The K.H.S.A.A. Salutes the Winners of the Academic Showcase

The seventh annual Sweet 16 Academic Showcase was held in Lexington, Kentucky during the week of the Boys' Sweet 16 Basketball Tournament. More than 300 students from around Kentucky participated in 12 competitions. Regional competitions were held at colleges and universities around the state in January and February. From these sites the top four place finishers in each competition qualified to come to Lexington to compete for scholarships. The finals in 12 categories were at Transylvania University. The awards were presented on March 20th at a banquet at Marriott's Griffin Gate Resort. A total of $75,000 in scholarships and prizes was awarded. The showcase is funded by an annual televised auction and donations from private corporations.

FROM THE INSIDE

*by Julian Tackett
Business Affairs Director*

Has anybody seen the file folders? Where are the game contracts, Madison Central needs one? Hart County needs a ticket order form, where are they? Where's my office? Can anyone find the bathrooms? These are but a few of the questions that have floated around the office since our move to the new Association office building in Lexington.

There were a lot of memories on Cooper Drive. The Association had been located at 560 East Cooper next to KET for over 20 years. All four of the Association's Commissioners served in that building, as well as all of the past Assistant Commissioners and office staff. When John Ginn and I removed the last touches of the building, the dedication sign and the outdoor lettering on the building, we couldn't help but think of the many outstanding athletes, coaches and contributors who had served the Association during its 75 year history. The past 22 years saw unprecedented growth in the state basketball tournaments and football play-offs, as well as the addition of many sports to the K.H.S.A.A.'s offerings. "Planning for the future, Preserving the past" was the theme of the Association when we broke ground in June of 1990 for the new K.H.S.A.A. offices on Winchester Road. Though we knew we would miss the convenience of being near the University of Kentucky, where many of our post season events were held, we also knew we were stepping on top of each other, and desperately needed more room to continue our service to our schools and constituents. Though we were beginning to think the project would never be completed, we were finally able to move on February 13. Though we continue to find little things which need to be patched, fixed, or replaced, it is quickly becoming a true "home" for our staff and the schools.

The new complex includes offices for the staff, a library for selected archives and our Target drug program, and a large work room and several storage rooms for the Association's many publications and undertakings. Also included is a large unfinished room which will eventually be the home of the Dawahares KHSAA Hall of Fame and Museum. Just off of the lobby is a 90 seat theatre, which will host the annual meeting of the Association, and may possibly be home to clinics and other instructional meetings. This room could eventually be used for an introductory tour for groups visiting the museum.

Currently under construction is the Court of Support, the brick area which allows all Kentuckians to participate in the fund raising of the Association as well as immortalizing their name in brick for the life of the building.

The new complex is located at 2280 Executive Drive, off Winchester Road near I-75 (Exit 110) in Lexington. Our new phone number is (606) 299-5472, and our fax number is (606) 293-5999. We invite all of you to come by and see us, but be careful, we might ask you to move a box or two.

He Makes Athletes Feel Like Champions

Many people gauge the success of a coach by the accomplishments of the team. But coaches like Tim Nixon of Liberty High School in Liberty, Missouri contribute much more to student athletes than can be measured by wins and losses. Just ask the 70 young runners who participate on Nixon's boys and girls cross country teams each year.

"Coach Nixon is really the only reason I'm still out for the sport," said senior Bill Sudholt. "He doesn't really care about our winning, as long as we're doing the best we can. If all we can do is finish the race, he's just as excited as if we had come in first."

courages us to push harder to reach our goals in school and in cross country."

"The cross country program has provided an opportunity for students to belong to something, and that's important, especially in this day and age," explained Liberty athletic director Ron Ives. "Not every kid is going to be a champion, but Tim Nixon makes each and every athlete feel like an important part of the program."

"I try to accomplish the same goal, whether a student is coming into my science classroom or an athlete is coming out for the cross country team," explained Nixon, who has coached at Liberty for 13 years. "I want kids to feel good about themselves and what they're doing."

