Region—Boone County, Bryan Station, Campbell County, Danville, Frankfort, Franklin County, Harrison County, Henry Clay, Johns Creek, Lafayette, Millersburg Military Institute, Morgan County, Newport, Newport Catholic, Tates Creek, Woodford County

Minutes of Meeting

K.H.S.A.A. Gymnastics Committee
Lexington, Ky. October 29, 1969

The meeting, held at the K.H.S.A.A. Building, was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by the Committee Chairman, Bernard M. Johnson.

The following members were present: Ted Sanford, Joe Billy Mansfield, Bill Wise, Bob Wason, Sheila Kuhlman, Susan Burckle, Jim Nance, Bernard Johnson and guest Cap Caudill.

Mr. Sanford opened the meeting by announcing that there had been an increase in the number of high schools that listed Gymnastics coaches for the 1969-70 school year. There were nineteen (19) boys' and twenty-one (21) girls' coaches registered with the K.H.S.A.A.

Bob Wason stated that the Louisville area had recently completed two judging clinics. Jim Nance announced the dates of three (3) clinics for boys' coaches and judges to be conducted in the Lexington area. The clinics scheduled: November 5th at Alumni Gym (Free Exercise & Long Horse Vaults), November 12th at Lafayette (Side Horse-"P" Bars), and November 19th at Bryan Station ("H" Bar-Still Rings). Cap Caudill volunteered to conduct a gymnastics clinic for girls' coaches and judges on November 15th at Southern Jr. High School.

The question was raised concerning the status of high school students who compete on teams other than their high school team and compete for their high school in the State Meet. Mr. Sanford clarified the question by reading By-Law 8, (Contestants on Other Teams) from the K.H.S.A.A. Constitution, By-Law and Tournament Rules. By-Law 8—"Any person who is a contestant on any other team than a secondary school team at any time during an athletic season shall be ineligible to represent any secondary school in that sport for the remainder of that season. The provision of this section shall not apply to members of baseball, swimming, golf, tennis, gymnastics, wrestling and rifle marksmanship teams."

The committee discussed scoring procedures for gymnastics. It was pointed out that there has been a number of changes in the scoring system for gymnastics during the past year. However, due to the present rules of the K.H.S.A.A. and the State Gymnastics Committee the scoring system could not be changed for this year's State Gymnastics Meet. It was suggested that a committee study the present rules and revise the rules in time for the 1971 State Gymnastics Meet.

Sheila Kuhlman and Susan Burckle were asked to make any necessary changes concerning the 1970 State Girls' Gymnastics Meet and send them to Mr. Sanford.

The Committee voted to have the State Gymnastics Meet at Bryan Station High School on March 28, 1970. Jim Nance was appointed meet manager.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned - Committee Chairman, Bernard M. Johnson.

Wrestling Officials

As reported previously, for the first time officials are being registered in the sport of Wrestling. Registration is not yet a requirement for those who officiate in the sport, but officials who plan to register in the future and to work for the advanced ratings would do well to start their first registration during the current school year. Inquiries should be directed to the K.H.S.A.A. office.

THE COACHES' CODE

My first consideration shall be the welfare of the boys. My leadership shall be wholesome and contribute to cleaner living, better health habits and a true respect for the rules of play, authority of officials and consideration of not only the opponent but also all with whom contact is had.

My objective shall be to make competitive athletics truly a part of the educational program.

My personal conduct on the field, in the school and out, shall be such as to be truly worthy of imitation by the boys whose welfare is my job.

My relationship with the players, fellow coaches, teachers and school authorities shall be such as to develop mutual respect and confidence.

My objective shall be to win, if possible, to lose, if necessary, but at all times to have the conduct of all contribute to a fuller understanding and a keener appreciation of fair play.

I shall teach that Good Sportsmanship is Good Citizenship and as such is essential to individuals, communities, state and nation.

Extra Curricular Sports

By Helen M. Morsink

Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article by Miss Morsink, professor of education at Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant, illustrates unusual understanding of the purposes of the interscholastic athletic program and the values which can be gained from it. Everyone connected with administration of secondary school athletics needs to be reminded periodically of the place athletics has in our educational system. By defining "The 'Extra' In Extra-Curricular Sports," Miss Morsink does this admirably.

It is perhaps unusual for an assistant professor of education, and former high school social science teacher, who is neither a physical educator or accomplished athlete, to show concern for the values of participation in sports. However, if interest is an important factor in a person's qualifications to express ideas on a subject, then an abiding interest in an affection for sports provides adequate reason for expression.

As a lifelong participant in a multitude of different sports activities which have included competitive softball, basketball, volleyball, field hockey, badminton, bowling, and golf, this writer has known the rewards that can be derived from participation. Destined to "athletic oblivion," there is admittedly little to show for the many years of participation—a faded high school athletic sweater, a yellowed certificate, one small gold medal—no trophies, no publicity filled scrapbook. Mementos do include several broken fingers, numerous scars, and (whenever it is going to rain) achy knees—which wouldn't be traded if the memories and benefits acquired from sports participation had to go with them. For it is not the glory, recognition, or awards that justifies participating in sports. It is the "extras" in sports that are the most important and rewarding.

Change

One of the extras is release. Sports activities provide a means of emancipation from daily routine and pressure. Those who participate in sports seldom find life dull. The question, "What is there to do?" is unheard. Being on a team or in a club, knowing how to play games, or simply to enjoy watching them provides a means of using leisure time constructively and enjoyably; and there is not a time or season of the year when there is not something in sports to absorb one's interest.