"He's a very knowledgeable running coach, but that is a secondary role," said Bud Yazel, the cross country coach at nearby Fort Osage High School who nominated Nixon for Coaches Care distinction. "Tim is an example of everything school sports is supposed to be about."

Despite having asthma and hypoglycemia, Yazel's daughter Renee competed on Nixon's cross country team for four years and was all-state during her senior season. But overcoming adversity is nothing new for Tim Nixon. After running competitively since eighth grade, Nixon suffered a career-ending knee injury in 1987. Two years later he discovered he had cancer, which he has since overcome.

"Tim has been an extraordinary example and inspiration to all those around him, not only in his day to day life, but through the adversity of his own cancer," Yazel said.

"People have told me that I would burn out at this kind of job because coaches give so much of themselves without getting anything in return," Nixon said.

Just working with young athletes is its own reward for Tim Nixon and many of the 200,000 high school coaches in the United States.

Coach Tim Nixon gives athletes in his Liberty (Mo.) High School cross country program an opportunity to belong to something and to work together as a team.

1992 NATIONAL FEDERATION TRACK & FIELD RULE INTERPRETATIONS PART I

SITUATION #1: During the 3200 meter run, a competitor is observed looking down at her wrist each time she completes a lap and the times are called out by one of the meet officials to all competitors. The girl is not wearing a watch but after she wins the race a coach complains that she had split times written on her wrist and she should be disqualified for using an illegal aid. The referee finds the competitor and looks at her wrist. She has written on her wrist "Go Bisons" and two or three times.

Ruling: Legal

Comment: The times written on the athletes wrist should not be considered an illegal aid as it is not considered that any athlete would gain an advantage by writing times on her wrist

Situation #2: The T-Shirt showing under the school jersey is a single color without trim and/or striping. However, (a) Because of the sheer or see thru material of the jersey, writing on the chest of the T-Shirt shows through or (b) because of the cut of the neck of the jersey the writing on the upper chest of the T-Shirt shows above the top of the jersey

Ruling: (a) illegal, (b) illegal

Comment: Undergarments must be of a single color with no striping or trim. Normally, writing on the chest of a T-Shirt is not visible and would not be an issue as to the legality of the undergarment. However, in both of the above situations the writing on the T-Shirt is visible, therefore, both undergarments would be illegal.

Situation #3: During the warm-up period prior to competition in the shot put it is noticed that A1 is wearing a weight lifting belt under his track jersey. The coach of Team C calls this to the attention of the event judge and asks for a ruling

Comment: Wearing a weight lifting belt is not considered to enhance the performance of the athlete and therefore is not an aid

Situation #4: Following competition in the 100 meter dash finals the coach of Team B complains that the two competitors of Team A, who finished first and third respectively, were wearing tights which have stripes of different colors on the manufacturer's logo and demands they be disqualified for wearing an illegal uniform.

Ruling: The tights are legal.

Comment: As long as the logo is no larger than 2" x 2" it does not matter how many colors are used, it is a legal logo and therefore, in this case a legal uniform.

Situation #5: Prior to the running of the 4 x 100 meter relay the clerk notices that Team A is wearing identical tights under their shorts that are light blue with a dark blue pin stripe down the seam and informs the relay team that the tights are illegal and must be removed before competition. Team A's coach appeals on the grounds that all the tights are identical

Ruling: Denied

Comment: The undergarment must be of a single color. Even though all the tights are identical, they are not a single color, which makes them an illegal uniform. The clerk of course is exercising good judgement by informing the relay team that the tights would cause disqualification if they were worn during competition.

Situation #6: Prior to a conference cross country meet, A1 presents a prescription label attached to an inhaler to the meet director asking for permission to carry it on the course with the intent of using it in the event she needs it to prevent an asthma attack. The meet director denies the request. A1's coach appeals the decision to the referee on the grounds that it is permissible for an athlete to carry an inhaler on the course as long as it is prescribed by a physician.

Ruling: Denied

Comment: 4.5.9H requires that a letter or note from the doctor must be presented to the meet director or referee documenting the need of the athlete to use the atomizer during competition to ensure the safety of the athlete. A prescription label on the inhaler only indicates that a doctor has prescribed the medication. This does not verify that the physician recommends that the athlete carry the inhaler during competition.