Therapy

Also, in regards to release, sports provides emotionally therapeutic outlets. Taking part in a ballgame, athletic contest, or simply playing catch, is a means to relax, "blow-off steam," and escape from daily routine. Sports can be quite a tonic to the nervous, tired, and frustrated. Many a student has welcomed the chance to practice or play a game in order to get away from books and pressures of study. In the heat of a sports contest there is no time to dwell on inner personal problems. And often, after experiencing physical release through sports, other problems can be faced more easily and dealt with more effectively. Participation in sports provides release—from routine, pressure, and in some instances, oneself.

Learning

Another extra derived from sports is the learning which comes from participation. Though the learning may not be of the conventional sort that derives from books, the learning is fundamental and vital.

Understanding

One kind of learning in sports is learning about people. Most sports participants readily testify that they have met, become acquainted with, and developed a greater understanding of others through sports. Most have discovered that race, religion, and socio-economic factors are of little importance in measuring the worth of an individual. Students who participate in sports are able to have friends from diverse places and backgrounds. College students get the chance to know the students from across campus, and on other campuses. It is easy these days to be obscure in a large high school or on a college or university campus, but it isn't necessary. Joining and taking part in school and campus sports activities is one solution.

Fellowship

An important corollary of this are the benefits of fellowship. Certainly, participation in sports provides the mutual experience of belonging—to the team, squad, club. It is an important and fundamental human need to take part and fit in with a group. The inherent informality of sports activities creates an atmosphere in which friendships can be more easily formed. Many of the friendships last a lifetime, strengthened by the fact that they have evolved from the fellowship that accompanies sports experiences.

Travel

Another kind of learning that can be gained from sports is in learning about places. Those who take part in sports have been able to travel to other towns, cities, states, and in some cases even other countries. In the process of visiting other places participants get the opportunity to meet people and have new experiences. Inevitably this must lead to a greater understanding of others and a broader concept of the world.

Empathy

Taking part in sports is also a means of learning how to be a better spectator. A person who has been in sports can watch others compete with greater understanding. Playing softball is a means of understanding what occurs in a World Series, playing golf gives a person a better appreciation of what a professional golfer experiences in the heat of a sudden-death play-off. Anyone who has participated in sports can empathize with another athlete's problems. They cannot gloat when a rival team loses, cannot mock when an athlete fails, cannot laugh at a pathetic performance.

Character

Perhaps the most important kind of learning that can come from sports is the enhancement of one's own character. A person through athletic experience can learn what is really important in terms of the effort and sacrifice they are willing to make, the adversity they are willing to suffer. The dedicated athlete knows what it is to keep trying in the face of failure and defeat. The athlete knows the meaning of the spirit in the phrase, "Wait 'til next year!" And those who never know stardom, or those who never get to play much, still know they would not want to miss being a part of sports. Sports participation is a means of learning: how to win with pride, without being proud; how to lose with disappointment, yet grace.

An important element in character development is learning to submerge self in the interest of group purpose and goals. This phenomenon can be observed on many ball teams and all good ones. Sports participants generally come from individual realms of life and aspiration to play on a team for a school or club. It is interesting to watch such generally motley groups merge and mesh into a single, cooperating, effective unit. Every successful team knows the group is more than the sum of the individuals that comprise it. By submerging themselves, to the extent of concerted effort, team members become more as a group, and ultimately, as a result of the experience, more as individuals.

Values Vary

Sport does not mean the same to everyone, but the values that can be derived from participation extend far beyond the activity itself, and mean much more than the final score. Some time ago a piece in Sports Illustrated magazine eloquently expressed the extensive meaning of sport:

"Nobody has ever been able to say what sport is, quite. But life would hardly be the same without it. Perhaps that's because sport means a number of opposite things. It means fact and it means fancy. It is as tangible as a frosty morning; exciting as a photo finish, serene as the ebb tide. It is competition; composure; memory; anticipation.

"Sport is not all things to all people. But today it is something in more different ways to more people than has ever been before. It is what no one has to do and almost everyone wants to do. It represents, on the one hand, challenges willingly accepted—and, on the other, gambits willingly declined.

"Its colors are as bright as a cardinal's feathers; as soft as midnight on a mountain trail. It is as loud as Yankee Stadium at the climax of the World Series—and as quiet as snow. It is exercise and rest. It is man exuberant and man content.

"In America today sport is not only a dream that lies over the rainbow. It is also an awakening that brings a family together—on a boat or beach, skiing weekend or camping trip.

"Sport is not art or religion, morals or ideals. But with all of these it shares values which are at least humanly high and always highly human. Sport is a wonderful world."

There can be and are many reasons for participating in sports that go beyond the reasons of physical exercise and expression. For many, participation may include a quest for glory, but that at best is a rare achievement. And even for those few who find it the laurel withers quickly and the glory does not last. There is and should be satisfaction and reward enough in the "extras" in sports to warrant and encourage participation. For in the long range, the extras are really not extras at all, but rather benefits which last a lifetime. Though a person grows older there is always a sport to enjoy. It may be necessary to switch from a basketball to a bowling ball and from a football to a golfball, but there is always expression, learning, fellowship, and enjoyment.

Those who are not active in sports need to realize what they are missing. Those who are active must be encouraged to remain so. Sport should become an integral part of everyone's life—for sport truly is a wonderful world!