Situation #7: The conference cross country meet is run on a very hot day with temperatures in the high 90 degree range. During competition, the coaches are on the course and the coach of Team C is observed handing cups of water to members of his team as they pass his location at the mid point of the course. The coach of Team A appeals stating that the coach of Team C gave his team members an unfair advantage over the other competitors

Ruling: The members of Team C that received water were disqualified

Comment: Under the circumstances regarding the intense temperatures the day of the meet the coach of Team C should have made his concern known about having water on the course. In the above situation it is an unfair advantage for one team to receive water. However, it would be permissible for meet management to have water on the course for all competitors if it is deemed necessary due to the very hot conditions.

Situation #8: At the start of the 4 x 100 meter relay, A1 takes a two point stance, setting his blocks so that both of his feet are legally touching the ground behind the starting line. On the command of set, he extends one arm and rests his weight upon the baton which is touching the ground beyond the start line. The starter calls all competitors up and informs A1 that he cannot extend the baton across the line in this manner. A1 requests permission to reset his blocks.

Ruling: Denied

Comment: While the baton may be in contact with the ground beyond the start line, such contact would have to be incidental while using a normal start where the competitor is supporting his weight with his hands in contact with ground behind the start line. In the situation above, A1 would gain an advantage by using the baton as an extension of his hand. Secondly, A1 had the same time to ready himself for the start as the other competitors and they should not be inconvenienced by having to wait for A1 to reset his blocks.

Situation #9: In the girls 3200 meter finals, A1, B2 and C3 continue to challenge for the lead position throughout the first four laps and A1 leading one lap, B2 leading two laps and C3, who is the No. 1 seeded runner, is leading in the fourth lap. C3 continues in the lead position, but A1 and B2 continue to change places from second place to third and from third place to second. Each time A1 and B2 pass each other, they pass on the inside, but do not touch the curb (or curb line) nor do they contact each other. Both A1 and B2 continue to gain on the lead runner C3. On the gun lap, C3, who is the lead runner by 10 meters, hears a runner gaining on her and foolishly looks over her right shoulder on the homestretch to determine if the approaching runner is A1 or B2. In doing so, (a) C3 unintentionally takes three full steps over the curb line. C3 crosses the finish line first (b) B2 sprints past A1 on the inside, intentionally running on the curb line, but does not contact A1, and crosses the finish line as the second finisher.

Ruling: (a) C3 is awarded first place, (b) B2 is disqualified and A1 is awarded second place

Comment: The experienced inspectors on duty, waved a white flag while C3 unintentionally stepped on the curb while on the straight-a-way, but waved a red flag when B2 intentionally ran on the curb line to sprint past A1. When A1 and B2 were challenging each other earlier in the race, and were passing on the inside without stepping on the curb line and not making contact with each other the inspectors had correctly displayed the white flag.

Situation #10: Prior to the warm-up for the field events for a dual meet, the coach for Team B asks the referee for a ruling regarding the legality of the discus cage. The cage in question is a permanent installation built prior to the discus cage requirement and is constructed of metal pipe and chain link fencing. The coach of Team B questions (a) the size of the opening (26") and (b) the use of chain link fencing rather than nylon netting

Ruling: (a) legal, (b) legal

Comment A: It was not the intent of the rules committee to rule any previously constructed discus cages illegal. Secondly, the suggested specifications are just that, suggested.

Comment B: Regarding the use of chain link fencing, it is not an illegal material and may be used if that would be the material of choice.

Situation 11: Prior to the beginning of competition in the high jump, the event judge notices that A1 is warming-up in a pair of aqua shoes (slippers used by swimmers around the pool). The event judge asks A1 if he intends to use the slippers during competition and is given an affirmative answer by A1. At that point the event judge informs A1 that the shoes are not legal footwear and suggests that he change his shoes for competition. The coach of A1 appeals to the referee.

Ruling: The ruling by the event judge is upheld on the basis that the aqua shoe is a slipper which is not securely fastened to the foot by laces or velcro.
